PLANE CRASH FATAL LAST EVENING

Rev. Terry, Last Confederate Soldier, Old Circuit Rider, Dies at Age of 91

Death Comes Sunday Night at Home Near Artesia—Services Here Wednesday with Burial in Woodbine Cemetery.

The Rev. J. D. Terry, old-time circuit riding Methodist preacher and the last surviving Confederate veteran in this section of the Pecos Valley, died at his home six miles southeast of Artesia at 11 o'clock Sunday night, aged 91 years.

Funeral services were at the Artesia Methodist Church at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. A. C. Douglas of Pecos, Texas. Assisting were the Rev. John S. Rice, pastor of the Artesia church, and the Rev. Mark Burnett of Lake Arthur. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery here.

There survive the Rev. Mr. Terry his widow, 8 children, 17 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren. The children are Mrs. S. O. Higgins, Artesia; Mrs. N. R. Stroud, Altus, Okla.; Mrs. Beula Evans, LaFayette, Ga.; Paul and Tom Terry, Cottonwood; Witt and Mark Terry, Rosston, Okla., and Cleve Terry, Ardmore, Okla.

Julius Diamond Terry, a son of John Orin and Fruza Narriner Terry, was born at New Orleans, La., March 2, 1847. He served during the Civil War in the Seventh Louisiana regiment of the Confederate forces. Of three surviving Confederate veterans of this section to die in recent years, the Rev. Mr. Terry was the last, preceded within the last three years by William Daugherty and Thomas Blakney.

Miss Nancy Elmira Gosselin and Mr. Terry were married April 9, 1868, the seventieth anniversary of which was observed last April 9, with the aged couple hosts to about 100 friends. To them were born eleven children, of whom the eight mentioned survive.

The Rev. Mr. Terry began his ministry in Oklahoma at the age of 40 years and served in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. A circuit rider, he visited many churches in missionary work for a number of years.

The Rev. and Mrs. Terry and family moved to New Mexico in 1911 and the aged couple lived continuously since at their farm residence, "Beauland," southeast of Artesia.

All children of the Rev. Mr. Terry were here Wednesday for the funeral except two, Matt and Cleve Terry. Friends from Dayton, Lakewood and Rocky Arroyo, where he served as pastor for the last thirty years, attended in numbers.

The following were among friends from the lower valley who attended: R. A. Wilcox, R. N. Thomas, Dr. and Mrs. M. D. Culpepper, Mrs. Cal Lucas, Dwight Lee, Fred Hill, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hatfield and Frank Beeman and two small sons.

Max Terhune, Movie Actor, Visiting Here

Max Terhune, movie actor known as Lullaby Johnson, one of "The Three Mesquites," came to Artesia Monday night, accompanied by Mrs. Terhune and three children, and is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cassada and Mr. and Mrs. Parris Davis.

Mr. Terhune has been seen here in quite a few pictures and is well known to Western movie fans. He is noted as a ventriloquist and for his card tricks, as well as an actor.

GRANDSON OF FORMER ARTESIAN IS DEAD

Word has been received here of the recent death of David Alan Welch, infant son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Welch of Hibbins, Minn. Dr. Welch will be remembered as the son of Mrs. Laura Welch, a former resident of Artesia.

TAKE GEOPHYSICAL SURVEY

Artesian's Father Dies By Own Hand

John Forrest Cook of Roswell, father of Forrest Cook of Artesia, died at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home in Roswell of another son, Oscar Cook, from a self-inflicted gunshot wound, according to the findings of a coroner's jury. He was 68 years old.

Mr. Cook was said by friends to have been despondent over financial troubles for some time. A bullet from a 38-40 rifle entered his forehead and emerged through the top of his head.

He was born at Nashville, Tenn., and was long a resident of Roswell. Mr. Cook was engaged in the ranching business near there. Surviving Mr. Cook are his widow, four sons and four daughters. Funeral services were Wednesday afternoon.

Candidates Must Pay Workers' Security Tax

Candidates for public office must pay social security taxes for their campaign workers. Announcement was made in Texas by W. A. Thomas, internal revenue collector, as affecting his territory, which is Texas.

But the Social Security Act being federal, the law likewise will apply in Eddy County and all candidates will be required to pay taxes for their campaign workers. Failure to pay will make an offender liable to a heavy fine and imprisonment, Thomas said.

One Mishap Mars July Fourth Week End for Artesia

Mrs. Foster and Baby Burned in Only Accident of Valley Nearby

The Fourth of July week end was reasonably safe and sane, so far as Artesia and vicinity were concerned, only one accident from fireworks being reported. Mrs. Van Foster and infant daughter, Lillian Dale, were victims of a faulty aerial bomb, but were not hurt seriously.

There were no traffic accidents of any consequence in this part of the Pecos Valley, in spite of the congestion at Carlsbad because of the three-day Cavalcade. And no fires from fireworks were reported. Deaths throughout the nation over the double holiday were variously estimated between 300 and 400, only two from fireworks. The majority were in the East. One estimate of 358 deaths listed them as follows: Traffic, 197; drownings, 94; shootings, 16; suicides, 13; trains, 10; fireworks, 2; heat, 1; miscellaneous, 25.

The accident to Mrs. Foster and baby was on the 400 block Missouri Street Sunday evening. The aerial bomb exploded near the face of Mrs. Foster, who was carrying the baby.

Mrs. Foster sustained a laceration of her lip and the baby a severe burn and abrasion on top of her head.

Doing Missionary Work Among the Artesia Mexicans

Rev. Gonzales, Carlsbad, Holds Meeting Here Each Monday—Has Conversions

Missionary work among the Spanish-Americans of Artesia is being carried on by the Rev. Constantino Gonzales, pastor of the Spanish Methodist Church of Carlsbad, who has been making regular trips here the last four months. Services are being held at the home here of Atanasio Penaez each Monday, as Senior Gonzales is busy in Carlsbad on Sundays.

Although the personable pastor has been adding to his acquaintance among Artesia business men, this phase of religious activity has not been generally known here.

Senior Gonzales, who has served in a number of churches in Cuba and in Texas and Arizona prior to coming to the Pecos Valley, has been quietly working up interest in his work among the Spanish-Americans.

"For about four months I have been conducting church work here," the pastor said, "and because of the good will of some citizens of Artesia, I have been able to visit here every week. The work has been developed and some conversions have been reported, baptized in the Baptist Church.

"This shows that ours is not a sectarian work, for which reason I think that every Christian citizen of Artesia should be interested in our work as a matter of developing Christianity among the Mexican people, and in so doing we can see a big field of missionary work here at our own doors."

Senior Gonzales was born in Spain, in the land of the conquistadores. He came to America in early boyhood and after conversion to Protestantism he went to Candler College in Cuba, where he received his education for the ministry.

He started his ministerial work in Cuba and established many churches there. After he came to the United States, of which he is now a citizen, he located in Texas, where he served as pastor of Mexican churches at Toyah, Pecos, Marfa, Ft. Davis, Presidio, Alpine, Valentine and Sanderson. At all

Rotary Hears Tuesday About Big Convention

Dick Clowe Reports on International Meet in Frisco Last Month—Greets Members Representing Many Nations.

A lesson in nationalism learned by D. I. (Dick) Clowe, who represented the Artesia Rotary Club at the annual convention of Rotary International in San Francisco June 19-24, was passed on to his fellow Rotarians at the regular weekly meeting Tuesday noon, when he made a convention report. Regardless of anything, a man cannot be a great internationalist of the day, unless he is first a nationalist, loyal to his own government, he said.

The idea, embraced in a speech by Maurice Duperry of Paris, France, president of Rotary International, was but one of many points which tie in with the principles of the organization which were impressively presented at the convention, attended by 11,170 registered delegates, with more than 2,000 children under 16 years also there. Duperry, Mr. Clowe said, visited forty nations and interviewed twenty rulers during his incumbency.

One of Mr. Clowe's most interesting experiences, he said Tuesday noon, was meeting and talking with fellow Rotarians from thirty-eight states and twenty foreign countries in the "House of Friendship," a large room designated for the purpose. However, there were delegates from fifty-nine foreign countries at the convention.

A meeting of delegates from the 115th district, embracing New Mexico and Western Texas, was attended by forty-one, Mr. Clowe said.

One of the more interesting talks was by Almon E. Roth, a past president, who spoke on the labor situation along the waterfront of San Francisco Bay. Mr. Roth, who represents 181 employers, not only of American ships, but of many foreign nations, in their dealings with employees, said labor troubles have been greatly reduced, Mr. Clowe reported. In Mr. Roth's opinion there will always be friction between employer and employee on the waterfront.

Mr. Roth said he had spent many months drawing up contracts between the two groups in an endeavor to have written agreements for every possible contingency which might arise. He called on the Rotarians of the world, Mr. Clowe said, to assist in getting legislation through which will force both parties to such contracts to be bound and liable for damages, if violated, and further that employers receive the same protection and justice as employees.

Another interesting meeting of which Mr. Clowe reported was

Elbert (Chick) Phillips Dies After 1,000 Foot Plunge at Artesia Airport

Mrs. Herman Green Wins Silhouette Contest $5 Prize

Close Second Goes to Mrs. G. B. Dungan, Third to Horace Brown

The silhouette contest, which appeared in The Advocate last week and complete solution of which is on page 4 of today's issue, was won by Mrs. Herman L. Green of Route 1, Artesia. She will receive $5 in cash when she calls at this office.

Mrs. Green made a score of sixty out of the possible sixty-one specified by the judges, as did Mrs. G. B. Dungan, also of Route 1. But as neatness was to be considered as well as correctness, as published in the rules last week, the first prize was awarded Mrs. Green and second prize of $3 goes to Mrs. Dungan. Strangely, both missed the same answer.

Horace Brown, 404 South Second Street, was a close third with a score of fifty-eight. He wins $2.

The five fourth-place winners, each of whom will receive $1, in the order of their scores, were: Gladys Thompson, Mrs. Jeff Hightower, Nina McLean, Mrs. James Thigpen and Betty Sue Hannah.

Many of the contestants evidently did not read the rules, for a number who fell down, fell down badly. All silhouettes did not require the same number of answers, varying from 1 to 4.

In only four cases would one answer for a picture suffice, those being individuals whose names are the same as their business names. And in one of those cases, but for the fact the advertiser's copy read that his own name is the same as his firm's, a contestant could have had two answers. In fact, some had, to their credit, where it was hard to decide otherwise.

Some contestants filled in the whole contest page with only one identification indicated for each silhouette, either that of the person or persons shown, or of the firm. On some such contest sheets, as well as on others which were more complete, initials or given names were omitted. The judges had to discount slightly for this out of fairness to contestants who went the "whole hog." Correct initials and given names were given equal credit.

Neatness, the rules read, would count as well as completeness. Some overlooked this rule. The judges realized there was but little room in which to write, but certain contestants got around this by devising methods of their own, such as mounting silhouettes on cardboard, or cutting the page into strips and using a typewriter.

On the corrected page in today's issue, the principal questions are answered, especially all of those identifying the subjects and their businesses. Answers to some of the leading questions have been omitted.

Reclassification Made of County Under ACP Plan

Eddy County will receive approximately 1,700 additional acres for general crops under a reclassification of the county in regards to the agricultural conservation program, according to a communication from Washington Tuesday to H. C. Little, ACP secretary.

Mr. Little explained this will mean a reduction in penalties for overplanting as a result of a change for the county from class "A" to class "B." Whereas the old rate of penalty for the county was $10.44 an acre, under the new classification it will be $4 an acre on all farms.

Under class "B," Mr. Little said, oats, barley, rye, sudan and cane can be pastured green, but may not be harvested for hay, unless counted as soil depleting crops.

Justin Newman returned Saturday from Las Vegas, where he spent a week visiting his sister, Miss Kathleen Newman, a student at the Normal University.

Connection of "Bill" Merchant Is Omitted

In making announcement last week of the candidacy for county commissioner, district 1, of W. H. (Bill) Merchant, Jr., it was inadvertently omitted that he has been actively engaged in livestock and farming in Eddy and Lea Counties with the Merchant Livestock Company. His association with the National Livestock Company was mentioned. Both should have been listed in the same connection.

Mr. Merchant, who made a comprehensive statement in the announcement, is well qualified for the office he is seeking and is running on a platform which embraces adequate school facilities, value received for the taxpayer and publication of the county's financial status for the benefit of the taxpayer, modern and safe bridges across the Pecos and economically built and maintained oil roads.

Officers of Artesia Lodge No. 11, I. O. O. F., and Sunrise Rebekah Lodge No. 9 were installed at the lodge hall here Wednesday evening in a joint installation, with J. W. Cave, district deputy grand master, as installing officer.

The installation was attended by a good sized crowd, including a number from Roswell, and a social hour concluded the evening program. Officers look forward to a fine year in both lodges.

City Editor Writes Dissertation On The Cow, Man's Lowly Servant

The following dissertation on the cow's lowly servant, the cow, is credited to a city editor. Its real source is unknown, but it bears repeating without comment.

The cow is a female quadruped with an alto voice and a countenance in which there is no guile. She collaborates with the pump in the production of a liquid called milk, provides the filler for hash, and at last is skinned by those she has benefitted, as mortals commonly are.

The cow's tail is mounted aft and has a universal joint. It is used to disturb marauding flies and the tassel on the end has a unique educational value. People who milk cows and come often in contact with the tassel have vocabularies of peculiar and impressive force.

The cow has two stomachs. The one on the ground floor is used as a warehouse and has no other

Fails to Pull Ship Out of Spin and Strikes Near Center of Field About 7 O'clock—Was Conscious When Reached.

DEATH 4 A. M. TODAY

Body Returned This Morning From Carlsbad Hospital Where Rushed.

Elbert (Chick) Phillips of Artesia, 27 years old, was fatally injured about 7 o'clock Wednesday evening when an airplane he was stunting plunged to earth at the local airport from a height of about 1,000 feet. He died at 4:20 o'clock this morning in Sisters' Hospital, Carlsbad.

His body badly broken, Mr. Phillips was conscious when rescued from the wreckage and rushed to Carlsbad in the McClay ambulance.

Mr. Phillips, who had been flying a number of years, was in the rear cockpit of a Rearwin Junior, three-cylinder highwing monoplane belonging to A. A. Ditto and James Graham, two Artesia youths.

He had put the plane into a tailspin Tuesday evening and successfully pulled out. Last evening he announced he would repeat the same stunt. At a height estimated by observers to have been 1,000 feet, he began the fatal spin.

The plane crashed about 200 yards south of the intersection of the two runways at the airport and twenty yards west of the northwest-southeast runway.

From its position after the accident, it appeared the plane had nearly been pulled out of the tailspin. It was standing at about a 45-degree angle, the engine driven back, but not upwards, indicating the ship was progressing somewhat forward. The right wing was broken about the middle and the undercarriage was crushed.

At the hospital it was reported the immediate cause of death was physical shock and loss of blood. Mr. Phillips, who was riding in the rear cockpit, sustained a severe head injury, where he bumped the back of the front pit. Both legs were broken, one practically pulverized.

Although Mr. Phillips had been flying a number of years, he received his pilot's license only recently.

Mr. Phillips was employed here by the Big Jo Lumber Company with which he was connected about seven years. He was transferred to Artesia last September from the Santa Fe yard.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Phillips, parents of "Chick" Phillips, and a sister, Mrs. Lois Williamson, of Guymon, Okla., the crash victim's former home, arrived here early this morning. They will leave tomorrow morning for Guymon with the body of their son and brother for burial there.

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET IT

Now is the time to get in on the spending and lending program, not after the money is all gone. The government is putting out millions of dollars, being approved at the rate of a million dollars a day, and the wide-awake communities throughout the nation are taking advantage of it.

Whether a community gains through the program or not, it will pay its share in the long run.

There are a number of projects which could be applied for in Artesia. Already there is a project for sidewalks for which application has been made, to the credit of the city administration. Sidewalks are needed here in many places, both new and replacements, and if the property owners can obtain them for the cost of materials, they should take advantage of the opportunity to improve their places, as well as make for a better city, if and when the project receives sanction.

In the meantime, there are many other projects for which application could be made. We need a class "A" airport. Already there is work being done in that line, which will probably bring results.

Then there is the decided need of spur sidewalks at corners, providing a means for pedestrians to cover the distance from the curbs to the property walks. This need has been brought home forcibly during the recent rains to those few who are so unfortunate as to have to walk. And there should be either stepping stones or solid concrete dips across the alley ends.

Artesia has a fine golf course, but it would be better to make it municipal. Then more could enjoy the game. Many cities no larger than this the country over have municipal courses. An application for such a project could be made.

And then there is the need for a municipal hall of some sort. The library could stand larger quarters. And there are many other improvements, which might be applied for.

No one would expect to have all projects approved. It would be unreasonable. But it wouldn't hurt to apply, and some might be given the government's OK.

Then again, Eddy County could make application for other projects. There are always plenty of things the people want, but see no way of obtaining.

And as we said in the first paragraph, with the government approving millions of dollars a day, now is the time to get in on it.

We know of one county where several years ago there was lots of talk about government assistance on county roads, as there was in neighboring counties. The other counties far surpassed the one in what aid was received. In the one case there was little talk, but lots of cooperation among the citizens, coupled with action; in the other, it was all talk. Let's get busy.

Man's ingenuity is dandy, but, asks The Gallup Independent, just how do you suppose China's feeling just now, recalling the fact that several centuries ago it invented gunpowder?

POSTAGE STAMPS IN CELLOPHANE

We don't know whether it is accidental, an order of the postmaster or of the Post Office Department, or what, but we are mighty pleased with one thing in particular at the Artesia postoffice. Contrary to the practice followed in other postoffices which we have observed, all stamps here are handed to customers glued side up!

At best stamps are dirty things and even under the method used in Artesia, the clerks must of necessity handle and touch them. But they do not place them face down and slide them across the germ-laden counters.

So much for the Artesia postoffice force. Now it is only up to the department to go one further. Almost everything else comes today wrapped in cellophane for the sake of health and sanitation. Why not sell stamps that way?

Tarrant County, Texas, commissioners want a ten-year loan from the RFC to build some bridges. Well, we should not cross our debts until we get to them, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram comments.

THERE'S SOMETHING IN A NAME

There's something in a name, according to an old saying, and we agree. A simple, easy-to-remember name usually has a decided advantage over harder ones, but not always. And they are of great aid to those in the newspaper profession, in more ways than one.

Personal names which are easy to recall are business assets usually. But one rarely finds a long, unpronounceable personal name used in the title of a business. And so he is fortunate who has a simple, every-day name.

But Artesia and Eddy County have an advantage. Persons in other parts of the country can much more easily remember them than such names as Magdalena, Albuquerque or Rehoboth; or Rio Arriba, Sandoval or Guadalupe County, all in New Mexico.

Such simple names are welcomed by newsmen who have to write headlines. Names of four letters, or even as many as seven, can usually be woven into a headline. Imagine trying to weave in such town names as Schenectady, Plumsteadville and Passadumkeag, all of which are real town names, into headlines.

We came from a four-letter county and a five-letter town and so Eddy and Artesia are right up our alley.

In spite of the fact there are fewer people around on the Fourth, it's strange how quiet July 5 seems.

Kernels From An Old Nut

A few weeks ago I received a letter from a man in Chicago who is seeking a location for a dude ranch in New Mexico. He apparently has means for making a considerable investment and connections that will enable him to provide the patronage necessary to make such an undertaking a success.

He plans coming here in August with a view to securing a location in consummation of his plans. He comes of his own initiative and wholly unsolicited.

Only last week while glancing through the advertising pages of the magazine section of the Sunday edition of the New York Times I was surprised to see before me in large letters the single word: "Ruidoso."

It was an advertisement of a summer camping trip into the Southwest; but the feature of it was our own summer resort. It is not a New Mexico advertisement; but the feature of a New Yorker's advertisement.

These are only examples of what may be duplicated many times in the experience of a great many of our citizens. They are proof of the fact—for it is a fact—that our great Southwest has resource and values of which we have never dreamed or which we do not appreciate.

Perhaps many who read this will have heard Dr. Russell H. Cornwell's great lecture: "Acres of Diamonds." The feature of the lecture, and the basis of its name, was the story—reputed to have been based upon fact—of a man who heard of a diamond discovery in a distant land. He knew only most casually something of the value of diamonds; but he was possessed of a desire to attain great wealth by that means.

Before he sold his farm he had picked up a strange rock upon the farm and carried it to the house where it remained. A visitor at the home of the new owner recognized the abandoned stone as containing diamonds. It is said that this is the origin of the famous Kimberly diamond mines of South Africa—the richest in the world.

I cannot vouch for the truth of that story; but more unreasonable happenings have come to the attention of many of us. In any event, the principle is true and we are all, within limits, living in the very midst of acres of diamonds without realizing it. Let's start hunting them right here at home.

Mrs. Frank Dent of New York City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Flint, arrived the first of the week for a visit with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Neatherlin and small daughter, Mary Ann, returned to their home in El Paso, Texas, Saturday, after a two-week visit here with Mr. Neatherlin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Neatherlin. They also visited the families of Robert and Charlie Neatherlin at Hope, brothers of Mrs. A. L. Neatherlin.

General News Briefs

It was a persistent ice jam in Niagara's gorge that last winter felled a bridge and buried a power plant—it still hung on Saturday, but was nearly gone. A chunk of ice, estimated by guides at about 400 pounds, remained in a shady spot near the falls. The previous record for ice remaining at the falls was June 21, 1920.

Approximately 250 seagulls that flew up the Columbia River from the coast, 300 miles away, fed on a horde of grasshoppers and crickets in the Pasco, Wash., district over the week end. Farmers said hundreds of thousands of the birds would be able to glut themselves daily for a week before reducing the number of the insects materially.

Beauty contests were known in Illinois eighty-one years ago. The first one recorded was held near Ottawa on July 4, 1857. Research writers on a WPA project have uncovered the story. They report the contest was for Indian maidens and squaws. An old Indian chief was named judge. He deliberated long and gravely. Finally he stepped before a squaw who stood six feet in her moccasins and weighed 400 pounds, placed his hand on her shoulder and proudly said: "Prettiest squaw." She was his wife.

At St. Charles, Mo., Justice of the Peace George R. Hart is certain one couple is beginning married life under false pretenses. Hart cashed a $60 check for the couple after the ceremony, then declined a $1 tip. The check bounced. "I wish now I'd taken the tip," he said.

"Jerry the Second," a 450-pound lion who didn't want to become a surfboard rider, turned Winona Lake, Ind., a summer resort, into a deserted village—briefly. Paul Lowman, whose surfboard riding lion died, was attempting to teach Jerry to ride the waves when the animal scampered along the lake shore. Onlookers dived for cover—and so did Jerry. Lowman cornered him and returned him to his cage.

Swing has invaded local Girl Scout ranks at Emporia, Kan. The Minnehaha patrol is now—officially—the Minnie-hot-cha patrol.

One of Tommy Curtis' bantam hens is going to be surprised when three baby "chicks" grow up. The young ones are three hawks, hatched from eggs that Tommy's father, Eli Curtis, found in a nest on his New Mexico cattle ranch. The elder Curtis took the eggs—larger than ordinary hen eggs—wrapped them in cotton and sent them by bus 125 miles to his son, aged 5 years, in Amarillo. The youngster put the eggs beneath a setting hen, and they hatched along with seven bantam eggs. The hawk eggs were a little tardy in hatching, but the dutiful hen insisted that she be allowed to keep the young hawks after they hatched. Tommy has only one worry—what to do about the hawks' habits. He was afraid they would eat the bantams when they grew larger, and considered offering the hawks to a zoo. The boy has a small menagerie at his home, including dogs and rabbits—but he doubts that hawks would make the family any happier.

Mrs. Jim Berry, who accompanied her uncle, Dick Willis, to his home in Sidell, Texas, about two weeks ago, expects to drive on to Arkansas for her daughter, Miss Dorothy, who has been visiting relatives for several weeks and they will return home together some time soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Rowland of Santa Monica, Calif., former residents of Artesia, are here visiting Mr. Rowland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rowland, and his two brothers and families, Mr. and Mrs. John Rowland and children and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rowland and children. The Rowlands expect to leave for their home Monday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Rowland and their daughter, Miss Lucille. The return trip will be made by way of Grand Canyon, Petrified Forest, Painted Desert and Boulder Dam. The John Rowland family will visit on the West Coast an expect to be away about three weeks.

State Ends Fiscal Year in the Red

Approximately $141,000 Slashed From Funds for Next Twelve Months

New Mexico ending the twenty-sixth fiscal year in the "red" last Thursday, prepared to start a new twelve-month period by slashing approximately $141,000 from funds due state institutions from the appropriations account.

The state finance board in its final meeting of the dying fiscal year, ordered a 10 per cent reduction in institutional funds with the assertion that "indications were that it would be impossible to restore any cut."

Similar cuts were made last year but with few exceptions the money was restored in the last half of the period.

The board also approved several departmental budgets for the new fiscal year, the twenty-seventh in state history.

Discussion of the $200,000 cash deficit in the appropriations account, the drop in the state's property tax valuation below the approximate $310,000,000 of last year, and plans for the new state levy was held by the board behind closed doors with Paul B. Harris, chief tax commissioner.

The official final valuation for the state and valuation of railroad property, one of the important items, was not announced by Harris. Only one departmental budget, that of textbook distribution, came under fire in the meeting. The board deferred approval of the budget because the State Board of Education had not passed on it.

Gov. Clyde Tingley, chairman of the board, also criticized the salaries provided in the $24,655 budget, asserting they were "higher than the general level of state salaries."

The resolution, in blanket form, makes the following cuts: University of New Mexico, $33,387; State College, $13,920; School of Mines, $5,000; State Teachers College, $9,581; Normal

University, $10,050; Eastern New Mexico Junior College, $7,130; Spanish-American Normal, $4,495; New Mexico Military Institute, $4,750; deaf school, $4,250; blind school, $4,500; insane asylum, $18,600; reform school, $2,650; Miners' Hospital, $322; Carrie Tingley Crippled Children's Hospital, $12,000; State Museum, $3,370; Girls' Welfare Home, $4,750; training school for mental defectives, $3,050.

Grapevine Whispers of Indian Tribal Ceremony Dates for 1938

To the North, South, East and West from Gallup, along the invisible—but nevertheless accurate—Indian "grapevine" telegraph is going the word that another Gallup inter-tribal Indian ceremonial time is approaching, writes Charles J. Huff, editor of The Gallup Independent.

This telegraphic work of the dates of the annual event is just one of the many strange things of the Indian country, but it never fails to bring the hordes of little tourists flocking into the little Northwestern New Mexico mining and tourist center of Gallup.

As M. L. Woodard, ceremonial board secretary, shuffled through letters from many states and a few foreign countries, asking dates, program by days, and other similar information, he declared: "Anyway, we don't have to worry about the Indians not knowing when the ceremonial is. In fact, we have them pointing out to us that it's about time, before we even get the publicity releases ready."

(Incidentally, in the event the "telegraph" hasn't reached Artesia by "grapevine," the dates are August 24-26 inclusive.)

This year's plans, so far as accommodations are concerned, are being expanded in anticipation of a record-breaking throng of visitors. Prior events have brought estimates ranging from 10,000 to 15,000 visitors for the three days of parades, dances and rodeo events.

And a prior problem of "where to put 'em" has been lessened for the housing committee this year, what with the addition of a half-million dollar, 140-room tourist hotel, several new and expanded tourist camps and a general enlarging of all other hotel facilities.

"That will kill the comment we used to hear: 'If you go to the Gallup ceremonial—you may end up sleeping in the Indians' camp,'" Woodard explained this year.

However, as in the past, private homes will be listed with the board for use in case other facilities fail to meet the demand.

Vaccination Aid In Tuberculosis

A marked decrease in the number of deaths from tuberculosis among young children has been achieved recently by the use of tuberculosis vaccine, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told.

This development of immunity to the "white plague" among children, the most susceptible group, has been accomplished by the use of the bacillus calmette-guerin vaccine, originally developed at the Pasteur Institute in Paris, France, more than ten years ago, Dr. J. A. Baudouin of the University of Montreal declared.

Some scientists who studied Dr. Baudouin's report declared his conclusions might prove as forceful as those of the discoverer of immunity to disease, when he announced his inoculation to prevent smallpox.

Dr. Baudouin reported 573 cases which had been vaccinated and were known to have been in long contact with active tuberculosis patients in their families. These were the most difficult trial cases. For comparison he showed the records of 943 unvaccinated children who also lived in families with one or more members having active tuberculosis.

During the 12 years since vaccination was begun, 198 children from both groups contracted tuberculosis and 61 of them died.

Of the 573 in the vaccinated group, only 40 contracted the disease and 11 of them died. In the group of 943 unvaccinated children, 158 acquired tuberculosis and 50 of them died.

The children vaccinated for tuberculosis also showed a much greater resistance to other diseases, Dr. Baudouin said. Only 26 of them died from respiratory diseases and other causes while 78 of the unvaccinated children succumbed.

Mrs. T. H. Flint and her three daughters and small grandson, Misses Kitty and Betty and Mrs. F. E. Waltrip and son, Travers, of Houston, Texas, spent last week at Ruidoso.

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET IT

Now is the time to get in on the spending and lending program, not after the money is all gone. The government is putting out millions of dollars, being approved at the rate of a million dollars a day, and the wide-awake communities throughout the nation are taking advantage of it.

Whether a community gains through the program or not, it will pay its share in the long run.

There are a number of projects which could be applied for in Artesia. Already there is a project for sidewalks for which application has been made, to the credit of the city administration. Sidewalks are needed here in many places, both new and replacements, and if the property owners can obtain them for the cost of materials, they should take advantage of the opportunity to improve their places, as well as make for a better city, if and when the project receives sanction.

In the meantime, there are many other projects for which application could be made. We need a class "A" airport. Already there is work being done in that line, which will probably bring results.

Then there is the decided need of spur sidewalks at corners, providing a means for pedestrians to cover the distance from the curbs to the property walks. This need has been brought home forcibly during the recent rains to those few who are so unfortunate as to have to walk. And there should be either stepping stones or solid concrete dips across the alley ends.

Artesia has a fine golf course, but it would be better to make it municipal. Then more could enjoy the game. Many cities no larger than this the country over have municipal courses. An application for such a project could be made.

And then there is the need for a municipal hall of some sort. The library could stand larger quarters. And there are many other improvements, which might be applied for.

No one would expect to have all projects approved. It would be unreasonable. But it wouldn't hurt to apply, and some might be given the government's OK.

Then again, Eddy County could make application for other projects. There are always plenty of things the people want, but see no way of obtaining.

And as we said in the first paragraph, with the government approving millions of dollars a day, now is the time to get in on it.

We know of one county where several years ago there was lots of talk about government assistance on county roads, as there was in neighboring counties. The other counties far surpassed the one in what aid was received. In the one case there was little talk, but lots of cooperation among the citizens, coupled with action; in the other, it was all talk. Let's get busy.

Man's ingenuity is dandy, but, asks The Gallup Independent, just how to you suppose China's feeling just now, recalling the fact that several centuries ago it invented gunpowder?

POSTAGE STAMPS IN CELLOPHANE

We don't know whether it is accidental, an order of the postmaster or of the Post Office Department, or what, but we are mighty pleased with one thing in particular at the Artesia postoffice. Contrary to the practice followed in other postoffices which we have observed, all stamps here are handed to customers glued side up!

At best stamps are dirty things and even under the method used in Artesia, the clerks must of necessity handle and touch them. But they do not place them face down and slide them across the germ-laden counters.

So much for the Artesia postoffice force. Now it is only up to the department to go one further. Almost everything else comes today wrapped in cellophane for the sake of health and sanitation. Why not sell stamps that way?

Tarrant County, Texas, commissioners want a ten-year loan from the RFC to build some bridges. Well, we should not cross our debts until we get to them, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram comments.

THERE'S SOMETHING IN A NAME

There's something in a name, according to an old saying, and we agree. A simple, easy-to-remember name usually has a decided advantage over harder ones, but not always. And they are of great aid to those in the newspaper profession, in more ways than one.

Personal names which are easy to recall are business assets usually. But one rarely finds a long, unpronounceable personal name used in the title of a business. And so he is fortunate who has a simple, every-day name.

But Artesia and Eddy County have an advantage. Persons in other parts of the country can much more easily remember them than such names as Magdalena, Albuquerque or Rehoboth; or Rio Arriba, Sandoval or Guadalupe County, all in New Mexico.

Such simple names are welcomed by newsmen who have to write headlines. Names of four letters, or even as many as seven, can usually be woven into a headline. Imagine trying to weave in such town names as Schenectady, Plumsteadville and Pasadumkeag, all of which are real town names, into headlines.

We came from a four-letter county and a five-letter town and so Eddy and Artesia are right up our alley.

In spite of the fact there are fewer people around on the Fourth, it's strange how quiet July 5 seems.

Kernels From An Old Nut

A few weeks ago I received a letter from a man in Chicago who is seeking a location for a dude ranch in New Mexico. He apparently has means for making a considerable investment and connections that will enable him to provide the patronage necessary to make such an undertaking a success.

He plans coming here in August with a view to securing a location in consummation of his plans. He comes of his own initiative and wholly unsolicited.

Only last week while glancing through the advertising pages of the magazine section of the Sunday edition of the New York Times I was surprised to see before me in large letters the single word: "Ruidoso." It was an advertisement of a summer camping trip into the Southwest; but the feature of it was our own summer resort. It is not a New Mexico advertisement; but the feature of a New Yorker's advertisement.

These are only examples of what may be duplicated many times in the experience of a great many of our citizens. They are proof of the fact—for it is a fact—that our great Southwest has resource and values of which we have never dreamed or which we do not appreciate.

Perhaps many who read this will have heard Dr. Russell H. Cornell's great lecture: "Acres of Diamonds." The feature of the lecture, and the basis of its name, was the story—reputed to have been based upon fact—of a man who heard of a diamond discovery in a distant land. He knew only most casually something of the value of diamonds; but he was possessed of a desire to attain great wealth by that means. Before he sold his farm he had picked up a strange rock upon the farm and carried it to the house where it remained. A visitor at the home of the new owner recognized the abandoned stone as containing diamonds. It is said that this is the origin of the famous Kimberly diamond mines of South Africa—the richest in the world.

I cannot vouch for the truth of that story; but more unreasonable happenings have come to the attention of many of us. In any event, the principle is true and we are all, within limits, living in the very midst of acres of diamonds without realizing it. Let's start hunting them right here at home.

Mrs. Frank Dent of New York City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Flint, arrived the first of the week for a visit with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Neatherlin and small daughter, Mary Ann, returned to their home in El Paso, Texas, Saturday, after a two-week visit here with Mr. Neatherlin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Neatherlin. They also visited the families of Robert and Charlie Neatherlin at Hope, brothers of Mrs. A. L. Neatherlin.

Mrs. Jim Berry, who accompanied her uncle, Dick Willis, to his home in Sidell, Texas, about two weeks ago, expects to drive on to Arkansas for her daughter, Miss Dorothy, who has been visiting relatives for several weeks and they will return home together some time soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Rowland of Santa Monica, Calif., former residents of Artesia, are here visiting Mr. Rowland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rowland, and his two brothers and families, Mr. and Mrs. John Rowland and children and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rowland and children. The Rowlands expect to leave for their home Monday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Rowland and their daughter, Miss Lucille. The return trip will be made by way of Grand Canyon, Petrified Forest, Painted Desert and Boulder Dam. The John Rowland family will visit on the West Coast an expect to be away about three weeks.

General News Briefs

It was a persistent ice jam in Niagara's gorge that last winter felled a bridge and buried a power plant—it still hung on Saturday, but was nearly gone. A chunk of ice, estimated by guides at about 400 pounds, remained in a shady spot near the falls. The previous record for ice remaining at the falls was June 21, 1920.

Approximately 250 seagulls that flew up the Columbia River from the coast, 300 miles away, fed on a horde of grasshoppers and crickets in the Pasco, Wash., district over the week end. Farmers said hundreds of thousands of the birds would be able to glut themselves daily for a week before reducing the number of the insects materially.

Beauty contests were known in Illinois eighty-one years ago. The first one recorded was held near Ottawa on July 4, 1857. Research writers on a WPA project have uncovered the story. They report the contest was for Indian maidens and squaws. An old Indian chief was named judge. He deliberated long and gravely. Finally he stepped before a squaw who stood six feet in her moccasins and weighed 400 pounds, placed his hand on her shoulder and proudly said: "Prettiest squaw." She was his wife.

At St. Charles, Mo., Justice of the Peace George R. Hart is certain one couple is beginning married life under false pretenses. Hart cashed a $60 check for the couple after the ceremony, then declined a $1 tip. The check bounced. "I wish now I'd taken the tip," he said.

"Jerry the Second," a 450-pound lion who didn't want to become a surfboard rider, turned Winona Lake, Ind., a summer resort, into a deserted village—briefly. Paul Lowman, whose surfboard riding lion died, was attempting to teach Jerry to ride the waves when the animal scampered along the lake shore. Onlookers dived for cover—and so did Jerry. Lowman cornered him and returned him to his cage.

Swing has invaded local Girl Scout ranks at Emporia, Kan. The Minnehaha patrol is now officially—the Minnie-hot-cha patrol.

One of Tommy Curtis' bantam hens is going to be surprised when three baby "chicks" grow up. The young ones are three hawks, hatched from eggs that Tommy's father, Eli Curtis, found in a nest on his New Mexico cattle ranch. The elder Curtis took the eggs—larger than ordinary hen eggs—wrapped them in cotton and sent them by bus 125 miles to his son, aged 5 years, in Amarillo. The youngster put the eggs beneath a setting hen, and they hatched along with seven bantam eggs. The hawk eggs were a little tardy in hatching, but the dutiful hen insisted that she be allowed to keep the young hawks after they hatched. Tommy has only one worry—what to do about the hawks' habits. He was afraid they would eat the bantams when they grow larger, and considered offering the hawks to a zoo. The boy has a small menagerie at his home, including dogs and rabbits—but he doubts that hawks would make the family any happier.

Mrs. Jim Berry, who accompanied her uncle, Dick Willis, to his home in Sidell, Texas, about two weeks ago, expects to drive on to Arkansas for her daughter, Miss Dorothy, who has been visiting relatives for several weeks and they will return home together some time soon.

State Ends Fiscal Year in the Red

Approximately $141,000 Slashed From Funds for Next Twelve Months

New Mexico ending the twenty-sixth fiscal year in the "red" last Thursday, prepared to start a new twelve-month period by slashing approximately $141,000 from funds due state institutions from the appropriations account.

The state finance board in its final meeting of the dying fiscal year, ordered a 10 per cent reduction in institutional funds with the assertion that "indications were that it would be impossible to restore any cut."

Similar cuts were made last year but with few exceptions the money was restored in the last half of the period.

The board also approved several departmental budgets for the new fiscal year, the twenty-seventh in state history.

Discussion of the $200,000 cash deficit in the appropriations account, the drop in the state's property tax valuation below the approximate $310,000,000 of last year, and plans for the new state levy was held by the board behind closed doors with Paul B. Harris, chief tax commissioner.

The official final valuation for the state and valuation of railroad property, one of the important items, was not announced by Harris.

Only one departmental budget, that of textbook distribution, came under fire in the meeting. The board deferred approval of the budget because the State Board of Education had not passed on it.

Gov. Clyde Tingley, chairman of the board, also criticized the salaries provided in the $24,655 budget, asserting they were "higher than the general level of state salaries."

The resolution, in blanket form, makes the following cuts: University of New Mexico, $33,387; State College, $13,920; School of Mines, $5,000; State Teachers College, $9,581; Normal

University, $10,050; Eastern New Mexico Junior College, $7,130; Spanish-American Normal, $4,495; New Mexico Military Institute, $4,750; deaf school, $4,250; blind school, $4,500; insane asylum, $18,600; reform school, $2,650; Miners' Hospital, $322; Carrie Tingley Crippled Children's Hospital, $12,000; State Museum, $3,370; Girls' Welfare Home, $4,750; training school for mental defectives, $3,050.

Grapevine Whispers of Indian Tribal Ceremony Dates for 1938

To the North, South, East and West from Gallup, along the invisible—but nevertheless accurate—Indian "grapevine" telegraph is going the word that another Gallup inter-tribal Indian ceremonial time is approaching, writes Charles J. Huff, editor of The Gallup Independent.

This telegraphic work of the dates of the annual event is just one of the many strange things of the Indian country, but it never fails to bring the hordes of participants flocking into the little Northwestern New Mexico mining and tourist center of Gallup.

As M. L. Woodard, ceremonial board secretary, shuffled through letters from many states and a few foreign countries, asking dates, program by days, and other similar information, he declared:

"Anyway, we don't have to worry about the Indians not knowing when the ceremonial is. In fact, we have them pointing out to us that it's about time, before we even get the publicity releases ready."

(Incidentally, in the event the "telegraph" hasn't reached Artesia by "grapevine," the dates are August 24-26 inclusive.)

This year's plans, so far as accommodations are concerned, are being expanded in anticipation of a record-breaking throng of visitors. Prior events have brought estimates ranging from 10,000 to 15,000 visitors for the three days of parades, dances and rodeo events.

And a prior problem of "where to put 'em" has been lessened for the housing committee this year, what with the addition of a half-million dollar, 140-room tourist hotel, several new and expanded tourist camps and a general enlarging of all other hotel facilities.

"That will kill the comment we used to hear: 'If you go to the Gallup ceremonial—you may end up sleeping in the Indians' camp,'" Woodard explained this year.

However, as in the past, private homes will be listed with the board for use in case other facilities fail to meet the demand.

More than 7,000 Indians, representing sixteen different tribes, from New Mexico, Arizona, Oklahoma, Utah and even California, participate. And the type-scale ranges from Pueblo dwellers to "teepee-pitchers."

Speaking of the habitants of these redmen, another odd quirk is that those used to living in terraced adobe dwellings have the "house of the many doors" provided for them at the ceremonial grounds. Anywhere else it might be termed just an adobe replica of a California-style apartment house—but to the Pueblo Indians, it's home.

As for the tent-dwelling Kiowas, their white buckskin teepees in the matter-of-fact camp surroundings maintained by the majority of the redmen, provides a real side-line sight for their paleface audiences.

And if you just happened to be strolling about when campfire glows have simmered down to red dots of live embers—wander (carefully) through the now-silent ceremonial grounds which still seem to faintly re-echo the chants and whoops of a short time before.

It's worth your time to see the spoke-wheel style feet toward glowing ember, effected by those tribesmen whose livelihood is made on the open ranges.

Questions about the list of program events are a loss. It takes but three short sentences: Parades in the morning; Indian-style rodeo in the afternoon; dances at night. This program maintains through the three days, without variation.

As to description, well—what's a sunset like?

The ceremonial has the colorful splendor of barbaric costume; the primitive setting of tense Indian audiences in the background; the hush of thrilled Easterners; the wondrous of redmen's religious rites; and the uniqueness of an absolutely unstaked presentation of modern-day redmen in the unchanged dances and chants of their forefathers.

Even the arrangement of the night's dances are left to tribal leaders.

Take a circus parade, a wild west show, a religious revival meeting; throw them all together, and what do you have?

Mr. Coleman said 75 per cent of the farms would have to be wired before the electricity could be turned on. Dr. D. A. Loucks of Artesia will inspect the wiring before the electricity it turned on.

Mrs. Buck will visit with several other sisters and brothers while she is there. She plans to be gone a month or six weeks.

Vaccination Aid In Tuberculosis

A marked decrease in the number of deaths from tuberculosis among young children has been achieved recently by the use of tuberculosis vaccine, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told.

This development of immunity to the "white plague" among children, the most susceptible group, has been accomplished by the use of the bacillus calmette-guerin vaccine, originally developed at the Pasteur Institute in Paris, France, more than ten years ago.

Dr. J. A. Baudouin of the University of Montreal declared. Some scientists who studied Dr. Baudouin's report declared his conclusions might prove as forceful as those of the discoverer of immunity to disease, when he announced his inoculation to prevent smallpox.

Dr. Baudouin reported 573 cases which had been vaccinated and were known to have been in long contact with active tuberculosis patients in their families. These were the most difficult trial cases. For comparison he showed the records of 943 unvaccinated children who also lived in families with one or more members having active tuberculosis.

During the 12 years since vaccination was begun, 198 children from both groups contracted tuberculosis and 61 of them died.

Of the 573 in the vaccinated group, only 40 contracted the disease and 11 of them died. In the group of 943 unvaccinated children, 158 acquired tuberculosis and 50 of them died.

The children vaccinated for tuberculosis also showed a much greater resistance to other diseases, Dr. Baudouin said. Only 26 of them died from respiratory diseases and other causes while 78 of the unvaccinated children succumbed.

Mrs. T. H. Flint and her three daughters and small grandson, Misses Kitty and Betty and Mrs. F. E. Waltrip and son, Travers, of Houston, Texas, spent last week at Ruidoso.

BREAKFAST BRIDGE AT CLARKE HOME FRIDAY

At the last previous meeting of the First Afternoon Bridge Club, scores were totaled and the winners and losers of the year announced, and the losing members were hostesses Friday morning at the spacious home of Mrs. J. J. Clarke, when they served a two-course breakfast on the lovely back porch, which was decorated with summer flowers, attractively arranged.

Several rounds of contract were played in any manner which happened to please the particular players, adding a lot of fun to the occasion, even though the rules of the game were badly missed. Hostesses were: Mmes. Nellie Hartell, H. A. Hammill, Arba Green, A. B. Coll, J. J. Clarke, Jim Berry and C. M. Houk. Mrs. Walter Nugent and Mrs. T. S. "THE OLD FERRET" Lasts much longer.—A. L. B. A smile is better far Than forced hilarity; Its memory

Now Keep Quiet—

Although the Old Ferret is inclined to agree with the gal in this, he cannot help but repeat the incident. The gal in question picked up a badly disheveled newspaper from the reading table at a boarding house. "I don't understand how anyone can tear up a paper like this; it's disgraceful!" she griped.

One of the other boarders, a man, spoke up. "It's mine and I guess I can do with it anything I wish," he said.

Headline: "War Admiral Will Be Fit Again Soon." Gosh, that shows our ignorance. Here we thought he was a racehorse.

Last Year or 1936?—

It is understood an Artesian recently wrote his sister. Among other things, so 'tis said, he scribbled: "It's been so long I don't remember where to begin this letter, so I'll go back to Christmas. So, if I have not thanked you before, thanks a lot for the gift. Whatever it was, it was swell and just what I wanted."

Circumstantial evidence may not be the best in the world, but it is a cinch that they are not headed for Sunday school if they have fishing poles on the side of the car.—Smiley (Himself) in the Grapevine Sun.

Swell Menu, Scrambled—

Maybe this is not funny, but the Old Ferret thought it was when he saw it on a menu in a restaurant, not in Artesia. This is just the way it was printed:

- Fried Individual Fish, Stewed Tomatoes, Cream Whipped Potatoes with Gravy, Buttered Rolls, Coffee or Milk, 35c

Noble blood! Bah! What is more noble or so pure as that of the lion? And yet he is only a brute. It is merit, education and virtue, not blood, that lifts men above the level of the brutes.—Michael le Faucher.

Slight Misunderstanding—

From the Ozard hills country comes a story, originally attributed to The Sikeston (Mo.) Standard, edited by straight-shooting, outspoken Col. Blanton, whose tales travel as far as or farther than most others in more or less out of the way places. Here it is, just as published in the Standard:

A newly married couple were looking for a house in the country, and after finding one that they decided was suitable, were making their way home. The young wife happened to think, after reaching home, that she had not seen any water closet on the place and decided to write the owner and referred to it as W. C.

The owner did not readily understand just what she meant by the W. C. but after awhile decided she meant Westport Church and answered as follows:

"Dear Madam: I regret very much the delay in answering your letter, and now take pleasure in informing you that the W. C. is located about nine miles from the house and is capable of seating 1,260 people. This indeed is unfortunate if you contemplate going regularly, but no doubt you will be interested to know that a great many people take their lunch and make a day of it, while others who cannot spare the time go by auto and arrive just in time, but generally they are in too great a hurry to wait for a seat if the place is crowded. The last time my wife and I went we had to stand in line for hours.

"It may interest you to know that it is planned to hold a bazaar to raise funds for plush seats for the W. C., as it will fill a long felt want. I might mention that it grieves me very much not to go more often. It certainly is through no lack of desire, but as we grow older it seems more of an effort, particularly in cold weather."

Wins Coffee Crown—Joan Carson, beautiful hotel stenographer, was picked by the coffee industry for the title of "Miss Coffee" from the prettiest girl employees of New York hotels. She will represent the industry during Iced Coffee Week, and is shown wearing her crown of coffee blossoms.

Beach Pulchritude—Pretty Esther Ann Walker displays a lovely figure—and the waves go wild.

Gosh, It's Hot!—"Jackie," the chimp, takes a swig of the bottle to offset the sweltering heat of the summer sun.

HAGUE'S "DISPLAY OF AMERICANISM"—Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City (second from left) as he appeared reviewing huge rally by some 175,000 citizens who proclaimed Jersey City "American." Hague has been accused of violating virtually all the Bill of Rights in denying a hearing to political and Labor opponents.

Greyhound Racing Is Not New Sport

Dates Back to Sixteenth Century. With Similar Rules to Present

Greyhound racing is supposed to be the most modern of all sports, but it had its beginning back in the sixteenth century, according to Edward G. Ash in his article, "How Dogs Were Used in Mediaeval Sport." Tales of greyhounds racing on tracks may be found in a number of ancient volumes on dogs, and the sport is linked to James I (1566-1625), son of the ill-fated Mary Queen of Scots. Mr. Ash writes:

"During the reign of King James I, and probably for some time before, greyhounds were raced along a track, and a purse or plate was given to the winner. The stag was allowed 'law,' and to hurry it on a dog known as a 'leazer' was employed—a dog which could not run very fast but could bark very loudly. The deer ran into a ditch at the far end of the track, and the dog which jumped the ditch first won the race.

"It is stated in various works that King James wrote the 'Rules of Paddock Coursing,' as this sport was known. An intensive search has brought no such rules to light. But it is interesting to notice that, according to Dr. Johnson, the word 'paddock' means a small enclosure for deer. "Details of the proceedings, written during the reign of King James, tell us that the owners of dogs 'drew cuts' as to which should have the 'wall side,' and that wagers were laid and that no owner of a dog was to have the advantage over another, the greyhounds having to be handed over to a man whose task it was to slip them as soon as the deer had passed the 20-yard post—details that seem strangely like the proceeding at the most up-to-date greyhound racing meet of today." Apparently one must look sharp to find something really new.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams were called to Amarillo, Texas, Friday on account of the death of Mr. Williams' uncle, Houston Taylor. They were accompanied by their daughter, Catherine Louise, who remained in Amarillo for a visit with relatives. Billy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Williams, is visiting in Borger at the present.

Will Have Water Carnival at State College on July 19

The second annual State College water carnival to be held at the State College swimming pool at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, July 19, promises to surpass the carnival given last year. More than twice the number of feminine bathing beauties will participate this year, while the number of masculine "beauties" is indeterminate, according to the committee in charge.

New races have been decided upon and Merrill Thompson, who is in charge of the arrangements for the carnival, went to Colorado Springs, Colo., where he expected to discover new ideas and events that will increase the lure of the carnival.

Leading contenders in the men's division will include Bill Hayner, who won the intramural swimming contest at the college pool on May 21. Miss Nancy Johns, girls' intramural champion, is expected to be among the contestants also.

MANY VISIT CAVERNS OVER THE WEEK END

Visitors at the Carlsbad Caverns the three days of the Cavalcade over the Fourth of July week end totaled 6,740, nearly 1,000 more than on the same days last year, when 5,755 persons made the underground trip. The peak day was Sunday, when 3,636 persons visited the caverns. A total of 2,223 went through on the Fourth and 917 Saturday.

Col. Thomas Boles, superintendent, predicts 45,000 tourists will visit the Carlsbad Caverns during July.

Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Clarke and sons, Drs. John and Lawrence Clarke, spent the week end in El Paso visiting friends. Mrs. Paul Gallagher returned with them and is a guest at the Clarke home this week.

Deep Sea Fishing Best in Waters Closest This Section, Says Writer

Citizens of the Southwest, who trek off to the far-away places seeking the fascinating thrill that comes only through the tug of fishing line are only wasting their time and money, advises Flem Hall, sports writer in the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

No more abundant exciting fishing is to be found in the world than right here at home; on the Texas Coast, 6 to 12 hours by automobile from Fort Worth.

That's the testimony of some of the world's most fanatic fishermen, Hall says, and it's little farther from Eddy County, which makes the story all the more interesting.

Take for example the case of Dr. R. L. Sutton, internationally famous dermatologist, who literally circles the globe in pursuit of big game fish, Hall continues. Which makes the story even more interesting to The Advocate editor, an old friend of the Kansas City doctor, who is equally as internationally famous as a big game hunter and fisherman, and about whom it has been the editor's pleasure to write several feature stories in the past.

The sports writer continues: Dr. Sutton, the big, bronzed 60-year-old exploring scientist, makes two trips to the blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico each year and spends weeks enjoying the pleasures that only those waters give him year after year. Port Aransas is his special delight, the spot he makes his headquarters.

"Port Aransas is the tarpon capital of the world," he says.

Dr. Sutton has been at Aransas the last five weeks, between expeditions to New Zealand and Nova Scotia. After angling for the giant tuna that run off the Northern Atlantic Coast in the summer, he will embark on a round-the-world cruise that'll take him along the African coast looking for a finny fighter that'll match the "silver king" that swarm the Texas Coast. There are bigger, but no gamer fish than the tarpon, says the doctor, and the bigger ones are not to be found elsewhere with such consistency and in such number as in the shallow waters that lap the long narrow sandbar islands that shelter the harbors from Port Arthur to Point Isabel.

With light tackle and barbless hooks Dr. Sutton brought seventy-two tarpon to gaff during his 1938 spring visit to Port Aransas. None was taken as he doesn't like to kill the scaly battlers.

"Because of unsettled weather that kept the water muddy most of June, the fishing wasn't as good as in 1937 when I caught 88 in 22 days of fishing," he declared.

The doctor goes after nothing except tarpon, although the waters of the Gulf are loaded with king, jack, ling, mackerel, red, trout, pike and a dozen other game species.

Whether or not Aransas is the best fishing spot along the coast is an open question; it specializes in fishing; has the accommodations and can supply the desired result with such consistency that it can justly boast some kind of fish bite every day.

Among those who spent the Fourth in Cloudfroft were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bigler, Miss Ruth Rieker, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Whitson, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Welch and small daughter, Phoebe, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Watson and children and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Attebery and children.

Lloyd Simon was accompanied to the Sacramento Camp by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaskins for a week end visit with Mrs. Simon and Bobby. Mr. Simon's family returned home with him for a few days, but expects to return to the mountains the latter part of this week.

Tourist Money Flows Into State of New Mexico at the Rate of $9,000 an Hour

The rate at which tourist money flows into the state of New Mexico is $9,000 an hour, according to figures of the State Tourist Bureau. From every state and a score of foreign countries come tourists to try an average of four days and spend $22 each while within the boundaries of "The Sunshine State."

The bureau estimates almost $80,000,000 will pour this year into the cash registers of merchants, hotels, camps and others who will profit by the great number of visitors.

Competition between the states for the tourist trade becomes more pronounced each year, and other states, along with New Mexico, are planning to take advantage of this major industry, but the bureau believes such competition, instead of being detrimental, may have its advantages.

Many of the state's chief attractions are peculiar to New Mexico, and tourists who have other places in the West and Southwest in mind when they make up their itinerary, in numerous cases will so route themselves they may take advantage of the sights, wonders and climate of this state, the bureau believes.

Among such sights are the Indian Pueblos, the Carlsbad Caverns and the Great White Sands.

And there are a number of others. The bureau estimates there will be 363,000 foreign-licensed automobiles which will enter New Mexico during the tourist season this year, coming in through the twenty-six ports of entry. This figure is nearly three times as great as the motor vehicle registration in New Mexico.

The increase in number of people will be 954,000, or about twice the population of this state.

These tourists will spend $4,400,000 on gasoline taxes alone, not to mention the great sum to be expended on gasoline and oil. Of this amount, $2,500,000 will be in direct taxes alone and nearly $1,000,000 will be from the school sales tax. Gasoline tax collections so far this year show an increase of 18.86 per cent, the greatest of any state in the union.

There is not an individual in the state who does not in some way feel the effect of tourist expenditures. Every cent collected through the school tax goes into the school equalization fund, which in turn is used for maintaining the common schools. Every person who has a child to educate profits directly from the tourist flow. Every person who drives an automobile can thank the tourists for aiding in building the fine highway system, and every business and professional man and every person who works for a salary will immediately feel the effect of lessening of tourist expenditures, even though his work never brings him in direct contact with those travelers.

New Mexico is ideally located. With the trunk line highways either completed or nearing completion, the bulk of transcontinental travel will doubtless continue to use the shorter Southern route to the West Coast. With more and more states and communities entering the travel field, it is apparent that a tremendous impetus will be given to this particular industry.

The only way that New Mexico can lose by travel competition is to cease to invite traveling America to enter her borders.

Joe Suttle, line foreman for J. E. Morgan & Sons, general contractors who constructed the REA lines in Eddy County, left Sunday for his home at Waco, Texas. He is to be assigned to another job soon, somewhere in Texas.
