Many Wells Are Completed In Oil Sector In The Past Week

Three Locations Staked; One in Culberson Co., Texas; Several Wells to be Treated With Acid; Big Gasser Still Burns.

The increased oil activity experienced in this section for the past two months is reflected this week in an unusual number of completed oil wells, located principally in Lea county.

In Eddy county, The Skelly Oil Co., Lee No. 1, sec. 22-17-31, has been tested and made thirty-eight barrels of oil in eighteen hours. Workmen are preparing to acidize the well. The status of the Etz, Hammond and Keyes, State No. 1 and the Tigner, Etz and Keyes, Keyes No. 1, remains unchanged from last week.

In Lea county, the Thomas No. 1 of the Humble Oil and Refining Co., sec. 23-24-36, has been drilled to 3602 feet and tested. The Thomas made 1,800 feet of sulphur water in one hour and was plugged back to 3592 feet and workmen are now running tubing. A more interesting well is the McDonald No. 2 of the Ohio Oil Co., sec. 14-22-36, which when drilled to 4350 feet developed sulphur water. At 4100 feet the McDonald made 130 barrels of sulphur water in nineteen hours. The well is being plugged back to 3850 feet.

Other completions made are the Empire Gas and Fuel Co., Lindley No. 2-B, sec. 13-25-36, which was drilled to 3277 feet and tested with an estimated open flow of 557 barrels with 1,000,000 feet of gas. Two wells were completed by the Phillips Petroleum Co., in the Cooper area, these being the Woolworth No. 5, sec. 27-24-36, drilled to 3504 feet and when tested flowed 206 barrels in one hour with 2,500,000 feet of gas. Also the Woolworth No. 7, in sec. 23-24-36, which when drilled to 3500 feet flowed ten barrels per hour with 500,000 feet of gas.

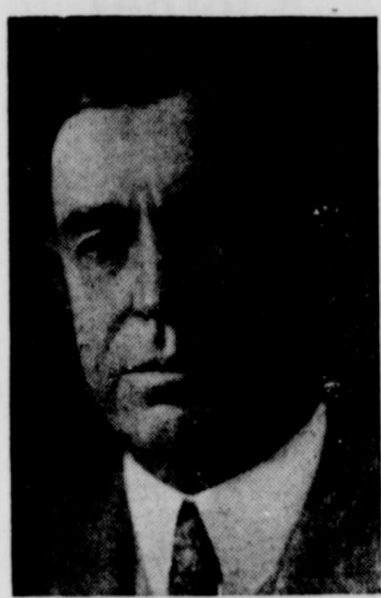

The Repollo Oil Co., Hanagan No. 1, sec. 12-25-36, was completed at 3322 feet for eight barrels per hour with 6,000,000 feet of gas. Operations are preparing to give acid treatment. A well midway between the Jal and Cooper pools, still continues to attract its share of interest, this being the Ike Ogg No. 1 of The Texas Company, sec. 35-24-36, which is drilling a plug at 3523 feet.

A heavy gasser developed in the Humble Oil and Refining Co., Coates No. 1, sec. 10-24-36, is still affire, although the flames are being brought under control. At 3355 feet this well blew out making 38,000,000 feet of gas and caught fire several feet away from the derrick. Flames are creeping up 500 feet around the well and workmen have pumped in 10,000 sacks of mud and 4,000 sacks of cement to check the flames.

LOCAL MERCHANT IS OPTIMISTIC OVER BUSINESS OUTLOOK

There are several factors present to indicate local business is decidedly on the upturn. The determining factor among others is that buyers are demanding today a better class of merchandise, according to W. C. Thompson, manager of the Peoples Mercantile Co. A more optimistic outlook has enabled Mr. Thompson, along with many other local merchants, to buy choice patterns and styles of wearing apparel and dress goods from the leading style centers. "Not only are the best goods sought after, but the general demand has enabled us to stock a larger assortment of goods than we have heretofore been able to stock without a loss," Mr. Thompson stated. "Every week we are receiving new goods and the quality and style is outstanding enough to create an increasing demand," he said. "Now our assortment is competitive with that offered in the larger centers," he asserted.

SPEAKERS PLEAD FOR ELECTION OF ENTIRE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Tingley Promises to Fire Progressives from State Offices; Chavez Cites His Record As State Congressman.

About 250 voters heard the democratic speaking at the majestic theater Tuesday afternoon. The speakers appeared here after making a tour of Lea county, which included Tatum, Lovington, Hobbs, Jal, Cooper and Eunice.

H. G. Watson served as chairman of the meeting and introduced the speakers, the first of whom was Fred Wilson, state senator from Albuquerque.

Wilson's talk was principally along taxation and in defense of the sales tax. According to Mr. Wilson, the state has enjoyed a tax reduction of about twenty-seven percent. Eddy county's reduction amounts to about twenty-six percent.

Mrs. W. H. Wharton of Tucumcari, representing the young democrats and the democratic women urged the young voters and the ladies to vote the straight democratic ticket.

Clyde Tingley, mayor of Albuquerque and candidate for governor, pledged his best efforts to build the state, if elected governor. He said New Mexico needs vision, it needs advertising in order to bring more people here.

"If elected governor I will be governor of all the state," he said. He said he had agreed with his opponent not to sling mud in the campaign, but from a certain paper he had seen where the mud slinging had started.

No Progressives On Payroll He said he had planned not to make a single promise, but he had found it necessary to make one promise, and that was to discharge all progressives from state offices and state boards.

Senator T. B. Meers of Portales paid a tribute to both Tingley and Chavez in a short talk and defended the sales tax, citing tax reductions made possible by this act.

BIG GASOLINE TRUCK TANK IS DESTROYED BY FIRE FRIDAY A. M.

A large oil truck belonging to J. C. Floore, Sr., was destroyed by fire at an early hour Friday morning when the truck and gasoline tank left the highway in the edge of Tularosa. The accident occurred between 4:00 and 5:00 o'clock Friday morning when the lights on the truck went out as the drivers, French Gray and M. Murphy were rounding a curve. The gasoline tank was wrenched from the truck in some manner and dropped in the bottom of the Tularosa creek, a distance of about twenty feet. Both the truck and tank were destroyed by fire. The loss was partly covered by insurance.

Damaging Gas Flames In Spectacular Fire In Cooper Area Now Under Control

Gas escaping from a leaky casing in the Humble Oil and Refining Co., Coates No. 1 well in the Cooper area of Lea county ignited early Monday morning and after a terrific fight by men was believed under control late Monday night. The well had started to crater. Trouble developed several days ago with the gas under tremendous pressure escaping and it was believed it would be remedied when it took fire. A crew of eighteen men trained in fighting oil well fires was summoned from the Wink, Texas, office of the company and they arrived at noon Monday with special equipment. The Hobbs fire department was summoned and all the foamate equipment in Hobbs was rushed to the scene.

SIXTY-FIVE PEOPLE ATTEND ALLOCATION MEET HERE FRIDAY

No Change Made in New Mexico Allowable; Oil Men Hear Methods of Allocation Explained by Jack Steele.

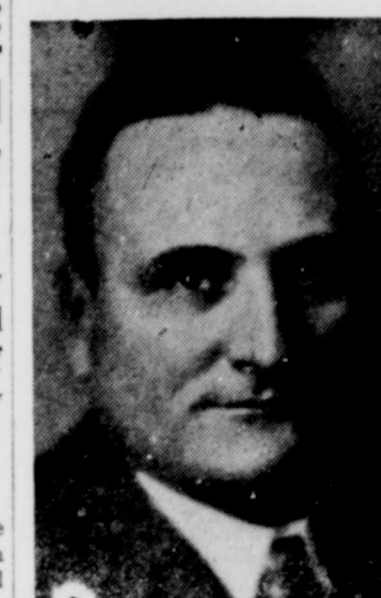

Approximately sixty-five state and federal representatives with representatives of practically all the producing companies in New Mexico, attended the monthly allocation meeting Friday, called by C. J. Dexter, New Mexico chairman. The chief purpose of the meeting was to ascertain ways, if any could be found, of increasing the state's daily allowable.

Another problem peculiar to New Mexico, which has caused operators some worry, is due to the fact that the principal producing areas in Lea county are connected on a pipe line running to the Gulf coast. And while Lea county is in the Permian basin, operators do not always get the benefit of the increase in allowable granted West Texas.

Among those attending the allocation meeting in addition to the officials mentioned above include: William Dooley, Mesa Oil Company, Artesia; C. B. Williams, The Texas Company, Fort Worth; A. S. Feldt, The Texas Company, Wink; L. E. Barrows, The Texas Company, Fort Worth; M. W. (Continued on last page, column 3)

LARGE CROWD HEARS DEMOCRATS SPEAK AT CARLSBAD ARMORY

An enthusiastic crowd, estimated at 750 persons, jammed the Carlsbad armory Tuesday night to hear leading candidates on the democratic ticket speak. It was one of the largest and most attentive crowds ever to assemble in Carlsbad and wave after wave of applause greeted announcements of speakers.

Tom Neal of Lovington opened the meeting with an address in which he declared that the new deal is a democratic deal and one for which we have been fighting since the Civil war.

Neal is the father of Caswell Neal, erstwhile democratic figure in Eddy county who last week kicked over the traces of the party and announced for Cutting. Another ironic feature of the meet was the fact that it was presided over by Melvin Neal, prominent young lawyer and partner and brother of Caswell.

Hon. Dennis Chavez, member of congress and candidate for long term senate seat in his address declared that President Roosevelt is the most humane resident the country has ever had and that he took over the reins of government when things were blackest and now light is beginning to show.

"Can you, by any stretch of the imagination, picture any of the republican candidates, including my opponent, supporting President Roosevelt in 1936," the congressman thundered. "You can't. On the contrary, they will be fighting him." Chavez pointed to his record in the house in aiding veteran legislation as a proof of his friendship to the cause.

J. G. Eubank Is Killed In A 40 Foot Fall From A Tree

Accident Occurs on John Fanning Farm Where He Was Topping Tree; Breaks Collar Bones, Neck and Crushes Skull.

J. G. Eubank, aged 35, was killed yesterday afternoon about 3:00 o'clock at the John Fanning farm, southeast of town, in a fall from a tree. Mr. Eubank was topping a big tree at the time of the accident and according to observers when the tree top fell, the top caused the tree to sway. When the tree started swaying Mr. Eubank, who was located about forty feet from the ground, lost his balance after the tree had swayed once and toppled to the ground head first.

The blow broke both collar bones, crushed his skull and broke his neck. He lived for a few minutes after the accident, but died before a physician or the ambulance arrived.

Mr. Eubank was topping the tree in the general preparation to start building a new dwelling on the Fanning farm. Several people, including Mr. and Mrs. Fanning, and son Donald and J. R. House, were standing nearby when the tragedy occurred, but were powerless to prevent the fall. The Eubank family had lived in the Dayton community about two years and were well known in that section. The deceased is survived by a widow and three daughters. The daughters are away attending school. Misses Francis and Elizabeth are in San Francisco, California, and Miss Virginia is in Fort Worth, Texas. Two sisters and a brother also survive the deceased. They are: Mrs. T. J. Cushman, Fort Worth; Mrs. Vera Brooks, San Francisco; and L. E. Eubank of North Pleasant, Texas.

Funeral arrangements are pending. The body was brought to the McClay Funeral parlor yesterday afternoon.

CANADA MODEL IN CRIME CONTROL

Why is it that Canada, with a system of crime-control which conforms to the basic law in the United States in every fundamental, keeps crime under control better than its neighbor to the south?

"It isn't our constitutional principles that are at fault," says Ernest Jerome Hopkins in the Rotarian Magazine. "Rather, it's our institutional sloppiness, plus our slow-footed refusal to avail ourselves of certain devices in police and court procedure, the worth of which has been abundantly established in our neighborhood, and which could readily be adopted or adapted by any American state."

Mr. Hopkins, who investigated conditions in Canada for the Wickesham Commission, points out the advantages of the uniform criminal code for all Canada, which is just the reverse of the chopped-up forty-eight-state system in the United States.

"We in the United States," he points out, "could have uniform laws, too, if—it's a big if—the states would all adopt the American Bar Association's Model Code of Criminal Procedure. The code is there—better than any existing state code—but nothing is being done to put it over."

He points further to the selection of judges. The remark of one judge is typical of the Canadian attitude: "If I weren't life-appointed, hence politically independent, I wouldn't serve. Under any election system, those who had helped elect me would be around, demanding their price. If I were an elected judge, I couldn't be an honest man."

"Strong words," continues Mr. Hopkins, "but that seems the universal Canadian belief. They ascribe the breakdown of justice in the United States more to politics, specifically to the election of judges and prosecutors, than to anything else. For $9,000 a year, in Canada they find excellent men to serve in these positions of prestige, removed from life, embodiments of law. But then, their judges are 'somebody.' They have all but dictatorial powers on the bench. They can make rulings with firm authority, for the law itself is uniform and clear. They aren't mere umpires between warring attorneys."

ANOTHER POLITICAL FLOP

The Cutting-controlled press is playing up the fact that Eddy county is witnessing an unusual political situation this year because two of the would-be candidates for state office have taken their marbles and gone home with the assertion they won't play with the democrats any more because they resent several things in the organization and more particularly because the state organization refused to nominate them for state office. Jim McCall, another Carlsbad attorney, is the last to kick over the traces and resign his job as secretary-treasurer of the Eddy democratic central committee after he failed to land the nomination of attorney general at the state democratic convention.

He now abhors everything he would have advocated had he been a candidate for attorney general under the democratic banner. On second thought, he has found the republican platform so much more liberal, he must shudder to think how near he came to swallowing the other platform. Just think what a handicap he would have been under trying to advocate something he could not subscribe to. It was such a narrow escape we know everybody must be happy, especially the democrats now that Jim has found his real bunch.

MAKING LIARS OUT OF CANDIDATES

The average voter is willing to make a liar out of the candidate for office and then cuss the candidate for being a politician. Regardless of what he thinks the average office holder, whether it be an important or minor office has to lie gracefully at times.

During the last few years, when the going has been bad a lot of people have expected the government to take the trouble from their shoulders. The candidate that has fed them "taffy," made them believe they were the "down-trodden" and that the government should right the condition immediately without any effort on the part of the citizenship, has been without exception the successful candidate.

A man seeking office has never dared to suggest that much of the modern-day troubles might be due to a lack of physical and moral courage and that a lot of the people now days just "could not take it." Yet these are the facts and it is a fact that the passing of hard times has been prolonged because too many people have laid down on the job concerning any effort at self-betterment.

CHANGING TIMES

One of the surest signs of the return of normalcy in the matter of government affairs is the changing sentiment against the election of Upton Sinclair as the next governor of the Golden State, California. Mr. Sinclair himself evidently realizes the existence of an undercurrent against his socialistic utterances and he is hedging on some of his bolder proposals. His famous EPIC (meaning to abolish poverty in California) may do the fade-away before November 6th or be so radically changed that his most loyal supporters will not recognize it.

Two residents of Los Angeles inform us the betting odds are even on the election of Sinclair, whereas it was only a few weeks ago the election of Sinclair was virtually conceded.

Maybe you have been following the political rumpus created in the ranks of the progressive-republicans when Albert Simms, republican national committeeman, said he would not support the prog-repub ticket this fall. The main theme of the progressives is good government without a party label and naturally the concern manifested over Mr. Simms' action in supporting the democratic ticket without resigning his post as national committeeman, makes the voters wonder if the progressives are really sincere in their efforts to do away with the party label.

Don't call me down on my English in this column. Either politics is, are, or am, is correct in this column.

Here's a 1933 joke worked over to fit 1934 conditions:

A government employe who was very green as to stock and agriculture in general was sent out from Washington to take charge of a bunch of cows that had been bought by the government. The cattle were in a corral but among them was a goat. He had never seen one and he was so amazed that he called up Washington by long distance.

"There's a strange animal among the cattle," he reported excitedly.

"What does it look like?"

"Well, it has a long face and long whiskers and big sad eyes and is all bare at the rear end."

"Why that's the rancher who sold us the cattle," replied the man back in Washington.

Here's a problem that has been going the rounds among the newspapers. What would happen if ten pounds of fish were put in a tub of water weighing 100 pounds? Would the tub, water and fish weigh 100 pounds or be increased to 110 pounds? Some argue the weight would not be increased and the same bunch say that a dead man weighs more than a live one. In this connection we wonder if one-half of the candidates won't be a little heavier after November 6th.

NEWS BRIEFS OF THE CHAMBER COMMERCE

"As Your Chamber of Commerce Is So Is Your City"

The Eastern New Mexico State Fair which was held in Roswell last Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was a great success from the standpoint of exhibits and visitors.

The exhibits were mostly from our own state and were of such a character that even though they were produced in a dry year no one need be ashamed of them. The fact which surprised many was the type of products that were shown from the mountain regions west of us. These products could have held their own in competition with any exhibit anywhere in America. On the whole, the fair again made one believe that the possibilities of New Mexico from an agricultural standpoint, had not yet imagined by the most optimistic.

The Chamber of Commerce desires to thank all those who contributed to the Artesia booth. Although the booth only received a second position this was not the fault of the exhibits but was due to a lack of knowledge regarding the purpose of the fair management in seeking booth displays.

Next year we shall proceed in a very different manner and make a presentation that shall reflect greater credit to Artesia and all interested in our section of the state. And now is the proper time to begin planning on the next year exhibit. Many who have or can produce articles worthy of mention should plan at once on entering with their own private exhibit as well as in helping out with the community exhibit. This type of interest will make the fair mean much more to us and naturally more to the entire state.

A recent publication by the Santa Fe railroad indicates that we have not been even touched by the drought. Here are some of the facts. Kansas which normally produces 138 million bushels of corn produced 10 million this year, with less than half of a sorghum crop. Oklahoma has half a cotton crop. Nebraska is producing 30 million bushels of corn whereas her average is 235 million. Illinois has the lowest grain and feed production in her history while Iowa has less than half of a corn crop and Missouri is trying to figure out how to get along with 24 million bushels when she usually has 150 million. Added to the fact that other cattle feed is correspondingly short also.

We are extremely fortunate in this state and in this particular territory and we should be particularly appreciative about it.

CARLSBAD POSTOFFICE HAS BEEN CONTRACTED

Previous bids had been rejected and the low represents a substantial reduction from the earlier figures.

READING GLASSES

As the days grow shorter and the evenings grow longer, the majority of persons spend more time indoors, therefore they usually read more than in the summer months.

It is often the case that glasses for reading and sewing are all that are required. May we suggest that you call and have your eyes examined soon.

COTTON GRADE IS STILL IMPROVING

The grade of cotton classed this week from the irrigated southwest continues to improve. Practically all cotton classed was strict and good middling. Less middling cotton is reported than last week. Less cotton 1-1/8 inches and longer is reported this week in all states with the exception of Arizona, where the proportion of this length increased. Length of staple shows considerable improvement over that reported last year. NEW MEXICO: Practically all cotton classed this week to date has been strict and good middling. The length of staple declined somewhat this week. Seventy-nine percent was 1-1/16 inches and longer compared with 84 percent last week and to date. Nearly 20 percent was 1 and 1-1/32 inches. TEXAS, DISTRICT 1: All cotton classed this week was strict and good middling and 1-1/16 inches and longer. This district continues to lead in the proportion of cotton classed as 1-1/8 inches and longer with about 55 percent this week and 54 percent to date. All cotton classed has been tenderable.

SANDWICH FILLINGS FOR SCHOOL LUNCHES

The subject of school lunches is important to mothers, to teachers and to every community, now that the school term is well started for another year, says Miss Veda Strong, of the New Mexico State College. What the school child eats for lunch has a great influence on his health, his education and his behavior. If the children can come home for lunch, the problem of serving them the food they need is not so great, and at least one hot dish is usually served. Especially in cold weather this hot dish at noon makes for better health, thus making for better grades, as the children usually do better work in school where such a lunch is provided. If the child must carry his lunch to school, this does present a problem for mothers, as the things that can be put in a carried lunch are limited as to number and variety. The lunch should consist of food that will be appetizing and also furnish part of the child's daily food requirements. The main part of a carried lunch must usually be sandwiches. These may be of different kinds to add variety from day to day. Some variations are: Chopped or ground meat, chopped pickle, salad dressing. Minced ham, cooked egg and salad dressing. Baked beans mixed with chile sauce or catsup. Grated cheese mixed with catsup. Raisins (ground in food chopper) with peanut butter and hot water. Raisins and nuts. If the child has a tin lunch box with a thermos bottle for carrying milk, cocoa or hot soup he will have a much more nourishing lunch; also, if he has a box he can take salads, custards or cooked fruit in a cup or glass. Care should be taken in packing the lunch in order that the foods do not crush, run together and odors mingle so the whole is unappetizing. Raw fruits or vegetables add variety as well as food value to any school lunch. Cookies or plain cake are better for the school lunch than rich pie. If further information is desired, consult your county agent or the Extension Service. School lunches can be better balanced and more attractive if time and effort are put on them. Many of the canned meats can be used for sandwiches. During the canning season, some products can be canned which are especially planned for school lunches, suggest W. A. Wunsch, county extension agent. Sandwich Spread No. 1 Grind 14 medium sized cucumbers, 1 quart onions (after ground), 3 red peppers and 3 green peppers thru fine knife of vegetable grinder. Add 1/2 cup salt. Let stand over night. Drain off brine. Cover with weakened vinegar, scald, drain off as much liquid as possible, and press thru potato ricer. Mix well together 1/2 cup sugar, 3 tablespoons flour, and 1 teaspoon mustard. Combine with 1/4 cup butter, 1 pint weakened vine-

HIGH SCHOOL ASSEMBLY (Joe Hannah)

The high school assembly, held October 4th, was a great success. For the first time this year we had lots of pep. Announcements were made by Prof. E. L. Harp, Mr. Marshall and Mrs. Stillwaugh. Each class gave a few cheers under the direction of their cheer leaders, starting with the freshmen. It is understood that the seniors had the most pep. Three cheer leaders elected for the school were: Billy Bartlett, freshman; Josephine Payne, sophomore, and Peggy Wilson, senior. After the class yells, members of the football squad were paraded on the stage and their positions named by Coach Barton. Clyde Champion made us a talk about what our team was going to do to Tularosa.

Although only a little over six months old, the Roswell Production association, which makes crop and stock production loans at 5 per cent interest to farmers in this territory, has made a successful record, in spite of the adverse conditions, and is proving that local farmers have the necessary knowledge and experience to conduct their own cooperative credit business. POURING IT ON

Editor Artesia Advocate: In two recent editorials you criticize the observance of Mexican Independence Day by our Spanish-American population, and you suggest that "Here is an opportunity for some organization to teach Americanism." Surely, we should not question the Americanism of any citizen who honors the memory of Hidalgo, the father of Mexican independence, who fought for liberty from Spain for all that vast territory which included not only the present Republic of Mexico, but also what is now Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, etc. Hidalgo, scholar, priest and patriot soldier, who in the early morning hours of September 16, 1810, rang from the parish church of Delores the liberty bell of Mexican independence, spread the glad tidings of liberty, not only to the area south of the Rio Grande, but also to that vast territory on the north, which we in later years acquired from the Republic of Mexico. Surely, it is no treason against Americanism, to honor the memory of a patriot who in any age or country fought for liberty and against tyranny, so on the sixteenth of each September let us join with our Spanish-American neighbors in a tribute to the memory of Hidalgo and other patriots of the eleven-year war of independence against Spain. 45,000 N. M. SHIPPED ARE SHIPPED OUT

Approximately 45,000 sheep have been shipped from New Mexico to processing plants over the county since the sheep buying program began in the state, according to information released by the Drouth Relief administration offices in Santa Fe. Organization of all counties has been completed and the quota of ten thousand a day for shipment will shortly be reached, it was said. About the same number as shipped have been condemned as unfit for human consumption and have been slaughtered on the ranges. The sheep sent to canneries and processing plants are being canned and converted into foodstuffs. This material is stored and will later be shipped all over the nation for direct relief purposes during the coming winter. Stockmen of the state are co-operating wholeheartedly with the administration in the sheep program and according to one sheep man are "taking the relief program with a smile." Before the buying program started sheepmen were faced with the loss of a large part of their flocks because of lack of feed for the winter.

TAXPAYERS OUTLINE 18 POINT PROGRAM AT ROSWELL MEET

With the general trend of discussion along lines urging strictest economy and efficiency, members of the New Mexico Federation of Taxpayers Monday accepted an 18-point "Program of Economy" which will be presented to the next legislature, at a meeting held at Roswell under the direction of Clarence Iden of Las Vegas, president.

Among the speakers, aside from Mr. Iden, who stated that the executive committee would not enter actively into politics, but confine their activities to a presentation of their proposals, and possibly a questionnaire to prospective office holders, were Rupert F. Asplund, Santa Fe, representing the N. M. Taxpayers association; Senator J. H. Mullis, of Roswell, K. C. Malcomb, vice-president of the federation, and Vernon O. Tolle, secretary of the New Mexico Educational Association.

Among the other outside members of the federation were A. E. Erickson, who has charge of the newly inaugurated paper, "The Taxpayer," and Edgar Knight, Albuquerque, executive secretary, and members from Chaves, Eddy, Dona Ana, San Miguel, Colfax, Lincoln, Bernalillo and Lea counties. Some 60 members attended in all.

Among the reforms which the federation urges, which will be presented to the legislature are:

A revision of the county and state tax assessing system. A $2,500 exemption from taxation, except for interest and sinking funds, on homes, same to be inclusive of the present householders and soldiers exemptions, and all institutions deriving revenue from their investments, the deficit therefrom to be made up by savings.

A resolution of legislature calling for a vote to amend the state constitution enabling county consolidation of county and city governments.

Recommending a resolution calling for a vote amending the state constitution to permit form of government.

Recommending civil service system in state appointive offices and merit system in county appointive office.

Recommending unicameral legislature.

Recommending consolidation of state departments eliminating duplication.

A change in the set-up of the state corporation commission calling for the appointment by the governor of three members, one who can qualify as an engineer, one as a financier and one as an auditor, with their duties greatly broadened to give control of rates of utilities, etc.

Endorsing the theory of the sales tax.

Revision of the income tax law, to give progressive rates low in the first brackets, thus offsetting the regressive features of the sales tax.

No mileage on privately owned cars used for state, county or municipal purpose to exceed 7c per mile.

Revise rates of feeding prisoners downward, with a maximum of 50 cents per day.

Reclassification of counties for salary purposes, on a basis of valuation and population.

Recommending that mineral revenues coming from all public lands allocated educational and penal institutions except public schools, be prorated according to the acreage allocated to said institution.

These following were presented to the assembled group by the N. M. Educational association by Vernon O. Tolle, and accepted.

An equitable method of distribution of state school monies.

Adoption by the legislature of a joint resolution to submit to a vote of the people a constitutional amendment which will provide for the reorganization of the state department of education.

A long term state board of education composed of from five to nine members, with overlapping terms, who are to be selected in a non-partisan way.

Superintendent of public instruction to be appointed by state board of education.

Salary and length of term of office of superintendent to be determined by board of education within the appropriation made by

HARRISON CHILD IS SEVERELY BURNED IN GAS FIRE FRIDAY

Oliver Harrison, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harrison, Sr., was painfully burned Friday morning when he attempted to burn out a bed of ants with gasoline. While all of the details of the accident are not known, it was understood the boy, about five, carried out a cup of gasoline to pour in an ant bed. While carrying the gasoline he was thought to have spilled a quantity on his clothing. When the gasoline was poured into the ant bed and ignited, his clothing caught fire and the flames spread rapidly. Mrs. Charles Morgan, who saw the accident, probably saved the boy's life by tearing the clothing from his body. Both his left arm and leg were badly burned.

HEALTH COLUMN

Life For Sale

How much will you pay to save a human life?

Many readers will object to this question. Some will say that a human life is of infinite value and that it is sacrilegious to speak of it in dollars and cents. Many people behave in emergencies as though they did indeed believe in the infinite value of human life. When there is an explosion in a coal mine the manager does not sit down to calculate the cost of rescue operations. Nor are there wanting volunteers who will risk everything they have in the effort to save their comrades' lives. If life saving were always so dramatic we might never have to ask "How much will you pay?"

Some would perhaps pay more to save the life of a relative or close friend than to save the life of a stranger. Most of us would pay more if we could see in imagination the last struggle of the life we are called upon to save and the sorrow of the little circle that has cherished it. But granted that it is the life of a stranger about whom we shall never know anything, then how much?

It is a practical question, because after making his careful survey of the state of New Mexico, after studying our deaths from preventable causes and our expenditure on the machinery of prevention Dr. Carl Buck has calculated that a thousand lives could be saved each year in New Mexico at a cost of about $300 per life. These lives are for sale. Your representatives in the next session of the New Mexico legislature will have to decide on your behalf how many, if any, they will buy.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible:

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook:

N. M. FARMERS GET CORN-HOG PAYMENTS

New Mexico corn-hog growers have been the recipients of $90,225.40 in the first installment of benefit payments. These farmers were located in the counties of Curry, De Baca, Dona Ana, Harding, Lea, Mora, San Miguel and Union. The amounts received per county ranged all the way from $2,218.45 for San Miguel county to $37,737.60 for Union county.

Approximately 1,030,000 corn-hog contracts or nearly 90 percent of the expected total for the United States have now been received for approval by the secretary of agriculture, and about $100,000,000 or about 75 percent of the estimated total first installment of benefit payments have been disbursed thru October 2 to contract signers, as indicated by Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the corn-hog section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in a preliminary report.

"The corn-hog checks now going out represent one-half of the corn payment due and two-fifths of the hog payment due contract signers for participating in production adjustments under the 1934 corn-hog program. The second installment of payments, representing one-fifth of the hog payment and the last half of the corn payment, less the local administrative expenses, will be due November 15 of this year. GOVERNMENT BEGINS BUYING POOR LANDS

Encouraging progress in the program of the federal government to eliminate sub-marginal land from destructive competition with good land is reported by the program-planning division of the agricultural adjustment administration.

This program, which is in line with the course of action that has long been urged by national leaders, has a definite relation to the problem of balancing the total agricultural production with effective demand. But, as H. R. Tolley, director of the program-planning division, points out, careful adjustment of production on good land must accompany the retirement of poor land.

Federal funds for buying sub-marginal land have been set aside in two allotments. The first allotment, amounting to $25,000,000 was from public works administration funds and is for use in any part of the country. The second allotment of $12,500,000 was from the drought relief funds and is for purchase of land that is definitely a very poor risk for farming because it is located in a climate that is too dry.

NATION'S REVENUE RISING

WASHINGTON—The nation's rising revenues for the current fiscal year Friday passed the billion dollar mark—$251,000,000 ahead of 1933—and treasury officials looked about for omens of recovery that would further increase the gain.

Although conflicting developments obscured the view, signs that were interpreted in government circles as encouraging were not lacking.

From acting Governor Thomas of the federal reserve board came word that the quality of applications for direct federal loans to industry was improving. The September 26 total of $7,676,000 of outstanding and approved loans commitments was increasing steadily, he said.

At the same time, the reconstruction corporation reported that its direct industrial loans approved under the new law, plus similar advances through mortgage companies under old authority had reached $313,860,825.

YES AND NO

To read the editorials of some magazines and newspapers you might think that bankers were a race of men born in the glacial age, and always ready to say "No" to every borrower.

The truth is that banks make their money by saying "Yes" because only by lending money can a banker secure the income with which to pay the depositor his interest, the staff members their salaries, and the stockholders their dividends.

Lending money is one of the important functions of banking. But, making sound loans implies periodic reductions according to promise and complete repayment within a short term period. This means that the borrower must furnish satisfactory plans for repayment.

This is necessary because the banker has a three-fold obligation: to depositors he promises a safe return of their funds, to the borrowers he promises accommodation in turn, and to his stockholders he promises reasonable return on investment. The community which includes depositors, borrowers, and stockholders, he also owes a continually increasing surplus to provide a margin of safety against loss.

DEMOCRATIC HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT THROWS AWAY $1,250,000 FEDERAL FUNDS AVAILABLE TO NEW MEXICO

The people of New Mexico were told when the Democratic state administration sought to saddle further debt upon them and mortgage their income through the issuance of $2,000,000 additional highway debentures, that the money to be derived from these debentures was to be utilized only for the purpose of construction of highways.

What has happened in regard to that promise?
 It has been disregarded and broken.

Despite a referendum signed by nearly 50,000 citizens the Democratic state administration pursued a course of political dishonesty, sought justification for its action in an indirect court ruling, and issued the entire $2,000,000 in debentures.

The records show that a goodly portion of the proceeds from the sale of those debentures was utilized by the State Highway Commission to pay off current indebtedness.

Despite continuous protests from the citizens of the state the Democratic state administration recently issued the last block of $625,000 of these debentures, and by that action lost for the people of the state of New Mexico the sum of $1,250,000 in Federal Aid road funds.

Had that debenture money been retained or the debentures left unsold until next year the federal government would have matched that money two dollars for one. Then the highways of New Mexico would have had the sum of $1,875,000 for new construction projects instead of the meager sum of $625,000 made available by the poor business acumen of the present state Democratic administration.

Does anyone familiar with the present terrible conditions of many state roads believe the state is justified in throwing away over a million dollars of available road funds at this time?

The average voter has a very good idea of just why the Democratic administration was in so great a hurry to get its hands on this $625,000 just before election. Some state administrations have been so foolish as to believe a big road building program just prior to election is a vote-getting stunt.

But it will be most intriguing to hear the Democrats explain their action which has cost the state a cool $1,250,000 in Federal highway funds.

FALL SOWN FLOWERS DO WELL IN N. MEX.

By H. C. Stewart, Extension Horticulturist

Chief among the considerations to be borne in mind in the creation of a flower garden in the warmer parts of New Mexico, is the climate. The dry atmosphere and the hot sun made conditions which, while fatal to success with many plants, are suited to others. Those who anticipate great results with flowers by following spring sowing directions as practiced in many other climates will doubtlessly be disappointed, for many of the small grained flower seeds will not successfully germinate under ordinary spring conditions as found in New Mexico. The rapid drying of the ground, the intense sun and the persistent winds prevent the germination of seeds which are so small that they must be sown shallowly in the soil.

Generally, good results may be obtained by fall sowing. Many of these flower seeds that fail to germinate when sown in the spring, produce excellent results if sown in the fall. Fall sowing of flower seeds should be practiced more extensively than is now being done. Evidence of this is shown by the number of plants that come up from self-sown seeds each year, when once the plants have become established. Often gardeners make miserable failures with the common poppy and other fine seeded flowers when sown in the spring according to the printed directions on the package and in the florist's catalogue. After having noticed the results of self-grown seed, they are astonished at the production of a sea of gorgeous colors.

There are many flower seeds which can be successfully sown in the fall; among them are such as ageratum (floss flower); alyssum; antirrhinum (snap dragon); asters (the hardy sorts); calendula (pot marigold); calliopsis; dianthus (carnation), fairly successful if well cared for; centaurea; careopsis, no garden should be without it; cosmos; delphinium (hardy larkspur); dianthus (pinks); eschscholtzie (California poppy); Gaillardia (blanket flower); alyssum; gysaphila (baby's breath); hollyhock, all gardens should have this stately flower; kachia (Mexican fire bush), excellent for borders; larkspur (annual delphinium); marigold; myosotic (forget-me-not); petunia, succeeds well under unfavorable conditions; pentstemon (phlox drummond); poppy (all common sorts); salpiglossis scabiosa (pincushion flower); saponaria (bouncing Bet); salvia (flowering sage); sedum; Shasta daisy; stock, generally does well in southern New Mexico; sweet pea, no garden should be without them; sweet William; tithonia (Mexican sun flower); Vinca Rosea (periwinkle); verbena, and zinnia.

After sowing the small seeds shallowly, a little protection of brush, dead leaves, or any kind of a rough mulch will help hold the moisture and protect those that do not germinate during the colder part of the winter.

October is considered the best fall month for sowing flower seeds in southern New Mexico. Whenever it is possible, procure native grown seeds or those that are grown in climates similar to that of New Mexico. Such seeds appear to do better than those grown in the colder and more humid climates.

Flowers seem to love companionship in their growth. Self-grown seeds appear to grow better than those sown artificially. The amateur starting his garden on bare ground, as is generally the case in southern New Mexico, may have to coax his seeds and plants until they become well established and feel the companionship that comes from other plants. It has not been explained why a few solitary plants will find it a hard struggle for existence but when once flowers and vines and shrubs find that they have companionship they seem to take courage and join hands in their efforts to live. After once starting, they oftentimes run wild, taking possession of the garden in a manner to delight the heart of a gardener.

The adaptability and preparation of the soil is one of the principal requirements for a successful flower garden. Silty loam is preferable to a heavy adobe soil. Much can and should be done to improve the condition of the soil. For this purpose, ordinary barnyard manure, preferably from an old cow corral, should be used liberally for its fertilizing properties and also to improve the texture of the soil by the addition of organic matter. By the repeated application of manure containing a large proportion of straw or other refuse, the tendency of the soil to pack will be largely overcome. This material may be applied during the fall and winter or spring. If in the fall and winter, it should be well spaded into the ground, but if in the spring, after the garden has been

An estimate that 16,846,322 persons were either unemployed or working only part time in the United States the first three months of 1934 was announced at San Francisco Sunday by a Boston delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention on the basis of a government-sponsored survey in Massachusetts. The total of actually unemployed was placed at 9,326,514 by Robert J. The result of the survey, he said, indicates previous estimates of the total unemployed or working only part time are "far too conservative."

ARTESIA WILL MEET MONAHANS SQUAD HERE SATURDAY P. M.

The Artesia Bulldog squad was defeated in their first gridiron contest of the season when they met the strong Tularosa eleven at Tularosa. The power displayed by the latter eleven, who had played two previous games, was too much for the locals. The final score was 13 to 6.

The Tularosa squad out-fought Artesia during the first half and scored within ten minutes after the opening whistle. The remainder of the first half was played in mid-field. At the start of the second half the Bulldogs kicked off to Tularosa, held Tularosa for downs, received the ball and marched down the field for a touchdown, their only score. A determined fight placed the local squad within five yards of their goal when the game ended.

Coach Barton has said that he is not satisfied with the defense shown thus far. He plans to iron out the rough spots in both the defensive and offensive plays before Artesia meets the Monahans, Texas, team next Saturday. The Monahans eleven are said to be the strongest in the past four years.

The Artesia-Monahans game is scheduled for 3:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, at the Brainard park. The Bulldogs will make their first home appearance in their new uniforms, recently purchased. The uniforms are black and gold, the same colors as the high school.

A report of slightly less than generally expected did not support the market this week, the trade evidently believing that with such large ginnings in September (approximately five million bales) that surely for October, November and December it would be easy to get another five million bales and the final ginnings would show about ten million.

But with such a continual decline the market is at least due a substantial rally. Today the first strength of the active season was evident in a rally of 25 points from extreme low. Ginnings are heavy, however, and hedge sales make their appearance on every upturn. It should be remembered also that the 12c loan cotton must be sold or it becomes an additional weight on the market as a potential threat, similar to the option cotton which now is coming out gradually but surely. About 25 percent of the crop is going into the 12c loan, the balance of the crop is for sale on bulges. Next spring an increased acreage, is certain and with backed up cotton, government held and otherwise, and with the world crop undiminished, we can see but little prospect for materially higher prices and advise sales on all good rallies.

Senator Bronson Cutting opened his campaign for reelection to the senate, in Albuquerque Tuesday night declaring there was no such thing as 100 percent party regularity.

The slaying of King Alexander of Yugoslavia Tuesday threatens the peace of all Europe. Petrus Kaleman, native of Zagreb, gravely wounded a policeman and a French general riding with the king's party, killed the king and wounded twelve others before being killed himself. The forty-six-year-old king was shot three times, slumped to the floor of his automobile and died within an hour.

Mrs. Jim Jackson and Marvin Jackson of Mayhill each brought one of their children to the city for medical attention the first of the week. Mrs. Jackson was a guest at the home of her aunt, Miss Cora Rogers, and Mr. Jackson at his father's, J. M. Jackson.

CONDITION OF STATE RANGE ABOUT SAME

Although rainfall during August was the largest for several months, not enough fell to cause much improvement in fall and winter feed on ranges. Some improvement is reported in the condition of cattle but a decline in sheep condition; according to a report issued by Fred Daniels, agricultural statistician, for U. S. Department of Agriculture.

RANGES: Ranges in New Mexico have made no improvement during the past month. Good rains have been received over most of the state during the latter half of August but due to the already dry condition, very little benefit has resulted therefrom. There is very little green feed on any ranges and almost all dry grass has been grazed off. On account of the lateness of the season it is very doubtful if much range feed can be grown for winter use even if necessary moisture falls. The livestock must be wintered on concentrates and hay that can be shipped in from other sections. With the exception of the Pecos and Mesilla valleys which will have some surplus of hay, all other localities are short of hay and roughage. Stock water in all parts of the state is the shortest on record and most sections are facing possibility of having no stock water unless rains come soon. The condition of ranges are reported at 57 percent of normal compared with the same last month and 86.2 for the 10-year average.

CATTLE AND CALVES: There was some improvement reported in the average condition of cattle left on ranges on September 1 as compared with a month ago. As there was no improvement in the condition of ranges the increase reflects probably the effect of the purchases of thin cattle by the government. Losses have continued but have been diminished by timely reduction of individual herds by government purchases. The calf crop has not developed in flesh as in past years. Many ranches have not branded because of the dry weather. It will be almost necessary to continue government purchases over the state unless rains are received soon. The condition of cattle and calves is reported at 66 percent of normal compared with 63 last month and 88.6 for the 10-year average.

SHEEP AND LAMBS: Sheep and lambs have begun to show effects of the drought. Ewes are getting thin and losses during the past month have been larger than the previous month. Lambs are lighter than usual but losses are not reported as being heavy. Because of the season being so late for range improvement sheep owners will begin to experience heavy losses. If the proposed buying program by the government is instituted owners will be able to cull their flocks and reduce so that it will be easier to go through the coming winter. Very little demand is reported for lambs. The condition of sheep and lambs is reported at 65 percent of normal compared with 67 last month and 88.9 for the 10-year average.

FOREIGN GROWERS READY TO MEET COTTON DEMAND

WASHINGTON — Cotton growers in foreign countries, hampered by government bureaucracy, will produce more than 13,000,000 bales this year and thereby capture world supremacy in the market formerly dominated by American growers, according to reports made by agricultural statisticians.

JELLY MAKING IN THE WINTER TIME

Jelly can be made satisfactorily in the winter if fruit juice is canned without sugar, says W. A. Wunsch, county extension agent. Fruit juices, when sweetened before they are canned, make delicious drinks.

The juices of such fruits as grapes, currants, blackberries, strawberries, raspberries, elderberries, and cherries can be used. The flavor of these juices is finer when they are processed below the boiling point. Select sound, ripe fruit, crush, and heat slowly to simmering point. Strain thru double thickness of cheese-cloth and if juices free from sediment are wanted, let stand in a cool place for a few hours. Then pour off carefully to free from dregs, which will remain in bottom of vessel.

If they are to be used for jelly they should be bottled without any sugar and later made into jelly. This method for grape jelly insures the getting rid of crystals, which are objectionable in the jelly. If the juice is canned without sugar proceed in the winter-time with the jelly as if the juice had never been canned.

If the fruit juice is to be used as juice, the addition of sugar when the juice is canned will make the flavor finer. It may be used in any desired proportion, a fair allowance being 1 cup sugar to 1 gallon of juice.

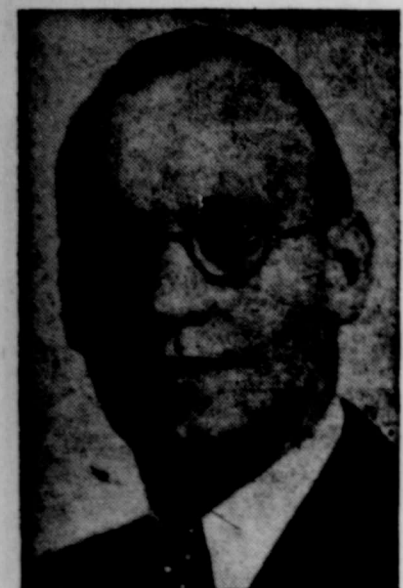

Whether the juice is to be canned with or without sugar, pour the juice into hot sterilized bottles, put sterilized stoppers in lightly, set bottles on rack in water bath, and process at simmering point, for 30 to 60 minutes, depending on the size of the container. Remove from the water bath, put stoppers in tightly and when cool dip top of bottle into melted paraffin or sealing wax. A good wax may be made by melting together equal parts of resin and beeswax.

Much time can be saved in the summer-time by canning the fruit juice and making jelly in the winter-time.

These home-made fruit juices are also excellent for use in gelatin, desserts, puddings, sauces, punch, ice creams, and sherbets.

SLEEPING ROOM IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

A sleeping room located at the rear of the T. S. Cox residence on Richardson avenue was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning about 4:30 o'clock. The building was too far gone to be saved by the fire department while the alarm sounded. The department directed its work to save the Cox residence. The sleeping room was occupied by a negro, who is said to have slept through the early part of the fire and admitted he got mighty hot when awakened.

Democrats Plead—

for the support of the entire ticket, stating the campaign motto this year was: "One for all and all for one."

Dennis Chavez, candidate for the long term of the United States Senate, said he had never made a political speech in Artesia. Citing his record as congressman, he said he had worked for both Eddy county and the state. He recited specific instances where he had been instrumental in helping this district with its problems of irrigation.

Congressman Chavez said he thought every job under the democrats should go to the democrats. He brought applause when he stated in his opinion President Roosevelt was the most courageous man to occupy the White House and that he was backing the policies of Roosevelt 100 percent.

He charged there was nothing progressive about the progressive party in New Mexico and asked what the progressives had ever done. He said the progressive citizens of New Mexico were the home builders, the tillers of the soil and the industrialists, who work. "You won't find these citizens in the ranks of the progressives," he said.

Defending his record on veterans' legislation he said he had voted against the economy act, while his opponent did not vote and that he had supported the bonus bill. He said: "I maintain my record on vets legislation is better than my opponent's."

world and failed to vote," Chavez said.

Chavez pleaded that the people elect Clyde Tingley governor and called attention to progress that has been made under his guidance in Albuquerque.

Clyde Tingley, mayor of Albuquerque and candidate for governor, declared that if elected he intended disposing of all progressives from boards and jobs.

"I was quoted recently as saying that I would fire all republicans. That is not so. The republicans will remain but the progressives, never."

State Senator Fred Wilson, Mrs. Peggy Rector Wharton, L. H. Meers, Portales, Joe Wertheim and W. F. McIlvain spoke praising the ticket and pleading for its support from top to bottom.

Ray Rodgers, Carlsbad, relinquished his place on the program out of courtesy to other speakers and simply pleaded that voters go down the line with the democrats from the top to the bottom of the ticket.
