Lot Sold Is About Fifth Of Crop And 30,000 Pounds Storage—Clip Comm-Faster Now.

Approximately one-fifth of the clip of this trade area was sold at the first public sale of wool at the Bullock warehouse yesterday. The total amount sold was 30,000 pounds, and the price was 4 1/2 cents per pound. The clip is sold through the State Co-operative Wool Growers Association, but so far as could be learned last week, the growers have not been offered advances. The clip this year is said to exceed 100,000 pounds and is of good quality.

Both men and women are interested in the bill, and it is expected that the clip will be sold in the near future. There is a demand for wool and like commodities, the clip is selling at a low price. The lot yesterday was sold for a price ranging from 4 to 7 1/2 cents per pound.

Shipping loaded out here yesterday was clips from twenty-growers as follows: G. R. Collier, John Ward, Brothers, Chas. Barley, Wiley, Bevy Hughes, R. L. J. H. Alvarado, E. W. Jack McCaw, Sam Hunter, Edgard Watts, Hiram Williams, J. H. Paris, M. E. Walther, Roggin, R. H. Bynum, Bobner and A. Dick Carson, O. L. Caras district and P. McCaw, M. W. McReverend and R. B. McDonald.

Several shearing crews are busy in the section and the wool is expected to come in more rapidly than in the past.

FIRST HAY IS MOVING CROP ABOUT 10 DAYS LATER THAN USUAL

Production About Same As Last Year—A Cold Spring Delayed Cutting Of Hay Which Is Now Well Underway.

The first cutting of hay is well underway, although the first crop is about ten days later than usual due to the early spring freezes. Alfalfa from some of the larger fields will not be on the market before the first of next month.

So far as known Leslie Martin, living southeast of town, was the first farmer to cut his hay this year. Mr. Martin had about fifteen tons of hay down when the big rain came on the 11th and managed to save most of the crop. The first car of hay to leave here was shipped out Friday by the Alfalfa Growers Association and was grown by R. T. Mellard of Hope. Other growers including J. G. Moutray of Lakewood and Jim Vogel have placed several cars of early hay on the market. The new hay is bringing the grower about $7.00 per ton now as compared with $12.00 per ton a year ago.

POPPIY DAY

The annual Poppy Day sale will be conducted next Saturday by the American Legion Auxiliary Ladies of this organization will give their services throughout the day in selling the poppies, which are the only means of support to many disabled veterans and which help many others to eke out an existence. The remaining sixty per cent is put in the treasury of the local unit, to be used to help needy veterans and their families.

Help these unfortunate ones by buying poppies and paying for them as generously as you can.

U. S. SENATE VOTES TO PLACE A TARIFF ON OIL LAST WEEK

The senate tariff coalition at Washington Friday gained the first half of its objective, retaining the oil and coal import taxes in the revenue bill.

Over the filibuster threats and protests of an aroused opposition, it was heading for victory on the other two tariff duties, copper and lumber, at adjournment.

Huey Long (D. La.) halted the tariff steam roller before crowded galleries Friday night to wave the tariff flag even when his associates begged him to stop lest he do the cause harm.

In the midst of his stormy outburst, the red-haired Louisianian drew one of the most severe personal replies from Senator George (D. Ga.) that has been heard on the floor in a long time.

Almost identical line-ups enrolled behind the oil and coal import Texas. The vote for one-half cent a gallon tax on oil was 43 to 37. The vote for the tax of $2 a ton on coal was 39-34.

Information of the successful tariff vote in the senate was contained in a telegram received from Senator Bronson Cutting, Friday afternoon.

COTTON ACREAGE TO SHOW A SMALL CUT

Present prospects point to the fact that the acreage planted in the various crops over this section will show a slight increase over last year, although the proportion of the various crops will be about the same as last year with exception of small grain which is considerably less than last year. Harvesting of the small grain will get underway before the middle of next month and prospects are generally fine for a bumper crop.

The small home garden plot has been materially increased over this section with more farmers giving attention to growing and canning vegetables for their home needs. The fruit crop is below normal with many of the earlier varieties killed by late spring freezes. Cherries, the one dependable crop for the area made a light yield this year, due to unfavorable weather and the ravages of birds.

Acreage planted in row crops is expected to show a slight increase due to some difficulty experienced in getting cotton up after the heavy rains and to the fact that more farmers are turning their attention to feeding lambs.

Cotton acreage will not show the anticipated decrease despite the repeated warnings of cotton organizations and government agencies that we may see three cent cotton this fall unless the acreage is curtailed. As a whole the acreage in this section may show a total reduction of ten per cent, although the acreage on many farms has been actually increased. The federal crop loans granted in this section have been the only effective factor in the acreage reduction campaign.

MEMORIAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED HERE

The program to be given at the Methodist church will start at 10:00 a. m. on Monday. The Rev. H. G. Scoggins will deliver the principal address with an appropriate program of music. After the program at the Methodist church Legionnaires and their friends will repair to the Woodbine cemetery, where the graves of all World War veterans will be decorated as well as veterans of other wars.

THE BACCALAUREATE SERVICES SUNDAY DREW RECORD CROWD

Crowd Fills The Methodist Church For First Of The Programs—The Rev. H. G. Scoggins Delivers Address.

The Methodist church was filled to capacity Sunday evening for the first program of the commencement week. The chancel of the large church was beautiful with a profusion of roses, larkspur and other spring flowers. The high school orchestra under the direction of Prof. Harp, rendered the processional number as the class of forty-four members entered the auditorium and took their places in the center of the church. The offertory by Mrs. Florence Morgan, a hymn, "Gallilee" by Cadman, sung by the high school chorus, Mrs. Morgan director and the recessional by the orchestra, were all excellent musical numbers and were much enjoyed. The invocation, Scripture reading and benediction were given by Rev. W. B. McCrory. Rev. Harold Scoggins, pastor of the Methodist church, delivered the class sermon upon the theme: "The Penalty of Success," and gave an unusual but most thought compelling address.

He used the text "Verily they have received their reward," speaking of the dangers which attend upon success in unworthy endeavors. The warning sounded by Jesus was a warning of dangers not of failure but success in the wrong direction. He pointed out that any man who succeeds is fairly certain of the applause and praise of his fellow men, be he prizefighter, millionaire, lawyer, politician, flagpole sitter, endurance dancer or even gangster. We are a generation of hero worshipers. Furthermore, said the preacher, any one who wholeheartedly and persistently tries hard enough to do a thing, be it good or bad, worthy or unworthy, has reasonable assurance that he will succeed. Since success is possible (Continued on last page, column 2)

GRASSHOPPERS MAY DAMAGE CROP ADVISE FARMERS TO POISON

Grasshoppers by the millions are reported to be harboring on the ranges near town. The hoppers described as the "Jumbo" hopper have not yet affected the vegetation on the range, but if they continue to grow and multiply, they may become a serious menace to the stockman as well as the farmer.

The ground northwest of town in several places is reported to be literally black with the hoppers. The insects have been observed to be moving in a northwest direction and will damage the Cottonwood section unless checked. County Agent Wunsch last week submitted an effective poison formula which is recommended as a means of checking the hoppers before they do serious damage to growing crops. The formula follows: Bran mash poison can be made and put out along the edge of the fields at a small cost.

Bran wheat (large flakes better) 25 pounds; white arsenic or Paris green 1 pound; Oranges or lemons, pulp and juice from six; molasses 2 quarts; water about four gallons.

The bran and arsenic should be mixed well together. The orange juice and pulp added with the water and then the molasses added last. All should be well mixed. Enough water should be used to make the whole moist. As the mash dries out rapidly here and the hoppers eat it best when damp it should be scattered out in the evening. The hoppers usually rest during the day and thus are thirsty and hungry when they start eating in the evening. The molasses attracts, thus good strong smelling kind is best to use.

New Wells Promise Oil Activity In Lea County

Promising Gas Flow Is Developed In Leonard-Levers Well — Several New Tests To Start In Lea County.

One of the principal features of the oil activity in Eddy county during the past week was the development of 685,000 feet of gas in the state No. 7 of Leonard and Levers in the SW SE sec. 19-17-30 at a depth of 970 feet. Gas was found in the State No. 5 of the same company at about the same level and is not regarded as significant except that it shows the gas potentialities of this section. A report that the State No. 7 would be carried down as an oil test was denied yesterday by one of the operators.

New locations staked last week in the Hobbs and Lea sectors in Lea county will add interest to Lea county's development. In the Lea area the Texas Company is reported moving materials for a test to be known as the No. 3-A State in lot 2, sec. 2-21-33. The Midwest Refining Co., is preparing to start on two new tests, these being the No. 29 Turner in the NW 1/4 sec. 34-18-38 and the State No. 26, SE 1/4 sec. 9-19-38. Another location planned for the southeastern part of Lea county and rumors that another location has been made or is to be made shortly will focus more attention on this particular area. The Tidal Oil Co., is reported to be planning a location in the SW corner of the NE sec. 8-21-36.

The R. D. Compton Oil Co., is rigging to start the Emerson No. 1, SWSE sec. 20-0-24, northwest of Roswell.

A local officer relates his experience in trying to enforce the state auto license law. He states that he made two trips out of town to investigate the case. It can be reasonably figured that he must have driven his car at least fifty miles in the investigation. He found one set of license plates had been used on three different cars. He made two telephone calls, one of which the motor vehicle department refused to pay for, and the phone call totaled 98 cents. The officer drew his fine money which was $1.00. The question is how much profit did the officer make out of the transaction. We leave that to the algebra student, who has studied quadratic equations. And then we wonder why the state license law is not enforced? Let Gadget Jake answer.

It may be a rather painful admission, but it is true nevertheless that the failure of the law enforcing organization to cope with many crimes, is due largely to the indifference of the average individual in co-operating properly with the law enforcement body. There have been occasions where flagrant violations of the law have been known by creditable citizens, but these men or women were too timid to report them. Generally the timid soul fears retribution from the person committing the crime or are afraid the expose may hurt his or her business. The gangster and criminal has not been unmindful of this condition, which has unwittingly aided the gangster in building up an organization.

During the residence of the writer in this section of the Pecos valley, now almost a decade, he has met many people who have consistently nursed a grouch. In the days past when times were more prosperous, these people could find something to grumble over. When most of us had a little money, prices were too high and now that we are enjoying or rather enduring low prices, these self same individuals are complaining of hard times. A good deal of the time has been spent in talking about the present financial condition which all of us have realized, but little constructive good has been accomplished.

Market promises are futile; hopes fail one another. It is as bad in most commercial enterprises, whatever their nature. But the principle of diversification is as true as it ever was. The farm family can live to some extent at least upon the products of their own farm. That is the first law of safety in present circumstances—having plenty of milk and butter, beef and pork, eggs and poultry and garden vegetables, feeding almost worthless feeds to produce foods that can be used, simply must be done by the farmer.—Curry County Times.

According to recent estimates, the government is spending seven million dollars more each day than it receives in revenues. This amounts to $5.00 a minute. If it continues until the end of the fiscal year, the federal budget will miss balancing by the sum of $2,000,000,000.

Nothing could better show the nature and importance of the tax problem in this country. Increased governmental expenditures can result in only two things—higher taxes and bonded indebtedness, or the failure of American credit.

A "hick town" is described as a place where Americans conduct their business in safety without bribing aliens to let them alone. The number of hick towns is rapidly decreasing in the United States.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

There are 100 relatives of congressmen on the government pay rolls. This includes relatives of the same surname only. Probably there is an equal number of relatives on the pay roll with a different name.

And the grass hoppers rise up to plague the farmer. The question is, how much money can the farmer spend fighting the hoppers under the present market outlook.

FARM NEWS

H. C. Stewart, extension horticulturist and County Agent W. A. Wunsch held five demonstrations on grafting and budding pecans. Over one hundred grafts were made and these meetings were attended by 24 men all of whom learned how to do the actual work in grafting. Scions were furnished by the Wolfe Nurseries and consisted of the four most standard varieties, the Burkett, the Texas prolific, the Alexander and the Western Schley. Mr. Stewart also discussed the improvement of native trees, soils, varieties, grades and standards, insect enemies and spraying. The meetings were held at the homes of Huling Usery, Dean Smith, M. N. Cunningham, Dr. Culpepper and W. E. Flint.

Three demonstration meetings were held for the cantaloupe growers. At these meetings various methods of culture were discussed by Mr. Stewart and fertilization was particularly stressed. Insect enemies were outlined and spray methods were demonstrated. Mrs. Stewart demonstrated the making of nico dust. This dust can be made at a cost of 8 cents per pound buying the ingredients locally. This dust is made by using hydrated lime placing it in an air tight container then adding an ounce of black leaf forty for every pound of lime. Stir well in the can and let it stand for about ten minutes then add a half pound of concentrated lye to the fifty pounds of mixture place the lid on tight and roll or shake the container for ten minutes or so. Small rocks can be added to help in the stirring. This dust will ready to use after it has stood an hour. It is the gas that kills thus the can should be kept air tight. The dusting should be done during the warm part of the day but if the wind gives trouble dusting can be done in the morning, if so, heat the dust until warm.

Eighty-two men attended the three meetings held a Hope and forty men attended the meeting held here. Mr. Stewart found the men interested in the cantaloupe culture and predicts that this project should be profitable this season in Eddy county.

The orchards at Hope and Artesia were also inspected and it was found that a fair crop of fruit is still present. Mr. Stewart advised the orchard men to spray for there is a light crop of fruit all over the state thus the apples produced should sell at a profit. Miss Veda Strong will hold a demonstration in the uses of pinto beans for the ladies clubs. The Otis meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Robert McCall on Friday, May 27 at 2:00 p. m. and the Cottonwood meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Rambo this afternoon at 2:00 p. m.

HEALTH COLUMN

Conducted by Dr. J. R. Earp, Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health.

PREVENTION OF CANCER

The prevention of cancer depends upon the avoidance of correction of various forms of chronic irritation or inflammation which evidently favors the development of this disease.

Cancers of the mouth, for example, are caused by a combination of bad teeth, tobacco and chronic infection. The importance of good dentistry and a clean mouth in this connection is obvious.

Most cancers of the skin develop in other abnormal conditions of the skin which have preceded them. The correction of such conditions will largely prevent the occurrence of skin cancers.

The majority of cancers occurring in the genital organs of women are preceded by chronic inflammation due to injuries received at childbirth or to some form of infection. The proper repair of such injuries and the treatment of such infections will do much to prevent this type of cancer in women.

In connection with the breast, there is one practical precaution to be taken which will give considerable protection against cancer in that organ: every definite tumor occurring in the breast should be removed. Such a tumor is always questionable. It is never possible to be certain that it will not become cancerous, if it is not already cancer; and its local removal and microscopic examination is therefore the safest procedure. Permitting such a tumor to remain without attention may result in an entirely avoidable disaster.

A periodic physical examination by a physician who is familiar with the predisposing causes of cancer will do much to prevent the occurrence of many cancers.

The preventable types of cancer, comprising possibly one-half of the total number of cases, and causing about one-third of the deaths, furnish the most hopeful field for the diminution of suffering and the reduction of mortality from this devastating disease.

This concludes the series of ten articles on cancer prepared for the New Mexico Bureau of Public Health by the American Society for the Control of Cancer. Inquiries for further information on this subject or for pamphlets dealing with the recognition of cancer may be addressed either to the New Mexico Bureau of Public Health, Santa Fe, or directly to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 25 West 43rd Street, New York City.

Marking the End of War's Long Debauch

IT WAS the armistice. The eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, 1918, marking the end of modern man's most terrible debauch of blood-letting; starting the desolating hang-over period from which the combatants of the World War—both victors and vanquished—are just emerging.

And around the world there was universal rejoicing and peace.

The blaring of sirens, the blowing of whistles, the ringing of bells, the waving of flags. Streets littered with paper, surging crowds, parades and demonstrations; Caruso singing from the fifteenth-floor balcony of his Broadway hotel; negro redcaps in Grand Central station cake-walking through the concourse behind one porter who was pushing an invalid chair in which was a stuffed figure of the Kaiser.

Clemenceau—the old Tiger of France—expressing his satisfaction of victory before the French chamber. Rome—wild with victory; Tokyo echoing with cheers—an allied world delirious with joy.

Happy, dancing, singing groups silhouetted around the campfires, and in the villages behind the lines, lights appeared in windows that had been darkened throughout the war, welcoming beams of yellow radiance invited to warmth and comfort within. The sound of popping corks in crowded cafes and restaurants. All of it was a part of that corridor of light across wartorn Europe, the glow, the heat, and the warmth. It was peace.—Washington Post.

Memorial to the Nation's War Heroes

ARLINGTON was never destined to be a battlefield. It was fated to be instead a vast monument to the fruits of battle. There were brought the dead from those terrible fields where, for four years, the youth of North and South slew each other in fratricidal warfare. There rose, in token that North and South should no longer shed each other's blood, a monument to the Confederacy. There, without distinction of state or section, now lie dead from the Spanish war—including the sailors of the Malne—the Philippine insurrection, and the World war.

No soldier, from the Unknown in his magnificent emplacement above the river to the humble Vermont or Iowa private brought with the other shattered wreckage of the Wilderness or the Rappahannock, could ask a lovelier resting place, or one more peaceful. Despite the constant going and coming of visitors, the place is quiet—far quieter, probably, than it was in the early days when Mr. Custis used to allow the people of Washington to hold picnics down near the river in Custis grove. And the visitor can wander along shaded roads and paths and be aware of the heavy march of history, of exquisite natural beauty.

Of old, unhappy far-off things, And battles long ago.

of yesterday's bereavement, and of a pain so old that it has long since ceased to be pain.

The visitor may pass in review almost the whole history of the Republic—pioneer days, for Arlington was once a wilderness sold for a few hogsheads of tobacco; Revolutionary days; years of far-flung internecine warfare, shaking the nation to its foundations; records of fighting on the western plains and on the islands of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans; and finally, the sacrificial years of 1917 and 1918. But he will come back to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier with an unanswered question—with the question, indeed, which more than any other in these latter days troubles humanity. For there is still space for other vallant dust.

PRO. BATTLE MOVES TO CHICAGO IN JUNE

The battle over prohibition moves into the Chicago sector next month with the greatest concentration of forces since the dry laws were enacted.

The national political convention—Republican June 14, Democrat June 27—will be besieged and beseeched by the campaigners for and against prohibition.

Liberal organizations, most of them comparatively young, will attempt to show their strength in mass meetings; parades and demonstrations.

“Dry” forces have sent out the call for a big three-day “loyalty convention” just in advance of the republican meeting and they hope to recapture the militant spirit of the days when prohibition was being enacted into law.

“Unless we retain our enthusiasm the dry will go to sleep and the wets will win,” reads a letter inviting midwest ministers to the rally.

Both sides plan to concentrate their efforts on the prohibition planks in the party platforms and both, at this stage of the game, profess confidence of victory.

Prohibitionists will hold their meetings in a church within three blocks of the Chicago stadium where the political conventions are to be held.

THE DEEP DRILLING PROSPECTS BRIGHTEN

A near shortage of oil has been predicted in a new survey recently completed by Todd M. Pettigrew of New York, president of the Petroleum Management Corporation. According to this survey the oil industry has apparently turned the corner and better times are ahead. This condition, if true should eventually mean considerable more development for this immediate section and makes bright the prospects for deep production in the old Artesia field within the near future.

Those who are familiar with petroleum development of this section will recall that many operators have often expressed a wish to see a real deep test in the Artesia field. A deep test for the area immediately east of the river has been a prospect since the field was discovered in 1924, but because of a decline in the industry the possibility became remote with the finding of prolific pools in the southwest and in east Texas. It should also be remembered that there has been a considerable improvement in the deep drilling methods in use in the meantime and this has added materially to the prospect once the oil industry is well stabilized.

The deepest test made in the Artesia field when the area was being proven was made by the Ohio Oil Co., in the north part of the pool on state land when a hole was drilled to a depth of slightly less than 4,100 feet. This well was considered a fair test for the time being but 6,000 and 8,000 foot holes are not uncommon in many fields today. Oil operators say that the Pennsylvania formation underlies the area east of the river at 5,000 to 6,000 feet. To swing back to the territory immediately west of the river, a territory that has been generally condemned by the majors, there is even a better prospect of getting the Pennsylvania at a 1,000 foot shallower level, where structural conditions may be found encouraging.

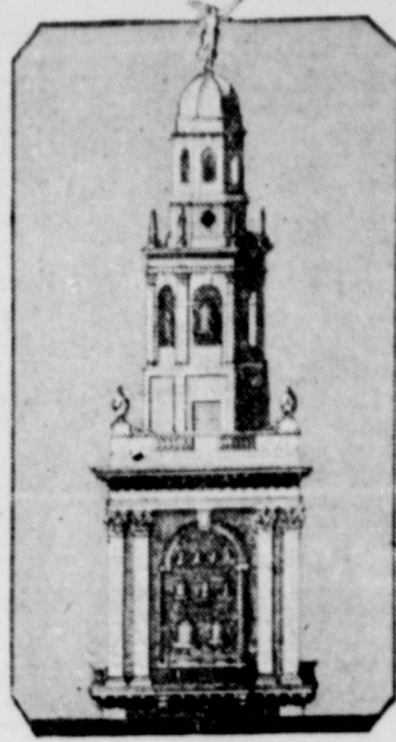

In his survey of the petroleum industry, Mr. Pettigrew says: "Estimating the consumption of crude oil at one billion barrels for 1932, which is approximately the figure for both 1930 and 1931, additional net profits of $500,000,000 will accrue to the oil companies and petroleum producers of the United States this year as the direct result of recent price advances. Crude oil prices, the survey points out, have increased 50 per cent in the last year while refinery gasoline and tank wagon prices have advanced 25 per cent in the same period. Still further advances quite as drastic as those which already have been made, may be looked for during the next twelve months, while imports of oil from abroad within the next three years will be forced upon the country due to the same conditions which have brought about recent price advances."

Predicts Crude Shortage
With regard to over-supply, the survey says in part: "The United States faces, within a much shorter time than most people imagine, an actual shortage in its crude oil supplies. During the last five years it has not been the discovery of new pools that has produced an oversupply. All the new pools found in that period would not have prevented an acute shortage. It has been because development of very strong alloy steel, which lightens the weight of drill stems and increase their strength has made possible the drilling of horizons which profitably could not be reached before. As a result of suddenly improved drilling equipment and drilling methods, the fields that have been discovered by approximately 850,000 wells during 75 years, of which 150,000 were dry holes, were drilled to depths of 3,000 to 4,000 feet below the depths previously developed. The field which had produced to depths of 3,000 to 4,000 feet some eight billion barrels of oil during something less than 70 years, were in the last five years in a large measure duplicated as to production without the expense and hazards of explorations and the time element which always is involved in locating new structures."

New Methods Used
"These deep drilling campaigns known structures, combined with water-flooding, the application of the air-gas lift, and other methods for more rapidly exhausting the supplies of oil in known sands have been responsible for 4,500,000 out of the 6,000,000 barrels or more that were suddenly available. But even with all this, the over-supply was not as great, when reflected in terms of days of consumption, as the industry has seen a dozen times since its beginning 75 years ago."

"Since the beginning of the industry, total production has only amounted to about fourteen billion barrels. Although improved cracking methods, hydrogenation and other scientific developments make one barrel of oil do more than two would have done a few years ago, consumption is at the rate of 1,000,000,000 barrels a year and is steadily increasing. There are comparatively few areas which offer the possibilities of new wild-cat fields. Most of them have been partially defined by previous drilling and are held in large solid blocks. Therefore, such new fields as can be discovered can be expected in rare cases only to be split up into many ownerships and incapable of control as were the old fields that have been redrilled at new depths in the last few years."

As to conditions in the industry itself, the survey points out that the price structure, notwithstanding recent advances, is steady and that more harmony exists than at any time in many years.

The Bride—Yes, some more cups. I've used ours all up.

Husband—How?

The Bride—Well, the cook book says any old cup without a handle will do for measuring, and it has taken all we've got to get the handle off without breaking the cup.

FORTY

If men under forty knew what men over forty know, would be fewer poor old men and the spectre of poverty old age would largely be removed.

Some men must learn by experience. Others will profit by observation. The men who choose to profit by observation will not be haunted by the thought of the necessity of their declining years facing poverty. This class usually seek sound financial advice before departing with their earned money.

Most of us too, need to work on our foresight rather than our hindsight. Your hindsight will never provide much comfort for you as you travel down life's pathway, but a better developed foresight may save you a lot of worry.

A good plan for the average man is to sleep over the investment before making it. Hasty decisions rarely bring happiness.

Nation's Gold-Star Mothers

American gold-star mothers in France for visits to the graves of sons who died in the World war gave an impressive background last year for the most extensive observance of Memorial day yet held abroad.

Troops fired volleys in salute of the dead at the American cemeteries throughout France. Taps were sounded, and dignitaries spoke. But the feature of the day were the trips before and after the ceremonies by the war mothers to the graves of those they lost more than 11 years before.

Lesson of Memorial Day

Memorial day is one of the most impressive, most touching and most typically American of the days we set apart. From earliest childhood one remembers the gathering of the old veterans, the march under the warm spring sun and the graveyard where gay flowers and the bright Stars and Stripes are placed at the headstones of the dead.

It is, indeed, an easier question for Shakespeare to ask than for the average person to answer. The day symbolizes so much sacrifice and recalls those critical moments so rare in the history of a great nation that words and phrases too often fail. But if we cannot express all that the day embodies, we can let it remind us that from the birth of the Republic there have always been men and women who have so richly prized America that they were willing to give up their all that America might survive.

Roses for the Veterans

The mothers on the byways have looks of yearning sadness, And helmets by the stairways flood homes with memories; A sense of loss on gay days subdues the note of gladness, While winter with its gray days moans through the lonely trees.

Plant roses by the highways for boys that manned the trenches, Place stars along the skyways for aces of the clouds, And maples on the boulevards which grief with tears bedrenches; Let cedars in lone graveyards guard those our love enshrouds.

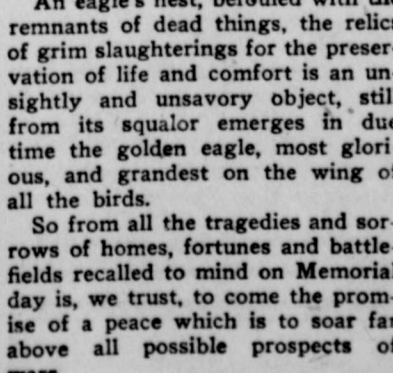

Honor Both Blue and Gray

As Memorial day approaches and we prepare to observe the beautiful custom long since established of remembering the heroic dead it is interesting to read the account given by a leading newspaper of the inauguration of that custom.

In an editorial written in 1877 we read: "Preparations for observing Decoration day were carried in this year upon a far more extensive scale than ever before. For three or four years attempts have been made to effect a co-operation between the survivors of the Federal and the Confederate armies and to insure an equal honor to the remains of the deceased Northern and Southern soldiers and sailors. This year for the first time in history the veterans of both armies will march together through the streets to strew with flowers the graves of those who perished in the great war. Such an event marks a new epoch. It is the apotheosis of the revived feeling of brotherhood. There has been a great deal of oratory on this subject and some charming verses have been written, but now the banner of fraternity is flung to the breeze without hesitation and with faith in public approval. The Blue and the Gray clasp hands above the tomb of their fallen braves, and in the great future of this reunited country there is to be no resurrection of sectional feuds and dead and buried bitterness.

Their Deaths Not in Vain

An eagle's nest, befooled with the remnants of dead things, the relics of grim slaughterings for the preservation of life and comfort is an unsightly and unsavory object, still from its squalor emerges in due time the golden eagle, most glorious, and grandest on the wing of all the birds.

So from all the tragedies and sorrows of homes, fortunes and battlefields recalled to mind on Memorial day, we trust, to come the promise of a peace which is to soar far above all possible prospects of wars.

They whose loss we recall by no means died in vain, since they won the victory for peace and the right. Could we but hear them from their places of rest, they would doubtless be declaring in unanimous chorus, that their discomforts, sufferings and deaths all made up but a trifling price to pay for a peace, which will assure to mankind an ending of all wars.

Adding Zest to Daily Menus; New Ideas to Aid Housewife

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

EVERYWHERE busy women are on the lookout for dishes that are flavorful, substantial and practical to help them in the task of planning nutritious and varied meals. At times the housewife may feel that her supply of ideas is exhausted, and the planning of menus becomes a problem, even though she has much more in the way of ready-to-serve foods and fresh fruits and vegetables throughout the year than any generation of women before her. But we can find much in recipes that will be different and unusual. These suggested below are excellent, savory, main dishes that will form the "backbone" of economical dinners about which your family will enthuse.

Shepherd's Pie -- New England Style:

2 cups mashed potatoes, 1 medium can Oven Baked Red Kidney Beans, 1 tablespoon minced onion, if desired; 1 tablespoon Prepared Mustard, 1/2 cup grated American cheese, paprika. Line a buttered casserole with well seasoned mashed potatoes, saving out enough for top. Place in prepared casserole, kidney beans combined with onion, if desired. Spread beans with mustard. Cover with remaining mashed potatoes. Sprinkle top with grated cheese and paprika. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) for 15 minutes or until brown. Serve hot. Serves 6.

American Chow Mein:

2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup onions, coarsely chopped; 1 1/2 cups celery, coarsely chopped; 1/2 cup water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 medium can Oven Baked Red Kidney Beans, 1 tablespoon flour, 2 tablespoons molasses, 2 cans chow mein noodles. Melt butter in large saucepan, add onions and cook until lightly browned. Add celery, water and salt and simmer gently 10 minutes. Add kidney beans and simmer 5 minutes longer. Blend together flour and molasses and add to bean mixture, stirring until mixture thickens. Pour over crisp noodles on a large platter. Serve hot. Serves 6.

Braised Veal and Vegetable Dinner:

1 1/2 lbs. veal steak, 1 inch thick; flour, salt and pepper, 2 cups water, 4 medium sized potatoes, 4 medium sized onions, sliced; 4 carrots, 2 stalks celery, 1/2 cup Chili Sauce, 1 teaspoon Prepared Mustard, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce. Flour veal on both sides and saute in butter in iron skillet to a golden brown. Season with salt and pepper. Add water and cover, covered, for 15 minutes. Add vegetables cut in quarters, cover and bake in moderate oven for about 45 minutes, or until they are tender. Add sauce made of chili sauce, mustard, Worcestershire Sauce and 1/2 cup water. Uncover and cook just enough to heat sauce and to brown vegetables very slightly.

Baccalaureate--

in most any endeavor one should be very cautious in selecting their goals and aims in life, lest they attain their ends and find like Jesus found of the success of the Pharisees that they "had their reward," and that it was an empty and futile thing.

Success is dangerous for several reasons, namely that it gives a man certain power through influence for either good or evil, depending on whether the achievement is good or evil. Success in wrong doing encourages others to attempt the same wrongs. Further the success of self-seeking or evil individuals injures them selves by blinding them to their defects and making the full realization of their greatest possibilities. And thereby their characters are weakened and worthy success is made impossible. "Avoid therefore," concluded the speaker, "entering upon unworthy pursuits. Not for fear of failure, but for fear that you will succeed in the undertaking, and that the time will come when there is no further development possible and you will realize of your life that "Verily you have received your reward," and there is nothing ahead to hope for."

The sermon was very brief, the whole service lasted less than an hour but it was a most impressive service.

A THOUGHT FOR POPPY DAY

Saturday will be Poppy Day throughout the United States. On this day millions of Americans will wear the little red poppy of France and Flanders in memory of the men who gave their lives in the World War. More than one hundred thousand of the finest young men of our country died in the great struggle of 1917 and 1918, and we know that every true American holds the memory of their service and sacrifice in a sacred place in his heart. The little red poppy worn on the coat Poppy Day will be the outward symbol of the reverence in which we hold the memory of these men.
