The Conkling-Sprague affair in the American politics of the day. The high social and political standing of the parties only makes the interest intense, as if the parties were ordinary people, such reports as have been flying through the country for several days past would have been taken as a matter of course. The "loose morals" of Kate Chase were notorious throughout the country before she became Mrs. Sprague, and Sprague was a drunkard and rake before he espoused Kate Chase. Their union was an act of policy—of politics—never was a marriage such as God requires—and the marriage is not so great that a condition of affairs as is now reported exists, as that we did not hear such reports years ago. Sprague entered the union with his eyes open. But he was dissolute himself, recognized the fact, and when expostulated with by a friend, quietly remarked, that if Kate Chase should allow to marry him in consequence of the fact that she had married a man, he would be a man, "has long been a notorious fact. The greatest misfortune, however, in connection with the affair, is the disgraceful commentary furnished on the possible things to be found in the highest social circles in the country.

Whenever we publish an article under the caption of "The Mexican Revolution," copied from the San Francisco Chronicle, there has been an unusual long run of comparative peace in Mexico, and many were beginning to hope that revolutions were at an end in that country. We give those reports for what they are worth. There can be little doubt that the revolution is being made, but whether it will be of any consequence remains to be seen. We hope not, as our property depends much on the possible condition of Mexico. It is said a regular stock company has been formed in New York to raise money to carry out the enterprise, and it will be observed that the revolutionists make a direct appeal to the United States for aid—the first time anything of this kind has been done. Considering the views at his command, as near as we can learn, the Diaz administration have given Mexico the best government that country has had in a long time, and if that people were wise they would discontinue and disavow all attempts at revolution. If errors of government exist, correct them with ballots, and not by the halberd.

The steamship Colorado has been admitted to the port of Galveston, and a frenzied howl from Houston is certain, even if the latter place does not quarantine against Galveston. We have, however, sufficient confidence in the ability and honesty of purpose of the Galveston board of health to believe they would not admit any vessel likely to bring infectious diseases. They are deeply interested in keeping yellow fever out of their city as anyone else could possibly be, and we believe would not admit the Colorado if they considered there was the least doubt of the healthfulness of her condition. Therefore we feel not the slightest uneasiness, though the bulk of this vessel's cargo is consigned to parties in this city and along the coast route.

MR. W. B. CLARK, of Junction City, Kan., now wears the sash of an honest man and a commercial hero, two things so unusual now-a-days as to attract universal attention. His bank suspended in January, 1877, when he succeeded in compromising with his creditors for 50 cents on the dollar. Subsequently, however, he paid them an additional 10 per cent. He then left for the east, where he did a big business and there realized a much larger sum than he had hoped for, on some bonds that he had. And now, after many months' absence, he returns to Junction City and pays up his creditors in full, a balance of some $25,000. The telegraph has informed us of some recent bank failures in Canada. The banks in the Dominion States their own notes, and with the failure of a bank its notes, scattered broadcast over the country, depreciate according to the extent of the failure. The holders of the most worthless notes in Canada begin to manifest a pretty high appreciation of our national banking system in this respect at least. No matter how badly the bank may "break," or how many notes it may have in circulation, the notes are as good as gold. There may be some objection to our national banking system, but this one fact is a great thing in its favor.

GRANT MARINE has been interviewed by a Dallas "City" reporter. He thinks if Irving Green "Ohr" by "TRICE" thousand majority he will be the Democratic candidate for president; that the Green-backed and Democrats must combine; and that the free coinage of silver and the substitution of treasury greenback notes for national bank currency is to be the financial basis in 1880. Clark Lang, however, fills the force of his interview by declaring that he doesn't understand that Gov. Roberts is opposed to free school.

The Texas and Pacific railway company have authorized the issue of bonds, not to exceed the rate of $70,000 per mile, to complete this line to Fort Stockton. The whole amount, at this rate, will be twenty-four million dollars. This looks like business. There is nothing of consequence left to be done—except to get some one to advance the money on the bonds. The company, probably, overlooked this seeming obstacle in the way of the success of their scheme when they made the order.

A New York paper figuring up the estimated silver yield of Colorado placed it at $100,000,000. The Denver Times has been looking into the matter and it thinks this figure is very extravagant. It goes through a column to show how it arrives at its conclusion, which are that the silver product of Colorado, for the year ending July 1, 1880, will be $23,000,000, two-thirds of which will be produced in Leadville.

Overseers are said to be good in all months in which the letter "R" occurs in the name. About this time of the year the enterprising Yankee fish and oyster dealer in the north sells his "Amoy" and "Perry" brands of oysters, which are said to be the best in the world. The "Amoy" brand is said to be the best, and the "Perry" brand is said to be the best.

THE MEXICAN REVOLUTION.

A formidable Movement Against Diaz—Why? Theories as to the Possibilities of the Revolutionists—Aid Expected from the United States—War Material to be Won—Trusted For, Etc., etc.

San Francisco Chronicle. The ominous silence which for some months has prevailed in respect to military and political matters has been broken by the characteristic storm of revolution. This silence in Mexico never fails to end in the most important and interesting telegraph that General Negrete, commander-in-chief of the army, had, at the head of the revolutionists, pronounced against President Diaz, was sending news to the followers of the latter here and elsewhere, who believed that Diaz was invincible in Mexico. They had boasted that the "revolutionary" kept Juárez in constant dread, and that he overthrew Lerdo. Now the line has come when his own power is threatened. The Chronicle has come into possession of important documents which give a complete insight into the causes which produced the revolution, and the objects sought to be obtained. To the American public it is pointed out that the government of Diaz was popular among the masses, but the administration of the latter president showed that the feeling against him was not only a feeling of hostility, but a feeling of hatred, with having completely failed in carrying out the reforms proclaimed in the Mexican Constitution. The revolutionists were not merely on paper, but they were actually in the field, and it is to be seen hereafter, that the Diaz administration was a failure in every respect.

The revolutionists of Diaz are the very radicals who placed him in power. They are the men who fomented political power against Lerdo with Diaz was organizing his army, and the Diaz administration was a failure in every respect. The revolutionists were not merely on paper, but they were actually in the field, and it is to be seen hereafter, that the Diaz administration was a failure in every respect.

General Cortés de Arriba is the head of the political Junta which is to control the politics of the new party. He is very wealthy, and has a large estate in the city of Mexico. He represents the capital of the republic, and will carry with him the combined influence of the army and the people. The present revolution was started to remedy the many abuses that have grown up under the existing administration. Its leaders, both political and military, are men of high ability and honesty of purpose. They are in for the revolt against Diaz, and will certainly control the entire future of the country.

The leaders of the revolution, for the first time in the history of Mexico, are openly and above board announcing that they are carrying out the schemes named and others of a kindred character, they appeal to the United States in order to carry out their plans and enterprise, and admit that without this "aid" they cannot accomplish their purpose. The need of money is a fact, and in this sense can be interpreted as leaning toward a protestation. The agents in the United States who represent the new revolutionary party, are men of high ability and honesty of purpose. They are in for the revolt against Diaz, and will certainly control the entire future of the country.

The documents from which we translate the above quotations are signed by names which are not at all likely to be published, but the signatures are a guarantee of the truth of the facts given. A private note informs agents that one-third of the purchase price of arms and munitions will be paid in bullion.

There are various estimates as to the number of the revolutionists. Some say that the number is about 100,000, others say that it is about 200,000. The number is said to be increasing rapidly, and it is believed that the revolution will be successful.

CHARLES DEWEY'S CREED.

A Religious Platform Broad Enough for Universal Humanity. DeWey preached in church not in a pulpit, but in a hall, and his words were heard by a large audience. He spoke of the love of God, and the love of our neighbor, and the love of our country. He said that the love of God is the foundation of all other loves, and that the love of our neighbor is the fruit of the love of God. He said that the love of our country is the fruit of the love of our neighbor. He said that the love of our country is the fruit of the love of our neighbor.

THE SAN HOUSTON NORMAL INSTITUTE.

A CIRCULAR FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION REGARDING APPOINTMENTS FROM THE SENATE.

Acting Secretary A. W. Houston.

San Antonio, August 16, 1879.
You will confer a favor by publishing in your paper with the request that all other papers in this (30th) senatorial district copy it, the enclosed communication addressed to me by the state board of education, and permit me to say, through your column, that I have appointed Prof. W. O. Kott, Hon. J. H. McHenry and J. K. Smith, Esq., to the state board of education, who will examine applicants for admission to the San Houston normal school at the seat of school building in San Antonio on the 15th day of September, 1879, in accordance with the recommendations of the board of education from this senatorial district and one gentleman, selecting from those most highly recommended by the board of education. It will be necessary for all applicants for examination to present satisfactory evidence of moral character and their application under the provisions of the law on page 182 of General Laws of 1875. All applicants will make application to me before the day of examination, which application shall be recommended by at least five citizens of the county in which the applicant resides. All applicants must be residents of the thirtieth senatorial district, composed of the counties of Bexar, Comal, Banderas, Kerr, Kendall, Mason, Gillespie, McMullen, Green, Pecos, Frio, El Paso, Concho, Kimble, Edwards and Crockett.

A. W. Houston, Secretary of State.
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.
STATE OF TEXAS.
Hon. A. W. Houston, Senator of 30th Senatorial District, State of Texas.

— A Lady Wood and Was Through Correspondence by a Gentleman Whom She Had Never Met.
— A gentleman of this city relates an account of a marriage that recently occurred not very far from here in which the parties to the high contract had never seen each other until the day that they were made man and wife. The lady was a widow, aged 47, who lived in Colorado county, the groom being a young man, aged 23, who resided in this county. Some time ago, a friend of the groom, who was in Colorado county, saw the lady and was so much attracted by her appearance and the character of her life that he was determined to make her acquainted with the groom. He wrote to her and she agreed to be married. The groom was then in Texas and he was very anxious to see her and to be married to her. He wrote to her and she agreed to be married. He then wrote to her and she agreed to be married. He then wrote to her and she agreed to be married.

Very Narrow Escape.
— Maj. H. Adams and lady, while out for a walk in the park, were nearly killed by a runaway horse. The horse was running at a gallop and was about to strike the carriage. The driver was unable to stop it and it was only by a narrow escape that the carriage was not overturned.

A Strawberry Taken From a Child's Back.
— Several physicians of this city have just performed a strange operation upon a child of Col. J. McHenry and lady, the operation being the removal of a strawberry from the child's back. The child was suffering from a severe skin disease and the physicians had decided to remove the strawberry.

Notice to Gas Consumers.
— Having accepted the agency of Frost's Automatic Gas Governor for this city, I take pleasure in recommending to the public as it will save from 25 to 50 per cent of their monthly gas bills. I refer by permission to the following testimonial of this city: J. P. Frost, proprietor Frost's Automatic Gas Governor, Drexel & Son, E. M. Hoberg and a number of others. For further information apply to the undersigned, at the Alamo Building, Room and Gas Fitting company, on Houston street, next to headquarters.

At Cost.
— Groceries, wines, liquors, chewing tobacco, snuff, cigars and cigarettes, smoking tobacco, glassware, crockery, etc.
