Grimes Wins The Hobbs Field

No. 1, Leads Field Margin—Getty To Deep Test In Eddy

The field more than doubled during a five day test during the week which numbered six, was No. 1 in the NE SE sec. 1, NE sec. 29-18-38, which to a total depth of 4,150 feet produced 864 barrels of gas per hour and 1,440 cubic feet of oil per hour.

The production of the well is estimated to be 23,000 barrels of gas per acre per year. A few days to the completion of the well, a 15,000 barrel well on No. 1 in the NE SE sec. 1, NE sec. 29-18-38, to a total depth of 4,150 feet open the well made the first hour and 1,440 cubic feet of oil per hour and 1,440 cubic feet of gas per hour.

The Amerada Co. McKinley No. 1 in sec. 30-18-38, was drilled to a depth of 4,230 feet, one inch tubing to 4,202 feet. McKinley No. 1 flowed the first hour through a tubing and 325 barrels of gas per hour and 1,440 cubic feet of oil per hour.

The well is producing 821 barrels of gas per hour and 1,440 cubic feet of oil per hour. The Getty Oil Co. is drilling a good well on No. 1, 2,310 feet from the surface and 2,310 feet from the surface.

The McKinley flowing well is producing 437 barrels of gas per hour and 1,440 cubic feet of oil per hour.

The amount of the reduction will vary for the individual, ranging from 10 to 20 per cent and should be especially appreciated by the small user.

CATTLE AND SHEEP ARE HOLDING UP WELL DESPITE DRY SPELL

Cattle and sheep are holding up exceptionally well on the ranges, according to reports from practically all sections of the country. Grass and vegetation received a good start from May and June showers, but has been suffering some lately on account of the continued dry hot weather. Stockmen in the Sacramento have stock water enough to run through the summer. Heavy showers have fallen in the mountain district, but they have been spotted.

COTTON ACREAGE CUT MILLION AND QUARTER ACRES SAYS A REPORT

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There were a million and a quarter acres less cotton in cultivation on July 1 than a year ago. The crop reporting board of the department of agriculture in its first announcement of acreage this year issued Tuesday, placed the area of cotton in cultivation at 45,815,000. This is a reduction of 2.7 per cent from last year's July 1 acreage. The acreage is 166,000 less than the area picked last year.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Cotton in cultivation in the United States on July 1 was announced Tuesday by the department of agriculture as aggregating 45,815,000 acres, compared with 47,067,000 acres, the revised area in cultivation a year ago, and 45,981,000 acres picked last year when a group of 14,821,499 equivalent 500-lb. bales of lint was ginned. The department issued no forecast of indicated production, as that is forbidden by law, and will not make any production forecast until their August report which will be based on the acreage in cultivation July 1, less the 10-year average abandonment in each state after July 1. The 10-year average abandonment from 1920 to 1929 was 3.5 per cent.

The area in cultivation July 1 this year included: Texas, 17,500,000; Oklahoma, 4,076,000; Arkansas, 4,012,000; New Mexico, 133,000; Arizona, 212,000; and California 273,000.

S. W. PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY REDUCES ALL ELECTRIC RATES

Good news is contained in an announcement from the Southwestern Public Service Co., that all electric rates are to be reduced effectively immediately. In reducing the existing rates, officials of the company state that they are following the policy of bringing an indispensable product to its consumers at its lowest possible cost. The use of the modern electric appliances is made possible by a continuous electric service and the Southwestern Public Service Co., is anxious that every customer have a wider use of this service at a lower cost. The company has previously reduced the power rates to farmers for irrigation purposes and now made further reduction to encourage the household to make a more extended use of electricity.

The amount of the reduction will vary for the individual, ranging from 10 to 20 per cent and should be especially appreciated by the small user.

The new commercial rate is: First 50 K. W. H.—14c per K. W. H. Next 50 K. W. H.—10c per K. W. H. Next 100 K. W. H.—7½c per K. W. H. Over 1,000 K. W. H.—6c per K. W. H.

ABOUT 500,000 LBS. OF SPRING WOOL CLIP IS LOADED OUT OF HERE

Ninety-Four Growers Load Clip Here—Value Of The Crop Is Placed At About $100,000—Production Is Same As Last Year.

Completed tabulations on the amount of wool shipped from Artesia during the present season reveals that sixteen cars have been loaded out, representing approximately 500,000 pounds of wool. Of this amount approximately 400,000 pounds have been sold and shipped direct to Boston, while 100,000 pounds have gone direct to the co-operative association at Roswell. The value of the 1930 spring clip will be substantially the same as the 1929 crop or $100,000. The clips of the two years compares favorably both in amounts and in the total value.

Ninety-four clips were handled here this season, the largest on record. The number indicates that several stockmen and farmers have gone into the sheep business in a small way.

Among the growers to load out their clip were: G. R. Brainard, Hines Sheep Co., Buck Wilburn, T. H. Flint, Armstrong and Armstrong, Frank Watkins, Frank Duncan, Hiram Williams, Thelbert French, D. A. The pipe line capacity of the Hobbs field will be slightly under 100,000 barrels daily, when the third line, that of the Shell Pipe Line Co., is completed and running oil, it was said here. The Atlantic, the second line into the area, is running some oil, but have not yet taken a capacity load.

BOY SCOUTS TO MOUNTAINS
Eleven Boy Scouts left for the Boy Scout camp in the Sacramento this morning to attend the first period of the summer camp. Two of the Scouts, Delbert Jones and Ernest Hannah, preceded this morning's delegation a few days. Among the scouts who are attending the first period are: Billy Bullock, Armand Loving, James Sharp, John Shearman, Olin Woodside, Frank Cogdell, burn Keller, George Conner, Richard dinner and enjoy the day. GAS FOR OUTLYING DISTRICTS
A. A. Bewley of San Francisco, California, with the Standard Oil Co., of California, was here Saturday making a preliminary survey, with a view to determining the feasibility of supplying homes with gas, where a natural gas line is not available. The Standard Oil Co., is now supplying a number of districts with gas where natural gas is not available or where residences or business houses are located away from a natural gas line.

WORK COMMENCED ON FIRST CASING HEAD GAS PLANT FOR HOBBS
Phillips Petroleum Company yesterday began construction of its $750,000 casinghead gasoline plant, Hobbs' first extraction unit.

Putting the plant into operation will be a great stride in the move toward complete conservation of the tremendous gas deposits over the Hobbs oil pool, oil men said. Million of feet of gas is flowing from producing wells in the Hobbs field daily. Only a relatively small portion, that used to supply the towns of New Hobbs and Oil Hobbs with fuel gas, is being utilized.

With the commercializing of gas flow from producing wells in the Hobbs field, operators' avowed program of 100 per cent conservation will practically be effected, oil men stated.

TEACHER'S EXAMS
Examinations for teachers' certificates will be conducted July 10, 11, and 12 in Carlsbad, in the office of Mrs. Wilma Dillard county superintendent of schools, in the court house.

NEW SIGN FOR McADOO DRUG
The McAdoo Drug Co., have recently erected a new electric neon sign, which is especially attractive at night. Erection of the sign was completed yesterday.

PRODUCTION OF LOCAL OIL FIELD IS PRORATED EFFECTIVE ON MONDAY

Field Output Cut To 70%—Hobbs Proration Becomes Automatic When Production Outruns The Pipe Line Capacity.

Oil production in practically all parts of southeastern New Mexico has been curtailed. Effective Monday the output of the Artesia and Maljamar fields were prorated to approximately 70 per cent of the capacity of the local refinery. Lack of storage facilities is said to have been a prime factor in the curtailment.

Mounting production at Hobbs also forced operators to prorate, on account of the present pipe line facilities being taxed to capacity. Within a period of approximately five days the output of the Hobbs field jumped from about 55,000 barrels daily to over 123,000 and the production is still climbing. It was reported here Tuesday that the pipe lines into Hobbs would only accommodate 35,000 barrels daily, which necessitated reduction of more than 66 per cent in most of the producing wells.

It was understood here that practically all operators at Hobbs have signed a proration agreement, effective yesterday the 10th. Curtailed production became automatic when the field's output ran away from its pipe line facilities. The new agreement goes further and seeks to limit the drilling of only one well to each forty acres, it was said.

COMMISSIONERS COURT MEETS
The Eddy county commissioner's court met in regular session Monday at Carlsbad. Among the more important items to receive the attention of the court was the appointment of a board of registration for the November election. The court also declared the new cavern road a highway. This action was preliminary to securing federal aid in the improvement of the highway, which will include the surfacing of the road with concrete for about a mile and a half out of Carlsbad and the construction of a concrete bridge over Dark Canyon.

OILERS TO PLAY TWO BALL GAMES HERE—TO MEET CARLSBAD SUN.
The reorganized Artesia Oilers will give two baseball exhibitions here this week. This afternoon at 5:00 p. m., they will meet the Joyce-Pruit nine of Roswell at the Brainard Park. Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p. m., the locals will meet the Carlsbad caverners at the Brainard Park.

MRS. FRANK TIGNER IS PAINFULLY INJURED AS CAR OVERTURNS
Mrs. Frank Tigner was painfully injured Saturday afternoon, about 5:30 when the car in which she was riding turned over, near the Coll residence on the oil field road. With Mrs. Tigner were her daughter, Mrs. Morris Thurman and Mr. Thurman, who was driving. A blow out caused the car, a Buick to swerve and turn over on its side. When Mrs. Tigner realized the car was going over, she instinctively threw out her hand, which was crushed in some manner, when the car fell on its side.

ELK-MAYHILL HIWAY NOW BEING SURVEYED BY FOREST SERVICE

A surveying crew under the direction of S. A. Westland, of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is surveying the Elk-Mayhill highway, preliminary to starting construction on this link of the western highway. Construction work, however, is not expected to start before fall. An appropriation of $50,000 has been made by the forest service to this stretch of road, which is approximately twelve miles in length.

SIX ARE ARRESTED AND CHARGED WITH ROBBING A SANTA FE MEAT CAR

J. W. Mullenax of Lake Arthur, Jeff Hart and Boliver Chapman of Hagerman were arrested Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Ross Conner of Artesia and Fent Stallings, special agent of the Santa Fe, Thursday, charged with robbing a meat car here on June 26th. The arrests were made just a week after the robbery is alleged to have occurred, at which time the lock on the car was broken and the car entered and 620 pounds of meat and lard taken. Others are said to have been implicated and more arrests are expected, according to an early report. The men were taken to Roswell and lodged in the Chaves county jail. Dan Webb and son Vernon and J. A. Jackson were later arrested in connection with the robbery of the meat car here on June 26th. All three men were lodged in the county jail at Carlsbad, but Vernon Webb a minor, was later released.

Conservation Of Hobbs Gas Is Stressed At Meet Tues.

Methods Discussed How To Save Gas With Properly Casing The Hole—Pay Is Usually Obtained At A Uniform Depth.

Conservation of gas in the Hobbs field was the primary purpose of the meeting of Hobbs operators at Roswell Tuesday, during which time casing methods were discussed. The pay in the Hobbs field is usually found at a uniform depth. The oil bearing lime does not vary over twenty feet, according to operators. It was agreed that all wells should be cased between 3,900 and 3,950 feet to obtain the lowest oil-gas ratio. Some wells that are said to be wasting gas were cased off at 3,830 feet. It was also agreed that the gas was worth practically as much as the oil, in the service it performs in forcing oil to the surface. Only a few wells at the extreme south end of the producing field and those comparatively poor producers are not cased in.

Allowing an enormous flow of gas from a producing well minimizes the potential production of that well to the benefit of its offsets. The great gas pressure, when allowed direct contact with the oil flow, tends to force it through the structure toward other wells as well as to the surface, speakers said. No definite action toward restricting depth at which operatives should drill into deep pay sand was taken. Suggestion was made that deep water is struck in the Hobbs field at from 610 to 620 feet below sea level, and that the state or organized producers could be forced to plug down wells bottomed in water flow. Most of the best producing wells to date have been bottomed at from 140 to 180 feet below top of big pay sand, it was stated. The meeting was presided over by Glenn Staley, state geologist.

PIOR'S TENTH ANNIVERSARY
B. F. Pior, proprietor of the Pior Service Station, is celebrating the 10th anniversary of the establishment by offering special values on tires this week. A decade is a comparatively short time as the records for time goes. Mr. Pior recalls the time that he erected his service station at the corner of Fifth and Main. Old timers jokingly asked him what was the idea in moving out to Hope to erect a service station. The passing days have justified Mr. Pior's faith in Artesia and in the service station business, which was comparatively new at that time. The period also shows a growth for Artesia for the Pior's Service Station is considered part of the town now.

Operating a service station now is altogether a different business from what it was ten years ago. The auto accessory business has grown by leaps and bounds. Mr. Pior realized the growing importance of serving the motoring public several years ago and determined to concentrate his efforts on the distribution of one thing, tires. In so doing he has been able to give the public the benefit of a wide selection of quality tires at low prices.

LEA ROYALTY MAY BE DIVIDED SOON
Rumors persist that an effort will be made to divide the royalty from state lands in the Hobbs pool as soon as production on the land belonging to the eleemosynary institutions, produces a revenue which will more than care for the needs of these institutions. At the present time the eleemosynary institutions owns 18,000 acres of old lands in the Hobbs area, it is said and the public schools 5,000 acres.

A possible surplus of funds for the eleemosynary institutions has started an agitation to lump all state funds in one sum and prorate them according to the need of the various institutions.

PARTY UNITY

Party unity is an essential feature of any successful campaign. If the democratic local and state organization expect to get anywhere this year, party leaders must present a unified front. Party matters should not be left to the control of a few, regardless of their competency or knowledge of politics.

Some people won't work unless they are given a definite objective to strive for. Others will work for the good of their party if given an opportunity. They do not especially care for the honors, if places of responsibility are so termed. It is essential that the masses be interested if the democratic party accomplishes its purpose in the coming campaign. The masses can not be interested in politics unless they are given a part in the activities of the party and invited to participate in the conventions or primaries.

If we are to have meetings, lets make them democratic.

ANOTHER ELECTION YEAR

This is the year the boys will have some fun in state politics. It happens every two years. We are reminded of the coming election in November with an occasional announcement of some state or notional office.

The republican organization will carry on a state wide campaign this year in much the same manner as they did in 1928. Col. Safford, state chairman of the republican central committee, has arranged an advertising campaign in practically every paper of the state. Some may disagree with the republican manager as to the methods used in reaching the public, but after all is aid and done Col. Safford is doing just what every other wide awake aggressive business man is doing that wants a hearing before the modern public.

Quit talking about yourself for a while and see if anyone else will bring the subject up.

AN INCREASING STANDARD OF LIVING

Prices on some commodities have hit the bottom within the past two weeks, with the outlook rather gloomy for a strengthened demand. Farm produce has not escaped for it seems there is an over-production of everything. Wheat has been selling at its lowest figure in fifteen to eighteen years. A peculiar situation exists or has existed in the panhandle of Texas where kaffir corn, ordinarily a low priced product is out-selling wheat. Manufacturers have been trimming prices also and it begins to look as though we might see a general revision of prices.

Recalling the anti bellum days, when cheap products reigned supreme, we would regret to see the time return for it would mean a lowering standard of living for the American people. We rather look for a price stabilization rather than further reductions. We prefer the automobile and the radio to the good old days one hears so much about, when the civilization wasn't pestered with so many contrivances. It would be about the same proposition for one to make a million, enjoy it for a few years and lose it as it would for the average citizens to have to go back to the ways of 1914.

In our own community look at the progress that has been made, paved streets, sewer systems, natural gas, modern white way, electrical appliances, modernized homes, autos, radios, modern stores and a multitude of other things that some folks are prone to overlook, when they say we've made very little progress.

THE THINGS UNSEEN

At the end of their first week in business the owners of a little shop lowered the cutrains of their windows and went home.

On each succeeding Saturday night the curtains were pulled down and kept down until Monday morning.

As the little shop grew the suggestion came from many sources that the curtain stay up. "The windows are beautiful," people said; "let us walk by and look."

The owners had an old-fashioned background. They had been taught in childhood that six days are enough for the things that are seen. The first day of the week, they said is for the things unseen—rest and worship, and family life and freedom from thoughts of business.

Seventy-five years have passed. The store has grown until its windows are said to be more valuable than any windows in the world. But the example of the founders remains, and all day Sunday the shades are down.

Is this old-fashioned custom good, in days when so many old-fashioned customs are being crowded out?
We like to think so. We like the idea that on the first day of the week the Church and the home should come first.

Strong churches and strong homes build strong cities. All the great words of business—service and courtesy and kindlines and truth—have their inspiration in religion. And prosperity is only permanent where there is reverence and mutual trust, and faith.—Statement of Marshall Field and Company, of Chicago.

ACQUISITIVE TEXAS

A Texas congressman wants Uncle Sam to build a reservoir down the Pecos river just across the line in Texas, so that water that falls in New Mexico and runs down the New Mexico Pecos river may be used to irrigate lands in Texas. And has the gaul to ask Uncle Sam to pay for that reservoir. If he can get away with that and New Mexico stands supinely by and sees it done, he can get away with anything—and ought to.—Roswell Record.

Inasmuch as Phoenix and Tucson hotels are correcting their statistical error as to Albuquerque's population it will not be necessary for us to point out that it was 114 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade the other day at Phoenix.—State Tribune.

It is better to ship market cantaloupes unwrapped. Wrapped cantaloupes do not reach the consumer in as good condition, nor do they keep so well if shipped in refrigerator cars.

Many farmers fail to realize that one reason why they are unable to get higher prices for their eggs is that the eggs are not graded. When small and bad eggs are marketed with good one it lowers the price of the entire lot.

You can mend cracks in slate, soapstone, or cement laundry tubs with a mixture of litharge and glycerine, says agricultural engineers of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Stir the two materials together to make a smooth, heavy paste free from lumps. The cracks should be cleaned and the paste worked into them with a case knife. A paste of portland cement and water, or of the white of an egg and fresh lime, is also satisfactory for this purpose.

Some breeders of dairy stock believe that a large allowance of silage for a dairy bull is detrimental to his breeding qualities. Probably it is better to limit the allowance to about 12 pounds a day for each 1,000 pounds of live weight. Fed in this quantity, silage is thought to be a good, cheap, and safe feed for bulls. It should of course be supplemented with hay and grain.

Grain can now be cleaned when it is thrashed or combined. In 1929 farmers in the spring-wheat area used several hundred specially designed cleaning machines, which were attached to the thrashing machines or combines. These did the cleaning automatically along with the thrashing. This method of cleaning reduces the cost of handling grain on the farm, puts the grain in condition to sell at a higher price, and saves the screenings for feed for livestock.

"Main Street" is in the lead as a farm trading center, in the opinion of Dr. C. J. Galpin, of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. "Although the general trend," says Dr. Galpin, "has been for farmers to shift their buying stores at country cross roads, in hamlets, and in small villages, to larger retail trading centers, the shift in farmer buying to towns ranging from 1,000 to 10,000 in population is increasing the trade area of these towns and is also increasing their trade."

STON, D. C.—Announcement Monday of the $165,000,000 dam project, Secretary Wilbur said, characterized the work "our national conquest of the American desert." INSIDE INFORMATION

Serve small portions of food to children so that they can clear their plates without the feeling of being stuffed, and without being nagged into eating. Then give second helping if wanted.

Liver and cucumber salad is a good combination. Mix two cups of cold chopped liver, 1/2 cup of diced cucumber, and 1/2 cup of diced celery with mayonnaise dressing, serve on lettuce leaves.

Refreshing, juicy, fine-flavored watermelons have been found to have still another virtue. They are a good source of two important vitamins, A and C, and contain detectable amounts of two others, B and G.

Raglan sleeves on a child's dress are more comfortable than either the set-in or the kimona sleeve. They are more easily made than set-in-sleeves, and they allow room for growth without making the dress look too broad across the shoulders.

Orange and honey sauce for ice cream is made by placing in the top of a double boiler the following ingredients: 1 cup of honey, 1/4 cup finely grated fresh orange peel 1/2 cup orange juice, a few grain salt. Set over hot water for about 30 minutes to blend the flavors. Serve on ice cream. This amount will serve 6 to 8 persons allowing about 2 tablespoons to a serving.

Fry small fish over a low even heat in a small amount of good-flavored fat, using a heavy skillet. Roll in flour and put into hot fat without crowding. Reduce the temperature and cook evenly and slowly until a brown crust is formed on one side, then turn carefully and cook on the other side. Serve a section of lemon with each portion. Heat plates and platter and serve the fish very hot.

BEGINNING NEW HALF YEAR GOOD PERSONAL STOCK TAKING TIME

We are at the end of the beginning of the last half of the year. Business organizations at this time will be checking their records to see what progress, if any, they have made during the half yearly period just ended. It is time for taking stock; for looking squarely into the facts.

As individuals, we can do the same thing. What has the half year meant to us in accomplishment and personal upbuilding? Have we done anything during the period to improve our earning capacity, real or potential? Have we saved a little out of our earnings in the interest of future opportunities or necessities? Have we remained steadfast to habits of sensible living or have we allowed ourselves to drift into habits of extravagance or carelessness in the preservation of our health? In short, can we write down the past half year in terms of real progress or, in all truthfulness, must we set them down in what business calls "red figures?"

General economic conditions at this time are such that it behooves all of us to make the most of our time and money. The situation calls for strict attention to business upon the part of everyone. It is a time when we should eliminate waste, settle down to work, and do whatever we can within the bounds of good judgment to help restore the country to normal prosperity. One of the most propitious aspects of current times lies in the fact that people are developing more intensive thrift habits. We can not overlook the fact that we do not owe it to ourselves to do what ever we can to promote our own personal welfare but we have duties and obligations to society. Each of us is part of a great economic machine. How much of our income we should spend, how much we should save, are matters of individual circumstances but under no conditions are we ever justified in violating the practices of thrift.

Let us hope that those among the thousands who will read this message there will be many who will accept as worthy of attention the suggestion that at this half yearly period it is proper for all of us to take stock of our personal progress.

"What shall I say about the two peroxide blondes who made such a fuss at the game?" inquired the young reporter.

"Why, say the bleachers went wild, replied the sporting editor.

COWAN—AUSTIN

A wedding service, charming in its simplicity, occurred at the Methodist church Monday afternoon as the day was declining. At half past five o'clock in the dim light of the spacious building before a chancel rail lovely with a profusion of ferns and garden flowers, in which shasta daisies and white dahlias predominated, the Rev. Harold Scoggins, read the beautiful ring ceremony, which united in the bonds of wedlock Miss Gladys Cowan and Mr. Leland Austin. The ceremony was preceded by the singing of Cadman's exquisite song, "At Dawning," by Miss Katherine Ragsdale, Miss Catherine Clarke accompanying. The simple service, in which the couple were unattended, was witnessed by only the immediate family and a few intimate friends, among them being two from out of town, Mrs. Alice Coulter of Hagerman, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Jim Stagner from Carlsbad.

Harmonizing perfectly with the time and the service the bride was lovely in a quaint flowered net gown, in which green predominated, with a green picture hat and carried an old fashioned bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the roof garden of the Artesia hotel, covers being laid for sixteen. The bridal motif prevailed in the decorations of the table, which was centered with the wedding cake adorned with a miniature bride and groom. Pink and green were used in the floral decorations of roses and streamers, place cards and nut cups. The dinner was in four courses and the company had much fun in securing the rings, coins, thimbles, button, miniature horseshoe, etc., concealed in the cake. The dinner party included besides the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Cowan, Miss Katie Cowan, Don Cowan, Ray Cowan, Mrs. Alice Coulter, Rev. and Mrs. Scoggins, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Allinger, Mrs. Jim Stagner, the Misses Mary McCaw and Catherine Clarke and Mr. Elvy Barker.

The bridal pair went to Carlsbad after the dinner and made the trip through the Caverns Tuesday.

The bride, who is one of Artesia's finest young women, is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cowan. She is a graduate of the Artesia schools in which she was taught for a few years. Later she finished her education at the Southern Methodist University at Dallas Texas. For the past three years she has been instructor in Spanish in the high school at McAllen, Texas, where her acquaintance with the groom began. Mr. Austin, who is a cashier of the State Bank and Trust Co., of McAllen and is a mason and trustee in the Methodist church has purchased a home and the couple will go to housekeeping on their return from their honeymoon trip, which will include a short stay in the mountains and a visit to points in Texas.

ROTARY LUNCHEON

Attendance at Tuesday's Rotary luncheon showed a sharp increase and a number of Rotarians with several visitors enjoyed a splendid program during the luncheon hour. Featuring the program of the day were two vocal solos rendered by C. A. Bulot, with Miss Catherine Clarke at the piano. Rev. Hal Scoggins, who was a delegate to the International Rotary convention at Chicago recently finished a report on the convention activities. Visitors present in addition to those on the program included Dan H. Wilmot, Roy Daniel and W. G. Branch, Roswell; Joe Yates, Harry Reed, John and T. Yates of Fulton, Missouri in the kingdom of Calloway.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Barbara Ann Bulot was three years old on the Fourth of July and her mother, Mrs. C. A. Bulot, gave a little party for her on Saturday. The little children invited were Peggy, Albert and Dorothy Linell, Shirley Watson and Billy Sue and Betty Barnett. The children had a good time playing games and disposing of the birthday cake and other good things to eat provided by Barbara Ann's mother.

FAMILY RE-UNION

Mrs. J. D. Bewley had the pleasure of accompanying her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Sanders, and her eight sisters and one brother and their families through the Carlsbad Caverns, the company numbering twenty-three. After seeing the Caverns the party visited Cloudcroft, Ruidoso, the Indian reservation at Mescalero, El Paso and Juarez. A family reunion of nine sisters and one brother is an unusual thing, especially when all are adults and living in various parts of the country. The visitor were Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Wallace and daughter, Ruth, home here with their daughter, Mrs. Mrs. J. R. Pollock and Mrs. Kent Hamilton, all of Montana, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. The lawn of the Hornbaker ranch, south of town, was the scene of a delightful party on the evening of the Fourth. Simple Crepe Ensemble for Little Girls' Wear

Hints for Women Who Do Their Own Sewing

Remember—To wet all cotton goods thoroughly and dry and press before using in order to break them. Then there will be less shrinking after the goods are made up.

To buy your patterns before you buy your materials, and look them over carefully so that you will be sure to buy the right amounts, and so not waste expensive material or run short of needed goods.

To soak cotton goods that might run as to color in turpentine before washing in strong salt water.

To dry all colored goods in the shade, not in the bright sunshine.

To make children's clothes put of substantial material that will wear and so make the work you put into them worth while.

To make children's everyday clothes out of material which will not only be durable, but which will not easily show the soil, so that you need not constantly be reminding them not to get their clothes soiled.

To think twice before buying anything. Some women waste money each year in buying material they never make up. Buy only what you are sure you will make up into good, useful clothes.

To eat a sensible, nourishing and refreshing lunch on sewing days and to get a little outdoor exercise each day that you spend sewing.—Washington Star.

Jewelry Should Match the Colors and Styles

Particular attention must be paid nowadays to every detail of the costume. It is most important in the present day mode, asserts a fashion writer in the Detroit News, that jewelry should be chosen with an eye to the colors and styles of frocks with which it is to be worn. The following suggestions will help one to choose correctly.

For an afternoon frock of black chiffon, or dull crepe that is dressy but not fussy in character, the right jewelry is: Seed pearls, triple strands of larger pearls, clear crystals, onyx and marcasite, colored stone or flower jewelry in simulated jade and coral.

For a frock of printed silk crepe, nylon or chiffon wear colored stone jewelry emphasizing an important color in the print—or crystal with onyx or onyx with marcasite if there is a note of black in the print.

The sports-going frock of tweed or basket weave is completed by necklaces and bracelets of leather, stone, tweed, nutmegs, etc.

For a black wool frock with white plique or silk crepe trim, pearls of very simple variety should be worn.

The crepe satin frock on severely simple, regal lines requires little jewelry—perhaps no more than a glittering shoulder pin.

Yokes Claim Attention as Decorative Features

Yokes are a prominent decorative feature introduced in contrasting fabric or color or suggested by intricate seaming from which a back cape treatment often emanates. Lace yokes are embellished with appliques of the dress print and plain color yokes sometimes repeat the dress print in embroidery of beads and silk. Beanyais and bead embroideries are delicately applied, one attractive use of the latter forming a large bowknot at the yoke side in white chalk beads. Ombre emplacements define other yoke contours.

Ribbed Weaves

The ribbed silks are the epitome of style and practicality this spring. A navy blue or black frock in one of the ribbed silks, with fingerie touches at neck and wrists, should be a first thought for office wear.

OLD PAPER CURRENCY DOOMED--A FUNERAL PYRE IS HELD DAILY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A steady glow from the capital's city dump grounds, day and night, marks the passing of billions of dollars.

For months a funeral pyre of the large-sized bills of the old currency has been blazing. It is estimated that most of the old paper money now has literally "gone up in smoke." Seven or eight tons of it have been destroyed daily. True to prediction of treasury officials, the old bills, in less than a year from the time they became "doomed dollars" last July, now are almost curiosities.

The one-time purchasing power for luxuries and necessities of life gets quite a formal funeral before it passes into nothingness, however. As an old five or twenty spot, battered and worn from years of journeying, comes limping into port it is received at the treasury department and put into trunks which are carefully sealed.

No one except treasury officials know how much is in the trunks. The bills are taken back to their old home, the place where they were born, for funeral services.

Their birthplace was the bureau of printing and engraving. Here they are placed in a big macerator. The machine makes short work of the green and yellow backs.

Regardless of their history their end is the same—a shapeless mass of dirty white pulp. Mystery, romance and tragedy lingers in those mysterious sealed trunks.

The big macerator works day and night grinding up currency. Old money always is coming into the government treasury and being disposed of in this way. Launching the new currency last July greatly increased the work.

Last October there were 180 tons of old currency stored in the treasury strong boxes awaiting the end.

No radical changes.

But some interesting refinements and a few added features.

For one thing you may now have a paper bail on your Corona, if you prefer the bail to paper fingers.

You may also order your machine equipped with 1, 1½, 2 line spacing. All typewriters will space single or double between lines; but the 1½ space is something new. It gives a very pleasing effect to a letter and allows you to get more words on a page.

There are other interesting things to learn about the latest Corona. We haven't the space here to describe them, but we will gladly explain them fully if you will drop in or phone us.

"PHANTOM CAR" IS NEW CHRYSLER EIGHT

DETROIT, Michigan—The "Phantom Car," episode that had Detroit guessing is now cleared up with an admission by officials of the Chrysler Sales Corporation that they are the sponsors of the cars no one could identify.

Some time ago, Chrysler officials publicly announced that a new series of cars would be brought out in mid-summer, but they failed to mention whether they would be eights. Chrysler engineers long ago perfected eight cylinder engines, but these forthcoming models, certain to be announced this month, will be the first eights ever to bear the Chrysler name.

Meanwhile, several Detroiters say they have seen what they believe to be Chrysler eights on Detroit streets presumably on their way to dealers. They are said to differ widely not only from present Chrysler design, but from any other standard make. If that is true, something entirely new in appearance has been created for the 1931 Chrysler models. They are said to be extremely low and rakish in appearance, with long sweeping lines and a distinctive frontal area and body design. It seems almost a certainty that both lines of cars will have straight eight power plants, although specifications, horsepower rating and detailed equipment still remain a mystery.

Factory prices on the two lines of eights have been reported in the $1,500 and $2,500 range, the former being slightly below the present "77" series, and the latter under the present Imperial price class. So it is reasonable to suppose that the present Imperial and "77" models will yield to new Chrysler eights.

The cars have already made their mark in a series of grueling engineering road tests that always follow exhaustive work in the Chrysler research laboratories, so actual production cars may be expected to represent the last word in performance and design, a fact that has put Chrysler Motors among the three largest producers of motor cars.

A Californian passed on, and after a couple of days and nights in the other place, met a Floridian.

"I don't see anything so much better than California here, he remarked. "Why I always thought I would find heaven so much more wonderful than California, that really, I am a little disappointed."

The Floridian picked a cinder out of his eye. "Brother," he said, "you are not in heaven."—Deming Graphic

KONJOLA ENDED TWO YEARS OF STOMACH MISERY

Again This New And Different Medicine Shows Why It Has Become Famous.

MRS. BERTIE COWAN

Strange, but absolutely true—Konjola, the new and different medicine seems at the very peak of its powers when pitted against the stubborn cases that have held on with bulldog-like tenacity. Take for example, the experience of Mrs. Bertie Cowan, 614 West Second Street, Ft. Worth, Texas, who says:

"For two years the lightest of foods caused misery. At times I had to gasp for breath, and I belched up bits of undigested food. I took soda constantly. My kidneys gave me trouble too. I had backache and had to rise many times at night. But Konjola ended all this, and today my back is free from pain, my nerves are steady, I sleep soundly and wake up every morning rested and refreshed."

Thus Konjola works, swiftly yet surely. It is strongly recommended however, that a complete treatment of from six to eight bottles be used if best results are to be obtained.

Konjola is sold in Artesia at Palace Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

ON REARING CHILDREN FROM CRIB TO COLLEGE

Compiled by the Editors of THE PARENTS' MAGAZINE

If the children have some interest taken up in school which they can carry on, if they paint, draw, or model, or do anything which they can continue at home, Sunday is the time to let them show an admiring family how it is done. If friends come they understand that they will be taken into the household as it is, without interrupting what is going on.

Some camps appreciate parents rather more highly if they visit camp rarely. For this attitude there often has been ample cause, as in the case of the indulgent parent bearing gifts of indigestible goodies and otherwise disrupting camp discipline.

For the boy's room attractive hangings and upholstery materials feature a series of early American prints, depicting scenes from colonial days— instructive as well as decorative. These are available in chintzes, glazed and unglazed, with neutral backgrounds of parchment, green or beige. Some of these pictorial chintzes are sectional in character; one shows the map of Cape Cod for example, and another shows scenes of gayly bandanned nannies picking cotton in the fields of the South, while a third shows the Pilgrims trading with the Indians.

A child does his best work when he is putting some of his own initiative into what he is doing. You can force a child to practice, but that does not make him love music, and it is much better for a child to do a little with music and to love the little he does, than to do much and hate it or be bored by it.

Statistics have been presented to show that 5 per cent of all whooping cough patients develop or have tuberculosis, and a recent analysis of 62 deaths due primarily to whooping cough showed 25 per cent were due to a flareup of an old tuberculous infection.

The Eskimo baby struggles along largely on a meat diet, we are often told, but it is not always pointed out that the Eskimo mother nurses her child till he is four to six years old, and that he eats not muscle meat but the eggs and bone marrow, fish liver and other "insides" that contribute the much-desired vitamins which temperate-zone folks get from sunshine and cod liver oil, vegetables, and fruit. Nature is ever mindful of her own.

Too often parents are guilty of making comparisons among their children to the detriment of one child and the advantage of another. Personal appearance often plays a part in making one youngster feel himself less attractive, less popular than a brother and sister and in such situations a sense of inadequacy begins, coupled with jealousy and dislike for the envied person.

Since the beginning of the present century the annual death rate from tuberculosis has been reduced from more than 200 to approximately 80 per hundred thousand of population, resulting in the saving of more than 100,000 lives annually.

Flowered Crepe Makes This Beruffled Frock

A note of the Civil war days was carried in fashions recently displayed at a fashion revue held in Chicago. New spring frocks shown included modes recalling the fashions in this country in the sixties. The frock is of flowered crepe, featuring ruffles and cape.

Lengthen Skirts

If party dresses are not long enough to suit this year's styles, a six-inch hem of silk net, tulle or chiffon may prove highly satisfactory and decorative. It should match in color.

Long Gloves

Slip on gloves in gray rose suede have no buttons but are 16-button length. They are worn extending above the elbow, though wrinkled slightly at the wrist.

"I reckon," said the farmer, "that I get up earlier than anybody in the neighborhood. I am always up before 3:00 o'clock in the morning.

The second farmer said he was always up before then and had part of the chores done.

The first farmer thought he was a liar and decided to find out, so he got up at 2:00 o'clock and went to his neighbor's house.

He wrapped on the door and the woman of the house opened it.

"Where is your husband?" asked the farmer, expecting to find his neighbor in bed.

"He was around here early in the morning," answered his wife, "but I don't know where he is now."—Hardware Age.

USE A SPRAY AND KILL THE WEEDS

This is the season of the year when patches of perennial weeds are beginning to show up. They dissipate the moisture and the plant food and poorer crops are seen where such weeds grow. Within a short time they will be in full bloom and further identify themselves, says G. R. Quesenberry of the New Mexico State College.

Noxious weeds are widely distributed over the state, but only in small areas which makes them more easily controlled. Close cultivation which would prevent the weeds from developing surface growth would eventually kill them, but few farmers do this.

During the past three years the extension service has been demonstrating rather extensively with chlorates and find that when carefully and thoroughly applied they will kill such weeds as Bermuda grass, Johnson grass, blue weeds and similar perennial weeds.

The best kills have been obtained by treating the weeds late in the season, but good results were secured on all areas treated after the plants were in full bloom.

The solution used was one pound of calcium chlorate dissolved in one gallon of water and applied as a fine mist spray. Every plant should be moistened to get full kills. Any type of sprayer is satisfactory but one that will develop 70 pounds pressure and throw out a fine mist is most efficient. The area to be treated should not be disturbed with cultivating, plowing or mowing, either immediately before or for several months after treating. A light spraying or touching up a few months later is often necessary to get the few weeds that were missed with the first application.

Large animals such as cougars, lynx and even bears, very often lose their lives as a result of an attack on a lowly porcupine. Quills lodge in the animal's mouth, swelling it to a size that makes eating impossible and the victim slowly starves to death.

HOW

COAL AND PEAT DEPOSITS ARE FORMED BY NATURE.—It is generally agreed that coal is of plant origin and was formed in a manner similar to that in which peat is being formed today. A thorough study of peat from its inception to the more mature stages at its greatest depth becomes essential to the understanding of the constitution of coal and its formation. With this objective a study was undertaken of the transformation of plant substances into peat and the composition of a deposit in profile from top to bottom with respect to its major components, their nature, their changes and their relations. Peat formation is largely a problem of microbiology. The most important changes and eliminations during the transformation of plant substances into peat occur while the plant substances are still exposed to free access to air. It has now been satisfactorily proved that bacteria exist in peat and are functioning to all depths of the deposit. A large number of inoculations have been made from the top to the bottom of several peat deposits and it is rare that cultures are not obtained. These cultures are being propagated on wood in the form of sawdust and shavings, on cellulose and on other plant materials contained in flasks and bottles with proper mineral culture solutions. They are still active after seven to nineteen months. Available nitrogen is essential for their activities. How Hornets Build Nests The paper out of which hornets build their nests is made of chewed-up bits of weathered wood gathered from old fences and buildings. As one author describes it: "Round the swampy edges of ponds or in wet ditches wasps and hornets may be seen gathering tough herbaceous filaments, which they fell up into a texture stronger and better able to resist the wind and rain than a paper made of wood scrapings." How Sea Cables Are Laid Specially equipped vessels are employed to lay transatlantic cables. Two vessels generally start, each with one-half of the cable, from the opposite points to be connected, and meet about midocean, where the cable is joined.

UP THE YANGSTZE RIVER IN OLD CHINA LAND

Lieutenant B. K. Kaiser, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Kaiser of the Dayton community, with the 4th regiment U. S. M. C., has written us a detailed account of his trip up the Yangtze river in China, which will no doubt be of interest to many of our readers. Because of the length of the article, we have found it necessary to run it in five or six installments. The article was written from impressions gained by Mr. Kaiser during his two and a half years in China:

The following day the country became especially flat and fertile and the farms were beautiful. There were in some places herds of water-buffalo browsing along the waters edge. Herds, however, are quite unusual. As a rule each and every animal has a small Chinese boy or girl riding on its back. This seems to be a safety precaution against straying or theft, also as there are no fences, the buffalo must be kept away from the crops. They love the water and remain in it for hours at a time with only their backs showing. The crops here were usually planted in picturesque windrows. One windrow would be in grain, the next in cotton, the next millet, the next egg-plant or yams and perhaps the next beans, and so on. The cotton looks very good in places and if it is a productive variety, should yield a bale to the acre. It looks so much better than the puny stuff they grow in the large fields about Tientsin. Up there the season is short for cotton but due to poor transportation facilities in China, each district must be just about self supporting and raise some of all crops instead of just the crop best suited to the region. Then if there is a bad drouth or a flood, a terrible famine ensues. This was the case in parts of Kangsu and Shantung last year. In both cases the situation was made doubly bad, by invading armies and marauding groups of bandits. The people died by the thousands and those who remained were in many cases living on bark or boiled straw. Nearly every year some part of China is visited by famine and to make the matter worse a typhus epidemic usually breaks out in these famine districts.

At two different times during the afternoon, we passed single file lines of pilgrims, in both cases led by a Lama priest. They were probably en route to some holy ground or some temple. There are a thousand customs in China in regards to making pilgrimages to different places for the purpose of absolving from sins. Certain sins require certain pilgrimages or ceremonies, and this extends to relatives and even to the dead though it requires a very complicated ceremony to help the dead in the absolution of their sins. For some especially bad sins, the pilgrim must fall down every so many steps. In no case can a pilgrim make a sight seeing trip out of a pilgrimage. They are supposed to keep their eyes to the front toward the holy ground or whatever may be their destination and they must depend upon the kindness of the people with whom they happen to be among for food and shelter.

We weighed anchor at 4:45 a. m., the following morning. Even in Holland, I never saw a prettier farm country. The grain is already harvested here though in the country we were in yesterday, the crops were a little later. They waste nothing. The heads are carefully cut and the fodder bundled and left in shocks. These shocks are subsequently hauled by bull carts to stacks near the dwellings. The stacks look exactly like little houses with v-shaped roofs and overhanging eaves. The butts of the stalks are all outward.

This day we occasionally saw a few horses. They were of a small frisky breed. Before sundown we passed a small band of mounted soldiers. Soldiers or bandits, it is hard to tell which they were, probably the latter. Many disbanded soldiers become bandits, and often whole armies turn bandit, temporarily and loot nearby villages. The country presented a little bit different appearance today than heretofore. This is a land of willows and you see a great many of them along the rivers edge. Occasionally you see sleds pulled by water buffalo. Even the people look different because they wear picturesque broad-brimmed hats though they differ from Mexican hats in that the crowns are small and v-shaped.

The next day was Friday the 13th. All sailors tend to be more or less superstitious, caused I suppose by the lonely days, nights and weeks on the barren ocean, where fate in the form of sweeping winds, storms, fogs and ocean currents, plays such an important role in their lives. The crew seemed to expect to run aground on one of the many sand banks ever shifting in the upper waters of this river. The skipper never left the bridge during the entire day and we came to anchor early in the evening. During the afternoon, we overhauled a British gun boat, the H. M. S. TEAL, three days out of Hankow. After we had been at anchor for half an hour or more, the British ship hove in sight and came to anchor close inshore off our port quarter. At about 7:30 p. m. we received a message from them inviting our ward-room officers over for dinner. The sampan was lowered away and the skipper and Mason went over and were entertained quite handsomely until 11:00 o'clock. The current was so swift that they had to signal us for the motor sampan in order to return to the ship.

We were underway early the following morning and the day passed quietly. Doc James found out that I was from New Mexico and at dinner told about his trip through New Mexico when coming out to China. He said that in one town, a railroad metropolis, consisting chiefly of a water tank and a side-track, with two box cars on it, that he saw two dogs chasing a jack-rabbit, and that it was so hot that they were all three walking. In memory of the days which I have spent in the hay fields of New Mexico, I did not deny that the above may have been the case. I told him that some people did mind the heat in New Mexico and would move away and that that was why we had such an exclusive type of people.

That evening, the country became rocky and hilly, with a few scattered pines. Were the county left alone for a few years, it would be covered with pines, but the dense population, in their search for fire wood and for timber with which to build their junks and rafts, never allow trees to grow very large. We anchored close-in-shore by a little town. The water's edge was lined with half built junks. The people had had apparently little contact with foreigners. The settlement lacked even the usual missionary home on the hill side. Yellow, half-naked deeply tanned girls yelled at us from the beach. The words that they were yelling at us, I found meant: "Foreign Devils."

The following morning, Mason roused us out of our bunks at day-break, and I might say, not without a lot of grumbling on our part. He said that we were soon to pass what the sailing directions characterized as a "Remarkable Kneeling Josh." The term "Josh" is applied to any image, erection, or phenomena worshipped by the natives or thought to have super-human powers. By the time we had broken out with glasses and cameras, it had come into sight on our starboard bow. We had expected to see something huge and awesome. What appeared before us looked to be a pig sitting over on the river bank, and Mason gave us a big laugh. Upon close examination, however, the Josh did turn out to be interesting. It had large horns and a fierce expression. Mason explained that it was molded of iron and that it was designed and thought by the natives to be able to prevent floods as it would drink all of the water coming above a certain height. Floods and famines are scourges of China and there are naturally many superstitions and customs in dealing with them.

That forenoon, the country continued to be rocky with deep ravines and abrupt hills. By 10:00 o'clock, the blue-grey outline of mountains appeared out of the haze ahead. By 11:00 o'clock, we could see the city of Ichang. On the left loomed the pyramids of Ichang. They are natural hills, but in shape and size they are very similar to the pyramids of Egypt. Further on our left, on the very summit of a precipitous bluff is a white stoned lamasonry (Buddha monastery). There is barely room for the building on the bluff and a sheer drop of two hundred feet or more on all sides. In the back a bridge crosses the gap which separates the rock on which the lamasonry is built to the hill proper.

These lama monks like to detach themselves physically as far as possible, just as they consider themselves detached mentally and spiritually from the mire, the strife, the sin and misery of the masses; from the masses in their blind struggle for physical existence or survival, and in their utter darkness in so far as the reality or the spiritual side of life is concerned.

The Ichang pagoda loomed high on the right and just beyond was the Socony instillation. We tied up alongside and immediately prepared to take on oil.

The U. S. S. Portnay, the gun boat which the Oahu was to relieve, was steamed up and belching black oil smoke. Some of their officers boarded us immediately to turn over reports and records and to go thru the necessary steps in turning over such a job. Within about fifteen minutes they were underway for Shanghai. For six months they had been cruising up and down protecting American shipping on the upper Yangtze. Ever present marauding groups of bandits and pirate junks make it almost impossible for commercial foreign vessels to operate here without some naval protection. To a very few of the crew of the Pennay, Shanghai meant homes and families; to most of them it meant liberty, Women and gay cabarets. Shanghai is a kind of home station for most naval ships that operate in China. In like manner most large commercial firms that operate in China have their headquarters at Shanghai. Shanghai is the pulsating center of industry of commerce of gold, and also of life and gaiety in the Orient. It sometimes reminds me of a great cess pool toward which everything in the far east eventually gravitates. Perhaps, I should say whirlpool and not cess pool because the cream as well as the dregs, in fact most everything may be seen at this great cosmopolitan center of life and activity.

The installation manager was on the dock and Mason introduced us to him. His name was Jesse Poole. He was large, especially about the waist, slow of movement and slow of speech, but was good natured and had a ready flow of humor. Con and I had been worrying somewhat as to how we would be able to proceed on through the gorge as the Oahu was scheduled to remain for a few weeks at Ichang.

Mr. Poole told us that a Socony tanker, the Mei Sha would leave the following morning for Chungking and that we could take passage on her. We had not dreamed of making such ideal connections. Mr. Poole took us right over and introduced us to Captain Mender of the Mei Sha. He was of medium stature with light hair and clear blue eyes; well built and intelligent in appearance. The crew of the Mei Sha consisted of three foreigners and probably about fifty Chinese. There were no Americans aboard but the three foreigners were a pleasant trio. Captain Mender was by nationality, Lithuanian. We found him bright, clean-cut, temperate and well read. He was proud indeed of his little native country on the Baltic, which only twelve years ago declared her independence and escaped the yoke of a sovereign and a people with whom they had nothing in common. He spent hours telling us of his homeland and of his three children back there. During our three weeks on the Mei Sha, Captain Mender treated us as honored guests and did everything within his power to make us at home and comfortable. Con and I immediately moved our scant baggage over to the passenger stateroom on the Mei Sha.

After tiffin, we went out to look over the city. Ichang is quite a large city. It is backed up against a mountain range something like Raton, New Mexico, but out of that mountains flows one of the largest rivers of the world. We did not look over Ichang very closely, in fact we passed through only one section of the city. The filth and the poverty of a Chinese city is depressing to any normal foreigner. We returned to the Oahu and with the ships officers and chief petty officers, challenged the crews baseball team. Con pitched and did very well but we lost by one run in spite of his fanning out at least a dozen of their batters. By the time the game was over, a curious crowd of Cantonese soldiers were watching us and we now noticed a large force of them encamping nearby. These were quite well equipped troops and were on their way to quell some uprising in Szechwan province.

That evening we had our farewell dinner on the Oahu. There were two guests, Jesse Poole and a young lady by the name of Mrs. Harris. Mrs. Harris was the wife of a captain of one of the Yangtze Rapid Steamship Company ships. She was quiet and pretty and in this far inland city seemed to me something like a bouquet in a barnyard. I later found that before marriage, she was an actress and that she came to China from Hollywood. After dinner, Con and I bid farewell to the Oahu officers. It was with considerable regret, as they were a fine crowd and had done everything possible to make our trip pleasant and interesting. We had a rather tiring day so turned in immediately upon returning to the Mei Sha.

HOBBS OIL WORKER IS FATALLY INJURED IN A FALL FROM DERRICK

HOBBS—Ernest McKam, 24, of New Hobbs formerly of Shreveport, La., fell 90 feet from a Continental Oil Co., rig Saturday afternoon. He died on his way to the hospital.

McKam was in the employ of C. A. Jones, rig builder, and was working near the top of the first rig Continental has set up in the Hobbs field when he lost his hold and started falling, bumping each steel cross beam on the derrick as he dropped.

His body was badly torn and lacerated when it finally struck the ground. The remains were shipped to Shreveport.

RUNNING LEVELS IN SE NEW MEXICO NOW

E. E. Harris, of the topographic bureau of the U. S. G. S., has arrived in New Mexico with a party of three assistants to work under the direction of W. B. Lang in running levels in the southeastern portion of New Mexico.

The party has completed its work in the vicinity of Carlsbad and is now running a line from Pearl to Lovington, thence north to Tatum and on into Roswell. Later a line from Tatum north to Portales is to be run, it was said today.

The work being done in New Mexico in the running of levels has established a fundamental base for correlations of stratigraphy of oil and gas work.—Roswell Record.

ESTIMATED 8,000 SEE DISPLAY

The fireworks display at the municipal beach last night was seen by an estimated 8,000 people, who by loud choruses of Ohs and Ahs, expressed their appreciation of the wonders that burst in the sky along the river bank.

It was a significant display and enjoyment of it was increased by a cool night and a delightful breeze.

ODD FELLOWS IN ANNUAL CAMP ON CEDAR CREEK

RUIDOSO—About sixty delegates from the Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges of the White Mountain district attended the annual encampment at Camp Lee Robinson on Cedar creek near here last week. The lodges represented were, Alamogordo, Carriozo, Vaughn, Tularosa, El Paso and Las Cruces.

Mrs. Zoe Glassmire of Carriozo was elected president of the White Mountain association for the coming year and J. L. Langston of Carriozo was elected secretary secretary-treasurer. Miss Margaret Jackson of Tucumcari, president of the Rebekah assembly for New Mexico, was a guest for the occasion.

Preceding the fireworks the municipal band gave one of its always appreciated concerts.

The mass of automobiles, entering the beach parked quickly and leaving in a pack, were handled excellently by the police department, and in all of the apparent jam there wasn't a bit of trouble.—Carlsbad Current-Argus, Saturday.
