ARTESIA TO HAVE CHAUTAUQUA NEXT YEAR

PROGRAM VERY PLEASING THIS YEAR. HIGH CLASS ENTERTAINMENTS

The Radcliffe Chautauqua, recently conducted a three day Chautauqua course at Artesia, which was of the highest type and pleased the people of the town in a very satisfactory manner. Excellent musical numbers and high class lectures of educational and instructive value were heard by an appreciative audience at each program of the three days.

The business men and citizens of the town and surrounding communities have planned to present the Chautauqua course at Artesia next year. Fifty-three signers have been secured to guarantee the necessary funds to bring this high class entertainment to Artesia next year. Only twenty names were annexed to the contract last year, but a much larger number were secured with ease at the Chautauqua Friday evening. The Chautauqua was presented on August 11, 12, and 14 this year and will be presented near the same dates next season. After leaving Artesia, the company would present their programs at Hope, going from there to Pecos, Texas.

The Coleman Concert Company presented the musical portion of the program on Friday afternoon and evening. Edward Coleman is a musician of rare talent, playing the flute, cornet, piccolo, saxophone, piano, clarinet and French horn with ease. Miss Luella Kloas, a violinist of unusual talent and Miss Ethel Sheppard, soprano, were the other members of the company. Ellsworth Plumstead, an impersonator of unusual ability, pleased the audience with his character delineations. Dr. Ulysses G. Lacey delivered a wonderful address on "Making the Dream Come True," at the afternoon program. His evening lecture was "The Spirit of the Colonist."

Walter Eccles and Al. Pearsall, the Boston Joy-Makers, were scheduled on the second day. Mr. Eccles provided a rich flow of mirth and merriment, not alone through his Scotch songs, but also as an impersonator. Mr. Pearsall, a musician of note, is also a humorist of the highest type. His musical number, played upon the piano and saxophone at the same time, received much praise and applause. The Chautauqua director delivered two interesting lectures, during the day. The first being titled "The Storm" and the evening lecture being on "The Spirit of the Patriot."

Guy M. Bingham, educator, traveler and lecturer of unusual power delivered two inspirational lectures on "The Durable Satisfaction of Life" was very interesting. His evening address on "The Spirit of the Pioneer" was an oratorical gem. This excellent speaker delivered an address which was worth the price of a season ticket. The Kirk Frederick company is composed of Mr. Frederick and two talented young ladies. Classical music constituted a great portion of the programs, although a series of pianologues and impersonations by Miss Corrine Moore, aided in making a varied program. Fr. Frederick is a violinist of national repute. He captivated his audience by the full, rich tones, and delicacy of phrasing that distinguishes every artist.

The churches of the town dismissed their services on Sunday evening and attended a Union service at the Chautauqua tent. An interesting and inspirational address on "Religion and Democracy" was delivered by the Chautauqua director.

ROSWELL DEFEATS HOPE AT BODEO

The Roswell baseball team defeated the Hope aggregation at the Hope Rodeo on last Thursday afternoon by the score of six to four. The game was very interesting, especially as several Artesia stars were playing in a Hope uniform. Artesia had recently defeated Hope and had been victorious over Roswell in two games this season. A good game was expected as the two teams were evenly matched and the large crowd of several thousand persons who witnessed the contest were not disappointed.

Feathers, Walker and Walters of Artesia were playing with Hope. Few hits were marked against either team although both sides made many errors. Errors were responsible for the defeat of Hope to a large degree. Jones, pitching for Roswell, was "going good" and pitched a fine brand of baseball. DeBaurnd was doing the receiving act as the other member of the Roswell battery. Price began on the mound for Hope and pitched for three innings. Scott relieved him in the fourth inning, but was unable to stop the slugging Roswellites. Stewart caught for both Hope pitchers.

Miss Lard, of Miami, Texas, is visiting with Miss Maggie Hollis.

ARTESIA MAN U. S. MARSHALL
Former Texas ranger, D. W. Cox, whose home is in this city, has been appointed Deputy United States Marshall for the western district of Texas, with headquarters at El Paso. Mr. Cox is a son-in-law of I. T. George of Artesia.

STATE HOLINESS CAMP MEETING NOW GOING ON

The State Camp Meeting, in Artesia, is now in progress. The campers from different parts of the state are coming, and prospects are favorable for a great meeting.

To hear the evangelists, is a treat that New Mexico people do not often have the privilege to enjoy. Evangelist W. E. Shepard is of national reputation, having traveled from coast to coast, many times. He is also an author having written about six most excellent books. Rev. J. E. L. Moore has been a college president for twelve years and is a gifted and eloquent preacher. Prof. A. S. London has had charge of the music in many of the large camp meetings over the United States. He is also the author of two most excellent books for young people. Mrs. London has been connected with Bible colleges for many years as piano teacher, and will render good service at the piano.

The services at both morning and afternoon should have large attendance, as well as the evening meetings.

All denominations are equally welcome to come and take an active part in this Camp Meeting.

COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

The Eddy County Teachers' Institute for 1922 will be held in Carlsbad beginning August 31 and continuing three days. This will be in the nature of an inspirational meeting just preceding the opening of school and arrangements are being made by County Superintendent Geo. M. Brinton to make it one full of enthusiasm from first to finish. Several speakers of prominence have been secured for the institute in addition to local talent. There will be two evening lectures. The State Superintendent and Normal School Presidents have been invited to be present and have accepted the invitation to attend. In order to be eligible to teach in New Mexico, the law requires teachers to attend institute or New Mexico summer school, and the institute is being held at this time to enable teachers to qualify under the law. A large attendance is anticipated and the week end, before opening of school, promises to be one full of interest to those interested in education.

THE AMERICAN LEGION—those words thrill you for you see, when you say them, hundreds of fine lads marching to the defense of our country. Nothing we can do will be too much to show the boys how we appreciate the things they did for us. Is it any wonder then that when the Legion asked Mrs. Skeen to put on an entertainment for them that she felt honored and wanted that play to be the best play, that has ever been staged in an amateur way in the Pecos Valley. Picked talent, the best that money can secure for costumes, the greatest effort possible to secure late and peppy attractions, so that the friends of the boys who go to their show won't be ashamed. That's the thing she hopes to do. And your part is to come and show the boys you appreciate their effort to entertain you.

A RESOLUTION

1. WE BELIEVE that free and uninterrupted movement of traffic is essential to the safety and prosperity of this community.

2. The Transportation Act provided the method of settling disputes between the Railroad and the employees, and the public has the right to expect that it will not be made to suffer by either the Railroad Company or the employees arbitrarily disregarding decisions of the Labor Board.

3. The Labor Board has made it plain by official order that the strike now prevailing is unwarranted in the following language:

"If it be assumed that the employees who leave the service of the carrier because of their dissatisfaction with any decision of the Labor Board are within their rights in so doing, and likewise must be conceded that the man who remains in the service and those who enter it anew are within their rights in accepting such employment. That they are not strike-breakers seeking to impose the arbitrary will of an employer or employees, that they have the moral as well as the legal right to engage in such service of the American Public to avoid interruption of indispensable railway transportation, and that they are entitled to the protection of every department and branch of the government, state and national."

Therefore, the Artesia Chamber of Commerce places itself on record supporting these principals and calls upon its members and the community generally to render their assistance to insure continued and uninterrupted transportation, and urges upon the governmental authorities, national, state and local, the importance of providing proper protection against violence, intimidation to such men as are willing to work, in accordance with the principals expressed by President Harding in his Marion Fourth of July Speech:

"A free American has the right to labor without any other's leave, and Liberty is gone in America when any man is denied by anybody the right to work and live by that work."

Therefore, the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Artesia, New Mexico, hereby direct that a copy of these resolutions be sent the President of the United States, Senator A. A. Jones, H. O. Bursum, Congressman Nestor Montoya, Ben J. Hooper, Chairman Labor Board, the Governor of the State of New Mexico, the Mayor of the City of Artesia, the County Commissioners of Eddy County, New Mexico, the Sheriff of Eddy county, New Mexico, also a copy be furnished for publication to the Artesia Advocate, of Artesia, New Mexico.

ARTESIA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

By (Signed) J. H. JACKSON, President.

Attest: (Signed) J. J. Clarke, Secretary.

The following was received in answer to the resolution.

August 10th.

J. J. CLARKE, Chamber of Commerce, Artesia, N. M.

The President has received your telegram of yesterday and deeply appreciates this expression of commendation and support.

GEO. B. CHRISTIAN, Secretary to the President.

ARTESIA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

The public schools of Artesia will open on September 4th. An Institute for all Eddy County teachers will be held in Carlsbad on August 31, September 1 and 2. This institute will necessitate the enrollment and classification of High School students earlier than usual. The High School office is open each school day from 9:00 A. M. to 12:00 A. M. It is urgently requested that pupils expecting to be in high school come to the office for their class cards before August 31st. Parents may enroll their children if they wish. This is important so that no time may be lost from class work at the beginning of the term and so that the number of classes may be determined.

All pupils desiring credit for summer work should appear for their special examinations before August 31st.

The High School faculty at present is to be: F. C. Adams, principal; Mrs. Mabel Her, commercial; Roop Reed, manual training; Ruth Morgan, home economics; Jean McCabb, latin and history; Esther LaDue, Spanish and English; Mary K. Sands, English; Henry Davis, science.

The Central building will retain Mrs. Ethel James as its very efficient principal. The corps of teachers there will be Mrs. Harold Harvard, Luck Thomas, Beatrice Burghard, Lillian Meadows, Velma Smith, Mildred Doss, Gertrude Baber and Martine Waskom.

In the Grammar school, all the teachers will be new. Mr. Raymond Gentry comes as principal and Miss Beulah Morris and Maud Nelson as assistants. Miss Lucine E. Jones will be supervisor of art and music, throughout the system, Miss Irene Gage unassigned.

We ask very urgently for your cooperation as patrons in making this a successful school year.

ALVY GIVENS, Superintendent of Schools.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NOTES

The Artesia Chamber of Commerce is now affiliated with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. This organization is made up of 294 Commercial Clubs and Chambers of Commerce in West Texas and New Mexico. The advantages offered the Artesia Chamber of Commerce and its individual members are many since the organization maintains different bureaus for the caring of matters of importance. The following are some of the important ones that should be of a great benefit to Artesia and adjacent country:

How To Use the Organization

By Commercial Organizations, Affiliated units, and Individual Members.

(a) TRAFFIC BUREAU—This Bureau may be used in taking up such matters as affect train service, passenger and freight; car shortages, freight claims, rate adjustments, and all matters usually handled by a Traffic Bureau.

(b) WASHINGTON BUREAU—We maintain this Bureau in Washington, at 455 Munsey Building, in charge of Henry M. Eaton, Manager, so that you may take up any matter affecting your interests at the National Capitol. Among such are postal charges, information, etc., irrigation matters and securing of various governmental information.

(c) PUBLICITY BUREAU—Any matter connected with publicity, such as "writing up" your city for general publication; planning a publicity campaign for you, passing on suggested changes in your own literature, etc.

(d) ORGANIZATION BUREAU—Any matter such as organization membership campaigns, perfection and organization of luncheon clubs, plans for Highway Road bond movements.

(e) EXHIBIT BUREAU—Perfecting plans for County Fairs, local Exhibits, Manufacturers' Exhibits, and inclusion of your local organization in the National Fairs Exhibit movement, by which West Texas Chamber of Commerce undertakes to send your agricultural products for exhibit to the leading State Fairs throughout the United States.

(f) SERVICE BUREAU—Securing wheat harvesters, cotton pickers, steam laundries, hotels, or other minor industries needed in your town. This Bureau will also undertake the handling of special assignments.

Dr. J. J. Clarke secretary of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed Unit Director of this organization for the Artesia Chamber of Commerce and entire city.

It is to be hoped now that with this line up, there will be a greater attendance at the regular meetings of the Chamber of Commerce, and a better spirit of cooperation shown. Here is an opportunity offered now to this community, let's all help and take advantages of the good things offered.

ROBERT EUGENE TRUETT DIES

The death of little Robert Eugene Truett was a very sad event in the lives of the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Truett, when this fact became known on last Saturday evening. The little lad, only eighteen months of age, died at the home of the saddened young parents on Saturday afternoon, after an illness of a few days, with a summer complaint, a malady not uncommon among infant children. The child had been in Artesia just one week after visiting with his mother in Kentucky, before his death.

The funeral services were conducted at the Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon with Dr. E. E. Mathes, pastor of the church, in charge of the services. A large number of the many friends of the host family were present. Dr. Mathes stated a few facts concerning the cheery nature of the infant, when in good health. He related an accident connected with the departure of the child from Artesia a few months ago and his return to his father one week before his death. The purity of an innocent soul, as that of a small child, will merit the heavenly rest, prepared for it.

Miss Emma LaDue, Mrs. Rex Wheatley and Messrs. D. E. Buckles and Chester Russel sang very appropriate songs at the funeral services. A beautiful floral tribute, presented by the American Legion, of which organization, Mr. Truett is an officer, other organizations and friends, was evident. Misses Ina Cole, Mary Jackson, LaDue Mann and Valma Richards, four small girls, served as pallbearers. It was a very appealing and touching scene as these little girls bore the remains of the little child to his final resting place. Interment was in Woodbine cemetery, where a great bank of flowers added to the solemnity of the occasion.

The Advocate joins the many friends of the bereaved parents in extending their sympathies in this sad hour of grief over the death of the first born.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Floore left for Carlsbad on Sunday afternoon, after spending the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Floore of Artesia. Mr. F. T. Floore's home is in Texas.

NAZARINE DENOMINATION HOLD STATE MEETING

The initial session of the New Mexico Holiness Camp Meeting was officially conducted on Thursday of this week at the tent erected for this purpose on the corner of Main and Sixth streets. Many noted denominational speakers and leaders are present and a great meeting is assured. Interesting addresses and sermons will be delivered. Local members of the Nazarius church are doing everything possible to entertain the many guests, and out of town visitors, who are attending the services.

The prayer meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings were attended by large numbers of interested persons. The entire public is invited to attend the services.

INCREASE SHOWN IN DEPOSITS IN ARTESIA BANKS

BUSINESS IS GOOD DESPITE THE WEATHER: WOOL CLIP IS BEING SHIPPED TO MARKET

The weather continues to be very dry in this section of the Pecos Valley and the farmers and stockmen are in great need of precipitation, to insure a successful year. No general rain has fallen during the summer and the local showers have missed Artesia and surrounding community. The crops are in great need of water and the farmers who are not able to have Artesian wells are doomed to make a poor crop on account of the dry weather.

Banking—According to the statements of local bankers, the deposits during the past few months have been increasing. The past month shows greater deposits than any previous month during the present year. Collections are not as great as were expected, but continue at a fair rate. The business houses report that business is good. Regardless of the dry weather and great need of rain, much ready cash appears to be available. One merchant at Lakewood, a neighboring community, reports that business has increased forty per cent over the business of April, which was fifteen per cent better than February.

Livestock—The cattle and sheep on the range, west of Artesia, are in poor shape, due to poor grass. No serious results are expected if rain falls soon. The livestock on the east plains is in excellent condition in most places and the range in good grass. Practically no cattle or sheep shipments have been made in the past few weeks. Stockmen are expected to winter a large per cent of their herds.

The wool clip has been practically completed and thousands of pounds were shipped from the Artesia warehouses. E. B. Bullock, a local shipper, has billed about five thousand pounds from his warehouse. Millions of pounds are stored in different parts of the valley. J. P. Cauhupe, a well-known sheepman, west of Artesia, has shipped eighty-five thousand pounds from the 1922 clip. Practically all wool has been hauled to Artesia, although a few ranchmen have been able to haul their total clip to a shipping point. The market grants around thirty-four cents per pound for the clip.

Many feeders are intending to fatten hogs for the market. A large crop of corn and other grains makes this a profitable undertaking. The prices received for cattle and hogs are much better for the grower than were the market prices a few months ago.

Fruit—The fruit crop of the Pecos valley will not equal the crop of last year, although a good crop is assured. A few orchardists report that the yield will be larger, but the fruit will not have the commercial value of the previous crop. The market price is not expected to be as great as formerly. Apples, peaches, pears and other fruits are plentiful in this section of the valley and much of the early crop is being handled by local trade for some consumption. Very few grapes survived the late freeze.

Farm Crops—The yield of alfalfa was below normal for the third crop, the cause being attributed to the dry weather, regardless of irrigation. Other crops will yield in proportion. Watermelons and truck garden vegetables are in excellent condition. Many loads of forty pound watermelons and a fine grade of cantaloupes are seen each day. The tomato crop insures an excellent season for the local canning factory. Practically one hundred acres of tomatoes in the vicinity of Artesia and a large crop at Lakewood have been reported. The cotton crop will yield a large income to the farmers, regardless of the ravages of the grasshoppers, which have been doing some damage throughout the country. Many acres of alfalfa seed were almost totally destroyed by this pest. However, the long staple cotton, which is produced in this section, of New Mexico, always demands the top price.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS GIVEN IN PRIZES AT HOPE RODEO

WINNERS ANNOUNCED IN CONTESTS. THOUSANDS ATTEND FROM ROSWELL, ARTESIA AND VALLEY

The annual Cowboy reunion and rodeo, conducted each year at Hope, New Mexico, was a great success last week. The celebration is worthy of much mention and the management deserves credit for staging the interesting programs and real western events. The business houses of Artesia closed for Thursday, the second day of the rodeo and hundreds of auto loads of Artesia people attended during the day. Many people from Roswell, Carlsbad, and other parts of the state were present. The crowd was estimated at six thousand persons on the second day of the rodeo. The other two days were crowded with interesting features and thousands attended.

A large dance floor afforded an excellent place for this recreation. An orchestra of six pieces furnished the music during the three days and four nights of the celebration. A baseball game, between Roswell and Hope was also a feature of the gala day. A total of three or four thousand dollars were given to the winners of the rodeo contests, which included riding, roping, horse races and other western features. About ninety or one hundred real western ranchmen and professional rodeo men from New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, Wyoming and other places participated in the contests.

The following winners have been announced by the field judges and other authorities at the celebration.

Bob Crosley of Kenau, New Mexico, and Lionel Cox, from Magdalena New Mexico, were declared the best all-round contestants. However, Jack Brown, a noted rider from Wyoming, won the honors in the riding contests. Norman Cowan was the winner of the riding event on Wednesday but Brown won the other two days events. Shake Wooten won first honors in the goat roping the first day; Aubrey Harrel on the second day and Allen Holder on the third day. Lewis Jones had the highest average for the three days. Jack Brown won first honors in the bull-dogging event on the first and last days. Norfan Cowan was the winner on the second day.

The wild cow milking contests were very interesting and amusing. Jack Brown and Ray Bell were the winners on Wednesday; Bob and Harold Crosley on Thursday and Lewis Jones and Allen Holder on the last day. The roping and tying by two men went to Bert Weir and R. B. Mallard on the initial day. Harrell Gage and Lionel Cox won the next day and Lewis Jones and Allen Holder were the successful men on the third day. Dee Wilbrun won the roping contest on the first day; Arthur Mays on the second and Ed Watts on the third. Dee Wilbrun had the highest average for the three days. Lionel Cox was first in the calf tying event on Wednesday. Allen Holder and Bob Crosley won the event on the two following days.

The riding of the steers by small boys was very amusing. The small boys did some excellent riding. G. T. Watts, age ten years, won this event on two of the three days. Arrell Jernigan, age fourteen, won the honors on the other day.

Some fast horse races were also witnessed. The horse, of Walter McConigal, won the free-for-all race at a quarter mile distance. The three hundred yard saddle horse race was won by Dee Jernigan's horse. The cow pony races were won by the horse of Ed Watts. The entire rodeo was a success in every respect. Thousands of persons enjoyed the big free barbecue on Thursday. Over six thousand persons were fed at this time with excellent beef, barbecued by an expert along this line. Hope certainly entertained the visitors in a very commendable manner.

Mr. Charles Hall, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Dunn, returned on Tuesday night to his home in Leedey, Oklahoma. Mrs. Preston Dunn and son Harold returned with him for a few weeks vacation.

Chauncey Yeager, popular athlete of the Artesia high school, returned to Artesia this week after spending the summer in Kansas. He is the captain of the 1922 football team at the local high school.

The Artesia baseball team played a practice game with the Mexican nine at the railroad park on Monday afternoon, which resulted in a fifteen to one victory for the local club. Many new players were in the lineup and played a sensational game, especially Rufus Rowan, fast left fielder and heavy hitter. Walker twirled for the Artesia club and Vito Molino twirled for the Mexican team.

In spite of the fact that some little objection has been made to the proposed new paving and that many objectors have very strongly expressed the desire that their property might be outside the paving district, an ad has been run in the papers for three days by Oscar Goodsell, in an attempt to trade a lot outside the paving district for one inside the district, and not even one reply has been received. Rather looks as though lots within the paving district aren't such undesirable property at that.—Roswell Record.

ARTESIA SHIPS FIRST APPLES FROM VALLEY

F. G. Hartell, local apple shipper, shipped the first carload of apples from the Pecos valley this season. The car was billed for Wichita Falls, Texas, and was shipped on last Wednesday. The car was first class Johnathans. Other shipments have been made, but not in as large a quantity as a carload.

The fruit brought a fair price to the grower, the carload of approximately five hundred boxes bringing seven hundred and fifty dollars or one dollar and a half per box. Many more carloads will be shipped soon according to the report of leading orchardists. One man reports that he will ship seventy cars from one orchard.

A noted fact about the matter, is the honor which Artesia has in shipping the first carload this season. This is a distinction which means much to the town.

Mrs. Frank Seales returned on Tuesday afternoon from Arkansas where she has been visiting this summer.

Misses Kathleen Clarke and Phyllis Polk entertained a few friends on Tuesday at the Clarke home with a delightful six o'clock dinner. Three courses were served to eight guests. The unexpected happened at this affair, which created much mirth and merriment, according to a statement by one of the guests. The incident is not known but remains a deep secret.

Mrs. Solomon, who has been receiving treatments at Dallas, Texas, and Memphis, Tenn., returned this week after an absence of several months.

POWELL—DUNN

Rev. R. F. Davis, pastor of the Artesia Methodist church performed a wedding ceremony on last Wednesday afternoon, which united Miss Nina Powell of Hope, New Mexico, and Mr. John Dunn of Artesia in marriage. The ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. Davis, with only a few friends and relatives of the young couple present. The young people attended the rodeo at Hope in the morning and motored to Artesia in the afternoon, where they were quietly married, surprising their many friends.

Mrs. Dunn is a daughter of Mr. Noley Powell, a prominent business man of Hope. She is a talented young woman and is very popular among her many friends at that place and at Artesia. Mr. Dunn is a member of Dunn and Sons, garage men of Artesia. He is an energetic young business man, being active in many activities of community interest. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn will make their home in Artesia, where Mr. Dunn will be connected with his father and brothers in Dunn's garage. The Advocate is pleased to announce that the young people will remain in Artesia and joins their many friends in extending congratulations.

BUCK—GROOM

Miss Martha Buck, daughter of Mr. J. C. Buck, and Mr. Emmett Groom, of Artesia, were married at the Buck home on Sunday afternoon, Rev. R. F. Davis of Artesia performing the ceremony. About forty friends and relatives were present at the nuptial ceremony. A delicious dinner was served to all present.

Mrs. Groom is a well-known and popular member of the younger set in the Cottonwood community. They will make their home on the Cottonwood north of Artesia.

CHARAVARI PARTY FOR NEWLY-WEDS

A large number of the young people surprised Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn on Friday night about midnight with a noisy and exciting charavari party. The newly-weds had just returned from Hope, where they were attending the western rodeo. About twenty-five persons were in the party.

After the guests had arrived and had been invited into the home, the fun began in earnest. After a successful ruse, the bride was lured into her husband's car and members of the charavari party left with her, leaving Mr. Dunn behind. However, he caught the car later and took his wife with him and also the key to his car, leaving the members of the party stranded many blocks from the scene of festivities. When the group had all reassembled, delicious refreshments were served by the host and hostess in a very pleasing and charming manner. All present reported an excellent occasion, which extended into the wee hours of the morning.

Mrs. R. F. Davis, Ralph Davis and Misses Lorie and Beatrice Davis, motored to Roswell on Tuesday

J. H. JACKSON'S CAR DAMAGED ON HOPE ROAD

The Dodge car, driven by Attorney J. H. Jackson, and a Ford car, driven by a Carlsbad man, collided on the Hope road on last Friday night, doing much damage to both machines. The accident occurred about three or four miles this side of Hope. No one was seriously hurt although the occupants of the Ford were shaken up to a great extent. Cavitt Jackson, son of the driver of the Dodge, received a slight gash on his forehead.

The traffic was unusually heavy on this narrow roadway on this occasion. The Ford car was going toward Hope at a rapid speed, meeting the other car, bound for Artesia. A fore wheel was broken from the Dodge car and both wheels on the left side of the Ford were broken. Other parts of the cars were also damaged. The occupants of the Ford car were taken to Hope and the occupants of the Dodge which included Mr. and Mrs. J. H.
Jackson, Cavitt Jackson, Mrs. Laura Welsh and Miss Herma Welsh, were brought to Artesia by John Lanning, Judge Jackson soon returned to the scene of the accident with representatives from Dunn's garage, where they found a tire, horn, tools and other parts stolen from the Dodge.
The culprits had commenced to take the top from the car as it was partially removed when the mechanics returned. Parts were also taken from the Ford car, according to reports.

Several cars ran off the high dump on this road, during the three days celebration. No serious results have been reported, one or two minor collisions were also reported.

HUNDREDS ATTEND HOPE RODEO. LOCAL MAN BARRED

The town of Artesia was almost deserted on last Thursday as a large per cent of the population attended the gala day of the big western rodeo at Hope. Hundreds of cars from this place carried passengers to the scene of the celebration.

Some of the well known ropers and riders of Artesia participated in the contests and proved artists along their lines. According to a report made by authorities on such matters Ben Pate, well known roper with an enviable record, was barred from the roping contests. It became known that Ben was left handed and as there was no left handed steers to be roped, he was barred. This seemed to be an injustice as one of the field judges was also left handed, but was permitted to serve in his capacity of judge. A local enthusiast stated that Ben Pate could rope and hog tie any thing from a field mouse to an African elephant, because of the superior ability of a left handed roper.

It isn't necessary to remind a good man that he has a conscience.
He knows it.

COOLING SYSTEM MOST IMPORTANT

Many Motorists Experience Considerable Trouble From Their Engines Overheating.

MEANS TO PREVENT TROUBLE

Most Essential That There Be Free Circulation of Water, Freedom From Scale and Strong Current of Cooled Air.

Every automobile owner or driver knows from experience that a gas engine becomes hot after running for some time. This is due to the explosions or rapid burning of the gas inside the cylinders.

A large percentage of the heat developed in the cylinder goes to heat up the cylinder walls and if these cannot be cooled either by strong blasts of air or water circulation around them, they will become so hot that they will crack and break apart or at least become warped out of shape and become useless. By far the greater number of cars use what is known as the water-cooling system.

How Water is Cooled.

The water flows around the cylinder walls and then through piping and rubber hose connections into the radiator where it is spread out in thin sheets or small pipes which have an immense amount of surface exposed to the air. In this manner the water is cooled and then flows back to the engine in order to keep it, also, cooled to the proper temperature.

If any part of the cooling system fails to function properly, the cylinders are not cooled and we say that the engine overheats. Water, as we know, cannot be heated above 212 degrees F. without being placed under pressure. Therefore, the water which flows around the cylinder walls cannot be heated above this temperature. If the water is not kept slightly below this temperature, it will rapidly evaporate by boiling. If the engine is run without water in the water jacket the cylinder walls will be heated above their normal temperature, with the result that the oil will be entirely burned off the cylinder wall surface and the piston will begin to cut small slots lengthwise on the wall with the result that often the engine will, in a few minutes' time, be seriously damaged.

Necessary Conditions.

In order that the cooling system work properly, we must have the following conditions:

Plenty of water, free circulation of water throughout the entire system, freedom from scale in the radiator and a strong current of air passing continuously through the radiator to cool the water.

It follows, that if the engine overheats, some of the previous conditions are not being fulfilled. Usually we look at the fan first, as this is where the trouble most frequently occurs. See that the fan bearings are free and that the belt is tight enough to drive the fan with very little slipping, also have the fan blades tipped at the proper angle to draw the air through the radiator.

While the fan belt must be tight enough to turn the fan, care must be taken not to tighten the belt so that it will be broken in a few minutes of running. Next see that there is plenty of water in the radiator; feel of the rubber hose connections to see whether they feel flabby. If they are soft, it is very likely that the inner walls of the hose have softened and perhaps entirely filled the opening so that the water cannot flow through.

NEWSPAPERS MEND MUDHOLE

Good Traction is Afforded Wheels and Assists Greatly When Car Becomes Mired.

It is not an unusual thing to become stuck in a mudhole. Carry a few old newspapers in one of the pockets or under the seats. They afford good traction for the wheels and will assist greatly when pulling out of the mud. Never speed up the engine and "jump" the clutch. This will only cause the wheels to spin and dig deeper into the mud.

GERMAN CAR HAS MOTOR BEHIND SEAT

Fraulein Trude Hesterburg, Berlin theatrical star and owner of the well-known "Wild-Beline" (Wild Stage) theater, is seen starting out in her Rumpier rain-drop shaped touring car for a trip to Markische Seen, a popular watering place near the German capital.

This new auto was designed by the famous German aviator and maker of the Rumpier airplane and was exhibited at the recent auto show in Berlin. The motor is located in the rear of the machine instead of the front and the complete streamline makes it one of the most attractive and speedy cars in existence.

You Auto Know

That one of the chief causes of automobile fires, especially during cool weather, is "backfiring," which, in turn, is due to the mixture not being sufficiently rich in gasoline. When the backfire occurs a sheet of flame leaps from the air intake of the carburetor, and if it strikes anything of an easily inflammable nature, a serious explosion or flame is likely to result.

The collection of gasoline upon the drip-pan is one of the principal dangers in this connection, for the gas vaporizes so rapidly that, if the pan is not properly drained or cleaned at regular intervals, there is almost certain to be a sufficient mixture in the vicinity of the carburetor to cause trouble from backfire and the subsequent flame. The prevention of this risk, of course, lies in the frequent use of the choker in starting during cold weather, and also in keeping the drip-pan and the carburetor well cleaned, although fires have also been known to start from backfiring igniting pools of oil or grease on the floor of a garage. ### OVERCOME RATTLE OF DOORS

Effective Method Is That of Bending Hinge as Shown in Illustration Herewith.

The doors of many automobile bodies, particularly the light cars, loosen up after considerable running, and cause a disagreeable rattle. Rubber-head nails, or strips of rubber cut from inner tubes, are frequently used to take up the play between the door and frame. A method that is more effective and requires a minimum of

A Simple Remedy for the Rattling of Automobile Doors Is to Bend the Hinges Slightly.

TEMPERATURE IS IMPORTANT

Point Below Boiling Point of Water Prevents Condensation and Excessive Wear.

To get the greatest efficiency from a motor and at the same time with maximum economy, it should be operated at a temperature point a little below the boiling point of water. This prevents condensation of gasoline, bad results from cold oil, and excessive wear to motor parts, not only because of poor lubrication, but also because motor parts have not had the opportunity to expand properly. In other words, hot motor parts fit. And the motor should reach the proper temperature point as quickly as possible. For this reason radiator shutters and a motometer are standard equipment on some cars. They insure long life and continued satisfactory performance.

AUTOMOBILE FUNTS

- Tighten the fan belt.
- Test the wheels for wobbling.
- Examine cylinders for carbon.
- See that every moving part is well oiled and greased.
- Check up on tires and see that they are in proper condition.
- If you have not already done so, clean out the cooling system.
- Care should be exercised not to use hard water in the cooling system.

The Night Stampede

Dramatic Incident from "The Cowboy" by Philip Ashton Rollins

PHILIP ASHTON ROLLINS

INTRODUCTION BY JOHN DICKINSON SHERMAN

THIS is an anomaly in these Twentieth century days. That as the cowboy is passing from the West he bulks increasingly large in fiction. The presses of book and magazine publishers are apparently working night and day in turning out so-called "vintage" stories of the Great West. Mostly this "popular literature" is devoted to cowboys who talk a lingo invented by writers who never heard a puncher talk; who are a fearful and wonderful combination of Don Quixote and Sir Lancelot; who always ride the best horse on the range, wear two guns and beat the head villain to the draw; who rescue distressed maidens from cattle-rustlers or Mexican bandits.

In the heyday of the ranching industry—1875-1892—the cowboy dotted the plains from Central Nebraska to the foothills of the mountains of the Pacific slope and from Montana to the Mexican border. Then came the homesteader, the farm and the fence. In 1892, during the "Rustler War" in Wyoming, the stockmen and the cowboy of the "Open Range" surrendered to the United States army and the farmer. In this year of grace 1922 A. D., there are still unfenced areas of grazing land open to the public. There are fenced ranches. But 1892 saw the end of the "Open Range" and the heyday of the cowboy.

Anyway, Philip Ashton Rollins in his new book, "The Cowboy," speaks of the cowboy in the past tense. He says in his preface:

The American cowboy, by reason of his picturesqueness, has been a frequent subject for the dramatist, the novelist, the illustrator, and the motion picture photographer. All these producers have been limited by the technical requirements of their art, and have stressed the cowboy's picturesqueness to the exclusion of his other qualities. They have done this so definitely and attractively as to create an ostensible type which rapidly is being accepted by the American public as an accurate portrait of the now bygone puncher.

The portrait is often charmingly presented, but it is not accurate. The cowboy was far more than a theatrical character. He was an affirmative, constructive factor in the social and political development of the United States.

Consequently he deserves to be assured more kindly treatment by ultimate history than presumably he will receive unless, while the testimony of eye-witnesses be still procurable, such testimony be gathered and recorded.

Mr. Rollins, a college man and now a New York lawyer, is not of those who seek experience to get local color for a book. He is of those who write down his experiences because convinced that they are too valuable to be lost to posterity. The writer hopes he is among those who convinced Mr. Rollins that "The Cowboy" should be written.

Following is the story of a night stampede during a cattle drive—one of the many dramatic incidents which an adequate book on the cowboy necessarily contains:

All through the darkness men of the "night herd," working in shifts of from two to four hours, rode about the animals; and as the men rode they constantly serenaded the beasts by crooning to them songs or chants, which, when so used, were entitled "hymns." This serenading was done partly to hold the cattle under the compelling spell of the human voice, and partly to disabuse the mind of any fearsome member of the herd suspicion that either a puncher's silhouette against the sky-line or else the noise of his moving pony might represent a snooping dragon. The rider, when "singing to the cattle," as his vocal efforts were styled, disregarded all the words he knew set to all the tunes he could remember or invent, but omitted any sound or inflection which might startle. Sacred airs were usual, for from their simple melodies they were easy of remembrance, and also they then still held the national popularity which since has passed to the tunes of the music-halls; but the words set to these churchly airs well might have surprised the clergy. The proper words, accounts of horse-races, unflattering opinions of the cattle, strings of profanity, the voluminous text on the labels of coffee or condensed milk-cans, mere humming sounds, alike and with seemingly deep religious fervor, were poured on many a night into the appreciative ears of an audience with cloven hoofs.

Thus tired men, cat-napping but always crooning, were out in the black, their ponies steadily, slowly patrolling, though half asleep; but man and horse were ready to wake like a shot and to act the instant that a steer started to "roll his tail," or, in less technical English, to gallop with his tail humped up at its shore end, an infallible sign of confident expectation to disregard both distance and time.

All through the journey the animals had proceeded quietly and rested decently until one moment when there came a snort, a bellow. What caused the snort and bellow nobody knew or could stop to ascertain. Merely "tails" had "rolled," and a stampede was on. From a common center cattle were darting toward every point of the compass. It was "all hands to the pumps!" and into saddle and on the run for every man. Riders armed with saddle blankets, with doffed coats, hastily plucked sage-brush plants, anything that could be waved, holding pistols, the only attainable objects that would make a commanding noise, galloped out beyond the fleeing animals, headed and flanked them, "cutting in" all incipient, bovine meteors. Finally, the frayed edges of the mass constricted, and the whole was reduced to a ragged, narrow, rushing column, one set of galloping cowboys guiding its van, another, as flank riders, guarding its sides and endeavoring so far as possible to soothe the animals. The forefront of this column was, under the pilotage of the attacking horsemen, swerved into the shape of a shepherd's crook, and a moment later the herd was pouring itself into the form of a capital letter "U."

When its two ends came opposite each other, they were welded together by a yelling, waving, shooting set of madmen on the backs of flying, snorting horses.

This started "milling," a merry-go-round which kept up until the participating cattle quit from exhaustion. Of course, milling did not take place in a circle, an ellipse, an oval, or in any other geometrical form. It occurred in an irregular chunk of grunting, bellowing cattle, overspread and surrounded by an unbreathable cloud of biting dust, with cursing cowboys acting as satellites.

A stampede at night and in a country beset with "cut banks," i. e., precipitous hillsides, beset also with deep canyons, with vertically sided arroyos, with gopher and badger holes, killed many a steer, broke many a pony's leg, left many a rider lifeless on the ground.

After every night stampede there was a counting of human noses. This was done with anxiety which always was as tender in spirit as it was flipper in form. The riders, returning one by one during the next day's morning hours, came into camp, and an atmosphere of banter—banter which, in joking phrases and with several participants, ran on one occasion somewhat as follows: "Hullon, Shorty, where'd you come from? Thought you was dead. . . . Where's Baldy? Guess he's gone off to git married. . . . No, he ain't here he comes. . . . Everybody's in but Jack and Skinny. They must a ridden all the way to Omaha. . . . There's Jack now, comin' up over the top of that rise."

The banter suddenly ceased, for, as soon as Jack had come completely over the top of the hill and into clear view, he had begun to ride rapidly in a small circle. This was one of the equestrian Indians' two signals of important news or of request for strangers to advance for parley, and was often used by whites as a messenger of like import or of serious tidings. At the first circle, some one remarked "Mebbe Jack's playing with a rattler. No, he ain't. There he goes again. He's shore signalling," while some one else added "Jack wouldn't do that for no cows. It must be Skinny." The camp had risen to its feet and started for the tethered ponies.

Suddenly there floated down the breeze three faint sounds evenly spaced. The wind had shifted, and its new course straight from Jack to the camp giving promise that sounds would carry thither, he had used his gun. The camp gasped, "My God, it's Skinny," and then the foreman said, with machine-gun rapidity but icily quiet tone, "Pete, quick, get them two clean shirts that's drying on the wagon tongue. We may need 'em for bandages." Nobody mentioned anything about a shovel, but a collision at the wagon's tailboard and the sound of rasping metal showed that three men instinctively had sought for the sometimes so utensil, and that it was in hand.

In rapid strides of exaggerated length the punchers approached their horses. One beast shied away, but stopped the instant there rang out with tiny sound, "Damn you, Bronc, quit that," and thereafter the brute crouched and trembled and made no opposition to taking its bit and saddle. Bits were driven into horses' mouths like wedges into split logs. No effort was made to gather in cinches and offside latigos, to lay them atop the saddles, and to place the latter gently on the ponies' backs. The saddles, each grasped by horn and cantle, were waved in air to straighten out the latigos, and were slipped onto cringing backs with a sound like that of a slatting sail on a windy day.

At times like this when men were fierce and in a killing mood, their horses seemed to sense the situation. The most chronic buckers would forego their piteous avocation, and, squatting low in tremor, would receive their load and never make a single jump.

The camp moved out to waiting Jack, and with it went the two clean shirts, each clutched against a rider's chest.

There were jerky, vertical single nods of heads, Jack supplementing his own nod by one later, slow, horizontal turning of his head to right and then to left. A gentle sigh rose from the arriving punchers, two hands impatiently opened and let two shirts flutter to the ground. Jack's inquiring look was answered by Ike's slight raising of the handle of the shovel, which thus far he had endeavored to conceal. Then came the first spoken words. Jack commenced the conversation, and in part it ran: "He's up at the end of the big draw, right by the split rock. Went over that high cut bank, him and a mess of cattle. He's lyn' under 'em. He never knowed what hit him. . . . No, I warn't with him. Just now seen his sign as I was coming across. I seen it was headed for the cut bank, so I chased over there." The foreman added: "Well, boys, let's get it."

Then the little funeral cortege, having silently smoked a cigarette or two, fell into jiggling trot and headed for the big draw.

The funerals of the men who died in this way, of many Western men, were deeply affecting from their crude, sincere simplicity. About the open grave, which was at merely "somewhere on the plain," would gather a serious-faced little group. The body, wrapped in a saddle-blanket, would be lowered gently into its resting-place, and then would come a pause. Each attendant strongly wished that some appropriate statement might be made either to God or about the dead; but each man felt himself unequal to the task, and stood nervously wiping his forehead. Perhaps the strain wrung from some one person a sudden ejaculation. If so, the requirement for utterance had been satisfied, and all the mourners felt a buoyant sense of relief. If nobody spoke, some wandering eye fastened on the shovel.

When the filled-in earth had been pounded to smoothness and had been overlaid with rocks, as a barrier to marauding animals, it was time to leave. That parting would not be accomplished or even begun until there had terminated the strained, awkward silence under which most American men cloak their deeper feelings. The silence usually was ended by an expression spontaneously emitted from overwrought nerves, and often profane in form though not in intent.

At the foot of one of the noblest peaks in the Rocky Mountains lies a grave. Its occupant died in a stampede. All that was said at the interment came out hesitatingly and as follows: "It's too bad, too bad, Tom, dig a little deeper there. Hell, boys, he was a man," and presently when the burial had been completed, "Bill, we boys leave you to God and the mountain. Good-b' Bill. Dama it, Jim, look out for your bro'."

TO THE VOTERS OF NEW MEXICO

Yielding to the suggestions of friends, I have concluded to become a candidate for the office of United States Senator. I shall not proclaim my qualifications for that high position. The public must be the judge as to my ability to creditably discharge its duties. I feel, however, that a residence in New Mexico for more than forty years, during which time I have participated more or less prominently in public matters, justifies me in some degree in becoming a candidate.

I will stand for nomination at the coming Republican convention of this state, and will abide the action of that convention. I am not an Independent, but a Progressive Republican in politics. I wrote the first platform for the Progressive wing of the Republican party in this state, the only platform up to that time, which declared for equal suffrage of the two sexes, for election of United States senators by the people, and for putting the saloon out of business. I stood with Roosevelt for those advanced measures which have since been enacted into law, and which have redounded so much to the interest of the nation and the people of this state.

I am no apologist for dereliction of any one in public office, whether the individual be of my party, or a member of some other party. He who does not measure up to the duties of his office, in my judgment, forfeits the confidence of all parties. I am not a reactionary in politics. I do not believe a party should stand still, but should like an individual progress with the times, faithfully meet changed conditions as they arise and shrink from no obligations it owes the public.

I believe in a tariff which will equalize conditions of business competition between the United States and other countries. I especially favor a tariff law, which is reasonable and just and which will fully protect every productive interest and every wage earner in the state.

I favor state ownership of such of the public lands as have not been reserved for the public or special use of the government of the United States, for I believe such lands can be more economically administered by the state, and made more profitable to the people than by the system which now prevails.

I favor the reduction of taxes consistent with proper maintenance of public schools, public highways and all public institutions, but am utterly opposed to extravagant use of public moneys under all circumstances.

I favor the passage of a law by Congress, requiring textile fabrics of woven goods, to be labeled by manufacturers so as to truthfully tell the percentage of wool, cotton, silk or other materials contained, to protect the buyer.

My position on the McNary bill pending before Congress, especially the reclamation features of that bill which apply to the Rio Grande Valley, is well known from a number of speeches made by me in favor and explanation of the bill during the last campaign. The bill should become a law.

If I should be nominated for the office named, I would make a thorough campaign of the state, advocate Republican principles, work for the success of our ticket, and if elected, would earnestly and faithfully represent the interests of the people of the entire state.

MANY APPLES TO BE SHIPPED

Local orchardists are making arrangements to ship their crop of apples to the market as soon as possible. According to reports, a large yield of this crop is expected in some of the leading orchards, although much fruit was damaged by late frost and hail. The C. A. P. orchards will produce about seventy carloads of first class Ganos, Arkansas Blacks, Gordon Orines and other kind of apples. J. H. Holloman and other fruit growers will also have several carloads of apples to ship.

The shipments will not equal the shipments made last year, but will be a source of great income to the orchardists. The worms have been responsible for a shortage in the fruit crop regardless of the spraying of the trees several times.

Very little is known concerning the apple crop at Hope, although several carloads will be shipped. The shippers expect to receive approximately one dollar per box for the crop this year.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess to Misses Zanaida Mann, Vesta Frisch, Mildred Frisch, Loris Davis, Gladys Cowan, Virginia Atteberry, Beatrice Davis, Arta Belle Rogers, Elizabeth Solomon, and Effie Glover. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Mildred Frisch.
