Popular Mexico Group Set Appearance Here

Mexico's most popular singing group, Los Tigres Del Norte, have been booked for an appearance in Muleshoe. The group, accompanied by a large stage crew, their own electrician and sound system, along with an engineer and TV manager, will appear at La Mulita (the former Gibson building on American Blvd.) on Sunday, July 14, 8 p.m.-1 a.m.

Advance tickets have gone on sale at El Jacalito, Viola's and the Shear Shack and are only $15 for the five hour concert and dance.

Los Tigres Del Norte, who are brothers, along with several cousins, have been performing professionally for about 14 years now. They got their start while still youths, starting out on the streets of Mexico, and singing in bars and for tourists. They are from Siniolo, Mexico.

Their first nationwide hit was "La Banda Del Veo Carro Rojo" which was later turned into a movie, about ten years ago. There has been no stopping them since that time. After the first 'hit' the group has performed to sellout crowds.

Los Tigres Del Norte has since appeared in six movies in Mexico, and have released 15 albums. They have appeared all over Mexico and the United States, and have appeared on all major TV programs in Mexico.

Although Los Tigres Del Norte has performed all over the United States they will be performing in Texas for the first time this week. Friday night, they will be in Dumas; in Amarillo on Saturday night and in Muleshoe on Sunday night before going on to Houston.

Jorge Hernandez, leader of Los Tigres Del Norte, said they will have spectacular lighting, and will featuring many changes in costumes during the evening. He said Los Tigres Del Norte is best known for their Corridos (ballads) and said they look forward to appearing in Muleshoe.

During breaks, the band members visit with the crowd and mingle with the audience, while giving away posters, pictures and autographs.

As they travel, Los Tigres Del Norte is working on a movie, which will be titled "La Vida De Los Tigres Del Norte" and Muleshoe will probably be spotlighted in a small segment of the movie, which will be released to theatres in Mexico.

ACR, Crop Acreages Must Be Certified

Danny Noble, of the Bailey County ASC office, has released the latest in farming and ranching information for all area producers.

This month, he includes: FINAL CERTIFICATION DATE LAST reminder!!! The final date to certify or request aerial measurement service for spring seeded crops and ACR is July 15. A complete acreage report must be filed, including all program crops; sunflowers, soybeans, alfalfa, vegetables, and other crops by this date.

An accurate certification is very important, SO DON'T GUESS. The reported acreage cannot differ from the measured acreage by more than the larger of 1.0 acre or five percent, or the commodity is ineligible for program benefits.

MEASURING SERVICE Remember!! As soon as your farm is measured, you will be notified or the measure acreage and will have five workdays in which to adjust (if any) and certify your acres to the ASC office. Some producers have been notified and failed to meet their certification deadline; therefore, the farm is ineligible for all program benefits and liquidated damages will be assessed.

MAINTAINING SET-ASIDE The ASC office has received several complaints about the maintenance of ACR land. The ASC office is aware that some of the producers are still planting and replanting grain sorghum, but that does not change the ACR requirements on the farm. All ACR must be kept free of weeds and maintained from water and wind erosion, or the farm will be ineligible for any program payments.

FAILED ACRES Any program commodity that fails due to excess rains, hail, seedling disease, or for any other reason, must be certified and file an ASCS-574 (Disaster Application) before the evidence of the crop is destroyed and/or replanted to a different commodity.

ACP SIGNUP There will be an ACP signup for terraces, underground pipe, and permanent grass beginning July 15, and continuing through July 26. Anyone wishing for Cont. Page 8, Col. 1

Old And New In Contrast At Texas Folklife Festival

When you walk through the gates of the 14th Annual Texas Folklife Festival, August 1-4, turn off your personal computer, hang up your cordless phone, leave your microwave oven behind, and step into the world of the Texas pioneers.

Delightful contrasts between the simplicity of yesterday and the technologies of today can be discovered in an entertaining and enlightening atmosphere at the Texas Folklife Festival produced by The University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures in San Antonio. Immigrants, merchants, craftsmen and frontiersmen come vividly back to life from more than 100,000 visitors as nearly 6,000 participants share the traditions, crafts, music, dance and culinary delights of the various ethnic groups who settled and developed Texas.

The words "fast food" had little meaning to Texas pioneers who knew of neither frozen entrees nor the golden arches. Rather than reach into the cupboard for a box of cereal, our forebears had to work for their morning's repast. In the "Back 40" area of the Festival, start your day with the breakfast of pioneers as you stir up some cornmeal batter into hoecakes and fry them over an open fire. Or lend the bread-bakers a hand as they knead the dough for their special loaves of Depression Bread.

At the Festival's Smokehouse you can learn about the methods of preserving food without benefit of refrigeration while sampling smoked venison and beef jerky. No food processor or other modern kitchen appliances are needed to prepare the palate-pleasing prickly pear preserves--try it, you'll like it.

When it came time to find a home, our forebears didn't drive to the newest or nearest subdivision to select their favorite floorplan. Indeed many skills were needed to construct frontier shelters, as Festival participants willingly demonstrate. Some pioneers piled rough-hewn logs to frame sturdy cabins topped with shingles split using a special hatchet. Others built dirt-cheap housing mixing clay, straw and manure into adobe structures covered with thatched roofs.

If stitching up your own shirt on the family sewing machine "rustic" when compared with the acres of ready-made clothing available at the nearest shopping mall, you might be surprised to learn how clothes were made frontier-style. Observe the many skills needed in making a new set of pioneer duds, from sheep shearing to carding wool, from spinning and weaving to crocheting and knitting.

With a few furniture and hardware stores nearby, almost everything needed in daily life had to be made by the pioneers, from the utensils they ate with to the boats they fished from. At the Festival, blacksmiths, wheelwrights, whittlers and boat builders ply their trade while others demonstrate such crafts as quilting, treenware, bobbin lacing, fly tying and candlemaking.

And whether stirring a bubbling cauldron of lye soap or spinning rope from horse hair, participants answer your questions with a unique blend of history and folklore making the Festival an educational experience for the entire family.

Large families were the rule rather than the exception on the frontier and parents gave education a high priority. With the clang of the school bell, children of all ages are summoned to the Festival's one-room schoolhouse, but no pocket calculators or video display terminals are in sight. Rather the schoolmaster teaches the three R's as "students" copy their lessons on slates, practice their chirography (handwriting) and study the art of elocution.

Since schoolbuses were not available, frontier children were in for a cross-country hike home where all kinds of chores awaited them, including carrying for the barnyard animals. A horse-drawn wagon carries you to the Festival's Farmyard where many of these animals can be lovingly petted. Then journey to Frontier Playland to discover the many types of pastimes enjoyed by pioneer children such as whittling a whistle and making a kite. Other areas feature various folk games, including Belgian pole climbing, horseshoe pitching and the Italian lawn game of bocce.

On the frontier neighbors were few and far between and every opportunity to join together in celebration was a welcome event. Much like the Festival, the festive occasions were often international collections of languages, food and dance.

The aura and aroma of many lands greets Festival-goers at every turn as you treat your tastebuds to some spicy enchiladas and gordita de picadillo in the Mexican Market. Then savor some Belgian waffles, with tipplings specially made to your order, and flavorful portions of Polish pierogi (stuffed dumplings). You won't want to miss a plate of Ukrainian bigos (sauerkraut and sausage) or Filipino lumpia (egg roll) before ending your meal with the gastronomic delights of Greek baklava and Jewish honey cake.

Dining and dancing went hand in hand in pioneer Texas and the same holds true at the Festival. Complement your multi-cultural feast with the rhythms, harmony and movements of many countries as folk dancers in colorful native dress present traditional dances from Lebanon, Ireland, Mexico, Greece and the Philippines.

Relax beneath the grape arbor while enjoying uplifting spirituals and the soulful strains of Gospel music. Stirring patriotic music, bluegrass and jazz, and the twang of country western and swing guitars can also be heard as more than 100 entertainers and ensembles bring the sounds of the world to the Festival's 10 stages.

From the rooster's crow at dawn till the time to crawl into the feather bed at night, a pioneer's day was as full of activities as is the annual celebration of the state's pioneer heritage and ethnic diversity known as the Texas Folklife Festival.

Sponsored by The University of Texas Institute of Texas Cultures, the Festival is an extension of the Institute's role as a statewide learning and communication center concerned with the ethnic, cultural and folk history of the state.

The Festival is held on the Institute's 15-acre grounds on HemisFair Plaza in downtown San Antonio. Hours are 5 to 11 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 1; noon to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Aug. 2 and 3; and noon to 10 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 4. Sorghum Team Reports On Market Survey

U.S. grain sorghum producers face some difficult problems in expanding or even maintaining their markets in Asia, according to Mabry Foreman. Foreman, president of the National Grain Sorghum Producers Association, was leader of a sorghum trade team which surveyed markets in Japan, Korea and Taiwan on June 14-30.

Other members of the team were: Dennis Hommon, Vice Chairman of Kansas Grain Sorghum Commission; Ron Saylor, Director of Nebraska Grain Sorghum Development, Utilization and Marketing Board; Dr. Earl Gleaves, Professor of Poultry Production at the University of Nebraska - Lincoln; and two representatives of U.S. Feed Grains Council; Technical Coordinator Thomas Sleight and Public Relations Manager Michelle Miller Doherty.

The mission was coordinated by U.S. Feed Grains Council and jointly sponsored by the Council and National Grain Sorghum Producers Association. Its purpose, according to Foreman, was to share technology and information about U.S. sorghum and give the sorghum team an opportunity to evaluate U.S. sorghum market opportunities in the three Asian countries.

"Our big job in Japan is to educate the feed manufacturers of the nutritional value of sorghum," Foreman said. "Millers and feeders alike, judge the quality of mixed feed by the amount of yellow corn they can see in it. We simply must show livestock feeders that U.S. sorghum is nutritionally comparable to corn even if it doesn't show up in the feed."

"Korean feeders and millers have a real aversion to sorghum," Foreman continued. "They produced samples of brown sorghum from Thailand and told of the problems they had with it. We must show them that U.S. sorghum is different from the high tannin Thai grain."

"We found a good attitude in Taiwan," said Dennis Hommon. "The Taiwanese were eager to learn more about sorghum and willing to buy from the U.S." Taiwanese millers have limited sorghum to 10-15% of a ration, but after hearing a seminar presentation by Dr. Gleaves, officials of the Taiwan import agency met and announced they will be buying more U.S. sorghum.

One problem which the sorghum promotion team will be addressing in the future is Taiwan's system of import levies. The import agency levies an import tax of 7% on corn, wheat and barley but taxes sorghum imports at 9%. The higher tax almost wipes out sorghum's price advantage. Hommon recommends feeding trials in Taiwan to "get more information into the hands of livestock producers."

Australian grain is stiff competition to both U.S. sorghum and corn, according to Foreman. He said the Australians are "sparing no expense" to conduct an aggressive marketing campaign throughout Asia. Asian feed millers report that sorghum from Australia reaches them in much better condition than sorghum from the U.S.

Australian wheat is also being sold into feed grain markets, according to Ron Saylor. "The wheat is discounted as feed wheat because of storm damage," said Saylor, a Nebraska farmer, "but it looked good enough to use for planting seed."

"Price is definitely a factor in selling U.S. sorghum in Asia," Foreman said. "The overvalued dollar makes it hard to compete. That makes it even more important for us to keep proving the value of our grain. Then, when the dollar gets back in the proper relationship with other world currencies, we will still have our markets."

"We know what needs to be done and how to do it," Foreman concluded. "Sorghum simply will not be sold unless we promote it. It's up to sorghum farmers to decide if they want to keep producing and selling grain sorghum."

Worldwide sorghum promotion is financed by grain sorghum checkoff programs in Nebraska, Kansas and the Texas High Plains. Texas farmers will vote in a referendum July 20 - August 15 on the proposition to expand the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board checkoff statewide.

Equine lameness analyzed by Texas A&M computer

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University has acquired a state-of-the-art system — one of only two operating worldwide — that uses a computer instead of the sight of pounding hooves to analyze a horse's gait.

Such a network allows owners and veterinarians to spot problems that the most trained eye would miss, said Texas A&M equine surgeon Dr. Joerg Auer.

The Swiss-manufactured Kaegi System, the only one in the United States, employs 160 hydraulic sensors to analyze all four hooves simultaneously as the animal trots or walks across a four-meter rubber carpet, he explained.

The system will be an important diagnostic tool in all cases, but might be of particular interest to horse breeders, who could carry out prepurchase exams of thoroughbreds to detect flaws that a simple visual check might not uncover. An exam takes about 10 minutes, Auer said.

Texas A&M's Development Foundation arranged to purchase the $150,000 system, said Auer, who five years ago developed a new technique for treating knock-knees in horses.

THE 1946 FORD IS ANNOUNCED

The first post-war hand made Ford passenger automobile to be known as the 1946 model, has been completed by the Ford Motor Company, according to Muleshoe Motor Company, distributors here of the Ford line.

Although assembly line productions of new cars is expected to get under way in 60 to 90 days, depending upon the availability of raw materials, Ford officials pointed out that motorists will have to wait a year or two at least before the can buy new cars, due to limited production and priority restrictions.

The new 1946 post-war Ford will embody more mechanical improvements than many pre-war annual models, resulting in greater economy and a better ride.

Creative Woman

by Sheryl Borden

Information on complementary cooking, fettucini a salsa verde, and custom linings will be featured on "The Creative Woman" show on July 16 and 20.

No one appliance is ideal for all recipes, menus or families. The best choice in the appliance to use depends on many things, and this will be discussed by Evelyn George, home economist with the Maytag Co. from Newton, Iowa. Ms. George will show how to use appliances to complement each other, to complement our own time and energy and to complement the menu you've chosen.

Karen Dillon, a sewing instructor with Palmer/Pletsch Associates will demonstrate custom linings vs. quick linings. She will explain why linings are important and make suggestions as to suitable fabrics.

Another guest, Linda Behrends will prepare a dish that is low in calories, low in cholesterol and low in sodium, and is made with ingredients containing soybean oil. Ms. Behrends is a home economist with the American Soybean Association from St. Louis, Missouri.

On July 18 the topics will include the National Beef Cook-off, making a concealed closure, and cooking with silverstone.

Merle Ellis served as the head judge at the 1984 National Beef Cook-off contest in Albuquerque recently. He will discuss the contest, and share some of the prize-winning recipes, as well as talk about the versatility of beef. Merle represents the Beef Industry and he's from San Francisco.

Jo Beth Massey, a home economics student at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales will demonstrate putting a concealed closure in garments. This technique will be the perfect answer for anyone who has had trouble finding the right color buttons to go with a garment. This is used on the finest ready-to-wear clothing and is a very easy technique to use on home sewn projects. Mrs. Massey will show how to alter any dress or blouse pattern to do this technique.

La Nell Wilkins is a cookware consultant for the DuPont Co. and she will demonstrate the versatility of silverstone cookware by preparing a Tex-Mex recipe that is as good prepared over the open campfire as it is on the range unit. Mrs. Wilkins is from Albuquerque.

"The Creative Woman" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden. The show airs on KENW-TV, Channel 3 in Portales on Tuesday and Thursday at 12 noon and at 2:00 pm on Saturday. (All times are Mountain Standard). Viewers can request copies of printed materials offered on the show by calling on KENW-TV's toll-free telephone lines. Food Safety Begins At Home

"We have a far greater chance of contracting a food-borne illness as a result of our own negligence than from unsafe food products", says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

The recent tragic food poisoning incidents involving cheese and milk have left many consumers concerned about the safety of foods they buy at the grocery store, says Marilyn Haggard.

But incidents such as these are very small in number when compared to the Food and Drug Administration's estimate of 69-275 million cases of food-borne illness per year, most of which result from improper food handling or storage at home, she says.

"The bacteria that cause most food-borne illnesses occur naturally in raw foods, so it's up to consumers to make sure these bacteria are destroyed before the food is eaten," haggard explains.

The specialist recommends the following steps for increased food safety at home:

- Be sure to wash your hands carefully before handling food and wash raw foods very well.

- Be especially careful with your cutting board and knives. Cooked foods are often contaminated with raw foods that have been cut on the same cutting board. Wash your cutting board and knife in hot soapy water after each use.

- Heat foods to at least 155 degrees Fahrenheit before serving and keep cold foods well-refrigerated until serving time.

- Refrigerate or freeze leftovers immediately after a meal, and never allow foods to stand at room temperature for more than 2 hours.

"Fortunately, most cases of food-borne illness cause only flu-like symptoms and diarrhea," says the nutritionist. However, the potential for more serious complications is always there, especially for young children, the elderly and the ill, she cautions.

"We can depend on our extensive food, inspection system to maintain our food supply as the safest in the world," Haggard says. "But we can't become lax about proper sanitation and food preparation at home if these illnesses are to be avoided."

AUGUST DATE SET—Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Airhart announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Roxanne to Todd Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Gregory, Jr. of Lazbuddie. Miss Airhart is a graduate of Klondike High School and will graduate from Texas Tech University in December with a Bachelor's degree in Elementary Education. Gregory is a graduate of Lazbuddie High School and received a Bachelor's degree in Agricultural Education from Texas Tech University. Wedding vows will be exchanged August 3 in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Airhart.

Fresh Chicken Not Frozen

Some Texas consumers are expressing concern about buying poultry labeled as "fresh", only to discover at home that it seems partially frozen, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist Dr. Alice Hunt.

According to United States Department of Agriculture rules, a poultry product may be labeled fresh as long as it is not completely frozen, even though there may be a slight frozen crust on the surface, she says.

Poultry is classified as frozen when it's held at zero degrees until it's frozen solid.

Most poultry plants now pack poultry in ice and hold it at 28 degrees F., or chill the birds with nitrogen. The results of these quick-chilling processes is a slight crusting of ice crystals on the surface of the birds.

"The surface feels frozen, but the inside is not, therefore the bird is still basically fresh," Hunt explains. These quick-chill techniques remove body heat from the poultry and preserve it enroute to the supermarket.

Once at the store, it will stay fresh in the refrigerator case for five to seven days.

Since fresh poultry crusted with ice crystals is not frozen, you can cook it using the same temperature and cooking time you use for unfrozen poultry, or you can freeze it for later use, says the nutritionist.

Butter Blends Growing In Popularity

Americans eat more margarine than butter, but many still prefer the flavor of butter.

That's one reason for the growing popularity of new butter-blend and butter-flavored products, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

While the split between butter and margarine consumption was about half and half 25 years ago, margarine consumption is now about twice that of butter, says Marilyn Haggard.

Butter blends are so new that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has no consumption figures compiled. But preliminary figures from the National Cheese Institute show that the butter blends have cut more into margarine sales than butter sales.

"Evidently, some consumers would like to afford the flavor of real butter and fine the blends a more desirable substitute than pure margarine," she explains.

Now consumers can also choose "buttery" flavored oils and vegetable shortenings or artificially flavored seasonings, condiments and other foods such as butter flavored salt or syrup.

Snack foods and side dishes such as butter flavored pretzels and dehydrated pasta and rice products flavored with butter are also in the markets.

Butter-flavored granules are made partially with dried butter and designed to be reconstituted. The butter granules can replace butter in many recipes and provide the butter flavor with fewer calories, the nutritionist says.

"Label-reading is a must when buying these new butter flavored products," Haggard cautions. For example, one spread with the word "butter" in its name contains no butter. It's made of 75 percent soybean oil, but does list sweet cream buttermilk among the ingredients.

The specialist advises reading the label to determine the source of the butter content or flavor.

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres has something to say about computers this week.

Dear editor:

As I understand it, the makers of computers and silicon chips have over-done it. Too many have jumped into the business and the market is shot to pieces. Reminds me of the man who borrowed $100,000 to put in a hoola-hoop factory right after the craze had peaked and kids had begun growing tired of the fad.

You'd have thought the computer makers would have run a market-analysis through one of their finished machines to see how many computers there's a market for. Or they could have asked a farmer to tell them something about the risks of over-production.

Yet the mayor of San Francisco said the city has spent $60 million on computerizing its offices and all that money didn't increase efficiency or eliminate a single job. You get the idea computers are vastly over-rated or those city employees are vastly under-worked.

From the way the IRS is fouling up its work, getting millions of refunds delayed and sending out checks for $10,000 when they should have been for $10, or billing people for taxes they've already paid, and blaming it all on computer break-downs, you get the impression that the future for bright young people is not in operating computers but in repairing them.

The other day I got a renewal notice from a weekly magazine I've been reading for years. It said my subscription doesn't expire for two more months but I should renew now, not wait till the last minute, because it takes from 6 to 8 weeks to get a renewal properly entered on its computer.

It looks like in some places efficiency has been computerized to death, but I'll bet if somebody comes in your office and plunks down the cash for a new subscription to The Journal, it doesn't take two months to get the paper started to him.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Non-Smokers Get Break

Persons accepted for individual health and life coverage from Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Texas Inc. will now get a discount on rates if they are non-smokers.

John D. Melton, president of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Texas Inc., announced that non-smoking applicants for the company's Total Care coverage will get a 10 percent discount. To be eligible for the discount, applicants must certify that they have not smoked or used any tobacco products in the past 12 months.

The lower rates will apply to new subscribers as well as those already enrolled. Dependents of applicants, including children, also will be eligible for discounted rates. Letters were mailed to current subscribers after July 1, offering them an opportunity to certify their non-smoking status.

Information on the discount is available toll-free at 1-800-442-4176.

Total Care is a comprehensive non-group health and life insurance policy for individuals under age 65 and their families. It is offered to those not enrolled in group health insurance programs.

"There is now enough solid scientific research to prove that people who don't smoke are healthier," Melton said. "Our company is heading this evidence and adjusting the way we rate individual coverage."

"If you have individuals - non-smokers - who are at less of a risk than others," Melton said, "it makes good sense to charge them less for their insurance."

Scientific evidence over the past 20 years has demonstrated a strong link between smoking and a host of diseases, including coronary heart disease, chronic bronchitis and emphysema, lung cancer, and other cancers, (oral, larynx, esophagus, urinary-bladder). Smoking also contributes to other chronic illness, including conditions classified as peptic ulcer and sinusitis.

John Lehman, Secretary of the Navy: "The alleged spy ring headed by John A. Walker Jr. will cost many millions of dollars and a great many man-years to repair."

By Spencer Tanksley County Extension Agent

White grub control in lawns is important during the summer season.

May or June beetles are emerging from the soil and starting to swarm in late evenings. Females are laying eggs and white grub worms that hatch will soon be feeding on roots of bermudagrass and St. Augustinegrass in home lawns. Once grubs begin feeding, control measures should be taken, says Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Treatment time varies with the particular area of the state and ranges from early July in South Texas to mid-August in the Panhandle. Homeowners in Bailey County will need to treat between August 1 - 31. Timing of application is critical for adequate control.

White grubs in excessive numbers can heavily damage lawns, notes Tanksley. Check for white grubs by cutting a square foot section of sod with a shovel and examining the roots and soil to a depth of 4 inches. Examine at least one square foot of sod for 1,000 square feet of lawn area. Chemical treatment is needed if there are more than four grubs per square foot of sod.

Diazinon, Dursban or Dylor, provide adequate control and should be used at recommended rates given on the chemical container label. The granular form is easier to apply and to wash into the soil than liquid or spray formulations. After using granules, drag the grass with a tow sack or water hose to knock them down to the soil. Then apply enough water to soak the granules into the soil.

Apply diazinon sprays at the rate of 25 gallons of water, including the insecticide, per 1,000 square feet to wash the insecticide into the soil. Wetting the lawn before spraying also helps. Always keep children and pets off the treated lawn until the grass is dry.

The key to white grub control in home lawns is proper timing of chemical applications and getting the insecticide through the grass to the root zone where grubs are feeding, emphasizes Tanksley.

Further information is provided in the publication, "White Grubs in Texas Turfgrass," available at the county Extension office.

AGRICULTURAL AGREEMENT
MOSCOW - U.S. and Soviet officials signed a protocol to revive an agreement on cooperation in agriculture that had been suspended after the 1979 Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

Landscape Irrigation Tips Given

Texas summers are usually hot and dry, and that means homeowners must give careful attention to watering their yards and gardens.

Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, offers some tips on getting the most from irrigation water so as to keep plants and lawns healthy while keeping water costs down.

1. Practice slow, deep watering to allow roots to penetrate deeper so that plants become more stress-resistant.

2. Soaker hoses and drip irrigation systems work well on trees and shrubs. It's more efficient to water at night or early in the morning because evaporation is less. However, night-time watering can promote more disease problems.

3. Too much water can be as detrimental or even worse than not enough. The rate at which water is applied should be no more rapid than the rate at which the soil can absorb it. Never fertilize landscape plants when soil is dry. It's best to water the area one day, apply fertilizer the next day, and then water again. Fertilizer will do no good unless it is dissolved and moved down into the soil.

4. Shrubs and trees near foundations, under eaves or on southern and western exposures need frequent watering because they often get less benefit from rainfall and have to deal with heat reflected from walls.

5. Plants on mounds or slopes suffer from drought stress more easily than those on level areas, so these require more frequent watering.

6. Use an organic mulch of pine bark, chopped straw, hay or similar material to reduce irrigation needs.

7. Treat water as a valuable resource. Use it to water plants when needed but do not waste water. Although considered a renewable resource, good water supplies are becoming scarce in Texas.

ON SUICIDES

ATLANTA - Suicide, especially among teens, is a "serious public health problem" in the U.S., the federal Centers for Disease Control reported recently. The suicide rate among white, male teenagers rose 60 percent between 1970 and 1980 and has continued to increase.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

Do you have trouble cleaning the shower-door track? It can be easily cleaned with an old toothbrush.

To save time when marking darts, etc., fold material with right sides together before placing your pattern on the material.

THE Know Weather

Why do some things smell differently before a rain? Or is this belief merely superstition and folklore?

The moist air that usually precedes the falling of rain has a tendency to bring out the odor of things. But this alone does not explain the greater sensation of smell experienced on the eve of rain.

Careful observers, though, can often sense the difference in smell and, therefore, the old saying that "things smell different before a rain" does have a scientific basis and is not merely folklore.

pressure lowers, because of the lighter weight of the layer of gases above.

This, added to the natural effect of moist air, often makes a swamp smell strongly before a rain. The same is often true in other low or depressed areas. Not always can any difference be noted.

Careful observers, though, can often sense the difference in smell and, therefore, the old saying that "things smell different before a rain" does have a scientific basis and is not merely folklore.

you land the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: I live with my boyfriend in a home I rent. My landlady has served notice that she wants my boyfriend to move out. Can she force him to leave?

A: There is no law which prohibits you and your boyfriend from living together in an apartment or home. However, the terms of your lease may determine how many people live in the house and who they will be. Read your lease to see if it limits the number of occupants or whether you are prohibited from having a roommate or tenant. If the lease is silent on this subject, your landlady will have difficulty forcing your boyfriend to move.

Q: What is meant by the term, "legal separation?" How can one be obtained?

A: In some other states, but not in Texas, a couple can agree to separate but stay married. The courts will enter orders arranging visitation, support, debts and the like.

In Texas, however, one of the spouses must file for divorce before the Court will make orders affecting the couple. These "temporary orders" stay in effect until the divorce is granted, or until the couple reconciles. During the time the divorce is on file, the court will oversee the couple's property and the well-being of their children.

Know Your Chamber Of Commerce
Toni Eagle, Mgr.

The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture is an organization "on the move" in Muleshoe. I am indeed proud of the Chamber and its activities for the past year.

The problem is too many people do not realize what goes on behind our activities. Too many people compliment me, as the manager, on the great job I'm doing. If you want to see "great" look at the board of directors and officers of the Chamber. They are the driving force behind the Chamber. They are the people that get the job done. I am indeed a very lucky person to have a fantastic board like I do.

When the George Strait show almost fell through, my board members (along with some good friends) came to my rescue with phone calls & trips to Lubbock. The day of the show the Chamber board members again came through. A stage was put together and covered, air conditioners were brought in, equipment set up, electrical wiring done, tickets were sold from a tiny window for four hours straight, doors were watched, hundreds of cokes served and countless other things done.

The Fourth of July wasn't any different. Each board member took an activity and carried it through. Several even overlapped to help with more than one activity. Painting of streets for the 10K run was still going on at 11:30 p.m. the night before, the mule shoe pitching contest lasted from 8:30 a.m. until parade time at 5:00 p.m. mopping and cleaning of the civic center took an hour out of the day and other things all added up to make the fourth fantastic.

I would like for everyone to know just who these fine people on the board are. Officers are Gerald Ried, Chuck Smith, Kathryn Taylor and Lonnie Adrian. Board members are Charles Moraw, Eddy Morris, Tim McCormick, Hubert Kidd, Tub Angeley, Phil Kent, Vivian White, Diane Nieman, Margie Merriott, Tom Bonds, and Brad Poyner.

In addition to these wonderful people there are others. The wives, husbands, mothers, Texas, Raymon, Cathy & Tommy and Logan Spencer of Friona, Texas, Wendell, Ray, and Wilma Shults of Pampa, Texas, J.C., Lillie Snitker and Robert of Enochs, Texas.

Clarence and Betty Schults of Sundown, Verlon and Corky Leaville of Brownfield, Ike and Vera Schults of Levelland, Guy and Belenda Lesley of Amarillo, Texas. Visitors Rex Jennings of Amarillo, Texas, Gary and David Dean of Odessa, Texas, Jimmy Skipworth and Jimmy Skipworth Jr. of Odessa, Texas.

Visiting in the Elwood Autry home during the 4th of July and weekend were her sister, Wanda Endrako from Tulsa, Oklahoma, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Robertson from Phoenix, Az. Mrs. Ona Bryant of fathers and families of the board also support the Chamber. I have been escorted and pampered by a board member's wife, one board member's husband can pour cokes and set up public address systems in record time, ones mother is a fantastic cook and the list goes on and on.

The Chamber is also fortunate to get excellent media coverage from the Journal, Channel 6 and KMUL.

Friends, Chamber members and businesses also play a major role within the activities of the Chamber. People call with ideas or suggestions or just to volunteer to help. Our "network" is strong. When we have a problem we know who to call.

My husband, mother and children are an asset because of the love, understanding, support and hard work they devote to me and the Chamber.

What I want you to realize is I've been blessed with people who really care and are enthusiastic workers. The Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture is an outstanding force in Muleshoe today because of the people who care enough about their town to give of themselves.

Don't you care? Shouldn't you be a member of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture?

Dear Council Members,

Last night we came to Muleshoe to see your fireworks, something we have done every July 4th that you have had them, for 15 yrs. I was very upset that common fireworks were allowed in the park with that many people in attendance. My small children were terrified when some kind of firework flew just over us and hit a car about 50 ft. behind us.

We came to have a good time and enjoy the show you generously put on each year, but when your children won't even look at them because they are afraid, it is not such a good show.

Please consider stopping this practice before someone really gets hurt! Thank you,

The Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture works very hard to promote the fourth of July activities and our town of Muleshoe but it only takes one person to ruin the best of plans.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO IMPLEMENT RATES

General Telephone Company of the Southwest in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the Rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas gives notice of its intent to implement new exchange access rates for the provision of shared tenant and tenant resale services.

These proposed rates are applicable to customers of General Telephone Company of the Southwest, excluding hotel/motel customers, who provide local exchange telephone service of General Telephone Company of the Southwest to their tenants or patrons on a resale or shared use basis. This resale or sharing arrangement is normally provided utilizing a customer-provided PABX or other similar stored control switch capable of common control processing or other features commonly associated with a PABX "Smart" switch.

These proposed rates are designed to recover costs on a usage basis for local exchange telephone service access and are identical to General Telephone's "Optional Measured Service" rates. The monthly access rate will be $28.95 per trunk line and the usage rates are as follows:

Over	Up To and Including	Band	Set Up	Full Rate Period Each Minute
0	7 miles	A	$.025	$.015
7	14 miles	B	.035	.021
14	21 miles	C	.050	.030
21	28 miles	D	.070	.042
28		E	.090	.054

As this is a new service offering, we are unable to determine the number of customers who may be affected. Currently, there are no known prospective customers. Until any customer utilizes this new offering, there will be no effect on the revenues of the telephone company, and in any event, the telephone company does not expect revenues to be affected by more than 2 1/2 percent. These proposed rates, where applicable, will provide tariffed local exchange access to customers who then will provide shared or resale services to tenants.

These proposed rates have been suspended by the Public Utility Commission of Texas and will become effective as proposed or modified by order of the Commission on a date to be determined by the commission.

The proposed rate schedule is on file with the Commission for public inspection and is also available at any business office of General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumers Affairs Division at (512)458-0223 or (512)458-0227, or (512)458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.
