Because of the weather of last Saturday evegreeted the Southland Male Quartet at the Methodist church, but those who braved the elements to hear the singers were more than repaid for going-even had they received a wetting for their trouble. Without trying to disparage in any way previous attractions in Artesia, the Advocate feels that common justice demands that we accord the Southland Male Quartet first place among all those who have appeared in the town. It was so far above expectations that the auditors day and give the many lovers of music in the city an opportunity to hear them. Being so far removed from lyceum and theatrical circuits, the Pecos Valley usually contents itself with patronizing just such manner of entertainment as happens along and it was refreshing to have with us a company of artists who seemed more interested in the class of entertainment furnished than the cash receipts. A lengthy program was rendered in its entirety and the quartet responded to numerous encores.

The Heart of a Little Child.

The heart of a little child is a wonderful inspiration to a person to be a better and a dian reservation, where they more useful citizen. The litwill be guests of S. S. Ward, the toddling prattler looks out upon the world with wondering eyes, and from its parents it learns the right and wrong. With tender arms clinging around your neck, soft rosy cheeks pressed close to tanned and grisly ones, isn't it a glorious incentive to so conduct your life that those tiny pattering feet may never be led astray by an act of yours. The fragrant, white petaled lily, blown from heaven to earth by the breath of an angel, is no purer than the heart of a little child. The golden dawn of a perfect cloudless May morning, when the dew hangs in silver pennants from the grass tips and nestles close to the honied flowers, reflecting the blue of the sky, the gold of the sun and the silver twinkles of the stars just blinking to sleep, is no fairer than the face of a little dimpled darling, just awakened from slumber. God gave us babies and later toddling cherubs to soften our hearts, to subdue our passions, and furnish us an inspiration to so regulate our lives that those coming after us, may have an example that will lead them Grand Fourth of July Celebration be carried out in the forenoon into paths of rectitude and good living, where true happiness lies. - J. About sixty hungry people, comprising members of Artesia Lodge W. O. W. partook of the hospitality of that handsome, but indiscreet bachelor, Tom McCree, at his ranch, south of town, Thursday evening and left a trail of devastation and chicken bones in their wake. Where a few short hours ago there were stacks of goodies too numerous to enumerate, there is now but fond memories, and McCree will have to appease his appetite with green alfalfa and anticipations until another crop of yaller-legs can grow on the vine. Tom wanted the choppers to come down and see just what kind of a provider he was-to the end, no doubt, that it would prove good advertising when he got ready to look for better company. The bunch responded and those who are able to tell anything about results are ready to give the host any kind of a recommend he may desire. One of them tried to tell the Advocate about the bill-of-fare, but we surpressed him when he passed from chicken and gravy and went on to ice cream and the other trimmings. was more than a news paper man could stand to hear at 11 o'clock a. m. Flag Day.

Mayor Harry Hess has received official proclamation from Governor Curry that 15th Monday, June designated as "Flag Day" in commemoration of the one hundred and thirty-first anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes as the flag of the United States. 'The governor recommends that New Mexicans observe the day by displaying the flag at their private homes, on public building, places of business, churches and schools, so it may recall to our minds its story of freedom and justice and remind us of the great privileges we enjoy under its powerful protection.

While no star as yet represents our commonwealth upon the national emblem, we are confident that on this day next year we shall have the privilege and the joy of saluting the New Mexican star upon the nation's banner, when New Mexico will occupy with power and dignity her proper position as a sovereign state in the union."

DEATH OF R. W. TERRILL.

Without a Moment's Warning, Well Known Citizen Expires— Heart Failure the Cause.

While standing at his garden fence, Monday morning, talking to a neighbor, Mr. R. W. Terrill, the well known real estate man and popular citizen, suddenly sank to the ground with an exclamation of pain and was dead in an instant. Having known that his heart's action was not good, Mr. Terrill had abstained from any violent exercise for several months past, but on Monday morning, feeling unusally well, he went into the garden to help his grandson do some plowing. While thus engaged, Mr. M. S. Lee passed by and stopped at the fence to talk a moment. Mr. Terrill paused, passed a cheerful word or two, when the stroke came and he was a Medical assistance summoned, but to no avail.

Impressive funeral services were held at the family residence Tuesday afternoon by Rev. T. C. James, and the day following the body was laid to rest in the family burying grounds at Dention, Texas, all the children being present.

Reuben Willis Terrill was born in Howard county, Missouri, December 9, 1847, died in Artesia, New Mexico, June 8, 1908. He moved from Missouri to Denton county, Texas. November 1877, from there to Amarillo in 1903 and to Artesia February, 1906. Joined the Baptist church at the age of eighteen and remained a consistent and valuable member until death. Married Miss Ann E. Terrell September 29, 1869, who died October 22, 1896. On December 28, 1898, he married Mrs. Laura M. Hawkins, of Denton county, Terrill, of Dallas.

the people of Artesia, as well did he. as a grief. Although a citizen of the town less than two other relatives have the heartyears, the impress his life felt sympathy of every citizen and character made upon his of Artesia in their hour of neighbors was such that no bereavement. words can express the sadness and loss they feel at his sudden taking away. His daily walk was that of modesty and When a bit of sunshine hits ye unobtrusiveness, yet no one came in contact with him but An' a fit of laughter gits ye' to quickly appreciate the fact that he was a man of an individuality that knew no weakness or vacillation, but, on the contrary, was animated at all times by high ideals, Capt. Jack Crawford deep convictions and an abiding love for the better things of life. In his every-day walk and business life there was no such word as expediency. No question was settled with him kind words and deeds exuntil it was settled right. The question was never with R W. Terrill "can I do this," or band and father, R. W. Terrill. will it be profitable to do this" but always and everywhere it was "is it right." Once convinced that a course of action was entirely in conformity with right, he never questioned, faltered or looked back. He was happy to at that which he considered the duty of a patriotic citizen and Christian gentleman, and the consequences were of no moment. After intimate business associations with Mr. Terrill, the writer believes him to have been every bit the man such words imply. As tenderhearted as a child and as pureminded as a woman, he was as brave as a lion and all the financial and social considerations of the world could not make him afraid or cause him to swerve from the path of honor as he saw it. The good he did in this world will live after his body shall have been consumed into the elements of creation. No community ever possessed him as a citizen without having cause for congratulation. Although a comparatively new citizen, he rendered a service in the recent fight for banishment of saloons from Artesia that all appreciate.

Those best acquainted with the private life of R. W. Terrill can testify that his years were spent in service for others. Even to the hour of his death, his every thought was for the welfare and pleasure of those dependent upon him. His six children are highly educated, Christian men and women, and their splendid attainments are a monument to the selfsacrifice and devotion of a father who builded that the world might be made better. Thus the honors of the dead will live long after him. No child could disappoint the memory of a father like that.

The editor of the Advocate personally feels that no . words can express his sorrow in the sudden death of Mr. Terrill. A MERITORIOUS ORGANIZATION.

Constitution and By-Laws of the Benevolent-Beneficial Association of the Pecos Valley.

Organization has been perfected, articles of incorporation filed with the Secretary of the Terriitory and will be published in a short while of a splended mutual insurance order and following is the constitution and by-laws governing the operation of same:

This organization shall be known as the BENEVOLENT-BENEFICIAL ASSOCIATION, OF THE PECOS

The main office of this association shall be kept and maintained at Artesia, in the Territory of New Mexico. The officers of this association shall be a President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer, Chief Medical Examiner and General Agent, all to be members of this association and to be appointed by the Board of Directors An annual meeting of the members of this association shall be held at the office of this association in said town of Artesia on the second Tuesday in January in each and every year, and the members present at said meeting shall vote on all matters pertaining to the management and welfare of said association.

Each member of this association shall pay on or before the first day of December in each and every year the sum of one dollar as library and incidental fund, to be applied to either fund by the Board of Directors as necess-

The officers of this association shall have such powers as are usually vested in the officers of such organizations; the treasurer shall be an officer of some banking institution, engaged in said bank in the active management thereof, said bank to be located in the district included in the scope of this organization. He shall receive all moneys paid in by the accepted members of this association and pay out the same only upon proper

The chief medical examiner of this association shall be a regular practitioner of medicine in the district aforesaid and his duty shall be to pass upon all applications for beneficial certificates and report his decision to the president and secretary. The general agent shall have charge of the appointment and management of the agency force of this association, and shall himself be an active, soliciting agent therefor.

Any regular practicing physician, located in the counties of Roosevelt, Chaves or Eddy, in the Territory of New Mexico, shall be entitled to examine applicants for beneficial certificates.

Any white male or female citizen of the United States or Territories, and who shall reside in Roosevelt, Chaves or Eddy counties, in the Territory of New Mexico, may become a member of this assoc ation by paying to the agent thereof the sum of six dollars and fifty cents, and if said applicant only desires to become an honorary member, he or she shall furnish satisfactory evidence of good moral character. Where such person shall apply for a beneficial certificate, the application and answers made to the medical examiner shall contain sufficient information as to the good moral character of the applicant. Provided, that all persons applying for membership shall be between the ages of eighteen and fifty years. Any application for beneficial certificate shall be accompanied by a strict medical examination report showing that the applicant has appeared before the medical examiner making said report and submitted to a physicial examination in that behalf

Out of the membership fee, one dollar shall be paid to the secretary as his pay for writing the certificate, one dollar shall be paid to the physician who examines the applicant and fifty cents to the chief physician who shall pass upon the application; one dollar shall be paid into the treasury as the first advance assessment and three dollars shall be paid to the agent who secures the application. All membership fees must be paid in advance and forwarded with the application to the secretary, who, if the application is accepted, shall pay out and apply the sums as hereinabove provided for. In case any applicant only wishes to become an honorary member, he or she shall pay the same membership fee as if applying for beneficial certificate, one dollar of which shall be paid, if application is accepted to the soliciting agent of the soliciting age if application is accepted, to the soliciting agent, fifty cents to the secretary, and the remainder shall be paid into a benevolent fund, said fund to be disbursed in behalf of any member of the association, who may, while in good standing, become sick and needy, or in need of medicine, medical attention or nurse. This fund shall be controlled by the board of directors and a complete report of their transactions in this behalf shall be made to the annual meeting of this association. Any sums arising from the payment of annual dues, which may not be needed for library or incidental expenses, shall, at the discretion of the board of directors, be applied to this fund

In case of the rejection of any application for honorary membership, the whole membership fee shall be returned to the applicant; in case of the rejection of any applicant for beneficial membership, the entire membership fee, except one dollar for the examining physician and fifty cents for the chief physician, shall be returned to such applicant. A person may become an honorary member who is not physically qualified to receive a bene-ficial certificate if such person is otherwise qualified, and such honorary member may, upon satisfactory recovery, submit to a medical examination as in the case of any other person, for the purpose of obtaining such certificate, and shall further pay examining and chief physicians' fees as herein provided for and be subject to the usual restriction as to age and location, and shall pay one dollar advance assessment.

The purposes of this association are to promote morality. literary information, temperance and sobriety, and when any member of this association shall become guilty of continuous, grossly immoral conduct or habitual drunkenness, or engage in any occupation calculated to impair the morals or sobriety of the public, such member shall, after having been notified of the charges against him or her, and having been found guilty thereof by the board of trustees sitting as a tribunal, be suspended from membership and shall forfeit all rights and benefits accruing by reason of such prior membership. The accused shall have ten days notice of the charges made against him or her and shall have the right of trial thereon. It is the further aim of this association to aid such persons as constitute the families, heirs, blood relatives, and persons depending for support upon deceased members. To that end a beneficial certificate may be issued to members payable only to persons within the above named class at the death of the member holding such certificate. Any change of beneficiary shall be made upon the written application of the member holding such certificate and such application and the record of the granting thereof shall be strictly kept and maintained by the secretary of the association.

Any member of this association, who can pass a satisfactory medical examination, may receive a beneficial certificate payable at the death of the holder to the beneficiary designated by the applicant and within the class herein provided for, in the sum of One Thousand Dollars; provided that should the last assessment made prior to the death of said holder result in a sum less than one thousand dollars, the amount to be paid to the beneficiary, shall be the amount derived from the said last assessment, but should last assessment result in more than one thousand dollars, only the sum of one thousand dollars shall be paid to such beneficiary and the remainder, if any, shall remain in the treasury until the surplus thus acquired shall be sufficient to pay a one thousand dollar death claim, in which case no assessment at that time shall be made and the accumulated surplus shall be used to pay

At the death of any member holding a beneficial certificate the secretary of the association, shall within ten days after satisfactory proof of such death has been received by him, mail, at the postoffice in Artesia, New Mexico, to each surviving member holding such certificates, a written or printed notice of the death of such member and that an assessment thereon is due. The failure to pay such assessment within thirty days from the time such notices have been mailed or of the one dollar annual dues within thirty days after the first day of December in any year, shall render the certificate heid by such delinquent member null and void. An honorary member shall lose his or her membership and any benefit accuring therefrom upon his or her failure to pay such annual dues within the time aforesaid.

Any member, whose certificate has been rendered null and void by reason of such failure to pay assessments or dues, may be reinstated by furnishing a certificate of good health signed by any physician qualified to make orginal examinations, with statement of the fact that the person seeking reinstatement has not removed from the territory included in the three counties aforesaid and has not reached the age of fifty years. Such certificate shall be accompanied by the sum of three dollars and fifty cents, one dollar of which shall be paid to the agent who forwarded the same, one dollar to the physician who makes the certificate, fifty cents to the secretary of the association, and one dollar into the treasury as an advance assessment.

Benevolent action being one of the purposes of this association, in addition to the operation of the fund here-in provided for sick and needy members, it is declared the fraternal ethics of this association that all members thereof, who are accessible to such sick and needy members, use due dilligence in visiting and otherwise assisting any member who shall become sick or needy or personally in need of encourgement or moral support. The constitution and by-laws of this association shall be made a part of its beneficial certificate, and shall
