City Sales Taxes Showing Decline

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Friday sent checks totaling $107.7 million in local sales tax payments to the 1,026 cities that levy the one-percent city tax.

Bullock said the monthly allocations were down .14 percent in August compared to a similar period last year.

Smaller checks to some cities reflect a downturn in the Texas economy, he said.

Muleshoe's city tax rebate has shown another decrease for the month and for the year with a check in the amount of $21,165.36 being received, as compared to the $24,825.64 a year ago at this time. Sales tax receipts are down 10.76 percent for the year with $136,431.58 bring the payments to date for this year compared to last year's figures of $152,889.87.

In Cochran County, Morton received a check in the amount of $5,870.59 for this pay period, and had received $5,631.87 for the same month a year ago. Their total payments to date for the year are $36,213.39, up 3.52 percent from the $34,980.96 received for the same period last year.

Littlefield shows a decrease of 6.35 for the year in total receipts, with $183,166.14 being reported at this time a year ago, compared to the current total of $171,530.30. Their current payment was $26,801.19, down from the payment for this month last year of $30,925.78.

From Parmer County, Friona shows a decrease of 8.36 percent in sales tax rebates for the year, with $17,813.36 received to date this year, compared to the $18,057.67 of a year ago. Their current payment was $2,940.21, compared to the $3,062.31 of a year ago.

Houston received the largest check, $17.3 million, bringing Houston's total 1986 payments to $99.6 million, down four percent over last year. Dallas' check for $13.6 million pushed its total to $73.5 million this year, a four percent decrease over 1985.

San Antonio's payment of $7.1 million increased its 1986 total to $39.3 million, up three percent. Austin received $5 million for a total $29.1 million, a three percent decrease over 1985 payments.

Fort Worth's check for $4.2 million brought total payments to $24.2 million, five percent over last year's payments. El Paso received $2.6 million, increasing its total to $15.3 million, up seven percent over 1985.

Bullock also sent checks totaling $50.1 million to the state's six Metropolitan Transit Authorities. Houston's MTA payment was $19.9 million for a 1986 total of $115.4 million. Dallas' DART check was $19.2 million, bringing total payments

Irrigation Loan Meet Set Here

Thinking about improving your irrigation needs? Did you know that low-interest loans are available to qualified irrigators who wish to improve the efficiency of their irrigation application and distribution systems?

High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. One, in conjunction with Irrigation Pumps and Power will be sponsoring a special meeting beginning at 10 a.m. on Thursday, August 21, to discuss the Pilot Agricultural Water Conservation Loan Program. The meeting is scheduled to be held at the Bailey County Coliseum in Muleshoe.

Water District Manager A. Wayne Wyatt stated, "Anyone interested in discussing this low-interest loan program with a Water District representative is invited to the meeting and encouraged to attend. This is an informal meeting where we will explain to irrigators the types of equipment that loans can be made for under the program guidelines, as well as explaining what information is needed in order to apply for a loan."

Thus far, irrigators from throughout the District's service area have obtained loans totaling approximately $300,000 to purchase equipment including drop-line center pivot sprinkler systems, furrow dikers, laser land levelling equipment and surge irrigation equipment.

Further information on the meeting may be obtained by contacting the local Soil Conservation Service field office or the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. One in Lubbock.

Jim Hartline, Executive Director of the Muleshoe Housing Authority was introduced as guest speaker for the Muleshoe Rotary Club by Tim Campbell on Tuesday at noon.

Hartline brought Rotarians up to date on activities taking place with the Muleshoe Labor Housing, as well as the Harmon Elliott Senior Citizens Complex.

He explained that the Muleshoe Labor Housing opened eight years ago with 48 units, and they not only stay full, but there is usually a waiting list of 20-25 people.

The speaker said he has presently filed papers requesting an additional 42 units, but has received information that his request has been cut back to 24 units.

According to Hartline, the new housing would be Migrant Farm Labor Housing and will open on May 1st each year, and close the last day of October each year. He said the government wants to see how this will work out, so will allow an initial 24 units. Hartline added, "I am hopeful that we can begin construction late this fall, and have the 24 units ready for occupancy next summer."

When asked who is eligible to rent one of the Farm Labor Housing units, which are quadruplexes, he said agricultural workers are eligible, and are not limited strictly to farming, as eligibility also extends to people employed at feed lots and dairies. In other words, Hartline explained that 50 percent of their income must come from agriculture for each year, in some phase of agriculture.

Hartline added that there is no government subsidy in the Farm Labor Housing, and everyone pays the same amount of rent, according to the size of apartment they occupy. For instance, of the four different apartments, for the efficiency, the rent is $37 per week; $42 for the one bedroom; $47 for the two bedroom and $52 for the three bedroom. Rent is paid weekly by the occupant. When asked about trouble collecting the rent, he said, "we have very little to no trouble, as they pay weekly, and if the rent is two days past due, it costs them another $2.50. If they don't pay, they get out."

According to Hartline, they have their share of maintenance problems, but it is a minimum, with most being normal wear and tear to the facilities. In fact, if a tenant breaks something, like a window, the tenant pays for the repairs to the facility. Tenants are also required to sign a lease agreement and make a $65 security deposit, which is held in the renter's name.

The executive director said he attends three mandatory training sessions each year, and was instructor for one training session last year. He taught the sessions from Lubbock to McAllen, and points in between.

He attributes this training to helping the Muleshoe Housing Authority to be recognized as having some of the best housing complexes in the state. Hartline said the Muleshoe Housing Authority Board has required him to attend the training sessions, and learn as much about public housing as possible. Board members include Tim Campbell, chairman; Max King, vice chairman; and members, Clifford Buckner, Jim Cox and Charles Moraw.

The Muleshoe Housing Authority also governs the Harmon Elliott Senior Citizen Complex in south Muleshoe.

Opened in September, 1981, the Senior Citizen housing has been 100 percent occupied. "We need more units now," said Hartline. "At this time we have 16 on the waiting list, and keep 12-16 on the waiting list all the time."

He applied for construction of 16 additional one and two bedroom brick units, similar to the existing structures, but was informed there is not any rental assistance money available at this time. Of the existing 36 units, 20 are FmHA and 16 are HUD homes, and are all available only to Social Security recipients, and are all rental assisted.

Hartline plans to continue with a survey of available building sites, and plans, so he can be ready when rental

Anchor Brothers Band Perform Internationally

When the Anchor Brothers Band, a gospel singing group from Sudan, made a special trip to Fort Worth last weekend, they did not expect to almost become internationally known immediately. But, that is precisely what happened.

On Saturday morning, they were one of 200 vocal groups or individuals to audition for the Johnnie High Country Music Revue, the world's second largest country music show. The Johnnie High Country Music Revue, is rated second to only the Grand Ole Opry.

The Anchor Brothers Band was the only group chosen to perform for the Saturday night Revue of the 200 groups represented. Usually, when a group or individual is chosen, there is a wait of six weeks to several months before they perform, is ever.

But, on Saturday night, The Anchor Brothers Band performed their ever popular 'First Day In Heaven' and new song, 'Every Day,' on the Johnnie High Country Music Revue over KCBI Radio, broadcast to the world.

After a number of years, hundreds of concerts and performances and eight albums, the Anchor Brothers Band has now become known worldwide.

"BIGGER THAN MANY STATE FAIRS"

ARTS AND CRAFTS—Two of the girls who reside at Girlstown, U.S.A. near Whiteface are manning the Girlstown Crafts booth at the Mule Day Festival in Mulshoe last Saturday. The girls were selling some of their own crafts during the annual benefit event for Girlstown.

Farm Bureau Applauding Cuts

The Texas Farm Bureau agrees with Governor Mark White's call for spending cuts, but differs on how to do it, according to S.M. Truc, president of the state's largest farm organization.

"We agree with Governor White that expenditures should be cut and applaud his insistence of efficiency in all state agencies," the Plainview cotton and grain farmer said following the Governor's message Wednesday to the special called session of the Legislature.

"We disagree with the Governor that there are some programs that shouldn't be cut," Truc said. "If we are serious about balancing the budget, spending reductions should be administered equally across the board, and I emphasize 'equally'."

The farm leader said Farm Bureau believes local taxes should not be increased to make up for state budget cuts.

"Now is the time for elected officials to be statesmen and set aside partisan political interests," Truc said.

Childrens Home Associates Meet

TALL AND TERRIBLE TULIANS TAKE TOWN MONDAY WITH SURPRISE WHEN ADVERTISING IT BIG CELEBRATION
Mulshoe reverted to early days of wild and woolly west last Monday afternoon when a gang of "roughneck" gentlemen and pioneer clad ladies invaded the sacred precincts of this peaceful little village to advertise the 46th annual round-up, rodeo and celebration of Swisher County to be held at Tulia, Friday and Saturday of this week.

They had with them a band, the members being dressed true cowboy style, and there were plenty of the masculine sex wearing red shirts, long beards, six shooters and other characteristic western paraphernalia, while the women were attired in old fashioned sate bonnets and other type costumes characteristic of the early west when Judge Colt held proverbial legal sway over this section.

Water attractions at the park include the Tidal Wave, Twin Twisters, Whalers Bay and radio controlled boats.

The four-foot waves in the Tidal Wave are the safest in use. Aquatic Amusements' variable system creates waves only on the water surface, allowing no possibilities for an undertow. Patrons can swim, body surf the waves, splash, or ride a raft in the Tidal Wave.

Twisting and turning down the waters, riders slide over 400 feet from a height of 50 feet into the three and one-half foot deep splash pool in the Twin Twisters. Even non-swimmers can enjoy this ride.

Whalers Bay is designed specifically with small children in mind, this area offers safe aquatic activities, water cannons, raindrops, fountains, soft-slide, and tunnel slide.

At Skipper Port, boat skippers control their own model-sized remote control boats across the pond.

Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres reports on governmental humor this week.

When it comes to money, the Federal government, as everybody knows, is far over budget, about $200 billion over. But when it comes to humor, the government is far, far under budget.

For example, the government decided one way to attack the drug problem would be to disrupt the manufacture of cocaine at one of its main sources, Bolivia. The Bolivian government said that's a good idea, come ahead, destroy the illegal laboratories hidden in the country's rugged forests and capture the manufacturers.

Highpowered U.S. helicopters were sent down there, their arrival unfortunately having been announced ahead of time, giving the dope people time to flee their laboratories and carry off most of the dope on hand.

Nonetheless, the helicopter raids did disrupt the business and for a while the Bolivian growers of coco plants had no market.

And what did the Bolivian government do about this? It has asked Washington for $10 million to offset its loss of coco revenue from the disrupted market.

And what was the response in Washington? Did it bust out laughing at such a demand?

Nope.

It's still gravely reflecting on what it should do.

Washington not only over-spends its budget but it under-uses its sense of humor. On the other hand, you can't say the Bolivian government doesn't have a sense of humor.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

WHAT EXACTLY IS A STROKE? IS IT AN UNAVOIDABLE PART OF AGING?

A stroke is a brain injury that results from a problem with the blood supply to the brain. Either there is a lack of blood to the brain tissue, which is the usual cause, or there is a hemorrhage (bleeding) into the brain from a ruptured blood vessel.

About 85 percent of strokes are caused by blockage of an artery that brings blood to the brain. The blockage deprives the brain of the necessary oxygen and nutrients which the blood carries. Arteriosclerosis, or narrowing of the artery, can cause the blockage, or it can be caused by a blood clot that has formed inside the circulatory system and becomes trapped in a smaller blood vessel. The clot usually comes from the heart and makes its way up until it blocks off one of the arteries feeding part of the brain. That particular part of the brain sustains the injury and may die.

There are half a million strokes in the United States every year. It's the third most common cause of death in the country, killing some 150,000 people annually. Yet, stroke disables more often than it kills. Depending on which part of the brain is cut off from the blood supply, stroke can affect the ability to move, to speak or to keep one's balance. There can be losses of vision, sensation and a variety of other functions.

Rehabilitation is possible, and the younger the patient, the better the chance for recovery. Recovery also depends in part on whether the affected section of the brain is destroyed or only injured. There is some evidence that other parts of the brain may be able to replace the function of the destroyed part.

The most stroke-susceptible people are the elderly, although some 20 percent of strokes do occur in people under age 60. With each successive decade of life, the frequency of stroke doubles; men and women are equally susceptible.

The biggest risk factor for stroke is hypertension (high blood pressure). If you control hypertension, you are much less likely to have a stroke than if you do not control it. You can take steps to reduce the risk of hypertension by avoiding obesity, a high fat and high cholesterol diet, and cigarettes. Diabetes also puts a person at risk for high blood pressure. However, even with very good health habits, you can get hypertension, so as you age you should keep track of your blood pressure with your doctor's help.

There's no proof that exercise prevents stroke, but it's likely that it helps indirectly. Exercise does not necessarily protect you from hypertension, so even if you run every day, you still need to check your blood pressure and take any medications that have been prescribed to lower it. Otherwise you remain at risk for stroke.

Some other dietary factors may help to prevent high blood pressure and therefore reduce risk for stroke. These include getting enough calcium and overdoing on these nutrients can be dangerous, it's best for you to stick with recommended daily amounts.

TECAT Test Over; Most Teachers Pass

More than 70 percent of the 6,579 educators who failed the TECAT in March passed the test on their second attempt in June, bringing the overall passing rate for the exam to 99.1 percent.

Overall passing rates for various ethnic groups showed 95.4 percent of black educators passed the test, 98.9 percent of Hispanics passed, and 99.9 percent of whites and others passed.

"We are extremely pleased that more than 99 percent of the teachers and administrators who took the TECAT ultimately were able to demonstrate that they have the basic reading and writing skills necessary to do their jobs," said Commissioner of Education W.N. Kirby.

"We are especially pleased with the passing rates for minorities," he added. "The minority passing rates were higher than those for virtually

Tri-State Fair Plans 'Big' Week

When you think of a fair, the first things that come to mind are the carnival midway, cotton candy, candied apples and special stage shows and attractions. All of these ingredients are a part of the fair, but probably the most important aspect of a fair are the events where people match their individual skills, goods and animals against each other for prizes, ribbons and other special awards. The 1986 Amarillo Tri State Fair, scheduled for September 15-20, will offer over $52,000.00 in prize money, plus scores of ribbons, banners and trophies to winners in competitive events. In addition to the traditional livestock judging, there will be competition between hundreds of people in the areas of art, aquarium, photography, ceramics, china painting, 4-H baked goods, vegetables, canned goods, breads, cakes, cookies and pies. Also knitting, sewing, embroidery, quilts, rugs and novelty items. All of these events are judged before the fair opens and are on display throughout the week for viewing by fair-goers. Don't miss the opportunity to see all of these items at the Tri State Fair in September.

all other standardized tests. I think that indicates that the test absolutely did not discriminate against any ethnic group as is being claimed in a federal lawsuit."

Of the 6,579 people who failed the test in March, 4,704 or 71.5 percent passed on their second attempt in June. Another 676 people who failed in March chose not to take the test again in June.

Approximately 210,000 certified educators were employed in public schools during the 1985-86 school year. Of those, 206,528 registered to take the TECAT and 202,084 actually took the exam in March.

"It is disappointing to see that some 4,444 of those who registered for the test chose not to take it even once, and that another 676 did not try again in June after failing the TECAT in March," Kirby said. "That represents more than 5,000 certified educators who will not be back in the classroom this fall simply because they did not try to pass the TECAT."

"Combined with the 1,199 who failed on their second attempt, we will potentially lose 6,319 teachers when school starts in September," he said.

The 1,199 educators who failed the test twice are eligible for a one-year extension, if requested by their employing school district.

In a recent letter from Kirby to school superintendents, the commissioner said requests for extensions would be examined very closely and would be granted only if districts are unable to find other qualified teachers to fill the positions.

"Now that the administration of the TECAT is complete for the majority of our teachers and administrators, we must ensure that the gains and positive effects which have resulted from such testing are not undermined in the eyes of the public," the letter said.

"Consequently, requests for continued employment of persons failing the TECAT twice should be submitted only in extraordinary circumstances and only after deliberation by you and the local board."

The Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers was mandated by House Bill 72, which required all currently certified educators to pass the test by June 30, 1986, to be eligible to teach in the 1986-87 school year.

The two-part test included 55 multiple choice questions on the reading section and 30 multiple choice questions and a 150-word written composition on the writing section.

The TECAT was given for the first time last March, and 96.7 percent passed. The second exam was given on June 28.

"For Me to Live is Christ"

"And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones, and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not."
Isaiah 58:11.

"For me to live is Christ" is to be living for a purpose—to serve God by drawing out my soul to the poor, lonely, hungry, and lost. For me to live is Christ, is to lead men everywhere to Jesus Christ who is the fountain of the water of life. And He has promised that when I am in His service He will guide me, and satisfy me, and I shall be like the flowers in this picture, like a watered garden, sustained by Him.

Public Utility Commission of Texas

Consumer Update

Three years ago, millions of Texans lost their electricity because of Hurricane Alicia. The most destructive storm in our state's history uprooted countless light poles, knocked out thousands of circuits, and put power lines up and down the coast out of commission. Many were without power for more than two weeks. The storm also severely damaged water and telephone facilities.

The Alicia experience serves as one more reminder of how destructive hurricanes can be, and how vulnerable the Lone Star State is to these powerful storms. No one can predict the Texas weather, but residents should be ready to take immediate action when a storm threatens.

Hurricane Season began on June 1 and extends through November 30, although Texas has never experienced a hurricane after October 31. August and September are the months when most of our hurricanes occur.

Even after the eye of a hurricane crosses the coastline, the potential for danger hundreds of miles inland still exists. Hurricane force winds and tornadoes can level homes and topple power lines. Sudden torrential rains can turn mild-mannered streams into raging rivers that can trap motorists in their cars.

If you live in an area where one of these dangerous storms is expected to strike, be prepared to move to a safer location immediately. Hurricanes are no place for the proud, the curious, or the thrill-seeker.

For those who live in an area where a hurricane strikes, the Public Utility Commission offers the following suggestions:

- Keep alternate lighting sources available, including a working flashlight with spare batteries, a kerosene or propane lantern with extra fuel, extra candles and matches.
- Keep surplus water as the storm may contaminate regular water supplies. Store your extra drinking water in bottles, and fill your bath tub and other containers with water you would use for other purposes.

- Keep enough canned goods and other non-perishable foods to last several days. Use a portable cooler for perishable items so you can keep your freezer closed to maintain its internal temperature if power is lost.
- Have a portable radio with extra batteries handy for news and information.
- Tape all windows to prevent shattering.
- Unplug major appliances if power is lost to protect the appliances from overload when power is restored. If you notice lights dimming and appliances operating improperly during storm conditions, disconnect them immediately.
- When using an emergency power generator, disconnect any wires leading to electric company lines. This helps protect the safety of line crews and will help keep your appliances from overloading when power is restored.
- Do not try to operate household appliances by plugging generators or extension cords into wall sockets. Also, don't try to operate appliances by using extension cords from nearby homes that have electricity. Both practices can cause fires, appliance damage and serious injury to those trying to restore power.
- Avoid fallen power lines which may be energized and cause serious injury if touched.

Finally, remember that when a major storm strikes our state, millions of residents share your troubles, and everyone wants to have his utility services restored first. Try to limit your outgoing phone calls—especially to your utilities—so that all customers in the affected areas can report service problems promptly.

Consumer Update is prepared and distributed by the Consumer Affairs Office of the Public Utility Commission of Texas. Our address is 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Austin, Texas 78757 ****
