Grave Robbers Open Casket of Mrs. Merrifield

No Explanation for Deed in Woodbine Cemetery Saturday Night—Body, Wedding Ring Are Not Disturbed.

The grave in Woodbine Cemetery of Mrs. James Merrifield, who died Aug. 5, 1938, was opened Saturday night by robbers, who broke into the casket, but apparently disturbed nothing.

No explanation for the deed can be found, unless an attempt was being made to steal the body, but the grave robbers were frightened away. Officers are at a loss for any other solution.

That it might have been a ghoulish prank has been mentioned, as about fifteen grave markers in the cemetery were pulled out of the ground and scattered about, some being found in a corn field near by.

The lid of the casket was torn off, the robbers apparently standing on its top while they pried with some sort of tool.

A wedding ring the body of Mrs. Merrifield wore when she was buried Aug. 7, 1938, was not touched. She wore no other jewelry.

Officers Sunday repaired the casket lid and added an improvised lid before replacing the earth.

A broken shovel with splintered handle was found, but it revealed no clues. And in a field was found a place where someone had been, possibly a tramp, from several personal articles picked up there. However, they did not help in identifying the grave robber or robbers.

Mrs. Merrifield, who was 35 years old, died in a Carlsbad hospital of peritonitis after an illness of about three weeks.

Kerr Reads Fine Paper on Parent-Child Relationship

Rotary Hears Superintendent of Schools at Tuesday Luncheon

W. E. Kerr, superintendent of schools, Tuesday noon read a specially prepared paper at the weekly Rotary luncheon, in which he tried to show that discipline on the part of parents really means the artful management of parent-child relationship.

The paper, said by many Rotarians to have been the finest presented at a club meeting in a number of weeks, pointed out the great difficulty of artful management of parent-child relationship because of two things: First, the complexity of the human being in the matter of instincts, emotions, tendencies and traits, which have been inherited from the race, and second, the great number of things which stimulate human beings in the matter of their behavior which has resulted from the complexity of present day society.

In this connection, Kerr pointed out the great elaboration and complexity of customs, taboos and fashions in connection with the wearing of clothing, the elaboration of code of social etiquette that the child must learn, and in addition the indoctrination of boys and girls with the code of morals, religion and governmental doctrines.

Kerr further showed that all of these social inventions are simply means of trying to control and predict human behavior and that attempts to impress these things on boys and girls are the main sources of difficulty in the management of parent-child relationships.

In spite of the complexity of the matter, he pointed out four basic principles which he believes would be helpful to parents in managing parent-child relationships:

First, parenthood is a title bestowed upon father and mother because they have earned that title through the artful management of their children; second, parents must get themselves believed in and accepted by their children; third, parents must accept the sex of their children, and fourth, parents must accept and make provision for the breaking of home ties.

DEXTER PLANS RED CROSS ROLL CALL

C. J. Dexter again has been appointed roll call chairman for the North Eddy County chapter of the Red Cross and now is making plans for the annual drive for funds from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving.

Pleased with the results last year when members of the Woman's Club assisted in the drive in Artesia, he probably will enlist the club again this year in order to put the drive "over the top."

The chairman pointed out the great work done by the Red Cross whenever an emergency exists in a community and asked that North Eddy County do its part in the national program. This year, more than in recent years, with suffering and strife in many parts of the world, he said, it is urgent that every chapter put forth an extra effort to have a big enrollment.

Artesia Goat Ropers Club Is Now Underway

Is Organized Here Last Evening, With Carl Folkner as President—Will Build Arena Near Town.

The Artesia Goat Ropers' Club was organized last evening at a meeting of local men at the city hall, attended by six members of the Carlsbad Goat Ropers' Club, who aided in the organization of the local group.

All that remains now until Artesia has a bunch of full-fledged goat ropers is to build an arena and buy some goats, committees for which were appointed by Carl Folkner, whom the group elected president.

Calvin Dunn was elected vice president and Ernest W. Houy, who roped goats in Carlsbad as a member of the club there before he moved to Artesia a few months ago, was named secretary-treasurer. Besides the officers, Dan Watson, Stanley Carper, Dude Dunn and T. O. (Lefty) Hayes were elected directors to serve on the club's board.

The membership fee was set at $20 and monthly dues were made $2, the latter to be waived until next Jan. 1, by which time the club hopes to be in full swing.

Watson and Hayes were appointed by Folkner as a committee to contract for a small tract of land on the Cowan place a quarter mile south and a quarter mile west of the dip at the edge of town on the Hope highway.

Stanley Carper, chairman, and Tom Hefflin and Dude Dunn were appointed to have charge of building the arena and stables.

Folkner made Marshall Rowley a committee of one to see about water pipe.

Another important committee, which is functioning today, is that of membership, which will strive to build up the present signed-up membership of thirty-two to the limit of forty, which the club voted. The committee: Don Watson, chairman; Marshall Rowley and Dude Dunn.

Arena rules are to be patterned after those in use at Carlsbad, which Floyd (Skipper) Rigdon, president of the Carlsbad Goat Ropers' Club and publisher of The Current-Argus, said he would furnish the new organization. Members of the Carlsbad group likewise promised to present the Artesia club six goats to start off their victims.

Besides Rigdon, members of the Carlsbad Goat Ropers' Club who attended the meeting were Joe Welch, former world champion calf roper; Elmer Hepler, former world champion steer and bronc rider; Allen Richardson, Lewis Cargill and Keezie Duncan.

The new club will meet again at 7:30 o'clock Saturday at the city hall for reports of committees and furthering the organization. The meeting was called at that time, rather than next week, as many of the members plan to be in the mountains getting ready for the deer season.

State's Teachers Having Annual Meet at Duke City

Four Represent Artesia at New Mexico Educational Group Convention

Artesia schools are being represented at the fifty-fourth annual convention of the New Mexico Educational Association in Albuquerque this week by at least four teachers, the first general sessions of which were this morning, when an enrollment of more than 3,500 educators was expected.

School leaders began to arrive at Albuquerque Tuesday for conferences of town and city superintendents and principals and county superintendents. W. E. Kerr, superintendent of Artesia schools, was not among the number, for he did not go, nor does he intend to attend any of the sessions because of a recent illness.

Miss Fannie Woodruff, principal of Central School, left Monday morning to attend the early conferences and is expected to remain the rest of the week.

John B. White and Arthur Gump left yesterday and Miss Mary Luther intends to leave Friday for the Saturday sessions.

Early reports from the convention city indicated the teachers would seek a law for a minimum salary of $900 in the state and an adequate retirement law. Officials said there still remain in the state 1,000 teachers who earn less than $825 a year.

Members of the association likewise termed as justifiable hope in the state's school maintenance budgets of $115,000, which was announced Monday by R. H. Grissom, budget auditor.

Artesia Lions Drop in Dimes, Take Pennies

The Artesia Lions, not to be outdone by nine tenths of the now popular radio programs, had a "Professor Quiz" contest at the weekly luncheon Wednesday noon, all of which helped to swell the relief fund by about $2.

The Lions are strong for fines, usually a dime or a quarter, which is put to good use, but offenses usually are such things as members forgetting to wear their emblem buttons to the meetings.

Yesterday, however, instead of merely putting in coins—that is, being fined—the Lions had the rare opportunity of taking out money. But they put in more than they received! Fines for failing to answer properly a question shot at him by Herman Cole, who must have been the "professor," cost a Lion 10 cents. On the other hand, if a question was answered correctly, the bright fellow could retrieve a penny, a sort of "put-and-take" game—mostly put.

It was said a city alderman did not know what state highways pass through Artesia—by the way, what are they?—but another fellow correctly told where some street or other is located here, which evidently only he and Cole happened to know, for most of the other Lions never had heard of it.

That sort of thing went on no end until the no longer hungry Lions had to get back their places of business, or the relief fund might still be growing with the odds 10 to 1 in favor of the "professor."

To Open New Drug Store in Artesia In Mid-November

A drug store is to be opened about Nov. 15 in the Frank Watkins building at Fourth and Main Streets by W. R. Petty of Electra, Tex., who was here last Thursday making arrangements for a lease. Petty said he will install a modernistic fountain and will use many new fixtures in equipping the store. A machine will be installed to make his own ice cream. He intends to handle a complete line of drugs and will feature a prescription department.

A contest to name the store is planned by Petty, who said he will give $5 to the person picking the name which is used. He is to make an announcement of the rules and details of the contest later.

Petty said he likes Artesia and intends to make it his permanent home, for he sees a great future for the city.

None Hurt as Nitro Truck Blows Today

Explodes With 500 Quarts At Underwood & Sanders Well, This Morning at 9 O'clock—No One Injured.

The Loco Hills were rocked about 9:30 o'clock this morning, but no one was injured when a nitroglycerine truck carrying 500 quarts of the high explosive was blown to pieces at one of the Underwood & Sanders wells.

The truck, belonging to Tex Thornton, one of the first oil well shooters who ever operated in the Artesia area, was standing alone and the explosives were detonated from cans of nitro which were blown from the hole when the well flowed.

Workmen at the scene ran when the hole began to blow, after cans of nitro had been lowered in preparation to shoot, one of the great hazards in the explosive.

The lesser explosion jarred the truck and set off the 500 quarts of nitro in an explosion heard several miles.

No details of the explosion could be learned, as members of the Underwood & Sanders organization left immediately for the site of the explosion and only meagre information drifted into town.

However, one report has it that there was nothing left of the truck worth picking up and that a small piece was found by one oil field worker a half mile from the scene.

It was said the blast rocked the adjacent territory and that workmen at the well, who had thrown themselves on the ground, were tossed at least two feet in the air.

It is believed, basing the assumption on The Advocate's oil reports elsewhere in this issue, that the explosion was at the Miller No. 2 well of Underwood & Sanders, in NW NW section 4-18-29, for that well was reported as being prepared to shoot at a total depth of 2,700 feet. Other Underwood & Sanders wells were drilling ahead.

Urges Nimrods Not to Shoot Near The CCC Camps

With the approach of the big game hunting season, the state game warden, Elliott S. Barker, has issued a statement warning all hunters against shooting near any CCC camp or project where CCC boys are working.

"There are many CCC camps and WPA projects in operation in big game territory," the warden said, "and all hunters should use unusual diligence and care about shooting near these camps or near the places where the men are engaged on projects."

The warden emphasized the fact that many roads and other projects beneficial to the state and to the hunters in particular have been accomplished through the Civilian Conservation Corps and WPA projects, many of which still are under construction. The warden said it should not be necessary to have to close down these projects during hunting season to provide safety for the men and urged that sportsmen be exceedingly careful about discharging their firearms so that these men may continue their work in safety.

Barker said that in the past there have been very few serious or fatal accidents during hunting season anywhere in this state and that he hopes that with the cooperation of the sportsmen to get by this season without any accidents whatsoever.

Services Held for Young Woman, a Car Mishap Victim

Marie Fink, 21, Dies on Way to Hospital Last Thursday

Funeral services and burial were at Hagerman Friday for Miss Marie Fink, 21-year-old Arkansas girl, who was fatally injured last Thursday evening just prior to sundown, when an automobile on which she was returning from work in a cotton field ran into a bar pit and pinned her under the fender on a Cottonwood road west of the highway.

She died on the way to Artesia Memorial Hospital, where she was rushed by B. M. Mills, on whose farm she had been working.

Gilbert Gomez, driver of the car, a light coupe, was said to have been blinded by the sun. Although driving at a low rate of speed, he veered into the bar pit at a place where it recently had been washed to a depth of about four feet. It was said Gomez was driving in low gear.

Miss Fink and others who had been working in the cotton field were leaving for their homes. The young woman was riding on one fender. The other fender also carried a rider, as did the rear of the car, and there were three persons in the seat. No one else was injured.

The young woman was born Sept. 26, 1918, at Danville, Ark. She had been visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Sterell Cannon, who live on the E. P. Malone farm on Cottonwood, and had been working in the cotton fields during her visit.

Eddy Bar Elects Judge McCrary For President

Judge G. U. McCrary of Artesia, one of the oldest attorneys in the state of New Mexico both in years of service and age, was honored by the Eddy County Bar Association meeting in Carlsbad Tuesday, when he was elected president of the county bar for the coming year. The meeting was in the library of the new Eddy County courthouse.

Elected to serve with Judge McCrary were: Vice president, George L. Reese, Jr., Carlsbad, district attorney; treasurer, B. T. Burns, Carlsbad; secretary, Neil B. Watson, Artesia.

It was brought out at the meeting that Judge McCrary has practiced law in Eddy County since 1905.

The bar members discussed plans for a dedicatory ceremony sometime in the near future for older members who have practiced in the county, to which former members of the Eddy County bar and members in Chaves and Lea Counties, as well as Supreme Court justices, district attorneys and others will be invited.

New Crile Studio, South Roselawn, Is Opened Today

The new Crile building at 120 South Roselawn was open this morning, Herman Crile having moved from his former quarters with Jensen & Son on Main Street. Although open for business now, he plans a formal opening shortly after the first of the month.

The building, built by Crile especially for a photographic studio, not only is the newest of Artesia's new buildings, but is one of the most modern in the city. It is not large, only 20x50 feet, but it is patterned in modernistic lines, stuccoed white outside, with black tile trimmings and decked out with an attractive neon sign.

The reception and sales room is relatively large, 18x15 feet and is decorated, both walls and woodwork, in cream. At the front are unusual show windows, lined with an Italian olivewood pattern and lighted with the new fluorescent lights.

Behind the reception room is the camera room, or studio, likewise decorated in ivory, with green drapes. Off of it is a dressing room.

That Crile will have ample room for his work is demonstrated by the sizes of his laboratory rooms: Finishing room, 8x12 feet; negative dark room, 6x8 feet; printing dark room, 8x24 feet.

Much new equipment has been added, including the latest type of studio camera.

PHEASANTS SEEM MIGHTY SCARCE

Pheasants seemed scarce Sunday and Monday during the two-day open season on the colorful birds. But there was no shortage of hunters, who took to the field by the hundreds.

The majority failed to bag a cock pheasant, let alone the two allowed by law. And many did not even see a sign of a bird.

Two conclusions have been reached by the unsuccessful hunters, and anyone may take his choice. The pheasants are few; there are plenty of pheasants, but could not be found.

However, several hunters in Eddy and Chaves Counties found and shot pheasants, the wrong kind—hens—for which they paid dearly.

And a Lea County hunter, returning home from Eddy County where he hunted, was arrested for speeding, but was found to have committed a more serious offense: One hen pheasant; one duck; one curlew!

Progress from the Washington office show New Mexico to be leading all other states in the Western division with the highest percentage of payments received by farmers with respect to cotton price adjustment payments, Henry M. Miller, ACS secretary, said Wednesday. This is due to close cooperation between the county offices and the state office, as well as close cooperation with the farmers.

In addition, county committees are overcoming and actually eliminating the crowded conditions under which the AAA employees have been working for the last three years. Additional office space and equipment have been secured by several of the larger counties in order to insure maximum efficiency within their counties. The result has been that farmers have received their 1939 parity payments with respect to wheat and cotton, 60 to 90 days earlier than in the past.

It is the intention of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration that in the future payments to farmers will be made at the very earliest possible date.

Farmers are urged to continue their loyal support and cooperation within the counties. Particular attention should be given to all mail received from the AAA county offices, officials said.

Bulldogs Show Teeth, but Bow To Jal Friday

Panthers Win Over Artesia Here 19 to 7 in Best Game of Season—Old Sleeper Play Is Used by Visitors.

The Artesia Bulldogs showed their teeth Friday evening at Morris Field and were the first team of the season to score on the Jal High School team, but they went down to a 19-to-7 defeat at the hands of the powerful visitors.

The single score for the Bulldogs, the only one made against the Jal Panthers this year, came about midway in the final period.

The Artesia boys put up a good scrap and, although lacking the weight and drive of the undefeated Jal aggregation, which is rated one of the four best grid teams in the state, showed up well in Friday night's game and turned in their best performance to date this season. The Bulldogs played a whole of a defensive game for a light team and unloosed a clever passing attack in the late stages of the game that enabled them to score on the mighty Panthers.

John Rice's uncanny coffin-corner boots and his shifty running, combined with Harvey Burgess' great defensive work, set the Jal boys back on their heels many times throughout the game. Burgess, scrappy end, ably captained the Bulldogs. The Panthers showed over the first of their three scores late in the opening period with a pair following, one each in the third quarter and final period to end up on top.

In the opening minutes of play it was a nip and tuck affair, with both teams kicking freely. One of the oldest tricks of the game (continued on last page, column 4)

New Mexico Leads In Cotton Parity Payments in West

MELVIN JERNIGAN IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Melvin (Zeke) Jernigan, Hobbs resident, formerly of Artesia, stricken seriously ill Friday night, was to be moved from the hospital to his home Monday afternoon, but will not be able to have company for two weeks or more, his family said, according to the Hobbs Daily News-Sun.

Jernigan's condition, although still serious, seemed somewhat improved, his family said.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Folkner and small granddaughter, Louise Folkner, returned the latter part of last week from a visit with relatives at points in Arkansas.

ONE MAN PROVIDES FLY IN OINTMENT

It is not our intention to say whether the stores of Artesia should or should not close on Armistice Day, which this year falls on Saturday. The answer to that question does and should lie in the discretion of managers and owners of mercantile establishments.

But we do wish to call to the public attention the stubbornness of a single merchant, through whose lack of cooperation with his fellows, stores in Artesia probably will remain open on the holiday.

We do know of several merchants who preferred to remain open Nov. 11, it being a Saturday and this being a "Saturday town," but who readily agreed to sign up for general closing because that was the trend and the wishes of others.

They were public spirited and demonstrated a willingness to cooperate, even though they believed firmly that closing on any Saturday would cost them money.

Only the one example of pure refusal to sign up was found. He was about the fiftieth merchant approached on the subject; no further efforts were made.

Because of the one man, the stores probably will remain open, when many of the managers preferred to take a holiday. That is true of food stores especially, for the hold-out is the proprietor of a home-owned market.

Just like the war in Europe. Everybody wanted peace but one man.

WE WANT THAT BRIDGE NOW

Governor Miles last week told a committee from Artesia that a new bridge will be built over the Pecos River, as he previously had informed the Democratic central committee.

And we have absolute faith in him, so do not take great alarm, as do some, that there is a possibility the much-needed bridge will not be forthcoming in the near future.

But we do propose to remind the governor that we in Artesia and the oil fields must have that bridge soon—and mighty soon.

Southeast New Mexico is furnishing a large part of the tax money which goes to build all bridges and roads in the state, chiefly because of the oil industry. The convenience, comfort and safety of oil men and their equipment should be considered in the spending of that tax money. The more they prosper, the more taxes will be paid and in turn the more bridges in other parts of the state will be made possible.

It seems only fair that the Pecos bridge east of Artesia be one of the first on the program.

Having faith in Governor Miles, we are quite certain it will be.

BUT WE'RE AFRAID WE'LL HAVE TO

The last week we have been riding in our automobile to and from work, so we don't know whether the trees along the sidewalks off of Main Street are being trimmed or not. So we'd better not have another editorial on the subject this week, we guess.

But while we think about it, someone told us the other day that someone else who should know told him the best time to trim a tree is when one's knife is sharp.

In other words, the job can be done any time—provided it is done right.

Now is as good a time as any. And if it isn't done, we may have to write another editorial about it.

Heaven forbid!

ASK NOAH—OR ADOLF—IF YOU DON'T BELIEVE US

We pull our own boners as to spelling and as some sort of complex comes over us we take delight in catching the other fellow misspelling one of our favorites.

One such favorite is "wiener"—especially with mustard and onions.

The whole name is "wienerwurst" and is derived from the city of Vienna, the hot dog originally being "Vienna worst," then "Vienna sausage."

And so whenever we see it spelled backwards, "wiener," either on store windows or in contemporary newspapers, we gloat at our smartness.

PREACHING ON REDUNDANCY AGAIN

We have often wondered why people so frequently turn in items to the effect that a baby boy or baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. So-and-Thus.

Never yet have we known of any but a baby being born. In other words, the fact a boy or girl was born should carry the implication it was a baby.

A PRETTY GLOOMY OUTLOOK

The Roswell Dispatch credits N. Brill of Capitan with the gloomy prediction the outlook for deer hunters who visit his part of the country this season will find slim pickin'.

Said Brill: "Why, on my way to Roswell I saw only six deer on the entire trip."

Yep, pretty gloomy outlook!

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Societies and Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Oct. 29.

The Golden Text is: "Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel?"—(Ezekiel 18:31.)

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whose confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy."—(Prov. 28:13.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Justice requires reformation of the sinner. Mercy cancels the debt only when justice approves."

With Egg Prices Low, Cull Closely

So Advises the New Mexico Extension Service to Poultrymen

The present rise in feed prices is causing considerable concern among the poultrymen of the state, says E. E. Anderson of the New Mexico Extension Service. As is always the case under similar conditions, the price of eggs has not followed the price of feed in its upward swing, nor is it likely there will be more than the usual seasonal advance.

With a record size hatch last spring, laying flocks are now considerably larger than a year ago. This, together with large storage holdings, will mean a greater volume of eggs on the market. Improved business conditions may boost consumption to where it will about offset the increased production but, even so, there is little to indicate that feed prices will be any lower. In view of this situation, it is up to the producer to adjust his enterprise to meet these changed conditions, Anderson said.

The first adjustment suggested by Anderson is severe culling of the flock. Many of the less productive hens, which were profitable when feed prices were low, if kept in the flock now will only bring loss to the owner, he said. And the pullets should also be culled closely. Remove the unthrifty birds and those which are slow in developing. It is the strong, vigorous, well-developed pullets that are the best layers and are physically able to lay heavily month after month.

Houses should be arranged so as to provide good ventilation without drafts. Colds and other diseases frequently start from overcrowded and drafty houses, Anderson said.

Careful attention to sanitation is especially important. Green feeds, or their substitutes, play an important part in maintaining health as well as stimulating production. A reasonable amount of protein in the ration, such as milk or meat and bone meal, is essential for good production.

Anderson said a good rule to follow is to keep the flock as small as possible, especially under present conditions, is not to keep more birds than can be properly cared for. A small, healthy flock of quality birds, comfortably housed and properly fed, will bring greater returns than a large flock of ordinary hens, poorly housed and fed.

Name of Juanita Denton Is to Be in Student 'Who's Who'

Miss Juanita Denton of Artesia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Denton, was one of eleven students at State College chosen by the group council there to be included in the annual publication, "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

The names were chosen from nineteen submitted by the student commission to the council.

Besides Miss Denton, a senior in the music department, those chosen were:

Betty Jane Crawford, Las Cruces, senior in biology major; Lois Dunkle, Las Cruces, home economics major and highest ranking freshman of the year 1937-38; Charlie Graham, captain of this year's football team; Edward Gray, La Mesa, editor of The Round-Up; Henry Gustafson, Las Cruces, co-editor of The Swastika; A. E. Hatch, Jr., Portales, business manager of The Round-Up; John Hightower, Texico; Frederica Lewis, Mesilla Park, president of the dramatic council; Lloyd Lyster, Las Vegas, president of the senior class; Melvin Ritchey, Hale Center, Tex., president of the student commission.

Autumn Puddings—That Won't Fall!

Jack Horner's "pie" was actually a pudding! So, at least, the researchers now state and a nation of pudding-lovers (that's us) will hardly object. Ever since that Horner youngster popularized corners, ever since Mile. Muffett had her own whey, puddings have been a favorite American dessert. Let's let them continue to occupy their place as cockle-warming windups to Autumn meals, the while we remember that old English proverb: "Cold pudding settles love!"

The name "pudding" was first given to sausage and "white" and "black" used to denote the variety. The earliest puddings were done up in bags and boiled. But then steaming came in, followed by our easy, modern baking; the Yorkshire and the Sussex puddings—used with meat as the main course—gave way to puddings served as dessert. Now pudding covers a multitude—not of sins but of virtues—and while usually made with flour or cereals or crumbs, it need not be!

Your best bets for Fall puddings are fruits and nuts—any batter is better with nuggets of nuts for the molar to find; any pudding's a winner with fruit in its middle!

Helpful hint: Large draughts of piping hot, freshly made coffee are the perfect partners for any kind of pudding!

Date-Brazilian Pudding
1 cup flour, 2 teasp. phosphate baking powder, ½ teasp. salt, 1 cup (½ pkg.) pasteurized dates, sliced, 1 cup coarsely chopped Brazil nuts, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup milk, 1 teasp. vanilla.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Mix sliced dates and chopped Brazil nuts through flour with the finger tips. Add sugar. Beat egg; add milk and vanilla. Stir this mixture into dry ingredients. Mix and turn into individual baking dishes. Place baking dishes in a pan, surround with hot water to a depth of 1 inch. Cover. Bake in slow oven (275 degrees F.) 2 hours. Serve with whipped cream or sauce.

Banana Cottage Pudding
2 cups sifted cake flour, 2 teasp. baking powder, ½ teasp. salt, 3 teasp. shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, ½ teasp. vanilla extract, 4 or 5 ripe bananas, sliced, 2 cups custard sauce.

Use ripe bananas (yellow peel flecked with brown.) Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Beat shortening until creamy. Add sugar gradually and beat well. Add Vanilla. Add egg and beat until light and fluffy. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beating after each addition until smooth. Turn into a well-greased pan (8x8 x2 inches) and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 1 hour, or until pudding is done. Cut into squares in pan. Serve hot. Cover each serving with banana slices and pour your favorite custard sauce over pudding. 9 servings.

Steamed Carrot Pudding
2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup grated raw carrot, 1 cup milk, 2 tbsps. fat, 1 cup all-bran, 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs, 1 teasp. cinnamon, ¼ teasp. cloves, 1 teasp. nutmeg, ½ teasp. salt, 1 cup seedless raisins; ¼ cup chopped citron, ¼ cup chopped orange peel.

Beat eggs until light; add sugar and beat until fluffy. Add carrots, milk, melted fat, all-bran and bread crumbs which have been mixed with spices and salt. Add raisins, citron and orange peel. Mix well. Fill greased pudding mold or one-pound coffee can three-fourths full. Cover tightly and steam for about 3 hours. Serve hot with hard sauce or other desired pudding sauce. 8 servings.

Grandmother's Old-Fashioned Cracker Pudding
1½ cups milk, scalded, 3 soda crackers (large), ½ cup sugar, ¼ teasp. salt, ¼ teasp. cinnamon, ¼ cup raisins, ¼ cup cream, 2 eggs, well beaten, 1 tsp. butter, melted, ¼ teasp. vanilla.

Pour milk over crackers. Cover and let stand until cold. Combine sugar, salt and cinnamon. Add to milk mixture. Add remaining ingredients, blend and turn into buttered baking dish. Place dish in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) 1½ hours. Cool. Serve plain or with cream. Yield: 6 portions.

Peanut Butter Bread Pudding
1 cup stale soft bread cubes, 2 cups milk, scalded, ½ cup peanut butter, ½ cup cold milk, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 2 tbsps. sugar, ¼ teasp. salt, ½ teasp. vanilla.

Soak bread in scalded milk 15 minutes. Place peanut butter and cold milk in bowl and whip with rotary beater until smooth. Combine egg, sugar, salt and vanilla. To bread mixture, add peanut butter and egg mixtures and blend. Turn into buttered baking dish, place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour. Serve with cream or hard sauce topped with grated nutmeg. Yield: 6 portions.

"Thirty days."

Cecil Lynch of Denver, accused of driving into two automobiles, explained to police: "I've been driving past that corner five years. He still doesn't know what's behind that door.

The University of Colorado band have declined to have girl drum majors, explaining "adverse weather conditions would be too hard on the fair sex." Five police cars dashed up to a fur shop in Los Angeles and 10 officers, answering a burglar alarm, piled out with drawn guns. As they started to break in, a man stepped from the gathering crowd. "That's all right boys," he soothed, "there's no burglar in there. I turned in the alarm to see how long it would take the police to get here."

Welfare Board to Meet Here Tonight

The monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock this evening of the Eddy County Welfare Advisory Board will be at the Artesia city hall, rather than in Carlsbad as announced last week.

The September meeting was in Carlsbad, as will be the November meeting. They alternate between the two cities, Carl Folkner, president, said.

Folkner said everyone interested in welfare work is invited to attend and that only the presence of a person is required for him to be considered a member and to entitle him to take part in any action which comes before the body at a meeting.

Charlie Mathis of Lubbock, Tex., spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Jennie Mathis, and brother, Floyd Mathis.

Artesia, Roswell Episcopal Boys Plan Grid Game

The football game of the week in Artesia will be a clash between the "six-man" boys' teams of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Artesia and St. Andrew's Episcopal Church of Roswell at Morris Field at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. No admission will be charged.

Jimmie Haskins, who is captain of the Artesia team, said the local boys have been helped by Coach Joe Greeno of the Bulldogs, but that there is no team coach. However, the boys are prepared to meet their Roswell rivals, whom they played several times a year ago.

Both the Artesia and Roswell teams are sponsored by the Rev. F. B. Hivden, Jr., rector of the two churches.

Claberon Buckner Injured When Car Hits Bridge Sunday

Claberon Buckner of Hope was slightly injured early Sunday morning when he was returning from Artesia and his car was crowded off the highway near Eagle bridge by an approaching car.

He did not know he was near the bridge, so drove off the highway in order to pass the car and had just driven back on the road when he ran into the side of a narrow bridge. The car was held on the highway by the cement foundation of the bridge which extended up as high as the road. Otherwise, the car might have plunged into Eagle River, which is about twenty-five feet deep at that place.

Buckner was thrown from the car and was unconscious until some motorist found him and brought him to Artesia to a doctor. The persons causing the accident did not stop.

"Flo's worried half sick."

"Yeah, why?"

"Well, Doris went to the Hollywood Night Club and just afterward she met a bigshot producer and now she's a movie star."

"And—?"

"And not long after Jeanette went to the Paradise Club and now she's in marital heaven."

"Why should that worry Flo?"

"She went to the Stork Club."

Many Lambs Are Being Fed in the Valley This Year

Thousands of lambs are making the annual exodus from the mountain and foothill ranches and many are stopping in the Pecos Valley, being put on feed for the market. Probably more lambs will be fed in the valley than in many years, according to indications.

Crawford & Smith, of Black River Village, who always feed many lambs, plan to put more than 100,000 head on feed this year, many more than is their custom.

Within the last few days about 4,000 head consigned to them have gone through Artesia. Jack Casabonne of ten miles southwest of Hope delivered Crawford & Smith 1,757 head Wednesday of last week. An additional 2,151 lambs were delivered to them Friday by Pete Casabonne. And on the same day 150 head more were consigned to the feeders by Walter J. Harris.

Roger Durand has opened a feed pen at the southeast edge of Artesia and now has about 800 head of lambs on feed. He intends to buy more.

L. T. Lewis of Roswell is opening a feed pen on the old Norton farm south of the Pearson gin on Cottonwood and received 1,700 lambs from the Carlsbad locality Monday to put on feed.

He: "Well, then, for gosh sake, let's go horseback riding."

Little Man in the War

By M. J. Cunningham

A man in Germany said to an Englishman, "All my life I have wanted to be a great painter in oils . . . as soon as I have carried out my program for Germany I shall take up my painting. I feel that I have it in my soul to become one of the great artists of the age and that future historians will remember me, not for what I have done for Germany, but for my art." The German was Adolf Hitler; the Englishman was Sir Neville Henderson.

Hitler's program for Germany called for war—and now this Little Man is painting landscapes in red. Premier's Flower Garden
Once, in some forgotten day, under a Polish sun unshadowed by droning war planes, Premier Slowaj Skladowski planted a garden. And in the days to come he watered the soil and he tended the young plants as they pushed little green blades into the sun—and later boasted of his blooms to admiring friends in the justifiable pride of one who compels the earth to yield fragrant and beautiful blossoms.

In later days the workmen came to dig bomb shelters in his Warsaw lawn, but the Premier was there to make them careful of his flowers—their boots must not trample his garden and the clods thrown out of the hole where the lawn had vanished must not cover them.

That too, was in a forgotten day, for no man of Poland remembers now the days of peace since war has come. And some soldier in the field gray of the German army may be stooping now to pick some last lone bloom in the lonely devastation of a home in what was once Warsaw—before the sun was shadowed by the planes that came. And the Premier?

"Ghaist Plane"
Another ghost has come to haunt the good Scottish folk, and in the Highlands now they whisper in sepulchral gaelic of the ghost plane that machine-gunned a barn. No one saw the plane, although it was a clear September day, the sun shining in a bright and cloudless sky. But they heard the roar of its motors, the ominous clatter of its machine guns, and the bullets spattering on the barn roof.

The inner councils of the British War Ministry discuss the terrible possibility of the perfect camouflage—invisible planes against which there can be no defense.

But ask any Scot in the vicinity of that happening and he might say, "Dinna believe it, mon, it be the ghaist of a German laddie bro't doon by a Scot i' the Royal Air Force."

For everyone knows that Scotland is a land of "ghaists," of witches and warlocks and of sea-serpents such as the monster that terrified the natives by frisking about in his scaly phosphorescent hide in the waters of Loch Ness as recently as the winter of 1934. Edgar Allen Poe must have been thinking of Scotland when he wrote:

"It was hard by the dim lake of Auber
In the misty mid region of Weir;
It was down by the dank tarn of Auber
In the ghoul-haunted woodland of Weir. . ."

And there is the story of Tam o' Shanter and his mare, Maggie, who were pursued by the ghosts of "Alloway's auld haunted kirk" and only escaped by leaping into the river—and even then one of the witches got Maggie's tail "and left poor Maggie scarce a stump."

The war is becoming creepy and something of a ghoulish nightmare, but it's going a little too far, I think, when a ghost plane leaves nickel-plated bullets in the roof of a good Scot's barn.

Stoker Joe
He stands in the glare of the furnace door and he shovels coal into the belly of one of those dirty little freighters that feed England's island millions. His ship is one of thousands, and it's fair and legitimate prey for Germany's submarines who scan the horizon for these vessels.

Maybe he'd rather be at the front and take his chances with bullets and shells that cough away the earth and the little men that hug it—but England needs that broad glistening back in the boiler room of a little freighter. There is no glory here—only the black grime of coal dust, odors of grease and bilge water, and the heat that pours out of the furnace door.

He's twenty or thirty feet below the water line and thousands of tons of ocean press in on the steel sides of this vessel and even now a torpedo may be streaking towards this freighter. It will open a hole as big as a four-room house and there are none to tell us how the sea looks as it pours through that gaping mortal wound. He's in the front line of casualties when wars are fought on the sea.

But Joe shovels coal and he curses the furnace with a wonderful eloquence—and he's a bloomin' hero.

WHAT'S WHAT —in— NEW MEXICO

News Briefs of the "Sunshine State," Gleaned from Many Sources

The governor has appointed Sister Mary Lawrence and Mrs. Celine Chavez of Santa Fe, Mrs. John G. Anderson of Dexter and Miss Ora Mae Hodges and Mrs. Theresa McMenimin of Albuquerque as members of the state nursing board. Miss Ella Bartlett of Albuquerque, a member since creation of the board, advised the governor ill health prevented her re-appointment.

Joseph Bursley, State Tourist Bureau director, had a few pointed questions to answer about the Indians at Taos, world famous pueblo. A resident of Tioga, Colo., who visited Taos last summer, asked whether the Indians were allowed to cut their hair, and what they did for a living. The writer said he was anxious to learn more about New Mexico, so he could be better prepared to enjoy his next visit.

New Mexico citizens are urged by Gov. Miles to volunteer their services to the Red Cross so it might be ready for "any emergency, local, national or international." He said the organization advised him its drive this year was aimed at gaining the assistance of an additional 7,500 persons in New Mexico.

New Mexico voters may register wherever they intend to maintain a permanent residence, regardless of where they may be living at the time, Attorney General Filo Sedillo held in an opinion. He wrote Secretary of States Jessie Gonzales also that property ownership had no bearing on registration or voting in general elections.

Gov. Miles said he planned a discussion with Archbishop Rudolph A. Gerken, when the latter returns from Texas, about cancellation of the Regional Eucharistic Congress which had been planned for New Mexico next year. The governor said he did not know if the state could do anything about the matter, but that he was interested in having the congress if at all possible.

State Police Chief Tom Summers said he had learned "a lot of good tricks" at a recent anti-espionage school in Washington, but was doubtful if he would find much chance to employ them in New Mexico. "Coastal cities and big population centers are where the spy danger is serious," he said.

A single day's hunting — customarily a month's bag — netted Frank Hunter, State Game Department hunter, five mountain lions, State Game Warden Elliott Barker disclosed. The bag was made in the Mud Springs area of the Jemez Mountains.

Twenty-five elk on the Philmont ranch north of Taos are to be trapped by the State Game Department and transferred to other game areas in the state, about half of them in the Colfax County Boy Scout preserve.

County medical societies over the state have been requested by the State Health Department not to sell habit-forming drugs without a physician's prescription. Dr. E. B. Godfrey, state health director, said the department was prepared to make up a list of regulations for the control and sale of such drugs. The action was taken at the regular board of health meeting.

Revenue Commissioner J. O. Gallegos said the state police division of field administration, formerly the ports of entry, was "more than making its own way" with collections since last Jan. 1 of $351,773. Disbursements totaled $104,595. The monthly average collection was $39,085 and disbursements $11,621.

It is okay to sell bay rum to a shiek with well-groomed hair but be sure you don't sell to a bald headed man, or one that obviously never uses hair tonic, or you may run afoul of the law. The Portales Daily News advises, for Sheriff R. L. Hollis claims that the main source of "liquor" in parched Roosevelt County is drug store and variety store sales of an innocent looking hair tonic that produces a terrific wallop when taken internally. Sheriff Hollis advises merchants selling hair tonic to be careful not to sell their alcoholic wares to persons who are likely to drink it.

With the installment of steel-bodied school buses on all state routes, that form of transportation is "approaching 100 per cent safety," Director J. T. Reece said recently. His annual fiscal statement for the 1938-39 period showed the state spent $37.74 to transport the average child to and from school, or a total of $969,910 for 25,700 pupils, an increase of $105,345 over the prior year.

November Demand For Crude Oil Is To Top October

The Bureau of Mines estimated the November daily average domestic demand for crude oil at 3,620,000 barrels, or a total of 108,600,000 barrels for the month. This was 29,700 barrels a day more than the estimated demand for October and 5.7 per cent more than the actual demand last November. The bureau estimated the November domestic demand for motor fuel at 46,700,000, or about 4 per cent more than the actual demand in November, 1938, when demand, officials said, was abnormally high. Officials said that the daily average crude oil production and runs to stills during the five weeks from Sept. 2 to Oct. 7 were 3,492,000 barrels and 3,497,000 barrels, respectively. During this time, they said, total crude oil stocks declined 3,374,000 barrels, 295,000 of which was foreign stocks, leaving a net decline in domestic crude oil of 5,079,000 barrels, or 145,000 barrels daily. The bureau said that possible improvement in the position of gasoline stocks depended primarily on the extent to which increased domestic and export demand may reduce the usual seasonal rise in production. Estimated daily average crude oil demand by states included: States Nov. 1939 Oct. 1939 New Mexico -- 111,000 114,200 Texas -----1,444,000 1,444,800 Oklahoma -----429,000 424,200 Totals -----3,620,000 3,590,300 Mining in Colombia is more active than a year ago. State Has Highest Percentage Cotton Under Class Act

Eddy Members Are Included in Twenty-Three Organizations in New Mexico

New Mexico has a higher percentage of cotton receiving the free classification and market news service than any other cotton producing state, says Clayborn Wayne of the New Mexico Extension Service. According to government reports, 95 per cent of the total cotton acreage in this state is receiving Smith-Doxey service. California ranks second, with only 33 per cent of the total cotton acreage under the Smith-Doxey. In other words, Wayne said, of the state total cotton acreage of 97,000, an official report on grade and staple will be issued on every bale produced on 92,128 acres.

There are 23 Smith-Doxey organizations in New Mexico, with a total membership of 2,482 producers. This membership is composed of farmers in Eddy, Chaves, Dona Ana, Luna and Sierra Counties, and includes a total of 92,128 acres of Acala cotton. Every member of a Smith-Doxey organization is entitled to receive an official report on every bale of his cotton that is ginned. Members who have not received this service should contact their ginner or the president of the organization to which they belong and make arrangements for receiving this report.

According to reports from the El Paso office of the Division of Cotton Marketing, 6,501 bales have been graded and stapled for New Mexico producers this year in comparison with 4,689 bales for Texas and 3,745 for Arizona. Gins co-operating with the Smith-Doxey Act will find it advantageous to both the gin and customer to take full advantage of this service offered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Wayne said.

By knowing the grade and staple of every individual bale and by having the market news, the producer is in a better position to secure market prices for his cotton. In addition, he will have a definite check on the character of fiber of any new strain or variety and can better determine the effect of farm management on the grade and staple of the cotton produced.

Game Department Offers Free Maps Of State Refuges

A new revised game refuge map is off the press and a penny postal addressed to State Game Warden, Santa Fe, N. Mex., will bring one by return mail.

This map comes in two sizes and is sure a "dandy." The roads are shown accurately, the refuges are numbered and then cross indexed with their names, and it carries big game census figures. Every hunting party should have one with them, the department declares.

The following new refuges have been created this year: The Passamonte in Union County (big game and birds); the Canadian River, directly west of Mills in Harding and Mora Counties; the South Turkey Mountain, which takes in the south half of Turkey Mountain Range in Mora County; the Philturn, covering land given to Boy Scouts in Colfax County; the Ojo del Espiritu Santa, which is cut by the highway to Cuba in Sandoval County; the Maxwell Tract refuge for upland birds covering the whole Maxwell project in Colfax County; the Langford ranch for quail in Otero County. This is located in the mouth of Grapevine Canyon and replaces the Alamo Dog Canyon refuge which is abolished. The old Gallina-Bear Mountain refuge in Socorro County has been reduced in size and is now called Council Rock refuge. All these have been properly signed.

Tourists Badly Hurt in Accident Near Glenrio

Two Oklahoma tourists, identified from papers as Dr. and Mrs. James Washington Craig of Miami, Okla., were severely injured yesterday noon when their automobile overturned near Glenrio. The cause of the accident was attributed by authorities to a blow-out of the right rear tire. Dr. Craig suffered a broken leg and two fractured ribs and a number of fractured bones in his left hand. Mrs. Craig is reported suffering from a compound skull fracture. Both Dr. and Mrs. Craig were still unconscious last evening as to Mrs. Craig's condition. However, it is expected that she will be able to walk as well as can be expected.

Little Known Facts and Sidelights on Oil Industry

Museum Pieces at Work—
Minerals once rarely seen outside of museums are being dusted off and put to work by industrial researchers.

A variety of the quartz which served primitive men as arrowheads has been found highly successful in the frequency control radio sets, because of its ability to maintain a constant rate of vibration.

Mica, researchers discovered, is an excellent nonconductor of heat and electricity and its resistance to decomposition is high. These properties make it a modern essential in telephone equipment and electric appliances. Descendants of the settlers who peered at the fire through mica-isinglass stove windows gaze at exposition buildings which, under colored lights, shimmer magically in coatings of pulverized mica.

Fifteen years ago, andalusite and dumortierite, common items in mineral collections the world over, became important to the efficient functioning of the automobile. Their resistance to high temperatures and shock and their excellent insulating qualities made them highly useful in making porcelain spark plugs. None knew where these minerals could be found, but search revealed adequate deposits in California. Today, many tons are mined there annually.

Gypsum, another mineral old-timer, is used to make plaster board, outgrowth of its apprentice years as plaster of Paris. Alabaster, admired by Marco Polo in his travels and prized for centuries in Europe for vases, boxes and statuary is being used in the manufacture of modern dishes, lampshade and powder boxes.

Five years ago, the value of mineral wool produced in this country was less than two million dollars; last year it was $30,000,000, a 15-fold increase which reflects its rapidly growing use as an insulator in house building.

Dean of minerals is the diamond. For centuries its principal value was as a gem. Today, more than 65 per cent by weight of the annual diamond production is used in industry. Rapid precise machining of metal parts has become possible through the use of diamond-set tools. Small wires of uniform diameter can be manufactured by drawing them through holes of successively smaller diameter which have been pierced in diamond crystals. Industrial diamonds are of prime importance in the automobile and airplane industries.

First Tractor—
Citizens of Froelich, Ia., take pride in the fact that the inventor of the gasoline tractor was a native. They dedicated a marker recently on the spot where the first gasoline tractor was built. The marker states:

"In this village John Froelich built the first gasoline tractor that propelled itself backward as well as forward. More far-reaching in its effect than any other event in modern agricultural history, it moved out of this village and into the world in 1892."

Froelich, who operated a feed mill and elevator, got his idea from watching a steam engine being used for threshing. He noticed that in the sparsely settled Dakotas it was difficult to get water for the steam engines. Froelich realized little financial gain from his invention, although he organized a company and manufactured gasoline tractors at Waterloo.

Durability Plus—
Maximum durability is the aim of highway technicians who have evolved a steel "battle-deck" flooring cushioned with asphalt for uses on highway bridges.

After 18 months of use on heavily-traveled test sites, examination revealed no disruption of the steel plate or the asphalt, proving conclusively that such surfacing will adhere satisfactorily to steel under the most exacting traffic conditions. No skidding tendencies were observed.

Harvest Barometer—
Barometer of farming seasons is the overseas highway linking Key West with peninsular Florida. When traffic is slack on the highway, it's a sure sign that it's harvest time at home and motorists are at work.

When the Georgia and Alabama licenses disappear, highway observers know that the cotton-picking season is on. Harvest time in the midwest cuts down auto licenses from those states in the same way.

Quick-Change Artists—
On mountain highways where dressing rooms are scarce, service station men are waking up to the fact that many a motorist who drives in to change his oil remains to change his shirt!

It gives the attendant a severe jolt to come out from under the hood and discover that the travel-worn motorist at the wheel has suddenly become a Man About Town.

More upsetting is the transformation of a girl in slacks into a Marie Antoinette in a hooped-skirt evening gown. The station operators admit they're getting interested in seeing what a free brush-up and a quick change in the service station powder room can do — and they're not a little proud of most of the results.

Smooth Ewes Have Proved Superior in New Mexico Tests

Show Sixty-One Per Cent Yearly Advantage Over Tight-Fleece Type

The smooth-pelted ewes show a 61 per cent yearly advantage over tight-fleeced, heavy-pelted ewes in the production of both lambs and wool, was brought out at a meeting of sheepmen, held on the John Hinde ranch near Wagon Mound recently. This meeting was held to show the results of the first year's work on the three-year experiment being conducted by the New Mexico Experiment Station, John Hinde, Wagon Mound sheep-grower, and the New Mexico Experiment Service.

Dr. Garcia, director of the station, opened the discussion and was followed by P. E. Neale of the animal husbandry department, State College, who is in charge of this experiment. Neale explained the experiment and results in detail and stated that the long range object is to determine what breed or cross-breed of sheep is best suited to New Mexico conditions. It was planned to determine, if possible, the production of both wool and feeder lambs from the two types of range ewes, and to present data to show the effect on the production of these two kinds of ewes by cross-breeding with the most commonly used breeds of rams. Range rams were used, representing both smooth and tight-fleeced Rambouillets, in addition to Corriedales, Romney and Hampshires, and each breed of ram was bred to each type of ewe, making it possible to compare both wool and lamb production from the two kinds of ewes and from the rams crossed on them. For the purposes of the meeting, the cross-bred lambs were penned separately with signs which indicated their parentage.

Following a discussion of the experiment, George E. Ellis, extension husbandman, explained a project which the Extension Service started during the summer, to determine the weight, shrinkage and grade of New Mexico wool. Representative fleeces from all over the state were sampled and scoured in the college laboratory. Results indicate that both flock management and grade of wool produced influence shrinkage.

90-HOUR WINTER GRIND spared your OIL-PLATED engine

What wouldn't you give to have a weather prophet foretell all the worst 90 hours of Winter this year? ... and stop their assault on your car!

You could afford to give a lot, but all it takes is the ordinary price of an oil change. That's all you pay at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station for the extraordinary change to OIL-PLATING.

You need your engine OIL-PLATED now by patented Conoco Germ Processed oil to wipe out doubts of decent oiling during starting—when unplated engines wear worst. (A scant 6 or 8 minutes of such needless bad wear, repeated a scant 6 or 8 times a day through these cold months, still mounts up beyond 90 hours!) ... 90 life-sapping hours for engines abandoned to oils that can only "flow fast" ... but not one instant of oil-starvation in 90 hours or 900 hours, when your engine's OIL-PLATED.

The "magnetic" action of Germ Processed oil gives every square inch in your engine a slippery overlay of OIL-PLATING—attached as firmly as any nickel- or chromium- or silver-plating. And could any plating ever drain down when you park in any cold, for any length of time? Then you know why OIL-PLATING—drain-proof—naturally has to be ready to lubricate before you're even ready to get out of bed, or away from work, or up from the card table. Long before any oil-pump could squirt a drop, your drain-proof OIL-PLATING has readied your engine for safe, easy starting. That's exactly how you get the drop on the worst of Winter by OIL-PLATING now with patented Conoco Germ Processed oil. Keeps up your engine—your battery—your oil-level, too. Probable Reward to Mrs. Everhart from U. S. Comes by Balloon and Parachute from El Paso

Mrs. Charles Everhart of Cottonwood, west of Lake Arthur, made a find Tuesday morning in that locality which may bring to her from the United States government a reward of up to $20, a "radio-meteorograph," which traveled by air from El Paso Oct. 4, twenty days prior, a card attached disclosed.

The strange instrument, which to the layman looks like a box 4x8x8 inches with "gadgets" exposed on two sides through 4-inch holes, is a valuable miniature broadcaster used by the Weather Bureau, which signals to the ground the temperatures of the air, moisture of the air and heights at which it is traveling. It weighs 2 1/4 pounds.

On the flap of the box Mrs. Everhart found printed: "This is a radio-meteorograph, which has been released by the United States Weather Bureau. It ascended by means of a balloon and, at the greatest height, the balloon burst, returning the instrument to earth."

After relating the information the instrument broadcast, the notice continues: "This information was received on the ground. It is possible that this instrument may be used again. For this reason we offer a reward for its return. By returning this instrument you are cooperating with your government. Thank you."

The parachute by which the instrument came to earth was of red silk, about eight feet in diameter. From nine points around its circumference the chute was attached to a wicker ring, which in turn held the radio-meteorograph. The broken balloon of white rubber trailed along.

The instrument box, made of cardboard, was covered with aluminum foil, probably both to make it more easily found and to protect the "gadgets" from the weather. Trailing was a short wire, believed to be the radio antenna.

Instructions to the finder said a reward will be paid if returned within forty-five days of the time released, or longer thereafter if in good condition. Upon return of the instrument, a check for $1, $5 or $20 will be mailed, the instructions said.

A card, to be mailed to the Weather Bureau Airport Station, El Paso, from where the radio-meteorograph was released, informed Mrs. Everhart it was instrument No. W5297, which indicated many are used. They probably are more common closer to the places from which they are released throughout the country. The card also had places for the name and address of the finder, where found and the date found.

The instrument itself was mailed Tuesday afternoon, postage collect, according to instructions, by Mrs. Everhart to the Weather Bureau, Baltimore, Md., and the card to El Paso.

Observers speculated on the possible route and distance traveled by the radio-meteorograph. The estimated air distance, "as the bee flies," is about 140 miles. If the balloon took a direct route, it had to fly over the Hueco and Guadalupe Mountains in a general north-easterly direction.

Production Credit Association Men To Meet in Roswell

These officers are to meet to discuss dates and programs for the annual stockholders' meetings of these cooperative short term credit agencies for farmers and stockmen.

The conference will be attended by W. J. McMillin, secretary of the Production Credit Corporation of Wichita, the supervising and coordinating agency of the Farm Credit Administration for the forty-one production credit associations in the ninth farm credit district.

Mrs. W. T. Mitchell of San Antonio, Tex., arrived Tuesday for a ten-day visit with her daughter, Mrs. Terry Hornaday, and family. Mrs. Mitchell accompanied Mr. Hornaday home. He had been in San Antonio on business.

Long Stewardship Of E. B. Bullock Is Honored on Sunday

When E. B. Bullock dropped his contribution in the special birthday collection at the Methodist Church Sunday school Sunday morning, indicating his sixty-fifth birthday, G. E. Kaiser, superintendent, presented him a fountain pen from the school.

Lettered in gold on the pen was: "E. B. Bullock, 30 Years, Methodist Steward."

But, Mr. Bullock explained afterwards, he has been a steward of the Methodist Church about forty-three years, ever since he was a young man, serving continuously except for one year.

Bulldogs—

(continued from page 1) set up the Panthers for their first score, a completed sleeper pass, which placed the ball on the Bulldog 11-yard line. The next play, an end run, carried to the 1-yard line and then a line plunge scored with Pharr lugging it over. The try for conversion went wide. The score was Jal 6, Artesia 0, as the first quarter ended with the ball in the Bulldogs' possession on their own 47-yard line.

As the Panther gridsters went into action in the second period they began a march of power plays. But Burgess forestalled a second touchdown later in the period by nailing a Panther back, when it seemed he had a clear field, after taking a lateral. The drive continued and the half ended saved the Bulldogs from giving up another score.

The visiting Jal High School band and pep squad paraded the field at the half in a clever stunt. Field lights were turned out, concealed colored flashlights were turned on and the visitors formed pretty maneuvers in the darkness. The Artesia twirling squad later took the field and while in a "J" formation, honoring the visitors, the lights were again turned out and the squad members twirled with lighted batons.

Jal scored early in the second half on a power parade, and after pushing the Bulldogs to their own 1-yard line Pharr carried the ball over on a center plunge on the first down. The try for extra point was good.

In the opening minutes of the final quarter, Jal fought the way to the 5-foot Bulldog line, from where Pharr again scored on a line plunge. This time the try for extra point failed.

Rice's coffin-corner boot, which rolled out on the Jal 2-yard line later in the period, set the Bulldogs up for their lone score. Two Panther plays were smeared, with Burgess again breaking through to do the tackling. Jal was forced to kick on third down. The boot, although landing on the Panthers' 40-yard line, took a lucky bounce for Artesia and rolled back to the 28-yard line, where Thomason, Bulldog tackle, fell on it. For the first time in the game it was the Bulldogs' first down deep in Jal territory.

Rice shoved off a long pass to Kennedy, left end, which carried to Jal's 4-yard line and another first down. The Bulldogs scored on one of the prettiest plays of the game, a fake through the center, with a lateral to Rice, who went over standing. Three Bulldog men handled the ball. Lewis took the pass from center, faked as though to try a line buck, handed the ball to Newberry at the line of scrimmage, who lateraled to Rice to score. Captain Burgess converted to add the extra point.

Kennedy, Artesia end, kicked off to the Jal 24-yard line with Zohn, Panther back, making the nicest run of the game on the runback. He carried the ball through the entire Bulldog first string to score, only to have the play brought back on a clipping penalty. The game ended a few minutes later.

Says Unemployment Contributions Are Due by October 31

Unemployment compensation contributions for the third quarter of 1939 are now due and payable by Oct. 31 and interest charges accrue thereafter, Roy L. Cook, state chairman, has advised New Mexico employers. The amount due is 2.7 per cent of the total payrolls for July, August and September of all employers liable for contributions under the New Mexico Unemployment Compensation Act.

Employers who make their payments for the third quarter later than Oct. 31 are required by law to pay interest on all past due amounts at the rate of 1 per cent a month, Cook said.

Mrs. Van P. Welch and children, who have been visiting her mother, Mrs. J. K. DeFord, in Midland, Tex., are in Carlsbad, where they expect to spend the winter.

Fisher, Bulldog End, Breaks His Right Shoulder

Don Fisher, first string Bulldog left end, will be out of the game at Hagerman Friday and for the remainder of the season as a result of a broken right shoulder, which he sustained in scrimmage against the scrubs Wednesday afternoon.

His absence from the line-up is not expected to be as badly felt in the Artesia-Hagerman game, as in other scheduled games later in the season, but the injured regular end will be missed. Fisher has played enough time already this season to get his letter, Coach Joe Greeno said.

The Bulldogs are now without two of their best men, Bobbie Ferguson retiring for the season several weeks ago when he underwent an operation for appendicitis. Ferguson has been able to get out of the last few days.

Greeno said this morning Fisher will be replaced at end by Eugene Scoggins, who has been playing at left tackle, in which position he has been showing up well.

Although football fans have their eyes on the all-valley game between Artesia and Hagerman Friday at Hagerman, wide interest is being shown in the Carlsbad-Jal game scheduled to be played at the Cave City Friday evening between the two undefeated teams.

Jal won over Artesia here last Friday, suffering the only score against an otherwise clean slate for the season at the hands of the Bulldogs, who did not feel upset over the game, for Jal is rated as one of the strongest teams in the state. But the Carlsbad Cavemen also are in that class and they are old Artesia rivals, so local fans are splitting their attention between that game and the one in which the Bulldogs are playing.
