Two Wells Extend Vacuum Pool Several Miles North

Repollo, State 197 No. 1, Comes in 4 Miles from Nearest Production — New Gasser in Jal Area Shows 10 1/2 Million Feet.

The Vacuum oil pool was definitely extended to the north the last week, when two wells came in, 3 and 4 miles from the nearest production. A new gas well in the Jal area added to interest in the Southeast New Mexico oil and gas industry.

Repollo, State 197 No. 1, SE sec. 6-17-34, extends the Vacuum area four miles to the northwest. After salt water was encountered at a total depth of 5,916 feet, it was plugged back to 4,885 feet and treated with acid. It then flowed 95 barrels of oil in seven hours through tubing.

The other pool extension was three miles to the northeast, when Phillips, Santa Fe 6, SE sec. 21-17-35, swabbed and flowed 460 barrels of oil in 24 hours through tubing after treating with acid at a total depth of 4,840 feet.

The gasser is Stanolind, Farnsworth 3-B, SW sec. 7-26-37, Jal area, which gauged 10 1/2 million cubic feet in 24 hours at a total depth of 2,995 feet.

Evangelists Close Series of Meetings In Artesia Sunday

The Fife Brothers, evangelists of national renown, closed a successful three-week revival at the First Christian Church of Artesia Sunday. A number of additions were obtained.

The evangelistic team, Dr. Clyde Lee Fife, preacher, and his brother, Bob Fife, hand saw and trombone soloist, left Monday for Houston, Texas, where they were to open a series of meetings Tuesday.

Dr. Fife indicated before leaving Artesia he and his brother are contemplating purchase of a large tent in which to hold meetings throughout the country. Services in their own tent, he said, would tend to gather into worship members of the several Protestant churches, more so than when held in a local church.

The evangelist expressed his appreciation for the reception of his group in Artesia and his affection for the people.

Legion Installs New Officers at Meeting Monday

New officers of Clarence Kepple post, American Legion, who were elected June 6 to serve the next year, were installed at the Legion hut Monday evening. Prior to a business meeting and the installation, a steak supper was served to about fifty members.

Frank Smith, past commander and re-elected service officer, served as installation officer and was assisted by J. B. Muncey, acting sergeant-at-arms.

The new officers: Commander, C. R. Baldwin; vice commander, S. A. Lanning; finance officer, W. M. Linell, re-elected; chaplain, Paul A. Otts; service officer, Frank Smith, re-elected; historian, Sid Cox; sergeant-at-arms, Walter Douglas.

After the new commander took the chair, he and the other new officers each made a short talk and Jack Clady, retiring commander, and Oscar Samelson, retiring adjutant, responded with a few words of appreciation for cooperation among the membership the last year.

During the business session the possibility of obtaining a new hut for the Legion was discussed. No action was taken, but a committee composed of Fred Brainard, Samelson and Lanning, is to look into ways and means and report at a later meeting.

After the meeting, Commander Baldwin reported he will name his adjutant and standing committees for the year within the next few days.

Carlsbad Planning For Record Crowd At the Cavalcade

Three-Day Annual Affair at Cavern City Saturday Through Monday

Carlsbad today made plans for a record crowd at the third annual Cavern City Cavalcade, outstanding celebration of the Southwest, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

A "She's-a-Westerner" rodeo, kid rodeo, world's famous rattlesnake derby, cowboy dances, colorful parades and fireworks are features of the gala three-day celebration.

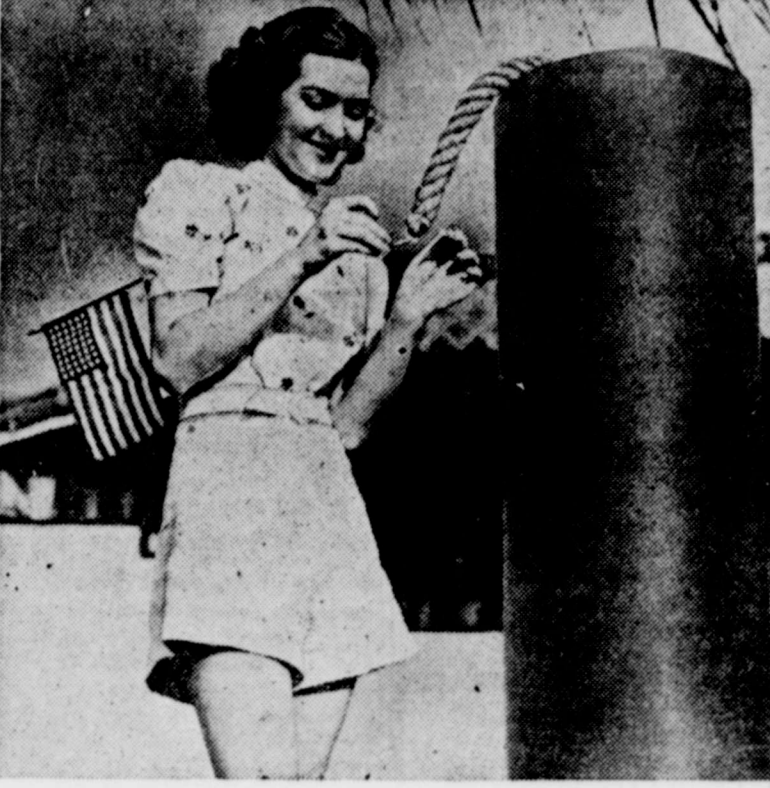

Special night trips to the famous Carlsbad Caverns will be available for celebration visitors who desire to attend celebration attractions during the day. The largest single day attendance at the cave was chalked up last July 4 when 3,771 made the trip, but indications are Cavalcade guests will shatter the record this year.

The opening day, Saturday, has been designated "Roswell and Artesia Day" while Sunday has been set aside as "Hobbs Day."

The rip-snorting rodeo in which contestants, the best mountains and plains can produce, match their skill against the strength of the wildest stock that could be assembled, will be staged each afternoon. Purses and prizes total $1,000 daily.

Courthouse Bonds Delivered To State Treasurer Tuesday

Issue of $190,000, to Bear Interest of 2 3/4 Per Cent and to Be Retired Over a Twenty-Year Period, Sold to New Mexico.

Bonds for $190,000, voted to finance construction of the new Eddy County courthouse in Carlsbad, were delivered Tuesday to the state treasurer at Santa Fe, along with an issue of $165,000 for construction of a sewer system and disposal plant at Carlsbad. Both issues were sold to the state of New Mexico.

The courthouse bonds will draw 2 3/4 per cent interest and will be retired over a period of twenty years. Delivered to the treasurer's office unsigned, they were taken there by Rude Wilcox, county clerk; Joe Lusk, county commissioner, and R. H. Westaway, deputy county assessor, to be properly signed in Santa Fe.

The bonds for the courthouse were produced in The Advocate office.

Of the Carlsbad city issue, $99,000 bears interest of 2 3/4 per cent and the remainder, $66,000, interest of 3 per cent. These bonds will likewise be retired over a period of twenty years. They were signed in Carlsbad by the mayor and taken to the state capital by H. E. McMinn, city clerk and treasurer, who was to endorse them upon his arrival, making them valid.

Both issues bear date June 15 and will draw interest from that date.

Harry Egbert, young brother of Mrs. Howard Whitson, has spent the last two weeks here with Mr. and Mrs. Whitson. The Whitsons expect to go to Cloudercroft for the Fourth and Harry will return to his home in Alamogordo from there.

It's Here—The Silhouette Contest With Prizes Totaling $15 Offered

Test your ability to recognize the characteristics and features in these black and white profile pictures, the originals of which were cut with scissors by Jack Ellis, silhouette artist, especially for this contest.

You will find the contest more interesting and entertaining if you first attempt to identify the silhouettes before reading the clues which appear beneath them.

Next, study the clues in order to check your first guesses. And of course you will want to check all against the contest solution, which will appear in next week's Advocate.

In order to enter the contest, one has only to identify each person pictured and the business he represents. In several instances there are likewise missing words which should be figured out also. Everything pertaining to the solution should be written, printed

It is planned that the winner will receive a full membership. The second prize will be a half membership and third will be three golf balls, Hugh Kidde, secretary, has announced.

The membership fee, which has been reduced for some time from $15 to $5, will be raised at the time of the tournament to $10 or $15, Mr. Kidde said.

Death in Texas Of Mrs. Garrett, Former Artesian

Mrs. John Garrett of Gainesville, Texas, formerly of Artesia, died last Thursday at the home in Gainesville of her sister, Mrs. C. M. Parnell. She was 71 years old.

Mrs. Garrett was quite ill since last February, at which time another sister, Mrs. N. E. Garrett, of Artesia and her husband had been in Gainesville with her.

Funeral services were at the home Saturday and burial was at Gainesville.

There survive Mrs. Garrett her husband and five brothers and four sisters, who are: Walter, Willie and Monroe Wyatt, Gainesville; Charlie Wyatt, McAlester, Okla.; Gussie Wyatt, Castle, Okla.; Mrs. Maggie Partney, Tyler, Texas; Mrs. C. M. Parnell and Mrs. Mary Shafer, Gainesville, and Mrs. W. E. Garrett, Artesia. All were at the funeral Saturday, except Mrs. Partney and Charlie Wyatt, who were prevented from attending because of illness.

Mrs. John Garrett came from the state of Texas to this community thirty years ago and lived here for twenty-eight years, moving with Mr. Garrett to Gainesville about two years ago.

A niece, Mrs. John Brown, and her children, June and Riley Brown, of Artesia, attended the funeral. They and Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Garrett, returned home from Gainesville Sunday.

CARS CRASH ON HIGHWAY

In an automobile accident two miles north of Artesia about 2 o'clock this morning, details of which could not be learned, both cars were badly damaged, but injuries to occupants were slight.

One automobile belongs to Ted Everts and was being driven by Bob Frakes. Irvin Martin, deputy sheriff, who was called to the scene, could not be reached this morning and the names of those in the other car could not be checked.

Mrs. Frank Palmer returned Sunday from a visit with relatives in Farmington.

Vacation Bible School to Hold Commencement

A commencement and demonstration program of children, who have attended the vacation Bible school of the First Baptist Church of Artesia the last three weeks, will be given in the church at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

The program, which will last about an hour, will include demonstrations by every department of the work the pupils have learned. There will also be an exhibit of handiwork.

Fathers, mothers and friends of the children, as well as the general public, are invited to attend.

County Voters Will Register During Month

Saturdays, July 2, 9, 16, 23, Designated by Commissioners—Four New Districts in Artesia, Instead Of Previous Three.

Election registration boards in Artesia, as well as throughout Eddy County, will meet and organize Saturday to register voters for the general election next November. The Artesia boards and those others in the county in precincts where more than 200 votes were cast at the last general election will meet again on the following three Saturdays, July 9, 16 and 23.

Boards in the smaller precincts will meet only on July 2 and 23. In Artesia there will be four districts, instead of three as heretofore, and the city has been redivided so as to make the districts about equal as to population and area.

District 6-A takes in the section of Artesia between Quay and Park Avenues, and between Fifth Street and Highway 285, as well as that part of the city lying east of the Santa Fe and south of Highway 83.

District 6-B extends from Quay Avenue between Highway 285 and Fifth Street north to Chisum Avenue, and includes also that part of the city east of the tracks and north of Highway 83.

Both districts 6-C and 6-D are L-shaped, the former embracing all of Artesia south of Quay Avenue not included in district 6-A, and the latter, 6-D, taking in all of the territory in the city north of Quay which is not included in district 6-B.

Asks $15,000 Damages For Alleged Injuries

Suit against Al Hardy of El Paso has been filed in United States District Court at Santa Fe by Genevieve Kester of Carlsbad for alleged injuries in an automobile accident Oct. 11, 1937, between Artesia and Carlsbad. She asks $15,000 damages.

The plaintiff alleges a truck belonging to Hardy, doing business as the Al Hardy Oil Company, forced off the highway the automobile in which she was riding with Clyde Slease. The truck, she charges, was being driven at an excessive speed on the wrong side of the road.

Mrs. Fatheree, a Former Artesia Resident, Dies

Mrs. V. E. Fatheree of Pampa, Texas, wife of a former Artesia druggist and hardware man, died at Pampa Monday morning, friends here have learned. She had been in poor health several years. Burial, it was understood, was to be at Pampa.

Mrs. Fatheree, who was about 65 years old, is survived by her husband and two sons, Clyde and Gene Fatheree, of Pampa. There are also surviving three grandchildren and several sisters, whose names could not be learned.

A native of Texas, Mrs. Fatheree lived in Artesia a number of years. She and her family left here in the early 1920's for Pampa, their home since. Mrs. Fatheree was a member of the Christian Church.

Precipitation from Mountains to Maljamar Wets Wide Area—Some Livestock Is Swept Away by Water Monday.

Heavy rains the last few days throughout the Pecos Valley from the Sacramento Mountains to Maljamar brought relief from drought to farmers and cattlemen over a wide area and put many streams and arroyos out of bank.

Although considerable damage was done and some livestock drowned in certain sections, the benefits from the rains far offset losses.

Trains, busses and private automobiles were delayed Monday and Tuesday after general rains, which came on top of storms in the mountains the last week, swelled streams.

Total rainfall in Artesia the last week, according to the gauge of the New Mexico Eastern Gas Company, was 2.49 inches up to this morning.

Readings, taken at 7:30 o'clock each morning for the preceding twenty-four hours, were as follows: Friday, .30 inches; Monday, .79 inches; Tuesday, 1.02 inches; Wednesday, .20 inches; this morning, .18 inches.

The rain Sunday night and most all day Tuesday, which totaled 1.81 inches here, was quite general. However, heavy rains up in the mountains prior to that were largely responsible for the flood conditions.

Most of the high water and traffic difficulty was to the south, although the Felix was running bank full where it flows under the Highway 285 bridge at Hagerman.

However, floodwater topped the North Seven Rivers bridge between here and Carlsbad and covered Highway 285 for a distance of about four miles Monday, delaying traffic an hour. Rocky Arroyo was likewise on a rampage.

Passengers on the southbound Santa Fe passenger train Monday evening were returned to Artesia, when the train was held up at Lakewood. High water from Four Mile Draw, which submerged a half mile of track and delayed the train from 8:10 Monday evening until 5 o'clock Tuesday morning. There was but little damage to the roadbed.

However a Santa Fe bridge went out at Red Bluff near the Texas line and in general more high water was reported south of Carlsbad than in this section.

Carcasses of cattle and sheep were noted in some of the streams and at the Lake Avalon spillway.

Two automobiles were reported washed away in a twenty-foot wall of water which swept down the Delaware Monday.

There were no flood stages in any damaging amounts in the Pecos Valley north of Artesia.

Eddy County May Benefit by Tenant Purchasing Loans

New Mexico Is Allocated Total of $61,927.50 for Year Starting July 1

It is possible Eddy County may benefit directly by tenant purchase loans through the passage by Congress and approval by the president of the Agricultural Appropriation Act, by obtaining some of the funds allocated to New Mexico by Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture.

Of $355,995 allotted to region XII, including New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, $6,927.50 was allocated to New Mexico for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Whereas Roosevelt County was the only county in this state to benefit under the tenant purchase loan program the last year, Eddy County may come in for its share of the funds the next year, provided the New Mexico Farm Security Advisory Committee can buy land at reasonable figures.

Leslie Martin of Artesia, a member of the committee, said that if farmers will list with him property they wish to sell, giving him the prices, he will take up the listings before a meeting of the committee at Portales Tuesday (continued on last page, column 2)

DRIVE CAUTIOUSLY OVER THE WEEK END

It is unfortunate that holidays always have a high death rate, especially on the highways and at beaches.

Crowded highways and fast drivers make for a high toll. "Sunday drivers," people who drive but little, usually on Sundays and holidays, and are only fair drivers at best, are the worst hazard.

The month of July usually tops the year throughout the nation for fatal highway accidents, with greatest number of deaths on the Fourth. Traffic accidents, fireworks injuries, drownings and other accidents took a toll of 10,200 lives last July.

Says a statement by the National Safety Council: "July is a time of slaughter. From the time it breaks open with the Fearful Fourth until the thirty-first has swept on its way like a tornado, July sees more lives lost to accidents and more disabling accidents than any other month of the year."

This year July 4 falls on Monday. More "Sunday drivers" will probably infest the highways and will drive greater distances, making more driver miles than usual, because of the double holiday. And the death toll will probably be correspondingly higher.

It is well to remember to be more cautious than usual when going out on the highways on holidays, but we doubt if the average motorist will. So we look for a big death rate the coming week end. All we can do is hope for the best, caution drivers and then sit back and see what happens. We hope we are wrong.

It might be well to repeat a slogan which has been used by various safety agencies the last few years: "Death begins at forty."

AND THE PRISONER LAUGHED

Back in the dead days gone by, we learned that there was no Santa Claus. Before we found out that the doctor did not bring babies in his little black bag! Before we were told that the moon was not made of green cheese. Back in those careful and carefree days we believed implicitly that the man who broke the law, just naturally went to jail.

We were perfectly certain that the laws were wise and just, and officials saw that they were enforced without fear or favor. There never was any doubt in our mind as to what happened to a criminal—he paid the penalty. It didn't make any difference where he was caught—a big honest and fearless limb of the law slapped him right smack in the hoosegow and right there he stayed until he had served his time.

Boy are we laughing at ourselves today! A few weeks ago the authorities grabbed a guy out in California who had left Albuquerque just a scant jump ahead of the sheriff. The sheriff had a warrant for him charging that he had forged some checks. So they nabbed him in Los Angeles, threw him into a moldy cell and sent word to the district attorney in Albuquerque, "Come and get him, and bring a requisition from the governor with you, because the son-of-a-gun won't come back without it."

So the district attorney wrote the governor, and told him he would like to have a requisition to bring this guy back, and the district attorney said, "One of my deputies wants to take a nice juicy trip out to the coast with all expenses paid, so I am going to send him." And the governor said, "Why don't you send one of Johnny Flaska's men, he's got one who wants to take a trip?" and the D. A. said, "My man wants to go," and the governor said, "Send Johnny's man," and the D. A. said, "I ain't gonna do it." And the governor said, "If you don't send Johnny's man you don't get no requisition." And the D. A. said, "The hell I don't!"

Now while all of this conversation was going on, time was going on with it. Weeks were passing, and the sheriff out in California was getting good and tired of feeding a hungry prisoner from New Mexico while the governor and the district attorney argued about who was going to get a trip to California. So the sheriff out in California turned the guy loose, and we started laughing at ourselves.

But the man who lost the money through the forged checks couldn't work up much mirth. He felt like the fisherman who had just let a big one get away. We don't know how the guy who forged the checks felt but we have a suspicion that he might get as much fun as anyone out of the argument between the district attorney and the governor, as to who was going to take a trip to California.—Health City Sun.

Fifteen Years Ago Today

(From the files of The Advocate, Friday, June 29, 1923)

John Lanning is the latest recruit of the radio fans, having installed a machine this week. We understand the radio set was a present of his uncle, Gen. Roberts, of New York. A few more people around here are willing to have a similar present thrust upon them.

The large two-story building on the corner of Fourth and Main Sts., known as the Jackson building, is the location of a new business, the meat market and cold storage establishment of J. L. Truett, opened up this week. The new business will require the whole ground floor. Separate rooms have been partitioned off, one for sausage making, another for rendering lard, in addition to the storage rooms, and everything will be kept neat and clean.

The sewer and water works contract is going ahead, the contractors, Messrs. R. M. Erick & Co., having established a great deal of excavation work with the big excavating machine which digs a ten-foot trench about two feet wide as it moves along. Several cross-town lines of trenches from the Santa Fe Railroad westward to the city limits have been completed, pipes laid and covered and connections made.

The second cutting of alfalfa is now in "full blast." The recent rains will help make a tremendously heavy crop. Cotton also is looking fine and growers are expecting best results. The crop is no longer an experiment in this section of the country, and being pest free, the growers are in a specially favored position.

Misses Leah McClay and Jessie Glenn Bullock left yesterday to enter the Southern Branch of the University of California, at Los Angeles for the summer term.

Edgar Williamson and sister, Miss Jeanette, who have been at Alamogordo for some time, have gone up to High Rolls on the side of the Sacramento Mountains for the summer.

Public Welfare In New Mexico

(Issued by the New Mexico Department of Public Welfare)

Needy New Mexicans will benefit from the recently announced plan of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to increase purchases of farm surpluses by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. The plan to increase purchases was announced during May by Secretary Wallace, who said it was to meet two emergencies. The first emergency, Wallace said, is an increase of unemployment caused by a shut-down of factories and decrease in production during the current business recession.

The second emergency is a drop in prices of farm products caused, Wallace said, by a surplus of those products on the country's markets. As the first step in the buying program, 125,000 barrels of flour have been purchased by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation for delivery during June. FSC officials estimated the purchase of the flour diverted 575,000 bushels

MEADOWS SERVICE STATION

(BY MISS BOLLINGER) THE MEADOWS SERVICE STATION, located 2 miles North of Roswell, New Mexico, on U. S. Highway No. 70, is rendering a service to the people of this section that is unsurpassed, even by the metropolitan stations of much larger cities. The management has made a special study of the business, and as a result, has provided Malco Rayo and Malco Supreme Gasoline and motor oils, as well as other necessary accessories, in order that you may have a complete service without delay.

All manufacturers of motor vehicles recommend the proper lubrication for them in order that they may render the maximum in service. Therefore, in order to render a lubrication service according to factory specifications, this station has secured charts, as well as other equipment to enable them to properly lubricate your car or truck. The proper lubrication of a car requires expert training. Unless your car is lubricated by an expert, serious trouble may develop. Save yourself this trouble and expense by bringing your car to this station and having it thoroughly serviced at regular intervals. In making this Special Midsummer Tourist Invitational Issue, the writer takes great pleasure in complimenting them upon their excellent service and suggests that one trial will convince you that this is the most economical place to purchase Malco Rayo or Malco Supreme Gasoline and motor oils.

Under FSC rules, the flour must be distributed only to persons who need it, yet would not otherwise be able to obtain it. In other words, distribution of the flour will not cause a smaller demand for wheat on the country's markets, FSC officials said.

Extensive purchases of apples, potatoes, dry skim milk and rice have also been made during the last few months.

More than 800,000 pounds of foodstuffs purchased by the corporation were delivered to the New Mexico Department of Public Welfare during May.

Justice Agents Turn Tables on Confidence Men

Filing System Helps FBI Spot "Sucker Baiters" in Short Order

Confidence men whose motto is "never give a sucker a break" are about to have that same philosophy practiced against themselves.

J. Edgar Hoover, the number 1 G-man, has a new filing system which will give confidence men as little chance of avoiding recognition as a movie glamour girl would have crossing a college campus.

The confidence game file was started in 1936, two years after congress passed the National Stolen Property Act. Already it has more names than a congressman's election-year mailing list.

In addition to listing hundreds of known swindlers, the file contains their photographs and play-by-play description of their special rackets.

One of the common confidence games is the "foxed horse race" swindle.

Setting up headquarters in some large city, the gang sends out its expert to find victims.

He looks hardest for a stranger in the city, without friends to consult, who can cash his assets quickly. Contractors stand high on the list.

Picking his victim, the "steerer" strikes up a friendly acquaintance which carries them to a nearby bar for a chat. There the steerer "finds" a wallet containing a large wad of bills, also the owner's name and address. The swindler immediately suggests returning the wallet and insists that his new friend accompany him.

The owner, or "spieler," is very grateful. He represents a large racing syndicate, he says, and in return for the visitor's honesty he offers to let them in on a "fixed" horse race. The three become very friendly and in several days their winnings, according to the speler, reach a large amount, possibly $500,000.

When the group decides to cash in its winnings the "banker" appears. He shows a suitcase full of cash, usually rented for the purpose, but he will not turn it over to the syndicate representative until he establishes $200,000 cash credit at the track. The steerer and speler offer to put up $115,000 between them and the victim, expecting big profits, hurries home to raise the other $85,000. This he turns over to his friends who promptly disappear.

Frequently confidence men lure a likely victim to another city by offering him an attractive position with a foreign concern, then they swing into the fixed-race routine.

The less-complicated "oil lease game" also accounts for many large swindles. In this racket members of the gang bid against each other for valuable oil property until the slightly-dazed owner in hopes of turning a neat profit, buys back the original option at an exorbitant price. The "purchasers" vanish and so does the money.

Stock "lifting" is simpler yet and is usually played alone. The swindler represents himself in a strange city as a prosperous dealer in stocks and bonds. He persuades his victims to exchange valuables, readily negotiable stocks for worthless paper.

The "glimmer racket" is another device to line swindlers' wallets and usually victimize elderly persons who can ill afford the loss. Posing as eye specialists in small communities, the confidence men fake operations and give expensive, but worthless treatments.

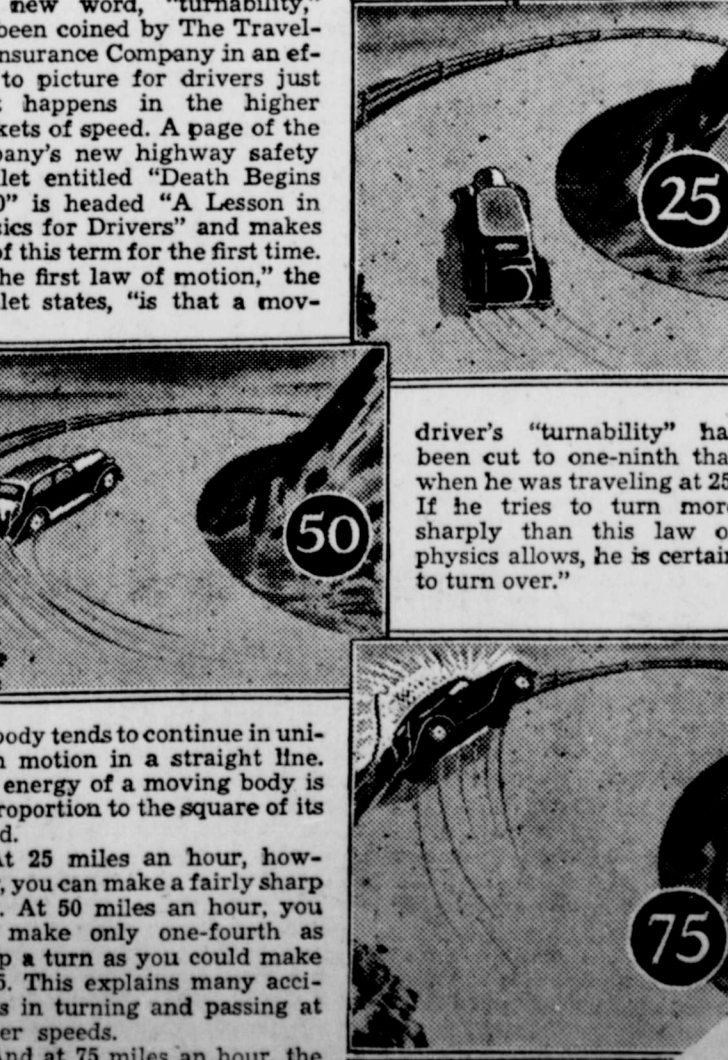

A Lesson in Physics—For Drivers

A new word, "turnability," has been coined by The Travelers Insurance Company in an effort to picture for drivers just what happens in the higher brackets of speed. A page of the company's new highway safety booklet entitled "Death Begins at 40" is headed "A Lesson in Physics for Drivers" and makes use of this term for the first time.

"The first law of motion," the booklet states, "is that a moving body tends to continue in uniform motion in a straight line. The energy of a moving body is in proportion to the square of its speed."

"At 25 miles an hour, however, you can make a fairly sharp turn. At 50 miles an hour, you can make only one-fourth as sharp a turn as you could make at 25. This explains many accidents in turning and passing at higher speeds."

"And at 75 miles an hour, the driver's 'turnability' has been cut to one-ninth that when he was traveling at 25. If he tries to turn more sharply than this law of physics allows, he is certain to turn over."

Soft Glass Used To Stuff Pillows

Soft glass makes a slightly hard pillow.

The pillow material is the new glass fiber. Strands of this glass are finer than any hair, finer than anything in nature except eiderdown.

But a Newton, Mass., manufacturer found the fine glass unsuited for pillows. It has, they reported at an American College of Physicians meeting, a "hard" feel when the head presses its strands together.

This is surprising, in view of the fact that the fiber glass is so elastic that after being compressed to half its ordinary volume, it springs back to original shape without outside aid.

Glass pillows were tried in the hope that they would be the perfect answer for the person who is allergic to the contents of a pillow. Some persons get skin rashes or even hay fever from the ordinary stuffings of pillows.

The "allergies" are due to a chemical reaction. Glass is presumably free from this possibility. The concern reported its best success is with pure silk fluff for the filling pillows. The silk retains its softness and elasticity under repeated pressings.

Suspects There Is Life on the Moon

The moon may not be so dead as has been thought, says Dr. Walter H. Haas, Mount Union College astronomer.
His suspicion of some form of life on the moon is based on studies of Aristarchus. Aristarchus is one of the prominent craters on the moon. The ancients, lacking telescopes, thought these craters were seas.
The moon craters are from 5 to 60 miles in diameter, much larger than earth's volcanic craters. The walls of the moon craters are mostly steep. They stand out brilliantly in sunshine and pass into shadow. These changes make the contours very clear.
But Dr. Haas finds something puzzling in certain dark bands that appear on the walls around Aristarchus.

The dark bands do not appear to be shadows, he says. They come on gradually. They lead to a suspicion of some sort of surface change during the moon day heat on the moon.
Furthermore, Dr. Haas says, this peculiar phenomenon is not confined to Aristarchus. It is brilliantly visible there, but it occurs in other craters.

FARMING IT . . . BY WILLARD BOLTE

These Wisconsin Chester Whites have a bedroom in the middle of a strawstack. Before the wheat was threshed the farmer built a skeleton shed frame with poles—with a pole tunnel—and a pole fence around the edge of his proposed stack. Then he blew the straw stack over the pole framework, thus making a hog shelter that was cool in summer and warm in winter. Lower left illustration shows a novel corner post on a Michigan farm. It is 15 inches in diameter with a 36-inch sunken base—plus a 3-foot reinforced underground extension in the direction of the pull. Holes for the hangers were made by placing heavy bolts in the form before pouring the concrete—and then pulling them out when it had partially set. Cross-fences on this farm have steel posts so that they can be easily moved.

To Take Backache From Cotton Field

Chemist Predicts Whole Plants Will Soon Be Harvested By Machines

A new plan to take the backache out of the cotton field—and put more money into the farmer's jeans—is being worked out at Chapel Hill, N. C., by Dr. Frank K. Cameron, a University of North Carolina chemist.

When the Rust brothers tried the same thing, with a mechanical cotton picker, they made a national sensation.

Instead of using a picker, Dr. Cameron would cut down the cotton plant and harvest it stalk and all. And instead of selling the cotton staple in the usual way he would utilize the whole plant. From it he would extract cellulose for the rayon and plastics industries.

With this system, he figures, the farmer might make $10 to $15 an acre net, against $10 or less under the old.

Dr. Cameron says his method of growing and utilizing cotton will never supplant the conventional system entirely. But if put to wide use it would eliminate over-production of lint cotton, raise cotton prices and put the cotton on a more profitable basis.

His calculations are based on current prices. If cellulose prices dropped and lint prices soared, that would be another story.

Dr. Cameron has been at his experiments for eight years. At first he and associates financed the experiments largely from their own funds. Recently their work attracted enough attention for the Cotton Research Foundation of Memphis to arrange a fellowship.

Under the Cameron plan, backaches would cease long before the harvest started.

Instead of planting the cotton widely spaced, then thinning and cultivating it laboriously, the cotton farmer would plant it in close rows, with more plants in the row, crowding the plants to force early maturity.

Then, with a machine like one already built, bale it in 150-pound bales, and haul it to the cellulose processing plant. There the cotton seed oil would be extracted by a new chemical process, the proteins extracted by alkalis, and from the residue of stalks, bolls and line cellulose recovered for manufacturing things like rayon, highgrade paper, auto door handles, viscose sponges, soda straws, book bindings, jewelry and ornamental braids.

The cotton harvesting machine, unlike the cotton picker, was fairly easy to construct. A large implement concern in building grain harvesters soon built a cotton harvester for Dr. Cameron. He quotes the company as estimating the per acre harvesting cost at 20 cents in large scale operations. The harvester would sell for about $1,500. It might be owned cooperatively.

Dr. Cameron's own work has been in the research laboratory developing practical processing methods and checking up on uses for products derived from the whole cotton plant.

Now he feels things are far enough along for some industrial firm to build an experimental plant.

Oh, if your Engine only could

OF COURSE, you can't leave your engine standing on its head every time you park, but you can have it OIL-PLATED. And OIL-PLATING not only goes clear up inside your engine, but stays there — for hours — weeks — months — even while the engine is right-side up at a standstill! Now why is that better?

Well, this exclusive OIL-PLATING — formed in your engine solely by patented Conoco Germ Processed oil — is always up there ready to lubricate before other oils could even begin to circulate. Therefore, every start you make finds cylinders, rings, bearings and other parts self-lubricated in advance. The action of the patented Germ Process has kept them continuously charged with oil, or OIL-PLATED.

They cannot "start dry," and thus you are rid of engine enemy No. 1. Good platings don't evaporate either, or lose their grip during Summer spurts. You can tell that about OIL-PLATING by noting how Conoco Germ Processed oil maintains the oil-level. Head in at Your Mileage Merchant's. Continental Oil Company

SOCIETY.

TWO HOSTESSES ENTERTAIN PARLEY

Mrs. Frank Linell and Mrs. Jesse L. Truett entertained members of the Past Presidents' Parley at luncheons respectively on Friday and Monday.

Mrs. Linell was hostess Friday, the June meeting, serving a lovely Flag Day luncheon at 1 o'clock in three courses. The table was covered with a gorgeous lace cloth and a unique arrangement of red, white and blue flowers, placed in a gold bowl, formed the beautiful centerpiece. Individual place cards, hand decorated by Miss Peggy Linell, granddaughter of the hostess, displayed battlefield scenes. Favors of miniature soldiers, holding a flag on a long staff, stood guard at each place card. The flag staffs were later taken out to the lawn and lighted by the guests, who watched them send out streamers of tiny flags as each one exploded. The red, white and blue color scheme was carried out in the salad and dessert courses.

Mrs. Truett was hostess Monday for the delayed May meeting of the organization. A delicious summertime luncheon was served in three courses at 1 o'clock at a beautifully laid table. Dahlias, daisies and gladioli were attractively arranged throughout the newly decorated rooms of the Truett home, adding a festive air to the occasion. A business session was held after the luncheon, with Mrs. Aleck McGonagill presiding. A great amount of work was accomplished on the crochet bedspread which is being made and will later be used in a benefit to raise funds for the organization.

Covers were laid for the following guests on each occasion: Mmes. J. M. Story, Ben Pior, C. R. Vandagriff, Lewis Story, J. A. Richards, Aleck McGonagill and Irvin Martin, and the hostesses Mrs. Linell and Mrs. Truett.

PAST MATRONS MET MONDAY

Members of the Past Matrons' Club were entertained at the home of their president, Mrs. Jeff Hightower, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Hightower presided over the business session and it was voted to dispense with summer meetings. Club activities will be resumed again in September. The hostess served light refreshments during a social hour to the following guests: Mmes. Lee Glasscock, J. C. Floore, Sr., Jesse Funk, Arba Green, Jessie Morgan, Paul A. Otts and Calvin Dunn.

Othel M. Knight, Portales, passed his examinations and will be admitted to service in the United States Army, although examination by physicians disclosed young Knight's heart was located on the right side of his body. However, he was found to be otherwise in perfect physical condition and will be accepted for service.

Premature explosion of an oil well time bomb near Hobbs last Thursday took eight lives and injured four other persons. The bomb, loaded with nitroglycerin and operated by an automatic timing mechanism, was to have been lowered into the well, where it might shatter the underground rock structure and allow the oil to flow more freely. Instead, it exploded with a terrific detonation as the workmen removed it from a truck. Instantly killed were George A. Kaseman, Albuquerque banker; H. A. Greer, gauger for the shooting crew; J. T. Broughton, derrickman; Forrest Huston and Charles Wrigley, rigmen; V. P. Peck, the shooter, and Alex Blair, shooter's helper. Jack Starkey, superintendent of the Two-State Drilling Company, died shortly before Thursday midnight in a Hobbs hospital, six hours after the explosion.

The state finance board was called to meet Wednesday, probably to give consideration to the state's fiscal affairs before the end of the fiscal year, which is today.

Mrs. Louis Rothwell yielded to her curiosity and forced her way through a clump of bushes in Orinda Park at Oakland, Calif., to read a sign. "Beware of poison oak," it warned—too late. A justice court awarded her $100 judgment against the park for medical expenses.

A crudely fashioned knife blade removed from his brain by a dangerous operation, Columbus George, 32-year-old negro, was reported in a "satisfactory condition" at a Santa Fe hospital. George, an inmate of the state penitentiary serving a sentence for larceny, underwent the operation last Thursday for removal of the knife blade which was embedded in the left side of his brain for three and a half months—since he tried to stop a fight in Roswell. Prison physicians, terming the operation "highly successful," said the blade came out easily after several taps on the skull had loosened it from the bone around the left eye socket. Because of the negro's excellent health and the fact that there were no apparent ill effects from the pressure of the blade, physicians said he would probably recover from the operation very quickly. Removal of the blade, they said, left no signs of paralysis. The steel, apparently made from an old file, measured four and three-fourths inches in length and three-fourths of an inch in width.

(BY MISS BROWN)
There is no company more worthy of extended mention in this review than the WHITE'S MATTRESS FACTORY, located at 604 East 2nd Street, in Roswell, New Mexico, phone 1425-J. Under the able and efficient direction of Mr. R. O. White, who is thoroughly conversant with every feature of the business, it is not strange that it has become one of the most important industrial assets of this section.

To the public they wish to explain the way they use the word "RENOVATE" and what they mean by it. They mean by "RENOVATE" to make new and sanitary, your old bedding and "NOT JUST SLIP ON A NEW TICK" but put your own stock through a modern process which gives you quality and a new product appearance at a great saving. They can take your old bedding in any condition and do this for you. Real value at the most reasonable price possible has been the guiding influence of their policies and it has brought them trade from all surrounding territory.

Net Worth of Eddy Farmers Improving

FSA Is Serving Eighty Families In County, Says Rural Supervisor

Net worth of farmers in Eddy County served by the Farm Security Administration is steadily improving, according to a statement issued this week by Larry Emerson, rural rehabilitation supervisor, as he made preparations to begin the new fiscal year for this federal agency, beginning July 1.

Mr. Emerson said his agency is serving eighty farm families in Eddy County. He also said that in view of the progress made in the last 2 or 3 years by the rehabilitation loan program borrowers, the Farm Security Administration will be able to extend this aid to other worthy families of the low-income group.

The Farm Security Administration's broad program for farmers includes rehabilitation loans, community and cooperative service, farm debt adjustment service, and tenant purchase loans. All of these different services are, of course, designed to help distressed farm families rehabilitate themselves.

A typical rehabilitation loan, Mr. Emerson explained, includes money for the purchase of seed and fertilizer, for buying work stock, farm machinery, cows, brood sows and chickens. It may also include money for the purchase of needed articles in the home, such as pressure cookers and canning jars. All families obtaining a rehabilitation loan, however, are required to make budgets for living expenses and keep accurate records of all transactions.

Just how well this program is progressing in Eddy County may be gleaned from Mr. Emerson's records which show that a number of families have repaid all of their obligations and are now continuing their farming operations without help from this agency, and a few of the farmers in this county have repaid their loans long before they were due.

Rehabilitation loans are made to come due in installments of from 1 to 5 years, depending upon the nature of things to be purchased with the loan money and the financial condition of the particular family. Crop liens and chattel mortgages are taken as security.

Mr. Emerson, who has offices in room 8, Carlsbad National Bank Building, said he will be glad to explain all phases of the Farm Security Administration program to any interested parties.

Billy Williams, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams, accompanied his grandfather, R. E.

Williams, of Amarillo, Texas, home by train Monday. Billy will visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, and another grandmother, Mrs. Eva C. Cudd, in Amarillo, and his aunt and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Chenoweth and James Ernest, in Borger before returning.

Points of Interest Abound in Roswell and the Pecos Valley

(Editor's note: The following story is being run in connection with a number of sketches about Roswell people and firms, as a special summer tourist invitation feature. The material for this story and the sketches was gathered and compiled by a crew of young women writers, who are touring the country.)

Roswell, home of the New Mexico Military Institute, and at the head of the fertile Pecos Valley, has much to offer the tourist who visits Southeastern New Mexico. To the west, the Lincoln National Forest, Billy the Kid land, and the Mescalero Apache Indian reservation. Twelve miles east of Roswell, the Bottomless Lakes State Park, and nearby the largest artesian well in the world.

In Roswell—the beautiful New Mexico Military Institute grounds, golf, tennis, swimming, theaters and excellent accommodations. Roswell's population of 12,500 boasts of 40,000 shade trees inside the city limits, 325 blocks of paved streets and beautiful homes, gardens, parks and public buildings.

Because Roswell is the northern gateway to the famed Pecos Valley, most of the tourists who visit Artesia, Carlsbad and Carlsbad Caverns also see Roswell. Visitors reach Roswell from the north-east over U. S. Highway 70—from the north and northwest over U. S. Highway 285—from the west and southwest over U. S. 70 and U. S. 380—from the east over U. S. 380. Much of this incoming travel then pours into U. S. 285 and goes on south to Artesia and Carlsbad.

The Bottomless Lakes State Park is one of the outstanding points of interest in New Mexico. Included in the park area of 1,500 acres are seven lakes. For years they have been known as the "Bottomless Lakes." In the early days, cowboys tied their lariats together and tried to reach bottom. After using all the available ropes, they were not successful and dubbed these unusual bodies of water "Bottomless." The name has stuck ever since. The name has stuck ever since. The name has stuck ever since.

The National Park Service has completed elaborate development since the creation of the area as a state park. Lea Lake has been the center of greatest development. A complete and modern bath house has been built of native stone, and trees and grass planted. Fishing, swimming and boating are available for the thousands of visitors who enjoy the park each year.

The rich coloring on the bluffs surrounding the lakes, presenting a different effect for almost each hour of the day, is a never ending source of interest to visitors. Excellent highways have been built in the park enabling the motorist to get many thrilling views of the lakes, bluffs and surrounding country. But the natural beauty has not been disturbed by these man made improvements.

Thousands of people from the low humid sections come into the Pecos Valley each summer and find the climate here delightful. While the day temperatures may be in the low nineties, it is equal to about 80 in the humid climates because of the low humidity here, and every night is cool and delightful for sleeping with the temperature below 70.

Additional thousands go into the Lincoln National Forest, where it is still cooler and where on many summer evenings an open fireplace is really delightful. Amid the tall pines, there are alluring trails for horseback riders, mountain streams that attract the fishermen, and good roads for automobile trips. Furnished cabins and moderately priced hotels are available and camp sites are there for those who want to camp.

Roswell, like the other Pecos Valley cities, is a delightful place to visit, a better place to live.

Tested Recipe

As the luscious procession of berries comes and goes in the market, they afford infinite variety in possibilities for different summer desserts. As each different berry makes its appearance, and while it's still high in price, you can make it into a fresh berry tapioca. In fact, this dessert is so simple to make, that you can use it as a first lesson in cooking should any of the older children show signs of culinary ambition.

Fresh Berry Tapioca
2 cups water; 1/2 cup quick-cooking tapioca; 1/2 cup sugar; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1 1/2 to 2 cups crushed, sweetened berries; 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Place water in top of double boiler and bring to a boil over direct heat. Combine tapioca, sugar, and salt; add gradually to water and bring to a brisk boil, stirring constantly. Place immediately over rapidly boiling water and cook 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool—mixture clears and thickens as it cools. When slightly cool, fold in berries and lemon juice. Chill. Serve in sherbet glasses. Garnish with whipped cream and a few whole berries. Serves 6.

OUR DOG

My dad brought home a dog one day—
The cutest little Collie pup,
And it's been lots of fun, you bet,
To watch him while he's growin' up!
He certainly is awful smart,
And seemed to like us right away;
And, boy, you ought to see the tricks
He does when we go out an' play!

We named him Duke, so he would know
That he's important; and he is!
I bet you don't find many dogs
With better pedigrees than his!
But even if he was a mut
I'd think that he was plenty good,
'Cause every kid calls his own dog
The best one in the neighborhood.

But our dog really is the best—
And he gets better every day!
I don't know what we'd ever do
If he got killed, or went away!
My dad says every boy like me
Should have a dog; and you just bet
Our Duke's about the finest kind
Of pal a guy could ever get!

H. H. LEWIS CO.

(BY MISS BOLLINGER)
The H. H. LEWIS COMPANY, located at 403 East 2nd Street, in Roswell, New Mexico, phone 105, is one of the most reliable and most successful contracting companies in this section of the state. This company is owned and operated by H. H. Lewis, who is thoroughly conversant with every feature of the business. He has built a reputation that has placed him decidedly in the forefront. He has made a close study of conditions surrounding the field in which he labors, which has given him a thorough knowledge of business in all its phases. His name on a sign board of an operation is all the proof that is needed to convince anyone that the job will be finished in a thorough and satisfactory manner and well within the specified time for completion.

Of the many lines of endeavor that are closely allied with the growth and expansion of this section, a careful survey will undoubtedly show that the contractors and builders have made the greatest contribution to the progress of the municipality. He takes great pride in his work and this has been true from the very first day of the inception of his business. He has always felt that he wanted to succeed only on the merits of his work and that he has attained this goal is well exemplified by his present day success. In making this Special Midsummer Tourist Invitational Issue, the writer wishes to compliment him upon the position he has attained in the business world of this section and refer him to our readers.

Has Been Through Cave 3,300 Times

Colonel Boles, Caverns Superintendent, Now in Twelfth Year

Col. Thomas Boles, efficient and enterprising superintendent of Carlsbad Caverns National Park, who is now serving in his twelfth year as head of the underground wonderland's staff of federal workers, has been through the cavern 3,300 times, and has accompanied more than a million visitors on the tours.

He was an experienced park service executive when he came to Carlsbad from Hilo, Hawaii, where he was head of the Hawaii National Park.

Colonel Boles likes Carlsbad better than he did the Hawaiian Islands, despite the beauty, romance and glamour of what Mark Twain called "the loveliest fleet of islands in any sea."

He has been responsible for bringing an enormous list of travelers each year from Hawaii.

Although Boles has been away from the islands 12 years, he has not forgotten the "Paradise of the Pacific." He speaks the "pidgin English" of the islands fluently, and each year exchanges hundreds of letters with Hawaiian friends.

"I want to go back to the islands someday and see the old familiar places and visit my old friends," he said, "but I much prefer Carlsbad to the islands."

Not long ago, the Kansas City Star published a full page story on Boles and his efficient management of Carlsbad Caverns. It was only one of hundreds of such tributes he receives every year. Carlsbad Caverns National Park is known as one of the most efficiently-managed show places in the United States.

Advertising the caverns to the world by goodwill trips with schools all over the Southwest and in other ways getting the caverns before the world, is Colonel Boles' long suit. This year more school buses visited the caverns than ever before.

The park superintendent enjoys splendid relationship with the press of the Southwest and the nation. Each year he entertains hundreds of newspapermen in the caverns, with the result that Carlsbad Cavern is one of the best publicized of national parks.

"THE OLD FERRETT"

A smile is better far
Than forced hilarity;
Its memory
Lasts much longer.—A. L. B.

Have a Try at It—

As explained in the first appearance in The Advocate several weeks ago of this kol, it's an old pal of the conductor, used for years to let off steam and to tell humorous happenings. But it is everybody's department. Readers are invited to contribute their efforts, preferably anecdotes about local people, which have a funny twist. Such may be witty, or smack of satire, or even be little human interest stories which may extract a tear or two.

Choose a "nom de plume," or a "nom de guerre," if you prefer, but also sign your own name. And don't try to hurt anyone's feelings; it won't go here. But come on; let's have some help.

His Reputation's Made—

Here's one about Stanley Blocker, former member of The Advocate force and brother of the publisher, just as it appeared in the Carlsnaught Current-Argus under the caption, "Bring 'em Back Alive' Blocker Gets His Game."

Stanley Blocker, port of entry chief and fisherman de luxe, turned big game hunter the other night.

While fishing on Black River, he spied a small cave on the other bank. As the fish were a little backward about taking his various and sundry lures, he idly meditated on what might be in the cave.

Suddenly he grabbed a .22 pistol and began wildly shooting in the mouth of the cave: "There's a big bobcat in that hole, and I killed him!"

After emptying the pistol he ran up the river, waded across, and ran back to the cave.

Climbing the bank, pistol in hand, every nerve on edge, he looked into the cave and there sat two baby owls, very much alive, despite the fact that nine shots had been shot in their general direction.

What, Only One?—

At a recent meeting of the Legion, there was an unusual number of motions, which were accompanied with a lot of kidding and fun. Commander Jack Clady was doing his best to keep track of them all and not recognize any motions when there was already one before the house. His parliamentary skill was taken to the limit and he did a good job.

Finally, thinking he saw a chance for a breathing spell and called a five-minute recess, someone shouted, "Hey, there's a motion before the house."

Jack looked confused. "Did we miss a motion?" he asked.

Safer, Possibly—

One of the many candidates for office was in Artesia the other day. He was accompanied by his secretary. In a kidding way a friend of the two asked the attractive young lady if she weren't afraid to ride all over Eddy County with her boss.

Her reply not only put her interrogator in his place, but cataloged her opinion of many younger men: "I'd just as soon ride around with a nice old man as with an ornery young one."

The Perfect Paper—

And here is a poem, which is apropos. It is a parody by Berton Braley on Kipling's "L'Envoi," and was filched by the Old Ferret, who couldn't seem to muster up any more brain work of his own.

THE PERFECT PAPER
When earth's last paper is printed,
And the forms and metal are cold,
When the newest scandal is ancient,
And every last extra is sold,
We shall loaf, and Lord, how we'll need it,
With nothing at all to do,
Till the Boss of the perfect paper
Shall call us to work anew.

And then we shall work as we like to,
Each on his own machine,
And the truth shall be in our copy,
And nothing shall intervene.
We sha. write real stories about them—
Beggar and millionaire—

Kernels From An Old Nut

Next week we celebrate the 162nd anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. We are all proud, or should be so, of the men who formulated and signed that remarkable document and promulgated it to the world. We have just pride in the assertion of the rights of the colonies against the tyranny of the ruling monarch of the nation to which they had heretofore owed allegiance. It was not, as is all too frequently understood, a rebellion against a particular form of government. It was a rebellion against the abuses which had grown up under it. They believed that they had been unjustly deprived of certain inalienable rights as citizens of the government to which, until that time, they had confessed allegiance. They valued their own lives, for they well knew that if they were unsuccessful in their assertion of them their lives would be forfeited.

It is customary in celebrating the anniversary of this great event, to boast of our wealth and our material greatness. It is true that we have been blessed most unusually with material wealth. We have about one-third of the railroads of the world; about three-fourths of the automobiles of the world; a majority of the telephones of the world and about one-third of the wealth of the whole world.

These are things of which we may justly be proud; but it is not

A paper that's on the square.
We shall work in a rush and hurry,
For that is the goody game,
And we shall not dig in the gutter
For stories of filth and shame.
And the copywriters above us
Shall leave our features alone,
And the stories that fill our columns
We shall recognize as our own.
We shall have no fool assignments,
No cruel mission of pain
To torture the brokenhearted
Or blacken the sinner's stain;
We shall scoop and be scooped
aplenty;
We shall love the flurry and noise;
We shall fight the business office
And fuss with the galley boys,
But each of us shall be human,
And each of us shall be free
To write the thing as he sees it
For the paper that ought to be!

these alone that have made us great. We had none of these, or their equivalent, when we became an independent nation.

What made our nation great was the devotion of its people to an ideal and their love of the land which gave them sanctuary. They believed that death was preferable to life without the privileges which they conceived to be their inalienable right. The principles to which they dedicated their lives are eternal. Only as we are loyal to those ideals and principles can we expect to remain great. It is, therefore, not only fitting—but imperative—that on this great anniversary, each one of us rededicate ourselves to the maintenance and perpetuation of the nation which they founded and the principles for which it stands.

We are all too prone to think—first of self; but our opportunity and ability to enjoy the things which we cherish is inseparably united with the government which says: "Thou shalt not" to the forces which would take these rights and privileges away from us. Our assertion of these rights for ourselves implies their grant to our fellowmen.

May we each be given the vision to see not alone our rights—but our duty as well—and the courage to maintain them in honor as did the patriots of '76!

ENGRAVING—THE ADVOCATE.

Giants of Ancient Times Not So Big

The Book of Genesis records that before the flood "there were giants in the land." Science thinks it has found some of them in Palestine. If science is right, then modern man is more gigantic, a more splendid physical specimen.

Sir Arthur Keith sketches the scientific story in the British journal, Nature. He refers to the bones of men and women who lived 50,000 to 100,000 years ago in Palestine. He quotes Genesis on giants and says:

"The fossil people we are now dealing with are almost worthy of such a name. The men were tall; four of them range in height from 5 feet 8 inches to 5 feet 11."

American studies of college men and women indicate that height and size are a matter of food. With the diets available long ago, these old Palestinians might truly rate as giants.

At any rate they were modern man's equal in several respects. Their brains were equal in size to ours, says Sir Arthur. There were less convolutions in their gray matter. But they could talk.

They were straight-legged. Chests showed they were long-winded. Sir Arthur infers they were good runners.

Mrs. Tom Heflin has returned from a visit with relatives in San Francisco, Calif. Mrs. Heflin, who is president of the Cemetery Association, wishes the public to know that she is back on the job again.

Submerged Plateau May Be 'Atlantis'

Capt. N. H. Heck, one of America's foremost geologists, says there is a submerged plateau in the Atlantic Ocean eleven-twelfths of the area of the United States.

It lies about two miles below the surface of the sea, but from half a mile to a mile above the ocean floor. It is 100 to 700 miles wide. Its highest portions rise 3 to 5 miles above the ocean bottom.

This great plateau extends from around the latitude of South Greenland to that of Montevideo. It follows the middle of the North and South Atlantic in an unbroken line.

Captain Heck proposes methods of sounding and earthquake studies that will better outline this great submerged land and show its relation to the rest of the earth.

The relation might be important, for he says the whole plateau is gone over by an accountant and the Northern portion was found in 1854 during the surveys for the first Atlantic cable. Since the World War, the German surveying ship Meteor has found the outlines of the Southern areas.

This great ridge is the source of the mythical sunken continent, Atlantis.

Naturally, when one entrusts the accounting of their business to some one, they want to know that they are experts. In this respect, who would be better qualified to do this work than BASSETT & JOHNSTON, ACCOUNTANTS, located at 212 in the J. P. White Building, in Roswell, New Mexico, phone 50?

CAR ENDANGERED BY LEAKING GAS AFIRE

Firemen were called at 8:35 Friday evening to West Main Street between First and Second, where leaking gasoline from an automobile had been ignited. The blaze was put out by means of an extinguisher before the fire truck arrived and the department was not needed.

est road oil being produced from the oil fields of Eddy County, there is no good reason why our county and rural roads should not be economically built and maintained with oil instead of scraping the soil continually and having the wind blow it away.

"Our basic industries should be encouraged, and without a progressive road and school program, people with means will not locate or invest capital with us."

"The federal government is contributing to the needs of the farmer and rancher through the soil conservation program, as well as assisting with public works such as court houses, schools, parks, sewer systems and street and road paving. Why should not the citizens of Eddy County enjoy all these benefits while the aid is to be had? A county commissioner can cooperate with the taxpayers in securing many of these benefits and has to certify such levies as necessary for a county to participate."

"Due to the limited time, the scattered and growing population of Eddy County, as well as the limits placed on expenditures of a county commissioner candidate, it will be impossible for me to personally solicit the voters' support. Therefore, I must rely on my qualifications and support of the citizens whose needs and problems are the same as my own to win my nomination for commissioner in the coming Democratic primary."

"If elected to office, I shall at all times welcome the counsel and advice of our taxpayers. I will appreciate your vote and influence."

open to children between ages of 4 and 16 years, will be held Saturday and Sunday nights. Prizes in the kid show exceed $100 daily. In addition to the purses for contest winners, there will be prizes for the best dressed cowgirl and cowboy.

Hand-stamped saddles will be awarded the best all-around cowboy in the Western rodeo and the top contestant in the kid show.

New Mexico "snakes-in-the-grass" will become rattlers in a derby arena at the annual rattlesnake derby, Carlsbad's own and original event. More than 200 snakes, their poison sacs untouched and their rattlers polished, are ready for the reptile speed classic.

The snake races will be Saturday and Monday following afternoon rodeo performances. Cash purses of $150, $100 and $50 will be awarded at each race.

The grand parade of the annual event will be Saturday afternoon. The Roswell school band will be there for the occasion. Horse parades will be Sunday and Monday afternoons.

Cowboys are arriving and indications are there will be a large number of contestants. Rodeo events include bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping, goat roping, steer ribbon roping, steer wrestling, pony express race and cowboy scramble. Special events for old-timers include steer roping and cutting horse contest. The Buck Jernigan string of bucking horses is in Carlsbad for the riding events.

Willard Bates, prominent Carlsbad rancher, is president of the celebration association.

Elmer Hepler is director of the arena. John Jordan, star rodeo performer, has been engaged as announcer.

Celebration officials announced admission prices have been reduced.

and Wednesday, July 7-8, and "see what he can do."

A memo to Mr. Martin from the Department of Agriculture discloses loans can be made the coming year in only one additional New Mexican county, which will benefit by the total amount allocated to the state. Whether Eddy County will derive the benefit remains to be seen and will depend somewhat on the prices set on lands offered for sale. The general policy is that between 5 and 10 loans will be made in each county designated.

Rotary Is in Healthy Condition As Ward Retires as President

J. S. Ward, retiring president of the Artesia Rotary Club, at the regular meeting Tuesday noon, summed up the organization's activities for the last year, showing it to be in active, healthy condition as he steps from office in favor of Leslie Martin, his successor, who will take office next Tuesday.

In his report, Mr. Ward showed how the Rotary Club has taken care of one of the Artesia troops of Boy Scouts through sponsorship and by financial aid; has made care of crippled children a major work, and has contributed liberally to funds for milk for underprivileged children and for tonsil operations.

Mr. Martin, in setting a course for the coming year, stressed the interest of Rotary in boys and girls and indicated he hopes to make young America a major interest of the Artesia group during his incumbency.

Ed West, scoutmaster of the Rotary-sponsored troop of Scouts, made a report on the work of his boys. The club, it was decided, will arrange to send some of the members of the troop to the Boy Scout camp near Weed during July.

D. I. (Dick) Clowe, secretary of the club and a past president, who represented the Artesia group as a delegate at the annual convention of Rotary International in San Francisco last week, will give a report on his trip at the meeting next week. He and Mrs. Clowe returned home Sunday from the Coast.

Don't Bother Young Game Birds And Game, State Department Asks

The State Game Department has issued an earnest plea for the public not to bother young game birds and young game animals. "The forests and plains at this time of year are truly nature's nurseries and are full of wildlife babies," said Elliott S. Barker, state game warden, and asserted they are better off where they are and if left alone their mothers will take proper care of them.

"Furthermore," said Mr. Barker, "the department's records show that 75 per cent or more of all young animals and birds captured die within a short time in captivity because the average person does not know how to take care of wild creatures as their mothers do."

"A person who walks into a human nursery and carries away a baby is called a kidnapper and subject to severest penalty. Don't be a kidnapper of wildlife babies. That is a moral as well as legal crime, also."

"Some people think they are doing a humane act in picking up wildlife babies because they appear to have been abandoned. It is, however, only on the rarest occasions that a wild mother abandons her young. The baby deer, antelope, bear or bird that is found and captured is ordinarily not abandoned or lost at all, but merely left alone while the mother is foraging for food or gone to water which may often be quite a distance. If you would do an act of human kindness leave the wildlife babies alone."

The warden also urged fishermen to save the lives of the baby fish which they accidentally catch while angling for those of legal size. "Removing the undersize fish from the hook carefully and with wet hands will help a lot," said Mr. Barker, "but the use of barbless hooks is the best and most humane method of avoiding injury to small fish."

Three Teams Tie In Softball League

Oilers, Merchants, Presbyterians All Equal—Other Games Rained Out

Of six games scheduled for play in the Artesia Softball League the last week, only three were completed, the others being rained out, leaving the Oilers, Merchants and Presbyterians tied for first place, all with three winning games and one losing game to their credit.

In the games last Thursday evening, the Presbyterians defeated the Oilers 11 to 9, the first loss of the season for the refinery men, and the Barbers won 23 to 9 over the Service Stations team.

Only one game has been played since, that on Tuesday evening between the Merchants and Service Stations, in which the former took the long end of the score, 18 to 9. The second game that evening, between Mann Drug and the Oilers, was called because of rain in the fourth inning with the Pill Rollers leading 8 to 5. The rules call for five full innings to count a game. That contest is to be played off next Monday evening.

The Monday night games, between the Presbyterians and Mann Drug, and the Oilers and Barbers, could not be played because of rain. Re-scheduled for Wednesday evening, rain again prevented play. The second re-scheduling had not been made this morning.

Pairings for this evening are: Presbyterians vs. Service Stations; Barbers vs. Merchants.

Team standings to date follow:

	W	L	Pctg.
Oilers	3	1	.750
Merchants	3	1	.750
Presbyterians	3	1	.750
Barbers	2	2	.500
Mann Drug	1	3	.250
Service Stations	0	4	.000
