AROUND MULESHOE

A Defensive Driving class is scheduled for September 16-17 at the Muleshoe Police Department, according to Lt. Wayne Holmes, instructor.

He said the class is scheduled for 6:30-10:30 p.m. each of the two evenings, and cost of the class is $5.

You may register with the MPD dispatcher through September 16.

Lazbuddie Young Homemakers have received their first shipment of Del Cerro pecans. The cost this year is $4 per pound, or $48 per case.

For your pecans for all your holiday cooking and baking, call Pat Randolph at 965-2915 or contact any Lazbuddie Young Homemaker.

Unclaimed reserved seats for the 1986 football season have gone on sale to the public this week in the offices of the Muleshoe Independent School District.

To purchase the reserve seat options, go to the business offices of the Muleshoe schools.

At presstime, Rene Garcia, 22, a Muleshoe resident being sought on charges of murder, aggravated assault, aggravated kidnapping and motor vehicle theft, is still at large, followed an early morning fatal shooting and kidnapping in Parmer County on August 2.

Also still being sought is kidnap victim, Ida Sotelo, 18, who was allegedly taken at gunpoint by Garcia following the fatal shooting of her sister.

Serving Chicken Fried

Steak Before Game

"Have you had a cravin' flung on ya' for chicken fried steak?" asked a member of the Muleshoe Lions Club. "If so, the Lions Club is sponsoring a chicken fried steak nite, Friday, September 5, before the Muleshoe/Olton football game.

He said the menu will consist of chicken fried steak ("as tender as a mother's love"), mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, corn bread, peach cobbler with whipped cream and drink.

And--the tickets are only $4 for adults, with $2.50 for kids under 10 years of age. Serving times at the Muleshoe High School cafeteria will be 5:30-7:30 p.m. And as a convenience, Lions Members will deliver dinners between 6-7 p.m. You may order your dinner that evening by calling 272-4360.

Live entertainment in the way of dinner music will be featured through the evening at the cafeteria.

"So, boogie on down to the high school cafeteria for a really festive occasion," said Lion Boss Troy Stegemoeller.

BUSY, BUSY--Last week, the Denver City football players came to Muleshoe, and took on the Mules in a scrimmage at Benny Douglass Stadium. Although the powerful Denver City players 'took' the Mules in the scrimmage, the Mule defense proved to be strong. This week, the 1986 football season gets underway when the Olton Mustangs come stomping into town to take on the Mules at 8 p.m.

Mules To Take On The Olton Mustangs

Last year, the Muleshoe Mules 'hugged' the bottom in a rebuilding and losing season. This year, Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Dale Keeling is expected to guide and lead the Mules out of the cellar. This is expected to be accomplished by the Mules, who are closely being tutored by the coaching staff at Muleshoe High School.

Friday night, the Muleshoe Mules will be hosting the Olton Mustangs, former longtime rivals, in the opening football game of the 1986 season.

Olton had a 4-5-1 record in 1985, while the Mules turned up 0-9, and Coach Russ Reagan booked a very hefty pre-game schedule to give his Mustangs a 'heavy test' before going to district play.

Other 3A teams Olton will be playing in non-district action include Floydada, Friona and Dimmitt.

In the meantime, Coach Keeling, who is in his second year at Muleshoe, says the Mules made enough sacrifices in 1985 to turn the Mules fortune around for the 1986 year.

"We're still real young, but

Thunderstorms Rattle Windows, Deposit Rain

Apparently the National Weather Service was caught off guard with predictions for Wednesday, Wednesday night and Thursday. Although they had issued a 'clearing' forecast, this was revised during the night Tuesday to include a 'Flash Flood' watch covering a large area of the Permian Basin area, the South Plains and along the New Mexico border.

The NWS revision was to remain in effect until 4 a.m. on Thursday, and included all counties around Bailey County, along with eastern New Mexico.

Drizzle and fog, along with some booming thunderstorms, had lingered in the area for most of the past week.

Early Sunday morning, the Muleshoe area came in for some of the heavier moisture, as 1.3 inches of rain fell in the city in "Just a few minutes."

Some areas recorded up to 1.6 inches in the northeastern area of the city, and some isolated areas to the west of Muleshoe also reported nearly two inches.

On Tuesday night, heavy lightning and some thunder moved into the area, although no moisture was recorded as the storm moved to the north and east away from Bailey County.

Flash flooding remained in the Permian Basin and portions of the Concho Valley to the south and west of Bailey County and in some instances, more than nine inches of rain was reported in just a few hours overnight on Tuesday in those areas.

Many homes, and businesses reported water inside in the Midland area as flooding continued on Wednesday morning.

On Tuesday, the first day of school in the area, school buses were forced to 'run pavement only,' as early morning rains kept buses off ungraded roads throughout the area.

Local Business Boosts 'Shopping At Home'

'86 Pigskin Prognosticator -- Get Ready

It's the beginning of a new school year, the beginning of another football season--and also it's the beginning of another annual popular event -- the annual merchant's football contest.

In this issue of The Muleshoe Journal, you will find the first football contest of the new season, and it is simple, easy and a lot of fun. Weekly prize winners will be determined, and weekly winners also accumulate points to decide the grand prize winner at the end of the contest.

All you have to do is check in each of the advertisements on the page, and choose the team you think will win the game. Write the name of the winner on the entry blank, and choose the two tiebreakers. On the tiebreakers, you must write the score you believe each team will make in each of the two games listed. Without the score, your entry cannot be considered.

Be sure you put your name, address and telephone number on the entry blank. Each year entries have to be tossed out because they failed to have a name on them.

Each entry must be in the offices of the Journal no later than 5 p.m. on the Friday preceding the weekend college games. They may be mailed to The Journal, P.O. Box 449, Muleshoe, Tx 79347. Please mark the envelope "Football Contest."

Join your friends and neighbors and see who will win the contest this year.

Football Coach Gives Program At Rotary Club

Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Dale Keeling was introduced by Dr. Barry Cowart as guest speaker for the Muleshoe Rotary Club on Tuesday.

Keeling was accompanied to the luncheon by his newly designated assistant coach, Jim Stewart, who is new to the Muleshoe Independent School District.

The coaches reviewed the 1986 football program and showed slides. They said Denver City was a good scrimmage opponent for the Mules, and said the Mules showed good defense against Denver City, as well as scrimmage opponents, Shallowater.

Although the offense made some mistakes, Coach Keeling said their immediate concern is with the linebacker and safety positions.

They were happy to say they will be fielding three teams again this year as they have at least 24 more players than they have had for the past couple of years.

Olton is expected to be a more formidable opponent that first believed, and should provide a good 'work-out' for the players in the first game of the season.

Rotarians were reminded that the Rotary Garage sale will be held September 11, 12 and 13 in the old Anthony's building just south of Damron Drug Store. The Rotary is soliciting donations of clothing, appliances, old mothers-in-law, or anything they can sell during the three day sale.

Guests at the meeting included Jerry Gleason, Curtis Buhrman and Terry Hahn. District Governor is expected to visit next week.

With this issue of The Muleshoe Journal, an all new feature will be starting. Most of the Muleshoe merchants are asking that you "Shop At Home," and help your own community. The more than 50 merchants and local professional people shown on the two pages are encouraging local people to 'spend your dollars at home.'

Although The Journal has had a long practice of not running unsigned Letters to the Editor, the following letter was received last week. Unsigned, the letter really does 'tell it like it is,' so is made a part of this effort to boost "Shopping At Home."

This is the letter, written by a 'concerned' citizen:

The people of Muleshoe are facing yet another important battle in an ongoing fight for our treasured "small town" way of life. This is a fight which may not be apparent to many citizens.

The economic difficulties which the local business community has suffered in recent months are symptomatic of this fight for survival. However, residents have the opportunity to do something to help their community. "Shopping at home" may never be more important than it is this year.

Texas has suffered statewide: business is down, unemployment is up. Most rural areas and small towns, like Muleshoe have been hard hit and are fighting for survival.

We can no longer be complacent. Muleshoe is also fighting for survival, but Muleshoe can survive and more, succeed, but it is going to take the concern and effort of all its citizens.

Everyone should do as much of their shopping as possible at home for several reasons.

1. Local sales keep those dollars at home where they turn over and over again, providing jobs and income for many persons. Those who complain about the town needing more jobs and better pay, and who then shop out of town, are only contributing to the very problem they're complaining about!

2. Local sales tax comes back into the city budget to help it provide and maintain essential services. Shopping out of town decreases the amount received by the city for use on those essential services.

3. A steady volume of local sales helps to assure that the local merchants will stay in business and be able to offer a greater and better selection of merchandise. Shopping away from home only means they offer less and less, or perhaps, close altogether.

4. Local prices are generally competitive with those elsewhere, and usually beat others when you consider the cost of gasoline and service out of town.

5. Muleshoe is a fine community to live and raise a family in. One reason is a good school system. A system supported by tax dollars from local tax base. If local businesses close and property values decrease that tax base will be eroded and the schools will have to suffer or taxes will have to increase.

6. Lost jobs, sales tax, and tax base can only mean that the quality of life in Muleshoe will decline and our young people will be forced to go elsewhere as they seek careers and livings. Studies have shown that 75 to 80 percent of new jobs come from expansion of existing businesses. Building up our local businesses by patronization should be a number one priority.

Some Muleshoe businesses are making a real effort to attract and deserve local resident's patronage. Seasonal sales, promotions of various kinds, in-store sales and numerous other events are evidence

Legal Drinking Age Goes To 21 Effective Now

Liquor establishments, from clubs to package stores, are already feeling the effects of the new drinking age law that went into effect September 1.

At 12:01 a.m. Monday, possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages became illegal for any Texans who have not reached their 21st birthday, except when the underage person is with his parents or spouse who is over 21.

Also, the law contains no "grandfather" clause, meaning many men and women who have been allowed to drink since turning 19 now will be denied that right.

Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission officials have also warned businesses selling liquor to be ready for a possible flood of fake ID cards from underage would-be drinkers.

Using false identification in an attempt to purchase alcoholic beverages is a misdemeanor offense, punishable by a fine of $25 to $200. An adult giving alcohol to a minor faces a fine of $100 to $500, according to the TABC.

Sale of alcoholic beverages to an underage person is a more serious offense, punishable by a fine of $100 to $500 and up to a year in jail for the first violation.

P-TA PROCLAMATION SIGNED--Muleshoe Mayor Darrell Turner, seated, not only signed a proclamation designating the month of September as P-TA Month in Muleshoe. He also became the first member for the 1986-87 school year. Mayor Turner signed up as a 'grandparent.' Looking on as he signs the proclamation is Kay Graves, president of the Muleshoe P-TA.

Union Members Meet With Congressmen

During the Labor Day Congressional recess members of Texas Farmers Union will meet with their respective congressmen to relate the inadequacies of the current farm program.

The results of the recent wheat poll have once again proven that the genuine wheat farmers are ready and willing to implement a realistic farm program with effective supply management, affordable to the consumers and taxpayers, in return for assurance of a fair and equitable price in the marketplace.

It is with stock and disbelief that we read the statement by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng on the Wheat Poll results: "Based on the relative small response to the wheat poll, I don't think a great deal of significance can be attached to the results. I therefore consider the poll to be inconclusive."

"My position on the overall subject of the poll has been well publicized and is unchanged."

Joe Rankin, President of Texas Farmers Union, commented, "There are a number of conclusions which can be drawn from the statistical data provided in the U.S. Department of Agriculture news release, aside from the negative approach used in the release. Beyond conclusions, several questions may be asked about the design, counting and detailed ballot which provided the statistical data set forth by USDA." Mr. Rankin said, "To my knowledge, there were no qualifications attached to the 1,565,517 ballots that were mailed. Since the qualifications of the ballots were 'inconclusive,' and no yield or acreage value attached to those ballots, it definitely appears that of the 319,408 ballots tallied, 66.6 percent of those voting, or 212,957, were producers of 40 acres or more. This result could point to a majority of the largest producers voting for mandatory controls."

The TFU President went on to say, "since the wheat referenda was adequately publicized by USDA as being non-binding, that single issue might have been responsible for the small voter response alluded to by the press release. However, in 1980 the presidential election in which Mr. Reagan was elected with a 54 percent vote was described as a 'mandate from the country that change was necessary.' About the same percentage of eligible voters actually voted in the 1980 election as the percentage of wheat producers who returned ballots in the wheat referenda. The major difference in this conclusion is that the presidential election was indeed binding, and the percentage of votes was significant enough for the election of a president."

Mr. Rankin said, "We would like to add our support to that of our National Farmers Union in calling for a referendum that would bind the USDA to mandatory control program for wheat as well as other major commodities. At this time in the history of agriculture, it is imperative that the producers have a voice in their own destiny, and the support of the U.S. Department of Agriculture for this very basic democratic principle."

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres takes a sidelong glance at scientist this week.

Dear Editor: I have often thought there ought to be some way for scientist to get their names in the paper without having to discover something else that's bad for you.

There is now a way: they are now getting their names in the paper by discovering that what they first discovered was bad for you, they have now discovered it isn't.

Harvard scientists a few years ago announced coffee can help cause cancer. Now they've discovered they were mistaken and you and they, especially they I imagine, can drink it without feeling guilty. A scientist who likes coffee is bound to keep on researching till he finds it's all right to drink it.

But one mistaken piece of research doesn't stop another piece of research.

Now another group of scientists has come up with the notion that hamburgers can increase the likelihood of heart trouble. This is not the first time indigestion from eating to fast to greasily has been diagnosed as a heart attack.

I don't know how many hamburgers are consumed each year, but judging by the number of TV ads promoting them, it must be in the millions and millions, and scientist who think they're bad for you ought to come out of their laboratory and look around. If they don't want to come out, don't they know they can send out for hamburgers?

I don't know what the world is coming to when, among other things, breakfast cereal makers have started putting peanuts in cornflakes.

Yours Faithfully, J.A.

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble."

TRLA Report Complete Announced Congressman

Congressman Larry Combest (R-TX) announced today that a draft monitoring report regarding the activities of Texas Rural Legal Aid (TRLA) has been completed by the Legal Services Corporation (LSC).

The Congressman was informed that the report was received by TRLA yesterday for a 30-day comment period mandated by LSC rules. Combest indicated that he has not seen the report and is unable to comment on its contents; however, he will have details when the confidentiality period expires on September 29.

"The people of the 19th District deserve a definite and responsible resolution to the persistent problems that have been conveyed to me concerning

Registration Continues At South Plains College

Registration for the fall 1986 semester at South Plains College will continue through Sept. 10.

Classes are available in such areas as real estate, petroleum technology, mid-management, business administration, the sciences and others, according to Don Yarbrough, dean of continuing education.

"If someone would like to earn a degree in business administration, they can begin with our accounting classes, for example," said Yarbrough. Also available are survey of data processing and several other computer classes.

Other classes still open include functions of supervisors and introduction to business, mid-management course; principles of real estate and other real estate courses; introduction to the petroleum industry, field gas processing and other petroleum technology courses; college composition and rhetoric, masterpieces of literature, physical geology, typing, shorthand, business math and others.

Interested persons can sign up for classes during office hours in the SPC registrar's office. For more information, contact SPC at 894-9611.

TRLA," said Combest. "I am very pleased that the Corporation has finally completed its monitoring, and I am most anxious to evaluate LSC's findings."

Once TRLA's 30-day review period ends, LSC has the authority to take appropriate action to address any failures to comply with federal law substantiated by the Corporation's monitoring report.

Combest maintained his commitment to resolving the widespread allegations of abuse by TRLA. "After receiving numerous constituent letters, phone calls and a 3,000-signature petition from Hereford residents in protest of TRLA's practices, I requested in February 1985 that the LSC conduct a thorough investigation into alleged abuses by TRLA," said Combest. "It is my understanding from LSC officials that the monitoring report currently being reviewed by TRLA addresses the types of concerns voiced by my West Texas constituents."

The LSC is a quasi-governmental agency which received $305.5 million of federal funds in Fiscal Year 1986 for the purpose of providing legal services to the poor. TRLA, the second largest of the Corporation's state grantees, received approximately $4 million from the LSC in Fiscal Year 1986. Because the Corporation has received numerous complaints that TRLA has not been complying with the federal laws governing its operation, rather than on a yearly basis.

"Our Nation, our State and West Texas are suffering from the effects of a huge budget deficit," stated Combest. "We demand accountability in all agencies, and any misuse of taxpayer dollars must be stopped. If LSC's monitoring report verifies the allegations against TRLA that I have been hearing," Combest concluded, "corrective action is long overdue."

Sooners Are Expected To 'Come On Strong'

Last year's post-season national champion, Oklahoma, opens 1986 hosting U.C.L.A. while regular season champ Penn State entertains Temple. The Sooners and Nittany Lions could very well fight it out for the national title again this fall, along with about 10 or 15 others! Oklahoma lost only to Miami in 1985, posting a 10 and 1 record in winning the Big Eight title. The Sooners beat Penn State in the Orange Bowl 25-10. The Pac-10 champion Uclans were 8-2-1, and continued the Pacific Coast domination of the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl, whipping Iowa 45-28. The Sooners should win, home field, etc., but last year Miami was able to beat Oklahoma in Norman. U.C.L.A. could do it too.

Penn State, meanwhile, sidetracked in the Orange Bowl in its quest for the 1985 national crown, has learned from past experience not to look sideways when playing Temple. The Owls become Vultures against the Lions. In 1983, Penn State survived 23-18, and the Lions won another squeaker last fall 27-25. On paper, it's a comfortable difference, but Penn State would be advised to look straight ahead.

Last fall we shakily picked Nebraska over Florida State. And the Seminoles, playing in the Cornhusker backyard, upset Nebraska 17-13. This year, same setting in Lincoln. However, we're not quite as shaky in picking the Cornhuskers to prevail. Both teams had outstanding seasons last fall, Nebraska closing out a 9-2 regular season losing 27-23 to Michigan in the Fiesta Bowl. Florida State, 8-3, beat Oklahoma State 34-23 in the Gator Bowl.

In the past five years, Florida has won three of its early season meetings with intra-state rival Miami. After a 35-23 opening loss to Florida last fall, Miami breezed through the remainder of its schedule undefeated. However, the Hurricanes fell rather unceremoniously to psyched-up Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl 35-7. Florida finished 9-1-1 in '85, losing only to Georgia. This year, Miami, ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Mr. and Mrs. Andy Rogers of Antlers, Okla., formerly of Lazbuddie, wish to announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jana to Eric Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wallace of Antlers, Okla. Vows will be exchanged at 6 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 20 at the Antlers Church of Christ. The bride elect graduated from Antlers High School in 1984. She attended East Central University in Ada, Okla. and is currently attending Draughns Business College in Oklahoma City, Okla. Wallace graduated from Antlers High School in 1986, and is employed by Cooper Livestock Commission in Oklahoma City.

True Cost Of Home Food Preparation

Summer is good to us in Texas. Garden fresh vegetables and fruits are widely available and because of their abundance, their prices are low. Home gardens are doing nicely, too, so lots of folks are starting to preserve surplus food for later use. But is home food preservation "worth it"? An economic analysis says, "sometimes".

First, consider the direct cost of food preservation: the cost of the produce itself, other ingredients needed to put up the food, the containers and equipment, and the gas or electrical energy for processing and freezing food. Then there are the indirect costs, such as the time it takes to preserve food. This cost depends on the value you place on your time. Plan to spend close to three hours in the kitchen for every 7 quarts of tomatoes or peaches you can.

Another indirect cost is whether the food you preserve will actually be eaten. If you can green beans, and the family won't eat them, the cost will be high.

Researchers have shown a real cost advantage in canning peaches and tomatoes, especially if you either raise the produce or get it free, and if you already own canning jars and equipment. It might cost as little as .05 cents a quart to can your tomatoes but in the store you may pay over a dollar a quart. Home canned peaches can cost as little as .11 cents a quart and more than $1.50 in the supermarket. But if you have to buy both the peaches and the canning jars, the cost goes up to about .94 cents per quart.

Freezing produce gives good results, but can be costly. Energy costs may represent half the total cost of freezing green beans, for example. If your freezer isn't very energy efficient and your electrical rate is high, the cost of running it might wipe out any savings from gardening and preserving food.

But if you just enjoy preserving food, this economical analysis probably won't make much difference to you. You don't care what the cost you just know that come next winter you'll want to eat some garden fresh, home grown produce from your own pantry.

MULESHOE TO HAVE BAND SOON

Last Thursday evening a number of the boys gathered at the Legion Home and organized a band with fifteen pieces. Several others will be added. There is material here for a wonderful band.

A good band is one of the best advertisements a town can have. We have the material and the boys are willing to give their time and work. Are the businessmen willing to assist them? Lets talk this matter over and get behind the boys and have a real band ready for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention next year.

446 PUPILS ENROLL IN THE MULESHOE SCHOOL FOR BEGINNING TERM

Following a two day registration period last week, Muleshoe Public schools opened last Thursday morning with an enrollment of 262 in the grammar grade and 184 in high school, or a total of 446 pupils, which is about 20 more than were enrolled at this time last year. Enrollment is expected to reach at least 500 pupils before completed as new ones are being received daily.

Initial enrollment shows about 30 in the senior class looking toward high school graduation at the close of the year. While some of these may drop out for various reasons still other additions are expected, which may give the school the largest graduating class in its history next spring.

FIVE AREA SCHOOL ENROLL OVER 3200 STUDENTS: EXPECTING INCREASE

More than 3200 children started school in five area schools Monday, four of them in Bailey County, and one in nearby Parmer County, at Lazbuddie. Most schools reported Tuesday that enrollments are slightly below the early 1955 figures, but all anticipate a considerable increase of transient pupils during the approaching harvest season.

At Muleshoe there are 179 registered in the first grade, 156 in the second, 164 in the third, 148 in the fourth, and 146 in the fifth grade. A peak enrollment of 880 during the height of the harvest season is expected.

At Muleshoe junior high school, enrollment as of Tuesday was 383, also a bit less than the 400 enrollees in junior high school last year.

The 337 enrollment at high school is about 30 less than in 1955.

At Bula enrollment totals 144. Three Way's enrollment is 244, Circleback 24, and enrollment at Lazbuddie totals 325.

MIDNIGHT HARVEST PROVEN BOUNTIFUL

Some people call it 'weed' and some people call it 'grass', but local law enforcement officers called it simply a 'midnight harvest'.

Shortly before midnight Sunday, six local officers drove up in front of a house in the Lenau Addition. They were acting on a 'tip' which had been received by one of the officers.

Knocking on the door of the local residence with search warrants in hand, the officers served the warrants and started harvesting a unique crop in flowerbeds around the house.

Covering all sides of the house as officers also kept the people company inside the house, the local officers pulled up a total of 114 plants which have been identified as cultivated marijuana seed and paraphernalia.

A resident of the house was jailed on a charge of marijuana under four ounces, which is a class A misdemeanor.

Texas Apples Sure Taste Better Than They Look

The old axiom that beauty is only skin deep definitely applies when comparing apples from northern states with those now maturing in Texas, says a Texas Agricultural Extension Service horticulturist.

"Apples from Washington, Illinois and several other states that reach our markets in the summer have been in storage for almost 10 months," points out Dr. John Lipe of Fredericksburg. "They tend to have beautiful red of gold colors, but since they were harvested last fall when barely mature, the quality under the peel of these stored apples often leaves a lot to be desired."

"On the other hand, Texas apples are maturing now and offer unmatched quality," says Lipe. "Apples ripened under roasting Texas skies never attain the pretty red color of northern apples since the red pigment, called anthocyanin, needs cooler weather to form. But under the peel, Texas apples leave the others behind."

To support his claim, Lipe cites a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station study by John Wightman and Dr. Dan Hanna. The study compared Red Delicious apples from Washington and Illinois and Yellow Delicious apples from Washington with Texas Red Delicious apples grown at Fredericksburg. All of the apples were purchased at supermarkets in late summer.

Among qualities measured were sugars, firmness, pH (acidity) and malic acid content. In the all-important sugar content, Texas apples contained more than 16 percent. This was 2 1/2 percent more sugar than Illinois Red Delicious and about 2 1/2 percent more sugar than Washington Red Delicious and about 4 percent more than Illinois Red Delicious. Texas apples compared favorably in other quality tests, notes Lipe.

In taste comparisons 70 percent of the participants chose Fredericksburg apples as the best. Washington Yellow Delicious were a distant second, with only 11 percent rating them as best. Texas apples also were rated tops in texture by 52 percent of the participants while Washington Yellow Delicious were second, with 19 percent of those in the taste test rating them as the best textured apples.

Not surprisingly, only 2.5 percent of the test panel rated Texas apples tops in color, the horticulturist points out. Illinois Red Delicious won that honor, with 47 percent placing them at the top of the list.

Panelists also were asked if they were satisfied enough with the apples' quality that they would want to buy them at the market. Almost 90 percent of the participants said they would buy Texas apples, while 61 percent liked Washington and Illinois Red Delicious well enough to want to buy them. Only 53 percent of the panel considered Washington Yellow Delicious good enough to buy.

We will never have a large volume of Texas apples to compete with those coming in from the north, but a good crop of locally grown apples is starting to enter markets now," says Lipe. "The biggest volume of Texas apples will be marketed in late August and early September when most red and yellow delicious varieties ripen."

So the next time you're standing in the marketplace comparing a shiny red apple from Washington with a mottled red and green Texas apple, just remember that ugly is only skin deep too. The Texas apple if the real beauty inside where it counts, emphasizes Lipe.

Long-Term Care For Elderly

Just as families have gotten used to financial planning for a child's college education or retirement, they may need to begin thinking about long term care for their later years, says a family economics specialist.

According to Dr. Majorie Marman, a home economist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, 80 percent of older people surveyed by the American Association of Retired Persons, believe Medicare will fully cover long-term health care when it doesn't.

Several different types of services may be required to support long-term care for an elderly person in a nursing home, she explains.

Skilled nursing care, for example, involves daily care from trained medical professionals. Intermediate care is less intensive nursing care which is not required provided daily. Custodial care includes services such as assistance with dressing or giving medications, and does not require highly trained or licensed personnel.

Currently, Medicare pays the "allowable" costs of skilled nursing care in a Medicare approved skilled nursing facility for the first 20 days following a hospital stay, says the specialist. Then Medicare covers all but $61.50 per day for the remaining 80 days. Beyond 100 days the consumer must pay all costs for the skilled nursing home care.

Medicare does not cover custodial care, yet many long-term nursing home patients require custodial care, not skilled nursing, Marman points out. Medicaid provides extended coverage for nursing home care, but you must be impoverished to qualify.

In addition, many families may choose to care for an elder in his or her own home, by providing home-care support services such as a visiting nurse, or caregiver who can help with meal preparation, personal grooming and taking medicine.

The specialist reports that 25 percent of those between 75 and 84 and 46 percent of those over age 85 require such assistance. However, Medicare often will not cover home health care costs either.

The limitations of Medicare mean that most families need to examine alternatives for long-term care of their elders, she emphasizes.

Some families use current earnings, savings or other investment earnings to cover long-term care for themselves or other family members, she notes.

Medicare supplement insurance policies--often called "Medigap" policies--are offered by private insurance companies. These policies, help cover the difference between Medicare payments and actual costs for skilled nursing care in a licensed home. But they typically have a time limitation on coverage, Marman explains.

In an attempt to meet the need for long-term care policies age, some large insurance companies are now offering long-term care policies to people of retirement age and older.

The specialist suggests that consumers interested in long-term care policies consult the consumer and financial magazines available in many public libraries for reports on this type of insurance. This background information can help families learn the limits of the coverage and decide whether it is or is not an appropriate choice in their situation.

In addition, she encourages families to ask questions about specific policies and their benefits to different company representatives before making a decision.

"Parents and their adult children should discuss their wishes, local option for caregiving services, finances, and present insurance coverage before they are faced with the need for long-term care," advises Marman.

Better Cotton Harvest Emphasized By TAES

The ongoing efforts of scientists to improve the area's crop-cotton--will be featured at a stop of the 77th annual field day September 9 of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Trailers will transport visitors to research sites at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center. It is north of Lubbock International Airport on FM1294, just east of I-27 at the Shallowater exit. Tours will be conducted from 1 to 5 p.m. Improving fiber quality to enable South Plains farmers to obtain premium prices for their crop is a continuing goal in research at the center, said Dr. John Gannaway, TAES cotton breeder. This includes development of plants to produce longer fiber, more uniform fiber length, and improved strength, fineness and maturity, he said.

"Visitors will be encouraged to view research plots of commercially available cultivars many hybrid cottons and conventional strains that are, or soon will be, commercially available," Gannaway said.

In addition, Dr. Alan Brashears, research agricultural engineer with the U. S. Department of Agriculture-Agricultural Research Service, will explain adjustments and modification of cotton strippers to maintain cotton quality and reduce the incidence of barked cotton. Inclusion of excess bark in cotton taken to the gin causes lower prices to be paid the farmer.

"The adjustment of stripper rolls and combs is important to the proper operation of the cotton stripper," Brashears said. Reducing the length of the paddles can reduce stick content by 40 percent and the incidence of sticks by two-thirds, he said.

Wider spacing of rolls can also reduce sticks, but can significantly increase field losses of lint," he said. "Although field losses need to be kept at a minimum, higher lint losses can be tolerated to reduce the incidence of sticks and the excess financial loss due to grade reduction from bark content," Brashears said.

Development in glandless cotton, nematode resistant cottons and other cotton research will also be discussed, Gannaway added.

Other stops on the tours will feature home and commercial grape production, new techniques and products for weed control, the integrated farming systems approach to reduce production costs, and efforts to control the effects on crops of temperature, rain and wind.

Visitors can also tour the soil testing laboratory of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, see displays of computer equipment and software tailored for agricultural uses, view displays of equipment, and visit the greenhouse of the Texas Forest Service.

The Scientists Tell Me... Temperature/Growth State Important to Corn Production

By Marilyn Brown
TAES Science Writer

Temperature has long been known to affect corn yields in the different corn growing regions of the United States, but little research has been done to compare the thermal environments of the major corn producing areas and their effect on the yields achieved in those areas.

To help fill that gap, a U.S. Department of Agriculture—Agricultural Research Service researcher, Jim Kiniry, and a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researcher, W.A. Dugas, compared the daily normal temperatures during three phases of the growing season at six U.S. locations to investigate any heat-induced limitations on corn growth and yield.

They obtained dates of planting and silking in corn growing regions from central Texas to northern Florida to southern Michigan. Two Corn Belt and one Texas High Plains locations also were included.

Excluding the most northern location, the average (mean) daily normal temperature range from planting to silking was 5 degrees F. At silking, the range was 7 degrees. The greatest temperature differences occurred during the 40 days following silking; averages during that growth interval had a range of 13 degrees. The scientists found that the daily maximum and minimum normals had similar trends.

The comparison showed that high temperatures before silking cannot account for yield differences between different regions of the United States. Likewise, the scientists found that hybrids developed for southern locations do not require increased heat tolerance for the silking period; thus plant breeders will not have to consider that when developing hybrids. However, the researchers say, higher temperatures during grain filling in the southern locations may limit yield and may be something for plant breeders to consider.

High temperatures primarily affect crop yields by two mechanisms. Plant respiration increases with increasing temperature, decreasing the plant's available energy for grain production. In addition, increased temperatures cause crops to develop faster, resulting in less total intercepted sunlight and less total photosynthesis, which also decreases the plant's available energy supply.

The effect of temperature on corn is somewhat controversial, Kiniry and Dugas say. Past studies have shown that increasing night temperatures from flowering to maturity can reduce yields; another Texas study showed that high maximum June temperatures decreased yields as well.

In a 38-year yield study of five Corn Belt states, above normal temperatures during June, July, and August significantly reduced yields. In contrast, high night temperatures were not a major cause of low corn yields in the tropics, according to a 1981 study, and a 1957 Georgia study found that high end-of-season temperatures increased yields if rainfall was adequate.

"While kernel growth rate has been shown to increase with temperatures, the interaction of rate and duration of grain filling in determining final kernel weight at different temperatures has not yet been described," Kiniry and Dugas say.

"To better interpret the possible detrimental effects of high air temperatures on maize (corn) yields, it would be valuable to know the differences in air temperature in different regions during different stages of maize development.

"This would be useful for breeders interested in knowing the degree of high temperature tolerance needed for hybrids in different areas," the researchers say.

players have good size, including tackles Francisco Ybarra, a 5-8, 250-pound senior; Bryan Swint, a 6-2, 205-pound junior; Greg Moton, a 6-2, 206-pound senior and Mike Dunham, 6-0, 197-pound sophomore tailback.

With Troy DonAllcorn lost to the Olton Mustangs because of graduation, the battle to replace the passing 'ace' lies between three players, Stan Strobel; Eric Lee and Reyes Garcia.

Strobel, an all-district running back last year, is said to be the best option QB among the three, while Garcia and Lee are better passers. Lee latched onto 33 passes for 510 yards last year, so may be held at that position.

Olton also has 14 returning starters and head football coach Reagan is very optimistic about this year.

Coach Keeling has said there has been a very recent change in the position of one player. Scott Bickel has been changed from offensive guard to tight end.

Other offensive players expected to start the game against Olton are Russell Brown, center; Freddie Paez and Eddie Hernandez, guards; Francisco Ybarra and James Ziegenfuss, tackles; Jerry Mendoza and Sergio Gonzales, split ends; Todd Bessire, wing back; Johnny Garcia, quarterback; Armando Del Toro, full back and Michael Dunham, tail back.

Defensive starters are Freddie Paez, nose guard; James Ziegenfuss and Greg Moton, tackles; Scott Bickel and Russell Brown, ends; Armando Del Toro and Ritchie Tillema, linebackers; Johnny Garcia, Lance King and/or Michael Angeley, corner backs; Jerry Mendoza, free safety and Todd Bessire, strong safety.

Gametime will be 8 p.m. at Benny Douglass stadium.

Locked-In Mortgages: You May Be The Only Thing That's Locked-In

Mortgage companies have been competing for customers recently. This competition often has produced good deals for people looking to buy new homes or for homeowners seeking to refinance their present homes. One competitive approach used by lenders to win new customers is to advertise so-called "locked-in" interest rates.

Locked-in rates look very attractive, especially when viewed against the background of the high and widely fluctuating interest charges that were the rule over the last few years. But be careful. My office has been flooded with complaints about locked-in rates.

WHAT ARE LOCKED-IN RATES?

Many mortgage companies are representing that their interest rates are locked-in—that is, fixed—for a certain time period, usually 60 days. If the purchase of the house or the approval of the loan is completed within that time period, then the customer gets the locked-in interest rate. If the closing takes longer, then the customer has to settle for a different, and almost always higher, rate.

POSSIBLE DECEPTION

Many consumers have complain-

Heat, Humidity Pose New Health Danger

Recent sporadic rains in Texas may have seemed to relieve the oppressive heat wave that broke records throughout the state, but with the moisture came perhaps a greater danger—high humidity combined with the heat. Even people accustomed to the Texas climate sometimes fail to realize the dangers posed by the combination of high humidity and heat if precautions are not taken. "The affect of humid heat can be deadly for the very young, the elderly, and persons already weakened by illness," said Dr. Clift Price, Associate Commissioner for Personal Health Services at the Texas Department of Health.

Dr. Price said a recent report shows that in an average year, some 200 people in the U.S. die as the result of hot weather. The report stated that overall mortality rates increase dramatically during severe weather. The National Center for Health Statistics has calculated that since an extreme heat wave was the unique factor during the summer of 1980, when mortality rates jumped sharply, as many as 1,700 deaths nationally may have been heat related.

Dr. Price said that high temperature alone is physically tolerable to most people, but in combination with humidity, it can cause an individual's cooling mechanism, perspiration, to work overtime. "If one fails to replace the fluids, and salts lost through perspiration, dehydration or hyperthermia, can occur," he said. Symptoms of dehydration are muscle cramps, nausea, dizziness, headache, and low blood pressure. If fluids are not replaced, heat stroke can ensue causing sudden weakness, severe headache, loss of consciousness, brain damage, and death if the victim is not quickly treated. "To avoid danger of overheating, people should dress in light colored, loose-fitting clothing. They should drink more than their normal intake of water, and be sure to have water available if they need it. They should seek good ventilation. And perhaps as important as anything else, they should remain aware of their own physical conditions and the weather conditions," he said. Persons with heart or respiratory problems, and those taking certain medications, are especially at risk.

THE AG'S ENFORCEMENT POLICY

Because of the rash of consumer complaints we received, I wrote a letter to 250 members of the Texas Mortgage Bankers Association explaining the Attorney General's enforcement policy.

In the letter, I told them it was my position that to offer any commitment to a locked-in interest rate for a set period of time would be a deceptive trade practice and a violation of the DTPA unless the lender's immediate past experience showed that the set time period was more than or equal to the actual time period between the date of commitment and the date of closing in a substantial majority of cases.

For the purposes of determining compliance, "substantial majority of cases" means 75% or more of the total number of instances where the lender accepts a loan application for processing. Also, for the purposes of determining compliance, "immediate past experience" means no more than three months just prior to the date of the loan commitment.

FOR MORE HELP

If you think that you have been deceived by a mortgage company that offered you a locked-in rate and then didn't close in time, or if you have questions about this or any other consumer problems, please contact the Consumer Protection Officer nearest you. There are offices in Austin, Dallas, Houston, McAllen, El Paso, Lubbock and San Antonio.

The Attorney General's Office is the people's law firm. We're here to help you.

Patients Rights Stressed By Medicare

In an effort to help Medicare patients understand their rights to quality care in the Nation's hospitals, a nationwide effort is being made to provide them with more information about hospital discharges and their right to appeal discharge decisions. The greater awareness is expected to reduce instances of so called "quicker and sicker" discharges and the public perception of declining quality of hospital care for Medicare patients.

Under the plan, a message explaining patient's rights and appeal procedures will be provided to all of the more than 9 million Medicare patients admitted each year to hospitals which are reimbursed under Medicare's prospective payment system. The new system has resulted in the need for greater patient awareness of appeal rights under the Medicare program. Under the prospective payment system, which went into effect in October 1983, hospital services for Medicare patients are reimbursed according to pre-set rates, which vary according to diagnosis. The rates reflect average costs of treating specific conditions.

As the "message from Medicare" explains, hospitals must inform Medicare patients 48 hours in advance of hospital-initiated discharge.

If patients feel they are being asked to leave the hospital prematurely, they or their authorized representative should file an appeal by telephone or in writing with the peer review organization PRO, a physician organization under contract with Medicare to review the hospital treatment of Medicare patients. The PRO will review the case in question and decide within 3 working days after receiving the appeal. If the decision supports the need for continued hospitalization, the patient can remain in the hospital under Medicare payment until the next discharge decision point is reached.

If the PRO decides that Medicare payment is no longer appropriate, the patients become liable for all hospital costs starting the third day after receiving the written discharge notice. The name, address, and telephone number of the PRO servicing that hospital will be listed on the written message. Anyone who needs more information on this process should give us a call at the Social Security office.

A SYMBOL OF SAFETY

When the ship is in danger, we can depend on the life-boats to take us over the seas to safety. It is comforting to glance at the life-boat when the seas are rough.

Our Armed Services are a symbol of safety when our country is in trouble, when war threatens to raise its ugly head. In the past, when war has come, our servicemen have not hesitated to give their lives to protect and defend us.

There is a special day each year when we remember and honor our servicemen who have died in the defense of our blessed country. Let us not forget, as individuals, to honor these dead and give thanks to God for those who protect us even now. Remember them as you attend church this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long endure and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, we should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Know THE Weather

How big is the eye of a hurricane? Is it true that the eye is sometimes completely clear while for hundreds of miles on each side the sky is filled with clouds?

The eye of a hurricane is never more than a few miles, usually less than five. It's true that sometimes in the middle of the great storm--in the eye, so to speak--the sky overhead will suddenly appear blue.

Winds will calm down and for a few minutes a strange stillness will descend--with roaring winds just a few miles distant in all directions. This is the very center of the circular motion of the winds (counterclockwise), the hub of a great blowing circle.

The lull soon ends and when the winds return--they are from the opposite direction--and often just as strong as before.

ABOUT YOUR HOME
 It's time to severely cut back your petunias and you'll be rewarded with new growth and blooms in the early fall.

There won't be any tears if you'll peel onions under running cold water.

After using a recipe that calls for the egg white only, yolks can be poached until firm, then cooled and put through a sieve. Use to garnish salads and canapes.

Remove grease splatters from clothes by applying talcum powder, let it stand then brush spot away. Heavy spots may require a second application.

When preparing party or lunch sandwiches ahead of time and freezing, try using salad dressing, butter or margarine rather than mayonnaise.

A quick sauce for broccoli can be made by heating a can of condensed Cheddar-cheese soup with 1/4 cup milk.

When you need an extra large hot dish mat, solve your problem by covering a magazine with kitchen foil.

August is the month when insects, borers and worms do great damage to fruit trees and shrubbery--spraying is a must.

Fences are a good defense against winds and prying eyes. For the most efficient cooling, keep louvers vertical and not more than eight inches wide. Slant them with your prevailing wind. To act as a wind break the fence must be solid and tall enough to offer protection. Decorative holes in the fence do not let as much air in as louvers but they actually boost its force. This may be important if your summer breeze is sluggish.

LOUISA'S LETTER

I am a forty year old unmarried woman. Most of my friends--the ones I grew up with--have husbands and families and we are still friends. But one thing in our relationship bothers me. They seem to pity me for my single state whereas I couldn't be happier or enjoy life any more than I do now if I was married.

I am an expert secretary--having interesting work, meet interesting people and make good money.

Two of these friends who worry about me would be surprised to know that I could have married their husbands if I had been so inclined. Another of my friends has to hold down two jobs to support her family because her husband drinks too much and can't keep a job.

As far as looks are concerned I look ten years younger than any of my friends--my figure is good and I have the time and money to use the beauty salons.

I have a sister and brother both of whom are married and have children. I adore these children and they love me so I really can enjoy them without having a parent's responsibility.

I am writing this letter hoping my friends will see it and stop wasting their pity on someone who doesn't need it. G-Del.

Answer:
 Different people like different things and some women prefer a single life to that of marriage.

I think any woman who finds a man she is in love with and one she admires prefers to be married and have a home and children as this is the usual pattern for a happy, fulfilling life.

But accepting any man as a husband just to keep from being single is a great mistake. There are many married women who rue the day they changed their names.

You are very fortunate--you have made a good life for yourself and are satisfied with your situation.

Raquel Loya, Nancy Mendoza, Stella Mendoza, Laura Leal, Norma Martinez, Angelica Toscano

Jesse & Irma Leal began business in May 1957 on east American Blvd. with a tortilla and restaurant business. Through the years, the restaurant has moved to its present location at 1542 West American N Blvd. added a staff of waitresses and cooks, and has become truly a family business with restaurants owned by their children. Alma and Tony Jaramillo own and operate restaurants in Denver City, Hobbs, N.M. and Lovington, N.M., Victor Leal and Dave Poynor operate a restaurant in Monahans, Tx.

The Leals strongly believe in the town of Muleshoe, where they raised six children and say "Thank -you" to the people of Muleshoe for making them the oldest restaurant in town.

Leal's is managed by Laura Leal, but Jesse and Irma continue to observe the restaurant and tortilla business insuring the highest quality of Mexican food, Leals has the most reasonable prices in the southwest.
