ARTESIA, NEW MEXICO, AUGUST, 27, 1910

NO 52

LEAGUE ORGANIZED

Law and Order Society Was Formed Monday Night.

LARGE ATTENDANCE THRE

Will Prevent Introduction of Liquor to Artesia.

Artesia which since its foundation has been universally and rightly regarded as the most moral and sober municipality in New Mexico, has decided that, though the law is better enforced here than elsewhere within the "Land of Sunshine," yet as there are occasional infractions, notwithstanding the vigilance of the officers, it is well for the people to co-operate actively with the city administration in preventing any violation whatsoever. Hence there was a great outpouring at the Presbyterian church Monday night when the Artesia Law and Order League organized and elected officers.

While we were not informed of the contemplated meeting or the purpose thereof until we had made other arrangements which prevented our attending, we learn that the following is substantially what took place: the meeting was called to order after which Gayle Talbot was elected president; W. F. Schwartz vice president; C. E. Mann secretary and S. W. Gilbert treasurer. These officers with J. D. H. Reed constitute the executive committee of the order.

A committee on constitution and bylaws consisting of E. B. Kemp, J. H. Jackson and Rev. A. E. Boyd was then appointed. On request that the society be named at once before the adoption of formal laws this committee reported in favor of naming the order "The Artesia Law and Order League." Rev. J. Allen Ray moved that a public fund be raised to further the work of the league and that for each conviction for gambling or for selling or giving away liquor the officer making the arrest be given $10. J. E. Swepston moved that this be amended by also giving $5 to the city attorney for each conviction. W. L. Bishop offered a further amendment that the marshal receive $7.50 and the city attorney $2.50; which motion was carried by a vote of 59 to 9. W. L. Bishop was instructed to prepare a motion relative to the faithfulness of past and present officers to be spread on the minutes and prepared the following which was accepted:

"Be it Resolved: That the calling of and the proceedings of the Artesia Law and Order League are not intended as any reflection upon any officer of the town of Artesia, past or present, but solely for the purpose of aiding in the future every official and citizen in every effort to enforce the ordinances of the Town of Artesia.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the Presbyterian church on the night of August 30.

The Advocate heartily endorses the movement to enforce the ordinances of the town of Artesia. By a decisive vote and after a full discussion the people of this municipality decided to drive out the liquor business. The men who vote against the change for conscientious reasons, have been defending and upholding the law ever since. Last spring the Democratic party, which carried the town by a vote of more than two to one declared emphatically in favor of the continuation and rigid enforcement of this law and nominated honest men on that platform. The Republican party while adopting no platform, nominated men devoted to the cause of prohibition.

The laws have been enforced and are being enforced better than in any other town in which we have ever lived. But eternal vigilance is no less the price of temperance than it is of liberty and it is well to have our citizens all on the alert to nip in the bud the noxious weed of ordinance violation should it attempt to germinate in the flowery garden of "Fairest Artesia."

HENNING HERE

Territorial Secretary and Railroad Representatives Meet

WITH COMMERCIAL CLUB

Last Saturday Night. Will Exhibit in Chicago.

Artesia will have a representative with an exhibit at Chicago Land Show in November. At the suggestion of H. B. Henning, secretary of the territorial bureau of Immigration and of G. T. Wilson of the industrial department of the Santa Fe Railroad Company we will send a choice selection of our products. This was decided Saturday night at a meeting of the commercial club when these gentlemen presented the matter for consideration. Two committees were ordered appointed to push the work. Artesia had a successful exhibit there last year which did much good in setting forth our advantages. The following are the minutes of the meeting as recorded by the club secretary Dr. J. J. Clarke:

Meeting called to order by the president, with a good attendance. The object of this meeting was to confer and receive proposition from H. B. Henning of the Immigration Bureau relative to the Land Show at Chicago. Mr. Henning had with him C. T. Wilson of the Industrial Department of the Santa Fe. Mr. Henning told of the coming Land Show this November and said that every where that he had been that there was a good bit of enthusiasm shown and that he thought that in as much as Artesia had been there last time we could not well afford to stay out. In connection to the exhibits he said that it was the intention of his department to advertise in the Chicago newspapers. For this they would need something near $6000. As to get the whole territory in on a deal of this kind they had prorated the cost of entering, thereby giving every place the chance to come in.

Accordingly they would place us on the same footing as Carlsbad, $300. New Mexico would have a floor space of 800 sqft, that there would be ample floor space for each district giving all the room needed to make an exhibit. He said that we would want a representative from Artesia to help give the desired information to visitors. At the same time the Bureau and the Santa Fe Co would maintain an office to give out all the needed information and he suggested that the club have a man there to help them with this locality. Mr. Henning suggested that Artesia make a general display, not a large one but a good one. As to freight rates we would have to advance that but as soon as our exhibit would enter they would rebate the charges. In the case of the need of jars he would furnish one half dozen and would advance more at the rate of $1.50 per set of six and the freight. Would also ask for photos or plate of scenes of the Artesia Country to be used for Steroptican views. Mr. Wilson told of the attendance to the show last year which amounted to 380,000 paid admissions with 150,000 deadheads, and they had every reason to believe that it would reach one half million this year. And thought it one of the best chances for the new state to advertise, would suggest some souvenir to be given out to visitors, as the Artesian Button that was once given away.

In discussion that followed R. D. Ferson thought that this was a cheap way to get advertisement.

Gayle Talbot thought that the thing for us to do was to get busy, and in order to get the proposition before the house, made a motion that we accept the proposition and that the chair appoint the committees, one to solicit funds and the other to get the exhibit, seconded by Wm. Dooley the motion carried. Mr. Henning extended thanks to the club and motion to adjourned.

Mr. Henning stated that it would be compulsory to have all funds in or before the 1st of October.

Mayor Gaynor

Now that Mayor Gaynor is recovering, it is hard to realize the shock that was everywhere felt when his death by assassination was reported. There is no exaggeration in the idea that it would be a great loss to progressive politics and truly good government. Mayor Gaynor is one of that newer type of municipal administrators of which each in his way, Tom L. Johnson, Edward F. Dunne and Brand Whitlock among the living, and Samuel M. Jones and Hazen S. Pingree who went before them are distinguished examples. This type is not identical with that of the merely honest Mayor. If it were, we should include such men as Seth Low in the list. One of its characteristics is honesty, but this is so much a matter of course with it as to be more distinctive or an object of boasting than chastity in a priest. The distinguishing characteristic of the type is the making of democratic ideals practical. Not a tempting role for self seekers. He who would be such a mayor must calculate upon the aggressive and conscienceless enmity of the most subtle and powerful elements in political business life. But the examples these mayors have set, the light they have spread, the enthusiasms they have aroused for government that is democratic and right, these influences and such as these may prove to be to this American Republic what ten good men would have been to Sodom had there been ten good men there.—The Public.

A Standing Reproach to the Nation

A copy of the N. Y. Evening Post of recent date contains the following item:

"A verdict of $8,000 was given to-day by a jury in the Supreme Court of Long Island City to John Zasczak, who sued the Central Railroad of New Jersey to recover damages for the loss of a leg. Kasczak was run over by a train five years ago in a freight yard at Penobscot, Pa. This was the fifth time his suit has been tried."

How long are we to have a state of things in which such items as this are continually appearing in the news? Five trials, and five years, to determine the liability of a railroad company to a man who has been run over by a freight train and had his leg cut off! The thing is monstrous whatever the explanation. There is something profoundly wrong in a system under which it is possible, not to say frequent.

It is in flagrant violation of common sense, as well as of common justice. No system of law administration can prevent the possibility of error. We are not clamoring for infallibility. But any rational system must see to it that a decision, and a decision on as satisfactory a basis as can be reasonably be demanded, shall be rendered in a reasonable time. It is preposterous to drag a case like this out for five years; if the truth of it cannot be properly adjudged in a few months it cannot be adjudged at all. So much for common sense; as for common justice, how much does poor John Kasczak get, at the end of five years of litigation out of $8,000 adjudged to be rightfully his? And what of the irreparable loss to him involved in the waiting itself?

Every such incident should sharpen the feeling that to leave the law's delay what it is in this country is a standing reproach to the nation, and especially to the legal profession.—Catholic Fortnightly Review.

The Signed Article.

The indignation felt by C. R. Brice at the publication of anonymous questions reflecting discredit on him on the eve of election was natural, speaking from the viewpoint of human nature. It is true that the custom of allowing "Denizen," "Veritas," "Interested" and other supposed individuals with alleged complaints, to criticize and to censure through their columns is yet in vogue with many reputable newspapers, but it is becoming unpopular and will eventually disappear. For it permits unknown creatures without standing or decency to insinuate things and to get a hearing, when if their identity were known they would be treated with scorn. It is hard to reply to an anonymous blackguard. You are shooting in the dark. People do not hold the editor responsible, and custom protects him from censure.

If you attempt to answer you lower yourself to the level of your critic who is a coward who fears the light of day. Hence the only remedy is to allow the slimy things to ooze forth their filthy falsehoods and wait until the sunlight of popular intelligence causes them to dry up and disappear.

Of course, many true things are often written in a conservative way by honest men who assume a nom de plume. There was a time in the development of journalism when this plan served a good purpose, and that is why it is still looked upon with tolerance. But it has nothing to commend it at this time and when the matter is finally brought home to the people they will see to it that newspapers of standing will insist upon the signing of all articles. When this condition is reached there will be a great moral uplift in the journalistic field. It is rapidly approaching and the man with the nom de plume no longer convinces even when he advocates something that is praiseworthy.

This naturally leads to the idea of signed editorial which is now gaining ground. Any reputable editor can convince more people by a signed article than he can by an article in which the paper instead of the individual is made responsible. Where the editor is known there is no real reason why this should be the case; but it is. Probably this is because readers are used to seeing so much editorial matter by the man that they disregard it to a great extent, but when the same editor in the same paper comes out with a signed production it attracts attention and consequently has more effect.

The Hearst newspapers are not supposed to be especially reputable.

What they say editorially is generally disregarded by thinking people, but when Hearst writes a signed article for his own papers it is instantly quoted in all other publications and has a widespread effect. The Denver newspapers are notoriously "yellow," but when Hugh O'Neal of the Post or Ed Keating of the News writes an article over his own signature it is read with avidity by folks who would overlook the same article by the same man, if it appeared unsigned. The day is not yet here for the signed editorial to be generally adopted by small newspapers; but it is coming. When it does, the anonymous writer will forever disappear. That gentlemen of Mr. Brice's caliber should become indignant at unsigned libels is a healthy sign. A decade ago, this method of attack would be considered legitimate enough though the contents were false and misleading, as they were in this case.

Died.

Miss Lena Scott died at the home of her sister in Macomb Illinois, Monday after an illness of more than two years though she was not confined to her bed but for only two or three months.

Miss Scott to her old home in April to undergo an operation, from which she never recovered the disease having gained too much stronghold.

The family came to Artesia over four years ago and have resided here continuously since, making many friends.

Mrs. Scott, the mother, died some sixteen months ago, so now there are only two members of the family remaining here Messrs. Rufus and Roscoe Scott to whom the Advocate extends sympathy for the loss of their sister who was a young woman of most estimable character.

We desire to call attention to the fact that we will, as usual sell school books strictly for cash. Commercial Club Likes Empire Construction Company

COMMITTEE AT WORK

Promises to Do Much For Land Outside Artesian Belt.

There will be three pumping plants in operation under the auspices of the Empire Construction Company, in a very short time, if plans now under way, are carried out.

Last week, M. F. Loomis of Hillsboro, Michigan and Judge G. A. Richardson, legal representative of the company came to Artesia and interested a number of parties here. A committee consisting of T. R. Smith, J. S. Collins and E. S. Porter was appointed to confer with them. Thursday a large meeting was held in the commercial club rooms. Mr. Loomis developed his proposition. It amounts to this:

The company will put in a twenty-five horse power engine, guaranteed for five years, for each one hundred and sixty acres to be watered, or more if needed. There will be a superintendent for every twenty wells who will devote all his time to seeing that the machinery is properly operated. The advantage of having so many engines of the same kind is that in the event that any part of one should get out of repair it can be substituted by one of the others and arrangements made as to time, until the new part can be obtained or the old one repaired.

The plan contemplates the payments as follows: A total of thirty-six dollars an acre to be paid in five annual payments, the first of ten per cent of the total amount due at end of one year, the second of fifteen per cent of the total amount, the next of twenty per cent, the next of twenty five per cent and the last of thirty per cent. The company will take the land as security.

Land in the Melne-Bush tract of $6,000 acres north of Roswell is now selling at $250 an acre with a similar system. Thousands of acres of land outside the belt here is worth practically nothing today and might be made worth as much as or more than the Milne-Bush land.

At the end of five years the plant will be turned over to the land owners.

Part of the facts above set forth were given by Judge Richardson who also mentioned an orchard at Roswell, apples from which have just brought $300 an acre on the trees, no better land than can be found right around Artesia. F. M. Schwentker of the Pacific Mutual told about irrigation in California and about land bringing thousands of dollars per acre which were not of more value than land just outside the artesian belt.

It is just to add that the company will rebate $500 to all who have surface wells of sufficient size already on their land.

The committee was enlarged to nine and the following new members appointed. Dr. C. W. Williams, president of the First National Bank; John B. Enfield, cashier of the State National Bank; Rex Wheatly, manager of the Joyce-Pruit department store; C. A. Sipple land agent and merchant; Mayor E. C. Higgins, capitalist, and Judge G. U. McCrary, city attorney and legal adviser for the committee. The committee met Thursday afternoon and began work.

It is believed that provisions will be made to test the matter with three pumps.

If your light don't work call J. K. Gibson phone 128.

In One Boat.

There is to be an exchange of ceremonious calls this week between ambassadors from Oyster Bay and certain high commissioners from Beverly. If these conferences could be accepted simply for what they are—plain politics, and not of a very high order—they might be passed in amused silence. It pleases the devotees of Oyster Bay, however, to make it appear that the most urgent policy of Mr. Taft at this instant is to secure the "indorsement" of Mr. Roosevelt.

What need has he of further certificates from that quarter? He was Mr. Roosevelt's personal candidate for the Presidency. It was of him that Mr. Roosevelt spoke in 1908 when he said: "If they don't take him they will get me." It was for him that Mr. Roosevelt turned the White House into a campaign headquarters from which he frequently made stump speeches and whence came at intervals during the fortnight preceding the election the cry "We have got them beaten to a frazzle."

There is a pious assumption too by these worshippers at the shrine of a crumbling idol that the disfavor in which many Republican leaders are now held does not extend to the ex-President. Let it be remembered that during all the years Mr. Roosevelt was in office Cannon and Aldrich, Dalzell and Sherman and their followers were his intimate friends, advisers and supporters. Mr. Taft never urged the House to elect Cannon Speaker, as Mr. Roosevelt did in 1906. Most of the distinction and power which the old guard has gained develop under the Roosevelt Administration. Even Ballinger was introduced into the Federal service by Mr. Roosevelt when, in 1907, he was made Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Messrs. Taft and Roosevelt are coupled up as closely in this Administration as they were in the last. In truth, the present Executive suffers more from the legacy bequeathed to him than he does from any acquisitions of his own. No diagnosis of his party's troubles can be complete which does not take into account the fact that there is in Republicanism as much anti-Roosevelt sentiment as there is anti-Taft or anti-Cannon or anti-Aldrich sentiment. It is not always found in the places where antagonistic feeling prevails, but it is in existence and it explains in part the political demoralization now prevalent.

If Mr. Roosevelt repudiates Mr. Taft he repudiates himself. If he endorses the Taft Administration he merely indorses his own handiwork. The Roosevelt machine has nothing better to its credit than William Howard Taft.—The World.

THIRD GAME.

The third game of the series went to Artesia by a score of 4 to 3. While the attendance was not so large as at the other games the last game was by far the best game of the series.

With Lewis in the box and F. Brainard behind the bat Artesia has a strong battery as can be found in the country. Roswell only obtained three safe hits off Lewis and these were so scattered that they did not get a single earned run.

The final score was 4 to 3 in favor of Artesia.

Married.

At the new home of the groom, on West Main street Tuesday evening at seven thirty o'clock Mrs. Bertha Mendenhall and Mr. A. Gunter were united in marriage by Rev. E. E. Mathes in the presence of only a few friends and business associates in Joyce-Pruits where both contracting parties have for some time been employed.

The bride was charmingly gowned in wistaria satin, while the groom was even more handsome than usual in the sombre habiliments customary for such occasions.

After the ceremony a dainty three course luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunter will make their home in their new cottage on West Main street.

The Advocate wishes for them much happiness.

Will Talk Festival.

Everybody is invited to the Commercial Club Monday night whether a member or not. The Alfalfa Festival will come up.

As this is a general meeting to whom everybody is invited it is to be hoped that there will be a big crowd in attendance. These festivals have always been successful; the one held last year under the superintendence of Mr. Dooley being the best yet held.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETING.

There will be a regular meeting of the Commercial Club on Monday, August 29. There is any amount of important business to come before the club, viz: Land Show Chicago. Railroad discussion. Pumping Plant and Alfalfa Festival. There will also be a smoker. Come out. If you are not a member, come any way. We want you. Bring your neighbor. We must have a live Commercial Club.

J. J. CLARKE, Secy.

The Alfalfa Festival, while it is not under the control of the Commercial Club and never has been, will be discussed at the meeting and if there is no objection will probably be determined there. The meeting called above is not strictly a meeting of the Commercial Club, but is really a meeting of all citizens of Artesia for the purpose of furthering the objects enumerated in the call. The committee of the Alfalfa Festival has consented to have the matter taken up by this meeting.—Editor.

THE RESULT IN THE COUNTY.

Skeen 1001, Brice 662 Woodwell 438.

Both Carlsbad candidates were clean, able and honorable men and made a warm campaign. There was no feeling in the matter one way or the other until the appearance of the questions which aroused Mr. Brice. Mr. Woodwell, who is an honorable man, disavowed connection with them, and it is possible that their anonymous author might have been deceived himself and may have asked them in good faith and for honest motives. However, they did stir things for awhile. Some of the gentlemen who fought Brice in regard to matters upon which they were misinformed, on being corrected tried to undo any wrong that might have resulted.

The above figures show that the county outside of both Artesia and Carlsbad gave Brice a small majority, so that the charge which the Register-Tribune insinuates, that the combination of these two towns as the cause of his victory is untrue. For a young man who has lived here but two years, Woodwell made a wonderful campaign, and we predict that he will be heard from again in the councils of the Democratic party.

The Republicans are holding their convention in Carlsbad today. They have plenty of personally good men from whom to select a ticket. We predict that their platform will be quite as indefinite as any that the party has adopted. People nowadays are just "upity" enough to think that they know something about what ought to go into the fundamental law.

DEVELOPMENT AT ARTESIA.

Condensed and Authenticated Statement Showing Growth of the Pecos Valley City in Past Twenty Months.

A committee appointed by the Commercial Club of Artesia, after conservative and painstaking labor, have submitted the following flattering statement of conditions in the Artesia Country, together with data relative to growth of the town and increase of business since January 1, 1909. The facts set forth are based upon actual figures and not exaggerated in the least.

Within a radius of seven miles of Artesia there are 11,780 acres of irrigated land planted in alfalfa, 4780 acres in orchards and (about) 2500 acres in other field crops, such as corn, oats, cane, etc.

Land now being prepared for fall sowing of alfalfa will make an increase in acreage of 25 per cent.

For the year 1909, 476 cars of alfalfa were shipped from Artesia station. For the months of June and July, 1910, alone 405 cars were shipped. The cars shipped since, together with alfalfa now in storage and crops yet to be harvested, will run the 1910 crop away above 1000 cars.

These last figures, taken in conjunction with the fact that the first two crops of alfalfa this year were consumed for sheep pasture during lambing season, shows what a tremendous increase in yield is made over 1909.

According to enrollments now on file in the office of the Secretary of the Commercial Club, 41,900 sheep were pastured on alfalfa within a radius of seven miles of Artesia during the months of March and April, 1910, with positively some herds not enumerated.

Alfalfa growers received a rental of $10 per month, each for this pasturage.

These sheep all came from the foothills west of Artesia. Actual figures show there are 40,000 sheep on the plains in the eastern part of this country.

FREIGHT RECEIVED.

The number of cars of goods and material received at Artesia station between January 1, 1909 to August 15, 1910 were as follows:

Wagons and Buggies 7.
Wire and Nails 8
Nursery Stock 7
Automobiles 8
Machinery and engine 15
Groceries 11
Flour and Grain 32
Dry Goods 10
Lumber 315
Coal 175
Lime and Plaster 60
Brick 60
Well Casing 6
Oils 18
Furniture 14
Local Shipments 80
Total number of cars received 826.

For five months ending July 8, 1910, more cars were received at Artesia than at Roswell and more than all stations combined between Artesia and Pecos. For this same period, one-fourth of all freight cars passing through the Santa Fe freight division point at Clovis, south bound, were billed to Artesia. This is official.

The actual of money remitted from Artesia station on freight and passenger receipts is slightly in excess of thirty thousand dollars per month, or $1000 per day. This is also official.

VALUE OF BUILDINGS CONSTRUCTED

Between January 1, 1909 and August 11, 1910, there were constructed on Main street, Artesia, brick building aggregating a cost of $134,500 (including a $40,000 hotel.)

In addition, an electric light plant, $30,000; alfalfa mill, 20,000; steam laundry 5,000; ice plant 11,000; high school building, 10,000; annex to graded school building, 7,500; Methodist College, 75,000; Baptist church, 22,000; Methodist church (in course of erection) 25,000; 112 dwelling houses costing from 600 to 7,000 each.

Scholastic enrollment of Artesia school district for July, 1910 was 1100, an increase of 350 for last year.

Since the location of Western College at Artesia in March, 1909, town property has doubled in sale price. This ratio of increase in values will also hold good in farm properties.

One real estate firm alone in Artesia sold one million dollars worth of farm lands during the year ending July 1, 1910.

OIL AND GAS BEING DEVELOPED

The Pecos Valley's first oil well was brought in a few weeks ago, seven miles from Artesia, producing 24 1-2 barrels per day. The second gas well, with a pressure of 500 lbs per square inch was developed Thursday, August 18, 1910. Prospects for rich field was never better.

All the above facts pertaining to the Artesia country can be verified by personal investigation.

Dr. Dunaway introduced Judge Brice who made a pleasing address emphasizing his stand for prohibition and asking the support of the Union in favor of his nomination as delegate to the Constitutional Convention.

A motion was made and carried by the Union to have dodgers distributed among the voters asking their support for Dr. Skeen and Judge Brice.

Names of new members enrolled and meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. L. G. Hadley on August 31st at 3:30 p. m.

New members are Mesdames Philip Thomas, J. E. Acord, James Ahl, D. E. Buckles, F. W. Hendricksin, Miss Lillian Major.

Public Speaking

Tonight Mr. Snyder, a distinguished socialist-speaker of Girard Kansas will address the people of Artesia in Main Street.

Aldrich On Rubber

The New York World doesn't think much of the explanation which Senator Aldrich has given of his conduct in regard to the rubber schedule. It intimates clearly that he is a grafter in the following editorial:

"Whatever may be his grievance against the insurgents, Senator Aldrich can have no quarrel with his party's obedient newspapers. Most of them, through partiality or lack of information have dutifully assumed that his defense in the matter of the scandalous rubber tariff is satisfactory. Is it?"

"Senator Bristow charged (1) that Mr. Aldrich personally increased the tariff on manufactures of rubber from 30 to 35 percent; (2) that soon after the tariff went into effect a new rubber trust called the Intercontinental, embracing five or six companies, with a capital stock of 40,000,000, was organized; (3) that Senator Aldrich and his son are large stockholders and directors of this corporation and that the son is general manager; (4) that within eight months dividends of more than 18 percent were declared.

"While admitting everything here charged, Senator Aldrich holds; (1) that the tariff increase was not to benefit himself but to oblige the Treasury Dept which wanted "uniformity in rates;" (2) that the Intercontinental Company, not a trust, produces only crude rubber, which is on the free list; (3) that the dividends were deferred payments; (4) that his company had no interest in manufacture of rubber and it cannot possibly benefit by the tariff on such articles.

Further investigation by Mr. Bristow and The World shows that the Intercontinental, is authorized by its charter among other things natural to a trust, (1) to gather, distribute and deal in any articles or goods manufactured from rubber; (2) that it has a contract with the United States Rubber Company, the original trust, to furnish it with virtually its entire product; (3) that Samuel P. Colt, President of this United States Rubber Co. is Senator Aldrich's close business and political partner and friend; (4) that men identified with the Rockefellers are largely interested in United States Rubber. John D. Rockefeller Jr. having married Senator Aldrich's daughter; (5) that the Intercontinental is in fact a holding company and that Senator Aldrich's son is a voting trustee of $18,611,500 of the stock, much of it owned by Ryan and Guggenheims.

Giving Mr. Aldrich the full benefit of every statement and denial that he has made, we find from the above that at the very least, the distinguished head of the crude-rubber trust in the United States Senate increased the tariff to the great advantage of the manufacturing rubber trust, which is the crude rubber trust's ally and greatest customer and which is controlled by men closely associated commercially, politically and socially with Senator Aldrich himself.

Senator Bristow's charge is sustained by Mr. Aldrich's own admission. In view of the intrelations between these two trusts it is preposterous to talk about the satisfactory nature of a defence which is in fact, aside from a few misleading statements, an open confession.

Extortionate tariffs develop plutocracy and privilege. Plutocracy and privilege work together. The community of interest between the trust in the manufactures of rubber (35 percent.) and the trust in crude rubber (free) is exceedingly close. Can Senator serve one without the other?"

Mesdames E. Williams and Clara Stinchcomb of Marion Kansas who have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kline left their homes Thursday. Mrs. Stinchcomb was accompanied by her little daughters.

Pedagogues Resolution.

We, the teachers of Eddy county do offer the following resolutions:

Be it resolved that;

We extend our thanks to Prof. McFarland for his capable and efficient management of the Institute, and his earnest and able work in instructing the teachers. Also to Prof. W. L. Bishop for his activity and for his interest in the teachers at large and for his instruction. To Prof. Kaiser who in his work as Supt. has secured these able and efficient instructors, and has been in active work in the Institute the entire time. We wish to thank Mr. Halley for his lecture to the teachers and desire to recommend that lectures on special topics of interest to teachers should be given frequently at each institute.

That we extend our thanks to the School Board for the use of their excellent high school building.

That we also extend our thanks to the people of Artesia for the delightful automobile ride given the teachers.

Be it resolved that: It is the sense of the Eddy county teachers that the provision recommended by the Democrats of New Mexico requiring a two-third majority of the electors of any district to secure the adoption of any bonds or school taxes, is against the best interests of the schools of New Mexico, and that they ask their delegates to vote against said provision.

That it is the sense of the Eddy county teachers that Eastern New Mexico is entitled to a State Normal School and that we ask our delegates to ask for one third of the two hundred thousand acres set apart by Congress for Normal Schools.

That it is the further sense of the Eddy county teachers that the attention of the Constitutional Convention be called to the necessity of exercising the greatest care in the disposal of the public school lands to the end that no injustice be done our school system, but that we may profit by the experience of our neighboring states.

Be it resolved that: A copy of these resolutions be sent to each county paper with a request for publication.

The Best Hour of Life is when you do some great deed or discover some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R. Pitt of Rocky Mt. N. C. when he was suffering intensely, as he says "from the worst cold I ever had, I then proved to my great satisfaction what a wonderful cough and cold cure Dr. Kings New Discovery is; for after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that." Its the surest and best remedy for diseased lungs, hemorrhages, la grippe asthma, hay fever any throat or lung trouble. 50c. $1.00 Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Great Debate and After.

There was "suthin' doin'" every minute during the last couple of days of the campaign. Woodwell drifted in from the Plaius Tuesday and began active work. He had many friends here and made more. There was some difficulty in getting a hall but the band room in the Fenton building was obtained. However, the candidate thought he would do better on the street and as having advertised the fact by means of a boy and bell, obtained for a moderate stipend, he proceeded to tell the crowd what he thought ought to go into the organic law. Woodwell made a good speech, sound and Democratic, which was listened to with attention.

Thursday night Brice and Judge Grantham held the fort at the Airdome while a Socialist orator who had a lot of things to put the proletariat wise to, let loose a sight of pregnant information down town. The Socialist held a good part of the audience.

We didn't hear the disciple of Marx for the reason that we couldn't be in two places at once, but with the possible exception of said Socialist, Brice made the best political speech delivered in Artesia since we came here unless we also except Fergussons profound argument two years ago.

Brice is not an orator, but he has a way of getting right down to the meat of things that holds and convinces. Both appearance and delivery are somewhat awkward, but there is no doubt about the directness and effect of his talk.

But those preliminaries weren't a "patchin'" to the real "event" of Friday evening. The News which got out late Friday contained a list of questions for Brice purporting to have been written for the paper as an advertisement by Democrats and paid for by them. They contained a number of implications against the record of Brice. Whereupon Brice got mad: just awfully mad. He sent a challenge by Judges J. G. Osburn and J. Weaver Foster to Woodwell demanding that he meet him at the Airdome that night. Woodwell declined and Brice started to hire the theater. As he was going on that errand Brice saw Woodwell in Talbot's office and running in hurried a challenge at him. Woodwell accepted.

The men had been chunking each other all through the campaign and it wasn't to be supposed that they arrived on the arena in a "state of grace." If you think that they did you have just one more guess coming.

Judge Osborn acted as referee and time keeper. There were no seconds, and none were needed, for the aspirants for the belt looked after rubbing each other down, and did a fine job of massaging. Both were highly indignant gentlemen when they stepped into the squared circle. The rules were a cross between Rough and Tumble and London Prize; biting and gouging was permitted but licks below the belt line (drawn just under the ankles) were strictly prohibited. It was a slugging match rather than an exhibition of scientific boxing. Except where billies, and quirts were brought into play the fight was with bare knucks. It was rare fun for the crowd. It is generally conceded that Brice had the best of the bout, helped his case and was entitled to the decision which he got next day, but his work was not in the class with that of the previous night.

On the other hand, Woodwell, while taking the light end of the gate receipts and the moving picture contracts, and while he was sent through the ropes a couple of times, and finally took the count, showed up better than in his street speech. He was less irate than Brice and more than once brought tears and claret, even if he failed to send Brice to the mat. The exercise warmed Woodwell, whose temper was somewhat strained and he dropped pretty generally the air of the boxing academy and handed them out like a professional.

Both parties expressed a desire to put up their Duke's against the champion heavy-weight enemies of the race and manifested a peculiar longing to send a few hard jabs to the slabs of King Alcohol or get a couple of hooks to the rubicund nose of the Demon Rum.

In one way aside from its intrinsic merits the debate was a great benefit to Brice. Although the primary in Carlsbad had been called at the request of the Artesia Committee, and although the majority of the voters felt that it was binding if Brice Democrats were keeping faith, it was hard to convince them that Brice and Woodwell were not standing in and putting up a mimic fight in the hope of deceiving Artesia and capturing both delegates for the county seat. Those of us who were familiar with the inside of things knew better but it was hard to convince the average voter that we were right.

The debate was proof sufficient. There was no fake or frameup about it, and it was so palpably true that the men were in the thing for "keeps" that the voters generally delivered the goods according to the terms nominated in the bond.

However, the next day was the most exciting primary day that ever was known in Artesia. On several occasions police had to clear the sidewalks which were packed by earnest men discussing the merits of the candidates. There was little bad feeling displayed, and in some cases men divided time with each other and addressed voters, taking turns and observing parliamentary courtesies. It was a big day and furnished lots of fun for the Rockribbed and Unterrified of Waterville.

The Ice Factory has a new filter and from now on the condensed water will be doubly filtered which should guarantee pure ice.

The Smith and Hanger Farm.

The Smith & Hanger Well Is Large as This.

Two thousand acres of broad fertile prairie, with scarcely a break in its level slope, with grass growing green from a fertile soil of red chocolate, sprinkled with sand in proper proportion to insure easy working, lies across the river in the Smith & Hanger farm. There is not an acre of rough land on the place and it is perhaps the prettiest piece of ground, in the "Sunshine State." A band of Mexicans are "digging for wood" in the pasture which is to be broken as soon as the grubbing is completed, while at the northwest corner you will have to climb for water, if you want it from the top of the big artesian well (one of the largest in the world) or at least you would have been compelled to do so, if you wanted the water before the elbow was put on.

Tuesday, the editor of this paper accompanied J. Marvin Smith and C. A. and Ray Siple to the farm. As we went along we noticed that Dr. F. M. Smith tract looks mighty pretty. Over the hill beyond the Dr. Smith farm lies the Smith & Hanger land. It slopes to the east and south from the river, the slope from the west being two and a half feet to the mile and the slope from the north averaging four feet.

For some time it has been known that the artesian belt extended beyond the river as far as the bluffs. Five years ago an artesian well was put in at the extreme east end of what is now the Smith & Hanger land and a fine flow obtained. However, the slope of the country was not properly understood and the well, while still spouting has proven of little practical value except for the purpose of watering stock during dry seasons. Last year the present owners engaged the firm of John Mook & Company to put in a well with the understanding that others would be put in if the test proved successful. The results beggared the most enthusiastic anticipations of the owners. The well proved as large as the big Muncey well which is pictured above and therefore as large as the largest on earth. It is the present intention to put in a well upon each two hundred and forty acres.

The owners have proceeded promptly and now have fourteen men at work preparing the land. One hundred and twenty acres is ready for alfalfa and two hundred more will be ready for oats in a short time. Every bit of the ground can be put in cultivation and will be as soon as wells can be put in to furnish the water needed. After alfalfa has been started it will require less water every year, since surface water can be had near the top of the ground and the roots will soon extend to moisture.

The furthest part of the land is only eight miles from town over the bridge. Across an excellent ford near the east end crossings can generally be made with loads and the town reached in six and one half miles. It is the intention of the proprietors to run a spur from the station to the bank of the river and build a bridge at their own expense. There is no better fruit land anywhere and it will eventually be utilized for orchards.

The land is controlled as follows:

A company composed of Oliver J. Chapman, Wallace Anderson and R. R. Hanger of Kansas City, and R. T. Murray J. Marvin Smith and E. E. Hanger of Artesia own one section of the land. In addition to this J. Marvin Smith and E. E. Hanger control two sections.

It is likely that eventually this land will be used in intensive farming. Cut up into small tracts it would make an ideal truck farming section, but this something which may not take place until the construction of a new railroad. When the new cross line is built it will doubtless run up the draw where the surveys have been made and will come within a quarter of a mile of this magnificent piece land.

The owners of this tract have done what every land owner ought to do; put their ground into use. Under a proper tax system all owners of vacant land would have to do what these men found it profitable to do on their own motion; put the land to its best use.

A Party to Spring Lake.

Monday evening a party of young people chaperoned by Miss Kennedy and Dr. Hendrickson went out to Spring Lake and spent a jolly evening, passing the time by playing games of various kinds, in boating and listening to music. Those going were Misses Hazel McClusky, Beas Boyd, Eral McConnell, Vida Nichlas, Lota Bishop, Isabel Gerrells, Anna Pardon, Myrtle and Verlie Leslie and Grace McCrery. Messrs. Lynn Tuttle, Edgar Williamson, Albert Statten, Collins Gerrells, Ruel Crandall, Leslie McWhorter, Smaller Hefner and Ammie Clayton.

The Associated Charities will meet at the home of Mrs. Cohen Thursday September 1. This will be an important meeting.

The School Opening.

The regular session of the Artesia Public School will open for the term on the first Monday of Sept. The new building is completed and the seats and all furniture has arrived and are now being put in place, everything will be in readiness at the time mentioned and it is hoped that all pupils will enroll on the first day.

All pupils who will take work in either of the first five grades will attend the Central building, all above the fifth grade will attend at the High school building, in the west part of town.

For the first time in the history of the town of Artesia now has all the room needed to accommodate all the pupils of the district, and with a good corps of teachers to back him up. Supt. Bishop has announced that the compulsory school attendance law will be rigidly enforced and that all parents of pupils between the ages of seven and fourteen years will be compelled to send these pupils to school for the entire term of school.

The text-books have arrived and may be obtained at either of the drug stores. All parents will be required to furnish all books required by the teacher. This is a Territorial law and the teacher cannot deviate from it, neither can the parents. Each pupil must have his or her own books, as no pupils sit together, and therefore cannot study together. All parents who have recently moved into the district, will please see Mr. Bishop and let him get the names of the children for the enumeration. Artesia this year has the second largest enrollment in Eastern New Mexico.

A Party For the Misses Clarke.

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Helmig entertained a number of young ladies in honor of the Misses Clarke of New Orleans who are here visiting the family of their brother Dr. J. J. Clarke. There were several amusing games, one especially creating much jollity when the guests all drew animals on cloth with a needle and thread. Miss Esther Mendenhall excelled in this and won the prize. After the games an excellent three course luncheon was served to the following guests Misses Lora Williams, Leslie McNeil, Bernice Temple, Esther Mendenhall, Pauline Kuyrkendall, Leona Atkinson, Helen Askew, Misses Beasley and Davies, Mrs. Powers the honor guests and Mrs. Dr. Russell who assisted Mrs. Helmig in entertaining.

Not Wise to Dead Ones.

In our graphic description of the Brice-Woodwell debate we refer to short arm jabs on "the slabs"; which, not being up on the Latin botanical terms of the prize ring, our compositor rendered "the slabs," clearly intimating that they were in condition to be put under engraved marble. The dead languages are not much in use around the shack, hence the unconscious error.

A Hay Ride.

Starting from the Askew residence Monday evening a party of young people went on a hay ride to the Day ranch where they had a splendid supper and a jolly good time.

Those going were Misses Beasley, Davies, Askew, Freeman, Cooper, McMahan, Warnock and Dishman. Messrs. S. O. Higgins, C. Melton, M. Beasley, H. Cooper, E. Jones, G. Kitchen, John McIlhany and Grover McMahan.

A Jolly Supper.

Monday Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Osburn entertained a number of young people in a most delightful manner by a supper on the lawn. The girls were instructed to wear calico dresses and gingham aprons, while the boys were supposed to come in the free and easy costume of the school boy of pioneer days.

While all did not adhere strictly to the rules enough did to make the costumes an amusing feature.

A splendid supper of soup, fried chicken, potato and salmon salad, apple pie and ice cream was served in the usual happy manner of the hostess.

About eight o'clock the entire party of eighteen guests and the host and hostess started on a hay ride to Spring Lake where watermelon was served on arrival and the usual pleasures of that resort were enjoyed.

Moonlight Hay-rack Party.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Porter entertained about eighteen of the younger set Friday evening with a hay rack party to Spring Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Maddox assisted in chaperoning the young folks who gathered at the Central School building at seven o'clock and enjoyed a moonlight outing.

Cow bells and tin horns were much in evidence and to help the noise along the boys tied big cans filled with stones to the back of the wagon, and it was indeed a rattling journey. Having arrived at the destination, a picnic style supper was spread at nine o'clock. A line was then stretched from which sticks of candy dangled, and each guest was asked to put their hands behind them and see who could eat the stick of candy first. Dr. Kuyrkendall won the prize—a box of candy.

The young folks enjoyed boating till eleven o'clock and the hay rack started for home and deposited each guest at their gate.
