THE COW

(Farm and Ranch)

The cow is a female quadruped with an alto voice and a countenance in which there is no guile. She collaborates with the pump in the production of a liquid called milk, provides filler for hash, and at last is shinned by those she has benefited as mortals commonly are.

The young cow is called a calf, and is used in the manufacture of chicken salad.

The cow's tail is mounted aft, and has a universal joint. It is used to disturb maurading flies, and the tassle on the end has unique educational value. Person who milk cows and come in contact with the tassle have vocabularies of peculiar and impressive force.

The cow has two stomachs. The one on the ground floor is used for a warehouse, and has no other function. When this one is filled, the cow retires to a quiet place where her ill manners will occasion no comment and devotes herself to belching. The raw material thus conveyed for the second time to the interior of her face is pulverized and delivered to the auxiliary stomach, where it is converted into cow.

The cow has no upper plate. All of her teeth are parked in the lower part of her face. This arrangement was perfected by an efficiency expert to keep her from gumming things up. As a result, she bites up and gums down.

The male cow is called a bull, is lassoed along the Colorado, fought south of the Rio Grande, and shot in Florida and California.

A slice of cow is worth 8 cents in the cow, 14 cents in the hands of the packers, and $2.40 in a restaurant that specializes in atmosphere.

MAJESTIC THEATRE TO PRESENT THE FUN SHOW OF THE SEASON

Shows may come and shows may go but once in a lifetime we are offered an opportunity to witness an entertainment that will live in our hearts and minds forever. Such an entertainment is coming to the Majestic Theatre, March 8 and 9, in the person of Mister Q, eminent Hypnotist and dean of Psychology, bringing with him the fun show of the season. It is said to be the most sensational entertainment of its kind ever offered to the theatre going public. Many strange weird and sensational hypnotic demonstrations will be presented at each performance by this man who possesses the strange powers that enable him to control the minds of others. One of the many thrilling scientific demonstrations which he will present is that of hypnotizing a girl and burying her alive in a regular grave that will be dug on a vacant lot near the theatre, located across from the Smoke House. This young lady is first placed in a cataleptic state of hypnosis and her body is then securely sealed in a casket. She will then be carried to the grave where she will be buried under six feet of earth. This sensational demonstration will take place at Mister Q's first performance on Friday night and she will remain sleeping in her living tomb for 24 hours or until 7 p. m. Saturday night, you are cordially invited to call at the living tomb, look down the long pipe and see her at any time from Friday night until she is returned to the theatre Saturday night. This is only one of the many scientific experiments presented along with dozens of side splitting comedy demonstrations.

With Mr. Q is Mlle Dolores, America's youngest mentalist, said to be the psychic sensation of the age. Her part of the entertainment will astound you as well as mystify and amaze you.

This extraordinary attraction will be presented at the Majestic Theatre for two days and one matinee starting on Friday March 9 and ending Saturday March 10, matinee and evening.

MANY ASK BARBEQUE SAUCE RECIPE; HERE 'TIS

There is no question that barbecue meats have become extremely popular in the opinion of Miss Willson, home economist of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Miss Willson says she is constantly besieged with requests for recipes for barbecue sauce. She submits the following recipe for those interested:

Barbeque Sauce
2 quarts vinegar
4 cups salt
3 tablespoons cayenne pepper.
This is a sauce which is used to barbeque a whole pig out-of-doors, but it may be used in oven roasting a fresh ham. It is used to baste the meat frequently. The sauce is heated thoroughly and the basting should be frequent and liberal.

THE GIRL SCOUT PARTY

The Girl Scout party held at the Bullock Banquet hall Monday celebrated the close of a contest between the Whippoorwill and Bob White patrols, different branches of the Cardinal Troop, of which Miss Irma Green is captain. For some time the contest has been going on between the two patrols and included nature tests, a membership drive, working on badges and various activities. The Bob Whites proved to be the more successful and the party was given the victors by the defeated Whippoorwills. The latter took their defeat gracefully, one of the results of scout training, and enjoyed the party as much as the Bob Whites. A jolly evening of scout games, music and refreshments were enjoyed by the members and other guests whom the members were permitted to invite. The scout organization is doing a commendable work among the young girls, comparable to that of the work among the boys and is deserving of the hearty support of our citizenship. What work could be of more importance than the proper training of the future mothers of the country? Scouts present were: Evelyn Cobble, Elizabeth Gage, Grace Sinclair, Geneva Gilliland, Jaunita Denton, Roma Cass, Mabel Champion, Jimmy King, Beth King, Thelma Mitchell. Guests of the scouts were: Gene Wheatley, Wilma Robinson, Nelda Wilson, Edith Crockett, Junie Ruth Nicholson, Ethlyn Cobble and Glennis Smith.

MORE ABOUT BULL

"How long since you've seen a horse?" asks the Automotive South, an all south trade paper of 17,000 circulation. The question is answered as follows:

Here's another one of those stories:

It is not strictly true that all present-day cow-punching in Texas is done in decrepit Fords, although much of it undoubtedly is, and practically all coyote hunting is prosecuted while mounted on bucking Lizzies. There are still horses in the Lone Star State, and the proof of the pudding is that D. L. Bull, a rodeo performer who is carrying a sealed and presumably a mysterious missive from Artesia, N. M., to the editor of a Scranton, Pa., newspaper, up and purchased an equine quadruped in the Texas town of Weatherford several weeks ago.

But the sadness of the tale remains to be bewailed.

Bull and horse landed in Dallas, Texas, the other day and the significant additional information is that they had six-count 'em—six feet on the ground. The horse, which is named Artesia and which is a red sorrel that never had been ridden before Bull got him, pitched at sight of a street car and couldn't stand up on the slick pavement. So Bull had to lead him into town.

It was a colorful procession. There wasn't anything but an ornate saddle on Artesia, but there was everything on Bull—Red-stitched boots, leather chaparros, a yellow kerchief and some other odds and ends of rainbows and Fourth of July decorations. The town saw a lot of them, too. Because go where he would and ask where he went, Bull couldn't find a stable in all the city.

Finally he gave attendants at McClellan's Auto Repair and Service Company's parking station at Commerce and Lamar Streets the thrill of the century by pulling up on the lot.

There Artesia was parked, while Bull went about his business.

Magistrate: "Was the prisoner, in your opinion, intoxicated?"

Officer: "I cannot say, your worship, that 'e was exactly drunk, but 'e was not sufficiently otherwise."—Punch.

NOTICE
In The Probate Court Of Eddy County, State Of New Mexico

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF ALEXANDER WEBB, DECEASED.

WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT THE METEOR

McPherson College
V. H. SCHWALM, Ph. D., Pres.

McPherson, Kansas
Feb. 22, 1929

The Associated Press Correspondent
Dear Sir:

I note from the press clippings that there has been seen in the region of El Paso and Carlsbad a meteorite.

As a representative of the American Meteor Society, I am requesting information from those who were eye witnesses to this event as follows:

Where you were when you witnessed this fall; the time of day; the direction in which it was traveling; the direction in which it was last seen; whether the fire ball was extinguished before it reached the earth, if so how high above the horizon, (this should be stated in degrees remembering that it is 90 degrees from the horizon to the zenith); whether any explosions were noted, and if sounds were heard, the nature of the sounds; and approximate length of time between the sight of the meteor and the arrival of the sounds.

Will you please publish this request and ask that observers address their replies to H. H. Nininger, McPherson College, McPherson, Kansas. The American Meteor Society is interested in gathering all possible data on such events with a view to increasing our knowledge of these visitors from space. The writer has charge of one of the large collections of meteorites having been a student of this question for years.

Trusting that you will cooperate with the society in this enterprise, I am,

Yours very truly,
H. H. NININGER.

WASH FIRST

Religion and science shake hands over the wash bowl. Sanitation is in part a ratification of age old customs and traditions, and its dicta have the same object as many ancient religious rituals—the welfare of men.

The cleanliness observances of this age, based not only on good form but on scientific knowledge and laboratory research, confirm, odd as it may seem the soundness of many customs of primitive religions in all parts of the world. Long before any one had traced any connection between dirt and disease, religious customs required the washing of hands before meals. This act of cleanliness has grown from a religious sacrament to a hygienic requirement and from that to a social grace. We moderns observe it, not to please God, but for health and aesthetic reasons. It is no longer a symbol of purification as it was with the Egyptians, but a sign of acquaintance with polite usage. The rite of purification, which consisted of handwashing, so habitually preceded a meal that the terms became interchangeable.

Tires for the new Ford are specially made to give long wear

WHEN the new Ford was designed, it was immediately apparent that a new tire would have to be made to match the car's performance. It was distinctly a new problem, for here was a car with quicker acceleration, greater speed and more braking efficiency than any car of similar size or weight.

So that every Ford owner might be assured of maximum tire mileage at the lowest cost, the Ford Motor Company devoted many months to research and experiment in conjunction with the leading tire manufacturers.

As a result, certain definite specifications were developed for tires for the new Ford. These specify cords of certain strength and texture, a large volume of tread and side-wall rubber, sturdy non-skid design, and reinforced plies for protection against bruise breaks—all the strong features of construction formerly considered for only the largest tires.

Great care also was taken to secure the best riding qualities in connection with the transverse springs and the Houdaille shock absorbers.

Though the Ford tires are designated as 30 x 4.50, they have the resiliency and air space of much larger tires because of the drop center rim of the steel-spoke wheels.

For best results, the tires on the new Ford should be kept inflated to an air pressure of 35 pounds and checked regularly to insure this pressure all the time. This is important. Low inflation breaks down the sidewalls of a tire. By causing overheating, it also destroys the rubber that acts as an insulation, with consequent separation of the cord.

At the end of each 5000 miles, when you have the front wheels packed with grease, it is a good plan to have the wheel alignment checked. This will prevent premature wear.

When punctures come, as they will with any tire, you will find the Ford dealer particularly well-equipped to make repairs quickly and at small cost. See him, too, for replacements. Then you will be sure of getting tires built specially for the Ford car according to definite Ford specifications.

BAPTISM AND THE LORD'S SUPPER

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 3:13-17; 28:19, 20; 1 Cor. 11:23-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—This do in remembrance of me.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Things God Wants Us to Do.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Things God Wants Us to Do.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Meaning of Baptism and the Lord's Supper.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place of Baptism and the Lord's Supper in the Christian Life.

I. The Baptism of Jesus (Matt. 3:13-17).

1. His request (v. 13).
This was in fact, if not in word, He came from Galilee to Jordan to be baptized of John.

2. John's hesitancy (v. 14).
He perceived something in Jesus which impressed him with the unfathomable nature of such an act.

3. John's reply (v. 15).
John's compliance with Jesus' request, but it was a method of righteousness.

4. Jesus' acknowledgment (v. 16).
Jesus emerged from the waters, the heavens were opened, the Holy Spirit descended, and a voice declared, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

II. The Apostolic Commission (Matt. 28:18-20).

1. The authority of Jesus (v. 18).
God gave Him all authority in heaven and on earth.

2. The Commission of the Apostles (vv. 19, 20).
(1) It was to teach (make disciples of) all the nations (v. 19).
(2) Baptize believers (v. 19).

3. The divine appointment of the apostles.
This baptism, the divinely appointed way of making public confession is to be in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, indicating that the believer has been brought into definite relationship to each member of the Holy Trinity.

(3) Teach obedience (v. 20).
Profession is not enough; it must issue in obedience.

3. The all-sufficient promise (v. 20).
The Lord told the disciples their difficulties would be great after He had gone away, but promised them the presence and fellowship of the all-powerful Savior and Lord.

III. The Lord's Supper (1 Cor. 11:23-29).

1. Its Institution (v. 23).
(1) Time.
It was on the night of the betrayal of Jesus, just after the betrayer had been announced.

(2) Circumstances of.
It was in connection with the eating of the Passover (Matt. 26:26).

(3) The elements used. Bread doubtless common bread of the Passover feast. The cup, fruit of the vine.
2. The Significance of the Lord's Supper (vv. 24-26, cf. Matt. 26:26-28).
Jesus took material things and made them to be symbols of His own body and blood.

(1) A memorial of the Lord (Luke 22:19) to be observed in remembrance of Him.
(2) To show the Lord's sacrificial death (v. 26). He did not die as a hero, or as an example of unselfish devotion, but as a substitutionary ransom.
(3) It is a guarantee that our sins are forgiven (Rom. 4:25).
(4) It symbolizes the believer's reception of Christ (1 Cor. 10:16).
(5) A forward look to a completed redemption (1 Cor. 10:20).

3. Qualifications for participation in the Lord's Supper (vv. 27-29).

(1) A proper apprehension of its meaning (v. 27). Eating and drinking unworthily primarily refers not to the demerit of the communicant but his failure to grasp its meaning and importance.

(2) Church membership (1 Cor. 11:22).
The Lord's body is the church which is composed of regenerated men and women united to Jesus Christ as head and to each other as members of that body by the Holy Spirit.

3. Orderly walk.
Conduct which disqualifies for participation in the Lord's Supper:
(a) Immoral Conduct (1 Cor. 5:1-13). It is most perilous for one who is guilty of immorality to approach the Lord's table (1 Cor. 11:30). Sickness and death are often visited upon such.
(b) Heresy (Titus 3:10; 1 John 4:2, 3).
(c) The one who stirs up a schismatic strife (Rom. 16:17) in the church should be excluded from the Lord's table.

Clean Hands and Pure Heart

Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord, or who shall stand in His holy place? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart. He shall receive the blessing from the Lord.—Psalm 24:3-5.

The Smitten Check

Command about the smitten is a command, condensed into a verb against vengeful retaliation. This is not impracticable.—Dr. Wayland Hoyt.

FOUR MAJOR ROAD PROJECTS ARE NOW IN CONSTRUCTION

SANTA FE.—A survey of road work now under construction shows that 4 projects are being built at a total cost of nearly $3,000,000, a bulletin issued from the state highway offices stated recently.

Two hundred and six miles of road are included in the above figures with three major bridges for which no mileage is given. The longest project is in Harding and Colfax counties from Roy north to the Springer-Clayton road. This project is 26.11 miles in length.

The most costly project is on U. S. 85 in Socorro and Dona Ana counties. This project is 14.78 miles in length and is being built at a cost of approximately $260,000. This includes a large bridge across the Rio Grande between Derry and Arroyo. This project is looked upon as one of the most important now under construction jobs in the state. It is making one more link in the large chain which will be completed El Camino Real. This road runs, historically, from Santa Barbara, Old Mexico to Raton. It is the oldest roadway in America the first report of it being dated 1593, twenty-seven years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth.

When this route, now called U. S. 85, is a built road from Raton to El Paso the traveler can make over 500 miles in a roughly bisecting line down through the heart of the state. This will be one of the most historically interesting roads in the nation. From the Santa Fe Trail stories of the north through the pueblo, old ruins, cliff dwellers country, with stops for the Rio Grande Conservancy District's gigantic project, the Jornada del Muerto, the one time bandit country of the Ladroneas, Caballos, and San Andreas ranges, the side trip into the Black range, the Elephant Butte, the Organs, and half a dozen other interesting natural wonders or historically interesting points all line this road.

Plenty of water and salt with a minimum amount of concentrated feed for several days before and after calving helps to prevent milk fever in the dairy cow. If the disease does develop, however, it is easy to treat it by injecting sterile air (air filtered through liquid or cotton) into the udder. Keep an air pump or a milk fever outfit on hand. Mature cows, particularly high producers, are more susceptible than young cows.

There are several kinds of lice that attack poultry, but fortunately they can all be controlled by sodium flourate. One pound of this powder will treat 100 hens at a cost of about 40 cents, and 1 or 2 applications a year will keep the birds free from the pests, if their houses are kept clean. At this time of year, it is best to use the "pinch" method of applying the material; that is, apply pinches of the powder over the various parts of the fowl.

TRAFFIC LAWS MUST BE OBSERVED IN FUTURE

Motorists are warned that the ordinance relative to traffic regulations must be observed. Failure to observe stop signs, speeding and other traffic violations will henceforth be prosecuted without exception. Watch your step.

OPEN LETTER TO MY PUBLIC NO. 7:

DEAR FRIENDS:
Never saw a town keep on improving like this one does—paved streets, white way, new hotel and everything. And now a golf course! Even Charlie Mann and Jimmie Robertson learning golf and bad words at the same time and from the same source—M. W. Evans is their teacher.

Bryant Williams was coming in from Hope and saw the three of them playing and walked two hundred yards down the Fairway to help them—thought they was trying to kill a snake.

Any time you feel the golf fever coming on just look over our line of Golf Equipment and you'll sure have it.

Hoping to see you soon,

INSIDE INFORMATION

Turnip custard is made in the same way as corn custard. To one cup of grated raw turnips or mashed cooked turnip allow 2 beaten eggs, 1 pint of milk, ¼ teaspoon of salt, and 2 tablespoons of melted butter. Mix well and season with a few drops of tabasco. Bake in a moderate oven in a pan surrounded by water until the custard is set. Serve at once. Carrots may be used in the same way.

Keep milk in bottles with cap on until used. If possible, as soon as milk arrives, place in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Provide a shelter box for the early deliveries. Wash caps and mouths of bottles before pouring out milk. For the best results the temperature of the box should be 45° F. or below, constantly.

If everyone in the family would try to eat without objection all ordinary foods not highly seasoned or of unusual flavor, if well cooked and appetizingly served, many food prejudices would vanish and the housekeeper's problems would be reduced. An understanding of properly balanced diet will help dispel many prejudices and make it possible to set a varied yet economical table.

The Man Below Decks

By AD SCHUSTER

(Copyright.)

TOM AND MARY were playmates in childhood, sweethearts in high school, and all but engaged when he went to sea. It had been a distressing parting, not at all in the romantic picture, for Mary was just a little doubtful. Nate Allen, the slim and well-dressed newcomer, had told her so many things of another world and had paid her so much flattering attention that, for the first time, she wondered concerning her feeling for Tom. Then Nate had slipped on the same ship with his rival. He was a radio operator and Tom an engineer.

"That is it," she said to herself, "in every way Nate is just a little more romantic than Tom." She took her troubles to Captain Wilson who smoked a short pipe and listened in silence until she was through.

"So Tom's not fancy enough for you, hey? Want a man who knows how to wear his clothes and make pretty speeches. Wonder what your old dad who was one of the hardest swearing skippers on the island run would say to that, if he were here to hear you. And don't forget you've known Tom a long while and he stands knowing and." Cap Wilson poked a warning finger at her, "Don't go to confusing a new interest with real affection."

Still Mary was troubled. "First thing you know," Cap continued, "you'll be telling me you don't like the way my trousers are pressed, being as how they never were, or that I oughta have a new lid. Gosh, I wish your dad was here to spank you."

At her indignant departure the old man chuckled and yet he was worried. "Not that Nate isn't a good boy, I guess he is, but Tom, he's a skipper's son, and Mary's a skipper's daughter."

The whole country read of the wreck and the wireless man who stuck to his post. To Mary it came as an answer to her question. She saw Nate as a hero, pictured him going over the side with the captain, the last man to leave the ship, and waited anxiously for the day to come when the hero would return. And Tom? Of course she was glad he was safe, but the romance was all with Nate. It was then Cap Wilson made it his business to waylay her. He walked up as she was seated on the beach, as were many of the women whose men were on that ship, waiting for a sign of the freighter which was bringing them back.

"That Nate," Cap began, "sure was a hero. He lived up to the traditions in grand style and I'm proud of him." Mary looked her gratitude. It was fine of the old man to admit his mistake.

"And yet," he continued, "there is something funny about wireless outfits." He paused to fill his pipe then went on almost as if talking to himself.

"They have to have power in order to run, you know. A fellow can't just sit there and push a button or finger a key and send out the S O S. There must be somebody furnishing the kick, the juice, the electricity. That's the way about a lot of things. Somebody makes a big hit, and deserves it, and somebody else, who did the work to make it possible, never gets the chance to step out from behind the curtain which hides them."

"Cap Wilson, what are you trying to say?"

"Who, me? I was just picturing that wreck. Here was Nate up in his radio room above decks where he could see what was going on. If the ol' ship took to lighting, he knew it. If the boats were getting off all right, he knew it, and knew how many were left. He sticks by his post and tells the world to get busy helping out, but he could see, get that?"

"Yes?"

"Well, somewhere down where a man can't see and where nobody could stand around to notice whether he was acting the part of a man or not, was a guy keeping that motor or dynamo running to make the precious power for Nate's spark machine. He didn't know what was going on, he had nothing but his imagination which can be more terrifying than facts."

"The engineer," Mary spoke softly.

"You mean, Tom?"

"Both heroes," and Cap rose to walk away. "You could be proud of either, I guess, but get the picture, get it all, above decks and below, before you start in forgetting the kid you went to school with for . . ."

"I'm not forgetting, Cap. I'm looking below decks now, for the first time, and—and I've found my hero."

Baffled.

The great leuth put away his magnifying glass.

"The culprit has left a number of clues about," he declared, casting a quick, definite glance round the room, "and I'm certain the culprit has short black hair, is five feet, seven inches tall, smoked cigarettes, wore woolen socks and drove here in an automobile. Another thing—"

"But how marvelous!" interrupted the victim of the robbery. "Now was the culprit a man or a woman?"

It was then that the great detective was baffled.

GET EARLY START FOR GOOD SWEET POTATOES

In order to grow good early sweet potato slips it is necessary to furnish bottom heat or grow them under glass says A. B. Fite of the New Mexico Agricultural College. If the potatoes get too cold before they begin to sprout they may rot. The glass covered frame is a very satisfactory method of producing slips; the slips are bedded and covered with two or three inches of sand or very sandy soil.

Several types of hotbeds are being used with success by growers in different parts of the state. Due to the susceptibility of sweet potatoes to disease especially black rot, the bed as well as the field should be frequently rotated. For this reason a cheap type of bed is often used. A common method of bedding the seed potatoes is to dig a pit two feet deep and fill it with one foot of fresh horse manure from grain fed animals, and which contains about one-third straw. The manure is first dampened well with water and left in a pile until it begins to heat, then thoroughly mixed and tramped into the pit and covered with about four inches of soil and sand. The treated tubers are then placed close together and covered with two or three inches of sand and the bed watered.

At the experiment station the potatoes are usually bedded about March 1, if the slips are grown under glass or in hotbeds covered with muslin, but some growers bed the potatoes in sand about March 15 and use no bottom heat or covering and get two pullings of slips for the late crop, which are ready for planting about the middle of May. This bed should be located on the south side of a building or windbreak.

About six weeks are required for the production of slips. One bushel of medium size potatoes will require about 18 to 20 square feet of space and will furnish about 3,000 slips. About 8,800 slips are required to plant an acre when planted 15 inches apart in rows four feet apart.

On account of prevalence of black rot sweet potatoes, it is urged that the seed be treated before bedding. Black rot not only seriously damages the potatoes but contaminates the land, making it necessary to rotate for several years with other crops. Good, clean seed should be selected, or certified seed secured. The seed should be treated in a corrosive sublimate solution made by dissolving one ounce of corrosive sublimate in a little warm water, then adding enough cold water to make eight gallons of the solution. A wooden receptacle should be used for this solution as it is weakened when placed in metal containers. The seed potatoes are treated 12 to 15 minutes, after which they are bedded. After 10 bushels have been treated, one-half ounce of poison is added to each 32 gallons of the used solution. Approximately the original quantity of solution should be maintained. This is repeated until 50 bushels have been dipped, when a new solution should be made.

Mesdames S. W. Gilbert, E. M. Phillips, D. I. Clowe and A. M. Tarbet drove to Carlsbad Tuesday to attend an art exhibit sponsored by the Carlsbad Woman's club. The exhibit was held in the club rooms at the library building and was in connection with a fine program given by the club. Mrs. Van Antwerp, an art teacher of Carlsbad explained the pictures, which were painted by a number of El Paso artists and a few of their pupils. The collection contained canvasses made by Lois Denton, Mrs. Hoag, and Cyril Scott Kay and pupils.
