Oil Interest Gain Shifts to Southern Saddle County

Indications Favorable For Big Play to Find the Shallow Production—One Well Bearing Pay—Tubing To Be Run In Robinson 2.

Interest has again shifted to the area, which gives promise of oil activity for the next few months. The Ada Nicholas No. 1 of the Getty Oil Co., sec. 25-28, is logging favorable for shallow production. The salt in this test found at 370 feet, the same formation continuing to 970 feet, an six hundred feet. While the top of the salt appears to be running fifteen feet lower than the formation found in the Hinkle No. 1 of the Getty, the bottom of the salt is approximately the same number of feet higher. A gas flow has been encountered in the Ada Nicholas No. 1 at 1030 feet, estimated at 20,000 to 25,000 cubic feet. Gates and Rehn are moving materials in for a test, six miles west of Getty Hinkle No. 1. The location of this test is in the SE 1/4 of the NE 1/4 sec. 7-21-28.

It is also reported that the Snow-McSweeney interests are planning to make a test a mile south of the Hinkle No. 1 in sec. 25-20-29. Workmen are running tubing in the Robinson No. 2 of the Texas Production Co., in sec. 25-16-31, preparatory to a production test. This well has been connected up with the pipe line and an oil and gas separator is expected to be installed. Information received here indicates that the Robinson No. 2 has been producing an average of 100 barrels daily, natural. A rumor is current that the Texas Production Co. is planning another test in this same area, but no official information is available as we go to press.

Clamath project, Henderson, Dexter Blair, Wyoming No. 1 well on the cap rock area in the county is plugging to abandon a shot in the lower sandy formation. This well was drilled to a total depth of 5370 feet. Another oil showing has been obtained in the No. 4 well of R. D. Barton on the Mann permit sec. 27, at 2100 feet, according to reports yesterday.

After drilling to a depth of 2990 feet in the Levers Carper No. 5 well, sec. 3-18-28, workmen are plugged back to the sand found around 2000 feet, preparatory to placing a well in this sand.

PROGRAM AT ROTARY CLUB

Artesia Rotarians heard discussions on two subjects at Tuesday's luncheon which is of interest to people of this section. Senator Z. B. Moon, recently appointed commissioner by the Methodist conference, gave a talk on the proposed assembly located in the state in the near future. Two points of special interest to Artesia residents was the fact that negotiations for all proposed assembly sites had been drawn except the site under consideration at Clouderoft. Senator Moon further stated that Governor and the state highway department agreed to build a highway to assembly grounds, wherever they are located.

The Clouderoft site is finally selected, it is likely that Artesia will be common distribution point for the entrance, Senator Moon stated.

O. E. Puckett of Carlsbad, health officer gave a short on the preventative recommendation of diphtheria. Dr. Puckett was wed by Dr. C. Russell, who displayed a similar phase of the subject.

NEW MEXICO ON THE MAP

A map of the United States, reissued by a trade journal and published in Sunday's issue of the Oil News, indicating the general business conditions over the various sections of the nation, shows a widening circle of prosperity in the southwest. For the first time in many years, practically all of the states of New Mexico is shown in a green, which indicates that the state is enjoying a prosperous period. A year ago, this section was listed as a complete line of samples social stationery—Artesia Ad.

J. S. HUMAN LOSES A FENDER IN COLLISION ON NORTH HIGHWAY

A one eyed Ford was responsible for a near serious car wreck on the Artesia Roswell highway, north of Dexter Saturday, according to J. S. Human of Artesia, who lost a left fender in the collision. Mr. Human was driving toward Roswell when he observed a car with one light coming south. He states that he gave more than his share of the road and came near going off in the ditch in an effort to avoid an accident, but without avail. The Ford drive struck Mr. Human's Buick just back of the left front wheel and took the fender. The Ford lost a front wheel as a result of the smash up. Fortunately no one was injured.

HI SMITH, WATCHMAN AT RHODES WELL IS SERIOUSLY HURT MON.

Skull Is Crushed When Hit In Forehead By Piece of Flying Metal—Is Taken To Wink, Texas, Hospital—In Serious Condition.

Hi Smith, who was employed as a watchman on the Rhodes No. 1 of the Texas Production Co., in southeastern Lea county, was seriously injured while assisting the workmen in doing some repair work, at a late hour Monday afternoon. The details of the accident, which were received here Tuesday, are somewhat clouded, but it appears that Mr. Smith and his companions were at work, when the gate which controls the gas flow blew off a piece of metal from the gate struck Mr. Smith in the forehead and crushed his skull. The unfortunate man was rushed to a hospital at Wink, Texas in a serious condition and his recovery is said to be doubtful, owing to his advanced age. Mr. Smith's former residence is in Carlsbad, where he is said to have worked as a restaurant cook for a number of years. According to information reaching here, Superintendent Heald of the Texas Production, also had a narrow escape when the gate blew open. He was almost overcome by escaping gas when the workmen came to his rescue.

BOOZE PLANE WILL BE SOLD

The first liquor running airplane seized in New Mexico will be sold to the highest bidder at Roswell January 30, it is announced by federal officials. The plane was seized with the arrest of C. C. "Smoky" Taylor and Kenneth Oliver two months ago and after a rifle bullet fired by an officer had crippled the engine.

ARTESIA DROPS FAST GAME TO HAGERMAN

The Artesia high school Bulldogs dropped the first game of basketball since the holidays to the fast Hagerman quintet at Hagerman Friday evening by a score of 11 to 14. Inability of the locals to ring the basket cost them the game. Time and again the ball was carried to the Artesia goal, but the Bulldogs missed the basket on crucial counts. The line up is not available as we go to press.

Taking Time by the Forelock

THE ARTESIA AND LAKE ARTHUR BASKETEERS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL TUES.

Artesia won and lost in Tuesday evening's basketball contest at the new central gym. The first scheduled game between the Lake Arthur high school and the Artesia town team was replete with thrills and the final outcome was doubtful until the latter part of the fourth quarter, when the Lake Arthurites took a definite lead in the final count being 17 to 20. The fast and effective work of the Derrick brothers proved too strenuous for the town stars, some of whom did not show the usual punch.

The game between the Artesia high school girls and the Lake Arthur high school girls developed into a rough and tumble affair. Substitutes were frequent on both sides. The locals emerged victorious after a long drawn out contest, the score being 26 to 12.

HORNE RESIDENCE BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE MON. MORNING

The two story frame residence of R. E. Horne, located on the corner of Grand and Rose Lawn avenues, was badly damaged by a fire of unknown origin, Monday morning near the hour of 9 a. m. The entire top of the building was ablaze before the alarm was turned in and it appeared for a time that it would be a total loss. The fire truck made a quick response and succeeded in checking the flames a short time after the hose was attached. Two nozzles were played on the roof until all danger of fire breaking out from any part of the roof had passed. In the meantime a large number of volunteers had removed practically all furniture from the lower story.

Monday morning's fire was probably the most spectacular to occur here in many months. Numbers of business men and neighbors assisted the firemen in fighting the flames and removing the furniture.

While the dwelling is understood to have been insured, the amount of loss had not been determined early in the week.

MRS. HALSEY HAS STOUTLY REFUSED USE OF PICTURE

Nannie Catherine Halsey, who is scheduled to go to trial at Clovis on February 20 on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of her husband, Fred Halsey, has her own ideas of newspapers and newspaper men in general, says the Roswell Record.

When seen in the county jail last week and asked whether she had a picture, she replied that she had not and added, "And what's more I would not give you one if I had. That's plain enough, isn't it?"

Mrs. Halsey had aged considerably since the sentence of death was passed on her three years ago and no doubt long confinement in the death cell at the state penitentiary has not added anything to the placidity of the disposition of Mrs. Halsey.

DISTRICT AND COUNTY POLITICS WARMING UP APPROACHING PRIMARY

Both county and district politics are warming up as the time approaches for the democratic primary, which will likely be held in this sector sometime in April or May. Interest is further heightened this week by the entrance of three candidates into the political goal. We are authorized to announce two candidates for the office of county treasurer and one for district attorney.

Members Enjoy Luncheon At The High School Bldg. Hold Annual Election of Officers—Enthusiasm Is Manifested at Meeting.

The meeting of yesterday was of special significance in the annals of the Women's Club, both from a social and business viewpoint. The annual luncheon was held and also the annual election of officers. While the latter are selected at this time they do not assume their duties until after the close of the present club year.

The luncheon was a charming affair and was served by the Home Economics department of the high school. Under the supervision of their teacher, Miss Ruth Morgan, the girls of the department served a repast delectable to behold as well as to taste. The members all were seated at a long table artistically adorned and shining with snowy linen and table service.

Between courses and following the last one, a number of talks were given by club members. Mrs. Hartell presented the president, Mrs. Blocker, who acted as master of ceremonies. In the main the theme of the talks was the report of the meeting of the committee of General Federation in Washington—recently. The good of the club was also touched upon in a peppy talk upon "Cooperation," by Mrs. Corbin, first vice president, who was introduced by Mrs. Albert Richards. The talks were mostly brief and all were interesting. The others appearing on this part of the program were Mesdames Pior, Ferree, Atkeson, Story, Martin, Harvey and Brainard, the latter giving a brief resume of the objects and aims of the General Federation. It was a delightful get-together session and infused a spirit of enthusiasm and a desire for achievement into the membership.

NEW MEXICO BANKS TO OFFER A REWARD FOR BANK BANDITS

ALBUQUERQUE.—The New Mexico Bankers Association yesterday announced a reward of $1,000 for each bank bandit killed while in the act of robbing a bank and $500 for each robber arrested and convicted.

The announcement says the rewards are offered to protect the members from the bank bandits, that surrounding states are taking similar action and it is feared that this "will drive more or less of the bandits within our borders and there is greater need for the bankers of this state to protect themselves than ever before in its history."

JAMES STAGNER IN NEW LAW FIRM

Artesia friends of James Stagner may be interested to know of the new law firm recently established at Carlsbad, in which Mr. Stagner is associated. Dover Phillips of Carlsbad, district attorney, has recently reorganized the law firm of Phillips and Stagner, adding another partner, C. S. Neal of Las Vegas. Mr. Neal is the son of Thos. W. Neal of Meadow City and served as attorney for the state finance board during the Hannett administration. Mr. Stagner moved from Artesia to Carlsbad about a year ago and has been associated with Mr. Phillips in an advisory capacity. Mr. Stagner has also made a creditable record as assistant district attorney.

LEA COUNTY OWES $813 FOR DEAN MURDER CASE

Lea county is indebted to Chaves county in the sum of $813.45 because of the transfer to Roswell of the J. C. Dean murder case, court records here show. Dean pleaded guilty to shooting his wife and was sentenced to serve 71 to 79 years in the state penitentiary.

FRIDAY THE 13th IS AN UNLUCKY DAY FOR RALPH TERPENING

Friday the 13th may be lucky for some, but is unlucky for others. It proved unlucky for at least one Artesia resident. Ralph Terpening suffered a broken ankle as a result of a fall from a broken ladder, Friday afternoon. While out south of town, Mr. Terpening had climbed a sixteen foot ladder, presumably to do some repair work on a farm house. He reached the top of the ladder without mishap, but when the first cleat or rung broke, the weight of Mr. Terpening broke the others as fast as he could hit them, stripping the ladder to the ground. It was very fortunate that the accident was not more serious.

YESTERDAY WAS RED LETTER DAY FOR THE ARTESIA WOMEN'S CLUB

Approximately forty members of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce attended the annual banquet given at the Bullock banquet hall, Thursday evening. The principal items of business transacted following the serving of a very fine banquet was the annual report of the secretary, Dr. Clarke, the outline of a program to be followed in 1928 and the election of three directors.

From the standpoint of general enthusiasm, the banquet was the most successful held in years. Of prime importance is the fact that it served to wield a definite plan of action and promote a better understanding and appreciation for the tasks that the Chamber of Commerce has undertaken. This accomplishment in itself was well worth the effort put forth by the directors in staging the annual feed. There is unquestionably a better feeling among the business men and members of the Chamber of Commerce as a result of Thursday evening's meet, which is hoped will pave the way for greater accomplishment during the coming year.

A review of the activities of the Chamber of Commerce during the past year by Dr. J. J. Clarke, proved to be one of the high lights of the meeting. A surprising number of possibilities have been realized during the past year, chief among which was the aid given by the Chamber of Commerce in the matter of building a connected system of highways, leading into Artesia.

Among interesting items brought out in the report was the number of communications received by the secretary in the year 1927 regarding this section of the state. The total communications numbered 2346, with the following states furnishing the inquiries: Arkansas 43, Arizona, 26, California 121, Colorado 29, Illinois 16, Indiana 10, Kentucky 3, Louisiana 66, Missouri 54, Mississippi 11, Ohio 2, Texas 540, Oklahoma 346, Kansas 217, Nebraska 93, Virginia 4, South Dakota 5, Utah 3, District of Columbia 405, New York 102, Florida 7, Chile 1, Hawaii Islands 1, British Columbia 1, New Mexico, 150. During the year there were 201 people called at the office of the secretary for information the following questions: employment 110, road information 20, gas and oil information 29. People coming in response to inquiries 17.

The 1928 program for the Chamber of Commerce as outlined by Dr. Chester Russell, president is as follows: construction of a new and modern hotel for Artesia, the installation of a white way on four blocks of Main street, the sponsoring of a tree planting campaign, by the Chamber of Commerce, abolishing the unsightly awnings on Main street, encouraging the farmers to bring in exhibits for the various carnivals and fairs, the establishment of an aviation field, the distribution of sixty road signs, the presentation of a loving cup to the most valuable citizen of the town.

JAMES E. BACH DIES FRIDAY FOLLOWING A SHORT ILLNESS

James Earl Bach, age four years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bach, living east of Artesia, died Friday morning, following a short illness, as result of membranous croup.

The death of little James was a distinct shock to friends and members of the family and sympathy is extended to the grief stricken parents in their hour of sorrow.

Funeral services were held at the grave side, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rev. Wainwright of Carlsbad, officiating. The floral offering was very beautiful. Messrs. Tom Spivey, Finn Watson, Clint Cole and Roby Conner served as pall bearers. The deceased is survived by a father, mother and small brother.

Commercial Club Plans to Undertake a Big Program

Annual Report of the Secy. Is Made—Plans for the Coming Year Outlined by The President—Members Elect Three Directors.

Dr. Russell, president, declared the nominations open for three directors and the following men were nominated: Chas. Rogers, Reed Brainard, J. S. Ward, F. C. Finley. Two of the former directors C. Bert Smith and D. I. Clowe were nominated, but requested that their names be withdrawn. The final ballot resulted in the election of Messrs. Reed Brainard, J. S. Ward and F. C. Finley.

EL PASO HIGH HERE FRIDAY AFTERNOON

El Paso high school will be in Artesia Friday afternoon to meet the local basketball quintet. This game will without doubt be one of the best of the season. El Paso has a large and fast team this season but the Bulldogs are certain to put up a good fight. The game will be called at 8:30.

At 7:30 the Bulldogs will meet the Hope High School. This will also be a good game as Hope are going strong this year.

YOUR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Undoubtedly practically all business men will agree that the Chamber of Commerce of any town is the most important civic organization the city can have. Regardless of whether or not the Artesia Chamber of Commerce is living up to its opportunities, few if any deny the need of such organization. You can not refuse to support this organization and correct the existing evils connected with the Chamber of Commerce, if there by any, any more than the voter can stay at home on election day and elect his choice among the candidates.

Obviously the sensible thing to do in the event you do not think the organization is accomplishing the things it should, is to put your shoulder to the wheel and push. If you have any criticism to offer on the way your organization is being conducted, tell it to the members at a meeting of the organization and not to the stranger on the street corner.

Don Weatherford, secretary of the Clovis Chamber of Commerce has written a splendid defense of the organization, which is quoted in the current issue of the Amarillo News. Here it is:

"The Chamber of Commerce is the only organization where every creed and religion meet; where the owner of the small business or the salaried man can work side by side with the largest banker, merchant or landlord; where men are known for what they do and not for what they own; where membership is not limited to any number or group; where there is but one major object—to make a better and greater Clovis.

"Your Chamber of Commerce is the powerhouse of progress and it stands to reason that Clovis will grow according to it, let it be large or small, and you as a citizen and property owner will be responsible for the growth and progress of each.

"And why should you charge your misfortunes and losses, if any, to the organization that is supporting you and your interest and the community in which you reside? Briefly, if you had all of this world's goods that you desire, what use would you have for your Chamber of Commerce or any other organization?

"Is it not true that it is much easier and requires much less effort and energy to find one reason why you should co-operate with and lend your financial support to your fellow men, than it is to rake and scrape for many excuses why you should not? It is a time worn adage that when we do not want to do that which is right and just to our fellow man, it is no trouble, whatever, to find excuses why we should not. In short, we accept and enjoy the benefit of the efforts and expenditures of others and give nothing in return. Invariably, you will hear this excuse given, "I pay my taxes." The laws of your country force you to pay your taxes and that is the least that you can do for your home town.

"A loyal citizen demonstrates his real worth by what he does for his community of his own free will. Your Chamber of Commerce members work unselfishly to enhance the value of your property and to increase the citizenship of the community in which you live.

"One of Clovis' largest property owners and financial successes made the assertion that aside from a community loyalty the main reason that he was one of the largest supporters of the Clovis Chamber of Commerce was because the money that he paid for its support paid greater dividends per annum than any other investment he had of like size, and that the Clovis Chamber of Commerce is to Clovis and Curry County what the Amarillo Globe-News is to the Great Plains Country—The Powerhouse of Progress."

THAT TREE PLANTING CAMPAIGN

The tree planting campaign, which will be sponsored by the Artesia Chamber of Commerce, should have a general appeal to the local citizenship, regardless of whether you belong to the Chamber of Commerce or have any connection with the organization. As a matter of local pride, we know of nothing that will bring the same returns for the money invested as will the planting of trees or beautifying a lawn. Beautiful trees and attractive lawns will enhance the property values as nothing else will.

There is no reason why Artesia could not be made attractive as any town in the valley. The town has one of the cheapest water rates anywhere in the southwest. A low water rental should prove an added inducement to those who desire a more attractive home.

In this connection it is hoped that the city council can work out a plan whereby the trees on vacant lots can be taken care of without serious inconvenience to the owners.

FLOCKS AND HATCHERIES CAN BECOME ACCREDITED

Plans have just been completed whereby flocks and hatcheries in New Mexico can become accredited says E. E. Anderson of the New Mexico Agricultural College. This is made possible through the efforts of the newly organized State Poultry Association, in cooperation with the New Mexico College of Agriculture, and will be of vast help to the poultry raisers of the state as heretofore it has not been possible to purchase accredited chicks in New Mexico. Anyone desiring this quality of poultry has to order from other states.

In order for a flock or hatchery to become accredited, it will be necessary to live up to certain requirements. Certain regular inspections will be made by an inspector authorized by the College, to see that the conditions are being met.

The purpose of this work is to improve the quality of New Mexico poultry. It will be a protection to the purchaser if accredited chicks are secured as he will be reasonably certain of getting well bred chicks. It will be of great value to the breeder and to parties who are conducting hatcheries. They can compete on the same basis with dealers in other states who are selling accredited chicks.

While it is getting late to accredit flocks and hatcheries this coming season, it will be possible to handle a limited number. Those desiring to have the work done should apply at once. Full details can be secured at once by writing E. E. Anderson, Poultry and Dairy Specialist at State College.

PROTECTION NEEDED

Authentic information is received from Washington that a quiet movement is afoot which is seriously detrimental to the livestock industry, both to the cattle and sheep growers and unless action is taken to controvert the movement serious situations may result.

he information is to the effect that a movement has begun in a quiet way to admit Argentine beef and New Zealand mutton to the United States. This may be the result of some concerted demands being made in eastern sections for lower meat prices but should this foreign meat be admitted it would prove to be a national catastrophe. In the first place it would run the present healthful state of our meat supply. The notorious infection of Argentine beef caused the first bar against its admittance. In the second place the opening of our ports to New Zealand mutton and Argentine beef would bring about the collapse of the livestock industry of the west and particularly in the southwest where it is a major industry. It would put the American stock growers completely out of business and in this state would cause the slump which had such wide ramifications during the financial crisis following the war. Every stock growing section in the United States should begin work at once in inducing their senators and representatives in Congress to block any proposed legislation which would permit the entry of foreign meats.

Politics does not figure in this circumstance which is wholly an economic problem insofar as New Mexico and other livestock growing states are concerned. We, in New Mexico, must protect and assist in every way possible, the steady growth and eventual prosperity of the livestock industry. We have little to fall back upon in industrial income if the sheep and cattle grower is again forced into bankruptcy.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

The execution of Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray in Sing Sing prison, New York on last Thursday night, brings about the renewal of the often discussed question, whether or not capital punishment is right or wrong. Regardless of the nature of the crime, there are those who persist in declaring that capital punishment should be abolished. It was so in the recent execution, it will be so in the executions which may follow.

With all due respect to those who would find a substitute for capital punishment, the fact remains that a murderer, a hijacker and a robber is a menace to society. They do not hesitate to take human life on the least provocation, they do not hesitate to cause suffering and sorrow. Why shouldn't they be made to pay? The factors of sympathy, mercy and sensational stuff, so often played up when a sensational trial is underway, have never been known to feature or play an important part in a murder or robbery. The professional criminal nowadays, knows no code of ethics; he knows no restraints except what the law may throw around him and even these are rarely respected. In the face of a growing period of lawlessness, there is an increasing number of people who would not stop short of murder, were it not for the fear of the ultimate punishment, which the laws prescribe.

We would think it just as sensible under similar circumstances for the ordinary individuals to adopt a rattler, a tiger or lion of the jungle as a household pet as it would be to remove the only restraint the human society has against a dangerous individual.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

The opening of the new central school building the first of the year, brings to a realization another need improvement and one that we can justly be proud. Its a credit to any town. The new central building is one of the many accomplishments which has been finished here during the preceding five year period. It sometimes appears discouraging because it looks as though little or nothing has been or is being accomplished. But the older residents can recall conditions as they existed at the beginning of 1923.

At that time we had no paved streets, no sewer system, no connecting highways, no extended water system and no extended electric light system, such as we are enjoying at present. The next five years may not double the population of Artesia, as some towns have doubled in population during the past five years, but if Artesia improves proportionately in the next half decade as it has in past half, we will have nothing to be ashamed of.

W. E. O'Neal, of the Wildorado bank, thinks it's all in a day's work to have a couple of bank bandits walk in and search the vault.

The things you ought to have done today and did not will be about twice as hard to do tomorrow.

The man who gets ahead is usually the one who looks ahead.

ARTESIA HISTORY MAKERS

J. T. (TIM) REID

Superintendent of the Artesia Public schools, secretary of the New Mexico athletic association, vice president of the New Mexico educational association, 1926-1927, member of the various summer college faculties, member of the Masonic lodge, Rotary Club and the Baptist church.

Since it is becoming increasingly unpopular to ask the pointed question of "How old are you?" Superintendent Reid has been spared the embarrassment of answering this ancient question, however, he assures us that he was born in the Lone Star state in the county of Gonzales at a very tender age and is of Irish extraction (the latter statement should be a sufficient hint to the unruly school boy).

He was educated in the Lampasas county public schools and later entered Howard Payne college at Brownwood Texas, receiving his A. B. degree in 1915. His determination to get the best education possible was not deterred by his financial circumstances, but he did all kinds of odd jobs in order to get through college. His desire for an education left him little time for the usual outside activities, commonly enjoyed by the more fortunate student, but what he missed in the way of college memories, was more than made up by the solid foundation which he was building for a future career. While most of his school days were more or less a common place affair, he confesses that his favorite boyhood sport was twisting rabbits from their holes and in this activity he was the outstanding champion.

His first position in his chosen profession was as a teacher in the schools of Goldthwaite, Texas during the year 1915-1916. The following year he was elected superintendent of the Pampa schools and in the fall of 1917 he was made dean of men and instructor in education at Rusk college. He remained at Rusk through the year 1920, except the time that he spent in the army training camp. In 1919 he attended the special S. A. T. C. camp at Fort Sheridan, where he received instructions with a view to establishing military training at Rusk college. Following his discharge from Fort Sheridan he returned to Rusk and taught military training until the Armistice was signed and this branch of work abandoned. In the summer he taught at Baylor university summer school and in the following fall became principal of the Big Spring high school, retaining the position until the fall of 1922, when he was elected to the position of superintendent of the Tularosa high school, where he served in this capacity for two years when he was elected head of the Artesia schools. His work since that time on is well known to the people of this section.

As superintendent of Colfax public schools, Superintendent Reid has not only proved himself a school man, but an educator as well. It is a matter of record that the public schools here are in splendid condition, modern and up-to-date equipment and a sufficient faculty. Superintendent Reid is destined for a higher position, he has made for himself a name that will eventually be in the foremost places in educational circles. When he will run, know, but probably soon.

He has served with distinction some of the leading summer faculties of the southwest and the same time has paved the way for his master's degree from the University at Waco, Texas, only a senior thesis.

COTTON AND AUTO TIRES

Cotton plays a very important factor in the automobile tire manufacture. The United States constitutes one of the largest industrial outlets for cotton textiles in this country and the present trend in automotive industry indicates that still larger consumption of cotton fabrics and other cotton products may be anticipated.

The manufacture of automobiles and cotton cloth are close industrial allies. Cotton contributes the fabric used in tire casings and is the basis of the material covering the tops. In open cars it is used for curtains and in closed models it is largely a constituent of the more decorative interior and upholstery.

One of the best evidences of the large use of cotton in the automobile industry is in the production of tires. Statistics compiled by the Rubber Association of America indicate that during the first three months of this year approximately 59,000,000 pounds of cotton fabric were used in the manufacture of casings. If this rate of production is continued through the year the total consumption of cotton for this purpose will exceed the 227,512,000 pounds which were used last year.

Pretty Girl (sweetly): How splendid! Why don't you dig a well?—Missouri Outlaw.

Intensive Farming

"Why are you running a steam roller over that field? asked the stranger.

"I'm trying to raise mashed potatoes," explained the farmer.—Lehigh Burr.

Pies and Pies and Pies

RASPBERRY, blueberry, strawberry and peach—and last, but by no means least—the universal favorite, apple pie! Old-fashioned pies, deep-dish pies, turnovers and tarts—there's a generous choice of form and flavor, whatever your preference may be.

Pie for breakfast? Well, and why not? Fruit, raw, cooked or canned, is the conventional introduction of most breakfast menus. Pastry, Danish or American "coffee cakes," often follows the cereal. Those astute folk who combine their fruit and pastry in a flakey, nourishing pie are to be commended for their wise devotion to a custom purely American, even though it be tradition in one locality and legend in another! But certainly pies for dessert recognize no boundaries and are deservedly popular. Imagine a Thanksgiving without pumpkin pie—Christmas minus the lavish mince!

All Favorites Available
Time was when housewives watched with eager eyes for the first fruits to appear on vines, trees or in the market. However, all the favorite's—Father's and Daughter's—may be had of the year, thanks to modern which preserves the finest of season's yield in air-tight cans. The best of the red are to be found in gold enamel cans. Peach pie is one of the delicious of the many pies to be had from canned fruits. Here is a specially good recipe:

1 can sliced peaches
½ cup brown sugar

Drain juice off peaches. Put saucepan with sugar and peaches and cook for five minutes. Add pie-dish with pastry. Fill it with mixture and bake in hot oven (degrees Fahr). Let cool. Whip cream and serve cold.

1927 IS BEST OIL YEAR NEW MEXICO HAS ENJOYED SO FAR

The following article clipped from an exchange, may be of interest to our readers:

The year 1927 was by far the best, from an oil standpoint, in the history of New Mexico. Although pipe line runs for the last week showed approximately 1000 barrels less than the average for the latter part of 1926, nevertheless lease buying by the major companies in New Mexico was at its greatest peak when the crude oil situation was at its lowest eb.

Four new producing acres were opened up during the year just past. A McKinley county the Midwest Rening company brought in a wild-cat section 1-17N-9W, which is good for approximately 165 barrels at 1-31 feet. This structure is rather small and it is thought the company will endeavor to find oil on other tructures in the area to obtain enough oil to justify a pipe line. The well is located on top of the Continental Divide.

The Texas Production company opened two new fields in southeast New Mexico during the year. The best of which was the Robinson No. 1 in Section 25-16-31, Eddy county, in the Lea county line. This was completed as a gasser without any effort to make a producing well out of it. The second new field to the credit of the Texas company was the hodes No. 1 in Sec. 22-26-37 E in the extreme southeast corner of the state, in Lea county. This well was so completed as a gasser but is producing 120 barrels of oil and it generally thought that the well could be good for about 500 barrels ordinarily if drilled in.

A conservative estimate of New Mexico's income from oil for 1927 would place it at approximately $14,000,000. About $7,000,000 of this amount comes from cost of drilling and leases, divided into counties as follows:

Lea	$2,000,000
Eddy	2,000,000
San Juan	1,000,000

HEALTH NEWS

The County health officer has been asked a number of times if it is safe to eat rabbits. The following is a part of a letter which he received from Dr. G. S. Luckett, director, bureau of public health, Santa Fe, New Mexico, in reply to a letter asking about Tularemia in the state: "You have probably noted that there have been two cases of Tularemia reported recently and the disease is evidently still present in the rabbits in this state. It is not reasonable to suppose that it has been completely eradicated in your county and we believe that the best thing for you to do is to advise all persons to avoid wild rabbits as far as possible."

ONE CASE OF DIPHTHERIA

(County Health Department) A little four year old boy died of diphtheria near Artesia the latter part of last week. We would like to remind the parents that there is a need of children having diphtheria because they can be rendered immune with three doses of toxin-antitoxin which is absolutely a harmless and rather inexpensive treatment. All parents are urged to see their family physician in regard to toxin-antitoxin.

TRADE BALANCE OF $681,707,000

WASHINGTON.—A favorable trade balance for the United States of $681,707,000 last year was announced today by the commerce department, which fixed exports at $4,866,160,000 and imports at $4,184,453,000. The balance in favor of the United States in 1926 was $377,772,000.

Nursery Rhyme for Grown-Ups

Nursery had a little lamb,
Given by a friend to keep.
Followed her around until
It died from want of sleep.
—Exchange.

If you ever tried digging the easiest hole and found how much time and effort it took, you probably realized that digging a long wide ditch with just a pair of hands and a pick and shovel is a pretty difficult task. Perhaps you had better leave the task to grown-ups, because men can use things that are dangerous that little children should not touch. Men, by working very hard, can dig a very fair-looking ditch if they take a long, long time and get very tired out doing it, but there is something that can dig the longest kind of a ditch faster than you can say "Jack Robinson." The most capable ditch-digger in all the world is dynamite. All the labor there is to it is the planting of the dynamite along the line that marks the path that the ditch is to follow. When it is time for the ditch to be dug a man just presses a little electric button and boom!—a mighty noise, a cloud of smoke, a shower of falling tree stumps and dirt and brush and—behold—the ditch is dug!

Nice little gurgling, winding brooks can be very naughty and do a great deal of damage sometimes. A very mild little stream has been known to sweep madly around a corner beneath a culvert and, during a particularly stormy night, to wash the sturdy little culvert right around the corner with it. If a stream is made to follow a straight but not necessarily narrow path, it can never do very much damage—its little wiggly, winding ones that do all the harm. When they behave particularly badly, a dose of dynamite is often used to straighten them out and make them into sedate little ditches that literally "walk the chalk line?"

There used to be a swamp way down in Georgia near a little town where there suddenly grew up a large meat packing plant. This plant started piping all its refuse into the swamp. A mosquito from New Jersey that was touring the South happened to be spending the night there at the time and he discovered that the swamp was just an ideal spot for a home. He forthwith hung up his toothbrush and telegraphed for his family to join him. Mrs. Mosquito arrived on the next train, bringing all her children and friends and relatives. Millions of new mosquitoes settled in the swamp every day and at night great cohorts of them would swoop down on the little town and eat the people up. Something had to be done.

What evidently made life so pleasant for the mosquitoes was the waste from the packing plant and, if a channel could be made through the swamp so that all the water would flow through and take all the waste along with it, the mosquitoes might find life more agreeable elsewhere. A carload of dynamite was rushed to the spot and in just a few days a great wide ditch was blasted out and the water ran out of the swamp and rushed down the ditch at a great rate.

Now there's no more swamp way down in Georgia and a bright, sparkling, little brook carries the waste from the swamp right out into the bay and the disgruntled mosquitoes have all migrated to parts unknown.

SEVEN MILLION TROUT TO BE HATCHED

Approximately 7,000,000 trout eggs will be hatched and the fingerlings placed in state streams this year, State Game and Fish Warden E. L. Perry said. He and J. P. Bengard, superintendent of hatcheries, were conferring on the 1928 hatcheries budget.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

HOUSTON SELECTED FOR THE 1928 DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, Houston, Texas was selected Thursday for the 1928 democratic national convention.

The official count on the final ballot was: Houston 54; San Francisco 48; Detroit 1. On this ballot 53 were needed for a choice. Selection of the Texas city resulted from one of those unheralded shifts of fortune which so often control the drift of politics.

The resolutions subcommittee fixed Tuesday, June 26 as the date for the convention. This is two weeks after the republican national convention opens in Kansas City.

WASHINGTON.—The first ballot in the democratic national committee Thursday failed to produce a choice of a democratic national convention for 1928. The vote on the first ballot was as follows: San Francisco 25; Detroit 23; Houston, 30; Cleveland 11; Miami 6; Chicago 5.

The second ballot: San Francisco 25; Detroit 24; Houston 37; Cleveland 13; Miami and Chicago had dropped out.

MINE DEATHS IN 1927 DECREASE OVER 1928 RATE

WASHINGTON.—The death rate from accidents in mines in 1927 was lower than in 1926, Scott Turner, director of the United States bureau of mines, said Saturday in pointing out that the safety movement in the coal mining industry made considerable progress last year.

LEGION BANQUET

The American Legion held an enjoyable banquet and business meeting Friday night, January 13th, in the Bullock banquet hall.

After enjoying a three course dinner, Jas. F. Bates requested M. E. Baish to take the chair and act as temporary chairman while the election of officers for the ensuing year was in progress.

Some very interesting remarks were made by Mr. Baish regarding the organization, and the part it will play in the future, and what every ex-service man should think of his privilege of being eligible for membership in the American Legion.

Mr. Bates gave a short review of a few of the bills which have been passed through the efforts of the American Legion regarding the disabled ex-service men and a few of the bills have been passed in New Mexico which materially affects every ex-service man in the state. New Mexico is one state which has been very generous with the tax exemption.

Mr. Bates also mentioned the fact that a few officers can not carry on alone in the American Legion. They need the cooperation of the ex-service men and the community.

Following the talks made by Messrs. Bates and Baish, the election of officers was held. The new officers are: Gail Hamilton, commander; J. B. Muncy, vice commander; Jas. P. Bates, adjutant; Fred Cole, finance officer; Albert Vogel, sergeant at arms; Dr. H. A. Stroup, chaplain.

A membership committee consisting of M. E. Baish, Jess Truett and George Davis was appointed by Commander Hamilton, with a view to putting on a membership campaign and reviving the activities of the Legion.

DR. J. J. CLARKE MAY HEAD THE DEMOCRATS IN NOVEMBER ELECTION

The editorial mention in a recent issue of the Southwestern Dispatch, regarding the possible candidacy of Dr. J. J. Clarke of Artesia for governor on the democratic ticket may be of interest to a number of our readers. Incidentally this is not the first time Dr. Clarke's name has been favorably mentioned as a candidate for governor in the November election this year.

The article follows:
The placement of the democratic national convention at Houston, Texas, was one of the big surprises of the week's telegraphic news. It was about the last thing that had been expected, for while the party has long reined upon the south it has been in the habit of placing its gatherings at strategic points in the north. That the idea is a good one goes without saying. There should never be a political convention of any sort in New York and Chicago or San Francisco are nearly as objectionable. . . . The early holding of the convention makes necessary the shoving ahead of the state and county assemblies in New Mexico, with primaries in advance of the normal point, and subsequent long campaigns. Which may also be just as well. The democrats are ready, and the republicans can get themselves in shape, as all they have to do is to renominate practically all of their present office holders, along with a few new ones. The democrats lose Graham by the statute of limitations, and there is a strong and growing feeling that there should be many new faces in the lineup, to avoid the old factional lines and bring out the party vote all over the state without the use of stiletos. It is this fact that is emphasizing the possibility of Dr. J. J. Clarke, of Artesia, for governor, following the general impression that it would be most wise to select a candidate from the Pecos valley, and one who has never been connected with any faction. Dr. Clarke certainly answers that description, and is a man of broad ability, fit gubernatorial timber in every way. While not a candidate in the ordinary sense, it is understood that he is in a receptive mood and willing to make the race if drafted. His nomination would be most pleasing as a recognition of the Pecos valley, and possibly to many on the other side of the mountains, which is a most necessary thing, of course. . . . The democrats have a great opportunity in New Mexico this year, and with the selection of a rational ticket and the elimination of all cancerous spots, there will be little trouble in electing a full ticket.

CAVE VISITORS DOUBLE NUMBER LAST JANUARY

With 320 visitors to the cavern including Monday, it appears that unless bad weather hits tourist travel, this January will about double last January's attendance of 349.

There is a continuing large diversity of states represented in the winter travel to the cavern. Custodian Boles has announced plans for a regular extra trip, making two trips a day, during the summer season. No hours have been set, but one trip will be earlier than the present 10:30 trip, and probably one near noon.—Current-Argus.

Confined in Coconut

In Honolulu may be seen two coconut caskets, woven to represent King Liloa, who reigned over Hawaii in 1500 A. D., and his great-grandson, Lenoi-kama kohiki. Inside the caskets are the bones of the kings.
The coconut fiber caskets, shaped somewhat like an Egyptian mummy case, are extremely rare. These were found in one of the ancient burial places of Hawaii. The Hawaiians used to bury the bones of dead kings in inaccessible caves to prevent defilement by an enemy.

DEMO. LEADER IN SENATE CLAIMS UNITED STATES NOT PROSPEROUS

WASHINGTON.—Declaring that he would not unfairly state the conditions of the country, Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, Monday challenged recent statements by President Coolidge and republican leaders, in the senate that the country is in a prosperous industrial and agricultural condition.

The Robinson speech opened the debate on the McMaster resolution recording the senate as in favor of a general revision downward in tariff rates, which was to reach a vote Monday afternoon.

"Living costs in the United States continue too high," the senator said,
"and there is an intimate relationship between the tariff and the present condition of agriculture."

Citing the record of bank failures in recent years, Senator Robinson asked why President Coolidge and republican leaders insisted upon making prosperity "the sole issue."

"Do they believe the people of this country are so ignorant," he asked "that they can be deceived into believing there is prosperity in the face of the facts we know?"

"It is amazing how the president and republican senators can boast of prosperity."

SUCH IS LIFE Worth Giving A Try

$225,000,000 INCOME TAX REDUCTION MAY MEAN HIGH TAXES LATER

NEW YORK.—Secretary Mellon predicted if congress reduced taxes below the $225,000,000 recommended by the treasury, higher rates might have to be voted soon to meet government expenses, with a consequent harmful effect on business.

Addressing the Women's National Republican club, the secretary said that while it might be good business to lower taxes, "it most assuredly would not help matters to be obliged to raise them."

"It must be remembered," he said "that our present revenues are due to the high level of prosperity which has obtained for several years and any reduction in taxes will be made on the assumption that this prosperity will continue without any abatement."

"While at present the general trend is reassuring, nevertheless, if there should be a falling off in business, with a consequent and immediate reduction in the field of the corporation and individual income taxes, it may be necessary for congress to levy additional taxes and provide for the revenue needs of the government."

"One the excise taxes have been eliminated, they will not be restored. The first move will be to increase the rates on individual and corporation income taxes, and the very persons now urging an excessive reduction in taxes will be the first to pay the penalty in any increased taxes which may be necessary for the production of needed revenue."

"From the point of view of the taxpayers, this is undesirable of course. But it has a greater significance than this. If productive business should again find itself burdened with disproportional high taxes, not only business itself, but the whole country would lose the benefits now beginning to be felt as the result of getting back to a more balanced system of taxation."

SALE BILLS

The Best People

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

WHENEVER anything comes along for adoption or acceptance, and we ordinary mortals are hesitating as to our own procedure in the matter, our doubts are usually quieted or our courage reinforced by some one's assuring us that "all the best people are doing it," or using it or refraining from using it.

A year or so ago all the best young fellows in town, it was alleged, eschewed garters and went about with their socks hanging untidily over their shoe tops. If you met a young fellow with smooth-gartered hose you became aware at once that, in spite of his attractive appearance, he was second-class; he didn't rate, for all the best people had adopted the other style.

A man called at our house not very long ago with some sort of new-fangled machine for cleaning the cistern, or the furnace, or the chimney. When we hesitated about having the work done by machine and a man with which or whom we had had no previous acquaintance, we were assured at once that all the best people on the West side—which is the acknowledged habitat of the best people in town—were having their work done in that way. We could, of course, hesitate no longer. If the recognized leaders of the social life of the town were having their cisterns purified by a particular process, it behooved us to fall in line at once.

Sometimes one hesitates to ask oneself, "who are the best people, and what determines the superlative in making an estimate of the standing of one's neighbors and acquaintances?"

Old Doctor Harwood was an outstanding figure in our community. No matter what the weather was or how deep the mud of the country roads, he never hesitated to respond to a call for help. His old roan horse and his rickety sulky seemed always on the go.

He never collected any bills; if some one insisted on paying him for the service he rendered, he took the money, but that was not as often as it should have been. He was one of the most helpful, willing, unselfish people I have ever known. I am not sure that he would have been considered, at the outset, at least, as one of our best people by those who determine such matters.

A friend of mine was telling me of an elaborate social gathering in a neighboring town not long ago—a wedding, or a dance, or a reception, or something of the sort—and all the best people of the town and of the surrounding country were invited and, the newspapers said, attended. It was an unusual function. After it was over there was a good deal of gossip as to the goings on. Liquor had flowed freely and some of the inexperienced in these matters—women as well as men—had had more than was consonant with an upright carriage. The vulgarity of it was all excused, however, on the ground that the guests were "our best people."

Who are our best people—those who respect law and order, those who set high standards of living and thinking, or those who have the most money?

SAXON AND FEE HELD FOR VAUGHN BANK ROBBERY

SANTA ROSA.—John Saxon and Charles Fee are held in default of bonds of $5,000 each to await trial at the April term of court on charges of robbing the Vaughn bank on December 10 last of $3,245, following a preliminary hearing in justice of the peace court here.

The men were arrested in Lovington, January 6, on the same day that extradition of Joe Dunwoody from Pecos, Texas, was asked. Roy Northup had been brought from Pecos and held at Santa Rosa and a third man, "Whitey" Walker, was and still is sought.

Sheriff H. L. Martinez said that Northup will be returned to Pecos where he is wanted on bad check charges and Dunwoody will not be extradited, neither being wanted now in the bank case.

Saxon and Fee are wanted in connection with a number of other robberies in Texas and Oklahoma, Sheriff Martinez is advised, and investigation is being made to see if they were implicated in the Lamy post-office and store robbery last fall. They had very little money when they were arrested at Lovington, the sheriff said, but money taken from Saxon when he was held two days at Borden, Texas, following the robbery tallied with that taken from the Vaughn bank, he asserted.

SANTA FE WRITER SAYS
NEW MEXICO WILL BE FAVORABLE TO AL SMITH

SANTA FE.—New Mexico democratic party, which supported W. G. McAdoo uncompromisingly dry, in the last identical campaign, gives every indication of veering over to the extreme this year. Withdrawal of McAdoo from the race leaves New Mexico supporters free to their influence where they will,
it appears to be the consensus of opinion of well informed democrats that the New Mexico delegation will be for Governor Alfred Smith.

The prevailing belief is that the election will go uninstructed, but ably under some direction under modified unit rule. But though instructions from the state convention, it is the judgment of democrats that the delegates support Smith. The two oping elements of the party, widely variance on state affairs, appear in agreement upon Smith.

New Mexico, in proportion to population, seems to have more republicans than any other state holding the belief that Smith will not be nominated. However, the democrats of the state are strong in the belief that the nomination for Smith is already in the bag.

Early all of the democrats are of the opinion that Smith will carry New Mexico in so nearly a landslide as to bring the state and congressional election along with him. A great many fish-American republicans admit they believe this will be the result and some of them even go so far as to say they will support him.

The annual Jackson dinner and the annual democratic national convention were held without the two leaders from New Mexico. Senator
G. Bratton represented Arthur Gorman, and Mrs. Andrius A.
S. was given the proxy of Mrs.
M. Kirby. Mrs. Jones has taken an active interest in politics, both state and national, and some time has been president of Woman's National Democratic

the democratic party in New Mexico as an organization, has lain practically dormant since the last election. A sort of premature move last year to reorganize and elect a president to John B. McManus, president chairman, was promptly dropped. The leaders decided to let the organization remain as it stands until the delegate convention, which probably will be called for late April or early May. That convention will elect a state chairman, national committeeman and committeewoman, and may also reorganize the executive committee.

Arthur Seligman, national committeeman, has served since 1922. He was elected chairman from 1912 to the election, until the beginning of the campaign of 1922. As president of a national bank, Seligman is expected to be a little less active in politics, but he still finds time to devote considerable time to study of the old game. Nobody knows any more about what is going on in New Mexico politics.

Seligman, state chairman, Seligman outlined the democratic strategy which has brought success to the operatic ticket in several campaigns. It is the business of organizing and insurrection in the rank of the strongest republican ticket. In this he has shown great there is some opposition to Seligman and it grows out of the belief that he was far from active in 1922 in support of Arthur T. Hannett, nominated for governor. The new republican senator, Captain Bronson Cutting, publicly declaring that he was a democrat, vigorously opposed Hannett in the campaign. Of many reasons assigned for Seligman's course, the most plausible is that he preferred to string along Cutting.

Seligman's ability as an organizer and his accomplishment his re-election, if he were to make the effort. There is little reason to believe he will be a struggle for the honor. It means impossible that he be re-elected without a fight on the floor of the convention—but there will be no lack of interesting spirited arguments in the convention before the convention takes a vote.

Democrats have many important reasons of policy and management to reconcile. If a spirit of promise is shown in the delegate convention, the democrat ticket will be "set-up" next November.

T. BURNHAM DIES
AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Captain Walter R. Burnham, an actor in the New Mexico Military Institute, died at St. Mary's hospital at Roswell Monday night at 10 o'clock after an illness extending several weeks. Captain Burnham was taken sick last week and removed to St. Mary's hospital Saturday.

Captain Burnham was 33 years of age and had been at the N. M. M. I.
January 1922. He was instructor in Latin and English at the Institute and was one of the most popular instructors in the school.

DEPARTMENT PLANTS
3,446,625 FISH AT A COST OF CENT EACH

SANTA FE.—The State Game and Fish department "planted" 3,446,625 fish in 1927 at a cost of approximately one cent each, a report released by State Warden E. L. Perry Monday said. These are not fish "planted on paper," he added.

Mr. Perry said it was practically impossible to obtain data on the cost of trout propagation elsewhere but he believes it is well below the average for all states. He said a Colorado commercial hatchery is advertising trout of the same size at $100 per thousand at the hatchery.

Actual plantings were 24 percent greater than those of the previous year and 704,000 fish were carried over at the hatcheries, he said, adding that of far greater importance was the fact that the fish were reared to much larger average size. The planting in 1926 was smaller than in 1925 but the fish were larger and a profound improvement in fishing last summer was noted, he declared.

"Our average planting fish last year was slightly over 3 1-2 inches in length, and was so reared as to avoid the stunting and deformities common among pond-reared fish," he continued. "Our loss between hatchery and stream was practically nil, and there is every reason to expect a further large improvement distributed than in the past, a number of waters being stocked for the first time. We fell short of our planting budget approximately 1,000,000 fish, due partly to the fact that we were unable to get all the fish out by the end of the year, and partly because we failed to place our stimated loss between egg and planting fish high enough. It does not seem possible we will ever be able to keep the loss between egg and 3 1-3 inch fish below 35 percent."

The cost of fish propagation in 1927 was $8,850 greater than that of 1926, he said, but the percentage of total revenue used was smaller.

ALBUQUERQUE.—George C. Tay-

suit in district court in Santa Fe Tuesday afternoon seeking to compel the state comptroller to issue him an automobile license.

Mr. Taylor contends the automobile license should be issued regardless of whether he has paid his property tax. He charges that the requirement of paying property tax before the issuance of an automobile license is a discrimination against automobile owners. The complaint he has prepared also charges that there is a higher average valuation fixed on automobiles than on other property in proportion to actual value.

Sulphation, a condition of your battery many times causes trouble

Upon discharging, the sulphuric acid in the solution acts upon the lead compounds of the battery plates and changes these compounds to lead sulphate. When a battery has been permitted to remain discharged for a long time, or has been over-discharged by a short circuit in the wiring system, the lead sulphate hardens on the plates.

The Willard Service man knows the remedy, bring your battery to him.

RECORD-BREAKING DAILY AVERAGE
GASOLINE OUTPUT

Although daily average crude runs to stills in November did not quite come up to the record figures of the previous month, an increase in cracking and a new high level in blending of natural gasoline at refineries resulted in a record breaking daily average output of gasoline of $52,000 barrels, an increase over October of nearly 20,000 barrels.

The indicated daily average domestic demand for gasoline exceeded expectations in November, when it amounted to 813,000 barrels, a decrease from October of only 9000 barrels. This indicated heavy consumption of gasoline in November may be attributed to the generally fair weather. It exceeded the indicated domestic demand of November, 1926, by 18 per cent. Stocks of gasoline on hand November 30, 1927, amounted to 30,401,000 barrels, an increase over the previous month of approximately 850,000 barrels. This marked the first month since March that gasoline stocks have shown an increase. At the current rate of total demand, these stocks represent 32 days' supply as compared with 31 days' supply on hand the previous month and 44 days' supply on hand a year ago.

Little change was recorded for the minor refined products, except in the indicated domestic demand for kerosene and wax, both of which showed material decreases.

The refinery data of this report were compiled from schedules of 322 refineries, with an aggregate daily crude oil capacity of 2,871,000 barrels. These refineries operated during November, 1927, at 81 per cent of their recorded capacity, as compared with 329 refineries operating at 80 per cent of their capacity in October.

COMMON SCHOOLS MAY SUFFER AS RESULT OF HASTY LEGISLATION

(J. R. McCollum in N. M. School Review)

The state of New Mexico has no permanent funds other than common school and institutional funds derived from the public lands. The state is the trustee, not the owner of these funds. The purpose for which each institutional fund may be used is definitely stated in the act of the U. S. congress which placed this trust under the guardianship of the state of New Mexico. No part of principal or income can be used for other purposes if the state keeps faith with the national government which placed this sacred trust in its keeping to be administered for the welfare of all generations yet to come.

The teachers learned that a large portion of these funds had been used by the investing authorities to buy bonds of counties and municipalities, thus "helping out" local subdivisions on a true political basis. They naturally began to ask questions and they make no apologies for their interest.

A recent audit shows several investments of trust funds listed as doubtful. Financiers estimate that approximately $100,000 may be collected under good management, about $100,000 probably uncollectable and the balance of some $23,000 in the "twilight zone." The greater part of the $100,000 classed as uncollectable is from the common school funds. On some of these investments the interest has not been paid for the last two years and no sinking funds have been provided for payment of the principal at maturity. In some of these local communities the economic conditions are such that neither interest nor principal can be paid without raising the tax rate to the point of confiscation. The amount invested form each institutional fund and listed in the audit as doubtful follows:

Common schools	$143,209.75
Eastern Normal school	20,500.00
Miners hospital	4,600.00
Agricultural college	2,000.00
Asylum for Insane	3,000.00
University of New Mex.	20,000.00
Water reservoirs	15,000.00
Reform school	5,900.00
School of Mines	10,000.00
Total	$223,309.75

One of the doubtful investments ($15,000.00) was made in 1916 and all the others ($208,309.75) in 1920-21-22.

The last legislature enacted a statute which authorized the investing authorities to buy county road debentures for the construction of numerous local highways. When the representative of the N. M. E. A. committee began to ask questions, the state treasurer showed him a communication signed by the secretary of the finance board approving and recommending the investment of trust funds in county road debentures. The governor advised him to go back and tell those teachers that he had appointed the finest finance board ever known in this state. He did not go back to the teachers as he knew their attitude on such investments. He did go to members of the finance board and found that the governor's appraisal of them was correct. They gave the subject careful consideration and then advised the treasurer not to invest the common school funds in that type of securities.

Basing our opinion on interviews with members of the last legislature, we believe that had they been fully advised of the possible danger in such investments and the sacredness of the funds to be invested, the law might not have been approved. It was evidently "hasty" legislation.

More roads and better roads are desirable but our best authorities who have investigated the sad history of the dissipation of trust funds in other states warn us of the danger of investing such funds in the building of highways. The rule, almost without exception, is that trust funds so invested are lost. In many states all that is left to remind the taxpayers that they once had such funds is a series of "non-maturing," "non-transferable" certificates of indebtedness. The actual principal is gone to them forever and will never be of any assistance to them in providing maintenance for their schools and state institutions. This is a land of torrential showers. Let us hope that our investing authorities will never place our trust funds in the direct path of a New Mexico cloudburst.

JURY IN FRIONA BANK HOLDUP IS UNABLE TO AGREE

CLOVIS.—Although Jim Bryant was implicated by a confession by R. M. Cummings in the holdup of the Friona State Bank last spring the jury trying him at Farwell, Texas, apparently is unable to agree that the state has positively identified him in connection with the holdup, report from there yesterday said. The jury was in deliberation all of Tuesday night and the judge sent them back again yesterday morning.

DEATH OF ROBERT M. GORLEY MONDAY NIGHT

The death of Robert M. Gorley, Monday night at his home in the Otis district, came this morning as a great shock to the host of friends of the deceased, as it was not believed his illness was of so serious a nature as to endanger his life.

Mr. Gorley had been suffering from tonsillitis for several days, and it is believed the poison from this disease affected his heart. He died during Monday night.

Mr. Gorley had lived in Carlsbad for about seven years, with the exception of a short residence in Colorado, returning here some three years ago. He was 38 years of age last December 2, and was employed as ditch rider in the Otis district by the Reclamation Service.

The body will be shipped to his old home in Curtis, Nebraska, Thursday of this week, services here being under the auspices of the local Methodist church. Interment will be in the cemetery at Curtis, upon the arrival of the body of the deceased.

Mr. Gorley was prominent in Odd-fellows circles and was well liked by everyone, and the sympathy of all goes out to the bereaved family.

DEPOSITS STATE BANKS SHOWED INCREASE IN 1927

SANTA FE.—Deposits in state banks showed an increase of $2,218,816 on December 31 last as compared to the corresponding date in 1926, State Bank Examiner Lawrence Tamme reported. An increase of $1,864,563 was shown over the deposits of October 10, 1927.

"The reports indicate 1927 was the best banking year in the state's history," said Mr. Tamme. "Good prices and production in cattle, sheep and cotton were largely responsible for this increase," I believe.

Loans and discounts decreased $359,288 from October 10 last and $18,015 from December 31, 1926, while resources increased $1,669,661 and $2,218,816 for these periods, respectively 18 per cent in excess of the amount required by law.

Investments, including Federal securities, increased $998,816 for the year and the surplus account, $32,787.

FINANCE BOARD MAY INVESTIGATE EXPENSES OF THE HIGHWAY DEPT.

SANTA FE.—The state financial board Friday took up the question of whether a special investigation should be made of claimed irregularities in state highway department expenditures.

Attorney General R. C. Dow filed suit against Mrs. James A. French, widow, and Ed French, brother of the late state highway engineer for $3,900 claimed to have been paid H. M. Dow as special counsel, and against state corporation commission Hugh H. Williams for $750 claimed to have been similarly illegally expended. Recovery probably will be had from their bondsmen if the expenditures are held to have been illegal, it was indicated.

State Auditor Miguel Otero, Jr., paid $911 for which J. P. Sheehan was suing him on highway department equipment purchases.

Mr. Dow advised State Comptroller Gilberto Mirabel that he was again requesting the court to act on a suit filed against a Clovis company for $12,000 delinquent gasoline taxes.

These were the chief developments today involving charges which center on the state highway department.

Mr. Otero said he had instructed his office to hold up highway vouchers until he returned from a trip to Chicago and the suit was brought in his absence. He found the vouchers for Mr. Sheehan correct on his return and approved them, he said.

At the mass meeting held the 6th inst., the following parties were elected members of Eddy County Hospital Association for a period of two years: Mesdames Mary P. Davis, Laura Nelson, George Pond, Maggie Kirkpatrick, Messrs. Sam Moskin, J. O. Cox and H. A. Pearce. Current-Argus.

GOATS GET INTO RANGE DISPUTE

Lewis testified he had bought the goats from the late Charles Wilburn, who, witnesses said, had obtained them from Seth Tidwell and Tidwell claimed he raised them.

A Chinese Custom

The Chinese start the New Year by paying all their debts. This is one Chinese custom which the World might well observe. The late James J. Hill once said: "The basis of credit is character." He spoke the truth.

The reputation a man has for meeting his obligations promptly is one of the first and strongest considerations in extending a bank credit. Let us learn a valuable lesson on the New Year's Day of the "Heathen Chinese."

"GUARD AGAINST TYRANTS"

A speech made by Charles Dickens in 1864, which was not reported at the time and has never since been published, has been found in the archives of the Printers' Pension, Almshouse and Orphan Asylum corporation in England. Dickens was chairman of the corporation in 1843 and 1864. The speech made by Dickens 63 years ago was as follows:

"The printer is a faithful servant not only for those connected with the business, but for the public at large, and has, therefore, when laboring under infirmity and disease, an especial claim on all for support. Without claiming for him the whole merit of the work produced by his skill, labor, endurance and intelligence, without him what would be the state of the world at large? Why, tyrants and humbugs in all countries would have everything their own way.

"I am certain there are not in any branch of manual dexterity so many remarkable men as might be found in the printing trade. For quickness of perception, amount of endurance, and willingness to oblige, I have ever found the compositor pre-eminence.

The afflicted printer who has lost his sight in the service, sitting through long days in his own room, the pleasures of reading—his great source of entertainment—being denied him, his daughter or his wife might read to him; but the cause of his misfortune would invade even that small solace of his dark seclusion, for the types from which that very book was printed he might have assisted to set up.

"The printer is the friend of intelligence, of thought; he is the friend of liberty, of freedom, of law; indeed, the printer is the friend of every man who is the friend of order—the friend of every man who can read."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Terms of the Will
By CLARISSA MACKIE

(Copyright.)

HELEN ROCKWELL faced her father. Her eyes shone like steady lamps, blue and shining.

"My dear," said Mr. Rockwell with a wry smile on his good-looking face, "of course I am not trying to urge you to accept the terms of your Uncle Taylor's will. But—your Uncle Taylor did have your future in mind, and wanted to do something personal for you, he named you as the chief beneficiary in his will. But the fact that he has decided that you must marry the man whom he selects in order to benefit by the will—rather muddles the whole thing!"

"It does, father!"

"Now, Helen, you must not let the matter of Uncle Taylor's will trouble you at all. You can simply decline to marry the man that he suggested—who is he, anyway?"

"Bertrand Lawrence," returned Helen.

"Who is Bertrand Lawrence?"

Before Helen could tell him that she, of course, did not know, there was a telephone call for Mr. Rockwell. He was gone for five minutes, and when he returned there was a baffled look on his face.

"It was old Hilton, the lawyer—telling me rather funny news."

"Yes?"

"It seems that young Lawrence—Bertrand Lawrence—has disappeared—sent them a letter asking that his name be withdrawn in the matter of the Taylor Marsh will!"

"Withdrawn!" exclaimed Helen, her cheeks flushing hotly.

"And that, my dear, leaves you to inherit all the money! You know the will stipulates that if either party objects to the union, the entire sum is to become the property of the other."

"How disgusting! Why, dad, I cannot believe that Uncle Taylor could make such a silly will. I do not want his money. I am sorry to refuse it, but really, I think he should have left it to his Cousin Peabody's family—they are all growing up and need a lot of help!"

Then Helen told him about her invitation from a college friend to spend a month in the North woods.

"They have a lovely camp there, and it would be jolly, dad," she ended.

Mr. Rockwell had no objection to this plan, and it was a week later when Helen Rockwell arrived at the Channings' camp in the North woods.

Helen was rather tired after her journey, but the lure of the woods beckoned and after luncheon, when the family separated for siestas in the breeze-swept bedrooms, Helen stole out for a little walk among the beckoning tall trees, and down the narrow trails a-glimmer with maze of leaf and shadow. Here, and there she wandered, and when she came to the boundary of the Channing place, indicated by high barbed wire fencing, she found a chink to squeeze through and at last found herself in the virgin forest.

"It will be so easy to find my way back," she told herself. "There is that lightning-struck tree, and the three pines!"

But she did lose them within ten minutes, following a meandering brook where purple violets grew on the mossy, dripping brim, and it was right on this spot that she sat down, and fell asleep.

Helen awoke and went back toward the Channing camp, but after she had tramped for hours she discovered that she was entirely lost! After awhile she found herself back at the brookside and she decided to follow the little stream. She followed the stream down instead of up, and at sunset, she knew she was truly lost. She was near a group of four hemlocks that grew close together, and Helen had just decided that she would spend the night hidden among them, when the branches shook and out walked a perfectly splendid specimen of young manhood.

"Perhaps you can show me the way," said Helen wearily, "I have wandered away from the Channing camp and I am quite lost."

"Certainly," said the stranger, tossing his book back among the hemlocks. "Wouldn't you like something to eat first? You must be hungry and very tired."

"Yes, thank you," said Helen, and she ate bread and cheese sandwiches and drank a bottle of ginger ale. If she had known how pretty she looked as she sat there, she would have blushed deeper than she did when she met the eyes of the stranger.

Long before they reached the wire fence of the Channing place, they heard the sounds of gun shots, and just as Helen dropped at his feet they heard the shouts of men. Lanterns waved in the far distance, and then the stranger cut a hole in the wire fence and crept through. When they reached the house and he gave Helen into the care of Mrs. Channing, they surrounded him in surprise.

"Why, Bert Lawrence! We heard that you had become a hermit or something—you must stay here for the night, anyway, and meet Helen Rockwell."

So Bertrand stayed and the Channings witnessed the most beautiful love story revealed as the days flew by—and this is the real reason why the terms of Uncle Taylor's will were carried out after all.

CONDITIONS FAVORABLE FOR A LARGE INCREASE IN WEEVIL POPULATION

WASHINGTON.—The department of agriculture Saturday issued a report on the number of boll weevils entering hibernation in the fall of 1927, based on experiments to determine damage by the pests on this year's cotton crop.

The records were made by utilizing Spanish moss collected around cotton fields and examining it for weevils. The number of live weevils per ton was computed and used as a numerical index of abundance. A table for Tallulah, Louisiana, showed twenty-one weevils to the ton, as against 242 last year, but the department said it should be remembered that the Tallulah area was included in the Mississippi overflow and only a few fields were planted in cotton. The average for northwestern Louisiana was 18 weevils, against 242 last year; southern Louisiana, 357, against 192; average South Carolina, 1,525, against 48; average Georgia, 220, against 359; average Alabama, 148, and no figures for last year.

In Texas, late fall conditions were favorable for weevil multiplication. Growth of the cotton plants continued with fairly mild weather and frost came much later than on the average. An increase in weevil population was noted late in the season.

MICKIE SAYS—

APPROPRIATIONS NOW DOUBLE CAVE RETURNS

Receipt by Thomas Boles, Carlsbad Cavern custodian, of authority to spend an additional $4,000.00 on a third parking terrace, lengthening of the present two parking terraces and for native stone curbs about all terraces at the cavern, brings the total appropriations for the cavern in the past year to $41,700.00.

There has been considerable interest by tourists as well as home people in whether or not the government will return to the cavern the big share of the money this monument takes in. The above figure represents approximately twice the amount taken in at the cavern, $22,000.00, during the fiscal year.

The original appropriation was $30,000.00. It was followed by special road appropriation totaling $7,700, and from some special source has come the additional $4,000.00, available now.

The National Park Service has given every recognition to the value of the cavern as a scenic wonder, among the wonder spots of America, and will not hesitate in carrying out a development program of large scope as fast as it can be done.—Current-Argus.

JUNIOR BULLDOGS WIN FROM HAGERMAN

The Artesia Juniors was a one point winner over the Hagerman Juniors at the Central gymnasium Saturday night, the final score being 19-20.

The game was fast and furious from start to finish. The Hagerman team took an early lead and at one time lead the locals by six points. However, the Junior Bulldogs were easily the best defensive team. The closeness of score was due to the locals inability to hit the basket.

DISTRICT AND CO. POLITICS

together with the experience gained in the practice of law, has familiarized Mr. Buchly with many of the local problems, which will enable him to better serve the district, as an officer of the court in the event of his election.

The voters generally recognize that the matter of choosing a district attorney is an important task, since the enforcement of our laws rests largely in the hands of this officer. We know that Mr. Buchly will welcome a consideration of his claims to this office.

R. E. Wilkinson for County Treas.

R. E. Wilkinson, of Carlsbad announces his candidacy for the office of county treasurer. In this connection it might be well to mention that Mr. Wilkinson is well and favorably known by the old timers of Artesia, having lived here for a time some fifteen years ago. Mr. Wilkinson, at present is serving as city clerk. The Carlsbad Current-Argus says of his candidacy:

The office of treasurer is one of the most important of the county offices, as the incumbent of that office has the handling of all the county funds and must as well sub-serve his actions to the maze of requirements of the state tax commission and those who have the financial affairs of the state in charge.

Because of his experience and eminent fitness for such work, the many friends of Mr. Wilkinson have prevailed upon him to become a candidate for the office of treasurer, and Mr. Wilkinson has decided to make the race in the democratic primaries.

Mr. Wilkinson has lived in the Pecos Valley since 1903, part of the time in Roswell, part in Artesia and since 1914 in the city of Carlsbad. During those years he has served a number of business firms as book-keeper and accountant, as well as deputy in the county treasurer's office at various times. For the past two years he has been city clerk of the city of Carlsbad, and in all lines of endeavor he has proven trustworthy and efficient and should be nominated to succeed Mr. Armstrong, will prove as painstaking as chief of that office as he has in all other capacities.

G. R. Howard for County Treasurer
G. R. Howard, of Loving has authorized us to announce his candidacy for the office of county treasurer. While Mr. Howard has resided for a number of years in the south end of the county and is well acquainted with the people of this section, he had occasion to meet many folks from this section during the time he served as county commissioner some years previous.

The Carlsbad Current-Argus says of his candidacy:

Mr. Howard needs no introduction to the people of Eddy county, having lived here for a number of years, during which time he has been active in the upbuilding of the community in which he lives as well as the entire county. He is a prosperous farmer of the Loving district, and enjoys the confidence of his neighbors by reason of his activities in furthering the advancement of the farming industry.

But Mr. Howard's chief claim to the wide acquaintance he enjoys, however, lies in the fact that he has served two terms in the office of county commissioner, at a time when the affairs of the county called for the overseeing of its affairs by a competent business man, and his tenure of office was most successful and satisfactory. Mr. Howard spending much of his time in looking after the affairs of the county both here and in Santa Fe, particularly in the matter of road building, in which he is an enthusiast.

His ability to fill the office of treasurer is unquestioned, as he has the details at his finger's ends and would prove a most worthy successor to the present treasurer.

THIS WEEK'S ODDS

The oddest bit of news to reach us this week, a white leghorn hen, Jim Mathes. There was unusual in the looks of her. From all appearances about measured up to a hen of her breed. Mathes observed that she went to the nest each day, presumably to lay an egg, there was no egg in the nest after biddy left. So next well was puzzling and finally the Mathes to the conclusion, biddy should meet her. In dressing the table you suppose Mrs. Mathes Seven large white eggs, the eggs were broken, ing them from the basket, hen, the other five filled with fruit jar. Yet there was about the appearance of that would indicate the condition. She looked was normal in every way. The above incident is of nature, which we for you to explain.
