Artesia Has as Big Future as People Think, Kansas Citian Tells Lions and Rotarians

"Tip" Brown Speaks Here Tuesday at Joint Meet of Two Service Clubs on Lifting the Face of Main Street.

IS CENTER OF LIFE

Commercial, Civic, Social Activities Center About Thoroughfare.

Artesia or any other town has as big a future as the people think it has, F. T. (Tip) Brown of Kansas City, director of the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce, declared Tuesday noon at a joint meeting here of the Lions and Rotary Clubs, in an address in which he showed the importance of "Main Street" as the center of the commercial, civic and social life of a community.

Brown, who has spoken before numerous civic bodies throughout the United States, makes a hobby of his subject, "Lifting the Face of Main Street," and has visited many communities where the property owners and business men have gone together to modernize their cities and to keep the building fronts in time with the business which goes on within the walls.

One's home town, said Brown, is a place where he has his home, business, investments, sentiment and memories, but above all, it is the place where one lives and moves and has his being. The majority of lives are lived in the "home port," where live the opportunities, he declared.

America today is a grown-up country, which has reached "flabby middle-age," where the people forget to strive for the things they need, Brown said. "They forget the hub, the spot where every visitor is headed, while they are tinkering with the tires and rim," he explained.

With "Main Street" the greatest advertising agency any town can have, there frequently are to be found on it small show windows, overhanging cornices and creaky stairs, about as it was in "grandfather's day," where the changes, if any, are confined mostly to the lower floor only, Brown said.

But, he continued, no matter how dull it is on the outside, the inside is a beehive of industry, the place where the pay envelope comes from, constituting a third of the payroll in the average town.

Demonstrating the dollar and cents idea of "Main Street," Brown quoted figures for Eddy County for 1935, the last available. At that time, he said, there were 189 retail stores in the county belonging to 171 store owners, employing 486 persons who had a yearly pay of $450,000 and who handled sales totaling $5,454,000. In 1935, the speaker estimated, the retail sales for Artesia probably amounted to $2,500,000 a year, which would be much greater today.

In other words, Brown said, "Main Street" is the "bread and butter" of the average community and is "asset No. 1." But, he added, it likewise is "problem No. 1."

The speaker said the problem is to gear "Main Street" to business and the times. Many towns have planning boards to look ahead to the future to make "Main Street" modern and to conform to a pattern. Such boards and communities sooner or later run into a "brick wall," he said, so there is but one thing to do, to call in the "looks doctor," an architect, who can visualize how the town can be modernized and streamlined without destroying buildings, but improving the community so as to reflect its personality, to look as well as do its well-dressed people.

Looking at the practical side of "lifting the face of Main Street," Brown said it will reduce unemployment, by putting men to work, "starting in the heart and soul of the town and spreading over the community."

In order to demonstrate improvements which can be made on "Main Street," Brown showed a number of large photographs taken in various cities, both before and after the changes. The difference in the appearance of Hollister, Mo., a town of only 300 population in the Ozarks, which has an ordinance prohibiting any type of architecture not matching the pattern now set, and Kirksville, Mo., Weslaco, Tex., and other places (continued on last page, column 1)

Wants to Know What Centennial Might Net Here

Clinton P. Anderson, managing editor of the Coronado Cuarto Centennial, is anxious for Artesia to be included in the list of cities where pageants will be given next year in connection with the celebration, but Arba Green, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, this week wrote him to find out how much money will have to be raised in order to have a pageant here and about how much to expect back, before any final action is taken locally.

Anderson informed Green there will be a meeting with commissions from Arizona and Texas in Santa Fe Sunday, by which time it is desired to know whether Artesia will participate. However, before Green or anyone else here would commit himself, it was desired to know what to expect in return, a question never before determined in Artesia.

In his letter to the chamber secretary, Anderson spoke highly of the stadium at Morris Field as an ideal spot for one of the pageants and expressed his hope Artesia might be included among the cities in New Mexico where plans are to be made.

He stopped over here several weeks ago, at the time there was a celebration committee meeting in Carlsbad, and was shown the stadium, which Anderson viewed with wonder and complimented highly.

It is not known definitely whether action this week will determine the status of Artesia as to participation in the Coronado Cuarto Centennial or not, but at least a decision must be made soon, both among local people and the celebration commission, or this city definitely will not be considered.

Van Antwerp Will Re-open Studio in Artesia Soon

L. B. Van Antwerp, who formerly operated a portrait photographic studio in Artesia, has returned here after an absence of a year at Oklahoma City and will open a new studio in the Paul A. Otts Jewelry Company store within a few days, possibly Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Antwerp said they are glad to return to Artesia, which had come to be "home" to them at the time they moved to Oklahoma.

The photographer plans to do not only portrait work, but commercial photography and film finishing as well.

The Otts store is being re-furnished so as to accommodate both businesses, which will share the frontage.

Funeral services were at the Presbyterian Church at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. W. B. McCrory, former pastor of the church and an intimate friend of Mr. Collins, assisted by the Rev. Henry S. Stout, present pastor. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery by the grave of his daughter, the late Minerva Collins Paris.

Pallbearers were members of the Sunday school class of the Presbyterian Church which Mr. Collins taught more than ten years, Ralph A. Shugart, R. G. Knoedler, V. L. Gates, Rex Wheatley, J. G. Hoagland and B. E. Spencer.

There survive Mr. Collins three children, Earl Collins of Artesia, Mina, Mrs. Ralph Henderson, of Long Beach, Calif., and Mary, Mrs. Gail Hamilton, of Artesia, and eleven grandchildren.

Jesse Thomas Collins was born Nov. 12, 1862, in Bonham, Tex. His father was Marcus Collins and his mother, Minerva Anne Thomas Collins. At the age of 6 years he lost his mother and within two years his father passed away, leaving him to make his own way in the world. His mother's parents cared for him for a number of years, all but 2 or 3 of which he lived in Missouri.

He married Lydia Elizabeth Anderson on March 20, 1889, and to them were born four children, those mentioned, and Minerva, the first Mrs. R. L. Paris, who died May 11, 1922. Mrs. Collins died Nov. 10, 1901.

With his young children, Mr. Collins was badly injured in a car accident on the south highway about 10 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Alice Laney, an occupant of the other car, was badly bruised and received first aid treatment at the hospital, but was discharged.

It was said a boy was driving the Laney car and was turning around when the automobile carrying the Carlsbad men struck it.

The car from Carlsbad was badly damaged, but the Laney car was damaged to a lesser degree.

PEP RALLY IS PLANNED TONIGHT

The Pep Club is taking the lead in the rally this time and members of the Bulldog Boosters will cooperate in making it a city-wide affair.

A parade is to be staged on the downtown streets, led by the school band, and out to Morris Field for another "downtown quarter-back" session.

Eddy County Boys' Calves Sell After Fair at Roswell

Winners' Stock Brings Good Prices at Sale Held There Saturday

A number of beef calves which placed in the Eastern New Mexico State Fair at Roswell last week, entered by Eddy County 4-H Club members, brought good prices when sold Saturday afternoon. Some were bought by Artesia firms and individuals.

Fred A. Barham, Eddy County extension agent, has summarized the sale. He said a calf belonging to Jack Rogers, Artesia, which weighed 936 pounds, placed second in the heavy weight class and was also reserve champion, sold for 16 1/2 cents and was purchased by the State Oil Service Company, Steve Lanning, manager, Artesia. Quinten Rogers' calf weighed 1,000 pounds, stood fourth in his class and sold for 13 1/2 cents and was purchased by Rex Wheatley of Artesia. Billy Johnson's calf of Cottonwood weighed 1,128 pounds, sold for 12 1/2 cents and was purchased by the Otis Gin & Warehouse Company. George Birchell's calf of Carlsbad weighed 630 pounds, sold for 17 cents and was purchased by the Otis Gin & Warehouse Company. Richard Birchell's calf weighed 557 pounds, sold for 15 cents to the Otis Gin and Warehouse Company at Loving. John Henry Angell, Jr.'s, calf of Lakewood weighed 847 pounds, sold to Batic Grocery of Artesia. Ted O'Cheskey's calf of Carlsbad weighed 670 pounds, sold for 15 cents and was purchased by Jackson-Horne of Carlsbad. This includes all of the calves from Eddy County.

Barham said, "Since these men gave good prices for these calves in order to promote and encourage 4-H Club work, I think they deserve publicity on the purchasing of these calves."

Several Eddy County ranchers made purchases of registered Hereford cattle during the fair, an important step toward the improvement of beef cattle in the country. They were: W. R. Shattuck of Dog Canyon, one registered Hereford calf; Billy Meirs, a partner of Shattuck, two registered cows; Ralph Thayer of the Queen company, one registered bull and six registered heifers; Tom Middleton of the Queen company, one registered yearling bull, all purchased from A. L. French of Elida.

John Fanning of Artesia bought a yearling bull which stood first in his class and which was reserve champion at Roswell. Lewis Angell of near McMillan Lake purchased a bull calf which stood first in his class from Mr. McDonald of Texas.

REP. W. P. COLE, JR.

Representative William P. Cole, Jr., chairman of the sub-committee of the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce which will conduct hearings on the proposed bill to apply federal regulation to the petroleum industry, will be the speaker at the banquet of the Independent Petroleum Association of America in Fort Worth the night of Oct. 20. The occasion is the tenth annual convention of the association, which several independent oil men from Artesia plan to attend.

The oil industry will be given an opportunity to hear for the first time since the introduction of the proposed regulatory bill or conservation act, now before Congress, the man who will direct the exhaustive inquiry into the subject of petroleum. Sixty-Two Kiddies Are Examined at Orthopedic Clinic

Some Are to Be Admitted to the Carrie Tingley Hospital

Sixty-two crippled children of Eddy and Lea Counties were examined at an orthopedic clinic at Artesia Memorial Hospital Wednesday for admission to Carrie Tingley Hospital, Hot Springs, some of whom, members of the staff said, undoubtedly later will be sent to the children's hospital.

The morning was devoted to crippled boys and girls of Eddy County, of whom forty were examined. In the afternoon twenty-two from Lea County were handled.

Members of the staff said the various cases will be studied and parents will be notified if the children are eligible for admission to the hospital.

The clinic was the first ever held in Artesia by the crippled children's division of the Department of Public Welfare, which is represented, as were Carrie Tingley Hospital and other agencies. Dr. Wainwright Miller of Artesia was the general medical examiner. Heretofore crippled children from Eddy County have had to go to (continued on last page, column 2)

Boy Scouts Will Seek Hazards of Fires in Homes

Boy Scouts of troop 8, Ed West scoutmaster, in cooperation with the fire department, will make an inspection of premises about town Saturday listing hazards found and making suggestions as to remedies, as cooperative work during "National Fire Prevention Week," which is being observed throughout the nation this week.

The boys were instructed in the work at troop meeting Monday evening by Albert Richards, fire chief, and Calvin Dunn, assistant chief.

"It is easier to prevent a fire than to put it out," Chief Richards told the Scouts.

The firemen talked to the Scouts on the hazards of fires and their prevention.

And one of the boys said, "Don't be alarmed when a Scout asks to look in your attic or basement; it's for your own good."

The Scouts, who change patrol leaders and assistants each year, elected Jimmie Haskins, Charles Lewis and Lawrence Graves as patrol leaders for the coming year. Perry Schulze was named bugler, Clarence McAnally, senior patrol teacher, and Max Schulze, scribe.

The scoutmaster told the boys he is to go to Roswell Sunday to take part in a convention for scoutmasters of this district. He is scheduled to talk on "Recruiting and Holding Scouts."

Bulldogs Split Score Saturday With Institute

Outplay Colts, but Stop at 13-13 Count, When Tough Breaks Pop Up—Will Meet Tularosa Here Friday.

The Artesia Bulldogs found their strike at Roswell Saturday and outplayed the New Mexico Military Institute Colts, but through tough breaks in the second half failed to win the grid game, tying the score 13 to 13.

The lads from Artesia, up against the best team encountered in the current season, showed great improvement, more on the defensive than heretofore all this season and at least three times in the second half failed to score when in scoring position.

Artesia scored in the first two minutes of play, when Burgess romped over the Colts' goal from the 30-yard line on a pass from Rice. Burgess then converted, to make the score 7 to 0.

Institute took the ball from its own 40-yard line in the second quarter and pushed it over the line on a sustained drive, but then failed to convert.

However, in the same quarter the Colts scored again on a long run from the 50-yard line and converted, taking the lead 13 to 7, which was the score as the game went into the second half.

From then on it was Artesia's game, as far as playing was concerned.

In the third quarter, Rice, playing at left half, crossed the Colts' goal, but fumbled in the end zone. Lewis carried the ball to the Institute's 1-foot line in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter on third down, but the Bulldogs were held there on their last down and the Colts were given the ball.

Burgess for Artesia later in the quarter tried a field goal from the 38-yard line, kicking into the wind, but the ball was about three feet short. That was the Bulldogs' first attempt for a field goal this season.

In the closing minutes of the game, a pass from Rice to Kennedy (continued on last page, column 3)

Funeral services were at the Presbyterian Church at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. W. B. McCrory, former pastor of the church and an intimate friend of Mr. Collins, assisted by the Rev. Henry S. Stout, present pastor. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery by the grave of his daughter, the late Minerva Collins Paris.

Pallbearers were members of the Sunday school class of the Presbyterian Church which Mr. Collins taught more than ten years, Ralph A. Shugart, R. G. Knoedler, V. L. Gates, Rex Wheatley, J. G. Hoagland and B. E. Spencer.

There survive Mr. Collins three children, Earl Collins of Artesia, Mina, Mrs. Ralph Henderson, of Long Beach, Calif., and Mary, Mrs. Gail Hamilton, of Artesia, and eleven grandchildren.

Jesse Thomas Collins was born Nov. 12, 1862, in Bonham, Tex. His father was Marcus Collins and his mother, Minerva Anne Thomas Collins. At the age of 6 years he lost his mother and within two years his father passed away, leaving him to make his own way in the world. His mother's parents cared for him for a number of years, all but 2 or 3 of which he lived in Missouri. He married Lydia Elizabeth Anderson on March 20, 1889, and to them were born four children, those mentioned, and Minerva, the first Mrs. R. L. Paris, who died May 11, 1922. Mrs. Collins died Nov. 10, 1921. With his young children, Mr. (continued on last page, column 3)

PEP RALLY IS PLANNED TONIGHT

Another pep rally will be staged at 6:30 o'clock this evening, in order to work up enthusiasm for the football game here Friday evening between the Artesia Bulldogs and Tularosa High School.

The Pep Club is taking the lead in the rally this time and members of the Bulldog Moosters will cooperate in making it a city-wide affair.

A parade is to be staged on the downtown streets, led by the school band, and out to Morris Field for another "downtown quarter-back" session.

Eddy County Boys' Calves Sell After Fair at Roswell

Winners' Stock Brings Good Prices at Sale Held There Saturday

A number of beef calves which placed in the Eastern New Mexico State Fair at Roswell last week, entered by Eddy County 4-H Club members, brought good prices when sold Saturday afternoon. Some were bought by Artesia firms and individuals.

Fred A. Barham, Eddy County extension agent, has summarized the sale. He said a calf belonging to Jack Rogers, Artesia, which weighed 936 pounds, placed second in the heavy weight class and was also reserve champion, sold for 16 1/2 cents and was purchased by the State Oil Service Company, Steve Lanning, manager, Artesia. Quinten Rogers' calf weighed 1,000 pounds, stood fourth in his class and sold for 13 1/2 cents and was purchased by the Otis Gin & Warehouse Company. George Birchell's calf of Carlsbad weighed 630 pounds, sold for 17 cents and was purchased by the Otis Gin & Warehouse Company. Richard Birchell's calf weighed 557 pounds, sold for 15 cents to the Otis Gin and Warehouse Company at Loving. John Henry Angell, Jr.'s, calf of Lakewood weighed 847 pounds, sold to Battie Grocery of Artesia. Ted O'Cheskey's calf of Carlsbad weighed 670 pounds, sold for 15 cents and was purchased by Jackson-Horne of Carlsbad. This includes all of the calves from Eddy County.

Barham said, "Since these men gave good prices for these calves in order to promote and encourage 4-H Club work, I think they deserve publicity on the purchasing of these calves." Several Eddy County ranchers made purchases of registered Hereford cattle during the fair, an important step toward the improvement of beef cattle in the country. They were: W. R. Shattuck of Dog Canyon, one registered Hereford calf; Billy Meirs, a partner of Shattuck, two registered cows; Ralph Thayer of the Queen community, one registered bull and six registered heifers; Tom Middleton of the Queen community, one registered yearling bull, all purchased from A. L. French of Elida. John Fanning of Artesia bought a yearling bull which stood first in his class and which was reserve champion at Roswell. Lewis Angell of near McMillan Lake purchased a bull calf which stood first in his class from Mr. McDonald of Texas. Other Eddy County and Lake Arthur 4-H Club members who (continued on last page, column 5)

Sixty-Two Kiddies Are Examined at Orthopedic Clinic

Some Are to Be Admitted to the Carrie Tingley Hospital

Sixty-two crippled children of Eddy and Lea Counties were examined at an orthopedic clinic at Artesia Memorial Hospital Wednesday for admission to Carrie Tingley Hospital, Hot Springs, some of whom, members of the staff said, undoubtedly later will be sent to the children's hospital.

The morning was devoted to crippled boys and girls of Eddy County, of whom forty were examined. In the afternoon twenty-two from Lea County were handled. Members of the staff said the various cases will be studied and parents will be notified if the children are eligible for admission to the hospital.

The clinic was the first ever held in Artesia by the crippled children's division of the Department of Public Welfare, which was represented, as were Carrie Tingley Hospital and other agencies. Dr. Wainwright Miller of Artesia was the general medical examiner. Heretofore crippled children from Eddy County have had to go to (continued on last page, column 2)

Funeral services were at the Mexican Methodist Church at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. Constantino Gonzales, pastor, the first funeral ever held from the new church. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery.

He's Oil Right

REP. W. P. COLE, JR.

Representative William P. Cole, Jr., chairman of the sub-committee of the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce which will conduct hearings on the proposed bill to apply federal regulation to the petroleum industry, will be the speaker at the banquet of the Independent Petroleum Association of America in Fort Worth the night of Oct. 20. The occasion is the tenth annual convention of the association, which several independent oil men from Artesia plan to attend.

The oil industry will be given an opportunity to hear for the first time since the introduction of the proposed regulatory bill or conservation act, now before Congress, the man who will direct the exhaustive inquiry into the subject of petroleum. No question now before the industry exceeds this in importance and in interest, oil men believe.

Bulldogs Split Score Saturday With Institute

Outplay Colts, but Stop at 13-13 Count, When Tough Breaks Pop Up—Will Meet Tularosa Here Friday.

The Artesia Bulldogs found their strike at Roswell Saturday and outplayed the New Mexico Military Institute Colts, but through tough breaks in the second half failed to win the grid game, tying the score 13 to 13.

The lads from Artesia, up against the best team encountered in the current season, showed great improvement, more on the defensive than heretofore all this season and at least three times in the second half failed to score when in scoring position.

Artesia scored in the first two minutes of play, when Burgess romped over the Colts' goal from the 30-yard line on a pass from Rice. Burgess then converted, to make the score 7 to 0. Institute took the ball from its own 40-yard line in the second quarter and pushed it over the line on a sustained drive, but then failed to convert.

However, in the same quarter the Colts scored again on a long run from the 50-yard line and converted, taking the lead 13 to 7, which was the score as the game went into the second half. From then on it was Artesia's game, as far as playing was concerned. In the third quarter, Rice, playing at left half, crossed the Colts' goal, but fumbled in the end zone. Lewis carried the ball to the Institute's 1-foot line in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter and held there on their last down and the Colts were given the ball. Burgess for Artesia later in the quarter tried a field goal from the 38-yard line, kicking into the wind, but the ball was about three feet short. That was the Bulldogs' first attempt for a field goal this season. In the closing minutes of the game, a pass from Rice to Kennedy (continued on last page, column 3)

Boy Scouts Will Seek Hazards of Fires in Homes

Boy Scouts of troop 8, Ed West scoutmaster, in cooperation with the fire department, will make an inspection of premises about town Saturday listing hazards found and making suggestions as to remedies, as cooperative work during "National Fire Prevention Week," which is being observed throughout the nation this week.

The boys were instructed in the work at troop meeting Monday evening by Albert Richards, fire chief, and Calvin Dunn, assistant chief.

"It is easier to prevent a fire than to put it out," Chief Richards told the Scouts.

The firemen talked to the Scouts on the hazards of fires and their prevention. And one of the boys said, "Don't be alarmed when a Scout asks to look in your attic or basement; it's for your own good."

The Scouts, who change patrol leaders and assistants each year, elected Jimmie Haskins, Charles Lewis and Lawrence Graves as patrol leaders for the coming year. Perry Schulze was named bugler, Clarence McAnally, senior patrol teacher, and Max Schulze, scribe.

The scoutmaster told the boys he is to go to Roswell Sunday to take part in a convention for scoutmasters of this district. He is scheduled to talk on "Recruiting and Holding Scouts."

Crude Stands 2,500 Feet in F. M. Farley Hole North of the Carlsbad-Hobbs Highway from Total Depth of 2,629 Feet.

IS IN WATER REGION

Prior Tests in Locality Have Failed to Show Petroleum.

Interest in the oil fields of Southeast New Mexico shifted this week to a rank wildcat in Lea County, about three miles east of the Eddy County line and north of the Carlsbad-Hobbs highway, miles from any production, which struck pay at a total depth of 2,629 feet. The well, the State No. 1-A of F. M. Farley in NE SW section 16-20-32, had a 2,500-foot rise of oil in the hole in six hours from pay found at 2,625 to 2,629 feet.

The region where the well is located heretofore has produced only water in test holes and is being watched by producers. The Abbie lies No. 1 well of B. N. Nolan in SE SE 27-16-29, north of the old field, on which eyes were focused last week when oil rose in the hole about 600 feet from a total depth of 1,819 feet, was shot Wednesday. It was unauthoritatively reported this morning the well is making about fifty barrels of oil a day before cleaning out, but Nolan could not be reached for confirmation of the report.

Lea County again stepped ahead of Eddy County in the number of new locations, operators making twelve there to seven in Eddy, where four completions were made. Eddy locations: S. P. Yates, Brainard 2, SE SW 3-18-29; Me-Text, Stroup & Yates, Miller 1, NW NE 5-18-29; Premier, Beeson 3-F, SE SW 31-17-30; Kersey & Co., Creek 1, NE NW 23-18-30; Leo Manning et al, McClay 1, NW NE 21-18-30; Me-Text, Stroup & Yates, Yates 3, NW SE 5-18-29; Underwood & Sanders, Guy 3-O, SE NE 9-18-29.

Completions in Eddy County: Allen, Fair & Pope, Snowden-McSweeney 4, SW NW 36-17-29; total depth 3,252 feet; pumping 50 barrels of oil per day. Brainard & Guy, Guy 1, NW NW 10-18-29; total depth 2,595 feet; flowed 40 barrels per hour.

Franklin, Canfield 1, NW NW 7-18-30; total depth 2,820 feet; flowed 60 barrels per hour. Yates et al, Yates 2, SW NW 6-18-30; total depth 2,805 feet; flowing 50 barrels of oil per day. ANOTHER PIONEER PASSES ON Fewer and fewer of the real old-timers remain in this modern city. J. T. Collins, who saw Artesia grow from a cowtown to one of the most progressive and industrious little cities in the Southwest, died Monday after a long illness.

In this day of hustle and bustle, modern oil business rush and streamlined living we seldom stop to think of the background of the community, those far-seeing men—and women too—who settled in the desert and helped to make it bloom, keeping up the while with the trend of the times.

J. T. Collins was a man of the older order, but he always was of the new. As the city and community grew and thrived, he adjusted himself to the changes, keeping up with the younger men in all things worthwhile in Artesia and Eddy County.

He was one of the most useful citizens in Artesia and he will be missed.

MOVEMENT BEGINS TO BEAR FRUIT

Our editorial last week about starting a Little Theater in Artesia has brought some results, although no definite move in that line has been made as yet. A number of persons have said they like the idea and hope to take part if it is put into practice.

We made one slip, however, but not a bad one. In mentioning two people whom we had heard were interested in the Little Theater we named Mrs. C. E. Robinson and Miss Alma Sue Felix. We know Miss Felix is quite interested in the drama and the use of her name probably was not amiss.

But we should have said Miss Jean Plunkett, who sent word to us a few weeks ago that she would like to see a Little Theater formed here.

So that makes three, by including both teachers, and four if we count ourself. And to that number should be added those who like the drama and would be glad to have a definite organization here for its promotion.

"LET HIM WHO IS WITHOUT SIN—"

The handful of people who read the crack are wondering what our comeback or alibi will be. (Alexander Woollcott-doublechin says that is not a correct use of the word, "alibi," so no one can catch us there; we know it's wrong.)

A small amount of this for a lot of that should be fair enough; tit for tat, as it were. And we never complain. In fact, we're always glad to lend a helping hand when it's needed, even to the addition of nineteen feet, which might otherwise be overlooked.

With we knew our Bible better, but we do know that somewhere in the Book is a passage to the effect: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone." We could never be the first; and we're glad to find that someone else is sinless!

CENTENNIAL OR NO CENTENNIAL

It looks as though Artesia will have to decide promptly whether she will take part in the Coronado Cuarto Centennial celebration next year or not, for the time is approaching rapidly when all plans must be in the making.

When representatives of local organizations were contacted a few months ago in regard to participation of Artesia, considerable enthusiasm was shown. But when it was found local funds would have to be raised, the idea was dropped "like a hot potato."

Whether the community would be repaid or not for cash advanced cannot be determined, but that a percentage of receipts at a local pageant would come back is known.

It is for the local organizations to decide promptly whether Artesia should take a part in the state-wide celebration or not. Either we are in, or we are left out—one of the most wide-awake and fastest growing communities in the state.

WELL, IT WAS DISCOVERED, ANYWAY

The fact that this is Columbus Day reminds us that we were informed the other day by a high school boy that Erickson discovered America in 1492, that he landed in Alaska, which is an island off the West Coast of North America and that when Coronado came to New Mexico in 1540 he found a white civilization where Santa Fe now stands.

It's been so long since we went to school and they have made so many changes since then that we feel we should do more reading in order to keep up with the times. It really was startling to discover how ancient we were in regard to information.

But what we started off to say was that the flags flying today, if any, are in commemoration of an event Oct. 12, 1492, which we thought was the landing of Christopher Columbus in the West Indies, which truly are to the south and east of the United States; we know that, for we have been there.

If this country should become involved in the present fracas, it seems the most invulnerable place to dig the front line trenches would be the Yankee Stadium.

Fifteen Years Ago Today

(From The Advocate Files of Oct. 9, 1924.)

Baron Auriemma, who is with the Southwestern division of the Salvation Army in El Paso, made his annual visit here this week. The Baron, who is better known as "Happy Jim," expects to raise the quota of $300 for Artesia today.

The Hotel Hardwick dining room now is under new management. W. H. Ballard, proprietor, invites you to bring the family.

Illinois No. 4 well makes good showing of oil. The Walker-Mitchell has a bright prospect.

A good rain has fallen over this section. Started falling Sunday night and continued at intervals until Monday. Hail fell in large quantities on the Cottonwood.

Friday will be Artesia day at the Roswell Cotton Carnival. An oil float will be featured throughout the day.

Miss Opal Martin has been elected to handle the surplus of children at Atoka. Miss Mildred Frisch, teacher of the school, was unable to do justice to the over-crowded condition.

Senator Sam Bratton and A. T. Hannett, nominee for governor, will speak at the Democratic rally here Saturday. Senator H. O. Bursom and J. Hunter will address the G. O. P. party here today.

Life of Christ in Motion Pictures At Baptist Church

The life of Christ in motion pictures will be shown at the First Baptist Church at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening, Oct. 15. The title of the picture is "Jesus of Nazareth."

This picture was filmed in the Holy Land, which makes the scenery authentic and adds to the interest of the picture because of the background. The film is one of the latest and best ever produced of the life of Christ.

Two short subjects, "Remember Jimmy," or "Save the Children," and "The Pay Off," a scientific picture which treats of the effect of alcohol on the human body, will be shown also.

This picture program will be under the direction of J. A. Williams and Woodie W. Smith of Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., evangelists. It is free to all who care to come. Anyone desiring to contribute to the expense of the program will be given an opportunity to make a free-will offering.

More Than Hundred Thousand Dollars To the State Jobless

September job insurance checks in New Mexico totaled $110,597.34, according to figures released by officials of the unemployment compensation commission.

A total of 10,828 checks were mailed during the month, averaging $10.21. Since benefit payments began last December, almost a million dollars has been paid to claimants for job insurance by the commission. Check No. 100,000 was mailed out Oct. 4.

Although benefit payments are still at a peak figure, the number of initial claims filed took a sharp decline during the last month. A comparison of claims filed shows 1,577 initial claims filed in August as against 1,182 during the month of September.

State Winners in 4-H Club Style Revue at Las Cruces Encampment

Miss Helen Johnson of Cottonwood and Miss Laurene Nelson of Roswell, who tied for first place in the 4-H Club Dress Revue at the twentieth annual state encampment, which was held at Las Cruces the last week in August, are shown here. Miss Nelson was awarded a trip to the national contest in November at Chicago, because of her previous 4-H Club record.

Miss Johnson, who represented Eddy County, was so close in competition with Miss Nelson, that although Miss Johnson was not the winner, she was very readily recognized for her splendid exhibit.

Miss Johnson, lower picture, selected for her ensemble a black sheer wool. The dress is embroidered in white wool and with it she wears a fitted coat of contrasting material.

Miss Nelson is shown, top, in the suit which won the state prize. It is a full suit of grape wool, made princess style, with a blouse of printed crepe in matching color. Crepe lines the long jacket and the black suede purse. Wool is used for the smart but simple turban.

Charles Mac Knoedler, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Knoedler, and Harold Bradshaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw, students of New Mexico State College at Las Cruces, were at home over the week end visiting their parents and attending the Eastern New Mexico State Fair at Roswell. They returned to Las Cruces Sunday afternoon.

WHAT'S WHAT —in— NEW MEXICO

News Briefs of the "Sunshine State," Gleaned from Many Sources

Meeting in Roswell for its eleventh annual session, members of the New Mexico Crop Improvement Association last week elected a slate of officers to guide them for the coming two-year period. H. P. Edmonds, Portales, is the newly elected president with J. D. Hawkins, Melrose, as vice president. Clayborn Wayne, Extension Service agronomist at State College, was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

The State Tourist Bureau has offered further proof that New Mexico's 1939 tourist season set a new high. Joseph Bursey, director, releasing figures on the annual seven-day count of out-of-state motor vehicles entering the state, announced that 41,450 vehicles carrying 123,904 passengers came into New Mexico between Aug. 15 and 21. These figures represented an increase of 903 vehicles and 855 passengers over the 1938 week-long check.

The motor vehicle division of the Bureau of Revenue took in $31,911.69 last month, an increase of $4,489.61 over September, 1938, Director J. O. Garcia announced.

That nip in the fall air apparently has already had its effect on the state's liquor revenues. September liquor control division receipts, announced by Director S. T. Jernigan, showed beer and wine sales down while spiritous liquor revenue jumped from $29,247.03 in August to $40,887.17. Beer tax receipts dropped from $10,756.76 to $9,732.45; wine from $12,161.05 to $8,985.80.

An exchange of greetings last week between the two oldest cities in the United States—St. Augustine, Fla., and Santa Fe—highlighted the second day of the annual national Park Service conference at Santa Fe. "It is with great pleasure that the people of St. Augustine send friendly greetings to the citizens of your historic city of Santa Fe," said a letter from Mayor Walter B. Fraser presented by Superintendent Edward B. Freeland of Fort Marion National Monument, Fla., to Santa Fe's mayor, Alfredo Ortiz. "There are no two communities which should be more closely united in a bond of friendship and cooperation than these two outstanding American cities of Spanish origin," the letter concluded.

The attorney general's office, in an opinion written by Assistant Attorney General Fred Federici, held that the public purchases act of 1939, requiring public institutions to obtain bids before making certain purchases, does not apply to hiring an architect.

The gasoline tax division of the Bureau of Revenue has begun a campaign to protect New Mexico Kerosene users from purchasing gasoline-contaminated products, Director Paul E. Culver said. The drive is purely a safety measure, he said. In past years, some kerosene has been sold which contained gasoline in quantities sufficient to make it highly dangerous. Kerosene users are protected by the law, Culver said, and violators will be vigorously prosecuted.

The State Game and Fish Department announced that T. F. Nelson, foreman of the Elephant Butte Lake, has gone to Bear Canyon Lake to investigate reports thousands of fish are dying from a mysterious disease.

Plans for dedicating McKinley County's new courthouse last Saturday inspired the following invitation, which many statehouse officials received: "Great paleface council calls you heap hogan big'n courthouse blessing Saturday mornin, ten k'lock, October seventh, Indian capital Gallup. Much pow wow. Maybe some chin'ee ah go. Maybe some firewater. Bring squaw—bring buck. Tell 'em how many? Ugt!"

State Treasurer Rex French was voted a salary increase from $4,000 to $5,400 a year by the state finance board, which approved his request for more money in return for his services as treasurer of the state unemployment compensation commission.

A drop in state land office receipts from $409,594.09 in August to $345,699.26 in September was attributed by department officials to the emergency shutdown of the state's producing oil wells last Aug. 15. Largest loss of revenue was in oil and gas lease royalty receipts, which fell from $133,892.03 in August to $68,011.32 last month.

Alva Simpson is conducting the course, assisted by Robert Munro and W. G. Koogler. Officials estimated that 200,000 feet of merchantable timber was destroyed and development of trees was retarded about 100 years by the fire last spring.

An increase of $4,489 in September automobile license receipts in New Mexico was reported by J. O. Garcia, motor vehicle commissioner. Receipts for the month totaled $31,911.

Charles Morgan and Calvin Dunn motored Saturday to Albuquerque, where they visited Mr. Dunn's son, Charles Preston, who is attending New Mexico University, and Sid Cox, located at Hillcrest Sanitarium in Albuquerque. Mr. Morgan also attended an executive meeting of the New Mexico department of the American Legion in Albuquerque Sunday.

Why Make the Job Harder?

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

It takes about five times as much labor to soak and feed milo to hogs as to feed it dry, and the pigs actually made more gain on dry milo than on soaked milo, according to tests at the Texas Experiment Station. Threshed grain fed in a self-feeder, and dry milo heads fed on a clean, dry platform, with a protein supplement, got better results with less effort than by soaking the grain and hand-feeding.

Why do pigs do better when the table is set twenty-four hours a day, and they eat free-choice, than when hand-fed two or three times a day? That they do, has long been known. Why does it take less grain and protein supplement to make 100 pounds of pork in a self-feeder than when it is dishd out to the pigs at the extra trouble of two or three daily feedings?

We begin to get the answer when we learn that pigs in these tests made 23 trips to the self-feeder every 24 hours, eating a little each time, masticating it unhurriedly, and digesting it thoroughly. Hand-feeding lets them get so hungry between meals that they gobble the feed down greedily, swallow whole grain, which cannot be digested. Accurate checks showed the self-fed pigs digested all but two pounds out of a hundred, of whole kafir grain, while hand-fed pigs wasted ten pounds in the hundred. At this rate the self-feeder repays the cost of materials very quickly.

Whatever grain is fed, whole or ground, the self-feeder saves labor and feed. If the feeder is properly constructed, and so placed that dirt does not blow into the feed, the feeding job is done with about two fillings of the self-feeder in the week.

It is understood, of course, that corn and sorghum grains are deficient in proteins. A protein supplement of half tankage and half cottonseed meal should be provided in a separate self-feeder or a separate compartment from the grain. Shrimp or fish meal may be substituted for tankage. Green pasture is the ideal for getting best results in fattening hogs with grain and protein supplement in self-feeders, but if green pasture is not to be had, a protein supplement made up of 40 parts tankage (by weight), 40 parts cottonseed meal, and 20 parts green alfalfa meal may be substituted. Any good legume hay—peanut, pea soybean, etc.—cured green and ground may be substituted for ground alfalfa hay; with somewhat less digestibility than alfalfa, they are nevertheless high in protein and if cured green carry the essential vitamin A, which is lacking in dry grains.

It seems hardly necessary to refer to the mineral mixture, yet a few people still neglect this important factor in good hog feeding. Its lacks may not be serious when hogs are running on good alfalfa or clover pastures, but it costs so little and is so easy to provide that it ought never to be neglected. The hogs will not eat it unless they need it, but their own appetite is a better index of their nutritional needs than any man's guess.

The Texas Station says "a simple mineral mixture composed of equal parts by weight of bone meal, ground limestone or oyster shell flour and salt, will furnish the necessary minerals." This mixture of course should be where the hogs can get at it at all times, and must be protected from rain to prevent the leaching out of the soluble portions of the mixture.

Generally speaking there are better corn and other feed grain crops in the Southwest than last year. There are also more pigs to be fed. Fifteen per cent more sows farrowed in Arkansas last spring; 14 per cent more in Louisiana, 35 per cent more in Oklahoma, 20 per cent more in Texas. Whether grain is plentiful or scarce, however, it pays to buy the protein supplement if necessary, to use a self-feeder, and to furnish green pasture.

Little Known Facts and Sidelights on Oil Industry

The Business of Service—

Oil men spend half their time making maps. Or so it must seem to the tourist faced with vacation problems when he requests help at the nearest oil office.

Oil-company maps in convenient looseleaf booklet form, often include detailed information on mileage, hotels, points of interest and a hundred other items. It seems hardly possible that it's all free for a phone call.

The petroleum industry takes a great deal of interest in this newest branch of its tourist service. Travel bureaus are maintained by many oil companies in which every map is "assembled" to order from up-to-date loose leaf sections arranged alphabetically in rows.

Guided by master maps, showing day-to-day road conditions, "markers" draw on each section the best route and road information. Sections are arranged for binding in exactly the order the tourist will use. To give the tourist a bird's eye view of his trip, a road expert marks the entire route on a United States map which is inserted in the front of the book.

For a route requested from New York City to Mexico City, one company sent a 68-page prospectus. A general map started the trip with an inland route. The leaf, 9x12 inches, folded outward at the side, making a double width map of the United States. All other leaves were single.

Thereafter followed cross-state routes, with inserted leaves detailing trans-city connections and local over-water links. Back to back with state and city maps were illustrations and descriptions of historic sights and attractions. On the left-hand pages were lists by towns, of places to stay, including addresses and rates.

Twelve pages were devoted to Mexico and its capital. Here hints on car servicing, guides, money exchange, traffic laws and safe drinking water were given.

Scientific Cracking—
Scientists who have been chasing molecules for years now are on the train of petroleum. Experimental "bombardment" of propane, propylene and allene has shown that the molecules in these petroleum hydrocarbons can be broken down into smaller ones by electron bombardment, just as they are broken down by heat and pressure in refinery cracking processes.

This new form of scientific "cracking," in which the vacuum chamber of a spectograph is used, changes propane, which normally contains three hydrogen and eight carbon atoms, into 24 different substances.

The compounds most frequently produced had two atoms of carbon and five, four and three atoms of hydrogen, respectively. The propylene and allene produced fewer compounds.

Rail-Auto Trips—
For travelers who dislike a long rail journey plans are in the making for rail-motor trips.

Tickets are purchased in the usual way with the traveler stipulating the points along the line where he would like to use an automobile. At these points a car is placed at his disposal, and he continues his tour until he tires and again takes the train. The new service is scheduled to begin about January, 1940.

Sealed Sunshine—
Housewives are bringing home more watermelons this summer. Somehow they're hard to resist. They're shinier than ever this year and they taste as good as they look. Southern growers are sealing in sunshine sweetness with a wax-coating and shipping them in excelsior-lined crates to ease the bumps. Traveling at a regulated temperature of 40 degrees they arrive as picked from the vines, fresh and unbruised from the trip.

Gas Turbine—
The gas turbine, newest source of cheap, compact power, is being used to compress air in catalytic refining processes. It operates on hot gas from burning low-cost fuel oil, resembling the steam turbine except that hot gas does the work of making power instead of superheated steam. The operating cycle is the same as that of the diesel engine.

A complete power plant in one unit, its applications are many and varied. Biggest field for the gas turbine today is in generating electricity. It also is finding wide use in pressuring blast furnaces, a development under way for cheaper and more efficient smelting of iron ore.

A gas turbine locomotive, using oil for fuel, is being built in Switzerland. Compactness and simplicity favor use of the tur-

Tax Report Blanks Are Available at Chamber Office

J. O. Gallegos, commissioner of revenue, in order to make individual form compensating tax report blanks available in Artesia, instead of persons having to send to Santa Fe for them, is sending a number to the Chamber of Commerce office where they may be obtained.

The commissioner, in a letter to Arba Green, chamber secretary, said many housewives and heads of families who have made purchases out of the state wish to comply with the 2 per cent tax law, but heretofore have not known how to go about it.

Gallegos said a drive is being made to collect as nearly all of the tax money as possible, the funds of which go for the support of the aged needy.

bine on ships, especially in high-speed vessels such as naval destroyers where maximum power is demanded in minimum space.

Petrolines—
Great Britain is rationing motor fuel on a horsepower basis as a wartime precaution. Owners of 20-horsepower cars are allowed ten gallons a month.

Tank cars of 8,000-gallon capacity are being fabricated by the fusion-welding process for experimental service.

BRIEF FORM

From Near and Far, Some Timely, Some of Human Interest

Annoyed by 16 burglaries in eight years, Jake Vickers placed this advertisement in a Madison, Fla., paper: "To all burglars in and around Madison. Gents: Those of you who haven't entered my house heretofore are advised that it is not necessary to bring ice picks and knives for the purpose of cutting screens and doors, inasmuch as other members of the breaking and entering profession have attended to these formalities."

A ninth-generation direct descendant of William Penn went to West Grove, Pa., recently to collect a red rose in payment for rent under a deed signed by the famous Quaker 196 years ago. Owners of the Red Rose Inn, situated on land deeded by Penn, arranged an elaborate ceremonial for turning over the historic rent to Philip Penn-Gaskell Hall, Jr. State Senator George B. Scarlett was selected to make the payment. "Rose rentals" are not uncommon in Pennsylvania. Similar ceremonies dating back to early Quaker days are held annually in several communities. It is usually church property that's involved.

Ohio's matrimonial bargain appears to be this young man who put himself on the market with a Steubenville newspaper advertisement: "I am 29 years of age, and am willing to marry any girl or woman who can put me back on my feet until I can get a job to support her. I do not drink, chew tobacco, smoke or gamble. I can cook and do housework."

"Phooey on the war," said a telephone caller to the circulation department of a Tulsa newspaper. "What I wanted was the fannies. I paid a nickel for a paper to get the comics and then discovered after I got it that it was a Sunday morning war extra. There weren't any comics in it. I've been robbed!" The circulation manager took the caller's address, found a spare comic section and sent it by special messenger.

Dr. Alfred Schramm of Los Angeles, arrested for driving 65 miles an hour, told the judge he was on an emergency call. But police testified he kissed a companion as he sped by. The woman was his wife and they consider it good luck to kiss after driving under a bridge, shyly explained the doctor. The judge smiled, gave a suspended sentence.

At Los Angeles nine husky sheriff's deputies felt pretty bad about their low scores on the pistol range. Banished to the "crying room," reserved for poor marks, they shed tears. But that was because State Highway Patrolman Arthur Fessler, who also had a poor score, accidentally dropped a tear gas bomb.

James Donovan, 68, of Merrimac, Mass., hit by one automobile and then run over by another, collected doubly. A court report filed by Auditor Fred J. Clousman disclosed

Interesting War Facts and Figures For Then and Now

Of interest today are facts and figures concerning the situation in Europe today, as compared with the situation twenty-two years ago. Here are a few:

Ten million are under arms in Europe. There are, approximately, 1,700,000 mobilized in Germany; 3,000,000 in France; 800,000 in England; 1,800,000 in Italy; and 1,500,000 in Poland.

During the World War, the following countries had this many men mobilized: Russia 12,000,000; France 8,410,000; British Empire 8,904,467; Italy 5,615,000; United States 4,355,000; Germany 11,000,000; Austro-Hungary 7,800,000; Turkey 2,850,000; Bulgaria 1,200,000. The Allies had a total of 42,188,510 mobilized, and the Central Powers had 22,850,000. There was a grand total of 65,038,510 men under arms.

Germany had the greatest number of casualties, with 1,773,700 killed. Russia came next with loss in lives of 1,700,000; then France with 1,357,800 dead.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rowland and daughter, Lucille, and Mrs. Rowland's mother, Mrs. W. M. Van Horn, were guests at a dinner Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Livingston.

that owners of the car which knocked down Donovan had settled for $2,975. In the report, Cloutman further awarded Donovan $1,525 in a suit against the woman who drove the car that ran over him.

Telephone users in the Okawville, Ill., vicinity complained they were getting a lot of "buzzing" on long distance calls. Repair men checked a terminal box and found it full of bees—and honey.

Near Kendallville, Ind., C. A. Johnson's automobile turned over several times and hit a pole. Johnson climbed out unhurt. But while walking around the car to ascertain the damage he stepped into a hole and tore ligaments in an ankle.

W. L. Whitlock of Denver, stopping at the scene of an accident, learned an automobile had struck two women. Then he saw them. One was his mother, Mrs. Mary Whitlock, 76; the other her sister, Mrs. Josephine Lane, 67. His mother died. His aunt was seriously injured.

The Houston, Tex., city council has all set to order a municipal bond election Oct. 28. Then someone recalled that the date Rice plays Texas U. at Austin. Fearing too many voters would go to Austin instead of to the polls, it ordered the vote Nov. 4. Rice will be playing Fordham in far-away New York that day.

Mayor F. Newlin of Salem, N. J. always a staunch supporter of the volunteer firemen, led city council in awarding a $7,486 contract for a shiny new ladder truck. Then—and only then—did the fire chief and the city engineer confess to Mayor Newlin the front of the fire house would have to be rebuilt to admit the new truck.

Mrs. Calvin Boone of Duncan, Okla., has relinquished the job of emptying the drip pan under her ice box to male members of the family. Preparing to empty it the other day, she discovered a three-foot moccasin snake enjoying the chilled water.

Provisions Named For '40 AAA Range Program in State

Similar to Current Year's Set-up Encourages Permanent Cover

The 1940 range conservation program, similar in most respects to the 1939 program, has been approved by Secretary Wallace, as announced by the AAA. As in the last four years, the 1940 program encourages the establishment and improvement of permanent cover on range land by providing for each range a range-building allowance to be earned by carrying out range-building practices. Other provisions are included to increase the effectiveness of the practices and to insure against adoption of practices contrary to the program objectives.

To simplify administration, provision has been made that the range program and the agricultural conservation program may be combined in any state or area upon recommendations of the state AAA committee and the approval of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Heretofore, the two programs have been administered separately.

The 1940 program will provide greater emphasis on the carrying out of supplemental range practices in connection with deferred grazing. In the deferred grazing part of the program, ranchers earn payments for keeping livestock off rangeland until the native grass can mature seed and reseed the land. To earn this payment in 1940, the carrying out of designated additional practices improving the range will be a condition for earning the payment. The maximum proportion of the range-building allowance computed on the acreage of range land that can be earned in any area by deferred grazing and the supplemental practices is 75 per cent.

The basis of payment for contour listing, furrowing or subsoiling has been changed from 50 cents an acre to 2½ cents per 100 linear feet. This change was made to make the rate more nearly in proportion to the cost of practice, where the amount of furrowing and other improvements differ because of type of land.

Zuni Jewelry Club In McKinley County Has Unique Project

The 4-H Jewelry Club of McKinley County, which is composed of nine members of the Zuni Pueblo, is carrying a project which, so far as is known, is not duplicated in any other club in the United States.

This club was organized in 1937 by O. L. Downing, county extension agent, and silver work and woodcraft were adopted as the projects to be undertaken. Pete Gonzales, Indian Service employee, supervises the work of the members.

Working in the largest all-Indian town in the United States, and speaking a language spoken by no other people, the Zuni 4-H craftsmen have turned out large numbers of rings, bracelets and 4-H Club pins, for all of which there has been a steady demand. According to Ernest Lyckman, home industries specialist with the New Mexico Extension Service, the work in home industries in the pueblo has the identical goal of all other such work carried on in the state, which is the improvement of home conditions through the making of articles for home use and, when possible, for sale.

There are excellent market possibilities for the club's output, and it is one of the best supported 4-H handicraft projects in the state. Some of the finished jewelry is placed on the open market and is purchased by other 4-H Club members and interested adults. The 4-H Club pin, which is made in the form of a four-leaf clover with raised edges, with a turquoise in the center and the letter "H" on each leaf, has been especially popular.

were pictured. Brown said lifting the face of "Main Street" is a symbol of opportunities, which will bring small towns back to the prestige they have lost to the larger cities and it will fire youth with enthusiasm as to the future of their communities.

He concluded, "A town has as big a future as the people think it has."

"Tip" Brown was brought to Artesia by Boone Barnett, manager of the Big Jo Lumber Company yard here, through a long friendship Brown has had for Barnett's company over a number of years. Barnett first heard Brown deliver his address on "Lifting the Face of Main Street" at a lumbermen's convention in Denver last January, since when he had tried to book the popular speaker for an address in Artesia.

The importance of the subject and its interest to all business men in Artesia led to the calling of the joint meeting of Rotarians and Lions, the first such meeting the two clubs have had since the Lions Club was organized last spring. About eighty business and professional men attended.

Green was informed by the bureau that he will receive shortly samples of the schedule or forms to be used in the census of business. The sample schedules to be employed in the manufacturer's census will be available a little later.

The bureau indicated the United States is being divided into 100 areas for the purpose of taking the censuses, and that branch offices will be set up in convenient cities. The censuses will require about five months and enumerators with schedules will call on all Artesia businesses beginning Jan. 2.

It is announced that the facts, as shown by the census, will be available by areas, states, counties, cities and towns during 1940. The final statistics will include breakdowns for the 48 states, 3,072 counties and approximately 3,150 cities and towns of more than 2,500 population.

The census of population, the farm census and the housing census will not start until next April 1. As in all census undertakings, the law protects those enumerated by keeping all answers confidential. They are available only to sworn census employees and are not available except in broad statistical form to any other agency in or out of the government, the bureau said.

Snake Bites Mrs. Carter in Loco Hills Wednesday

Mrs. N. G. Carter of twenty-six miles southeast of Artesia in the Loco Hills region was bitten on her ankle Wednesday morning by a rattlesnake and was rushed to Artesia Memorial Hospital for treatment. She is doing nicely.

She was bitten when she stepped on the reptile from the porch, as she started to investigate the Carter police dog, which appeared to be sick.

Mr. Carter killed the snake, which had four rattles, and the dog was searched for signs of a bite from it, but none could be found. Had the dog been bitten first, probably a smaller amount of the poison would have entered Mrs. Carter's blood stream.

Bulldogs Split—

from the Bulldogs' 45-yard line was good for a gain to within two yards of the Colts' goal, which Ansley gained on a plunge on the next play. The kick attempt for conversion missed by about six inches and the score was tied, 13 to 13.

Most outstanding in the game was the blocking of Ansley, who was back in his former position at quarter. The running of Rice was one of the highlights of the game and the whole of the Bulldog team showed great defensive work. And the passing attack was good, setting up the team for both scores and the others attempted.

Institute's hard-running 180-pound back caused the Artesia boys more worry than any of the other players from there. But Lewis, former Bulldog center, who was shifted to fullback position by Coach Joe Greeno, likewise worried the Colts with his long gains on reverses.

The Bulldogs reported the Colts as displaying great sportsmanship, contrary to other reports, obviously false, which have come out recently. And the treatment and fairness of the officials was lauded by the Artesia Bulldogs and Coaches Greeno and Allan Thompson.

Captain Seago and Captain Woodbury of Institute were referee and umpire respectively and the Rev. F. B. Howton, Jr., of Roswell and Artesia was head linesman.

Asked about the Bulldogs' game here at 8 o'clock Friday evening against Tularosa, Coach Greeno said, "We're going to knock 'em over!" He said the visitors will have to have a mighty good team to get the better of the Artesia boys, for they tied the best team of the season, the Colts, who, he declared, were a much tougher outfit than either Alamogordo or Eunice, both of whom defeated Artesia, having the hardest line many of the Bulldogs ever encountered.

The starting line-up for the line probably will be unchanged, the coaches said, but several shifts are being made in the backfield. Bobby Ferguson, regular right half-back, underwent an operation for appendicitis at Artesia Memorial Hospital Monday and of course is out of the game. He has been replaced by Juarez, shifted from fullback. That position will be filled by Lewis. Rice will be at left half and Ansley will be at quarter again. Reserve backs will be Cleve, Rogers, Powell and McCasland.

Useful Life—

Collins sought a more favorable climate in Artesia and made his home here since Sept. 6, 1906.

He farmed for two years about three miles south of town on what is now the Carlsbad highway and then in 1908 formed a partnership with S. W. Gilbert and T. R. Hayden in the real estate and abstract business.

Mr. Collins and Mr. Gilbert bought out the interests of Mr. Hayden after about a year and continued the business as Gilbert & Collins until last month, when Mr. Gilbert bought the interests of his old partner because of the latter's illness.

One of Mr. Collins' greatest interests was his work in the Presbyterian Church, of which he served as elder more than twenty years, and in his Sunday school class.

Prior to about ten years ago he taught a women's class, but since that time and up to last Sunday, the day before his death, he taught an adult men's Sunday school class.

His attendance record at Sunday school was perfect, even during his last illness, for the members met at his home each Sunday morning up to the day before his death and counted their teacher present.

Of Mr. Collins, a friend of many years wrote since his death: "Mr. Collins, or 'Daddy' Collins as we knew him, made himself a sort of father confessor to many of the younger folk. One's troubles were all erased when they came out of a conference with him. Even through his last illness, which has covered many months, he was still our guide and confidential helper, up until one day not long ago when he gave the writer the sweetest saintly smile to still show his interest."

"Mr. Collins attended the Presbyterian Church all his life, a firm believer in the Christ of God, and a teacher of the Bible for all the years. Until the very last Sunday his class met in his home to hear the lesson. While he was not able to teach, yet his offering and his church envelope were on the table to the last. What a record!"

"He has been gathered to that great throng of believing saints gathered 'round the throne of God. He was of the type who hear the voice of the Lord and follow Him. He was not only a churchman, but a father, mother, brother and sister to his motherless children, bringing them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord of his life. With his passing we have lost a good friend and neighbor. Heaven is the richer for such a saint."

Mr. Collins' daughter, Mrs. Ralph Henderson, came from her home at Long Beach about four months ago
