The extreme southern states would be vastly benefitted by more attention being devoted to small farming and gardening. The soil of these states is unsurpassed in fertility, and its productiveness unequaled. The season for fruits and vegetables is far earlier in them than in any part of the country. In fact, some of the most valuable of our vegetable productions are grown in the winter season. about and made to ornament cigar and candy boxes and cologne bottles. No more would a representative New York lady allow even the prince of Wales to enter her doors if it was made to appear that he did so with some design beyond friendship. The notice taken of Mrs. Langtry's beauty by the prince of Wales lifted her into that pre-eminence in the social world in London which we may hope, for the sake of our respect for our English cousins, she would not otherwise have attained.

When the prince of Wales' relations to pretty Mahel Gray, the London shop girl, became common fame, almost every shop, restaurant, coffee houses, bar and reading-room in London was decorated with pictures of Mahel Gray. In many private houses, too, where the girl herself would be regarded with the utmost aversion, her picture found a place and was duly lauded for its beauty.

The matter of Builton.

From the Pittsburg Telegraph.

Two miners sat down in the wilderness of southern Utaha few months since to munch their bread and then pursue their wandering add their search for wealth. They were "prospectors" who, having left the beaten track of treasure-seekers, wandered on, to the amusement of their fellows, into the comparatively level country, where months of searching had revealed nothing.

"We had better get back into the mountain country, Jim," said his "pard."

As he spoke his tool struck something a few inches under the sand and the prospector found a fracture on the rocks and picked up a small, yellowish piece of stone.

"What's that:" said Tom, as he saw with what feverish carnestness his "pard" examined the piece.

"Eagl I think it's horn silver."

They were out of provisions and clothes; the beylad not means with which to pay the fee for securing their "flod." After open.

Mr. George Benicok represents that night before last a man by the name of Sweeney, a hack-driver, mounted his hack, taking his seat by the side of the regular driver of the hack, and drove about the city. During the time, three dollars were made, and when the hour for the two men to part arrived, Sweeney demanded two dollars of the money, claiming to have been instrumental in making it. Ho pressed the demand so forcibly, that it was with difficulty the driver escaped having trouble with him. Mr. Bennock says this man has no regular employment, and resorts to such measures as that mentioned to realize money to live upon. If Mr. Bennock's statements be true, the fellow should be arrested and punished under the vagrant orelinance.

THE COOKE-SCHRYVER MUDDLE, Which Involves the Serious Charge of

About noon, yesterday, an Irishman by the name of Patrick Kane, formerly in the employ of the San Autonio street railway company, rode his horse bare-back into the river in front of Staacke's residence, on Soledad street. The animal went farther into the stream than Kane intended it should go, and reached the deep water, when the borne reared up and threw its rider of Being rather heavily encumbered with clothing and not being able to swim, Kane sank and rose but once afterwards. Persons who were looking on gave the alarm, when Mr. Ferdinand Bins -came to the resous, jumped in and after about ten minutes succeeded in finding the body and bringing it to the shore. Our reporter, who happened to be in the vicinity at the time, was cont present, when efforts were made to restore life, and a physiciain was sent for. The first to arrive was Dr. Amos Graves, though he came too late-life was 'extinct and poor Kane's soul had passed into the read of the tuttre life.

Kane was a man about thirty fley years of age, and had been a resident of this city for some time. He was a man of good habits, frugal, energetic, and commanded the respect of all who knew him. He leaves a wife and two children in the north, for whom he labored faithfully, to mourn his sad dozath. The body was conveyed to the residence of Mr. Ed Bacon, hard by, where it was taken in charge by Mr. Joseph Sheern, the undertaker. An inquisition held upon the body by Justice Shields resulted in the development of facts, justifying the finding of a verdict of socidental drowning.

In connection herewith, it may be of interest to publish what are regarded as relicable process. The search of the drowned. These rules, from the Scientific American, should be carefully read and remembered by every one

Let the eastern section of our state, its fresides secure from the assassin, the border ruffian and the murderer, protected by watchful and vigilant officials from rapine and the retried street and in a quiet locality of the bourt ward. They found a neat cottage, which they rented and flited up in style.

The residents of the vicinity had not been accustomed to having such "airy" neighbors about them, and it must not be supposed that their conduct was overlocked. Indeed, the people living adjacent to their chosen home concluded that the women were not as good and innocent as they affected to be, and this conclusion was strengthened by the appearance of various strengthened by the appearance of va

The scepe of the murder, Grossard's store, is located in the central portion of the town, in a thickly-populated neighborhood, and the deed was committed between the hours of one and two. Attention was, first drawn to the fact of the murder by a stream of blood flowing under the closed door over the sidewalk. The alarm thus given, upon entering the store the body of Grossacd was found lying upon the floor, the head terribly battered and mutilated by repeated blows from a hatchet, the bloody instrument having been left upon the throat of the victim. The sight presented was indeed sickening. From one horrible gaping wound the brain protruded, another had forced an eye from its socket, and the entire face disfigured almost beyond the semblance of human features. The unfortunate victim survived in an unconscious state some five hours.

The Sultan in a New Role. stantinople Correspondence of the Philadel-phia Telegraph.

Coustantinopie Correspondence of the Philadelphia Telegraph.

On the occasion of an afternoon call paid to the sultan by Lady Layard, after discussing the non-committal subject of the weather, the conversation turned to horses, and he remarked that he wished to try two carriage horses just received from Fraues, and asked his risitor if the would like to accompany him. Assent was given, and in a few minutes a light-backet carriage, drawn by two dashing bays, stopped in front of the palace. The sultan gave Lady Layard his arm, opened her parasol himself, and assisted her down the steps, shading her the while. Not only this, but the ring the entire course of a half hour's ride through the palace grounds, not withstanding her instances and assertions that his majesty would fatigue himself, he stoutly held the parasol over her head while she handled the ribbons—an act of courtesy to a woman, and a Christian at that, unprecedented in the annals of the Ottoman empire. This shady proceeding of the sultan come may that cedented in the annals of the Ottoman empire. This shady proceeding of the mitan excited much comment, and some say that Lady Layard took umbrage at it, but that is not proved. However, the fact remains that her husband is, as a country man of his put it, "awfully thick with the sultan."

Pilot Point, Texas, July 8.—Permit me through the columns of your valuable paper to invite the attention of the wholesale merchants of St. Louis to a recent set of the legislature of Texas requiring payment annually in advance of $200 after July 24, 1879, for every, person, firm, or association of persons selling goods, wares or merchandise in Texas by card, sample, or otherwise. Since the passage of said law I have consulted many attorners, among them some of the ablest in the state, and all of them express the opinion that said law is not a valid one, as it is repugnant to the admitted right of congress, by the fourth article of the constitution of the United States, as well as commercial clause, both of which give to congress the power to regulate commerce among the several states; as well as commerce with foreign nations.

Said law discriminates against non-residents and in favor of residents as the resident wholesale merchant is only required by the Passenger coaches carrying the U. 8. mall will leave Ban Antonio at 6 o'clock a.
