Drive For $15,000 For Airport Will Begin Tuesday

Goal in Drive for Funds to Equip Artesia Memorial Hospital Still $5,000 Short Today

Some Sizeable Donations Are Expected, Which Will Bring Up Total—Certain Good Contacts Not Made Yet.

X-RAY IS NEEDED

Some Purchases Totalling $1,500 Are Being Made This Week.

The clean-up drive for funds for furnishing Artesia Memorial Hospital was still about $5,000 short of its goal late this morning, city officials said. However, a number of persons who are being counted on for sizeable donations had not been contacted up to that time.

Of the goal of $8,000 set a week ago, only about $3,000 has been subscribed.

The additional $5,000 will be necessary in order to buy badly needed equipment such as an X-ray machine.

Officials believed the goal would be reached before the week is out if everyone who plans to subscribe is contacted. They emphasized the fact small donations add up and are quite as welcome as the larger ones.

Donations will be received at the city clerk's office or the Chamber of Commerce office in the city hall or at the First National Bank.

Purchases of equipment amounting to about $1,500 were made this week, including all of the small equipment for the laboratory, which will place it in good useable shape.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce airport committee, which will begin a drive next week, said they do not wish to interfere in any way with the drive for hospital funds and urged that residents consider the two propositions separately, not together.

In fact, airport committee members said, their drive for funds and announcement to the public was deferred a week in order to help put the hospital equipment goal across, but airport information known to them and to city officials prompted starting their drive no later than next week.

Seven Rivers Man Is Charged With Weapon Assault

Ed Bracher of the Seven Rivers section, was placed under $500 bond by Justice of the Peace Charles M. Neely of Carlsbad Monday following Bracher's plea of not guilty to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

The complaint was filed by Vern Lamb, who alleges that Bracher fired a rifle three times at Lamb and C. L. Coyle, one of the bullets passing through the crown of Lamb's hat.

Cause of the alleged shooting, said to have been Saturday, near the Bracher home, was not brought out in the hearing.

Lamb stated that he and two companions were ordered out of the vicinity of the Bracher home at gun-point, and when they left hurriedly and attempted to "crash" a gate in getting away, their car stuck in the debris. As they attempted to clear it, Lamb told officers, Bracher began firing and the two men fled on foot.

Lamb stated that "one of the bullets went through my hat" as he ran.

Nash Transferred To Roswell Office

Bufo Nash, manager here for Hill Lines, Inc., since the Artesia office was opened nearly a year ago, is being transferred to Roswell and will be replaced here as manager by Wallace Gates, bookkeeper at the Brainard-Corbin Hardware Company store.

Gates will take over his new duties tomorrow, as of Sept. 1, and Nash will remain a few days to acquaint him with the work.

The place of Gates at the hardware store is being taken by Homer Borland of Roswell.

"Cap" Fulton Is Improving from Knife Wound

Casper O. (Cap) Fulton, popular young oil truck driver of Artesia, is somewhat improved but not out of danger from knife wounds sustained in an altercation north of the Chaves County line near the Petroleum Club early Sunday morning, and Elbert Seifre and Fred Harvey, who were employed on a farm near Dexter, are in jail, being held in connection with the knifing.

A wound in Fulton's abdomen, which is said to have cut into but not severed his intestine, is of such nature as to worry doctors at St. Francis Hospital, Carlsbad, where he was rushed in the McClay ambulance after receiving first aid treatment in Artesia. He also has a wound in his right arm.

Seifre is in jail at Roswell and Harvey is in Artesia pending investigation of the knifing and the condition of Fulton. No actual charges against the men have been made.

The altercation was said to have taken place about 2 or 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning near the club.

Charlie Foster of Roswell, deputy sheriff of Chaves County, who happened along about the time the club was closing, and Irvin Martin, former deputy sheriff of Eddy County, took Seifre and Harvey into custody.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Edwards of Roswell was in Carlsbad Monday to get a statement as to the altercation from Fulton.

Fulton, who is employed here as a driver for the Phillips 66 bulk plant, is an enthusiastic football fan and follower of other sports.

First Bale Cotton Honors This Year In Four-Way Split

Two Men and Gins Are Involved in Set-up Here on Monday

Honors for the first bale of cotton in the Artesia locality were split four ways this year, when one producer brought in the No. 1 bale to one gin, to be followed about four hours later by another producer bringing his cotton to another gin, which beat the first gin in ginning it.

Yencio Lopez started the week, as well as the season off about 6:30 o'clock Monday morning by showing up at the Artesia Alfalfa Growers' Association gin with the first bale of the season in town.

About four hours later G. E. Sharp arrived with a bale, which he took to the Artesia Farmers' Gin, where it was ginned out at 5 o'clock that afternoon.

The gin of the Artesia Alfalfa Growers' Association was not ready to use Monday, so the bale belonging to Lopez was not ginned until Tuesday morning.

So honors for "firsts" this year will have to be divided: First bale to town, Lopez; first bale received, Artesia Alfalfa Growers' Association; first bale ginned, Sharp; ginner of first bale, Artesia Farmers' Gin.

Sharp and Lopez have both been among the first to bring in bales of cotton for a number of years, sometimes one beating all the other farmers in this locality, sometimes the other.

And by a strange coincidence, exactly the same thing in regard to the two men and the two gins happened four years ago as did Monday.

The first bale of cotton ginned in Eddy County was Friday by the Otis Gin. It belonged to Francisco Franco and was raised west of Carlsbad.

ATTEBERY IS MADE SCHOOL TAX AUDITOR

Announcement of the appointment of J. R. Attebery as an auditor for Southeast New Mexico for the school tax division of the Bureau of Revenue just has been made.

He left today for Santa Fe to confer with officials of the bureau.

J. W. Watkins, Former Artesian, Is Found Dead Near Silver

John W. Watkins, an old-time resident of Artesia and a carpenter here a number of years ago, was found dead about thirty miles from Silver City recently, according to a communication from J. L. Turner, deputy sheriff of Grant County, to Jim Naylor of Artesia, another old-time carpenter.

The letter asked Mr. Naylor the whereabouts of Mr. Watkins' daughter, Mrs. Pearl Humble, formerly of Artesia, which he could not give.

Mr. Watkins was identified by some people from Duncan, Ariz., and was buried in Silver City Wednesday, Aug. 23, the deputy's letter said.

He asked that any information in regard to Mr. Watkins or his daughter be forwarded to him at Silver City.

Malco Wins Second Half of Softball Season in Artesia

Will Meet Conoco for Full Year's Honors in Series of Games

The perfect second half season record of the Malco softball team was marred Friday evening, when the fifth-place Phillips 66 boys defeated the Oilers 8 to 3, but the scheduled season was completed last evening with Malco the undisputed second half champs.

Up to Friday that team had come through the second half as did Conoco in the first half season without losing a game.

The two refinery teams, Malco and Conoco, will play a short series of games soon to decide the season championship. The games had not been scheduled this morning, nor was it known whether the series would be of 3 or 5 games.

The regular season ended last evening with a single game, won by the Dr. Peppers over Phillips 66 by a score of 13 to 5. The other scheduled game of the evening, Lake Arthur CCC camp against High School went to the latter team by default, as the camp has been broken up and the team withdrew from the league several weeks ago.

For the same reason the Dr. Pepper team gained a game Monday evening, having been scheduled to play the CCC boys. The single game that evening went to Conoco, which beat High School 4 to 3.

The team standings for the complete second half season:

	W	L	Pct.
Malco	9	1	.900
Conoco	7	3	.700
Dr. Pepper	7	5	.583
High School	5	6	.450
Phillips 66	4	8	.333
Lake Arthur CCC	1	9	.100

Crile Begins New Studio Building Here on Roselawn

Preparatory work began Wednesday on a new studio building on South Roselawn for the Crile Studio.

Herman Crile, owner, said the building will be built especially for his studio and will be modernistic throughout. The exterior will be white stucco over hollow tile construction and black glazed tile will be used under the show windows by way of contrast. It will have a frontage of twenty feet.

Crile, who owns the frontage beyond the new building site, has room for two more units of a three-unit building, which he will complete when necessary. The lot is at the corner of Quay, with the studio building at the north end, nearest Main Street.

The studio owner expects to have his new building complete and in use by some time in October.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gresset and children returned Monday from Mississippi, where they have been visiting friends and relatives the last two weeks.

STORES TO CLOSE
HERE LABOR DAY

Stores in Artesia will close Monday, Labor Day.
The decision was made Wednesday noon when Arba Green, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, contacted the majority of store managers and asked their opinion.
Most were in favor of the closing, which has become somewhat of a custom, as it is in the larger cities.

Site South of Artesia on Old Highway Is Announced by Chamber Commerce Committee

Ezell Will Speak At Association Meet on Tuesday

C. L. Ezell of El Paso, an authority on the widespread movement by farmers of the South and Southwest proposing to present to Congress the matter of recoveries under the Bankhead Act of taxes paid by purchasers of certificates during 1934-35, will speak on that movement at the regular meeting of the Central Valley Farm & Livestock Association at the city hall here at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening.

The movement is an organized plan to urge Congress to refund taxes paid through the purchase of certificates.

Ezell, in accepting the association's invitation to speak here, said 95 per cent of the farmers in Dona Ana County, N. Mex., and El Paso County, Tex., already have joined in the movement.

Oil Shutdown May Expire on Friday Morning in State

Decision to Come After Public Hearing of Commission Today

Members of the state oil conservation commission were reported to be unanimously of the opinion Wednesday that the state's petroleum industry shutdown should be allowed to expire at 7 o'clock Friday morning. Official decision on the shutdown will be made after a public hearing today.

Other states which have cooperated in the shutdown are reopening production, and Gov. John E. Miles said he sees no reason that New Mexico shouldn't follow suit.

Although all sources emphasized no official decision would be made until after the hearing, some hinted their belief the shutdown, in cooperation with five other states, had accomplished its purpose.

The belief was heightened by Texas' decision to reopen its wells Saturday, and by reports that oil companies had restored crude price cuts. Among these was Humble, one of the largest producers of New Mexico crude.

In a move to avoid embarrassing New Mexico refiners, Gov. Miles and A. Andreas, state geologist, as majority members of the commission, ordered that petroleum should be supplied to all refiners of the state in need of crude.

The order was transmitted by telephone to Glenn Staley, state proration umpire, who was instructed to issue production permits to wells connected by pipelines with New Mexico refiners.

Death Comes to Mrs. A. W. Wilde Suddenly Today

Mrs. A. W. Wilde, pioneer resident of Artesia and the mother of Mrs. Jess Scheideck of the oil field, died suddenly at her home on West Missouri Street here at 10 o'clock this morning. She became ill only last night.

No details could be learned of her illness or history or the funeral arrangements at the time The Advocate went to press.

Brother of L. M. Friend Is Dead

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Friend returned home Tuesday morning from Terrell, Tex., where they attended funeral services at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning for Mr. Friend's oldest brother, E. M. Friend, who died at 1:20 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The Artesia people left for Terrell about the time of the brother's death Saturday, after word of the serious illness of E. M. Friend was learned.

Mr. Friend, who was 72 years old, is survived by his widow and a daughter, who lives in Denver. He visited in Artesia a number of years ago.

Lions Initiate Three, Benefit Game Planned

Three new members of the Artesia Lions Club were initiated with the impressive Lions' ceremony of "Kissing the Code of Ethics" at the weekly luncheon-meeting Wednesday noon. They were Fritz Crawford and Leon Clayton, who were admitted at previous meetings, and Guy Roberts, who was introduced to the members Tuesday.

The Lions announced they will play a benefit game of softball with the Artesia All-Stars within the next week to raise funds for needy school children. No date has been set as yet.

Admission will be 10 cents or one or more articles of wearing apparel or shoes.

The game will be part of a campaign for clothing for needy children which the Lions Club is initiating and in a program to raise money for indigent school children and children with bad eyes. The state is to match the money the Lions raise in the campaign for sight conservation.

Fred Cole, president of the club, appointed the members of the civic improvement committee, W. D. Burk, Leon Clayton and A. C. Glasser, as representatives of the club to work with the finance sub-committee of the Chamber of Commerce's airport committee to raise funds in the drive which will begin Tuesday.

The Lions plan to have a watermelon feed this evening at the Artesia Golf Club course. J. J. Terry is furnishing the melons.

Welfare Board to Seek a Residence Law for Indigents

Will Lessen Burden in State, Group Decides at County Meeting

A law to lessen the burden of caring for indigents, by requiring that they show a definite period of residence in the state, will be sought by the Eddy County Welfare Advisory Board, that body decided at a meeting in Carlsbad Friday evening.

It was pointed out that neighboring states have laws requiring residence of up to three years before an individual is eligible for any kind of relief. The less strict laws in New Mexico, it was said, places a burden of caring for transient population on the state's shoulders.

Such a law is badly needed in this state, members of the board said, for under the present law, anyone coming to New Mexico with the intention of making the state his residence is entitled to relief if needy.

The board also will work towards securing better housing among indigents, it was decided Friday. A committee is to make a report on that phase at the meeting here next month.

Besides Folkner, members from Artesia who attended the meeting in Carlsbad were Mrs. D. C. Blue, Mrs. J. H. Naylor, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and Elmer Perry.

Game Association Meets in Carlsbad Starting on Sunday

Carlsbad will be the scene Sunday through Tuesday of the annual convention of the New Mexico Game Protective Association, Fred Westfall, president of the Eddy County organization, has announced.

National, Texas and Arizona game officials are expected to be there for the convention with the New Mexico group.

New state officers and a representative to the National Wildlife Federation will be elected during the convention. The program also includes a trip through Carlsbad Caverns.

Between 300 and 400 persons are expected for the convention.

Emery Carper and Boone Barnett Head Groups to Raise Funds Necessary for Purchase and Construction Costs.

PLAN TO PUSH WORK

Members See Possibility of Airmail-Passenger Stop in Near Future.

A drive for $15,000 to build a new Artesia airport will begin next Tuesday, it was announced by the airport committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Tuesday evening.

The site, which heretofore has not been disclosed, is located about two miles south of Main Street on the old Carlsbad highway and embraces the greater part of a section.

The goal set for the drive by the committee was based on the cost of the land, grading of three landing strips 500 feet wide, graveling of runways 150 feet wide in the center of the landing strips, each 4,750 feet long, building a hangar large enough to accommodate several planes and making other improvements in conformance with requirements of the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

The drive will be made by two sub-committees headed by Emery Carper and Boone Barnett, appointed by Pot Bert, general chairman.

The sub-committee of which Carper is chairman, will, for the most part, contact interests which have business in and near Artesia as well as at other places and number in their personnel men who use airplanes frequently in their business.

The members of Carper's committee: Van S. Welch, Fred Brainard, C. J. Dexter, Carl Folkner, Jim Ferguson and Rufus Wallingford.

Barnett's committee will make local contacts and is composed of Howard Williams, vice chairman; Artie McAnally, V. D. Bolton, Arba Green, Hugh Kiddy, Clyde Guy, A. P. Mahone, W. D. Burk, Leon Clayton and A. C. Glasser.

The airport committee, in deciding to make an immediate drive for funds and to push construction of the port, considered the possibility that Artesia might be included as well as Carlsbad, Hobbs and Roswell, in the proposed spur line of Continental Airlines from El Paso to Albuquerque.

Members pointed out that the oil fields and other phases of the oil industry here attract many men from other states, a number of whom will fly when there is a suitable airport here at which to land and available hangar space for storing planes. Every week, it was said, there are oil men having business in and at Artesia who fly, but who come by automobile because of the lack of a suitable airport.

Others would avail themselves of the convenience of regular airline transportation, such as would be provided by Continental Airlines, it is believed.

Should the airline decide to include Artesia on the route, airmail would be delivered to and dispatched from Artesia, the committee members agreed. The amount of airmail which is handled through the Artesia postoffice should interest the Post Office Department in having Artesia included as an airmail stop, it was brought out.

The proposed airport, to be in the form of a large "Y" and covering 480 acres, will be three times as large as the old port on the Hope highway, which now has been retired from use. Runways will be about twice as long as the old ones, in order to comply with the requirements of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. The three runways will be laid out according to the predominating wind directions at Artesia.

The airport committee, composed of Bert, Emery Carper, Rufus Wallingford, A. P. Mahone and John Shearman, which began its work last March, considered many different locations, some of which were suitable for use as a (continued on last page, column 1)

COPS RIGHTFULLY TO CLAMP DOWN

It is understood that the state police are going to clamp down on the enforcement of the light and brake law, that part which requires that lights and brakes really be in shape before a sticker is issued. And it is said that such enforcement will restrict from the highways many of the automobiles which are getting by today.

That is as it should be. The law was passed to protect everybody, the owner of a car as well as others, and certainly there is no protection if a motor vehicle cannot pass a few simple tests of safety.

Any time our car cannot pass such a test, we want to know it and we will stay off the roads, without any state law or state cop having to tell us.

FUNDS GO TO ROSWELL

The Salvation Army is one of the few organizations to which we regularly subscribe, believing it to be one of the greatest groups of humanitarian men and women in the world in peace and in war. By necessity we must confine ourselves to a limited number of agencies, but we have always been a stickler for the Salvation Army.

But we may be forced to withdraw our meagre support from it locally—not nationally—unless there is an arrangement made by which some of the money collected on the streets of Artesia every week can be put to work here.

Workers from the Roswell camp—splendid folks all—call on Artesia each week, sometimes in the middle of the week for a short meeting with singing, almost always on Saturdays for a door to door collection.

Until a few days ago we presumed part of that money collected here came back to Artesia in humanitarian work, but we learned otherwise. The Salvation Army fund on deposit in Artesia is from the annual drive, but none is from the weekly collections.

We have our transient and needy problem in Artesia the same as in Roswell, but it appears now that we are helping the Roswell people with theirs by our donations, and that we must again contribute in other ways to take care of our own.

We hope some friendly method can be worked out whereby representatives of the Roswell camp can continue their salvation work in Artesia on the streets, as well as to turn back some of the funds collected here in the other work in which the Salvation Army takes part.

CONSIDER THE HAMBURGER

This may seem like a peculiar thing about which to write an editorial, but we have had it on our nitwit mind for some time, even dreamed about it the other night.

It's just this: It seems as though that great American institution, that succulent morsel which can be procured in one form or another in every eating joint from a waterfront dive to the Waldorf-Astoria, that famous food which has helped make Wimpy famous—the hamburger—has gone sissy in the Great Southwest, the last outpost of the once wild and woolly West!

A hamburger, on the authority of no less than Wimpy, is made from ground—or chopped—is better—beef, fried to a turn and served with "pickles, onion and mustard, all both."

But when a hamburger is insulted with chopped lettuce and tomato and is served on a toasted bun, it becomes less a he-man's food and goes sissy.

There may be more than one school of thought about the hamburger and, as we have pointed out many times, this is America, where we can all think and speak as we wish. Were this Germany, we probably would have to find out how Herr Hitler prefers his hamburgers, provided he is sane enough to like them, before we could enter upon a discourse such as this. Otherwise we might find ourselves in a concentration camp—or at least in an insane asylum.

But, there being a privilege here for everyone to have his own thoughts on the matter, no one has to agree with us. However, we still hold out for the hamburger as it was invented, unrefined (except that we will leave off the onions unless our wife is out of town) and untoasted.

If such a viand, invented and originated in the East while the West was wild and woolly cannot retain its identity when it goes traveling, there is something wrong.

Now take a bowl of chili—or better still, take two bowls. That great invention of the Spanish-American Southwest becomes something quite different when one asks for it in the Middle-West or the East. It loses its natural heat, it is thinned with water until it is nothing but soup and it loses its authority. True chili is "chili con carne," which means "peppers with meat." And that is the way it should be served, or else it is something else.

Furthermore, in this country, if a person wants beans with it, he asks for them, either in English or in Spanish as "frijoles," and doesn't get nine-tenths beans—kidney beans at that.

What would a true lover of real Mexican chili think if he were served a substitute for the real thing. He'd say it had gone sissy. So it is with hamburgers to us, who were raised on the real, sure enough kind which originated in the East and went West.

There is no criticism against any particular cafe or cafes in the Southwest—they're all guilty—but what we can't understand is how such an American institution as the hamburger could fall so low. We could say something about another old favorite, the ham sandwich, but we won't. But oh, how we long for the real hamburger, on plain bread, without having to tell a chef how to make it.

And now it's being suggested that President Roosevelt should change the Fourth of July to say, the Fourth of May. It's too hot, for proper jollification, in July they say. And the merchants, they say, would sell much more for a Fourth of May than a Fourth of July. No fooling. This suggestion has been seriously advanced in the East.—The Tactless Texan, Amarillo News.

Two air passengers had breakfast one day in Lisbon, Portugal, the next morning in Cleveland, Ohio. Regardless of the scene, we'll bet it was eggs, buttered toast and coffee.—Clovius News-Journal.

After hearing some crooners, one is convinced their pan mail must be as large as their fan mail.—Winston-Salem Journal.

"The Church With a Bell"

From my study window this morning I can see one of the great mountain peaks of the Rockies, Longs Peak. This snow-capped mountain stands over 14,000 feet high and is a most beautiful sight. But it cannot be seen every day, because of heavy clouds that hover over it much of the time. However, not one man or a thousand could make me doubt its existence. These men may tell me they have looked many times, and have never seen Longs Peak, and therefore they know that no such peak exists. But I know it does, for I have seen it and have climbed some of its slopes.

So with God. Everyone must learn through his own experience. We must do our best to encourage others to keep seeking Him. Having found Him, like the man whose eyes were restored, one can truly say, "I was blind, but now I see, and no one can persuade me otherwise." Consistent worship and fellowship in Bible study and the services of the church will serve as a splendid guide in such a search.

Next Sunday being the first Sunday of September, the pastor will be present for the regular services of the church. Let everyone be boosting for a large attendance in the various services of this Sunday, for the Bible school which assemblies at 9:45 o'clock and also for the worship at 11 o'clock. We are hearing much about "power" these days. The urgency of the crisis of today demands that we do much serious thinking. The pastor's sermon for Sunday morning deals with this theme: "The Greatest Power." The subject for Sunday evening is a new and timely one entitled: "Facing the Future." All of the services of the church are designed to be of help for every day life and living. If not a member or just recently moved into the community, you are invited to share in the fellowship of any and all of the services. You will be a stranger only once.

Carlsbad Caverns National Park Is Likely to Be Enlarged Again

Studies of land around Carlsbad Caverns National Park in New Mexico are being made with the view of adding the more valuable parts of it to the park, officials of the National Park Service said Friday.

They said no recommendation has gone to Washington yet regarding specific land to be taken in, but that an area of approximately 40,000 acres is being searched for additional caves and is being studied for scenic possibilities.

When these investigations are complete, officials said, part or all of the area probably will be taken over by the service and added to the park.

Congressional authorization is already in existence permitting the acquisition of this land. Under this law, 39,000 acres were added to the park last February by proclamation of President Roosevelt. In this area there are between 12 and 20 caves which have not been fully explored.

In addition, the same law permits the park to take over an additional area of approximately 40,000 acres if surveys show it to be valuable to the park. Part of it is to the south and west of existing boundaries and some is to the north. Part of the area under consideration is in Lincoln National Forest. All of the land, with the exception of about 15 per cent, is public domain and will cost the government nothing to add it to the park.

Officials said they know there are more caves in the area now being explored.

All Societies and Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Sept. 8.

The Golden Text is: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him." (Genesis 1:27.)

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." (Matt. 5:48.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "When we learn in Science how to be perfect even as our Father in heaven is perfect, thought is turned into new and healthy channels—towards the contemplation of things immortal and away from materiality to the principle of the universe, including harmonious man."

SAINT PAUL'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Rev. F. B. Howden, Jr., in charge

Church services this Sunday, Sept. 3, for Saint Paul's Episcopal Church will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 7:30 a. m.

Next Sunday, Sept. 10, the church school will start its fall term with a "Rally Day" program at 5 p. m.

"There are a lot of openings through the country but they have not been explored and we don't know how big they are," an official spokesman said.

The explorations are being conducted by the park superintendent. No thorough exploration will be made of each cave found at this time. Instead, only a brief study will be made to determine how much of the additional area should be taken over. When it has been included in the park, the caves will be fully explored.

Procedure is that when the survey shows how much of the land should be taken over, a recommendation to the effect will be sent to the park service in Washington. After study, it will make its recommendations to President Roosevelt, who is authorized by Congress to put the land into the park by a simple proclamation.

For the time being, at least, the park will go no further than the Texas-New Mexico border, if it gets that far. Officials said the Guadalupe Mountain range extends about 10 miles into Texas, which is "the most scenic portion of the entire range." However, in Texas the land is privately owned. No funds are available to buy it, so no extension in that direction will be made, they said.

Forestry Service Finds Why Bighorn Sheep on Decrease

"Peeping Toms" Spy on Family Life of Mountain Animals

The Forest Service, which sent some of its best "peeping toms" to spy on the family life of mountain sheep, has revealed some scandal.

It wasn't idle curiosity that prompted the service to detail rangers to the extraordinary assignment. The number of mountain sheep has been decreasing at an alarming rate in New Mexico and other areas. The service was mystified because the tendency toward race suicide centered in states where hunters were prohibited from shooting the sheep. Where hunting was permitted, the flocks increased. It didn't make sense.

"Forest rangers who made a special study of certain flocks found a thing happening," the service reported. "They noticed that the bighorn like to fight at any and all seasons, but that they fought more during the mating season."

The buck, it seemed, had rather fight than raise a family. If one began to show special attention to an ewe the others would promptly start a fight. Some of the old ones took particular delight in breaking up budding romances among the youthful. By the time the fight ended, the ewe usually had changed her mind.

"But then the unbred fury of the males does not limit itself to each other," the service commented. "Ewes are also butted, mauled about and abused not only by the winner of the duel, but by one or a half-dozen opponents."

In this emergency the forest service determined upon a drastic course of action. Hunters are to be allowed limited shooting of mountain sheep. The bucks are the ones usually shot because they provide the best trophies.

Result: There will be fewer bucks and those that are left can start harems.

"It looks," said the service, "as though polygamy were the answer."

WHAT'S WHAT —In— NEW MEXICO

News Briefs of the "Sunshine State." Gleaned from Many Sources

A new inch-thick, two-tone rug, Navajo woven, is being viewed by government experts as the possible answer to the tribe's market problem. Only a single piece of the new textile was entered at the Indian Ceremonial this year. Made for Governor Morris, nationally known author of Coolidge, it received a special award. The two-faced grey and black rug, experts said, was similar to a fabric produced now only in China. It sells for $7 to $9 a square foot. Navajos with some refinements may be able to produce it at $1.50 a yard.

A husky turkey gobbler, with parental yearnings, is doing his best to hatch a setting of guinea eggs on Isaac Rhodes' farm near Las Cruces. Rhodes found the gobbler and his setting in an alfalfa patch. "I've dug a trench around him so I can irrigate my field without drowning him," Rhodes said. "But it's the first time I ever heard of a gobbler doing a crazy thing like that. I'm curious to see what the fool will do with baby guinea chicks."

The State Highway Department is responsible for fixing its own roadside fences if they are torn down by drunken drivers, Assistant Attorney General Fred Federici opined. Answering an inquiry by Assistant District Attorney J. O. Walton of Hobbs, Federici wrote that stockowners probably would not be held liable for damage caused by cattle which might stray on to highways through gaps left in state fences by the automobiles of intoxicated motorists. He recommended that if the fence is one erected by the department as part of its road program, stockmen should advise the department promptly so it might undertake repairs. Penalty of $100 fine or 10 days in jail may be assessed motorists who refuse, or fail to comply with the three-yearly brake and light inspection for their cars, Director H. R. Rodgers of the Bureau of Revenue said. Bureau attorneys gave the opinion blanket enforcement provisions of the bureau would be effective, even though no specific penalty is provided. The penalty would double for the second offense, and for the third would amount to maximums of $500 and six months.

A "pay-as-you-learn" plan will be instituted at Eastern New Mexico College in Portales this fall. Donald W. Mackay, president, announced an installment system for tuition and fees, providing for one-third down and the balance in equal monthly payments Oct. 1 and Nov. 1. It was designed for working students.

Belief that surplus commodities and "possibly some cash" would be available for drought-stricken Navajos this winter was expressed by E. R. Fryer, superintendent of the New Mexico-Arizona reservation. Fryer said the state would have to apply for surplus commodities for distribution through the agency at Window Rock, Ariz. He is seeking $50,000 for the tribe which he said was threatened by starvation in some areas. Fryer estimated necessary commodities at 50,000 bushels of wheat, an equal amount of corn and some clothing. He said it was expected relief money would be available later.

A new attendance high at the White Sands National Monument since the admission charge became effective was reported with a total of 5,048 visitors for the 30-day period ending Aug. 20. Texas led with 1,893 visitors.

New Mexico anglers will be assured of plenty of strikes during the late season. State Fish Specialist Jim Johnson said 65,000 legal-sized trout would be planted at El Vado Lake, Rio Grande, Pecos and Chama Rivers before Sept. 15.

The Swastika, Indian good luck symbol for years, was missing for the first time in 18 years on the Indian ceremonial edition of the Gallup Independent. The Indian swastika, clockwise, was omitted because of its similarity with the swastika, counter-clockwise, of the Nazi party.

First expenditure by the state capitol improvements commission has been authorized. About $4,000 will be spent for a greenhouse near the executive mansion, Gov. Miles announced.

L. Woodard of the Inter-Tribal Indian Ceremonial Association said the event grossed $14,162 this year, a slight increase over last year despite a rain at the last day's performances.

An opinion by Assistant State Attorney General Fred Federici held that highway contractors doing work on the side are not ex-

Helen Johnson To Represent Eddy at Cruces

Miss Helen Johnson, representing the Cottonwood 4-H Club Saturday in the county-wide dress revue at the Crawford Hotel in Carlsbad, won the right to represent Eddy County in the state 4-H Club congress in Las Cruces this week.

Miss Johnson, who carried out a fourth year project, modeled a tailored dress of black sheer wool, embroidered with white yarn in scallops down the blouse front and on the sleeves. It was topped by a plain princess coat, and worn with white gloves and other accessories in black. The total cost of the costume was $18.93, including all accessories, which were chosen by the contestant.

Three other contestants, who did not classify but were given an equal rating, were Mattie Bee Tidwell, Otis; Juanita Clint, Cottonwood; and Blanche Fesler, Otis. These girls will model again at the annual "Achievement Day" Sept. 30 in Artesia, in connection with a food and baking exhibit, when placings will be given them.

Forty-nine club girls in first, second, third and fourth year work modeled in the revue and exhibited handwork. Eight others had exhibits but were unable to attend.

The fourth year girls were required to make an overhand patch, plan a clothing budget, plan and make a tailored dress or suit, slip, panties, brassiere and two accessories, and to select shoes, hose and hat.

Third year: Make shoe bag or dress cover, afternoon dress, collar and cuff set, darn garment, select hat, shoes and hose. The winners for this year were Mildred Cline, Cottonwood, first; Barbara Wood, Loving, second; and Louise Tidwell, Otis, third.

Second year: Exhibit stocking darn, hemmed patch, shoe or laundry bag, panties and brassiere or slip, dress with set-in sleeves. Winners: Harriet Ross of Loving, first; Judith Roberson of Loving, second; Agatha Pike of Otis, third.

First year: Make two guest towels, two washcloths, pajamas or gown, negligee or dress. Winners in negligee: Geraldine Pickett, Artesia, first; Doris and Dorothy Thayer, Carlsbad, tied for second; Margaret Hannah, Otis, third. Winners in dress: Marjorie Dean Hall, Loving, first; Judith Roberson, Loving, second; Ruth Rowland, Artesia, third.

Judges for the exhibits and revue were Miss Rosamond Deen, Mrs. Fred Barham, Mrs. Herschel Bales, Mrs. G. E. Cotton, Mrs. J. D. Hampton, Mrs. Mac Thomas and Morris Vorenburg.

Miss Hannel McEwan had a tonsil operation last week and is recovering very nicely.

Miss Madge Cabot and Bruce Cabot and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Cabot, of Vega, Tex., are visiting friends in Artesia for a few days. The Cabot family, former residents of Artesia, have returned to make their future home here.

empt from the new statutes for contractors' registration. He said road contractors, generally exempted from the regulations, specifically come under the provisions if they do "private paving, such as parking lots for hotels."

The first month of operation of New Mexico's teachers' retirement act—the month of July—witnessed distribution of $1,415 to 26 teachers more than 60 years of age. The retirement fund, operative under the new act, receives 2 percent of the school equalization fund and the school share of the state income tax.

The appointment of Dr. H. C. Gossard, former president of New Mexico Normal University, as dean of men at Eastern New Mexico College was announced by President D. W. Mackay. Dr. Gossard succeeds William B. O'Donnell, who resigned to become dean of students at State College.

Oil Industry Has Come Long Way Since First Well Was Completed Eighty Years Ago Sunday

Next Sunday, Aug. 27, will be more than just another day in the history of the American petroleum industry, wrote W. R. Boyd, executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute. It will be the industry's birthday, the eightieth anniversary of the day on which Colonel Edwin Laurence Drake proved that man could drill for oil and produce it in commercial quantities.

Anybody who visits the Drake Memorial Park at Titusville, Pa., can see a few inches of the original well casing protruding from the ground. And in the nearby museum they can view relics of the beginnings of an American industry.

Oil was used, and extensively, long before Drake and the syndicate which financed his drilling experiment completed their well. But the success of the experiment was the spark which set fire to men's imaginations, and which instigated the production of oil in high quantities, so that people, everywhere, could have it, and use it, cheaply.

Oil now is produced in 22 of the United States. The daily output is enormous. America supplies the world with oil, although this country itself is the largest consumer. The spread of production is one substantial reason why oil and its products everywhere are available, and at reasonable prices. The spread of production also is the reason why the nation's oil reserves have increased, even have kept ahead of consumption.

Man is learning more about oil, but while many of Nature's oil secrets still are unrevealed, enough is known to establish confidence that the supply is generously adequate. Oil is being found where it was thought not to exist. It is being found at deeper levels, and far under fields once supposed to have been exhausted. Drake found oil at 69½ feet. Oil now is being produced from 10,000 to 13,000 feet. Engineers are preparing to drill to three miles into the earth's surface in the belief that even more oil is available there.

Drake was a railroad conductor, engaged by the Pennsylvania Rock Oil Company and by the Seneca Oil Company to undertake to drill for oil, just as men then were drilling for salt.

Oil was being obtained from salt wells, or was dipped from seepages. It was needed in larger quantities, however, to meet the demand for kerosene as an illuminant.

Drake reached Titusville in May, 1858. Encountering difficulties in obtaining working associates, for a year he experimented with dug wells by day, working out drilling methods by night. In April, 1859, he obtained the services of William A. Smith, a Tarentum blacksmith, and of his sons, Samuel and James. Drilling operations with tools hand-made for the work were started in June on the bank of Titusville Creek, near an old oil spring. Numerous delays and discouragements annoyed the drillers, but pleased the onlookers, who called the job "Drake's Folly" even before rock was encountered at 36 feet.

Drake's persistence and "Uncle Billy" Smith's crude drilling machinery continued to be the butt of jokes. Even Drake's syndicate members became discouraged at the tedium and expense of drilling only three feet a day. But late one sultry afternoon when "Uncle Billy" and Sam set about to measure the depth, they found a dark brown liquid in the well. They rigged a pitcher pump, lifted several barrels of oil to the surface, and then proceeded to inform the countryside that the laugh was on someone else.

Never since that day in August, 1859, has oil ceased to flow from American wells, nor useful products reach markets from American refineries. Even though the population of the United States has grown, and the use of oil has increased so that today the consumption is something like 36 barrels per family per year, petroleum products have been available in unending supply. In fact, the record of the industry in supplying its products in necessary quantity and at constantly declining prices is outstanding in the industrial world.

Colonel Drake and his well have many successors. More than 350,000 wells now produce oil. Where the colonel and his helpers originally numbered only four, today approximately 1,000,000 people are engaged in the oil business. The one Drake syndicate has been replaced by thousands upon thousands of oil companies, large and small, and by additional thousands of independent operators. There are more than 500 oil refineries, more than 250,000 service stations, and thousands of bulk plants, of miles of oil pipe line, of railroad tank cars and of tank ships.

Where once Colonel Drake sought kerosene for illumination, today more than 300 essential products are made from petroleum. They serve some needs in the daily life of every person in the civilized world. In fact, petroleum now is probably the most widely used natural commercial product.

Drake's well paid wages to a few. The industry today has an annual payroll of about $1,500,000,000. Drake proposed to produce a few dollars' worth of kerosene. The industry today contributes $4,000,000,000 annually to the national economy.

Safety Bureau Will Attempt to Reduce Unnecessary Crashes

The appalling record of July, when 88 motor accidents on New Mexico highways accounted for 19 fatalities and perhaps an equal number of the accidents' survivors will be maimed for life, has prompted Gov. John E. Miles to demand that the State Safety Bureau use every effort at its command to reduce these unnecessary crashes which were due, according to records, to excessive speed.

Ingram Pickett, state safety director, is in Ann Arbor attending a conference of highway safety experts called by the University of Michigan, conducted by the nation's foremost authorities on highway safety. Gov. Miles believes Director Pickett will return with a constructive, practical program toward betterment of motor driving and ultimate reduction in accidents.

Woman's Club Activities for the Year Announced

Mrs. C. E. Robinson, chairman of the Woman's Club program committee, reports that the program of the club year has been completed and the year books have gone to press and will be ready for the opening of the club year.

The entire program was outlined upon a constructive basis, as well as entertaining. The committee believes that the program will be different this year, as a number of new activities have been introduced, which should hold the interest of most every member, therefore club women this year cannot afford to miss a single program.

Interest has been renewed in music and literature with the club hoping to accomplish much in these divisions of fine arts.

The committee felt fortunate to again book Dr. C. B. Wivel of Portales and the Eastern New Mexico Junior College as guest speaker next March. Dr. Wivel is chairman of the division of personal efficiency at the college and is considered one of the outstanding speakers in the state. He has chosen for his address, "Problems of Population."

Other out-of-town speakers will participate in an open forum on "How New Mexico Laws Affect Women's Rights." Proposed laws affecting women's rights will come up at the next term of the New Mexico legislature and it is hoped that there will be good news in the reports of Mrs. C. R. Blocker, chairman of the legislative committee.

Many lovely entertainments have been included in the program of the year. A Coronado Cuarto Centennial party will open the club year, Wednesday evening, Sept. 6, at the American Legion hut. Club members will have their husbands as guests. Everyone is requested to dress in Spanish costume. Spanish decorations, foods, music and games will create a centennial spirit. Guests are urged to lay aside stiff formalities and join in an evening of wholesome fun.

Members of the program committee, who have toiled in the summer heat in order to make this an outstanding year in the club history, have expressed themselves as truly having enjoyed their experiences and that they have appreciated the splendid cooperation given them. They are very enthusiastic of the success of the club which will open the year with 127 paid-up members. The committee members feel that the city of Artesia will have every reason to continue in its pride of the Artesia Woman's Club during the coming year.

COMMUNION FOR MEXICAN CHILDREN AT CITY PARK

Marshall Completes Convention Report At Meeting Tuesday

C. D. Marshall, president of the Rotary Club, at the weekly luncheon Tuesday, gave the second half of a report of the annual convention of Rotary International in Cleveland, Ohio, which he attended as a delegate in June. The first half of the report was given several weeks ago.

He described the sectional meetings and the social activities which were provided for delegates and their wives and other visitors.

Marshall summarized from newspaper accounts the sectional meetings representing fifteen vocations, of which the Artesia club has a majority. In general the various sections discussed Rotary service.

Cleveland, he said, "put on a million dollar show," in telling of the magnitude of some of the social events and of the meetings.

Charles Bullock, five-minute speaker, described tank gardens, first tried experimentally, but now being used commercially, his talk based on an article in a recent issue of The Rotarian.

Between a dozen and a half and two dozen Rotarians and their wives are expected to attend an inter-city meeting this evening at Roswell, according to members who expressed their intention at the meeting Tuesday.

GABLE'S PRINT SHOWN IN THE STAR-TELEGRAM

A photographic study of the Pecos River bridge by O. R. Gable, Jr., young Artesia amateur photographer, appeared Sunday in the Star-Telegram.

The picture was unusual in that it caught the river when it was flowing full enough to reflect the complete bridge, but was quiet enough to give an undistorted image.

BEGIN SURVEY FOR NEW PECOS BRIDGE

Engineers for the State Highway Department have been surveying east of Artesia for a new bridge over the Pecos River on Highway 83 to replace the old one which has been in dangerous condition the last year.

The new site will be about a quarter mile north of the present bridge and it is understood the new portion of highway to connect up will begin at the present curve about a half mile east of the old bridge.

First Services Held Monday at Mexican Church

The first services were held Monday evening in the new Mexican Methodist Church by the Rev. Constantino Gonzales, pastor, through whose efforts the church was built. The services were well attended, he said.

The pastor said yesterday, "All the people present were very glad and thankful to God and to those who have made possible the building." He said prayers were offered Monday evening at the services for all the people who have contributed in one way or another.

First services were held with many members of the congregation sitting on the floor, others on boxes or anything available, as there are no chairs.

In order to equip the church, the pastor said, it will be necessary to acquire chairs of any description, which will be thankfully received. He said he and the members would appreciate donations of a pulpit, a heating stove and an old piano also. Or they would be glad to use a piano for storage.

The outside of the building is completed at present, but the inside, although services were held, has yet to be finished. The Rev. Mr. Gonzales said about $200 more will be necessary in order to complete the church property. There likewise is a bill of considerable size for lumber which must be paid.

The pastor said he hopes persons will be found who wish to help complete the task and that any contributions may be made to himself or to E. B. Bullock, Martin Yates, Jr., or E. G. Kaiser "to share a little part in this most glorious cause of developing missionary work here in your own town."

While here yesterday, the pastor also pointed out that school time is coming and that there are many Spanish-American children without clothes. Anyone having clothing which might be used by these children are asked to leave at The Advocate office and they will be given to the Rev. Mr. Gonzales to distribute where most needed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Baldwin of Lamesa, Tex., and a granddaughter from Brownfield, Tex., arrived Wednesday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin's son, C. R. Baldwin and family.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hinshaw returned Monday from a vacation trip in New Mexico covering a distance of about 900 miles. They visited the copper mines in Santa Rita and the new concentrator plant in Hurley, going by way of the mountain pass at Kingston. From Silver City they went into the wilds of the Mogollon Mountains. About a week was spent on the trip.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. G. Gelwick and son, Richard Lee, of Bristow, Okla., returned to their home Monday morning after visiting Mr. Gilwick's sister, Mrs. C. R. Vandagriff, and Mr. Vandagriff and brothers, Bill Wilwick and Lawrence Gilwick, of Artesia for about three weeks. The last two weeks the families vacationed in the mountains.

Good Feed—Poor Feed

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

Good crops of feed sometimes turn out to be poor food for livestock for no other reason than that they are not harvested when at their best, and not properly cured or conserved. All hay and dry forage crops are more nutritious and more palatable if harvested before maturing seed. Sweet sorghum for hay or bundle feed should not be permitted to stand until over-ripe, which increases the "woodiness" of the stalk and usually results also in the drying up of part of the leaves.

On the other hand, either sweet or grain sorghums which are to be used for ensilage should be permitted to stand until the seed are fully mature, since the seed constitutes an important part of the feeding value. The silo will preserve all its nutritional elements in the most palatable form, and ensilage will "keep" indefinitely without deterioration.

Most of the Southwest has produced good feed crops this season, and the next concern is to save them and turn them into money. All "roughage" must be fed as close to where it grew as possible in order to get the most value from it; on the same farm, so that the manure will go back to the land, is the best place. It is cheaper to bring the livestock to the feed than to haul the feed to the livestock.

There is no "perfect feed alone; though good alfalfa hay comes about as near as possible, even it should be supplemented by carbonaceous feeds, either grains, grass or ensilage, to make a balanced ration.

Non-legume hay and ensilage must be matched up with protein elements, such as cottonseed meal, alfalfa or other legume hay; and when one is on hand the other element should be bought if necessary in order to make a balanced ration.

The "cash market" for corn and other feed grains is keeping many Southwestern farmers from profits they might as well have. Last year some farmers in a certain Texas community were selling their corn at thirty-five to forty-five cents a bushel, by hauling it to the shellers. Other farmers in the same community were feeding the same kind of corn to hogs and cashing it in the form of pork at ninety cents a bushel. Many of those who sold their corn on the "cash market" bought bacon from Iowa or Wisconsin, and probably never tasted ham the year round!

When we, in the Southwest, begin to wrap our fed crops up in hides, or turn them into dairy and poultry products at home, before sending them to market, we will live better on home-grown fresh and cured meats, milk, butter and eggs, and will have more net cash income in the year besides.

Selling feed crops "in the raw" is poor economics for several reasons. Feeding them at home gives employment of time that would otherwise be wasted. Feeding them at home reduces the volume to be hauled to market. Feeding them at home spreads the income and the labor over a longer period.

We produce, in growing cotton, one of the finest livestock feeds in the world—cottonseed meal. In combination with the forage and grains we grow, it should be used here, instead of shipping it to Europe or the Corn Belt to carry fertility to foreign soils. The most prosperous communities are those which are turning their raw products into butterfat, quality meat and other consumable products instead of peddling their feeds as soon as harvested and because more of their time is profitably employed than is possible in a straight crop-farming system.

The Breeder-Feeder program is nothing more or less than balanced farming—balancing crops with livestock and poultry, and vice versa.

Bow, Arrow Hunters May Take Antelope In Area This Year

Bow and arrow hunters will have a chance this year to go after antelope, as the State Game Department set aside an area in this district for archers.

The antelope season was designated as follows for the state: Roswell area, Oct. 1-4; Engle-Beaverhead-Magdalena, Oct. 7-10; Bell Ranch, Oct. 13-15. The Roswell area will be allowed 310 permits, the Engle area 230, and the Bell Ranch, 14.

Elliott Barker, state game warden, announced the state pheasant season as Oct. 22 and 23, with a season bag limit of two cocks in the Rio Grande Valley from Cochiti to the Texas line, in Chaves and Eddy Counties and on the Gila River near Viriden.

All summer Margaret Bellino, 16, Chicago, refused to have her hair cut and proudly groomed her long black curls. The other morning she awoke, and there were her curls on the pillow beside her, snipped off clean as a whistle. The police are still looking for the mysterious barber who evidently jimmied a window screen to enter the bedroom.

A young couple asked the marriage license clerk at Pottsville, Pa., whether he could issue a duplicate of the license they had obtained a week before. "Sure," he said. "What became of the first one?" The bride-to-be blushed and brought forth a handful of scraps. "We quarreled over wedding plans," she murmured. "I tore it up."

Arthur Dudley showed up in Indianapolis Municipal Court with 18 stickers for wrong parking. "Some time ago I had a parking space in front of my place," explained Dudley. "All of a sudden I commenced getting stickers. I ignored them. I am guilty." "Let's simplify things," said Judge John L. McNelis. He withheld judgment on 17 stickers—but fined

Livestock, Principal Agriculture Income in New Mexico, to Have Big Place at State Fair

As New Mexico's cash income from range livestock has averaged $6 million dollars a year for the last 10 years, or more than three-fourths of the state's income from agriculture, it is natural that the New Mexico State Fair, owned and operated by the state, should give range cattle, sheep and Angora goats a dominant place in its program of exhibits and cash awards, which aggregate $12,000 for the 1939 fair, at Albuquerque, Sept. 24 through Oct. 1. Of this total more than $8,000 is in cash awards to the various livestock classes with the bulk going to Hereford beef cattle, feeder calves and range sheep.

The New Mexico Fair is held on a mile-high, 320-acre tract on the eastern boundary of Albuquerque, where the state now has a half-million dollar investment in modern cattle, sheep and other livestock buildings; an agricultural building exclusively for the use of county exhibits; a poultry building; a $35,000 building for the exclusive use of Pueblo Indians in exhibiting their arts and crafts and a complete racing plant, with model full mile oval track, 400-stall race horse barns and jockey club building.

The American Hereford Association has added 25 per cent to the premium list for registered Herefords in the senior class. The fair management has offered substantial cash awards for the Hereford feeder calf class, based on pens of 20 steer calves in two classes, those under 400 pounds and those over 400 pounds. The New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association, sponsoring the feeder-calf class, has added a $350 silver loving cup to go to the winner of the champion pen of calves.

The annual New Mexico ram sale, sponsored by the New Mexico Wool Growers Association and the State Agricultural College, will be held Saturday, Sept. 30, with more than 500 rams from well known breeders in nine of the range states already consigned. This is a non-profit sale, conducted to encourage better breeding of New Mexico flocks.

Rambouillet will predominate in the sale, among those consigned

At Tucson, Ariz., Attorney Samuel Fowler asked for trial Nov. 30 of a damage suit. Opposing counsel, Samuel Pattee, objecter, asserting that's Thanksgiving Day. Fowler countered that Pattee was old fashioned and cited President Roosevelt's Nov. 23 Thanksgiving. Then Judge William Hall spoke up. Thanksgiving or not, there'll be an important football game there Nov. 30 and he doesn't intend to be conducting court on such an occasion. He set the trial for Nov. 28.

C. P. Kendall, Jr., of Freeport, Tex., was startled when given first prize for the most fish caught by any country newspaper man in a deep sea rodeo. He hadn't caught a fish. But that was all right—he was the only weekly newspaper editor entered.

HERE IS ★ A REALLY TOUGH ★ PORCH PAINT! ★

Tough! That's the only word that describes the wearing quality of LOWE BROTHERS PORCH AND DECK PAINT.

Just try it once... you'll find that it dries exceptionally hard, and wears well. Hard leather heels won't scuff it and chairs that skid across the floor won't mar it. And the way it stands up under sun, snow, sleet and rain is truly remarkable!

We can supply you with LOWE BROTHERS PORCH AND DECK PAINT in pleasing colors.

being 130 rams bred from the Malcolm Moncreiffe herd and purchased by Albert G. Simms, when the Moncreiffe Rambouillet herd was dispersed in 1938. The rams are now on the 264,000 acre Trinchera Ranch of Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms in Colorado, while about 750 ewes and lambs of the Moncreiffe breeding are on a large ranch owned by Mr. and Mrs. Simms adjacent to Albuquerque. The auction will include single studs and pens of 5, 20 and 30 head of both registered and range rams, which must pass judgment of a sitting committee.

There also will be a junior fat stock sale Friday, Sept. 29, when 4-H and Future Farmers Club boys will offer several hundred head of fat calves, registered sheep and hogs, following the junior fair show and judging contest in which $3,000 in cash prizes are offered to the young livestock growers and farmers.

A race meeting of eight days, with seven races each afternoon will feature the fair's entertainment side. Stall room for more than 300 horses has been reserved and the fair management plans to build additional stables to accommodate up to 500 horses. No harness races are offered this year.

Inspects Tenant Purchase Homes in Roosevelt, to Compare With Eddy

Miss Rosamond Deen, home management supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, made a trip to Portales Aug. 19 for the purpose of visiting some of the tenant purchase farms which have been bought and improved in Roosevelt County, which has completed its quota of ten farms for this year, by way of seeing how the program can be applied in Eddy County.

Miss Mary Jackson, home supervisor for Roosevelt County, and Miss Dean visited two farms near Portales. One has an attractive, new five-room house, which just has been completed at a cost of $1,380. The attractive kitchen is complete and convenient with built-in cabinets and a breakfast unit. This farm family also is enjoying the luxury of a modern bathroom in this home. The total cost of fixtures, septic tank and pipe for the bathroom was $220, which is included in the total cost of the house.

The second farm visited has a remodeled 6-room house, which had been made attractive by refinishing walls, woodwork and floors. The kitchen cabinet and a bathroom had been added for convenience. A large basement provided ample storage space for canned and dried foods, as well as a bedroom for the boys.

Both farms have been well planned and the barns, chicken houses and other buildings are being improved or built new and the yards and surroundings made attractive with trees, shrub grass and flowers. In a few years these places will be "picture spots" of the county.

The tenant purchase families in Roosevelt County have organized a Farm and Home Improvement Club, which met for the first time Aug. 19. This meeting also was attended by Miss Deen. The families and guest enjoyed a picnic supper and then a discussion to the problems common to the tenant purchase families was led by the president of the club. These monthly meetings are of an educational and social value to each family, Miss Deen said. It is possible that tenant purchase families in Eddy County will have similar meetings when the program is completed this year.
