Big Crowd At CofC Banquet

Honors Given To Several Area People

Around 250 people were at the Bailey County Civic Center Saturday night for the 37th Annual Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Community Banquet. This was the largest crowd in several years to attend a CofC banquet.

In a setting on 'Muleshoe Businesses,' the group were served dinner prepared and served by Tony and Mary Palma and their employees from the Hungry Mule Steakhouse.

Table decorations included replicas of local businesses provided by the businesses and a large mural of Main Street highlighting the 'Mule' at the end of the street.

Providing dinner music was Laura Leal, assisted by Gary Watkins and Robert Orozco. Several businesses had displayed tables, featuring some of their merchandise, around the perimeter of the large arena, with the tables grouped in the middle. The Bailey County Ambulance Service parked an ambulance inside at the west end of the building, and showed much of their lifesaving equipment.

Reydon Stanford was master of ceremonies, and not only introduced the upcoming speakers or presenters, but provided several instances of laughter

MHS Band Director Speaker At Rotary Club

Dr. David Hamblen introduced Mark Heidel, first year band director at Muleshoe High School, as guest speaker for the Muleshoe Rotary Club on Tuesday afternoon.

Heidel said he had watched the program for music in Muleshoe, as he is a native of Lamesa, and completed his education at Texas Tech University. He added that former band director, Anthony Gibson was a personal friend, and he had closely kept 'tabs' on what Gibson was doing with the program -- and watched Gibson turn the program at Muleshoe High School into one of 'excellence.'

He stated that he was very proud to have been chosen to replace Gibson after the former music director elected to go to a larger school.

At this time, there are 78 students in the band program at MHS, a figure he hopes to get up to 100 students.

At this time, there are 137 students in the band program at Watson Junior High School, including 32-eighth grade; 54-seventh grade and 51-sixth grade students, which will make a lot of potential band members when they reach high school age. He predicts Junior High will have 160 band members next year.

Potentially, Muleshoe High School could have 94 band members next year, said Heidel, who commented that it is very hard to compete against bands such as Denver City, with 120 members; Brownfield who have 140 members and Littlefield, with 99 band members.

"Music-wise, we just can't make the bigger sound of the bigger bands," he told the Rotary members.

The music director cited the makeup of bands, such as the marching band in the fall; symphony band in the spring, and the jazz band year round for high school.

Heidel told the Rotarians that the MHS symphony band will do a 'dress rehearsal' UIL

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

To me this is a small world! My wife and I flew to see Texas A&M play Ohio State in the Cotton Bowl. We had not tickets, but an ex-Aggie said he had four. He sold us two in the end zone on the highest row. They were excellent seats. I asked the name of this Aggie and he said "David Britt". The Britts owned a ranch near where I was born in Wheeler, Texas. They were great people.

While I was in the navy, I had a chance to go to the top of Poa de Asuca, Sugar Loaf in Rio, Brazil. I asked a fellow naval officer where he lived. His answer was that he was the County Agricultural Agent of Wheeler County and an ex-Aggie. I told him of a girl I had dated and asked if he knew her. His answer was "yes". He said he married her.

While attending Midshipmen's School, John Jay Hall, Columbia University, 1931, I happened to have bumped into a soldier. I said "excuse me". I was R.D. Mason from Wheeler, Texas, a person I had known for many years.

When I was aboard the USS ZEILIN, an attack transport, we pulled into Pago Pago (pronounced "Pango-Pango"). I decided to climb to the top of a near-by ridge. It was so steep I used a cable car track. No problem except when a cable car started down the track. I had to hang on underneath the tracks. When I did get to the top, I met a person I knew from Muleshoe, Texas.

When I applied to go to Midshipmen's school, I was transferred from the ZEILIN to Admiral Halsey's office force in Noumea, New Caledonia, while awaiting my orders. My job was to get "secret & confidential" mail to ships. One of my shipmates who left the USN Training Station in San Diego when I did. Why? Because he saw 3 names on a list to be transferred. He erased one name and wrote my name, hoping we would end up on the same ship. We did not. He went to North Africa. I went to the South Pacific. Later his ship pulled into Noumea. We got together there.

The Navy was so good to me. My wife's secretarial school gave the Midshipmen a dance party at the Hotel McAlpen where we met. After 23 months hauling oil along the east coast of South America, we returned to the USA, refitted to care for minesweepers. We got married. Then I was sent back to Okinawa and Japan before WW-II ended and I went on reserve. The GI-Bill enabled me to get my degree from Texas A&M.

TEXANS IMPROVE RURAL HOMES

Electricity, running water and modern bathrooms are at the top of the list of improvements that farm families are making as materials become available.

Rural families who are planning to build new houses or remodel old ones may be helped by the experience of others who have completed home improvements. A recent survey by the U.S. Department of Agriculture showed that families who have done remodeling rated modern convenience-lights, water and bath at the top of their improvement list. Almost all the families who remodeled made kitchen improvements. Insulation and central heat also ranked high as a popular improvement.

Many families put in more and bigger windows, and made arrangements for more storage space. More than half the families added bedroom closets, and a third of them included a closet for work clothes.

Local Fashion Consultant Attends Spring Preview

Marilyn Young, local fashion consultant for Doncaster, an exclusive line of women's apparel, recently attended a "Spring '87" preview meeting in Lubbock. The preview was hosted by Alice Roberts for Doncaster, a division of Tanner Companies, Inc. that produces women's custom-made clothing and classic separates.

"The preview meeting provides fashion consultants an opportunity to come together and learn of company business and future plans," said Michael S. Tanner, president of Doncaster.

Those attending were informed that the Doncaster division had just completed the most successful year in its 54 year history. Consultants viewed a fashion show featuring the new Doncaster collections yearly to their friends and acquaintances in the community.

Customers view the Doncaster collections in the privacy of the consultant's home and there they select the style, the fabric, the color and the trim she prefers. "It's like designing your own unique wardrobe, and that's the secret of Doncaster's success for more than 50 years," Tanner said.

Also offered is a collection of exclusive designs in sportswear separates, under the label of Doncaster II.

Marilyn Young has been a

Doncaster representative for seven years and is a resident of Muleshoe.

Modifications To Weight Loss Program Announced

Weight Watchers will get its more than 800,000 members on the move in 1987 when it introduces its Quick Start Plus Exercise Plan and Self-Discovery Plan. According to the Department of Health and Human Services, staying overweight and not exercising regularly are among the top "unhealthy habits" in the U.S. The 1987 Weight Watchers program elements are a direct response to that fact.

Along with the Quick Start Plus Food Plan and a group support system, the Quick Start Plus Exercise and Self-Discovery Plans complete the Weight Watchers four-pronged approach to weight control.

"Americans now eat five to ten percent fewer calories than they did 75 years ago, yet they weigh an average of five pounds more," says Dr. William McArdle, professor of physical education at Queens College and exercise physiology consultant to Weight Watchers International, Inc. "Research now indicates that exercise is a significant adjunct to a weight reduction program."

Under the guidance of Dr. McArdle, Weight Watchers has created an exercise plan which incorporates activities easily into any life-style. Members will choose among five popular low-intensity, long-duration aerobic activities: walking, outdoor bicycling, stationary bicycling, swimming and jogging. Accompanying each activity are instructions for stretching, warming up, cooling down, and taking one's heart rate.

"Controlling weight is much easier when the food plan is combined with these kinds of exercise," McArdle says. "Exercise helps the body maintain a high metabolic rate, even when at rest."

Due to the wide variety of experience with exercise among Weight Watchers members, the Quick Start Plus Exercise Plan is divided into four activity levels:

* For beginners with a fairly inactive life-style;

* For those who participate in some physical activity from time to time;

* For those who engage in physical activity on a regular basis;

* For those who exercise as a regular part of their life-style.

Members will determine their activity level through use of a personal activity profile questionnaire.

In addition to exercising, members must learn to understand why they eat—and why they want to lose weight. According to Dr. Barbara Sternberg, psychological consultant to Weight Watchers International, research has revealed the importance of cognitive behavioral influences on weight control.

"Independent studies conducted over the last 15 years have pinpointed moods and emotions as major causes of weight gain," she says. "Our own experience with Weight Watchers members over the past 24 years led us to the same conclusion. We developed the Self-Discovery Plan in response to those findings."

With the Self-discovery Plan, members will learn to recognize their trouble spots, or "eating triggers", through a series of self-help quizzes. Identifying obstacles such as supermarket temptations and leftover nibblings is the first step in coping with them.

"A sense of self-efficacy has also proven to be extremely important in the area of weight control," Sternberg says. "Along with the other components of the Weight Watchers Program, the Self-Discovery Plan teaches members that they have the resources to look good and feel good."

Gore Receives Degree From Texas A&M

Shelley Denise Gore, daughter of James and Robbie Gore of Circleback, graduated from Texas A&M University at College Station on Dec. 12, 1986, with a Bachelor of Science degree in Agronomy.

Her parents and sister, Tammy, of San Angelo State, were present at the Friday night graduation ceremony, in which over 1,000 Aggies received degrees. An additional 1,000 plus Aggies graduated the following morning.

During her four years of college, she was active in the Student Agronomy Society, the Soil Conservation Society, Omega Phi Alpha, a national service sorority, and the student "Y" Association. In 1984, she received one of two Soil Conservation Scholarship awards given in the state.

She also received two distinguished student awards while at Texas A&M. In her final semester she earned a place on the Dean's Honor Roll, which required a minimum of a 3.75 grade point ratio. Shelley is currently one of 45 finalists out of more than 1,000 applicants for an ICI Cotton Foundation Scholarship. Thirty-five winners will be announced in January in Dallas at the Beltwide Cotton

Name Added

To Who's Who

Debra Hart of Lubbock, daughter of Holly Millsap and Ted Millsap, both of Muleshoe, was recently notified that she has been selected for inclusion in Texas Tech University's Who's Who for 1986.

"You were selected by a distinguished group of faculty, staff and fellow students as one of Texas Tech's most outstanding students," said Larry Ludwig, associate vice president for Student Affairs and Dean of Students.

"This honor is one of the highest which can be awarded at Texas Tech because it goes only to those few students who have demonstrated leadership ability, excelled academically, and rendered notable service to the Tech community."

"Since you have proven yourself to be outstanding in each of these areas, it is with great pride that we recognize you as one of Tech's finest students."

Her name will be included in the 1986 reference publication, Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. She will also be featured in the 1986, La Ventana and will be presented with a personalized Who's Who certificate at Honor's Day during the spring semester.

Milk Consistency Changes When

It's Frozen

If you've ever wondered whether you can freeze milk, particularly when you see it on special, the answer is, "Yes, milk can be frozen."

While the nutritional value of milk does not change when it is frozen, the consistency does, so you will probably want to use defrosted milk in soups, puddings and certain sauces.

You can sometimes minimize the formation of flecks with short-term storage in the freezer or by very slow defrosting in the refrigerator. If you plan ahead and take milk from the freezer the night before to thaw in the refrigerator, it should be defrosted by midday, ready to use for cooking.

How People Use Personal Computers

Michael Kelley of Longwood, Fla., tells this story:

"One day, as we prepared to visit my bedridden mother, our 7-year-old daughter announced, 'I want to do something special for Nana.'"

"Preoccupied, we didn't notice her going into the room where we use our Apple IIe. About 20 minutes later, she emerged holding a banner with two doves of peace and the words, 'I LOVE YOU NANA-KIRSTEN.' We were amazed she could use a computer to do all that by herself."

"Now, strung across the wall at the foot of Mother's bed, the banner is a great source of loving comfort for Kirsten's Nana."

That anecdote appeared in a unique advertisement by Apple Computer in a recent issue of Reader's Digest.

CofC Banquet

with his jokes - especially the joke about the 'hospital administrator' and the 'false teeth.' Muleshoe Mayor Darrell Turner welcomed the business people, guests, and all at the banquet. "What am I welcoming you to," he asked? "I am welcoming you, a group of imperfect people, honoring a group of imperfect people."

He also expressed appreciation to Toni Eagle, manager of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture and her secretary, Sharon Langford, for the work done, not only on banquet, but all through each year.

Phil Kent made the first special presentation of the evening. He briefly told of Harvey Bass helping for the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce more than 35 years ago; told of his perfect attendance at all Chamber of Commerce banquets; and his continuing work with the CofC.

For the dedication to the CofC provided by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bass, they were presented with an appreciation plaque.

Charles Moraw, outgoing president for the CofC made brief remarks, and in part, said, "In the past year, the CofC has seen many changes, and has overcome many obstacles. We have managed to run it like a business, and have cut unneeded expenses."

"At this time, we don't have a lot, but we do have more funds than usual. Our board of directors has done their best to make the most of this year. They have done a very good job."

"Everything we have done has been for the betterment of Muleshoe. We aren't diving. We have a lot of new businesses, and a lot of old businesses that are here to stay."

He expresses his personal appreciation for five ladies. "Sheila, Leah, Leslie, Toni and Sharon, who made everything easier."

Incoming president Ron Montgomery said, "It is an honor to be elected president for 1987, but I will need your help - all of you."

"We want to do what you want us to do. We have a chance to turn the economy around -- to make our own community, economy."

"One thing we have to do is get a good attitude toward the community where we live, work and raise our families."

Montgomery introduced the new board of officers and directors and thanked the outgoing officers and directors.

Mayor Turner gave the oath of office to the incoming officers and directors.

Johnny Ferguson of the Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District, He told of the achievements of the native-Bailey County man who farmed 2,500 acres of both irrigated and non-irrigated land, growing cotton, milo and wheat.

He spoke of his conservation practices and his new farm practices before introducing Joey Kindle of Maple community. Kindle expressed his thanks to "My Lord and Savior" and to "Jim Lutz and his staff" for making his success possible.

Tim McCormick presented the Farm Family of the Year - telling about his farming practices, and said he was farming the family homestead, which had been in the Sam Harlan family since 1923. Harlan and his wife, Jean, are the parents of two daughters and a son.

A six year employee of Pay and Save, Charlene Farley, bookkeeper, was presented Employee of the Year award by Elaine Burgess.

Mike Hahn made a very special presentation to a "very special" resident of Muleshoe -

Dorothy Green. Mrs. Green has been very active in this community for many years and continues to be active.

She was unable to be present at the banquet to receive her Citizen Through The Years plaque, as she had just been released from the hospital following eye surgery.

He's called 'Mr. Volunteer,' and he's called 'Bailey 39' and Wayne Wauson, one of the most deserving persons in this community, was named Man of the Year. Making the presentation was Dr. Tom Bonds.

Toni Eagle asked for and received permission to present the Woman of the Year award -- and it was a most unusual presentation, with the Woman of the Year being named by Elimination. She presented the plaque for the honor to Clea Williams.

Eddy Morris made the presentation to the Couple of the Year and cited many of their ways they help not only the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, but also the community in which they live. Merlyn and JoDean Neel were named Couple of the Year.

Sharon Langford made presentations of appreciation to Dave Marr, city manager for the City of Muleshoe and to LeAnn Gallman and Mary Hicks, city employees for their assistance to the CofC.

Mrs. Langford also presented a plaque of appreciation to the Muleshoe Fire Department for their continuing assistance to the CofC in their projects.

Retiring directors Gerald Reid, Roger Williams, Kathryn Taylor, Phil Kent and Thursie Reid were presented plaques as Eddy Morris, for his activities

Heidel told the group about some of the participation during the fall and winter, including the South Plains Fair parade where they received a III out of seven bands, being behind Denver City and Littlefield.

The band also participated in a patriotic show at Jones Stadium the same day with other bands in a halftime show.

The band participated in the Christmas parade in Muleshoe, and will compete in the All-Region contest, January 31, and will play for MHS graduation, on May 29.

He said the band motto is "99 percent right is still 1 percent wrong," as the band continues to strive for perfection, although they may never reach it.

Heidel also spoke about long-range goals and says, "I want to win Sweepstakes," to keep alive a tradition started by Anthony Gibson two years ago.

The band director said the overall goal is to teach band members a deeper understanding and appreciation for music, the universal language. He said he wants to teach the students that music is more than sitting down and playing notes off a page.

Rotary President Bill Liles said a special Rotray program is in the works for January 27. Recognition was given Sam Harlan, Harvey Bass and Clea Williams for awards received during the CofC banquet on Saturday night, and recognition for the mural done by Hellen Adrian and her art students, which is now in the Civic Center meeting room.

Liles also reminded Rotarians that assistance is needed to spread sand on the Civic Center arena floor before the Bailey County Junior Livestock Show this weekend.

Guests at the meeting included the guest speaker, Barry Moynihan, Dannelle Bunch and Clea Williams.

with the Muleshoe Activities Committee and the MAC Buck program.

"The Chamber is what you make of it," was the conclusion of a 'pep talk' given by CofC manager, Toni Eagle toward the end of the banquet. She cited many examples of the different types of people who help the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, and in turn, help their own community, through the year.

She cited the people who provide their own talents and ideas, and the hard work provided by these people to help the community to continue to grow. She cited many examples, such as a photographer, a young lady, a farmer, small businesses, individuals, a couple devoting 37 years, a gentleman who donates a wagon and team, a telephone caller, a mother, the media, those who do not own businesses, but care what is happening in their community.

"We are members of the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture because we believe in what the Chamber does. The Chamber is a non profit organization with every dollar raised in dues, funds raisers and donations going back into the community through worthwhile civic projects. Only through a combined effort can we improve Muleshoe. No one can do it alone, but as a combined effort of all businesses and interested individuals we can continue to make Muleshoe grow. Every town needs a Chamber just as every business, small or large, needs to be a member of the Chamber. The Chamber of Commerce is the focal point of a town and the Chamber is only as strong as the members make it."

FLUID facts THE NATIONAL FERTILIZER SOLUTIONS ASSOCIATION

Fertilizer Placement

Overcoming Inefficiencies of Broadcast Applications

Option 1: Surface banding fluid fertilizers can help overcome the inefficiencies of broadcast applications and eliminate the equipment requirement for sub-surface placement.

Surface banding is rapidly done with existing broadcast equipment without additional fuel. The bands may then be incorporated.

Option 2: Although research has demonstrated that knifing fertilizer into the soil can produce highest yields in many situations, growers have not adopted this practice because of equipment and time.

Sub-surface banding may be more practical than you think! Knifing in fluid fertilizer has the potential to improve nutrient use by crops in no-till, ridge-till and bedded systems.

Broadcast Inefficiencies

- Greater loss of nutrients due to erosion.
- More phosphate and potash tie up with the soil. Broadcast: nutrients have greater chance of reacting with soil compounds and particles which make nutrients less available to crops.
- More volatilization losses of urea nitrogen from the soil surface.
- More biological tie up of nutrients in breakdown of surface residues.
- Nutrients more available to weeds.
- Fertilizer is not adequately placed in the root zone with reduced tillage systems.
- Fertilizer is placed in compacted row middles where roots may have little growth.
- Fertilizer cannot enter soil solution at shallow depths during dry conditions.

Banded Placement Has Yield Edge

Fertilizer placement studies in 1985 by the University of Nebraska on no-till irrigated corn, show 21 to 29 bu/ac increase over broadcast, with the same amount of fertilizer surface or sub-surface banded.

Source: Martin, Univ. of Neb. Soil Test P. Medium Fert. Rate: 250-40-0-205

Profit Note: For the 29 bu/ac increase at $2.40/bu that's $69.60 per acre more profit by banding than by broadcasting fertilizer. Correct application of N and P pays!

Bands Improve Ridge-Till Yields

Bands concentrated in the root area tend to produce higher corn yields than broadcast fertilizer in Minnesota on a soil testing high in P. Placement in soils testing high in P and K may be more important for ridge-till than a chisel plow system. Other Minnesota data have shown definite benefits of banding on soils low to medium in soil nutrients.

Profit Note: Researchers and fertilizer dealers have tested and demonstrated the value of banding fertilizer. Strip or preplant bands can enhance yields in many situations. If costs are similar to traditional methods, these application techniques may prove advantageous to you!

The week's predominant grades were grade 62 at 30 percent followed by grade 52 at 27 percent. Spotted grades made up 32 percent of the total. About 78 percent was reduced one grade because of bark.

Predominant staples were staple 33 at 34 percent, staple 34 at 26 percent staple 32 at 17 percent and staple 35 at 11 percent.

High Volume Instrument breaking strength averaged 24.27 grams per tex at Lubbock

Cotton prices were lower on the Texas High Plains. Grower sales were moderate to slow as prices declined. New crop equities brought around $90. Prices reported ranged from $75 to $125 per bale.

Gins served by the Lubbock Classing Office paid growers $80 to $100 per ton for cottonseed, mostly $90.

Aggie student volunteers respond to campus calls for emergency assistance

COLLEGE STATION — A life-or-death situation for most college students usually means passing a big exam or finding a date for the football weekend. But for 70 Texas A&M University students, life or death means just that.

The students are volunteers working with Texas A&M's Emergency Medical Care Team, trained and prepared to respond in any emergency on the usually tranquil campus.

They pull regular shifts responding to emergency calls on everything from routine traffic accidents to heart attacks, construction accidents and laboratory injuries. Most volunteered after seeing the team in action or reading about its exploits. School officials say the people who are drawn to the team are the same as those who join the volunteer fire department back home.

"For many, this is a stepping stone to becoming nurses, doctors or even fire marshalls. They learn to deal with this level of care and then go on," said Nathan Schwade, a 21-year-old junior and chief of the student volunteers.

A&M environmentalist says estuaries need protection from upstream damming

COLLEGE STATION — Commercial and sport fishermen along the Texas Gulf Coast may one day have to invoke the public trust doctrine to protect the state's estuaries, says a Texas A&M University environmentalist.

"Texas has seven estuaries that could be worth billions of dollars to the economy, although no one has ever completed a study on their total economic value," said Dr. Ronald Kaiser of the university's Institute of Renewable Natural Resources.

Kaiser says the public trust doctrine remains a recourse Texans have if they find the estuaries being destroyed from a lack of fresh water held by dams upstream.

"It's never been invoked in this state, but is something people can petition, which basically stipulates the state should be trusted to protect natural resources deemed important by the public," Kaiser said.

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Acres tries to take some of the gloom out of the President's proposed budget.

Dear editor:
Take a person who's head over heels in debt, is going deeper in every day and can't see any way out—well, there's a person who needs cheering up. The same thing applies to a nation.

So about this time of year, gloom settles over the country when the President submits a trillion-dollar budget for a government already over 2 trillion dollars in debt, the interest on which is over 130 billion dollars a year.

Officials talk about balancing the budget but it's balanced about like a man on a high wire in a high wind over Niagara Falls. With gusts up to 50 miles an hour predicted.

The trouble with the budget is that everything costs more. We're spending so much on complicated, sophisticated, malfunctioning weapons that we may not have any money left to fight a war if one comes along. It's a gloomy outlook.

Congress however has seen the need to dispel some of this gloom and is doing its part. It's trying to raise its salary, on the theory that a happy congressman is a more gloom-proof public servant.

But that's not enough. The thought of a trillion-dollar budget overwhelms us. It's ungraspable. It's gloom-ridden. A trillion dollars—that's a thousand billion. In figures, $1,000,000,000,000. It makes the mind wander off in all directions.

To overcome this I've figured out a way to handle the figure and go about our business as though it's a trifle, as undisturbed as a congressman who's foremost concern is getting re-elected.

Astronomers think they've detected a giant galaxy 71 billion trillion miles from Earth. Repeat after me: 71 billion trillion miles.

See? a trillion dollars is only a thousand billion. What's that compared to a billion trillion? Or 71 billion trillion?

Get to thinking in those kinds of figures and a measly trillion becomes a mere trifle.

When you pay your taxes, remember I was the one who cheered you up.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

THE SEASON FOR... COLDS AND FEVER

THE COMMON COLD... one of the few viruses that man has not conquered with a cure. The only thing that we have come up with so far, are medicines to give us relief. Perhaps, some day, someone will come up with the solution.

There are many spiritual things that we do not know the answers to. These things we must accept on faith.

"The secret things belong unto the Lord our God; but those things which are revealed bring unto us and to our children forever, that we may do all the words of this law."
Deuteronomy 29:29

God has revealed himself, his son, and his commandments, these are the major things.
