Youth Work Camp Ends With Program And Tour

With dignitaries and proud parents, as well as staff members and youth leaders looking on, the Youth Conservation Corps, who have been working for the past eight weeks at the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge ended their summer work. Meeting at the Wildlife Refuge

Friday shortly after noon, were the youth workers, who proudly displayed many of their summer projects, which included painting, running concrete, cleaning tanks and bird baths, repairing and rebuilding fences, piping water to the Refuge picnic area, installing a rock garden at the Wildlife Refuge office, refinishing the Refuge water tower and their pride and joy, installation of a steel 60 foot communication tower.

Using a crowbar and sledge hammer to cut through the caliche rock, the young people dug out the ground for a foundation of concrete, which they ran, other holes to place support guy wires, then put the tower together in sections. Their only outside assistance was in getting a local drilling company to raise the tower once they had it together. They then put on the guy wires and put the tower in a permanent concrete base.

Professional appearing fences installed by the young people are in a straight line across the back of the Refuge, pointed out with pride by Gordon Stephens, camp leader.

Youth leaders from Dallas included Mario Moreno, Matt Turner, and Nancy McEachron; Eddie Benefield from Morton and Stephens from Lubbock.

Members of the Youth Conservation Corp from Littlefield were Paul Sebring, Jamie Grey. From Morton were John Van Hoos, Patti Waters, Susan Masten and Marlene Trejo. Muleshoe Youth Workers were Billy Vinson, Donnie Long, Vivian Briscoe, Robert Rodriguez and Esmerelda Posadas; from the Enochs and Three Way areas were Melanie Roberts, David Hale, Mike Nichols, Judy Morgan; and Steve Stratton from Amarillo.

Vivian Briscoe, youth leader for the Youth Conservation Corps, conducted the program to officially end the camp. She introduced John Van Hoos, who welcomed the visitors.

She then presented two special awards. A certificate and pin were presented Dorothy Masten of Morton and Cleta Williams of Muleshoe. The certificates of appreciation were for personal contributions to the youth program.

Vivian explained some of the things learned about protection of the environment, study times and environmental conservation trips, such as Lincoln National Park, Carlsbad Caverns and Buffalo Lake, as well as a heritage trip to see the production of "Texas."

Bailey County Judge Glen Williams was principal speaker during the afternoon. He complimented the group on the work completed during the summer, as well as the parents who made it possible for their young people to spend the summer working at the Refuge.

He spoke to the group of the Free Enterprise System and emphasized this nation as the Land of Opportunity and Land of Freedom. He also especially emphasized four points for the young people to remember.

PHYSICAL: "You've got only one body, and I don't feel you will succeed if you don't feel well. Take care of your body, feed it properly and use it well," commented the judge.

Slight Clues Mar Death Investigation

How did Ronald George Mitchell die? A question posed pathologists who say they have completed initial testing without coming up with a cause of death for the 19-year old Phoenix, Ariz. man. Pathologists for Dallas County reported at mid-week that they had completed the "routine part" of his autopsy, but because of the "extreme decomposition of his body" they have been unable to come up with the cause of his death last week.

His body was found in the trunk of a car parked at a remote roadside park about 17 miles south of Muleshoe in Bailey County of Friday, July 22. Clad only in blue cutoffs and a blue T-shirt, the victim had apparently been in the trunk of the vehicle for several days in near 100 degree temperatures.

Speculation continues that Mitchell was alive when he was placed in the trunk of the car, and at least part of the time, was apparently conscious. He was found on his left side, with his head resting on the edge of a styrofoam cooler, which had about three inches of bloody water.

Clutched in his right hand was a slightly bloody, motel-type towel, and his left hand was curled around the wiring leading to the rear lights of the late model automobile.

Mitchell's older brother, with whom the younger man was staying in Irving, near Dallas, said his brother had recently helped him move from Colorado to the city near Dallas. Mitchell said Tuesday night that he had helped his brother find a job in

Immunization Clinic Slated This Tuesday

The Texas Department of Health has scheduled an immunization clinic on Tuesday, August 2 at their office at 306 West Second Street in Muleshoe. Free immunizations will be given for childhood diseases prior to the beginning of school on August 29.

"In order to protect your children against a number of dangerous childhood diseases, Texas Law requires that all children be immunized against polio, measles, mumps, Rubella (German measles), diphtheria, tetanus (lockjaw), and pertussis (whooping cough)," said a spokesman for the local Texas Department of Health office.

"You should check your records now to make sure your child has received all his immunizations. 'Why should you check? Because many children have missed one or more of their immunizations against childhood diseases. These children face a needless risk of serious illness and devastating, perhaps fatal, complications," she continued.

Added the spokesman, "It is essential that children be immunized early in life. In recent years, the percentage of children immunized against childhood diseases has been declining. As a result, polio, measles, and other diseases continue to strike. Health experts warn that unless more young children are immunized, widespread epidemics could take place once again, spreading particularly among pre-school children."

It has been suggested that immunized children be taken to the Health office in Muleshoe or to a private physician to get the proper immunizations against the childhood diseases.

Coal-Fired Power Plant Completed

Southwestern Public Service Company is holding open house at its newest generating facility, Harrington Station, yesterday (Saturday) and today (Sunday) afternoons from 1-6 p.m.

Harrington station is the first generating plant on Southwestern's system to use coal as its primary fuel. The first unit, rated at 356,700 kilowatts, was put into service in mid-1976 and is using about 3,500 tons of coal per day.

Roy Tolk spoke to area news media during a media preview tour Tuesday. He outlined plans the company has for additional coal-fired generating plants and pointed out that SP's recorded a gain of more than 10,000 customers during the 12 months ending last June. The company serves some 260,000 customers.

The second generating plant at Harrington is under construction and is about 50 percent complete. It is scheduled to go on the line next summer and will also have a capability of 356,700 kilowatts. Construction of the third unit of the same size will begin in the next few weeks and is scheduled for completion in 1980. All three of the Harrington units will use coal-fired boilers.

Coal used at Harrington Station is low-sulphur western coal, mined and brought in by unit train from Gillette, Wyo. The trains have about 110 cars and are designed specifically to haul coal. Each train brings about 11,000 tons of coal to the plant on a twice-a-week schedule at a cost of approximately $4 million per train.

Motorcycles Injure Duo Late Friday

Two Lubbock men were treated and released at West Plains Medical Center in Muleshoe following an 8 p.m. double motorcycle accident northwest of Muleshoe on Highway 84.

Friday evening, four motorcycles from Lubbock were traveling west when a workman from a vegetable packing plant suddenly stepped onto the highway and held up his hand to stop traffic, said THP Trooper Louis Cardinal.

A car ahead of the motorcycles stopped, the first motorcycle stopped, but the second motorcycle, which had slowed in preparation of stopping, was struck by the third motorcycle in the rear. A fourth motorcycle in the group also managed to stop without being involved in the crash.

The two motorcycles that were crashed skidded on the highway, leaving pavement burns to cont. on page 3 Col. 1

Newby Named New Manager For Telephone

The appointment of James D. Newby as Littlefield Customer Service Manager of General Telephone Company of the Southwest has been announced by O.D. Hearn, Brownfield Division Manager.

Newby succeeds Bryan Galloway who has been named division service and facilities manager for the company in Hobbs, New Mexico. Galloway has held the Littlefield Customer Service Manager position since August 1976. Galloway joined General Telephone Company of the Southwest in 1958, as an equipment installer's helper. He has held various positions in Brownwood, Ballinger, and Brady, Texas, before coming to Littlefield from Brownfield. The Brown County, Texas native is a member of the Lions Club, and has been active in various organizations including the Boy Scouts of America. He and his family are active in the Mormon Church.

Newby previously served, since 1975, as area I&M and OSP supervisor for General Telephone Company of the Southwest in Brownwood. He began his career with General Telephone in 1971, as an installation and maintenance foreman, and was promoted to service manager in 1972, with headquarters in San Angelo.

A native of San Angelo, Newby served six years in the U.S. Naval Reserve, was secretary-treasurer of the Brownwood Lions Club, and worked with Boy Scout Explorer Post No. 34.

Newby, a graduate of Angelo State University, and his wife, Pam, have a son age four and a daughter age ten. They are members of the United Methodist Church.

Total Near 2 Inches Around Needmore

Some county farmers received enough rain Wednesday and Thursday night to come near easing their critical water problems faced by most dryland farmers throughout the area. From approximately Highway 746 south of Muleshoe, to just beyond Needmore, east and west of Needmore, up to an inch and a half of moisture fell, along with small hail and high winds Wednesday evening and night.

Farmers reported some sunflowers knocked down by the wind, but Bailey County Agent

Spencer Tanksley predicted the damage was minimal, and the sunflowers would be upright in a short time. No hail damage was reported from pea sized hail which peppered down accompanying the one inch rain. Another rain on Thursday night, which skipped across the country, accompanied by booming thunder and brilliant lightning, left an additional one-half inch in the same area, which depositing varying lesser amounts in a hit and miss fashion.

Clauch Gin at Bula reported 'barely a sprinkle' in the rain which left wet fields and filled ditches around Needmore, and said the rain fell to within two or three miles of the Bula Community.

Good rain was received west of Muleshoe to near the West Camp Community, with Robert Hunt, Lewis Scoggin and Eugene Shaw all reporting up to an inch of moisture. However, West Camp itself remained dry, as did the land north of Highway 1760.

Wednesday afternoon, Muleshoe received one-half inch of rain in a quick thunderstorm which moved through the area, and on Thursday, although clouds ringed the city at a late hour, only sprinkles materialized for the evening and night.

Moisture from the Gulf of Mexico had covered the state, setting off the sporadic thunderstorms, depositing up to three inches of rain in Amarillo, up to two inches reported around Lubbock and more than three inches in the Morton area.

Although Bailey County was placed under a severe thunderstorm forecast Wednesday afternoon and evening, the only severe weather which developed apparently was the brief hard winds which knocked down the

BULLETIN

Funeral services are pending at presstime for Joe Dameron, 78, longtime Muleshoe resident and businessman, who died at West Plains Medical Center at approximately 2:30 a.m. Saturday.

A native of Itasca, Tex., he had moved to Muleshoe and opened a drugstore around 1932. Since his partial retirement several years ago, the drugstore has been operated by his son, Sam. Survivors include his wife, Robin; one son, Sam; two daughters, Mrs. John Smith and Mrs. Jim Reece.

New Police Start Work This Week

Two new officers were added to the Muleshoe City Police Department this week to fill vacancies created several weeks ago.

A local 28-year old man, Gary Burkhart, started work as a patrolman last Friday afternoon. A native of Muleshoe, he and his wife are the parents of two children, Rebecca, five and Dean, two.

This is Burkhart's first experience as a law enforcement officer.

Leroy Sandefer, 37, a native of the Morton area, started work as a patrolman on the midnight shift Thursday. He served 14 months as a patrolman in Morton prior to coming to the Muleshoe City Police.

For the near future, he will be commuting from Morton where he has made his home. He and his wife, Clydean, are the parents of Shannon Kay, seven, and Leann, 19 months.

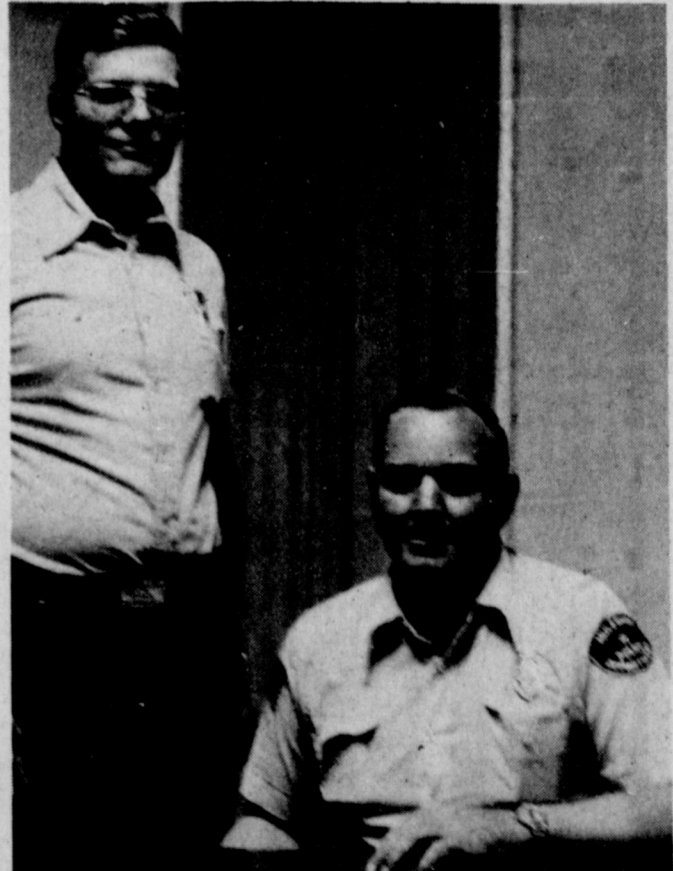

The two-man vacancy had been created by the resignations of former city officers Fabian Flores and Jimmy Mills, who both went into private business.

City Attorney To Report On Local Airport

A short agenda faces members of the Muleshoe City Council when they meet in regular session at 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday, August 2 in the council chambers to the Muleshoe City Hall.

To be discussed are an ordinance concerning development in flood prone areas; and city-related legislation passed by the 65th Legislature.

City Attorney Dee Treadwell will report to council members on matters under study about the local airport.

NEW OFFICERS...Gary Burkhart, standing, and Leroy Sandefer are new officers with the Muleshoe City Police Department. They both started work in the last few days to fill vacancies in the department.

Mrs. Lyndon Huckaby said the Muleshoe Girl Scout Day Camp, scheduled for August 1 through 5 at the Girl Scout Hut has been cancelled.

Mrs. Huckaby said the lack of volunteers for the camp forced a cancellation of the annual camp.

Vic Benedict, hospitalized at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock, was reported Friday morning as improving.

Mrs. Rosemary Pool, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pool, had surgery Monday in Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. She is in room 502 and is reported to be recuperating very well.

Julie Dawn Smith, one year old great-granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Creamer, underwent abdominal surgery in Omaha, Neb. Wednesday.

Julie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith of Cozad, Neb. Her grandmother, Mrs. Kirk Herrington, told local relatives Wednesday night that Julie was in intensive care and improving. This was her second major surgery since her birth a year ago in Cozad.

Mrs. Herrington, the former Carolyn Creamer, said they expected Julie to be hospitalized for approximately a week.

Local Youth Win At District In Report Books

District Two judging for record books was held Monday at the Garden and Arts Center in Lubbock. Thirty-seven 4-H record books were turned in to Bailey County Agents in Muleshoe, and with one record book in each category eligible for entry, the local books were judged out of county to determine books to be in the district competition.

Bailey county 4-H members whose books were entered in the contest were, Seniors: Sharla Farmer, horse book, for a second place; Gregg Harrison, swine, also a second place; Dana Holmes, safety, for a third place win. Other senior books in the competition were Casey Farmer, agriculture and Kelly Harrison, beef.

Junior records were from Kim Farmer, horse; Mandy Jo Plank, garden; Tim Sain, management; Delia Shaw, foods; Darin Shaw, swine; Tamara Gilliland, clothing; Jimmy Gleason, beef; Tori Hunt, achievement; Curtis Hunt, sheep; Jacinda Gleason, vet-science; and Benton Glaze, safety.

All the junior records were judged in first place and each received a blue ribbon.

Dyeing System Boosts Cotton Knit Prospects

More cotton in knit fabrics should be the result of an improved dyeing system unveiled here recently by officials of Cotton Incorporated, the fiber company of American cotton producers.

The improved pad batch system should help accelerate the trend to more cotton in knit fabrics, Cotton Incorporated vice president Hall Brockmann told a press conference held here in conjunction with the biennial Knitting Arts Exhibit.

"This system is a tremendous improvement over conventional systems for dyeing the cotton in knit fabrics," according to Brockmann, vice president for textile research and development.

Already five mills have installed or in the process of installing the system, Brockmann says.

In addition, representatives of 45 textile concerns recently visited the Raleigh, N.C. research center of Cotton Incorporated for a seminar on the pad batch system.

"They went away very enthusiastic about pad batch dyeing," says Brockmann. "We anticipate that a number of them will adopt pad batch dyeing."

The system will boost the use of cotton in knitwear, explains Brockmann, because the trend to high-cotton blended knitwear has been slowed by the cost and duration of dyeing the cotton.

"This improved system removes those problems and expedites the move to more 'Natural Blend' and all-cotton knits," adds Brockmann.

"Natural Blend" is a trademark of Cotton Incorporated for fabric that is 60 per cent cotton with easy care properties.

The system dramatically reduces the energy, chemical and labor requirements of dyeing the cotton, he says. The direct annual costs of the system are one-fifth those of the conventional system for batch-dyeing cotton in knit fabric and investment costs are about one-third that of the conventional batch systems.

"This system is particularly attractive for mills that have always made 100 per cent polyester knit goods and which may be apprehensive of the conventional exhaust dyeing of cotton and cotton blends," Brockmann says.

The improved system is the result of cooperative work between Cotton Incorporated, Burlington Engineering Sales Co., Greenville Steel Textile Machinery Corp. and several dyestuff manufacturers.

"The system was tested with full scale production equipment at the Raleigh, N.C. research center of Cotton Incorporated. Those tests showed the equipment provides substantial savings in energy, chemicals, and labor, while providing excellent reproducibility of dye shades," says Brockmann.

The system uses about one-fifth the energy of the conventional exhaust dyeing system, Brockmann reports.

Other benefits of the system include reduced water use, space savings, reduced abrasion to the fabric, and versatility.

Development of the system took over three years. It was handled by Wolfgang Strahl, Cotton Incorporated associate director of textile product research, and Robbie Stone, manager of dyeing research.

The Speaker Reports

AUSTIN--The Southern Legislative Conference's Special Energy Committee met in Washington recently to discuss energy issues and problems with representatives of the Carter Administration, the Congress and the oil, gas and coal industries.

The Committee is composed of legislators from both the energy-producing and consuming areas of the 15 member states. Representative Joe Hubenak, and I are members of the committee representing Texas.

The Committee has issued a statement which is being presented to the leadership in their member states and in Congress.

The Committee expressed concern that while conservation of energy resources can be of great assistance in solving short-term energy problems, it must not be considered a substitute for energy development and production.

The Committee supports the deregulation of new natural gas wellhead prices and is unanimously opposed to the use of any tax revenues that may be generated through our nation's energy programs as a single-shot effort to deal with part of our social welfare problems. Tax revenues collected as a result of the Federal government's energy program should be used to solve America's energy problems. It is the consensus of the Committee that the maintenance of family incomes should be of top priority. If energy curtailments to businesses and industries force them to close, a supply of energy to homes is of little value to the unemployed who may have no money to pay for their supply.

We are calling on Congress to consider the unique geographic needs of the different regions of the country when debating the energy problems. While the 15 states represented at the meeting currently produce over 80 per cent of this nation's energy supplies, the southern states receive very little Federal money for research, development and demonstration of alternate energy technologies.

Students May Have Tax-Free Summer Jobs

A student or other summer employee may earn up to $2,350 before paying income taxes, according to Internal Revenue Service regulations. Also, an employee does not have to file an income tax return unless he earns more than this amount, has more than $750 unearned income such as dividends, or is being claimed as a dependent by a parent, says Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

If a teenager expects to earn less than this figure, he certifies to his employer when hired that he expects to avoid a federal income tax liability for the current year and had none for the preceding year. He then must file a W-4E Form that certifies that there is to be no tax deduction by the employer.

If any time after this form is filed the employee does earn more than $2,350, then a regular tax withholding form may be filed and standard deductions will begin.

If he chooses, a teenager may have the standard tax deduction made at the time he's hired, Tanksley says. This money will be returned when he files for a tax refund after Jan. 1. Some prefer to use this practice as a way of saving about 15 per cent of their summer earnings for use at a later time.

objectionable productions of combustion from reaching the environment. Both electrostatic precipitators and stack gas scrubbers were installed in the first unit at a cost of approximately $20 million. The number two unit will utilize a fabric filter stack emission control system known as a "baghouse." This environmental control equipment is necessary for compliance with the Texas and Federal air control regulations.
The use of sewage effluent for boiler and cooling water - a practice pioneered by Southwestern Public Service Company at Jones Stadium in Lubbock, Nichols Station and Harrington Station in Amarillo - will continue to save millions of gallons of fresh water per day. The three plants use an average of nine million gallons of sewage effluent each day, saving enough fresh water to serve the residential, commercial and industrial needs of a city of 100,000 people. It takes about 450 gallons of water per month to generate the power for a residential customer using 600 KWH per month. The investment for water quality control equipment was about six million.
The principal plant capability of Southwestern Public Service Company is presently 2,746,800 kilowatts. This includes 2,613, 200 in steam plant capability and 133,600 kilowatts in gas turbine and expander turbine capacity. With completion of the number two unit, Harrington Station will become the largest plant of Southwestern's system. In 1980, when the third unit goes on the line, Harrington will have a capability of over one million kilowatts and at that time, approximately 30 percent of the system generating capability will be coal-fired.
Harrington Station was named in honor of the late Don Harrington, Amarillo oilman, investor and philanthropist. He served continuously on the SPS board of directors from the time the company was organized in its present form in 1942 until his death on April 27, 1974.

Dallas, and Ron Mitchell was to have flown to Arizona this weekend to pick up his clothes.
He said he had reported his brother missing late Monday after he failed to return to his home following a trip to the grocery store. His brother had left his home in the older brother's car, Mitchell added.
Mitchell could offer no explanation as to why his brother was last seen in Plainview where he had checked into a Motel in that city. According to Mitchell, his brother knew no one in Texas other than himself and said he did not believe his brother had made arrangements to meet anyone at the motel approximately 60 miles east of Muleshoe.
Texas Ranger Jim Mull, heading investigation of the death, said the handwriting on the motel registration card had been identified as that of Ron Mitchell, who gave his brother's address in Irving when he registered.
Ranger Mull has taken custody of all motel registration cards for Monday, July 18, and have failed to determine any inconsistency with the persons shown registered at that time.
Although the investigation continues with the very slim leads to turn up so far, officers are optimistic at this point about solving the bizarre and unusual case.

BOB BULLOCK
Comptroller of Public Accounts

Dear Mr. Bullock:
I called your toll-free Tax Information number on two different days recently and got busy signals. What's the problem in Austin?
I'm sorry for the inconvenience, but we're getting hundreds of calls a day—far more than we expected—and, frankly, our six lines can't handle the load.
So we are adding two more lines. Hopefully, this will make it easier for taxpayers with questions to get through.
If you still have trouble getting through, try calling between 8 and 9 a.m. or between 4 and 5 p.m. Our calls are lowest during those hours and you should get through on the first try.
Dear Sir:
We are thinking of subscribing to a TV cable service. Will we have to pay a sales tax on that service?
No. Television cable service is not subject to the sales tax.
Mr. Bullock:
I'm getting up in the years and I would like to give away my assets before my death. I understand that by doing this there won't be any inheritance taxes on my estate. Is that correct?

Federal Land Bank Cuts Interest Rate

Ernest Kerr, manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Muleshoe, announced Wednesday that the Federal Land Bank of Houston will reduce the interest billing rate on variable rate loans to seven and three fourths percent. This reduction will be effective on August 1 (tomorrow, Monday) and will affect $1.04 billion in variable rate loans to 18,026 Texas farmers and ranchers. This billing rate change will be effective on both farm loans and rural residence loans.
The variable rate loan was introduced by the Houston Bank in July, 1969, and provides for the rate to fluctuate with the variation in the cost of money. A more favorable money market has made this billing reduction possible. Kerr stated, "This continues to demonstrate the Bank's policy to furnish credit to Texas farmers and ranchers at the lowest possible cost, consistent with sound business practices."
The Federal Land Bank of Houston makes long-term real estate loans on farm and ranch land and rural residences throughout Texas. The local association makes and services loans in Bailey and Parmer Counties.
Officers and directors of the association in the local area are Gordon Duncan, James B. Glaze, Jim Claunch, Arlin L. Hartzog and Morris Douglas.

Reading List Deadline Near

Tomorrow, Monday, August 1, is the deadline for all area boys and girls to turn in to the library reading lists for books they have completed during this summer.
On Wednesday, August 3, recognition day will be scheduled at the library to honor all participants in the Summer Reading Club program.
Highest readers in three age-levels will receive gifts furnished by the Friends of the Library and a drawing will be held for "Curious George," the well known monkey. In order to win "Curious George" the winner must be present at the library.
Registration for "Curious George" will continue until just before time for the drawing.
The highest winner in each of the three age levels will be photographed for the Journal and a framed honor roll will be placed in the library and sent to the schools listing all boys and girls who completed the requirements and received certificates. Muleshoe Area Public Librarian Annie Camp said 20 books are required to receive the certificate, so be present and receive your honor certificate, if you met the requirements.

FOOD MARKETING ALERT

USDA Agricultural Marketing Service
As of mid-July, the August supply situation looks like this...
RED MEATS
Beef... plentiful. Production to be 4-6 percent below the record Aug. 1976 level, but about 3 percent above the 1974-76 average for the month. Smaller output of grass-fed beef to account for most of decline from levels of year earlier.
Pork... adequate. Production to be down seasonally but up from June and July levels and averaging 4-6 percent above Aug. of last year. This is about 9 percent above the 1974-76 average for Aug.
POULTRY & EGGS
Broiler-fryers... adequate. Aug. marketing rates up about 4 percent from same month of last year, about 13 percent higher than Aug. 1974-76 average.
Turkey... adequate. Aug. marketing rates likely down about 2 percent from year earlier level, but 3 percent above the average for 1974-76. Aug. 1 cold storage holdings slightly above last year's level. So, overall turkey supply about the same as Aug. of last year.
Eggs... adequate. Aug. output about 1 percent above a year earlier and also the Aug. 1974-76 average.
MILK & DAIRY PRODUCTS
Milk and dairy products... plentiful. Milk production declining seasonally, but above Aug. 1976 and 1974-76 average levels for the month. With milk production greatly exceeding demand for drinking milk, and commercial stocks of dairy products at high levels, supplies of these products should exceed commercial demand.
FRUITS, VEGETABLES & NUTS
Fresh peaches... plentiful. This season's production, excluding California clingstones which are used mostly in canning, forecast at 2 percent above 1975. Plums... plentiful. California's crop to be 22 percent above last season. Nectarines... plentiful. The California crop to be 2 percent below last season's record but 17 percent above 1975. Bartlett pears... adequate. Crop in California, Oregon and Washington to be 6 percent less than last year but 8 percent above 1975. Grapes... plentiful. California's record crop to be about 5 percent above last year and 4 percent above the 1975 crop.
Dried prunes... adequate. California's 1976 production was about 3 percent less than the 1975 crop but 3 percent above 1974. Raisins... light. Production in 1976 much lower than 1975.
Oranges... adequate. Harvest of the California-Arizona valencia crop about 45 percent complete as of July 1.
Lemons... plentiful. As of July 1, quantity remaining to harvest was 40 percent above year earlier. Also, lemons held in storage, about double the quantity unharvested, was 8 percent above a year ago. Limes... light. 1977-78 crop expected to be down 38 percent from last season and the smallest crop since 1966-67.
Terminology used: PLENTIFUL—More than enough for requirements. ADEQUATE—Enough to meet needs. LIGHT—Less than adequate; not enough for normal needs.

NEWS VIEWS
Joseph A. Califano Jr., HEW Secretary:
"Fraud and abuse by physicians and pharmacists participating in the Medicaid program is a serious problem."
I never found the companion that was so companionable as solitude.
-H. D. Thoreau.

Processed vegetables... mostly adequate, with frozen sweet corn and frozen potatoes plentiful. Inventories of frozen cut corn and corn-on-cob were 14 and 19 percent, respectively, above average as of June 30. Frozen potato stocks were 18 percent above those of a year earlier.
Fresh potatoes... adequate. Summer production to be about 2 percent less than in 1976. Harvests of fresh vegetables are near their summer peak. Total production to be 3 percent above last year.
GRAINS & LEGUMES
Rice... plentiful. The 117-million hundredweight produced in 1976 was 9 percent below the 1975 record crop and 5 percent above the 1973-75 average. Production for 1977-78 forecast at about 104 million hundredweight.
Wheat... plentiful for U.S. food needs. Coupled with largest carryover since 1963, the 1977-78 supply could be record large. Harvest in 1976 was a record 2,147 million bushels, slightly more than 1975 crop and 14 percent over the 1973-75 average. 1977 production is now forecast at 2,044 million bushels.
Corn... plentiful for food use. Production forecast at 6,331 million bushels, topping last year's record by 2 percent and 9 percent above 1973-75 average.
Dry beans... adequate. 1976 production was 17.2 million hundredweight. That is 1 percent less than 1975 but 5 percent below 1973-75 average.
Dry split peas... adequate. Production in 1976 was 2.2 million hundredweight... 21 percent under 1975 and 15 percent under 1973-75 average. Late June dry weather has cut prospects for '77 in major U.S. production areas.

MRS. RICHARD LAYNE MEYERS

Miss D'Anne Clark, Meyers Pledge Vows

An evening candlelight ceremony united in marriage Miss Mary D'Anne Clark and Richard Layne Meyers of Lubbock, Saturday, July 23, in the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe. Dr. Burel Block of Weslaco officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. John M. Clark of Muleshoe. The groom is the son of Mrs. Gertrude Meyers of Shallowater and W.E. Meyers of Muleshoe.

The flared and cathedral candelabrum with white candles decorated with southern smilax, killion, marguaritte and majestic daisies in yellow and white was an expression of elegant simplicity. The memory candle sat amidst an arrangement of the bride's chosen flowers on a Grecian pedestal with southern smilax and gypsophelia. Votive candles with greenery and yellow bows marked the Mother's pews, family and special guest section.

Mrs. Elbert Hamilton, organist, and Mrs. Bobbie Grogan, pianist, accompanied by Miss Patty Pena and Billy Donaldson on guitars performed the bride's wedding selections of "The Wedding Song", "Evergreen" and "The Lord's Prayer" as Kenneth Carter sang. Candelights were Mark Day of Lubbock and Eddie Flowers of Muleshoe, both cousins of the bride.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Victorian gown of white organza accented in silk floss Venise lace. The moulded bodice featured a sweetheart yoke of sheer organza framed in the Baroque patterned lace, extending over the shoulder line and sheer sleeves. A high wedding band collar of the lace was accented in a lace drop of flowers and leaves. The lace flowers and leaves also defined the semi-Princess silhouette. Long sheer sleeves were gathered to wide lace cuffs, and the trim A-line skirt was encircled in a deep bordered flounce with double rows of lace edging, continuing up the back of the train to form a wide petal effect framed in the Baroque lace. Lace medallions were sprinkled throughout. She wore a matching mantilla edged in the Baroque lace designed to match her gown. Miss Clark carried the tri-cascading bouquet, "Queen's Lace." The bouquet was of stephanotis, miniature Edwardian yellow roses, white marguaritte daisies and gypsophelia atop a pearl-encrusted Bible.

For the traditional something old, the bride carried a pearl-encrusted Bible carried by her mother in her wedding. For something new was the bride's wedding gown and for something borrowed was her grandmother's diamond necklace. She wore the traditional blue garter for something blue.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Amy Clark of Muleshoe, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Carol Clark, sister of the bride, Mrs. David Saylor, Mrs. Tim Sooter, Miss Lashelle Lewis, all of Muleshoe, and Miss Brenda Adams of Lubbock.

They were gowned alike in Buttercup yellow jersey. The soft flowing gowns complemented the Bridal theme, gently draped and tied to fit with self fabric corded sashes and deep cape sleeves.

Miss Amy Clark and Miss Carol Clark carried nosegays of stephanotis, miniature yellow roses, gypsophelia and daisies with lace accents. The bridesmaids carried nosegays of yellow and white marguaritte daisies with lace accenting. They all wore a single yellow daisy and baby's breath in their hair. Serving as flower girl was Diana Day of Lubbock, cousin of the bride. She wore a yellow dotted swiss dress with a tiered skirt. She carried a basket of love knots that were strewn. She also wore a yellow daisy in her hair.

Attending the groom as best man was Clifton Meyers of Muleshoe, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Steve Block of Weslaco, Larry Meyers of Washington, D.C., brother of the groom, Tim Sooter of Muleshoe, cousin of the groom, Alan Payne of Lubbock and Mark Bruns of Muleshoe.

They all wore white tuxedos with yellow and white bibs. Each attendant wore a yellow daisy boutonniere. The fathers wore light brown tuxedos with candlelight shirts, bibs and ties. They both wore a rose boutonniere.

The bride's mother wore a peach colored chiffon gown softly gathered under the bodice and caught with a rosette of the same material. It was topped with a self cape that fell to a point in back. She wore stephanotis and baby's breath in her hair and carried a fingertip miniature bouquet of yellow roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

The groom's mother wore a mint green chiffon gown with a slightly flared skirt and high neckline and cape effect that softly draped her shoulders. She wore a corsage of stephanotis and yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Flowers. The bride's table was laid with a natural colored linen cloth enhanced with embroidery. A twin arrangement of majestic killion and marguaritte daisies of yellow and white with yellow roses and baby's breath in formal five-branch silver candelabras highlighted the table. Yellow roses, daisies, stephanotis and baby's breath topped the off-white bride's cake. Flowers were entwined throughout the tiers into an arrangement of yellow roses, daisies, gypsophelia and pittisporium which encircled the cake. Champagne punch was served from an ornate silver punch bowl. Pumpkin seeds in a silver bun warmer and fresh grapes were served by Miss Carolanne Stephens, Miss Jana Bruns and Miss Debbie Purcell.

German chocolate cake in an oversized copper tray arranged with variegated pittisporium and majestic daisies with an arrangement in a brass candelabra of yellow lemons, yellow apples and green grapes with yellow candles accented the groom's table. Copper and silver appointments were served from by Miss Helen Baldaras and Miss Janet Hopper.

Miss Carolanne Stephens of Lubbock registered guests. For travel to Washington, D.C. and New York, the bride wore a two-piece blue and beige floral Quiana knit outfit accented with bone accessories. The couple will reside at 6001 34th Steet, Apartment 13 in Lubbock.

AUGUST WEDDING PLANNED...Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Johnson of Muleshoe announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ginger Lynne, to Allen Kent Irons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen E. Irons of Hart. The couple plan an August 30 wedding in the First Baptist Church of Muleshoe.

and Clovis, N.M. The bride is a 1976 honor graduate of Muleshoe High School and a sophomore marketing major at Texas Tech University.

The groom is a 1974 graduate of Muleshoe High School and a junior marketing major at Texas Tech University. He is a member of Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity. He is currently employed as an assistant manager of T.G.&Y Family Center in Lubbock.

W.E. Meyers hosted the rehearsal dinner at the XIT Steakhouse. A bridesmaids brunch was held at the bride's home July 23.

Slow Paced Child Can Succeed

Slow-paced children can succeed—if parents and teachers adapt time schedules and attitudes, says a family life education specialist. "Many school-home related problems between parents, teachers and students are basically "no fault," explains Dorothy Taylor, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. "They stem from avoidably tight schedules that make for classroom frustrations: Neither parent, teacher, nor child has created these conditions.

"There is no place to lay the blame, yet child-centered problems arise and must be dealt with by both school and parents," the specialist says. "One victim of this issue is the child who is not lazy, but who works slowly or methodically. "We are not discussing the "slow learner" here," she cautions, "rather the child who is slower paced.

"Distress surrounds the child who does not keep up with classmates."

Yet to keep to a schedule, classroom activity is timed to the speed of most pupils in a given classroom. "Clocked work overpowers the slow-paced child, as usual, and leaves him only half through when most others have finished. With a rigid schedule, the teacher is pressed to keep up, yet the slower-paced child cannot, Miss Taylor says.

"The child who is not attuned, who is not a clock-watcher, begins to see himself as "different," and he is disappointed that his pattern doesn't fit "the system."

It is vital that the slower child not be criticized or berated by parent or teacher for his "pokeness," she adds.

"He knows already that he falls below the standard, yet he knows he is capable of doing a task if given time. His homework usually proves this—it is usually complete and accurate because he has done it on his own time.

"But he has already marked himself as a failure. To have this belief confirmed by the adults around him is devastating," the specialist warns.

The solution might lie in allotting this child extra time for completing projects. This time might come from a "free time" slot, or recess, Miss Taylor suggests.

Answering the needs of a slower-paced student will help bypass behavior problems that could start with that child's resentment and poor self-image.

"One obvious first step in ironing out the problem is that parents and teachers be available to the child who has problems with completing school work during the school day.

"Open communication and understanding between parents, teachers, and children is the first step in better school relationships."

Bernard W. Rogers, Army Chief of Staff:
"Arbitration, collective bargaining and shared decision-making have no place in modern warfare."

Just Duck
"How many times shall I bow?" said the novice at the amateur variety show.
"Bow?" said the stage manager. "No bowing for you. You'll have to duck."

Abraham Beame, New York City Mayor:
"We cannot tolerate in this age of modern technology a power system that can shut down the nation's largest city."

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

What do you do if a person will not discuss anything with you? If he would have an argument and get angry it would be better than just standing there and clamming up without saying a word. And then he just walks off and nothing is settled and I don't know what he is thinking.

Do you think he does this to aggravate me or do you think he is afraid we will get in a fight? What can I do about this?

S.T.--Georgia

Answer:

There are many reasons why some people avoid arguments and discussions. One is that there may be children around and they hate to have a scene in case people get very angry. Another is that, as children, they were taught to repress their feelings because of fear. People who do this are likely to become violent when they do reach the point when they can be quiet no longer.

Why not bring this matter up when there is nothing controversial to discuss and ask this person to talk about things with you while you are away from the children. Keep your voice low and stop talking if things seem to be getting out of hand.

Louisa.

OSHA Proposed Rule Questioned

Wisdom of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration's proposed new industry-wide cotton dust standard is being questioned by still another federal agency, a National Cotton Council official said today.

Council President Jack G. Stone referred to a post-hearing statement filed recently by the Small Business Administration (SBA) with OSHA Director Eula Bingham. Earlier, the Council on Wage and Price Stability criticized the proposed standard for failing to give adequate consideration to cost-benefit comparisons.

SBA, in its statement, warns that OSHA regulations—if adopted as now proposed—will "protect workers from cotton dust exposure by shutting down the plants in which they are now employed."

In addition, the agency points out that the proposed regulations will directly affect not only the 3,355 small companies in the cotton industry but also more than 13 million small businesses nationwide. About 97 percent of the establishments in the cotton industry are considered "small" under criteria developed for SBA loan programs.

"Most small businesses would lack the technical and capital resources required for compliance with the regulations," the SBA statement notes.

It is also pointed out that—due to the interdependence and geographic concentration of the various industry segments—any change in employment level or sales volume for any single sector would have far-reaching effects.

As for alternative recommendations, SBA states that none of those outlined by OSHA to date are feasible for small companies.

"Alternatives such as restricting regulation to a specific sector of the cotton industry would still impose a substantial financial problem on small companies in that sector," the SBA statement said. "Moreover, regulation of a single sector will result in an adverse impact industrywide. All other sectors would readjust their own operations to levels consistent with the lower-employment, lower-volume level of the regulated sector."

In commenting on the SBA statement, the Council president said he was "gratified" that the federal agency recognized the dire impact the proposed standard would have on the entire cotton industry as well as the national economy.

"The fact that knowledgeable people outside the cotton industry see the folly of this absurd standard is encouraging," Stone said.

Offshore Energy Development

WASHINGTON—Senate action on legislation to amend leasing procedures on the Outer Continental Shelf has dealt a severe setback to this Nation's efforts to become energy self-sufficient.

If signed into law by the President, the legislation could well be a death blow.

At issue in the recent Senate vote were amendments to the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act of 1953, the law which established the leasing structure for the development of oil and gas in federal offshore regions. This law provides the basic framework and authority to lease and develop federal offshore fields, and the record of exploration and production under the Act is impressive.

Not only was the 1953 law a flexible document, with adaptations to reflect changes in technology and the times, but it permitted adequate environmental safeguards and allowed states to become equal partners in decisions affecting their coastlines and economies.

In short, the 1953 law worked well because it was both simple and comprehensive, balancing legitimate state interests with the national need to develop publicly owned resources.

The Senate action removed most of that flexibility, replacing it with rigid new federal regulations that promise only to complicate leasing procedures and to create countless opportunities for obstructionist lawsuits. Red tape inevitably will result and precious time will be lost in bringing in new wells that already require as much as eight years lead time.

At a time when every effort should be made to increase production of our own resources, further regulation of the industry only assures our continued dependence on foreign energy sources.

More alarming, however, than the increased regulation of the oil industry, is the degree to which the Federal government with this legislation has deepened its involvement in the energy business.

One amendment the Senate adopted directs the President to conduct a continuing investigation to determine the availability of all oil and gas produced or located in the United States. Clearly, the Federal government would have vast and unprecedented powers to make assessments of energy availability anywhere in the country—on Federal lands, state-owned lands, and private lands, both onshore and offshore.

Under this provision, the government could, if it deemed such action necessary, enter upon privately owned property, and then drill exploratory wells to determine the existence and extent of oil and gas reserves.

This and other amendments to the 1953 law raise not only the specter but the near reality of a Federal government agency which could conduct all oil and gas exploration and production in the United States.

An enormous Federal program of this nature would provide little new information on national energy reserves, despite its sponsors' claims, but would bring us much closer to the time when the Federal government will attempt to take over all private energy development in this country. The cost of such a Federal endeavor to the American taxpayer would be untold billions.

In few instances has Congress demonstrated more clearly its misunderstanding of this country's energy dilemma. Government's long history of intervention into the energy business has been a principal contributor to our growing dependence on foreign sources. We cannot expect to lessen that dependence with measures making a bad situation worse.

goods or services in their home. It's the Texas Home Solicitation Act, passed by the Legislature in 1973 and amended in 1975.

Under this law, a consumer who is solicited at his home by someone selling goods or services that cost $25 or more, or real estate costing $100 or more, has a chance to change his mind.

The act gives consumers the right to cancel a home solicitation transaction up until midnight of the third business day following the day the contract was signed.

The person soliciting the sale must furnish the consumer with a copy of the contract or a fully completed receipt before leaving the premises. In it, the date of the transaction, name and address of the seller, and a notice of the right to cancel must be printed in large, dark type near the spot on the contract reserved for the buyer's signature.

In addition, the law requires that a completed "notice of cancellation" be attached to the contract or receipt for the consumer to use if he decides to cancel the sale. If the seller receives such a cancellation from the consumer, he must return any payment or contract within 10 business days.

One important point for the thousands of Spanish-speaking Texans is that the contract or receipt, the notice of right to cancel, and the completed cancellation notice must be in the same language the salesman used for his sales pitch. In other words, if the salesman spoke Spanish, everything must be written in Spanish.

The act also states that the seller cannot transfer your contract to a finance company or other third party until midnight of the fifth business day after your contract was signed.

Additionally, the seller must pick up any merchandise or title to realty he sold you within 20 days after cancellation or you can keep them with no obligation.

However, our attorneys point out that consumers who want to cancel a home solicitation sale also have some obligations under the law. To cancel such a sale, a purchaser must mail or deliver a signed, dated copy of the cancellation notice or his own written notice, or must send a telegram to that effect to the seller no later than midnight of the third business day after the sale. Our lawyers recommend sending a registered letter or a telegram so you have proof the seller received the notice.

And protection under this law does not extend to purchase of farm equipment; insurance regulated by the State; real estate sales where the buyer is represented by his lawyer or where the transaction is made by the licensed real estate broker; sales made according to a preexisting retail charge account or agreement, or sales where the two parties had previously met and negotiated at a business office where the goods or services were offered or displayed.

be your own Meter Maid

You can add up your groceries while you're buying . . .

You can add up your gasoline while you're buying . . .

But
can you add up your electricity while you're buying?

Yes you can... Here's How!

Learn to read your electric meter. It will let you determine how many kilowatt hours you use in a given period of time . . . an hour, a day, a month or a year. That's how electricity is measured — by kilowatt hours used.

Your residential electric meter will have either 5 or 4 dials

Electric meters are easily read from right to left as you look at the meter. If the pointer on a dial is between two numbers, write down the smaller number. When the pointer is directly on a number such as one (1) (see center dial above) then read it as 1 if the pointer on the next dial immediately to the right has passed zero (0). However, read it as zero (0) if the pointer on that dial to the right has not reached zero.

The dials above read (from left to right): 9-3-1-1-5. If, however, the pointer on the second dial from the right above was between 9 and zero then the center dial would read as a zero.

Now let's read the same meter 24 hours later

This later reading is 9-3-1-3-8. Subtracting the first reading, 93115, from the new reading of 93138 — the answer is 23. Thus you would have used 23 kilowatt hours in the 24 hour period.

Now you can become a METER MAID and watch your meter like a miser if you choose. WE HAVE A BOOKLET CALLED "MANAGING YOUR ELECTRIC BILL" plus other WISE USE TIPS booklets that help keep you from wasting electricity and so help lower your cost. Any of these booklets are free for the asking at your Public Service office . . . come by and see us.

From The Pastors Desk by Rev David Everts

A CAUTION AND AN EXHORTATION:--Romans 12:1-2 "...I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God." The book of Romans is both a doctrinal and a spiritual book. It was written primarily for believers--yet there is much in it to guide the unsaved in his search for God. There are two central facts presented in these verses of Scripture--one is a warning--the other is an appeal. Thus we have both a negative and a positive approach to its truths.

FIRST THERE IS PRESENTED A CAUTION:--First of all we ask ourselves two questions: "what is meant by 'this world'?" And "be not conformed to it." What is there in this world that is so dangerous--and why should men need to be warned about the traps and pits into which they might fall while they are citizens of it? I think there are at least three answers: (1) First of all our life here is a temporal thing. And we are constantly in danger of seeing life wholly through temporal eyes. Forgetting the more abiding things that outlast death and time. (2) Second--this world is physical--and there is a danger that we will fall into the habit of measuring all things by physical standards--forgetting the value of spiritual things. Such practices will make men mercenary--they will make men selfish--they will make men greedy and grasping after things instead of seeking things of a truer worth. (3) And third, this world is corrupt. Granted that not everything in it is corrupt--yet corruption is found in high places as well as in low places. This corruption has gotten into business--it is in politics--it is in our society--it is in our churches--and it is in about everything else that is connected with our physical life. We will all agree that there is much good in the world--but the bad is so prevalent that the temporal--passing--physical part of life seems to be largely dominated by it. And it is placed in sharp contrast with spiritual things. Higher things and even holier things. Then what did Paul mean when he said: "...be not conformed to this world." I think he meant among other things perhaps--was a caution not to become like the world. Do not let men call your good evil. There is a great danger today of the church becoming like the rest of the world. And this is a sad commentary. The unfair spirit that so often rules the world of physical things--should not be allowed to rule the church. There is a danger of the Christian becoming like--and living like--the unsaved man of the world lives and acts. In the Old Testament record--Sanballat tried to get Nehemiah to turn aside from rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem and have a conference with him. All he wanted to do was to hinder the work on the city--and to direct the affairs of the Lord. But Nehemiah would not listen--and he refused to follow his council. We have another account in the Bible when the men of Canaan wanted the sons of Jacob to intermarry with their families and be like them. But the Israelites refused to do it. If they had followed the request of the Canaanites--the Jews would have no longer been a separate people--but would have been swallowed up by the wicked tribes of Canaan. This tragic experience happened to the Northern Kingdom. The devil comes to many Christians today and suggests to them: "Don't become a fanatic--be broad-minded--be tolerant toward all kinds of questionable practices." But this is a trap to ensnare the Christian into losing his identity as a follower of the Lord. And the devil is busy twenty-four hours out of every day seeking to destroy and ruin. WE ALSO HAVE AN EXHORTATION:--"...be ye transformed." In other words--be made into the likeness of something else. Become the very opposite of this world. Allow yourself to be filled with a different spirit. Set your heart on different things. Learn a new appraisal of things. Have a new standard by which to judge and measure life. This is an exhortation to try to be as near like Christ as it is possible to be. How are we to do it? (1) First by "renewing your mind."--No person can be like Christ unless his way of thinking is changed. One cannot live a growing Christian-Life if he continually "thinks sinful thoughts. Neither can we love holy things when our minds are filled with unholy things. The changing of one's deeds always follow the changing of one's thinking. When a Christian hangs around places of evil--and then wonders why he has a hard time living right just isn't thinking. When I was a child we had those old fashioned oil lamps. And this is all we had for light by which to read or study. I have sat and watched the little candle fly many times circle around and around that old lamp chimney and he invariably fell into it to his death. And as a child I would lecture him--telling him--after they were dead--if you had not played around that chimney--you would not have fallen into it. I have seen the dead leaves cling to the trees during the long winters then in the Spring when the sap began to rise--these same leaves would automatically fall off. The changing conditions within the tree did what the storms and the winds and the ice and the snow could not do by physical force. But with the coming of the new life--the old--outworn--excess burdens (the leaves) were pushed off. Paul also added these words to help us: "...that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God." The only way to try God's will is to give it a chance. God's will has no chance in a life that is filled with the spirit of the world. Give God a mind that is given wholly to him--and you will be able to test his will, and to certify his will. God has not had half a chance in the lives of many of us. Won't you give God a chance in your life by attending the church of your choice this next Sunday. You'll feel better when the experience is over and stronger for the tests of life that you face every other day of the week.

Ranch Reconstruction Nearing Completion

The George R. Jowell ranch house, built by a skilled stonemason to repel marauders a century ago, is in the final stages of restoration at the Ranching Heritage Center of The Museum of Texas Tech University. One of the earliest structures moved to the outdoor museum of ranching history, the Jowell House had remained until this year unroofed and empty, awaiting archeological and historical studies which would insure the accuracy of reconstruction. It was built in Palo Pinto County about 1875 after the family's original home was burned by Indians. Jowell was away on a cattle drive at the time of the raid and returned to discover his home gone but his family safe at a neighbor's. It was then he decided to build his second house of stone for protection. It stood, with its gunports to the east, on Bluff Creek, 16 miles northwest of Palo Pinto and near the present Mineral Wells and Possum Kingdom Lake. When completed at the Ranching Heritage Center, the structure will have its original out-buildings, a cooler for perishable foods and a stone cistern with its charcoal filter for clear water. It will look as it did when it served as headquarters for Jowell's Joly Ranch. The restoration is being supervised by Prof. Willard B. Robinson, acting director of the Ranching Heritage Center and a member of the Texas Tech University architecture faculty. Robinson is known nationally for his work in architectural history. "We hope to restructure the walks in the Jowell house area to conform to the paths at the original site," Robinson said. "It should look exactly as it did originally. We have determined the roof line from photographs of similar structures in the Palo Pinto area and through the archeological studies," he said. Robinson said that a skilled stonemason built the house. Several were on the 1880 Palo Pinto census rolls and one, a Joseph Harp, is said to have lived for a time with Jowell's father, J.A. Jowell. The 12-acre Ranching Heritage Center has a score of ranch buildings moved from their original locations and authentically restored and furnished to depict the history of ranching in the American West. Archeological and historic studies of the Jowell house began four years ago. The total cost of moving and restoration is estimated at more than $65,000, Robinson said. More than $35,000 of the funding came from unrestricted funds of the Ranching Heritage Association, a 1,300 member non-profit organization formed to locate and restore structures at the center. A $20,000 gift toward restoration was made by Roy B. Davis Jr. of Houston in honor of his mother, Jowell was a brother of Mrs. William Metcalfe, the maternal grandmother of Mrs. Davis Sr. Jeff and the late William Browning donated $11,500 for the Joly Ranch building in memory of their ancestor, Col. C.C. Slaughter, who held deeds of trust in 1887 and 1890 on land on which the building stood. Other restoration gifts included those of J. Holt Jowell and Mrs. Robert Wright Reeves and others. George Radcliffe Jowell was born in Marion County, Ala., in 1840 and moved, with his family, to Texas in 1844. He joined the Confederate Army in 1862 and, after the war, returned to Palo Pinto County which his father had helped organize. He lived there until 1882 when he moved his family to Stone-wall County where he ran cattle on the open range until 1887. That year the Jowell family moved west again to Deaf Smith County on Tierra Blanca Creek, five miles east of the present city of Hereford. There he established the Lucky HIT Ranch. A son was elected sheriff of Deaf Smith County in 1898. George R. Jowell died in Hereford five years later at the age of 63. Jowell has sold the land on which the stone house stood in 1881 to L.W. Stephens who, in 1889, sold it to Ewen, Small and Simpson. That firm later became Ewen, Small and Taylor who held the well-known SET Ranch. In 1910 the property was sold to L.E. Seaman whose heirs gave the building in his memory to the Ranching Heritage Center. The most recent purchaser of the land was a land development agency. "While virtually all evidence of the old Joly Ranch has disappeared from Palo Pinto County, the durability of the pioneers who built it is commemorated at the Ranching Heritage Center," Robinson said. Writing originated many years earlier AUSTIN, Texas (Spl) -- The origin of writing should be dated 5,000 years earlier than previously presumed, a University of Texas scholar says. Denise Schmandt-Besserat's theory that writing had its origin in 8500 B.C. in the Middle East (rather than in 3500 B.C.) is based on her study of the early uses of clay. By 8500 B.C., small clay tokens in a variety of shapes were used as an accounting system for transactions. Later, shapes of the tokens were incised on hollow clay envelopes (bullae) which served as bills of lading and in which tokens were sealed. The bullae-token system was supplanted about 3500 B.C. by clay tablets bearing check marks which became the first form of writing. The check marks, she says, resemble the shapes of the early tokens. What you don't expect doesn't disappoint you.

Lubbock Anatomist Gets Heart Award

Texas Tech University School of Medicine developmental anatomist Roger R. Markwald, Ph.D., has been named recipient of the second LBJ Research Award of the Texas Affiliate of the American Heart Association. The award is presented annually in recognition of the most "outstanding research project in Texas toward the eradication of cardiovascular disease." The award is named in honor of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson. Markwald currently is studying early development of heart connective tissue under a grant from the American Heart Association. "Heart defects are the most frequent of all major birth defects," Markwald said. "Most of these involve the connective tissue structures including the valves and internal partitions which separate the heart's circulatory functions and chambers." The professor uses laboratory rats for experimentation and study of the early embryonic heart and the forerunner of cardiac connective tissue. The forerunner tissue, cushion tissue, is formed of primitive cells which secrete large molecules called glycosaminoglycans (GAG) and collagen. Teratogens, substances which cause malformation during the formation of tissues, interrupt the action of GAG molecules in the development of connective tissue. "Many studies have shown different substances to have some kind of teratogenic effect," Markwald said, "but little has been done to examine the mechanisms by which the teratogens cause defects. "We hope to gain an understanding of how GAG molecules influence the development of normal heart tissues," he said. "Once we gain this understanding, we can begin to look for ways to apply this knowledge to prevention and possible therapeutic measures for congenital heart disease." Markwald was presented the LBJ award at the American Heart Association Texas Affiliate's 42nd Annual Assembly. He is one of five scientists at Texas Tech University School of Medicine to receive grants from the American Heart Association in 1977. Griffin Bell, Attorney General, on Korean probe: "If the public and the media will be patient and wait on us a little longer, I think you and Congress will be satisfied."

Funeral Held For Father Of Local Man

Funeral services for Jim Davis, 60, father of the local manager of Farm Bureau, Ray Davis, were conducted at 10 a.m. Friday in Dalhart.

Jim Davis died Wednesday. Conducting the services was Dr. Roy D. Collins, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Dalhart. Graveside services were conducted at 4 p.m. Friday in Lewis Cemetery in Hollis, Okla.

A native of Bogota, Davis had lived in the Dalhart area for 20 years where he was a farmer and a rancher.

Other survivors include his wife, Mozelle; a daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Knight of Cole; three brothers, R.T. and Paul, both of Amarillo and G.E. of Carrollton; his stepmother, Mrs. Grace Davis of Oklahoma City; two stepbrothers, three stepsisters and three grandchildren.

The Lieutenant Governor's Report

By Bill Hobby

In this column, I continue my discussion of legislation relating to our criminal justice system.

The Joint Advisory Committee on Government Operations' Subcommittee on Corrections saw three of its most important recommendations adopted by the 65th Legislature. They relate to the Texas Adult Probation System (SB 39), Shock Probation (SB 695) and Mandatory Supervision (SB 152).

The Texas Adult Probation System is charged with making probation services available throughout the state, improving the effectiveness of probation services, providing alternatives to incarceration by allocating financial aid to judicial districts for the establishment and improvement of probation services and community-based correctional programs and facilities other than jails or prisons, and establishing uniform probation administration standards.

The Commission directing the System will be composed of three district judges and two citizens not employed in the criminal justice system appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, and three district judges and one citizen not employed in the criminal justice system appointed by the presiding judge of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The Shock Probation Bill, Senate Bill 695, is designed to give persons convicted for the first time the shock of a taste of jail or prison life before being released on probation. The bill allows judges, in the case of first convictions only, to sentence someone found guilty of a felony to the Texas Department of Corrections for up to 120 days before reviewing the case and releasing the person on probation. Those convicted of misdemeanors could be confined in jail for up to 60 days before being placed on probation. It is felt that a firsthand look at prison life will deter first offenders from further crimes. Those convicted of rape and other violent crimes are eligible for the program.

Under Senate Bill 152, statutes governing eligibility for and rules governing probation, parole and release to mandatory supervision, conditional pardons, prisoner classification and good time credits are substantially revised. The bill prohibits judges from granting probation for certain violent crimes — capital murder, aggravated kidnapping, aggravated rape, aggravated sexual abuse and aggravated robbery or use of a firearm during or in flight from a felony. Juries will have the discretion to recommend probation or assess other punishment, but probation is not allowed where a firearm is used in a crime or flight from a crime.

Persons convicted of violent crimes must serve two years to become eligible for parole and restitution to the victim is allowed as a condition of parole. A period of mandatory supervision for all inmates released from the Texas Department of Corrections is required. Bills approved by the Legislature which were a part of Governor Dolph Briscoe's "crime package" include:

Senate Bill 151 which defines organized crime and provides penalties for persons convicted of engaging in organized crime;

Senate Bill 152 which prohibits a judge from granting probation to persons convicted of certain violent crimes and to persons who exhibit firearms during the commission of a crime or flight from a crime. This bill also requires the supervision of prisoners throughout the actual time period of their sentences when they are granted parole;

Senate Bill 155 which removes the power to extend filing deadlines from the trial court and places it exclusively with the Court of Criminal Appeals;

Senate Bill 156 which would allow the issuance of search warrants for the purpose of searching for evidence of a crime when a crime has been committed, and;

Senate Bill 157 which would permit the use of oral statements in criminal trials to show that an individual's statements are impeachable.

It is hoped that these measures will assist officials of our criminal justice system in combating the serious problem of crime.

Seed Association Sets Field Day On August 25

The Annual Field Day for Growers Seed Association is scheduled for August 25, 1977. The event will take place at our Research Farm located on Highway 62-82, four miles east of Idalou, Texas.

Field tours and discussions will get underway at 9:30 a.m. and continue until 2:00 p.m.

Highlights will be Research and Testing Programs on hybrid sorghums, cotton, hybrid corn, forages and hybrid sunflowers. There are many new hybrids and varieties in the program this year for your observation, according to Growers Seed Association.

GAME BIRD NUTRITION

Relatively little is known about game bird nutrition when compared to commercial layers and broilers. But, researchers for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M University find that basically game birds can be reared successfully on turkey diets except for minor variations in vitamin and mineral requirements. However, those variations are vital and Experiment Station scientists are fine tuning their information. Table 1 of Game Bird recommendations on protein, phosphorus, calcium and energy provides a range of values which can be adjusted for winter or summer months. Table 2 is a recommended game bird vitamin and trace mineral permit on a per ton basis. Table 3 on game bird diets provides variations for starter; grower; finisher, meat; finisher, hunting; maintenance; or breeder. Additional tables show differing feed consumption for pheasants, quail, and chukars; the effect of bird density on body weight in pheasant hens; and effect of protein and bird density on final weight. OUR USE OF LEISURE

None of us can make our best contribution to life unless we take care of our physical selves. The right kind of recreation renews the body, mind, and spirit.

There should be a proper balance and rhythm between work and rest. Our Lord meant for us to enjoy life and intended no man to punish his body with unrelieved work.

Of course our recreation should be of a kind that would actually re-create our spirits and bodies and make us better able to perform our work.

Part of our leisure time should be spent renewing our spirit by worshipping God in His Church. We invite you to attend services this week.

"But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint." Isaiah 40:31.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by living his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

YOU CAN BANK on It!

We here at the bank are always seeking better ways to serve you while reducing the overall price of services. We recognize, of course, that innovation is wasted effort unless it is a move toward more completely meeting the changing needs and wants of our customers and friends. It is a move to respond to serve the public — an obligation implicit in our charter. We have found — and still are finding — many, many ways to reduce the cost of handling paper and hold down the price of services, despite inflation and mounting expenses. And we expect more than ever before new opportunities and greater necessity for banking innovation in the months and years just ahead. And while we're innovating, we are not paying less attention to our basic services — checking and savings accounts and consumer loans. We work hard to improve the quality of our basic functions while constantly on the move to find new ways to serve you better... you can BANK on it!

Members of our Congress have a total of three and one-fourth million constituents under the age of 25 and out of work. It comes as no surprise that Congress voted last week to approve a $1 1/2 billion youth employment bill. The Labor Dept has already begun creating a new Office of Youth Programs to administer the funds.
