The first test of the strength of the two factions was had when the vote for temporary chairman was taken. The Taft forces electing Root over Hadley by a vote of 556 to 501.

The second test came when Governor Hadley's motion to oust 92 Taft delegates was voted down by a vote of 564 to 510.

The convention will resume work again today at 4 p. m. when permanent organization will probably be completed, and some real business transacted.

There is much speculation as to whether Roosevelt followers program for next Sunday, at will go with him and support the Presbyterian church: him if the convention nominates President Taft, which now seems quite certain.

Base-Ball Game Wednesday

The baseball game between the Republicans and Democrats which was played Wednesday, proved to be a very one sided affair. The Republicans won the game by the score of 10 to 0 The batteries were for the Republicans Linell and Hogue, for the Democrats Taylor, Bigler and Richards. The proceeds from the game went to the Woman's Club to be used in improving the park next to New Sante Fe depot.

It Pays to Advertise

The success of the Artesia Mercantile Co.'s Clean Up Sale was evidenced by the great crowd of shoppers that filled their etore all day long Saturday till ten o'clock at night. Their ten clerks in dry goods department were busy as bees trying to wait on all customers.

The free lemonade feature was certainly appreciated by their customers.

Mr. Swartz tells us that this day's business was the best by far of any previous sales day.

Band Concert

Arrangements have been made for concerts to be given each Thusday evening on the streets by the Artesia Band during the summer. The first of the series was rendered yesterday evening at the front of the Hardwick Hotel. A band wagon is being built which will be kept on the streets and the concerts will be given from different locations each week.

There are more than twenty pieces in the band and they render good music, and the announcement that they will play once each week at which all citizens and visitors in the [SEAL.] city will be expected to attend will be welcome news. There will no doubt be a large attendance from the farming districts around Artesia.

THE COOK.

Which of the happily married couple should be the cook, assuming that the income of neither is sufficient to warrant the hire of such a necessary piece of household furniture? The question has come up before the Chicago courts and they have met it with courage, or one of them has. It seems that one Burt Harkin was charged with disorderly conduct, says the Charleston News and Courier. He had, in fact, been drunk. This he admitted, but claimed that the circumstances were of such an extenuating nature that he ought to be discharged. "For some time," said he, "I've been taking care of our house and cooking meals for my wife and myself. The work was uninteresting and it got on my nerves. I was mighty glad to get a drink and forget my troubles." The judge looked wise. "Discharged," said he laconically. A number of questions naturally arise. But the salient point is the cooking. Is there really any reason under the sun, except custom. why the man should expect his wife to be the cook? It is not recorded that Eve dressed the beef, but we do know that Adam roasted her just after the exodus from the Garden of Eden. Here was a man who plainly did not go out and work for an income. Why should he loaf about the house while his wife attempted to economize on gas? To be sure he got tired of it, but probably she was just as tired. We really fear that the judge has set a bad precedent. Suppose the women take it into their heads that they have turn it to their own advantage. a right to get intoxicated just because they get tired of frying codfish.

Two things with regard to wireless telegraphy have been brought into renewed prominence by the disaster to the Titanic-the inestimable value of assistance for sinking ships, and the necessity of regulations to prevent private telegraphers from interfering, with irrelevant messages. The sinking of the Titanic occurred between two and three o'clock in the morning, an hour at which it might be supposed amateur wireless operators would all complaints that the wireless messages from the Titanic were "taken" with difficulty, because of interference. In Paris, the police dogs have now been given official rank and attack on one of them is classed as resistante to lawfully constituted authority. The situation has its element of humor, but as a matter of fact, their protection as regular members of the police, has been found necessary to save them from the lawless gangs whom they help the police in restraining. Still, the spectacle of a man arrested on the charge of resisting a police dog in the discharge of his duty is novel and odd enough to have its ludicrous side.

For a wager a Cincinnati man ate 30 dozen of bananas in 30 days, drank five glasses of beer and several large portions of whisky each night of the test, and finished off with five dozen hard-boiled eggs and two dozen raw yet it is almost as hard to swallow as the wager must have been.

FRUIT ON A DRY FARM

Method Given to Make It Absolutely Drouth Proof.

Before Planting Single Tree Two Years' Moisture Is Secured by Plowing Year Ahead and Keeping Ground Cultivated.

(By E. R. PARSONS.)

Twenty years ago i published a statement that trees and crops could be raised anywhere on suitable soil between the Rocky mountains and Missouri river, without irrigation. Everybody laughed, some went as far as to say that such exaggerated statements only hurt the state, a few took the hint, others besides myself had arrived at this truth, and there are now shade trees and family orchards all over the state, few and far between it is true, but quite enough for proof and now after twenty years every word of this statement is accepted as

Now I make another statement, which even the Colorado writers and professors are afraid of, and which the eastern papers altogether decline to print or believe, yet which is capable of proof and will be generally accepted in another twenty years, and that is that any man can plant a dry orchard according to the following method and make it absolutely drouth proof.

This knowledge will do you more good now than twenty years hence and I submit it not for the enlightenment of Mr. W. C. Curtis, Mr. Wallace and others who affect to see little or no good in dry farming, but for the benefit of the few who can grasp a truth in advance of the popular belief and

Before planting a single tree we go to work and secure two years moisture for that tree by plowing a year ahead of time, keeping the ground cultivated and digging the holes in the fall to catch snow and moisture all winter. Now is the time to get to work. Plow the ground as deep as the service as a means of summoning you can and arrange your lands so as to bring your dead furrows where the row of trees is to be; by doing this hold the moisture. It is then packed the surface is dished toward the tree to make it firm, which holds the and if there is any run off it drains moisture, and the surface is harrowed towards their roots. These dead furrows are also of great advantage as snow catchers

Now a piece of land prepared in ture from below going up into the air. this manner will accumulate during winter even five or six feet.

Europe as well as in the United States would take two years or more without there will be legislation to put down a drop of rain, so that when a young what the London Times calls "these tree is planted two or three leet deep and early fall when the ground is freaks of private vanity or levity or in all this moisture it is as I contend dry. It should be well weighted and absolutely drouth proof, for in the past thirty years the longest drouth when the ground is wet it will do has been only a few months' duration, drying out no more than the top six or eight inches, which is of no value whatever to the tree anyway.

Then we go to work and impound every year ten times as much moisture as the tree needs, as follows: A young apple tree just planted uses up a few hundred pounds of moisture every year, but we give these trees an area of 40 feet square, moist seedbed will result. plums and cherries, 20, small fruits 10. The story is vouched for, full grown you will have several tons vator in their orchards and cultivated to the good each year, which you hold crops after each rain all through the by cultivation in your subsoil, and season.

even if your trees should need more moisture yet when they get, say 30 or 40 years old, they can be thinned out to 80 feet apart, which would give each tree about 240 tons per annum, so that there is no need whatever to take any chances. You make the moisture question in the orchard as exact a science as building a bridge or a battleship. In fact, if I knew a man would follow these instructions implicitly, I would pay him a thousand dollars for every tree lost by drouth.

We keep every weed out of the orchard and cultivate from ten to twelve times during the season with a homemade cultivator about ten feet wide, which cultivates about twenty acres' a day.

Every year from the start the surplus moisture sinks deeper and deeper into the subsoil.

I have followed it down foot by foot year by year, until now it reaches at depth of nearly twenty feet. The apple trees that are forty feet apart stand in a cube of moist earth 40 feet square by twenty feet deep, content ing between 200 and 300 tons of water; we make our estimates by taking samples all through the aforemid, cube, weighing them, then drying them out thoroughly, then weighing again. This gives us the exact amount. of moisture in each sample and by running an average, we get an approproximate estimate of what each cube

By comparing with other cubes on which no trees are set, we are able to tell almost exactly what each tree is using up, and by comparing with the precipitation can compute the loss by run off or evaporation.

METHOD OF SAVING MOISTURE

Much Can Be Gleaned From Farmers Who Raise Profitable Crops With Small Rainfall.

There is much that can be learned from the methods of the dry land farmers who raise profitable grain crops in regions with less than 18 inches of rainfall. If the practices which they follow to conserve the moisture for crops were followed more closely by farmers everywhere better crops could be grown. The land is plowed deep to get a good bed of mellow soil which will within a few hours to let the ar into the top soil and form a surface mulch of dry soil which prevents the mois-

FAVORITE DISHES IN THE LAND OF THE THISTLE.

Broths and Soups Seem to Be Especially Favored-For Stewed Oxtall-Just How to Brander a Steak.

The following recipes come from a Scotch housewife who says they are faworites in the land of the thistle, her own family having used them for many years. Scotch housewives take special pride in the preparation of wholesome broths and soups, one of the famous ones being "cockie leekie." Any fowl, teuch (tender), youthful or middle aged, may be used, but if one does not possess a fowl, beef may take its place, though the dish will not be so delicate in flavor. For four quarts of soup use two or three pounds of meat, eight or nine large leeks and pepper and salt to taste. Wash the leeks thoroughly and if they are old scald them for a few minutes in boiling water. Take off the roots and part of the heads and cut them into pieces of about an inch in length. Put the meat and half of the leeks into the pot, and allow these to simmer gently for about half an hour; add the remaining leeks and boil them for three or even four hours. Skim carefully and season to taste with salt and pepper. For stewed oxtail cut the tail at the joints, discarding one or two pieces at the extreme points. Put them into a stewpan with just enough water to cover them. When the water begins to boil, remove the scum on top and add a sliced onion and two carrots. After covering let the meat simmer gently for two and a half hours. Melt an ounce of butter in a little pan, stir in gently half an ounce of flour and some of the strained liquid from the meat. Allow this to boil for five or ten minutes. Add a tablespoonful of catsup and a little lemon juice. After browning it slightly pour the sauce over the tails, which should be arranged with the vegetables on a dish. Serve at once.

To broil, or in Scotch parlance, to "brander," a steak in Scotch style, have the "brander," or gridiron, very hot and the fire clear and bright. A little salt sprinkled over the fire will keep down the flame. When the brander is hot rub it all over with a piece of suet. This prevents the steak from sticking. Cut the skin that lies along the edge of the steak in several places and flatten slightly with a rolling pin. Lay it on the gridiron and turn it every half minute with steak tongs. With a double gridiron it is of course unnecessary to use the tongs, but in shifting the meat about while on the gridiron steak tongs are useful, and not as familiar as they should be among American housewives who too often use a fork for the purpose. A fork should never be put into the meat while it is cooking. Have ready a very hot dish and when the steak has been turned for ten minutes lift it up and slip it on the hot dish. Put on a cover and set it into a Dutch oven. Let it stand for ten minutes. Lacking a Dutch oven, the American housewife will have to content herself with her up-to-date gas range. The steak is then lifted on to the hot gridiron and turned for five minutes more. Serve on a hot platter after spreading lightly with butter. Americans, as they like their steaks rare, will select a very thick steak if they desire to cook it in Scotch style.

Stewed Fish.

Any good-sized fresh water fish will answer for this dish. Cut the fish across in slices an inch and one-half thick and sprinkle well with salt; boil two sliced onions until done, pour off the water, season with pepper, add two teacupfuls of hot water and a little parsley, and in this simmer the fish until thoroughly done. Serve with hot drawn butter and with the sauce made by the cooking of the fish.

Making Nut Muffins.

Two cupfuls of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cupful of milk, half a cupful of chopped nut meats, two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of melted butter and half a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, then add the beaten yolks of eggs, butter and milk. Beat well, add the vanilla extract and the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Divide into buttered and floured gem pans, bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes.

Salade D'Anchois.

Fillet the required quantity of anchovies, cut each fillet into two, lengthwise, and arrange in lattice fashion on small glass dishes, garnish with quarters or slices of hard-cooked eggs and capers, pour over a little olive oil, sprinkle with chopped chives or parsley and serve.

To Serve With Pancakes.

Lemon juice and powdered sugar are delicious with feathery wheat pancakes. It is said that the Kaiser is especially attached to this dish.

USE GAS

Too Frequent "Jags" From Oxygen Dangerous.

Proposition of Sir Edwin Ray Lankester Denounced as Unsportsmanlike and Unscientific-Will Shorten Life.

London.-The lay press reports that Sir Edwin Ray Lankester has inquired If the Swedish authorities, who will have charge of the coming Olympian games, will permit a Marathon compethor to carry an oxygen tank or bag and take from it an occasional whiff during that cruel and grueling twentysix odd miles that must be run by those who would be in at the finish. be extremely interesting to see whether such breathing is of material assistance to the runner, and as oxygen gas is not a drug, but as natural an article of consumption as water, there seems to be no reason why the runner should be disqualified for refreshing himself with it, as he may with soup or water."

Simulating drugs are, of course, rightly barred from any athletic contest worthy the name, the Scientific American remarks. Oxygen is in these circumstances certainly a drug, inas-tients with coma or pneumonia in extremis. But, as with all stimulants, excessive use of it is dangerous. It first excites and then depresses; frequent oxygen intoxication will prematurely exhaust the individual's vitality and will surely tend to shorten his days. Such indulgence will make the cardiac beats most pathologically rapid and powerful; the blood will flow in excessive volume and strength and the collapse will be in reciprocal proportion. The ears sing in an "oxygen jag," as if one should hang head downward over a cliff; speech is hesitating, "ideas swarm, but it is hard to seize

Sir Edwin's proposal is amazingly unscientific in a scientist of so great reputation and it is most unsportsmanlike, especially in an Englishman, the Britisher being nothing if not a lover The competitors, he observes, will of fair play in sport. What folly to presumably be allowed to consume re- declare nascent oxygen as natural an article of consumption as water! Pur oxygen is far from being such a thing; it is natural only to be breathed when it is diluted with several times its volume of nitrogen.

Pure oxygen has before been used in athletics, but all that kind of thing is altogether cheap and unprofitable and it has a yellow streak. Yes, records have been broken by this means. They should not stand; they do not in the minds of the sporting aristocracy. And the reason why is that they are not tests of brawn and endurance under the inexorable conditions in which much as it "dopes" the recipient, quite human life must ordinarly be lived. like many another drug. Pure oxygen An oxygen drunk might make an un-cessful for the brief span of a given contest; but for all that he would be poorer, and not the really triumphant man. All competitions should be held under natural conditions, such as must be chanced and coped with in nature.

The only safe and sane way to breathe oxygen is in combination with nitrogen as it exists in the circumambient air, in the form to which, during the ages, human and all other life has become adapted. Normal living is ever "the right adjustment of internal relations to external relations."

After all, why should marathons be run, anyway, except for the glorious and sufficient purpose of announcing in the Athenian market place the victory at Marathon over the Persians? How utterly purposeless is today this terribly taxing race, which must for many a participant result in disease and in shortened existence.

Murderer Signs Appeal With Initials, Showing Number in Death House.

DOOMED MAN DRAWS BRIEF

'irenton, N. J .- For the first time in the history of New Jersey a man convicted of murder and in the death house at the state prison, has prepared a brief in his own behalf for appeals in an endeavor to get a new trial.

Frank McDermit and Chauncey H. Beasley, as counsel for Allison M. Mac-Farland, filed with the court an elaborate brief prepared by MacFarland, who stands convicted of poisoning his wife in Newark.

The case was carried up on a writ of error and in addition to the lawyers' brief the brief of MacFarland was filed. The man goes into the case in detail and has an explanation now famous "Bunny" letters. As Mac-Farland is an oducated man, the brief was intelligently prepared. HEALTH FOR THE CHILD.

The careful mother, watching closely the physical peculiarities of her children, soon learns that health is in a great measure dependent upon normal, healthy, regular bowel action. When the bowels are inactive, loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder are soon apparent.

Keep the bowels free and clear and good health is assured. At the first sign of constipation give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at bed-time and repeat the dose the following night, if necessary. You will find the child will quickly recover its accustomed good spirits, and eat and sleep normally.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is far preferable to salts, cathartics and purgative waters which are harsh in their action. Syrup Pepsin acts on the bowels easily and naturally, yet positively, and causes no griping or discomfort. Its tonic properties build up the stomach, liver and bowels, restoring their normal condition.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried this remedy, send for a sample to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. He will gladly send a trial bottle without any expense to you whatever.

SYNOPSIS.

Elam Harnish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 30th birthday with a crowd of miners at the Circle City Tivoli. The dance leads to heavy gambling, in which over $100.000 is staked. Harnish loses his money and his mine but wins the mail contract. He starts on his mail trip with dogs and sledge, telling his friends that he will be in the big Yukon gold strike at the start. Burning Daylight makes a sensationally rapid run across country with the mail, appears at the Tivoli and is now ready to join his friends in a dash to the new gold fields. Deciding that gold will be found in the up-river district Harnish buys two tons of flour, which he declares will be worth its weight in gold, but when he arrives with his flour he finds the big flat desolate. A comrade discovers gold and Daylight reaps a rich harvest. He goes to Dawson, becomes the most prominent figure in the Klondike and defeats a combination of capitalists in a vast mining deal. He returns to civilization, and, amid the bewildering complications of high finance. Daylight finds that he has been led to invest his eleven millions in a manipulated scheme. He goes to New York, and confronting his disloyal partners with a revolver, he threatens to kill them if his money is not returned. They are cowed, return their stealings and Harnish goes back to San Francisco, where he meets his fate in Dede Mison, a pretty stenographer. Elam Harnish, known all through Alas-

CHAPTER XI.

Daylight was in the thick of his spectacular and intensely bitter fight with the Coastwise Steam Navigation Company, and the Hawaiian, Nicaraguan, and Pacific-Mexican Steam- freight handlers. The union presented ship Company. He stirred up a bigger muss than he had anticipated, and even he was astounded at the wide ramifications of the struggle and at the unexpected and incongruous interests that were drawn into it. Every newspaper in San Francisco turned upon him. It was true, one or two of them had first intimated that they were open to subsidization, but Daylight's judgment was that the situation did not warrant such expenditure. Up to this time the press had been amusingly tolerant and good-naturedly sensational about him, but now he was to learn what virulent scurrilousness an antagonized press was capable of. Every episode of his life was resurrected to serve as foundations for mafrankly amazed at the new interpretation put upon all that he had accomplished and the deeds he had done. From an Alaskan hero he was metamorphosed into an Alaskan bully, liar, desperado, and all-around "bad man," The whole affair sank to the deeper deeps of rancor and savageness. The poor woman who had killed herself was dragged out of her grave and paraded on thousands of reams of paper as a martyr and a victim to Daylight's ferocious brutality.

"He was like a big bear raiding a bee-hive, and, regardless of the stings. he obstinately persisted in pawing for the honey. He gritted his teeth and struck back. Beginning with a raid on two steamship companies, it developed into a pitched battle with a city, state and continental coast line. Allied with him, on a splendid salary. with princely pickings thrown in, was a lawyer, Larry Hegan, a young Irishman with a reputation to make, and whose peculiar genius had been unrecognized until Daylight had picked twentieth-century warfare; and it was Daylight, rejecting, accepting, and elaborating, who planned the campaigns and prosecuted them. With the Pacific coast, from Puget Sound to Panama, buzzing and humming, and with San Francisco furiously about his ears, the two big steamship companies had all the appearance of winning. It looked as if Burning Daylight was being beaten slowly to his knees. And then he struck-at the steamship companies, at San Francisco, at the whole Pacific coast.

It was not much of a blow at first. A Christian Endeavor convention was being held in San Francisco, a row was started by Express Drivers' Union No. 927 over the handling of a small heap of baggage at Ferry Building. A few heads were broken, a score of arrests made, and the baggage was delivered. No one would have guessed that behind this petty wrangle was the fine Irish hand of Hegan, made potent by the Klondike gold of Burn ing Daylight. It was an insignificant affair at best-or so it seemed. But the Teamsters' Union took up the quarrel, backed by the whole Water Front Federation. Step by step, the strike became involved. A refusal of cooks and waiters to serve scab team sters or teamsters' employers brought out the cooks and waiters The butchers and meat cutters refused to handle meat destined for unfair restaurants. The combined Employers' Associations put up a solid front. and found facing them the 40,000 organized laborers of San Francisco The restaurant bakers and the bakery wagon drivers struck, followed by the milkers, milk drivers and chicken pickers. The building trades asserted its position in unambiguous terms, and all San Francisco was in turmoil.

But still, it was only San Francisco Hegan's intrigues were masterly, and Daylight's campaign steadily devel oped. The powerful fighting organi zation known as the Pacific Slope Seaman's Union refused to work vessels the cargoes of which were to be handled by scab longshoremen and its ultimatum, and then called a strike. This had been Daylight's objective all the time. Every incoming coastwise vessel was boarded by the union officials and its crew sent ashore. And. with the seamen went the firemen, the engineers and the sea cooks and waiters. Daily the number of idle steamers increased. It was impossible to get scab crews, for the men of the Seamen's Union were fighters trained in the hard school of the sea, and when they went out it meant blood and death to scabs. This phase of the strike spread up and down the entire Pacific coast, until all the ports transportation was at a standstill. The days and weeks dragged out, and the strike held. The Coastwise Steam Navigation Company and the Hawaiian, Nicaraguan, and Pacific-Mexican Steamship Company were tied up completely. The expenses of combating the strike were tremendous, and they were earning nothing, while daily the situation went from bad to worse, until "peace at any price" became the cry. And still there was no peace, until Daylight and his allies played out their hand, raked in the winnings, and allowed a goodly portion of a continent to resume business.

Daylight's coming to civilization had not improved him. True, he wore better clothes, had learned slightly better manners, and spoke better English. But he had hardened, and at the expense of his old-time, whole-souled geniality. Even his human affiliations were descending. Playing a lone hand, contemptuous of most of the men with whom he played, lacking in sympathy or understanding of them, and certainly independent of them, he found little in common with those to be encountered, say at the Alta-Pacific. In point of fact, when the battle with the and his raid was inflicting incalculable damage on all business interests, he had been asked to resign from the Alta-Pacific. The idea had been rather to his liking, and he had found new quarters in clubs like the Riverside, by the city bosses.

One week-end, feeling heavy and depressed and tired of the city and its ways, he obeyed the impulse of a whim that was later to play an important part in his life. The desire to get out of the city for a whiff of country air and for a change of scene was the cause. Yet, to himself, he made the excuse of going to Glen Ellen for the purpose of inspecting a brickyard which Holdsworthy had sold him. He spent the night in the little country hotel, and on Sunday morning, astride a saddle horse rented from the G!en Ellen butcher, rode out of the village. The brickyard was close at hand on the flat beside the Sonoma Creek.

Resolving to have his fun first, and to look over the brickyard afterward, he rode up the hill. prospecting for a way cross country to get to the expression. He felt the illicit pleasknolls. He left the country road at up with him. It was Hegan who guided the first gate he came to and cantered Daylight through the intricacies of through a hayfield. The grain was and commercial and corporation law, road, and he sniffed the warm aroma It was Hegan, prolific of resource and of it with delighte' nostrils. At the through a sort of cleansing bath. But to the perfect redwoods be route just for the fun of it, late afterlonged the small but deep canyon that noon was upon him when he arrived threaded its way among the knolls. Here he found no passage out for exertion. Not of old had he known shortness of breath such as this, and muscles that so easily tired at a stiff climb. A tiny stream rar down the tiny valley through a tiny meadow that was carpeted knee-high with grass and blue and white nemophila.

Crossing the stream, Daylight followed a faint cattle trail over a low. rocky hill and through a wine-wooded forest of manzanita, and emerged upon another tiny valley, down which filtered another spring-fed, meadowbordered streamlet.

"It sure beats country places and bungalows at Menlo Park," he communed aloud; "and if ever I get the hankering for country life, it's me for this every time."

An old wood-road led him to a clearing, where a dozen acres of grapes grew on wine-red soil. A cow-path, more trees and thickets, and he dropped down a hillside to the southeast exsteamship companies was at its height posure. Here, poised above a big forested canyon, and looking out upon Sonoma Valley, was a small farmhouse. With its barn and outhouses it snuggled into a nook in the hillside, which protected it from the west and north. It was the erosion from organized and practically maintained this hillside, he judged, that had formed the little level stretch of vegetable garden. The soil was fat and black, and there was water in plenty. for he saw several faucets running wide open. Forgotten was the brickyard. Nobody was at home, but Daylight dismounted and ranged the vegetable garden, eating strawberries and green peas, inspecting the old adobe barn and rusty plow and harrow, and rolling and smoking cigarettes while he watched the antics of several broods of young chicks and the moth-

Nothing could satisfy his holiday spirit now but the ascent of Sonoma Mountain. And here on the crest, three hours afterward, he emerged, tired and sweaty, garments torn and face and eves and an unwonted zestfulness of ure of a schoolboy playing truant. How large was it? A matter of one hundred and eighty acres, though it seemed much larger. This was because it was so irregularly shaped. Yes, it included the clay-pit and all the knolls, and its boundary that ran along the big canyon was over a mile long. Oh, yes, he and his wife managed to scratch a living without working too hard. They didn't have to pay much rent. Hillard, the owner, depended on the income from the clay-pit. Hillard was well off and had big ranches and vineyards down on the flat of the valley. The brickyard paid ten cents a cubic yard for the clay. As for the rest of the ranch, the land was good in patches, where it was cleared, like the vegetable garden and the vineyard, but the rest of it was too much up-and-down. "You're not a farmer," Daylight

> "No; I'm a telegraph operator. But the wife and I decided to take a twoyears' vacation, and . . . here we are. But the time's about up. I'm going back into the office this fall after I get the grapes off."

As Daylight listened, there came to him a sudden envy of this young fellow living right in the midst of all this which Daylight had, traveled through the last few hours.

"What in thunder are you going back to the telegraph office for?" he demanded.

The young man smiled with a certain wistfulness. "Because we can't get ahead here.

(he hesitated an instant). "and because there are added expenses coming. The rent, small as it is, counts; and besides, I'm not strong enough to effectually farm the place. If I owned it, or if I were a real husky like you, I'd ask nothing better. Nor would the wife." Again the wistful smile hovered on his face. "You see, we're country born, and after bucking with cities for a few years, hands scratched, but with sparkling we kind of feel we like the country best. We've planned to get ahead, though, and then some day we'll buy a patch of land and stay with it." (TO BE CONTINUED.)

The Swiss National bank, with headquarters at Zurich, has just completed printing at Geneva "war" banknotes of twenty francs each for a sum of $6,000,000, but they will not be put into circulation unless war breaks out in Europe. PRESERVE FOES' HEADS

SOUTH AMERICAN TRIBE THAT EMBALMS THE TROPHIES.

Method Employed Reduces the Grisly Relics to the Size of a Billiard Ball With Changing or Mutilating Features.

The little-known Indian tribes that inhabit the more distant provinces of the South American republic of Ecuador, in almost entire independence, have a strange custom of preparing the heads of their vanquished enemies in a manner which reduces them to extremely small dimensions, without changing or mutilating the features.

For many years a war of extermination has been going on between the various tribes. Ambushes and night attacks are of frequent occurrence, and the parties often march dozens of leagues to surprise their enemies.

The head of the vanquished chief is cut off and becomes the most esteemed booty of the victorious leader. It is then, in due time, desiccated and reduced by the latter by means of a process, the secret of which has so far been jealously guarded. As far as is known, the skull, jawbones and fleshy parts are entirely removed without the skin of the head and face suffering any damage, and the only trace of the operation is a small incision in the nape of the neck which is afterward. sewn together again.

After removal of the bony and softer parts of the skull the skin is filled with hot stones and a vegetable concoction, the secret of which, as well as that of the process, is carefully guarded. This procedure is continued until the head is shrunk to the dimension of a goodsized billiard ball and has become as dry and tough as sole leather.

ft is remarkable that during the process neither the natural luster of the hair nor its quantity is diminished. that eyebrows and lashes remain intact, and that even the grain of the skin with the fine hairs are plainly distinguishable after the preparation is completed.

The process lasts about one year, and the head during that time hangs in smoke, for which purpose a stout string is drawn through the upper part of it. The lips are sewed together in order to prevent the dead enemy from speaking and eating, and the long threads by which it is done remain attached and hanging from the mouth. The trophy, which by the reduction has lost its ghastliness, is kept in a niche in the hut of the chief, stuck on the end of a spear. During the three years succeeding the killing, feasts, lasting three days, are held on the anniversaries of the victory, during which the shrunken head is exhibited. After three years the victor may dispose of his trophy in any way he sees fit, but this is rarely done, as the head forms a war trophy of the highest honor.

Case of Poetic Justice. That was a case of poetic justice when a jury of women in San Francisco were called upon to pass on the fit of a man's clothes. A certain tailor in that western city sued a customer for money due for clothes. The customer pleaded that the suits did not fit and asked for a jury of women to decide the important point. The 12 good women and true, who from their own experience were no doubt eminently qualified to pass on the fit of clothes, found for the defendant: It must have afforded them infinite satisfaction to know that, after all the sarcasm with which their husbands treated their own troubles with dressmakers, their exasperating experiences should in the end be drawn upon to render a lawful judgment on clothes worn by men. PHYSICIAN ADVISES

"Four years ago I had places break out on my wrist and on my shin which would itch and burn by spells, and scratching them would not seem to would scale over, and the flesh un- That in Manitoba is only 7.1. derneath would look red and feverish. Sometimes it would begin to itch until will be forwarded upon application to it would waken me from my sleep, any Canadian Government Agent, and I would have to go through the shows that Manitoba is wonderfully scratching ordeal again.

Our physician pronounced it "dry are but few farms that are more than eczema." I used an ointment which ten or twelve miles from a railway the doctor gave me, but it did no good. Then he advised me to try the Cuticura Remedies. As this trouble has been in our family for years, and is the inducements held out, is well reconsidered hereditary, I felt anxious to try to head it off. I got the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills, and

"The disease was making great headway on my system until I got the Cuticura Remedies which have cleared my skin of the great pest. From the time the eczema healed four years ago, until now, I have never felt any of its pest, and I am thankful to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment which certainly cured me. I always use the Cuticura Soap for toilet, and I hope other sufferers from skin diseases will ket for the produce of the farm, Manuse the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Irven Hutchison, Three Rivers, Mich., Mar. 16, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold highly profitable branches. A Surmise.

"That," said the musician, "is a Stradivarius. It is worth thousands." "H'm!" replied Mr. Comrox, rather wearily. "I suppose music is something like the drug business. Things cost more when you call 'em by their Latin names."

The Difference. "Pop, will you tell me one thing?"

"Yes, son." "Is a mobile countenance the same

BACKACHE AND ACHING JOINTS. "ONE MILLION LEAGUE FOR MANITOBA."

The purposes of the "Million for Manitoba League" are set out in the fact that Manitoba wants more people. Today the population is less than five hundred thousand, and the determination of the representative men Kidney Pills, which of the Province to devote their best energies to increasing this to a million is a worthy one. There is already a widespread interest in every municipality; committees are appointed, whose duties are to secure such a thorough knowledge of local conditions that, whether the applicant for information be a laborer for the farm, a would-be tenant, a probable homesteader, the buyer of a small improved farm or the purchaser of a large tract for colonizing farmers, the information is at hand, free.

The advantages that Manitoba possesses are many, and with the exploitation that will be given them by the birth of this new acquisition to the settlement and immigration propaganda that is being carried on by the Dominion Government, there is no doubt that the establishment of the bureau will very soon bring about the results looked for. Manitoba is practically the gateway of the great grain belt of the West. Its farm lands have demonstrated time and again that they have a yielding value that practically makes them worth over one hundred dollars per acre. Added to the yielding value of the land, there is an increased value on account of its nearness to markets, and the matter of freight rates is carefully considered by the cautious buyer. But the information more valuable to the incoming settler is that it still has an immense amount of vacant fertile land open for homesteads. This dispels the idea that free homesteads in Manitoba are about exhausted. In addition to this, the territory recently added to the Province will open up a homesteading area which when filled should fully satisfy the "Million for Manitoba League." Within the old boundaries there is an area of 47,360,-000 acres, less than six million acres of the 161/2 million acres occupied being under cultivation. At present there CUTICURA REMEDIES are over 20 million acres of available land capable of being put under the plough. If in every one of the 195,000 vacant quarter sections of the Province an average family of four persons were placed, there would be added a rural population of nearly 800,000. So give any relief. When the trouble first there is room for additional hundreds began, my wrist and shin itched like of thousands on the farms of Manipoison. I would scratch those places toba, without any possibility of conuntil they would bleed before I could gestion. The population per mile in get any relief. Afterwards the places lowa is 39.4, in Minnesota it is 23.5.

A glance at the map, copies of which well supplied with railways. There line: elevators are convenient, and markets are always good. The growing of grain, while a big feature in enforced by the great possibilities that exist in all portions of the Province, for the raising of stock, for dairying, they seemed to be just what I needed. for hogs, and for a successful class of mixed farming, and what gives additional interest is the fact that there is so much land in the Province open for free homesteading that improved farms in almost all of the 98 municipalities can be purchased at very low figures. Many of the owners of these have made sufficient upon which to retire and are becoming residents of the cities. In addition to the export maritoba has a number of large cities and towns providing a splendid local market. Truck and garden farming are is a city bordering on 200,000. Brandon is a splendid centre, Portage la Prairie is the hub of an excellent district, and Yorkton, Minnedosa, Dauphin, Morden, Manitou and a dozen other towns are important help as consumers.

The Dominion and Provincial immigration officials are working in strong sympathy with the "Million for Manitoba League," and in addition to the general literature sent out by the Government, the League has prepared pamphlets giving useful and concise information, which on addressing the Secretary, Million League, Winnipeg, Manitoba, will be forwarded free.

Paradoxical Politics. "There is one odd thing about the English candidates for parliament." "What is that?"

"They stand for a seat."

Equivocal. "What's in that report about private still in the mountains near your place?"

"Oh, that's all moonshine."
