ARTESIA BASEBALL NINE DEFEATS DEXTER

Martin Allows One Hit. Artesia Gets Nine Hits. Heintzelman Star With Stick

The Artesia baseball team, under the management of the Clarence Kepple Post of the American Legion, journeyed to Dexter on last Sunday afternoon where they defeated the upper valley team by a score of 16 to 4. The game was very one-sided as is evidenced by the score. Martin, twirler for the locals, held the Dexter batsmen to one lone hit in the first inning. The local sluggers were able to connect with the "horsehide" for a total of nine hits off the three Dexter twirlers.

The diamond was very rough with tall weeds in the outfield. However, the game, which was the first contest to be played by either team with outside lines was very interesting to the rooters of both teams, who were present. A large number of Artesia people accompanied the locals on this occasion. Manager Hawkins and Flanders are confident that the Artesia baseball nine will have a successful season, if the team plays as good ball during the season as in this initial contest. Only four errors were chalked against the locals and most of these were made by players who were playing in new positions. Martin sent thirteen men to the bench by the strike-out route, while ten Artesia men were sent "the same route" by the Dexter twirlers.

A feature of the game was the slugging of Heintzelman, stellar first sacker, who secured four hits in five trips to the bat. Two of these being two baggers. Burkland, left handed shortstop, connected with the ball for two hits in four trips to the bat.

An amusing incident occurred at the end of the third inning, when Dexter admiringly presented "Toots" Garrett, Artesia third baseman, with a little gift. As he was the youngest player on the diamond, the gift was very appropriate and was received with much grace by the honored player. Garrett was easily the favorite among the Dexter fans. His good-natured smile and pleasing personality was very noticeable.

The managers announce that Artesia will meet the Carlsbad aggregation at Carlsbad on next Sunday. An excellent game is expected as the local line-up will be strengthened by the addition of stellar players, who were unable to be in the lineup on last Sunday. Carlsbad has a fast club, recently closing a successful series of games with the Pecos, Texas aggregation. Other games are being scheduled. With twirlers like Martin, Bullock and Ortman, supported by an excellent infield and outfield, the locals should make an enviable record. Following is a box score of Sunday's game. Game called at end of seventh.

ALLSTARS DEFEAT SPECIALS

The Artesia All-Stars defeated the Diamond Specials in a baseball game at the local diamond on last Friday afternoon. The game was very amusing, especially to the players of both sides. The All-Stars romped away with the long end of the 8 to 3 score.

W. Horner was in the box for the Specials and was hard hit at certain stages of the game. Bullock was twirling for the All-Stars and was in a position to cut the batters down by the strike-out system, sending ten men to the bench by this route. Horner whiffed the ball past seven batsmen for the same results.

FIRE ON WEST MAIN STREET

The Artesia Fire Department answered a summons to West Main St. on last Saturday night about eight o'clock, when the home of Mrs. Allan became in flames. The department arrived from their nine block run before the flames had much headway. Neighbors had removed a few articles of furniture and were busily engaged in carrying household goods to the street.

LAND OFFICES CONSOLIDATED

The Ft. Sumner land district, with offices at Ft. Sumner, New Mexico, and the Tucumcari land district, with offices at Tucumcari, New Mexico, have been consolidated into one office or district, with offices at Roswell, Nw Mexico. The registers at the first named offices have been notified by E. C. Finney, acting secretary of the department, that the offices will be closed at the close of business on June 30 1922 and the lands, business archives of said land offices transferred to and consolidated with the Roswell land district with office at Roswell.

MAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS NEAR LAKE ARTHUR

A man by the name of Morris who lives near Y-O crossing, was found in a semi-conscious condition near Lake Arthur on Monday afternoon. He was on his wagon when found and taken to Lake Arthur, where Dr. H. A. Stroup was summoned from Artesia.

The man was in a serious condition, when the doctor arrived, but was soon improving from a serious attack of ptomaine poisoning. The exact cause of the poisoning is not known. The man, who frequents from Roswell to a ranch near Y-O crossing, had been visiting in the southern part of the valley and was en route to Roswell for a load of merchandise, when he became ill.

MRS. REECER ENTERTAINS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

The class of girls taught by Mrs. Dayton Reecer at the Baptist Sunday School were entertained by their teacher at her home on last Thursday evening. The members of the class and a few friends were the guests at this delightful affair. Games and contests were enjoyed by the young ladies during the evening. A regular picnic supper consisting of sandwiches, cake, pickles and other good eats was enjoyed by all present, being served upon the lawn at the Reecer home.

BEREAN CLASS OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH GIVE BENEFIT SHOW

The Sunday School class of the Presbyterian church, composed of the young people, secured the rights of showing one of the greatest motion pictures in Artesia, which it has been the privilege of local citizens to witness. "Behold the Man", a picture portraying the life of Christ from infancy until his resurrection. A large crowd attended the Elrose Theatre on last Monday and Tuesday nights, when this picture was shown on the screen. A nice fund was realized by the Berean class from this great picture.

HOT JUNE DAYS

The thermometer registered as high as 100 degrees on Friday and Saturday of last week, this being the hottest weather recorded at Artesia during the present summer. Laborers in the alfalfa fields, especially on power hay presses report that the heat was very oppressive. June is usually the hottest month in this section of the state. Slight breezes were of a great benefit to all life on these days of excessive heat.

MRS. FRANK WILSON ENTERTAINS

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson entertained a few friends at their Cottonwood home on last Sunday, with a delightful dinner. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Horne and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney and family, Lewis Hale and mother, and Misses Ina and Gladys Cole. The party motored to the Cottonwood dam in the afternoon where a swimming party was enjoyed.

STORK VISITS COTTONWOOD HOME

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Clarkston, residents on the upper Cottonwood, announces the arrival of a nine pound girl to their home on last Saturday morning. The new arrival appears to be enjoying life, under the new name of Jamie Ray Clarkston. The parents are well pleased with the newcomer to their family.

Mr. Tom Batton was ill during the great part of the week.

"TRUSTS GROW IN POWER"

Harding Finds It Easier to Chase Golf Balls Than to Resist Gigantic Forces of His Party," Says Senator

Fulton, Mo., June 5.—Declaring that this is a government of the rich and that the present administration will go down in history as the most subservient of all American administrations, Senator James A. Reed spoke here this afternoon to approximately one thousand Callaway County farmers, who had come to Fulton in observance of the county's monthly stock sales event.

Following a brief reiteration of his stand as regards the Wilson administration, the senator shifted his topic to that of the present administration, following this with a discussion of tax reduction and tariff policies of the present administration.

"Trusts Grow In Power"

"A candid and impartial review of the activities of the present administration the last fifteen months demonstrates the great financial and industrial trusts have seized complete control of the machinery of our government," the senator said. "This was, perhaps to be expected. They boldly seized control of the party organization financed the campaign and undertook to name the candidate for President."

"While the soldiers and the general population of the country were seeking to recover from the shock of the war, the great institutions which had profited to the extent of billions of dollars were busily engaged in developing a scheme by which they could shift the tax burden from themselves to the rest of the people and levy further taxes for their special benefit. One group of these gentlemen took the supposedly most popular candidate for President into a room and agreed to finance his campaign. It appears that the candidate accepted without a tremor or a blush."

"Another candidate out of his private fortune and that of his wife, proceeded to employ practical politicians, who were to accomplish his desire in the practical way known to crooked politicians. The plans of these two buccanniers were balked by the senate investigating committee, and the reaction from the indignation of the people brought the nomination to the present incumbent. In no manner nonplussed, the same forces now united in a general combination to elect a President."

"I do not desire to reflect upon President Harding. He belongs to that type of individual who naturally seeks the line of least resistance. It is easier to chase golf balls than to resist the gigantic forces of his party."

RURAL CARRIERS ASSOCIATION

The rural mail carriers of Eddy, Chaves and Lea Counties met recently at Artesia and organized a district carrier organization, which will affiliate with the state and the national associations as soon as possible. W. J. Caffall of Dexter is responsible for the organization being perfected as he called the meeting at Artesia.

The following officers were elected at this initial meeting: J. E. Winberly, Hagerman, president; William Nelson, Carlsbad vice-president; W. C. Caffall, Dexter, secretary and treasurer. W. J. Caffall and C. E. Nyhart of Lake Arthur were selected as representatives to the state association meeting, which will probably be called in July. The next meeting is called for Labor Day at Roswell. It is hoped that the other carriers in the state will enter the organization in the near future.

A GOOD LITTLE GIRLS LAMENT

Some times, when I'm awfully tired, you know
When things all go wrong and the hours draw slow,
I wonder a lot why I have to be me,
That's something I tell you I simply can't see!
I wish, on these days when I'm lonesome and sad
That I had been born just a little bit bad.
Not wicked of course, but naughty, you see,
A daring, adorable, persnickity me.
But folks have told me 'n I guess they know,
That God knew his business when he made me so,
Tame and timid and meek and mild,
A nice little, slow little, good little child.

J. B. CECIL SHIPS FAT CATTLE TO MARKET

Two carloads of fat baby heaves were shipped from the local yards on Tuesday by J. B. Cecil well-known farmer and stock breeder. These calves which would average about six or seven hundred pounds per head were finished for the market in the feedlot on corn and alfalfa hay. The shipment was made to Ft. Worth and El Paso markets where over fifty dollars per head was received.

Mr. Cecil recently shipped two hundred head of calves to El Paso and has over two hundred more to ship in the next few weeks.

He recently shipped a few carloads of fat steers to El Paso which averaged around one thousand lbs. per head. This is an excellent weight for young cattle as he was shipping.

MORE RAIN AT ARTESIA

This section of the Pecos valley has been visited by rains during the first of the week which were of much benefit to the ranchmen and farmer. Heavy showers fell on Monday night and Tuesday. Very little alfalfa hay was cut at this time.

The recent rains have caused a sufficient supply of water in the Pecosco river for irrigation purposes in the Hope section. The water supply was becoming very low according to reports from Hope. The Lake McMillin, near Lakewood, and Lake Avalon near Carlsbad, both reservoirs in the Carlsbad Reclamation Project are full of water, with the Pecos river flowing a large stream.

A special class in Sunday School work is being conducted at the First Baptist church by Rev. W. C. Taggart. About fifteen or twenty members are enrolled in this special class.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Brainerd and family left last week for the Ruidoso, where they will spend the summer months. Other families intend to spend the summer in the mountains.

A. V. Wiseman left on Monday night for Albuquerque and Colorado points where he will visit for a few weeks.

Mrs. Ella King left this week for Roper, Texas, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. J. E. Whitehorn.

APPROPRIATION FOR PENASCO SURVEY

Washington, June 13. Senator H. O. Bursom of New Mexico today introduced a bill authorizing the appropriation of $5000 for the survey and estimate on building a reservoir on the Penasco river, near Hope.

ARTESIA BOY TO ANNAPOLIS

Ben Kaiser Receives Appointment To United States Naval Academy

Ben Kaiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Kaiser and a graduate from the Artesia high school during the last commencement, left on Tuesday evening for Annapolis, Maryland, where he will be subjected to a physical examination prior to his entrance to the United States Naval Academy. Young Kaiser recently passed his entrance examination to that great institution of learning, by a safe margin.

Several months ago, scores of New Mexico boys were subjected to a preliminary examination the young men receiving the highest grades to receive appointments from Senator A. A. Jones to the Naval Academy. Four Artesia Seniors were subjected to the examination and were successful. Young Kaiser receiving one of the three appointments and Clarence Stoldt appointed first alternate and C. O. Brown Jr and Emmeett Klopfenstein receiving appointments as second alternates.

The Advocate joins the many friends of Ben Kaiser in expressing a hope that his physical examination proves as successful as the two former examinations already passed.

NEW PROPRIETOR OF HARDWICK DINING ROOM

L. G. Syfred well known restaurant man, has assumed control of the Hardwick dining hall and is now operating this eating room. He recently purchased the fixtures and equipment for the hall from Mrs. Backer, who has moved to Roswell. The people of Artesia are pleased to see Mr. Syfred as manager of this dining room, knowing him to be well qualified to give the best service to the public.

Mr. Syfred has been presiding genius of Sy's Cafe for the past six years and during that time has made a reputation for the place that rivals that of the famous Harvey House service. He announces that he will remain manager and proprietor of Sy's Cafe and will continue the house as before. Both places will be under the same management.

Artesia citizens were well pleased when a few weeks ago, it became known that the Hardwick dining hall would be re-opened by Mrs. Backer of Lake Arthur. They are also well pleased to hear that "Sy" will continue this establishment.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bigler, Mr. and Mrs. William Linell, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Hawkins, Mesdames James Bates, Heintzelman, and Misses Loretta Linell, Francis White and Messrs. George Flanders W. C. Cunningham, W. G. Soweld, Rufus Rowan, Charley Niekay, Clyde Garrett, John Richards, Luther Ridsout, Jess Truitt, Joe Knoke and others accompanied the baseball team to Dexter on last Sunday.

Frank Ohnemus was found in a critical condition early on Monday morning at his home in West Artesia. He was suffering a serious attack of indigestion and an internal hemorrhage, when found by Mrs. Ohnemus. A doctor was summoned, but the family thought that the sick man had died before the physician's arrival. However such was not the case and Mr. Ohnemus is improving, although having been a very sick man.

STOP FOR LUNCH AT ROSWELL

Roswell will be a stop lunch for the noon train on the Santa Fe in the future. The Chamber of Commerce received word to this effect yesterday afternoon from T. B. Galaher, general passenger agent. The Chamber of Commerce has had this matter up for several months and when the yearly program was made out in January this was again placed on the Docket. The change is the result of efforts of the organization.

This will be started when the next time card of the Santa Fe is issued, which will likely be in the next thirty or sixty days. In the event a general card is not issued in that time, a supplement will be put out to take care of this change. Passengers will have thirty minutes and be able to get lunch at the Gilder. Instead of stopping at the water tank as has been the custom, the train will come direct to the station, unload passengers and then go back for water.

Roswell has received much unfavorable comment in the past because of the fact that passengers were not able to get food from the time they left Clovis at nine in the morning until they reached Carlsbad after four in the afternoon. Passengers of course, blamed the city, although up to this time the Santa Fe has not seen fit to make the stop here—Roswell News.

Mrs. W. F. Morris and children left on Sunday night for Tulsa, Oklahoma, where they will join Mr. Morris, who has been at that place for some time. A few members of the family will visit in Texas before going to Tulsa.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bert Smith and daughters, Misses Corrine and Velma Smith, returned on Sunday evening from a visit to Albuquerque. The trip was made by automobile. Miss Velma Smith has been attending the state University at Albuquerque and returned home with her parents.

Messrs. Frank Seales, business man, B. Stevenson, city clerk, and Ben Muncy, stockman left on Sunday morning for a visit in El Paso and Jaurez. They expect to be gone for a week or ten days.

Mr. Jeff Hightower, formerly with Brainerd-Corbin Hardware Co. was in Artesia a part of the past week.

Chicago Merchant Who Taught London

H. Gordon Selfridge, formerly of Chicago, is commonly referred to in the Windy City as the man who taught London how to run a department store. What the Londoners think of him may or may not be judged by this sketch of him by "Matt," personality cartoonist of the London Sketch:

"Mr. H. Gordon Selfridge, who is in rather a big way of business in Oxford street, was born in 1861 in Ripon, Wis., and has been gee-whizzing ever since, so to speak. At sixteen he went to Chicago and got work at the big stores of Field, Leiter & Co. at 14s a week, working his way up, step by step, till he was manager of the retail department of Marshall Field & Co., and ultimately a partner.

"Retired in 1904 and bought a big business, to which he gave his own name. Sold advantageously in 1908. Then he set out to discover London. Has risen to occupy a castle which the ex-kaiser used to rent, and a peer's residence in London. Hobby: The great game called business. Notable saying, 'Contact with American people puts an edge on you,' but does not explain whether it is a raw edge or not."

Anyway, Mr. Selfridge is on a visit to this country and dropped in on Chicago the other day, "merely for the purpose of visiting friends."

Charges Against Anti-Saloon League

Charges that the Anti-Saloon league, "through its paid lobbyists," is seeking "to pollute the administration of justice" in the federal courts were made on the floor of the senate the other day by Senator John K. Shields of Tennessee.

Senator Shields, formerly chief justice of the Tennessee Supreme court, spoke in opposition to the bill creating new federal judgeships to relieve the congestion in the courts. He particularly assailed that portion of the bill which would give the chief justice of the United States Supreme court the power to assign judges in his discretion.

Prosecution of the Anti-Saloon league by the department of justice for alleged violation of the corrupt practices act was demanded on the floor of the house by Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts.

Mr. Tinkham vigorously denounced the league's political activities and charged that false returns had been made "either by Wayne B. Wheeler, chief counsel for the league, (portrait herewith) or by Elizabeth Roberts, assistant treasurer of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league."

Testimony of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, before the house appropriations committee, now made public, revealed that the organization had protested the nomination "of half a dozen or more federal judges." Mr. Wheeler added that he had never asked for the transfer of a federal judge. Mr. Wheeler was put through extensive examination by Mr. Tinkham concerning the league's alleged activities in politics and its alleged influence in the selection of prohibition enforcement officers.

Public Ownership of the Coal Mines?

The coal strike may force the public to try the experiment of public ownership of the mines, in the opinion of Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman of the senate committee on labor, unless the whole coal industry is speedily reorganized in the interest of the public.

Senator Borah declares that the strike will force a reckoning not alone between operators and the miners but between the coal industry and the public. The industry cannot continue under its present system of operation and management.

"If the coal industry is not reorganized in the interest of the public," Senator Borah said, "then it will be up to the public to try the experiment of public ownership. I do not underestimate the task which the public will assume when it undertakes this, but I doubt very much if the public will much longer submit to the present inefficient method of operating the coal mines.

"Take one item in this chaotic industry, and that is the problem of irregular employment. The average bituminous mine runs about 200 or possibly 215 days out of 365. These unproductive hours are sheer waste.

"Either labor or the consuming public must pay this, for a glance at the profits discloses that the operators take no part of it."

Washington's Interesting Policewoman

Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle is observed of all observers these days in Washington. She is the head of the woman's bureau of the local police department. She has said the policemen are out to "get her." Anyway charges were made against her alleging "conduct prejudicial to the good order, reputation and discipline of the police force."

But what society is interested in is "Will Mrs. Van Winkle tell?" There is no doubt that she knows. She has made it a part of her official business to inquire. Mrs. Van Winkle is no ordinary "cop." She is a woman of wealth and intellectual attainments.

She has lived at a hotel, where one-half the members of President Harding's cabinet live, and which also is the home of half a hundred diplomats and several hundred government officials.

Mrs. Van Winkle lunches and dines at the downtown hotels where the social and official life of Washington centers. A handsome woman, swathed in the finest furs, Mrs. Van Winkle—or Lieutenant Van Winkle, as she is officially known—looks to be a part of the social circles in which she could move if she so desired. Instead, the work of the police department "intrigues" her and she has entered into it with a zest.

Uncle Sam and the Farmer

Points of Interest Brought Out in Debate in the House

FOREST RANGERS ON FIRE PATROL

WEST WING DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

IRRIGATED POTATOES

WHEN the annual appropriation bill for the United States Department of Agriculture comes up every year in congress there is much debate over its many items and over its huge total. First the house threshes it out. Then the senate goes over what the house has done. Then the two houses fight it out in conference. Sometimes it looks as if there might be a deadlock. The department is a big one, with many activities affecting both producer and consumer; so the total appropriation is necessarily large. There is always a flood of oration pro and con. Here are some items of general interest that were set forth in the debate over the appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923 (six months of 1922 calendar year and six months of 1923). First is a statement regarding farms and farmers by Representative Philip H. Stoll of South Carolina, in effect as follows:

From the census of 1920 we find that there are 6,448,343 farms in the United States. Of these farms 3,925,000 are operated by owners, 2,454,804 by tenants, and 68,449 by managers.

The total acreage in farms in 1920 was 955,883,715 acres, and of this 503,073,007 acres were classified as improved land. The average acreage per farm was 148.2 acres. The value per farm is fixed at $12,084. It is interesting to note that the total number of farms 796,535 have an average of less than 20 acres each, that there are 1,503,792 farms with an acreage between 20 and 49 acres, and that of farms with acreage of 50 to 99 acres there are 1,474,745. In other words, more than one-third of the farmers of the United States are small farmers, and tend less than 50 acres of land. It is also worthy of note that there are 261,719 farms that are operated by females, and that 76.3 per cent were operated by native white farmers, 9 per cent by foreign-born white farmers, and 14.7 per cent by colored farmers.

There are nearly 6,500,000 individual farmers in the United States and there are more than 12,000,000 men engaged in this work; the permanent investment of these farmers in land and equipment amounts to approximately $80,000,000,000, and the output of these farms is worth $25,000,000,000 annually.

Here are interesting points in the statement of Representative Sidney Anderson of Minnesota of the appropriations committee:

The total appropriations carried for the regular work of the Department of Agriculture during the present year amount to $38,688,059. The amount recommended in the bill now pending is $4,978,033. This sum, compared with the present appropriations, is $3,710,026 less than the appropriations for the current year and $1,554,835 less than the estimates submitted by the Director of the Budget through the President. It should be remembered, however, that the current law carries an appropriation of $1,000,000 for the purchase of forest lands in the Appalachian Mountain Range and also carries an appropriation of $2,000,000 to be loaned to farmers in the Great Plains area of the country for the purchase of seed, so that the bill in fact, eliminating new items which have been added, is approximately $700,000 less than the regular items carried in the current appropriation bill. It should also be considered that the pending bill carries three or four new items, one for the operation of the Center Market, carrying about $105,000; an item for the enforcement of the packers and stockyards act carrying $410,500; and an item for the enforcement of the futures trading act which carries, I think, $103,000, making the total carried in this bill, which is not carried in the prior bills, approximately $700,000.

Of the total appropriations for the Department of Agriculture, speaking roughly and generally, $18,000,000 is spent for the conduct of regulatory services, many of which are as directly of interest and concern to the consumers of the country as they are to the farmers of the country. Approximately $8,000,000 is spent for research of various kinds. Three million dollars is spent for service work, such as that involved in the inspection of fruit and vegetables, and approximately $4,000,000 is expended for extension.

Prior to this year the appropriation for the individual forests controlled and operated by the Forest Service have been carried in something like 139 separate forest items. In accordance with the suggestion made by the Forest Service to the Director of the Budget, the items for the 139 individual forests have been consolidated into eight forest-district items without any increase in the total appropriation for the forest with this exception, that there is allocated to the current appropriations in these districts an additional appropriation of $80,000, which is divided in this way: $50,000 additional for fire guards, $20,000 for additional technical men in these forests where the sales of timber are increasing or likely to increase; $10,000 for additional employment in connection with the grazing in the national forests. The committee was in part influenced in granting this increase by the fact that the air patrol service, which has heretofore been conducted by the War Department in the national forests and in conjunction with the Forest Service, will be discontinued next year.

In 1921 the receipts from the sale of timber amounted to $1,775,901, as compared with $2,067,295 in the preceding year, while the receipts from the grazing privileges in 1920 were $2,486,040. It has not all been paid in, but the grazing receipts for 1921 will amount to about $2,130,174. The total appropriations carried in this bill for the Forest Service is $6,532,302, as compared with an expenditure last year, including deficiencies, of $6,990,302.

There is one considerable reduction on the face of this bill in the items for the extension of activities of the Department of Agriculture along the line of the work now being done under the Smith-Lever Act. These items are now carried in four separate items. The first of these items carried $715,720 and was for farm demonstration work in the North. The second carried $634,800 for the same sort of work in the South under a general title of boll-weevil eradication and control, the third was a small item of $16,360 carried for supervising expenses in connection with the extension services of the Government, and the fourth was a general item of $1,500,000, which was originally made for the purpose of advancing the maturity of the Smith-Lever Act by three years. The first three items have been consolidated in one item in this bill with a reduction of $53,288, and the fourth item, which is now the second item, has been reduced from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000.

Mr. Clarke of New York. Has the appropriation for the distribution of seeds for buncombe purposes been eliminated from this bill?

Mr. Anderson. The committee did not report the provision for the congressional seed distribution. That is not included in the bill.

Mr. Clarke. Thank God for that. (Just the same, it was put into the bill later).

PITT AND PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh is to have an heroic bust of William Pitt, first earl of Chatham (1708-78), which will stand in the rotunda of the city hall. Pittsburgh (Fort Duquesne) was named for the famous British statesman in 1758 by John Forbes, the British general who revenged Braddock by driving out the French and building Fort Pitt, which still stands. The name was suggested by George Washington.

The bust is the gift of Sir Charles Wakefield, a former mayor of London. Presentation will be made May 9 by a distinguished party of Britons, headed by the marquis of Cambridge. Mayor William A. Magee (portrait herewith) will receive the bust on behalf of the city. Pittsburgh is planning a three-day celebration.

Sir Charles Wakefield decided to present busts of Pitt and Edmund Burke about the time Virginia presented to Great Britain, through the Sulgrave Institution of America, a replica of Houdon's statue of Washington that stands in the capitol at Richmond.

The Burke bust will go to Washington and will be received by President Harding.

Mrs. Patrick has for several years been a successful teacher in the grade school and Mr. Howard although handicapped, is making a brave and well deserved mark in his chosen life work. Their many friends wish them much happiness and prosperity in their life's journey.

A NEAR LYNCHING

The two Mexican women who aided and abetted the murder of Geo. W. Batton, came near feeling the full force of the fury and indignation of an angry populace, and doubtless would now be hibernating with the murderer in "Dante's Inferno" had it not been for the wise council of our ex-sheriff, Johnny Hewitt.
While a great concourse of Eddy County citizens showed gracious honors to the martyred sheriff, there was short shift made of the bloody remains of his brutal slayer without benefit of clergy or a tear. Wrapped in rags, he was dumped in a hole in the Potters field. Instead of holy orisons and hymns, his last requiem was yells of derisions and curses.—Hope Press.

And that isn't all by a jugful. Some day, vulgarly speaking, H-1 will be popping around Artesia when the great oil pool breaks loose good and plenty. The oil derricks will look like a Maine forest and the people like the army that licked Bill Kaiser.—Hope Press.

The above from the Hope Press has reference to the Brown well near Artesia, flowing 25 barrels per day, recently published in the Advocate.

If the present fruit crop does not get damaged, there will not be trucks and wagons enough to haul it to the railroad, and the railroad will have to rent a few cars to get it to market.—Hope Booster.

The above is evidence that the good old town is going some. It is a wise move. A sale and trade day will enliven the town and the social feature is an item of no small importance. It is a get-together movement for the town and rural people, and will be prolific of much good.

The Press force will be there on each first Monday.—Hope Press
The above is a comment on Artesia's Trade Day.

On May 26th, the Artesia Advocate had about a full page about the paving proposition. It seems that some of the residents don't want to pave. The reason they give is that Artesia is not backed up by anything that will justify trying to make a real town of that thriving little city. Our representative was in Artesia a few days ago. It rained and he had a mighty hard time getting out of town; when he struck the highway about a quarter of a mile out of town the conditions changed at once and it was with great pleasure that he drove to Hope over this splendid hardsurfaced road.

He suggests that a town is just what you make it, no matter where it may be—either out on the sandy desert or set by the foaming sea. If you want to sleep in the sunlight and allow your children to grow up in the mud it is all right; but you can have a splendid city if you want it—and then get oil—and those who don't want paved street can move to Durkin. And while we are on this subject we want to talk Hope. Our splendid hard surfaced road coming in from the east is beyond question about the best thing we have ever had, or could expect. How do you feel after traveling over it, and drop off into a wiggly muddy sidling street in your own town? and swim a mud hole. Our Main street is good except that it needs the loose stone moved. It would not take very much work to fix up the street and culverts in town. Let us get busy. And if Artesia does not pave, let's fix a refuge for them and move the whole thing to Hope—what do you think about it?—Hope Booster.

Do the People Desire Better Government?

I say that they do. I contend that there are more right-minded people than there are wrong-minded people, in New Mexico. I know that party bias embarrasses and misleads many good men and women, but the great majority desire decency in government, a square deal for all and equality of opportunity for every citizen.

These desirable ends can never be attained through ignorance of conditions. The people must know the facts. They must be aroused to militant action. They must compel political parties to be decent. This, a crystallized public sentiment, will do.

Pitiless publicity is the route to reform. My forced sale of the Albuquerque Morning Journal silenced the chief organ for the people in this state. Who has seen a strong word of criticism directed at conditions in New Mexico in any newspaper of general circulation in the state, since I signed a contract to sell the Journal.

The silence of the tomb has settled down upon New Mexico. The springs of publicity have been choked and have gone dry of a sudden.

But they will be re-opened on June 22. On that date I begin the publication of Magee's Independent, a state-wide weekly paper, at $2.00 per year. The first issue will contain the facts constituting an amazing and scandalous story of misfeasance, if not malfeasance, in a state office.

If you want to know what is really going on in New Mexico it will be necessary to read Magee's Independent. Republican, Democrat or Independent—all should know the facts. If you conclude that the remedy lies in cleaning up your own party, well and good. Think what you please, but make your thinking intelligent by basing it on the facts.

I need your help in the work I am undertaking for the people of the state. Use the blank below and subscribe today. Remit the money within 30 days if more convenient. Pay now if you can. But do not delay action until you are too late for the first issue. Act today.

This is not a money-making enterprise. It is a state-making and decency-making undertaking. You should lend your aid by subscribing.

 YOUR MAIL IS DELAYED
 AT OFFICE OF DELIVERY

The Dead Letter Office has been in existence ever since Ben Franklin started our postal service. Even then people addressed mail to Mr. Ezekiel Smithers, "Atlantic Coast," and expected Ben to know just where Zeke lived.

Perhaps they had Zeke's address in letters up in the garret, maybe a chest full of 'em, but then it was easier to let Ben hunt Zeke. Today people are addressing letters to John Smith, New York, N. Y., or Chicago, Ill., thinking Uncle Sam can locate him, which is just as incomplete as was Zeke's address of yore. The Postoffice Department asks you to put the number and street in the address. It helps you.

How do you expect the Postal Clerk to know whether you mean Trinidad, California, or Trinidad, Colorado? ALWAYS SPELL OUT THE NAME OF THE STATE IN FULL IN THE ADDRESS.

"MORE BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT"

This apt phrase was used in President Harding's first message to Congress and applies particularly in postal management where postmasters are being impressed with the fact that they are managers of local branches of the biggest business in the world.

HERE COMES A STRANGER!

Let's make our post office look neat. Mr. Postmaster. Straighten up the rural letter box. Mr. Farmer. Tidy up some, Mr. Rural Carrier. First impressions are lasting. Maybe Mr. Stranger, taking notice of these improvements, will come back, bringing you benefits. Start these with "POSTAL IMPROVEMENT WEEK" May 1-6.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK.

GLACIER is one of the newer of our great "outdoor museums" or national parks. Scattered throughout its 1,400 square miles is a jumble of mountains, glaciers, rivers, lakes and waterfalls which looks like "the Great Builder had left the odds and ends of his world making here in one disordered heap."

A newspaper man toiled hard to reach the top of one of the skyland trails. Resting on a boulder and looking far out over the forests, across a flower-carpeted valley to a superbly beautiful mountain lake, he declared he had discovered "Where God sat when he made America."

The dominating feature of Glacier is its magnificently carved mountains. It contains some of the most tremendous panoramas in the world. Some of its peaks remind one of cathedrals, others of forts and castles. The suns and winds of hundreds of years have tinted their summits with varying hues. Often their sides are covered with great, slow-moving glaciers—ice fields, some of which travel fully five inches in a year. Between or below them are splendid forests of pine. The meadows between these wooded patches are a riot of wild flowers.

But the supreme beauty of this park is its mountain-hemmed, mirrorlike lakes, fed by glacial streams which tumble down the mountain sides, often in tall, ribbonlike falls of great beauty. Add to this an occasional glimpse of a Swiss chalet (for the accommodation of visitors) and you have an unbeatable combination for the true lover of the wild and the beautiful.

We can turn out anything in the printing line that you need, at a price as low as any one, quality, material and workmanship considered. Come in and see us before placing your order elsewhere.

True, he may have got some spiritual consolation from it, but there was a significance that had not dawned upon him. He kept hard at it, working his long hours each day and far into the night with plans. It is not at all elaborate, being of the familiar, practical and economical square or box type, as it is often called, frame exterior set on a firm concrete foundation with high cellar for heating plant and storage room. A farmhouse without plenty of room for a large laundry, vegetable store room and modern heating plant, is not worth while and certainly not practical.

Across the entire front extends a wide, open porch, an ideal recreation place for the family in the warm weather and cool evenings. In the summer it can be screened in to keep out pests and dirt.

The front door opens into a small vestibule in which there is a clothes closet for outdoor clothes, umbrellas, etc. The reception hall opens into the large living room, 13 by 16 feet 6 inches, arranged in the manner in which modern buildings are, with fireplace and side wall bookcases. Windows in front and side provide plenty of light. It is also important to note in these floor plans that all electrical fixtures and outlets are indicated.

From the living room, one enters the dining room through a door opening rather wide and plain. In dining room provision is made for a central lighting fixture over the table, and smaller wall fixtures around the room. This room gets light from a triple side window. Crossing over, we find the door to the kitchen, a small, compact room of modern design and arrangement little of the comforts of home that make it a solace and comfort after the day's work is over. His first consideration was a barn. And after he had built a structure that was not to be excelled in the neighboring country, he built a hoghouse or sheep barn. All the while he was living in a makeshift shelter which he called home.

But the light was coming, coming to show the way in the darkness. The light that showed the real value of a home, the absolute economy of the idea, and its influence on the future of the boys and girls who were growing up. As they began to desert the farms, to leave their parents to go to the lights of the city, the farmer began to think, and as he thought, he began to see the gleam that was to enlighten him. He realized that to keep his boys on the farm, to get the maximum joy out of life, he would have to build a regular home as well as a substantial barn.

And with the home came many of the conveniences that are now available in the city. With the home came running water, bathrooms, and electric light, the light that was to lead the farmer down the road to ideas, home life.

You would have to travel far and long to find a modest farm home that embodies more real comfort, more convenience and labor-saving inventions than the house shown here with floor

Off the kitchen are pantry and wash-room, the latter a necessary room in the farm house plan, a place where the men coming in from the fields can wash up before stepping into the house proper. In this way much of the dirt that used to come into the farm kitchen is left out. Off the dining room to the rear is a bedroom for those who have to wash early. There is also a lavatory in connection with the wash-room.

This arrangement leaves the upper floor entirely to bedrooms, of which there are four in this plan, with a rear screened-in sleeping porch and balcony. The two front bedrooms are 13 feet square, while the two rear ones are 12 by 13 feet. They all have clothes closets.

In short, we have a modern farm home, well constructed, containing all of the conveniences and comforts of the city home. It is the antidote for the poison that is gnawing at the vitals of the youth on the farm and driving them to uncertain conditions in the great cities. There is no excuse for the old-fashioned home any more. The snap of a button or the turning of a switch gives the best light there is at small cost. Running water from faucets allows the soothing vigor of a bath and relieves the farmer's wife of the hard task of hauling from the well or pumping it via the kitchen.

By JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN
O say, does that Star-Spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

FORT McHENRY will be restored and preserved as a national park and perpetual national memorial shrine as the birthplace of "The Star-Spangled Banner," written by Francis Scott Key—if a bill (S. 3349) introduced by Senator France of Maryland goes through congress.

An act was passed in 1914 which granted the use of the Fort McHenry Military reservation to the city of Baltimore for park purposes. The new bill amends the 1914 act so as to read, in part: "The secretary of war is hereby authorized and directed, so soon as it may no longer be needed for uses and needs growing out of the recent war, to begin the restoration of Fort McHenry, in the state of Maryland, now occupied and used as a military reservation, including the restoration of the old Fort McHenry proper to the condition in which it was on the 1st of September, 1814, and to place the whole of said military reservation in such a condition as would make it suitable for preservation permanently as a national park and perpetual national memorial shrine as the birthplace of the immortal 'Star-Spangled Banner,' written by Francis Scott Key; and that the secretary of war be, and he is hereby further authorized and directed, as are his successors, to hold the said Fort McHenry in perpetuity as a military reservation, national park and memorial, and to maintain it as such . . . the said reservation to be maintained as a national public park, subject to such regulations as may from time to time be issued by the secretary of war; Provided, That the citizens of Baltimore city and of the state of Maryland shall be given as free and full access to and use of said national park as they would enjoy if this were a part of the park system of Baltimore city."

Provision is made for restoration and improvements under approval of the secretary of war and at the expense of the United States. The sum of $100,000 is appropriated for the work and $10,000 annually for maintenance.

Nothing is said in the bill about a museum of appropriate relics. Nevertheless, if Fort McHenry is to be restored and preserved as a "perpetual national memorial shrine as the birthplace of the immortal 'Star-Spangled Banner,'" it would seem that the flag which inspired the national hymn should be a feature of the shrine.

For the original Star-Spangled Banner—the actual piece of red, white and blue bunting that Key was so anxious to see "by the dawn's early light," is still in existence. It is probably the most interesting bit of bunting in the world to good Americans. It is in the National museum in Washington and thousands go to see it every year.

This sacred relic is now more than one hundred years old and looks its age. It has, however, been mounted on net and has been carefully mended. With good care it should last a long time.

As every good American knows—or should know—the flag consists of thirteen alternate red and white stripes, representing the thirteen original states, and a blue field on which are forty-eight white stars, arranged in six rows of eight stars each, representing the forty-eight states now constituting the Union. The forty-seventh and forty-eighth stars were added in 1912 when New Mexico and Arizona were admitted.

The original flag was adopted by congress June 14, 1777—that is why June 14 is observed as Flag Day. It had thirteen stripes and thirteen stars. It was the plan in the early days to add both a star and a stripe to the flag for each new state. But it was soon seen—by 1812 there were five new states—that while a star could easily be added, additional stripes were out of the question. The addition in 1794 of two stripes for Vermont (1791) and Kentucky (1792) destroyed the proportions of the flag. So there were never more than fifteen stripes and the fifteen were officially reduced to the original thirteen in 1818.

It is of interest to note that the Fort McHenry flag has but fifteen stars, though in 1814 there were eighteen states, Tennessee (1796), Ohio (1802) and Louisiana (1812) having been admitted. But fifteen it has—in six alternate rows of three and two stars, beginning at the edge of the field next the staff. The explanation is that no official change was made in the flag between 1794 and 1818. The flag in 1818 was given twenty stars, Indiana and Mississippi having been admitted, and thirteen stripes.

Did you know that by correct usage the flag in time of peace is not permitted to float all night, except at the grave of Francis Scott Key?

Senator France, in introducing the Fort McHenry bill, put into the Congressional Record the contents of a booklet prepared by himself and other patriotic citizens. This booklet contains, among other things, the following interesting matter:

The 1st of September, 1814, saw the city of Washington burned, the handful of American warships driven to port by force of superior numbers, the Atlantic coast from Maine to Louisiana open to attack, and the fate of the Union in the balance. It was then that Fort McHenry stood firm against the invader, redeemed our eastern seaboard, and delivered the federal government from serious disaster or utter ruin.

In the two and a half years of war preceding the defense of Fort McHenry, scores of the fastest sailing vessels afloat had set forth from beside its parapets. Eluding the frigates that once impressed American seamen, these light-armed clipper ships pursued and captured enemy merchantmen by the hundred, prisoners by the thousands, and booty that ran into millions.

To the enemy the waters of the Chesapeake had now become little better than a "nest of privateers and pirates." It was clear to them that the Chesapeake must be rid of these pests, the federal capital captured, and Baltimore forced to pay for damage done and be made the point of a wedge to drive the North and South apart. Then Fredericksburg and Richmond could be threatened or captured on the south, Philadelphia and New York on the north.

The British were driving south from Canada and were at Plattsburg. They proposed to sweep down and make a junction with the 9,000 troops quartered on the fleet in the Chesapeake. Then by uniting their forces from Lake Champlain and the Chesapeake and having neutralized New England, they would coerce and subjugate America once again.

Washington had fallen easily, a body of our regulars and militia had been defeated at Bladensburg, and the Chesapeake coast line was at the mercy of the "redcoats"—all but that section protected by the guns of Fort McHenry and troops gathered in the vicinity. To be pitted against our soldiers were continental veterans fresh from their victories on the continent of Europe. In the Chesapeake were not only Wellington's Invincibles but Nelson's marines, distinguished at Trafalgar and the battle of the Nile.

The invading fleet numbered some fifty sail—a large proportion of them, classed as men-of-war and frigates of the line. Against this armada with its troop transports, America could oppose nothing at all.

The hope of the Middle Atlantic seaboard and perhaps the Union itself lay in the city of Baltimore, and the hope of Baltimore lay in the garrison and guns of Fort McHenry and such untrained troops as could be mustered for other land defenses.

No wonder that Gen. Sir Robert Ross, who commanded the British troops, declared that he would "eat his supper in Baltimore" subsequent to his first day on land. Nothing seemed to him more certain even if, as he said, "it rains militia." Baltimore was picked to be his winter headquarters and a logical base for further operations north, south or west.

Early on Sunday morning, September 11, the alarm was sounded through the streets of Baltimore. The British fleet had entered the Patuxent river. The cannon boomed on the courthouse plaza, summoning the militia to arms.

The defensive force and equipment of Fort McHenry were supplied largely by the citizens of the beleaguered port. Regardless of a blazing sun, men and women toiled with pick and shovel to throw up breastworks at every approach to the city and its chief reliance, Fort McHenry. Maj. Gen. Samuel Smith was in command of the militia, and under him was Brigadier General Stricker. Sailors, lacking ships to go to sea, were converted into land forces under the brilliant Commodore John Rozer.

Before dawn had streaked the sky on the 12th of September the British were astride, and boat after boat carried men and arms to North Point, where now stands Fort Howard. General Ross, who had won his laurels in Holland, Egypt and the peninsula, took command. At his side was Rear Admiral Cockburn, who was hated for his plundering of defenseless villages. Admiral Sir Alexander Cochrane, successor of Admiral Warren as commander in chief of the British forces in America, remained on his flagship and in person supervised the plans for the attack by water.

The American commanders sent forward outposts to engage the British, and scarcely were the latter assembled on shore when General Ross fell. Tradition has it that two youths, perched in a tree, shot him when he passed within range of their rifles. As he was carried to the rear, he demanded that he be covered, for fear the knowledge of his fall would reach his men and dismay them. Shortly after giving these directions he lost consciousness, and died in the arms of his aid, Sir Duncan McDougall.

The encounter at North Point was that phase of the engagements which in their entirety might be called the Battle of Baltimore, the attack upon Fort McHenry being the crucial or decisive action. The first encounter, wholly on land, was on the afternoon of the 12th. The British stormed the American earthworks, but were checked by a fire of shot, slugs, scamp iron and nails. The lines of both armies swayed back and forth, with victory smiling first on one side and then on the other. The British lost 600 that day, the Americans 150.

At dusk a great storm broke and the fighting halted. At daybreak the rain ceased and the battle began anew, the British commander, Brooke, who had succeeded Ross, ordering his men forward to avenge the setbacks of the day before.

The fleet was all commotion, for an officer from Colonel Brooke's staff had urgently requested Admiral Cochrane to open the bombardment of Fort McHenry, which, if successful, would seal the fate of the city. Soon the ships weighed anchor and sailing up the Patuxent, got into battle formation 2½ miles off the fort. The decks were stripped, the bomb and rocket vessels opened their fire, and 16 ships hurled bombs, rockets and solid shot into the ramparts. The garrison of the fort—1,000 volunteers and regulars—was under Col. George Armistead. Armistead unmasked his batteries and directed a brisk fire, but the range of his guns and mortars fell short of the ships. This was disheartening, and his anxiety was not lessened when a 24-pounder in the southeast bastion was demolished by an exploding bomb, mortally wounding an officer and several of the cannoneers.

Observing the confusion in the fort, Admiral Cochrane signaled three of his bomb vessels, and they moved closer to the ramparts to hasten the victory. Armistead seized his opportunity, and ordered a well-directed fire, and his wide-mouthed cannon wrought havoc on the decks of the three, one of them, the Erebus, being disabled.

In the shadow of the British fleet that day and night rode the American vessel Minden, flying a flag of truce, and used by American agents in the exchange of prisoners. While the bombardment raged, none watched with more anxiety than Francis Scott Key. He had gone to the British fleet in the Potomac to seek the release of an old friend, Dr. William Beanes, a physician seized on charges of taking up arms against British stragglers. Key obtained his release, but on the eve of the operations both were transferred to the Minden, which was detained under a guard of marines until the British plans should be carried out.

From the decks of the cartel ship Key and his companions watched every belch of the cannon. Midnight came and 1,250 men, equipped with scaling ladders, dropped from the fleet into barges, with the intention of surprising from the rear.

How the hearts of the patriots beat as, helpless to give the alarm, they saw this strategy under way with every prospect of success. In attempting to effect a landing, however, the expeditionary force struck lights and these lights cost it a possible victory. The defenders promptly set fire to a haystack and, as its glow revealed the barges, Fort McHenry and the redoubts shook with the salvos of the guns. The six-gun battery under Sailing Master Webster, which the British had planned to take by storm, was served that midnight coolly and quickly by a little group of cannoneers, whose valor was sustained by the thought of home and country, and to whom Colonel Armistead afterward said he was "persuaded the country was much indebted for the final repulse of the enemy." Many of the landing party were killed and others wounded; two boats were sunk and the survivors made back to the fleet. The defenders lost 4 killed and 24 wounded. The master stroke had been delivered and had failed; 1,800 shells had been thrown into the fortifications, but no white flag flew from the great staff.

Sunset had cast a leaden gloom upon the spirits of the defenders, but dawn found their hopes high and the invader beaten off. That night, with the fate of the city and perhaps the existence of the Union hanging by a thread, Key paced the deck of the Minden, and each shell that sped screaming from the ships was a stab at his heart, a challenge to all he held dear. When the first blush of morning tinged the sky Key gazed toward the battlements and with straining eyes beheld the Stars and Stripes, scarred, but still defiantly floating. The cannonading had ceased; the troops, many of them wounded, had been conveyed to the ships and the fleet was setting its sails. The joy of Key was unrestrained, and from his soul there came "the Star-Spangled Banner."

STOP FOR LUNCH AT ROSWELL

Roswell will be a stop lunch for the noon train on the Santa Fe in the future. The Chamber of Commerce received word to this effect yesterday afternoon from T. B. Galaher, general passenger agent. The Chamber of Commerce has had this matter up for several months and when the yearly program was made out in January this was again placed on the Docket. The change is the result of efforts of the organization.

This will be started when the next time card of the Santa Fe is issued, which will likely be in the next thirty or sixty days. In the event a general card is not issued in that time, a supplement will be put out to take care of this change. Passengers will have thirty minutes and be able to get lunch at the Glider. Instead of stopping at the water tank as has been the custom, the train will come direct to the station, unload passengers and then go back for water.

Roswell has received much unfavorable comment in the past because of the fact that passengers were not able to get food from the time they left Clovis at nine in the morning until they reached Carlsbad after four in the afternoon. Passengers of course, blamed the city, although up to this time the Santa Fe has not seen fit to make the stop here.—Roswell News.

Miss Alice Baber who has been spending the winter in Ft. Smith, Arkansas, with her aunt, arrived in Artesia on Wednesday to spend the summer with her mother.

Here is one of the most tasteful relishes of the 1922 compositions. The saltiness of the green olives blends with the cabbage, celery and beets in a manner that can be appreciated only by sampling:

One cup stoned Spanish green olives (chopped), one cup chopped young cabbage, one-half cup celery cut in rings, one-half cup finely diced cold boiled beets, one-half cup French dressing, one-quarter cup sugar, one tablespoonful mixed salt, pepper and paprika. Mix these ingredients, chill, and serve with meat course. This relish may be prepared in twenty minutes and will serve seven or eight.
