A Few Opinions

ARTICLES in this column are furnished by citizens of Artesia and Vicinity. They are intended for the betterment of our condition and no foolishness will be tolerated. We extend an invitation for a contribution to this column by any citizen who has good intentions for the betterment of our surrounding. The authors names will not be published. The origin of all articles must be known by the editor to appear in this column.

A town is no bigger than the disinterested, intelligent, co-operative spirit in it. It must have brain, heart muscle. The brain says "We must find some way to make our town a better town, a more desirable place of residence;" The heart says—"What I like for myself! I must want for the whole community—I want to improve the condition of the whole Artesia." The muscle says: "I will work and work hard to that end."

Not many days ago my brother-in-law asked a man whom he met in Amarillo if he knew Artesia. This was his answer: "Artesia is a town of abandoned houses."

Ponder on that—if it could be arranged so that these houses could be repaired and painted and the town advertised in just the way and columns of the big Sunday dailies as a health resort, they would soon be filled.

You know the four principles of salesmanship can be applied to nearly all problems.

How can we put Artesia on the map?

What have we that we can sell the world at large? It is the best climate on earth? Let us then set about applying the four principles of salesmanship to Artesia. They are: Attract attention. How can we attract attention to Artesia honestly and fairly? Arouse interest, create desire to live here? Inspire resolve.

Read the article in the American about the man who had been ordered by the Government to wreck a town which had been used during the war for manufacturing purposes but which had been deserted after the war. Instead of wrecking it he repaired and advertised it as a desirable place to live. "Without vision the people perish."

Lets get busy and sell Artesia to the world—not what we expect to have but what we really possess.

Every citizen should be as loyal to the Commercial Club. It should be the brains of our town. Women should be asked to join and appointed on committees. Intelligent co-operation, willing service—unselfish loyalty will improve Artesia.

RUTH F. SKEEN.

ARTESIA, OUR TOWN.

Dear Mr. Editor:

You asked me for a suggestion for the improvement of our town. Well there are many things that I would like to suggest; such as paving Main Street, putting in a White Way and Sewerage System; buying the old Feed Yard for a park; putting in a swimming Pool etc., but they say these are hard times and we cant afford to do all these things. Perhaps that is true. But there is one thing that they can do that will not cost a DOLLAR, and that I believe would be one of the greatest advertisements we could give our town. A week ago about 45 men met and in three hours cleared away an "Eye sore" that has embarrassed many of us in the past. That place is gone lets not mention the name of it again. Lets call it the PARK, from now on. This is what I propose; The Council has already given orders to cut the weeds and clean up the alleys; that is good. I hope the fellow who don't do his part will have to pay a fine for his neglect. But there is one problem to meet. There are so many vacant lots in town owned by non-residents. These lots are non-productive and collect for the expense of cleaning the Council cant levy on them and them off, so what are we going to do, just let them alone? No lets have a weed cutting every week until there is not a weed patch left in town. Lets ask the Council to declare a Half Holiday once each week and brand every merchant and business man in town as a slacker who dont come out and help to clean up town. Paint him YELLOW if he isn't loyal enough to help clean up his town, for he is already yellow on the inside.

We can even clean up the town without a holiday, with the stores closing at six o'clock, an hour and a half each evening for a week will clean up the town, if every able bodied citizen will turn out and help. Lets not let a weed patch go to seed this fall and next year it will not be so hard to keep the town clean. What do you say men? I will be with you until the last weed patch is cut and burned. If you are for it write or phone the Editor and he will set the date to begin.

DO YOU KNOW

What a real park means to a town like Artesia?

WHAT A REAL PARK IS, as contemplated by the builders?

That it includes not only a beauty spot, but

A place where mother may take the little ones to play on the lawn, paddle in the pool of water, enjoy the shade get a real rest from household duties herself and meet the neighbors in friendly intercourse without the trouble of dressing for the occasion—

OLDER BOYS AND GIRLS swim in the bathing pool, play tennis, croquet or other games exercise in the gym, in fact revel in all beautiful sport—

AND THE YOUNG LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—Oh Boy—a nice, clean, roomy building, where they may collect any time around the piano or victrola, and have any kind of an impromptu social evening in really home like surroundings.

DO YOU KNOW THAT ONLY ONE young man out of ONE HUNDRED who entered the army from farm life returned to the farm after the war ended?

WHY?—mostly because farm life lacked the amusement feature of City life.

WHY not give them what they little ones to play on the lawn, WE CAN, IF WE WILL.

WE WILL WE ARE SURE..... your money, right now.

Get behind the park builders with DON'T WAIT to be asked—its your park, for your children and your neighbors children.

DON'T YOU WANT TO LIVE in the best City in N. M.?

THIS IS ONE WAY to make it so. We have the shade, the water, the drainage to make an ideal park, shall we forget it?

NOT YET SHALL WE USE IT YOU BET

Lets make a record for the quickest financial campaign ever put across.

AND THEN WATCH your park grow.

WE'RE GETTING OLD WE'D LIKE TO GET OUR FEET IN THE WE MAY.

OLE' SWIMMING HOLE WHILE A CITIZEN.

The city of Artesia is dead. So proclaimed the black crepe that hung half-way down from the top of the Ozark Trail Monument, Monday morning July 25, 1921, together with the epitaph:

Artesia, born nineteen hundred D. C., died nineteen hundred twenty-one, D. C. of Oillitis.

The sight was witnessed by a hundred or more of the citizens of this community, and thus far I have not learned whether our most efficient undertaker, Mack, was the instigator of such an act or not. Neither have I learned which doctor had pronounced the life giving pulse of this community no longer flowed, and that being the case death had surely followed. (I must say here that on all deaths that I have been a witness the doctor pronounced the patient dead and that the undertaker invariably hung out the crepe.)

But let us get down to business. Is Artesia dead? I must admit that there is something vitally wrong. Otherwise would anyone have gone to the trouble of informing us worthy citizens that Artesia is dead? But I myself, do not believe that Artesia is wholly dead, body, soul and mind. I believe that there is at least some spark of life left somewhere among the smouldering ashes. But, what is the matter? Surely you cannot expect anything to continue to live by sitting around with folded hands complaining that times are hard and telling every outsider that this is the dearest burg you have ever been in, can you? You expected to see some day a great oil field here, and you knew when oil did come that this burg would be a lively one. But what did you do while waiting for this to come to pass? Oil is not the only thing that can make this a good live little city. Of course you ask what could you have done, believing that there was nothing that you could possibly have done. Why didn't you come out and vote at the city elections and thereby see to it that the right men filled the chairs? Why didn't you take an interest in the Commercial Club and help the men who are trying to make this a better town to live in? Why don't you take an interest in the community by helping along the schools and other things?

I could name several things more that each citizen could do that you have never thought you had anything to do with it. But what we all want to do now is to get into these things, put your shoulder to the wheel and push. That means that every one, man, woman, and child, otherwise the undertaking will be a failure. So lets resurrect Artesia, if it is dead by doing things and not by sitting around with hands folded and talking things.

ARTESIA NEEDS A HOSPITAL.

There is three institutions that people look for before moving to a new home especially is this true in this country.

First the church, second the school, third the hospital. We have the first two but the hospital we need.

Sickness meets with us away from home as well as at home, and as we cannot live to ourselves alone we must help the other fellow, and receive help, so let us all take hold, and help sustain a good home for the sick.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

The Advocate received 100 pounds of paper from Oklahoma City this week by express. The package wrapped according to our receipt weighed 112 pounds. We paid $5.07 express on this package. How much longer will the people stand for such charges? Harding signed up peace papers a few days ago and it might be suggested he inform the express companies the war is over.

Hapsburg Liebe

Hapsburg Liebe (Charles Haven Liebe), a native of the Tennessee mountains has been soldier, timberjack and sawmill man. In his education he was denied even the little red school house, his alma mater being a log structure in the hills, which he left by way of a window at twelve years of age. But he had a taste for reading and has acquired a fine command of English and a writing style through study of the best authors.

At seventeen he commenced writing and turned out eighteen stories, all rejected by the editors. He was almost discouraged; but his nineteenth effort stuck with a respectable magazine. Lack of education made the way doubly hard, but now when he sells all he writes, he will tell you that the experience was worth all it cost.

Gritty! Indeed he is! At eighteen he joined a regiment for service in the Philippines. Time to entrain found him ill with pneumonia. Against the wishes of his captain and the orders of his doctor he accompanied the outfit, being carried to the cars by his buddies. Most of his stories are about the Tennessee and Kentucky mountaineers. They are his people and better than any other writer, he knows and loves them. "The Clan Call," his most delightful tale, will soon start as a serial in this paper. Your misfortune if you miss it.

THE OUTPUT OF THE BROWN WELL

Since the Pecos Valley Oil & Gas Co., set the packer in the Brown well, formerly known as the Hammond well and went to pumping it there has been many different statements made in regard to the amount of oil produced. It has been variously put at from 25 to over a hundred barrels per day. Those in charge of the well were inclined to act mysterious and say nothing and sometimes objected to outsiders looking at the well, even through a telescope. But things will eventually work out and now we are prepared to give out the following on good authority:

The company has contracted to the Oriental plaster mill 25 barrels per day, the light plant at Artesia 15 barrels per day, the Artesia laundry 2 barrels, Dayton Petroleum Co., 10 barrels and consume 6 barrels themselves, a total of 58 barrels contracted daily.

The above article was taken from the Dayton Informer, a paper published at Dayton, New Mexico, March 21, 1913. It shows what the Brown well was doing then and it is believed by many that it could even go better at the present time if given another chance. The well is still spouting oil today and has for years. The old paper was handed us by young Mr. Kaiser of near Dayton.

Miss Thelma Clayton is visiting friends in Dallas, Texas.

PLAY THE GAME FAIRLY.

A local paper has criticized us for favoring a protective tariff on oil. Crude oil has fallen from $3.50 per barrel to $1.00 per barrel. The industry is paralyzed.

The public is told that the Journal line by a protective tariff of 35 cents per barrel. A barrel of crude oil contains 42 gallons. At its present price it is worth about two and one-half cents a gallon. The proposed tax would add less than a cent a gallon to its price.

A modern refinery extracts about 48 gallons of gasoline from a barrel of Oklahoma crude. It performs that operation at an expense of a fraction of a cent a gallon. If the gasoline paid the whole cost of the barrel of oil and the refining the gasoline would carry a cost of five cents a gallon. The tariff would make the cost seven cents a gallon.

In Albuquerque gasoline costs twenty-six and one-half cents at retail. The independent retailer is not allowed to make over two cents a gallon. The cost of transportation from Oklahoma is about six cents a gallon, which is too high. But, at that, five and two and six make thirteen. Who makes the difference?

The present price of the retailed product is due to distributive manipulation and not to the original cost of the crude oil. All talk to the contrary is buncombe.

The Standard Oil crowd are not big producers in the United States. They specialize on distribution. But they are large producers in Mexico and want to import crude, without a tariff, in order to depress independent production in this country.

The Standard crowd belongs to the National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico, with whom Secretary Fall has intimate relations as a friendly correspondent. He frankly plays the game of this association. Only those who will not see, cannot see the lay of the land.

Our critic, which chides us for favoring a tariff on oil, has heretofore been a frantic supporter of Senator Bursum. It has regarded him as infallible. The Journal has in its possession a message from the senator saying he favors a reasonable tariff on crude oil. How about it?

Why be so inconsistent as to favor a tariff on hides and dressed meats, to aid our cattlemen and then oppose a tariff to help an equally prostrated industry?

Lets play the game fairly.—Albuquerque Journal.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S PICTURE IS TURNED TO THE WALL.

From Oklahoma City comes the story that a prominent Republican leader of Oklahoma has turned the portraited face of President Harding to the wall in his office and declared that he is done with an administration "that has resolved to deliver the United States entirely into the hands of the Standard Oil Co." The oil writer who sends this information is reliable and undoubtedly the story is true.

That is one of numerous actual happenings in oil circles during the last few days, as independent operators faced the defeat of the proposed tariff on foreign crude oil and its products.

Scores of representative Republicans are joining Democrats in condemning the president for his attitude on the oil tariff.

"I am a lifelong Republican and came from Pennsylvania," says the general manager of one of the leading refining companies in Oklahoma, "and I gloried in the great Republican victory in Oklahoma last year, but say without fear that the party has sacrificed itself on the oil tariff cross. It needs't ask for anything in Oklahoma next year."—Oil and Gas News.

THE CHAUTAUQUA

has come and gone and many of our people are better satisfied than ever with the Radcliffes. Business conditions and the busy season with the farmers militated against the financial success of the Chautauqua but the entertaining and instructive features were nothing lacking and can be made equally satisfactory. As it is the burden falls upon the it is hoped if another is held next year that the financial conditions fifty public spirited citizens who must bear the burden in order to bring something really worth while to Artesia.

The program this year followed along the lines formerly adopted by the Radcliffe's of community and nation building, and the lectures given along these lines by Mr. Edward Tomlinson.

Dr. Adams, the director, and Dr. Harry Hirschman, were upon a high plane, while all of them contained constructive criticism together with much of inspirational and educational value, the last lecture, that of Dr. Hirschman upon "America's Industrial Ideal," gave much food for thought to the serious members of his audience. The work the Radcliffes are doing along national educational lines must inevitably result in a better America with a more intelligent and patriotic citizenship.

The purely entertaining features were quite satisfactory, the Oakley Trio, the Emerson Winters Company, the Magicians, Milburn, etc., all being good in their line.

The "Americans-All" attachment while putting on a very pleasing entertainment were part of the big idea of nation building. After witnessing the great improvement in these boys wrought by a few months schooling in the army, the beholder is deeply impressed with the value of the work done by the government in transforming these unlettered native youths and foreigners into intelligent and loyal citizens of the Republic.

There are, no doubt, Chautauquas with more amusing features, but it is safe to say one that bring more helpful ideas than the Radcliffes.

PERSON RETURNS.

"Duke Ferson" returned to town Saturday night from Cloudcroft where he has been holding down the position of night clerk at the Lodge, popular hotel at that place for some time. He reports that a great number of tourists are now coming there for the hot season, but had been rather quiet there for several weeks in the hotel line. He came back by the way of El Paso and made several trips into Mexico while there. He also says that Juarez is more popular than ever, thousands of Americans going over the bridge daily, that place being really an "oasis" and reminds him of the balmy days of southern California.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barry and two children of Alva, Okla. were the guests this week of Mrs. Barry's sister, Mrs. M. P. Skeen.

A CITY'S MOST USEFUL CITIZEN

Just now a number of Oklahoma communities are engaged in selecting their most useful citizen. The idea is a fine one—to show an appreciation to some one while he is living for the service he has rendered the community. But the rules which in almost every instance seem to guide the final selection are ridiculous, or would be were they not so tragic in consequences.

Had you observed how, in almost every instance where such a selection has been made the choice falls upon mere wealth? Can you, in fact, point to a single exception? Which means of course, that the choice falls on the most selfish individual in the community.

Because in ninety-nine cases out of every hundred the accumulation of great wealth is foundationed on selfishness of the most aggravated type. That isn't community service at all. Such a citizen doesn't really contribute to the reputation of achievements or welfare of a community.

As a matter of fact, the most outstanding service rendered a community is not measured in dollars and cents, although the expenditure of money as opposed to its accumulation and possession, is very frequently the outward sign of genuine service rendered. The man who merely uses his opportunities in a community to accumulate vast sums of money is not infrequently the community's most outstanding enemy, and so appears in the final analysis.

The proneness, however, to accept financial success as a qualification for distinction is well nigh universal in America at this time. From that class men are deliberately selected on whom to heap honors of all kinds, from mere party honors to the highest brassards of governmental authority.

It is not only an indefensible practice for which the people themselves are alone to blame, but it is a dangerous policy that sooner or later will lead to vast trouble. What a man is and does must be the shibboleth of a free people rather than what he has if they are to retain their liberty, independence and dispense exact justice.—Tulsa World.

Embalming the Bonus Bill.

One of the best evidences that this Congress does not intend to revive and pass the Soldiers' Bonus Bill is the fact that it rejected an amendment setting a date when the bill should be reported back.

How effectively the bill was disposed of, so far as this Congress is concerned, was humorously stated by Senator Reed (Dem., Mo.), when he declared that "in sending it back in that way it will be as effectively killed and as thoroughly dead as Julius Caesar," and then said:

If there is a spark of life left in it, when the veins are filled with the Penrose embalming fluid the Angel Gabriel could not resurrect it. It will be in as bad a condition as the corpse of the mother-in-law was after it had been treated in accordance with the request of the son in law in the very ancient story—which is the only kind I know—when he replied to a telegram "Mother is dead. Shall I cremate, embalm or bury?" And he replied, "Do all three. Take no chances."

A Man was heard to make this remark a few days ago: "If Artesia paves in front of my business property I will deed my property away." If Artesia paves her main street the Advocate has about a dozen on the waiting list for this property. But on the other hand, remember this: If she does not pave, the parties do not want it as a gift.

"Ouija! What's the good word?"

MY YOUNG sister,
HAS A Ouija board,
AND SHE believes it,
AND TALKS to Noah,
AND I think she talks,
TO HER best fellow,
WHO'S DEAD but doesn't know it,
AND I used to give her,
THE LOUD, rude laugh,
BUT I'M sorry now,
BECAUSE LAST night,
I WAS home alone,
SO I got the board,
AND PUT in a call,
FOR JOHN Barleycorn,
AND OTHER departed spirits,
BUT THE line was busy,
FOR NOTHING happened,
THEN I cheated a little,
AND IT spelled this,
"GRAMMASHOTTA SEVEN."

SO I shut off quick,
TO HEAD off any,
FURTHER FAMILY scandal,
THEN I stopped to smoke,
A CIGARETTE,
AND AFTER a while,
I CRANKED up weejee,
AND ALL of a sudden,
IT STARTED off,
AND QUICK as a flash,
IT SAID something,
"THEY SATISFY."

"SATISFY"—that's the good word. Just light up a Chesterfield and see what experts can do with fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos when they blend them in that can't-be-copied Chesterfield way. You'll say "they satisfy."

Did you know about the Chesterfield package of 10?

Most all towns have their "village jokers." Artesia being no exception. Anyway the parties who did the crepe hanging on the Ozark Trail Monument Sunday night had considerable pep and energy, for it was no small task in climbing the shaft, designing the crepe layout and painting of the sign, besides the loss of several hours of sleep, for parties passing the monument at 3 o'clock in the morning say that the slab had not been decorated at that hour.

Day Is Saved by Golf Ball

Amateur Champion Sees His Shot Go True by Remarkable Roundabout Drive.

MOUSE IS CAUSE OF IT ALL

Champ Huris Ball at Fleeing Rodent, Misses, Ball Rebounds, Hitting Waiter, Who Drops Tray and That Ends Mouse.

Chicago.—Seated about a table at dinner in a loop restaurant recently, three Hammond residents carried on an animated conversation about golf.

Earlier the talk had dealt with animals, a official ice and Admiral Sims' speech, but had veered around due to a sincere effort on the part of two women present to please their male escort, Freddie Beckman, champion amateur golfer of Hammond.

Since this story deals particularly with Freddy, it must be understood he has several laudable characteristics and accomplishments. Beckman really is a good golfer. Back in civilization he is at a disadvantage because of his acute bashfulness, but this affliction is remedied for him in circumstances demanding instant action.

Beckman was very polite and nodded briskly whenever he was appealed to during the golf discussion, but significantly failed to register enthusiasm.

Golf Ball to Rescue.

It was just after the conversation had swung back to animals that Beckman's moment came. His companions, Mrs. Elene Meyn and "L. M.," had just finished their dessert when an uproar arose near the band.

A woman shrieked and another and a third. As one person, patrons of that entire end of the restaurant rose to their feet and mounted chairs.

"It's a mouse and coming this way," cried Mrs. Meyn to Freddy.

There was no question it was a second just made for the amateur golf champ of Hammond. His hand stole into his coat pocket and brought out a golf ball. It was one he had made a hole in "1" with just the day before, and he was keeping it as a souvenir.

Balancing the ball in his hand, he gazed earnestly at the fleeing rodent, headed straight for him. Then he swung his arm in a long underhand stroke and let the ball fly.

It flew across the ten feet of space between Freddy and the mouse with a swish. Perhaps the mouse moved a trifle or maybe the ball was not exactly round—at any rate, the shot missed by a hair.

Gets the Rodent.

A gasp went up, and ended in a shout of wild laughter, for the ball, striking the wall with a thump, bounded back and fitted snugly in the exact middle of a rotund waiter's anatomy.

The waiter had remained to all appearances petrified after the first shriek, following the discovery of the rodent, but at the advent of the golf ball he bounded up with a howl. A platter of food and drink in his hands fell to the floor and his moans rose louder as he saw the extent of the casualties.

As the platter fell, Beckman watched it with pop eyes, and then, as the last echo of the crash died away, he murmured to his companions: "By gosh, I got that mouse after all."

Yes, you have guessed it—the platter killed the mouse. Freddy's shot cost him $7.70 and a golf ball, however.

WALES GETS FEUDAL GIFTS

Ceremonies 600 Years Old Are Revived on Visit of Prince to Cornwall.

Launceston, Cornwall, England.—Picturesque feudal ceremonies of 600 years ago were revived here when the prince of Wales, who is also duke of Cornwall, paid a visit to the old-time capital of his duchy. Launceston has been a royal borough since about 1086.

The ceremonies included the presentation of rent and "offerings of fealty" in kind, according to ancient custom. The mayor presented to the prince 100 shillings and one pound of pepper on a silver dish.

To Sir Hugh Molesworth St. Aubyn fell the duty to offer a brace of greyhounds. According to ancient usage, they should be pure white, but the nearest obtainable approach was a well-matched piebald couple.

Another ducal tenant tendered a pair of gilt spurs, and others present-

Octopus Seizes Boy, Who Is Saved by Sister

Eureka, Cal.—Word reached here that a 16-foot octopus was killed at Samoa, Humboldt county, after it had seized in its tentacles eight-year-old George Peterson, son of a Eureka tug captain. The octopus lashed out with the other tentacles and wrenched an ear from the hands of a sister, who was trying to rescue the lad. With another ear she stunned the animal, which loosened its hold on the boy and crawled to nearby rocks, where it was beaten to death.

ed a pound of cumin, a salmon spear, a faggot of wood, a pair of white gloves and a rose.

Strangest of all these curious terms of tenure is one requiring the representatives of the manor of Swannacot and St. Mary Week to present themselves at the ducal court clad in mantles of goatskins. The present-day incumbent, Beahuel Hutchings, stoically endured this attire over the ordinary clothes on a broiling hot day. His appearance suggested a blend of a modern country tourist and Robinson Crusoe.

The prince, much amused at the variety of gifts, solemnly "confirmed all the loyal tenants in their holdings."

TWO SWEEP THROUGH TUBE

Erie Workers Carried Nearly a Mile When Temporary Dam Lets Go in Storm.

Erie, Pa.—Carl Henderson and Axel Mackl, employed in the construction of the Mill creek water tube, were swept nearly a mile through the 18-foot concrete tube when a temporary dam let go during a terrific rainstorm.

Both men were working inside the big tube when the dam let go. They were carried to the lake and thrown out upon the sand. Both will recover. Nearly an inch and a half of rain fell in 20 minutes, flooding many cellars and interfering with traffic.

DECISION OF LANDIS WILL STOP HOLDOUTS

Player Has No Chance of Increase in Pay.

Sentiment in Rank and File Towards Reviving Players' Fraternity—Judge Taft Is Suggested as Head of Organization.

When Commissioner Landis handed down his decision in the Groh case he made ball players gasp. They saw the hand-writing on the wall, which meant the end of holdouts, writes Richard Guy in the Pittsburgh Leader. "Why," began one certain player, who ranks high in the National league, "if a player wants a raise in pay he does not have a chance to get it now. If he refuses to sign the club will let him stay idle and then when he does sign he has lost all the time between the opening of the season and the signing of his contract."

I asked the player what action would be taken, and the reply was that there is sentiment in the rank and file towards reviving the Players' Fraternity.

"The Fraternity must be headed by a young star in the majors," continued the star. "If an older player were selected the club owners would ditch him quickly, but they could not a young star. My idea is to have a celebrity like Judge Taft serve as the head of the organization and handle all cases."

The player added that early in the spring there was considerable whispering in the ranks of the players with the aim of reorganizing, and now that the Groh case has been handled in a manner that does not give any comfort to the athletes there is expected to be a revival in the talk of effecting an organization.

NO AID TO BABE RUTH

The lively ball aids Babe Ruth less than his rivals.

Big Bam has the might to swat homers without the aid of extra cork and rubber.

He gets fewer good balls to hit at than the other would-be long-distance swatters.

If he got his share, he'd be getting his one or possibly two swats per day.

Babe isn't getting a square deal. But, despite that, he is doing a fair business.

And before the end of the year he ought to knock his record of 54 into a cocked hat—that is, unless they quit pitching to him altogether.

DECLARES MOSTIL IS CRACK

Clarence Rowland, former manager of the White Sox and present leader of the Columbus club in the American association, is enthusiastic over Johnny Mostil, who comes to the Sox from Milwaukee. Rowland says that in a short time Mostil will be the best batter from the right side of the plate in the American league on base hits.

"Gleason is particularly fortunate in getting Mostil," said Clarence. "He is a brilliant fielder, a swift and sure thrower to the infield, and he is fast as greased lightning on the bags. I latched him for $150 in 1918 and I'm betting he sets the league afire one of these days."

MANAGER DONOVAN IS OPTIMISTIC

Manager Bill Donovan of the Phillies is an optimistic bird. He believes that eventually he will build up a winning club for the Quakers. Donovan denies that his boss, the well-known Mr. Baker, is a "tight wad" and has refused to open the purse strings for players. He said:

"Mr. Baker is willing to spend money—but where are you going to get ball players of known major league caliber? I had a trade on with St. Louis for Janvrin, but they demanded a pitcher that I refused to give up. I intend to keep plugging along and believe that some day the old hard luck tale will turn into the sunlight."

Baseball Notes

They call Tris Speaker Spoke, but he is really the hub of the Cleveland Indians.

Some fans forget that it would be no race at all if the home team won all the time.

The veteran Edgar Wislett, once of the Detroit Tigers, is the manager of an independent team at Ogden, Utah.

The Quigley umpire in the Southwestern league is a younger brother of Ernest Quigley of the National league staff.

Portland made room for Julie Mee by transferring infielder Haxen Patton to Victoria of the Pacific International league.

When the Cubans get so excited they have a riot and kill three at a funeral, what would they do at an extra-inning ball game?

Doubting Thomases about the lively ball will take note that Maurice Rath knocked a home run in Seattle. That settles it.

Manager Fred Mitchell says the Braves would win the National league pennant if they had two more winning pitchers.

The veteran Jimmy Cockman who makes his home in Guelph, Ont., has been appointed a substitute on the Mine league staff of umpires.

Jesse Tannehill, now baseball coach of Center college, Danville, Ky., has recommended a pitcher to the St. Louis Cardinals named Allen Frank.

Pitcher Lefty Wilkus, sent to Terre Haute by the St. Joseph club, seems to have found company to his liking, for he is pitching good ball in the Three-I.

When Babe Adams committed a balk in the game of June 16, it was his first, according to one statistician. In all his years of major league service.

The Cincinnati club has a new first baseman on trial. He is Wallace Laws, a Kansas City youngster recommended by Johnny Kling and Ad Brennan.

Arthur Irwin is boosting his young second baseman, Heine Scheer. The Hartford manager says Scheer is the best looking youngster he has seen in years.

While the Cleveland Indians were in Boston Tris Speaker picked up a pitcher named Langstroth, who was an aviator in the Canadian army during the war.

Charley (Rube) Lutzke, sent by Indianapolis to a club in the Three-I league, which turned him back after a brief trial, was then taken on by Kansas City.

Howard Ehmke in his wild moments is bad medicine for batters. He broke Jimmy Austin's arm, then smashed Steve O'Neill's finger and now his latest victim is Wally Schang, whose arm was cracked when one of the Detroit pitcher's shots landed on it.

ASSISTANT TO COACH DOBIE

Gilmour Dobie's assistant in coaching the Cornell football team will be Clyde Mayer of Williamsport Pa., who graduates from the university this year. Mayer has played halfback on the varsity team for two seasons, and last fall was acting captain. He was also captain of the baseball team this spring, and president of the student council. Besides winning a high place in athletics, he is an honor student.

INTERESTING SPORT NOTES

Lucian E. Williams of Chicago won the Connecticut state tennis title.

The Country club of Brookline, Mass., has been awarded the amateur golf tournament for 1922.

Fred Walker, former University of Chicago athlete, will become athletic director at DePauw university.

Orville Hewitt, Pittsburgh, has been elected captain of the 1922 track team of the University of Pittsburgh.

After reading the latest news from across the Atlantic, we should say that our amateur sportsmen are better at the chucker than at the putter.

The Harmsworth trophy, the $5,000 cup emblematic of the world's powerboat championship, has been stolen from its strong box at the Detroit Yacht club.

Frank J. Shea closed his career as a University of Pittsburgh athlete when he won the quarter-mile event at the National Collegiate A. A. U. at Chicago.

Pauvo Nurmi, the Finnish champion long-distance runner, covered six mi in 29 minutes 41.2 seconds at St.holm. He ran ten kilometers, or 6.21 miles in 30 minutes 40.2 seconds. Both are claimed to be new world records.

If the portrait of the British open golf champion is a good likeness, it must be admitted that the player who tries to imitate his driving position will have to toe in until his feet look backwards.

REDS LOOK TO SOUTH AMERICA

Bolshevik Leaders See Final Haven of Refuge in Our Neighboring Continent.

SAY LENIN IS WEAKENING

Intercepted Correspondence of Communist Officials Shows That Many Octobrists Are Sending Their Families Aboard.

Reval, Esthonia.—According to recently intercepted correspondence from communist officials in Moscow to communist agents abroad; advising them of the "inside situation" in Russia, South America is looked on as a final haven of refuge by many of the less hopeful Bolshevik leaders in event Russia becomes too hot for them.

One of these letters, recently published in a Reval newspaper, the Poslednie Novosti, advises one of the official's friends, who now is apparently

In Germany, to "convert your valuables into dollars as frequently as you can, or, better still, into South American currency."

Says Lenin is Weakening. "The Octobrists," the letter adds, meaning by them those communists who participated in the October (1917) revolution, "are frequently sending their families abroad. Soon, it may be, I shall send my wife across to you, in which case try to put her up as best you can."

Referring to the political situation, this communist wrote: "Illitch (meaning Lenin, that being, his middle name by which he is popularly known in Russia) is weakening. Zinovieff has grown too fat. Trotzky alone remains as of old the unrecognized Napoleon, but he is 'revolutionizing' also."

In connection with the sending abroad of the families of the Octobrists, this letter goes on: "Will you kindly keep a detailed account of their arrivals and of their means? Further, by a decision of the military department of the party, I want you to withdraw from the banks all the deposits at your disposal and put them in safe hands.

Bring it to Switzerland. "Bring to Switzerland a third of the 'iron fund' and hand it to B—. The rest can be left in Germany for any eventualities."

The writer constantly refers to the ruling councils of the Bolsheviks as "the Olympians," and remarks that "our Olympus is going the pace too fast."

"From January," he says, "the situation in the council of the party and in the central committee has come to a point to the last degree. The result of these conflicts was the expulsion of Comrades Krylenko, Bontch-Bourouvietch, Dubov, Blumenthal and many others. This was the last gesture of the gay party gods. For a word said against Illitch, Krestinsky or Zinovieff, even not in public, ostracism is imminent."

RACING FRAUD IN GERMANY

Promoters Fix Things So No One Else Gets Any of the Money.

Berlin.—Horse races in Germany generally were honest affairs before the war, but scandals are the rule nowadays. Typical of the rest were the recent Carlsrost races, under the auspices of the Strausberg Racing society, which so arranged matters as to keep not only all the purses but also the amounts of the totalization and registration fees.

Four horses ran in the so-called Fredersdorf race. When the jockeys had galloped over more than three-quarters of the distance they began trotting, so that the first horse arrived at the starting point seven and a half minutes after the agreed maximum time.

According to the rules no purse was paid and the money placed on the horses and the registration fees went to the treasury of the Strausberg Racing society.

Mrs. Mary J. Burton of Los Angeles is pointing, for the benefit of Miss Barbara Babcock of Salt Lake City, to the wonderful view of southern Utah's "Dixie country" as they stand on a high plateau. The girls are members of a party opening the new scenic road from Zion National park, Utah, to the south rim of the Grand canyon.

IMPORTANT NEED FOR MORE TREES

Three-Fifths of Primeval Forests Have Been Cut Away, Says Forester Greeley.

SUPPLY OF WOOD NECESSARY

Despite Fact That Many Substitutes Have Been Devised Demand for Timber Continues to Grow—Much Land Is Idle.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Timber depletion has now reached a point in this country where three-fifths of the primeval forests are gone and where 61 per cent of the timber that is left is west of the Great Plains, Col. W. B. Greeley, chief forester, forest service of the Department of Agriculture of the United States, recently told the members of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Liberal use of American forests was a necessary part of the commercial growth of this nation. Colonel Greeley believes, and reforestation should have been practiced, if not from the start, at least in late years. There is an abundant area of forest land in this country to support all industries, and a liberal supply of wood is most necessary to the people of this country. It was thought that, like the European countries, we would use, when our civilization was older, but one-third or one-half as much wood per capita as we did in the early days. But this rule does not affect the American people. The older the states and communities in this country grow the more timber they seem to require in one form or another.

Demand Continues to Grow.
Many substitutes have been devised for the country for timber continues to grow. More wood is used in construction today than before the discovery of concrete, and more wood is used in building railway cars than before the steel or part-steel car was developed. This is apparently true in nearly every industry.

Abundant and widely distributed forests have meant to the United States homes for the masses of the people beyond the standards of any other nation. They have placed newspapers and magazines on the average family table. They have contributed largely to social and industrial conditions which promote democracy and constructive energy rather than discontent and destructive social forces bred by hard and comfortless conditions of life.

The idleness of 81,000,000 acres of forest land, an area increased by 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 acres annually, destructive logging, and still more destructive forest fires are the factors at work to increase the timber shortage. Land Enough if Kept Growing Trees. The exhaustion of American timber has not come about because the forests have been used so freely but because of the failure to use forest-growing land. In a nutshell, the problem is that the United States is cutting wood out of its forests three or four times as fast as it is being grown. Much of the land on which timber stands or has been cut off will always be forest land. It is ample to grow all the wood needed for the use of the people of this country and for export trade in lumber and products manufactured from lumber, if the land can be kept at work growing trees. Timber for the future is simply a matter of putting idle land to work.

Every reasonable encouragement should be given to the landowner to grow timber on his own account in the ways best suited to his own purposes, but by some means or other the public must see to it that forest lands not needed for agriculture do not lie idle. The regulations imposed must be reasonable and equitable. Obviously the owner of the land cannot do it all. The public must aid him in overcoming the hazard of forest fires and must recognize that the present methods of taxing forests in many regions are equivalent to taxing a farm crop twice a week during the growing season.

DIFFERENT WAYS FOR GIRL TO MAKE MONEY

Poultry, Dairy or Garden Are Good Suggestions.

Parents Should Encourage Young Woman to Establish Herself as Semi-Independent Member of the Farm Family.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When a city girl feels the need of money—her own money, to pay for the things girls imagine they must have these days—she goes to work in an office, a store, or a factory, according to her education and opportunity. In the country a girl, with much the same longings for nice things and "good times," looks to the poultry yard, the milk house, or the garden for her spending money. If her parents are the right kind, if they are intelligent enough to help her and encourage her in her work, she will soon establish herself as a semi-independent member of the family. If, as often happens, the parents are not disposed to have such goings-on, and there is no home-demonstration agent, no girls' club, no extension work of any kind in the community, the country girl goes to the city and the farming regions have lost one more potential home and family.

No doubt exists in the minds of men and women of large experience in the extension work carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture in co-operation with state agricultural colleges that the economic appeal is the entering influence needed in getting their clubs or bureaus started in rural regions. Once the young people have learned a way to earn money the desire for the things it will buy asserts itself, and home betterments and improved living conditions follow naturally.

Down in Arkansas a girls' canning club started a contest to determine which of the members could produce the most tomatoes at the least expense, and with the lowest percentage of waste. Annet Sargo, on the Mount Valley route, near Hot Springs, grew 3,140 pounds of tomatoes on one-tenth of an acre, at a cost of $31.40 and net returns of $100. With the same expense her sister, Fannie, grew 3,020 pounds and had a net return of $107.89. Ada Rosamond grew 2,803 pounds, costing $27.42, with a net return of $78.68, and Ruby Waddell, at Bonnaville, had 3,070 pounds, costing $29.91, with net returns of $68.

HENS IN GOOSEBERRY PATCH

Fowls Will Do Much Toward Clearing Out Fruit-Worm From Under Trash in Garden.

One gooseberry insect we have with us that isn't easy to control is the fruit worm. It doesn't often become a serious pest but occasionally it has been known to take a whole crop. The worm eats into the partly grown berry and feeds on the pulp. Hand-picking is still the method used to hold this worm in check. Poultry ought to be turned into the gooseberry patch after the fruit is picked, as the hens will do a lot toward clearing the worms from under the trash. Poultry and fruit are a good combination when run right.

LIVE STOCK FLY REPELLENT

Care Should Be Exercised to Prevent Getting Mixture Too Strong, Causing Hair Shedding.

When mixing a repellent to put on the live stock to keep the flies away, care should be taken to prevent getting too strong a mixture. It may cause shedding of the hair. The following mixture has been found by the United States Department of Agriculture to give good results for a short time where applied lightly but thoroughly: One gallon of fish oil, two ounces of oil of pine tar, two ounces of oil of pennyroyal and one-half pint of kerosene. The horses and milk cows will appreciate some preparation.

RAISING FOWLS ON INSECTS

Good Plan for Farmers in Grasshopper Infested Regions to Use Turkeys and Guinea.

Turkeys and guinea fowl are voracious insect eaters. Would it not be a good plan for farmers in the grasshopper infested areas of the West to buy, rent or import all the birds of these breeds they possibly can, instead of poisoning the bugs?

DETERMINING WEIGHT OF AUTO

The photograph shows a "loadmeter," a new device for determining the weight of an automobile and at the same time acting as a jack when an emergency arises.

BLOW-OUT PATCH FOR USE IN EMERGENCIES

Using Temporary Repair Too Long Is Big Mistake.

It Should Be Removed and New Section Built in Tire to Enable It to Give Balance of Mileage of Which It Is Capable.

Using a blow-out patch too long is a costly one to motorists. This patch is a car owner's first and best remedy for a blow-out on the road, but it is a temporary and not a permanent repair.

A blow-out patch is only to assist in the roadside emergency. After the emergency is past, it should be removed and a permanent section built in the tire to enable it to give the balance of the mileage of which it is capable.

When the patch is made to answer the purpose of a permanent repair, the warping of the tire incident to contact with the road causes the patch to seriously chafe the inside of the carcass. The result is that where a small and inexpensive repair would have been sufficient if taken in hand at once, an expensive repair is now needed. And often the damage is beyond cure.

The fact that a blow-out patch is not built into the carcass, but is separate from it, increases its tendency to chafe the fabric, creating friction if a permanent repair is too long neglected.

The blow-out caused by a tread cut is usually a clean-cut hole. If it is ragged looking, a severe bruise is probably the cause. If the fabric is badly raveled and torn apart, fabric separation is often the reason.

The motorist who would escape this form of tire trouble should avoid running over broken glass; should guard against driving into curbs, along the road, and against rocks, and, above all, should have his tires regularly inspected by a competent tire surgeon.

YOU AUTO KNOW

The tread of an automobile is the same as the standard wagon tread.

The improper adjustment of valves or irregular ignition will cause jerky running of a car.

Front wheels are "under gathered," or narrower at the bottom than at the top, to permit easier steering.

To prevent trouble when driving screws into hard wood apply beeswax to the screw, thereby relieving the friction.

Some of the most important parts of a car and the parts most susceptible to wear if not properly watched are the bearings.

CAMP BY AUTOMOBILE TO AVOID HOT AND UNCOMFORTABLE HOTEL

Automobile Camping Is Made Possible by the Portable Bed, Table and Grate, Running Board of the Car.

To automobile owners who wish to avoid the uncomfortable hotel with its hot, stuffy rooms, the camping outfit illustrated makes its strongest appeal. It requires only a few minutes to set up camp, and the outdoor meal and sleep may be enjoyed even better than in the usual cramped, inconvenient, permanent camp.

Make Full-Sized Bed.

A full-sized, substantial bed is made by fitting lengths of 1-inch pipe together with side-outlet tees, to form a frame 5 by 6 1/2 feet. The pipe need not be screwed tightly into the tees, and can thus be taken apart easily. The two legs at the outer end are screwed into the tees and into floor flanges, which rest on the floor. The height of the legs depend on the height of the running board, to which the other end of the bed is attached by a bolt, as shown in the detail. The awning support is also in 1-inch pipe, with side-outlet tees at the corners. It is supported by short lengths of pipe, which screw into the pipe caps on the running board of the car, and into tees at the outer edge, or foot, of the bed. Sixteen-ounce canvas is used for the mattress, in which wide hems are sewed with very strong seams. The pipes at the side are slipped into the hems. At the ends the mattress is held by stout cords, laced through eyes in the canvas, so that it can be tightened and loosened as required. The awning is 8 or 10-ounce canvas, made like a tent to fit easily over the pipe frame. The sides should be made to roll up and fasten with straps. If these rolls are too long to carry conveniently the curtains may be cut in two and lapped over when in use.

Pleasures of Camp Fire.

Cooking over a camp fire is one of the pleasures of camping, and a good grate will diminish the danger of food falling into the fire. The grate shown in the sketch has a substantial 18 by 24-inch frame of 3-16 by 1 1/2-inch strap iron, bolted together at the corners. The legs are 12 by 4-inch strap hinges, bolted to the frame. Heavy 1/2-inch mesh wire screen is riveted to roll up and fasten with straps. It is only the work of a few seconds to set up the grate over a fire.

At meal times, the bed is quickly converted into a table. It is only necessary to provide five 3/4-inch boards 5 feet 2 inches long, and 12 inches wide. These are laid across the bed frame; grooves should be cut in the boards where they will rest on the pipes, to keep them from being pushed endways. The awning flaps roll up out of the way, and the food is protected by the awning above.

Store in Small Space.

Since all parts of the outfit can be taken down and the pieces stored in very little space it is possible to fit beds to both sides of the car, and thus provide for a party of four persons. The pipes and boards pack onto the running board, where they are held by stout straps. If the 6 1/2-foot pipes for the side of the bed are found to be too long to be carried easily, it is not difficult to cut them in two and telescope the ends into a piece of larger pipe at the joint in the middle, as shown in the detail. This method is much to be preferred to using an ordinary threaded coupling, which makes but a weak joint for such a purpose.

Practically no family which possesses a car need forego all the pleasures of camping, when the outfit can be so cheaply and easily made. It will pay for itself many times in added health and the pleasure derived.—P. P. Avery, in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

GOOD ROADS

FIND ASPHALT BY ACCIDENT

Discovered in Switzerland and Used for Purpose of Extracting Valuable Bitumen.

Asphalt, though covering thousands of miles of roads in all countries, was discovered quite by accident. In the middle of the last century it was found in Switzerland in its natural state, and used for the purpose of extracting the valuable store of bitumen it contained. In time it was noticed that pieces of rock which fell from the wagons, and were crushed by the wheels, formed a very fine road surface when half melted by the heat of the sun.

An experiment was made and a road of asphalt laid in Paris. It was so successful that the new road material became adopted through all the big towns of Europe.

All sorts of materials have been tried since, from rubber to seaweed. It is very likely, in fact, that in the future the streets of our big cities will be paved with some form of rubber mixture which will be practically noiseless. Very extensive experiments have already been carried out with such a mixture.

In New York several streets are paved with steel, and a steel road has been in use in Valencia, in Spain, for the last 20 years. Perhaps the most curious material for a road is seaweed. This compressed into solid blocks, is used to pave the streets of Baltimore. These seaweed blocks are bound with wire and dipped into boiling tar before being put to use.

DESTROY ROADSIDE WEEDS

Because—

1. They act as centers of weed infestation for adjoining fields.
2. They may be carried for many miles by passing vehicles and animals.
3. They harbor harmful insects and plant diseases.
4. They create insanitary conditions.
5. They are unsightly.

Methods for destroying roadside weeds, approved by specialists of the Weeds Along Roadside Harbor Injurious Insects and Various Plant Diseases.

United States Department of Agriculture, are:

1. Mowing twice a year while they are in full bloom, usually in June and August.
2. Utilizing the roadsides for growing hay.
3. Grazing with tethered animals.
4. Converting weedy roadsides into lawns.

GRADE ALL ROADSIDES SO THE WEEDS CAN BE CONTROLLED.

WIRE MESH GOOD FOR ROADS

British Army in Egypt Used Chicken-Wire in Building Temporary Routes in Sand.

The British army in Egypt has used chicken-wire in the construction of roads.

Loose sand was smoothed and leveled and then covered with chicken-wire, which was firmly pegged down. The passage of troops or motor transports seemed to affect the road very little, while the passage of animal-drawn vehicles damaged the improvised road badly. However, it was possible to make repairs quickly and the road was easily kept in good condition.

Of course this wire-mesh road was purely a temporary expedient for the military. The old Romans still hold the palm as the champion road-makers of the world. Many a foundation of the roads they made is still in use in Europe, the surface alone being modern.

Bad Roads in Way.

The planter—the farmer—needs to reduce the cost of transportation; the laborer to provide homes and cheaper living; the merchant wants the country air. What opposes? Roads—bad roads.—Dr. Seaman A. Knapp.

Line Highways With Trees.

Now is a fine time to make plans for lining the highways in your township with trees. Don't plant them too thick; fifty feet or more apart will do.

Uncle Walt's Story

Walt Mason

SPARING THE ROD

"As I came past Jimuelson's house this morning," said the assessor, "I saw him applying a buggy-whip to his fifteen-year-old boy with a zeal worthy a better cause. I think a man should be arrested and punished for such an offense."

"There are many arguments for and against corporal punishment," observed the village patriarch, "and those arguments have been handed back and forth for something like two thousand years, and the question is as far from being settled, at the hour of going to press, as it was when Caesar double-crossed the Rubicon."

"I believe that every man must be his own judge about the management of his family. Jimuelson strikes me as an excellent citizen, and he should be a successful parent. If he finds it necessary to wear out a buggy-whip on his heir, I have no doubt that the provocation is sufficient. If his policy is wrong he is pretty sure to realize it before long and change his tactics; meanwhile outsiders have no reason to butt in, and the idea of calling the police is perfectly ridiculous."

"My father was an old-fashioned man who believed that an ounce of birch was better than a ton of education. He kept a small sapling behind the kitchen door and applied it to my person whenever I violated the by-laws governing our happy home. I think he probably carried his theory to extremes; whipping me became a sort of dissipation with him. But I am willing to admit that his treatment did me good, and I can't imagine what would have become of me but for it."

"My mother believed in moral suasion, and used to plead and argue with me, but I can't remember that her tender eloquence ever prevented me from breaking into a melon patch or fishing in forbidden waters. Her method probably would have been successful in many cases. There are boys who are responsive to such appeals, but I was headstrong as a government mule and when I wanted to do something it took more than gentle counsel to head me off."

"I had a profound respect for that sapling behind the door. It always seemed to be quivering with impatience to get at me, and my father regarded it with loving glances. It used to mystify me how he heard of everything I did. There was no such a thing as concealing a crime or misdemeanor from him."

"I'd swipe a few apples from a farmer's orchard, for instance, and would be willing to make an affidavit that nobody had seen me. I took all possible precautions against discovery. Yet in the evening, when I got home, my stern parent would meet me at the door and say, 'So you have been robbing Farmer Dofunny's orchard, hey? You are fully aware that robbing orchards does violence to the peace and dignity of the state, and is contrary to the provisions of the revised statutes. Come, therefore, and receive the punishment prescribed by Solomon and other law givers.'"

"He always explained that it caused him the most poignant sorrow to pour the birch into me, but I couldn't believe in his sincerity, for his eyes sparkled with unseemly joy at such times, and if he had used the same enthusiasm when sawing wood, he'd have whacked up two or three cords in an hour."

"I don't know to this day how he found out everything I did, unless he did some quiet sleuthing with false whiskers and a dark lantern, but he always did discover everything, and when I fully realized that fact I decided to reform and became a model young man. I was so extremely good that my father couldn't dig up an excuse for chastising me, and a settled melancholy fell upon him and he pined away until he died. I'll never forget the reproachful glances he used to cast upon me, as though asking whether I considered my course honorable or generous. I got into the habit of being good, and have never been able to break away from it."

Jud Tunkins.

Jud Tunkins says the man who is too willing to take advice is liable to spend a whole lot of precious time listening to conversation.

The Only One on Him.

Cooper—It took Blodson five hours to drive three pigs out of his front garden last night.

Davies—Surely even Blodson could move quicker than the pigs?

Cooper—Oh, he found he could move faster than three pigs, all right; but not in as many directions.

Some Fine Apples.

S. W. Gilbert called at this office this morning and showed us some apples raised on his farm southeast of Artesia. They are the Cuse Bay Beauty variety and are certainly wonders. When it comes to apples they are certainly well named.

Apple shipping from the valley will soon be in full blast and Artesia and vicinity will derive considerable benefit from the sales. It is estimated there will be about 1200 cars shipped from this vicinity. The worst drawback is the high freight rate and it is said by shippers the Santa Fé offers no relief at this time and heads not the pleadings of the many. Is there not a good excuse for the masses to look upon the railroads and the present administration with scorn?

THE LIBERTY BELL.

THIS bell, the most treasured relic in the nation, was cast by a London bell founder, brought to America in 1752 and hung in the dome of the old state house in Philadelphia. It weighs about 2,000 pounds.

It was cracked by a stroke of its clapper while being tested and was re-cast in Philadelphia in 1753. Again it proved defective and again it was re-cast. The words "Proclaim Liberty Throughout All the Land Unto All the Inhabitants Thereof" are inscribed upon it.

Before the British occupied Philadelphia it was taken down and hid in the Delaware river, being removed later and returned to its former position.

It fulfilled the prophecy of its inscription when, in 1776 it rang out the glad tidings that the 13 states had ratified the Declaration of Independence.

For fifty years or more it rang in the celebration of every national anniversary. On July 8, 1835, while tolling for the funeral of Chief Justice Marshall, it cracked again and has been mute ever since.

So that all Americans might see this venerable and hallowed relic, it has been taken on many journeys. In 1884 it went to New Orleans, in 1893 to Chicago, in 1895 to Atlanta, in 1902 to Charleston, in 1903 to Boston, in 1904 to St. Louis, in 1915 to San Francisco, and more recently took part in a Liberty loan parade in its home town of Philadelphia.

It occupies a conspicuous position in Independence hall, Philadelphia, where visitors are welcomed.

Hapsburg Liebe

Hapsburg Liebe (Charles Haven Liebe), a native of the Tennessee mountains has been soldier, timberjack and sawmill man. In his education he was denied even the little red school house, his alma mater being a log structure in the hills which he left by way of a window at twelve years of age. But he had a taste for reading and has acquired a fine command of English and a writing style through study of the best authors.

At seventeen he commenced writing and turned out eighteen stories, all rejected by the editors. He was almost discouraged; but his nineteenth effort stuck with a respectable magazine. Lack of education made the way doubly hard; but now when he sells all he writes, he will tell you that the experience was worth all it cost.

Gritty! Indeed he is! At eighteen he joined a regiment for service in the Philippines. Time to entrain found him ill with pneumonia. Against the wishes of his captain and the orders of his doctor, he accompanied the outfit, being carried to the cars by his buddies. Most of his stories are about the Tennessee and Kentucky mountaineers. They are his people and better than any other writer, he knows and loves them. "The Clan Call," his most delightful tale, will soon start as a serial in this paper. Your unfortunate if you miss it.

FARMER'S WIFE NEARLY STARVED

Mrs. Peterson Says She Was Afraid to Eat on Account of Trouble That Followed.

"I weighed just a hundred and three pounds when I began taking Tanlac, but now I weigh a hundred and twenty-two pounds," declared Mrs. Amy Peterson, the wife of a prosperous farmer of Lakeville, Mass., a suburb of New Bedford.

"I had acute indigestion," she said, "and no one knows how I suffered. I had cramping pains in my stomach that were almost unbearable, and I suffered no end of distress from gas and bloating. Why, I was actually starving to keep from being in such awful misery, and I lost thirteen pounds in weight. Sometimes I wonder how I lived through it all, and I just thought there was no hope for me. I was restless night and day and was easily irritated, and some nights I slept so little it didn't seem that I had been to bed at all.

"But now I feel as strong and well as if I had never been sick a day in my life, and I just know Tanlac is the best medicine in the world. I haven't a touch of indigestion now, and every time I sit down to the table I can't help but feel thankful to Tanlac. I have a wonderful appetite and have gained back all my lost weight and six pounds besides. I am simply overjoyed to be feeling so well, and I just praise Tanlac everywhere I go."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

INTRIGUING US TO NEW STYLES IN EVENING GOWNS

HERE is a lovely evening gown, among the first to be presented with the stamp of the new season upon it. Its beauty is calculated to reconcile those who have questioned or opposed the edict of Paris which declares for long skirts this fall. But this gown, of American manufacture, reveals an excellent management of styles and materials—an understanding on the part of its designer that has resulted in a stately and altogether charming creation. The makers of suits and tailored dresses for street wear refuse to take the initiative in this matter of much-lengthened skirts—it is an occasion for self-determination on the part of the American woman—and for the street she will, in an likelihood decree for herself the shoe-top length.

The foundation of the gown pictured is a crepe weave, high-luster silk with drapery of Gulpure lace. The lace forms an overskirt and a graceful sort of mantle, ending in panels that are finished at the edges with a piping of silk. The bottom of the overskirt is also finished in this way. The neck of the silk underdress is round, with five narrow French folds forming a band about it. The lace overskirt is higher at the back than at the front, where there is no definition of the waist line, and a girde of wooden beads emphasizes the classic lines of the dress. A very simple and modern rosette of satin ribbon is posed at the right side. One can imagine the elegance of this model in black lace and white silk, or in dyed lace over harmonizing colors. It is an ideal dinner gown, adapted to all sorts of evening wear. Its lines are flattering to all figures.

The evening gown of black lace is the most useful of things in wardrobes that do not run to evening clothes, because it can be varied by the accessories worn with it—the sashes, girdles, fans and jewelry—may be in one or another color. Cream colored or white lace has this advantage also. Dyed laces are to be reckoned with for those who must have a variety of dinner gowns, made up with always dependable satins or crepes.

PARIS OFFERS NEW IDEAS IN WRAPS FOR SUMMER

THREE names, world-renowned in the realms of fashion are signed to these three wraps for summer wear. It is easy to see at a glance that each of them is made to be a practical protection in climates that are not always genial, even in summer time, and that they embody styles that are not too fleeting. Paris has presented many wraps of many kinds this summer; the late arrivals among them foreshadowing a changed silhouette for fall. With all the instability of styles, transitions cannot be too abrupt and the wise French know it.

The graceful coat at the left can never be entirely out of style. It is made of light weight wool coating in tan color, with long semi-fitted body and moderately full skirt portion. The military collar, front facing and border at the bottom are of dark brown fur. The plain coat sleeves set snugly to the arms and are finished with a row of round, covered buttons on the forearm. The skirt of this coat is open at the front, disclosing the dress under it.

This season will be remembered as one of capes and cape-like wraps. A cape of black satin lined with a lighter contrasting color is shown at the center of the picture. It has a scarf collar and long slits at the sides through which the arms may be thrust. For elegance and usefulness combined nothing excels a wrap of this kind.

The designer of the last wrap pictured must have cast a lingering and regretful glance backward—apparently he was hured by the long lines and casual adjustment of last winter's styles. This wrap is of smooth, beige-colored wool cloth with an emplacement of black satin, in a curious figure at the bottom. An applique of the lighter cloth on the black ground makes an effective decoration. The very full collar is apparently a ruffe of the coat material lined with black satin.

LOCKED HOURS IN BANK VAULT

Clerk Rescued in Unconscious Condition Is Revived by Pulmotor.

GOES TO THE MOVIES

When Questioned by His Parents Denies Thrilling Experience in Which He Was Near Death From Asphyxiation.

New York.—Locked in an air-tight steel vault far below the street level in the Metropolitan building, Twenty-third street and Fourth avenue, for nearly two hours, Frederick J. Schueer, Jr., a clerk in the Metropolitan bank, was rescued just in time to save his life. The boy was unconscious when lifted out. An ambulance surgeon from Bellevue hospital, who had been waiting more than an hour with a pulmotor, began work on him.

The lad, suffering when he first revived, from shock and hysteria, made such a rapid recovery that after he reached his home at 109 Chestnut avenue, Jersey City, he ate a belated supper and hurried out to the movies without telling his parents of his thrilling experience. And when he came back he stubbornly denied that he had been in the vault at all.

Watchman Hears Tapping. It was just before seven o'clock that John Connolly, the bank watchman, making his rounds on the subway level, heard a steady tap, tap, tap at the door of a big vault used for the safekeeping of books and records. At first Connolly thought some one was trying to break in. Then he became sure it was some one trying to break out and dashed for a telephone.

August C. Corby, second vice president and cashier of the bank, was just entering his home, 215 West One Hundred and First street, when he got the watchman's hurry call. Corby was the nearest official who knew the combination. His automobile was outside and he broke all traffic regulations getting to the bank.

Connolly meantime had notified Patrolman Darcy of the East Twenty-second street station, on nearby post, and Darcy had summoned Doctor MacManus with the pulmotor.

There was some delay in getting the vault open, which was not explained,

The Huddled Form of the Boy. and long before the huge doors swung outward all sounds had ceased within. The huddled form of the boy, his face pressed close against the doors, was dragged out by the policemen and the ambulance surgeon.

Near Danger Point. Doctor MacManus administered restoratives and applied the pulmotor as Schueer was suffering from asphyxiation and his respiration had diminished to the danger point. In a few minutes his breathing became normal. The deep shock of his experience became apparent the moment he regained consciousness, but once he was convinced that nothing more than a hideous dream remained of his harrowing experience he soon got hold of himself.

Because of efforts made to prevent the occurrence from becoming public, it was not learned just how Schueer became imprisoned. It was said that while he was putting some books away the door was shut "in some manner." Nor could it be learned precisely how long the boy had been there. Those who participated in his rescue and revival were certain it was two hours, if not longer.

Tortured Girl Wife to Death. Crookston, Minn.—That Carl Knutson tortured his twenty-two-year-old wife to death with daily beatings in order to punish her for an indiscretion before her marriage was charged by James E. Montague, county attorney, when Knutson, who is charged with murder, was arraigned. Knutson notified police that his wife's death was due to injuries received in a fall down stairs. An investigation, according to the police, showed the woman's body covered with bruises.

CHAIRMAN WHITE SHOWS UP REPUBLICAN SABOTAGE.

The probability that the Senate will sidetrack the tariff bill and take up the tax revision bill when the two strengthened when President Harding in his speech urging delay of the soldiers bonus bill cited as the first of three things essential at this time the revision of our internal taxation. The great bulk of taxes, of course, comes from internal taxation and the readjustment of this taxation is essential to the proper conduct of business all over the country; yet Congress is fiddling over a tariff bill estimated at the highest to yield $500,000,000 when the expenditures to be met run between five and six billions.

Business men are clamoring for tax revision, and business conditions have become so bad that Chairman George White of the Democratic National Committee, himself a business man, felt impelled to issue a statement based on President Harding's address to the Senate, pointing out that two years and two months ago, President Wilson upon his return from the Peace Conference, in May, 1919, urged Congress to revise the internal tax laws and relieve business and the people generally of the onerous and burdensome war taxes.

Chairman White pointed out that the Republican party was in power the last two years of the Wilson administration in both branches of Congress, and although appealed to by a Democratic President to revise the tax laws oppressive to business and the public generally, that party never offered any constructive legislation on revenue revision or anything else. "The Democratic party," said Chairman White, "is on record two years and two months in favor of such revision."

Clara Kimball Young's Triumphant Tour.

When the chimes in the belfry of the Congregational church played "Auld Lang Syne" as part of an elaborate program in honor of the visit of Clara Kimball Young to Portland, Oregon, they also tolled the finish of a ten week's tour of the principal cities of the United States, that from a standpoint of interest in the Equity star and her pictures doubtless will never be equalled.

An analysis of the trip from a publicity angle shows that the brilliant star received over 1500 columns of publicity and pictures, including frontpage positions in eighteen big dailies, among them the Kansas City Star, St. Louis Star, Des Moines Capitol, Omaha World-Herald, Omaha Bee, St. Paul Pioneer Press, Minneapolis Tribune, Chicago Herald-Examiner, Seattle Post Intelligencer, Portland Telegram, Atlanta Georgian, Pittsburg Press, Detroit Journal, Cleveland Press, Cleveland Plain Dealer and Cleveland News. Not only did these newspapers assign special writers to cover her stay in their respective cities, but arranged many novel publicity-news features.

It was a stunt that will long be remembered in Filmdom, and it was especially welcome to exhibitors showing the Equity star's pictures because it bolstered up summer business and in many cases broke records.

Credit goes principally to three individuals, Joseph I. Schnitzer, president of Equity, who conceived the tour; Milton Crandall, who put it across, and Clara Kimball Young herself. "Front Page" Crandall, exploitationist extraordinary, had the star attracting public attention in every conceivable way. As for the star's part in the success of the great stunt, without her charming personality, void of temperament, and her tirelessness, these accomplishments could not have been.
