Alfalfa Growers Declare a $47,841 Dividend And Elect Directors After Banquet Tuesday

Snyder, Head of Wichita Coop Bank, "Stuttering Sam" Heard on Program at Hotel in Noon-day Affair.

BUSINESS MEETING

Wives See Movie While Men Elect Charles Martin, Funk and House.

Members of the Artesia Alfalfa Growers Association and their wives and guests enjoyed one of the greatest farmers' get-togethers ever held in the valley at a noonday banquet Tuesday, then at a business meeting the men declared a $47,841.31 dividend for the last year and held the annual election of directors.

Not only did the farmers and guests hear an enlightening talk on cooperatives by Ralph Snyder, president of the Wichita (Kan.) Bank for Cooperatives, nearly roll off their chairs as Elmer Hunter of Amarillo, better known as "Stuttering Sam," performed, and have other splendid entertainment, but they took part in the best banquet the association has had in many years.

And while the wives of the members attended the Ocotillo Theater in a body after the banquet, the association men "cut their pumpkin" and had a good business meeting, at which reports showed the fine shape in which the cooperative is at this time. The "pumpkin" of $47,841.31 for the fiscal year ending March 1 was greater than in any prior year since the association was founded in 1922, since when total dividends were greater than $366,000.

Artie McAnally, manager of the association, who served as toastmaster at the banquet, reported that the group now has 240 members, about the same as a year ago. Attending the banquet, he said, were 209 persons, of whom 180 were served on the Roof Garden of the Artesia Hotel, the twenty-nine constituting the overflow crowd being served in the Coffee Shop, then going to the Roof Garden for the program.

At the annual meeting, Charles Martin, was re-elected director to succeed himself, Jesse I. Funk was elected to succeed Tom Terry and Lidia House was named to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of W. R. Hornbaker nearly a year ago.

Directors who carry over are Ed Taylor, L. P. Glasscock, V. L. Gates and I. S. Reser. The board will meet next week to organize.

Snyder in his talk, which was humorous as well as highly instructive, said cooperatives in order to thrive must have volume, an understanding of the board members of what is going on, the members must be kept informed and they must have good management, that loyalty might be maintained.

He cited the growth of cooperatives throughout the country and said that farmers, contrary to the old saying that they will not stick (Continued on last page, col. 2)

Keith Miller and J. H. Mitchell Are Seriously Injured

J. H. Mitchell of Artesia and Keith Miller of the Franklin Petroleum Co. lease in the oil fields were seriously injured about 5 o'clock Wednesday evening on the second dip in the highway south of Artesia, when the automobile of Miller went out of control, left the road and was demolished.

They were rushed to Artesia Memorial Hospital, where it was said this morning they were doing nicely.

Miller, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, is suffering from internal injuries.

Mitchell sustained a lacerated knee and a fractured ankle. The men had been to the farm fifteen miles south of Artesia of Mitchell's parents and were returning to Artesia when the accident happened.

MANN DRUG GOES TO NEW LIGHTING

The Mann Drug Company store joined the ranks this week of Artesia places of business which are using the new fluorescent lighting. Fixtures were installed Tuesday and the lights were first used that night, flooding the store as though illuminated by the sun. It was the third installation within a week.

Goat Ropers Will Play Coronado Men In the Centennial

Vote Monday to Appear in Pageant With Their Fiery Steeds

Members of the Artesia Goat Ropers Club on Friday, April 26, will temporarily abandon the sport of attempting to overtake and rope goats while forking spirited hoeses, and will don the garb of old Spanish Dons in order to do their stuff in the last day's activities of the Coronado Cuarto Centennial pageant in Artesia.

Not only will they appear as members of Coronado's forces when they entered this country in 1540, but in subsequent scenes will represent United States soldiers, Indians and cowboys, the last named of which will come closest to their roles in their weekly goat roping activities at the arena west of the city.

The club voted at the monthly meeting Monday evening at the city hall to give full cooperation to Mrs. C. E. Robinson, director of the Coronado activities in Artesia, and to appear in the pageant with their horses.

Carl Folkner, president, appointed Frank Smith to contact Mrs. Robinson and get full details as to garb, times of rehearsals and the actual performance, which is expected to attract considerable attention in this section.

The members also voted to buy "Levis," which is a fancy name for cowboy denim trousers, the (Continued on last page, col. 2)

Young Methodists Hear Bishop Holt Speak at Roswell

John Rice, president of the Pecos Valley Union of the young people of the Methodist Church and son of the Rev. and Mrs. John S. Rice of Artesia, presided last evening at a youth rally at the First Methodist Church of Roswell, at which Bishop Ivan Lee Holt of Dallas, Tex., spoke on "Youth and United Methodism."

About twenty-five young people from the Artesia Methodist Church attended. Valley towns represented, besides Artesia and Roswell, were Carlsbad, Lake Arthur, Hagerman and Darter. A number of adults also attended.

Bishop Holt was heard Wednesday morning in Hagerman on his official call there by persons from all parts of the Pecos Valley.

Emery Carper Nominated for Artesia Mayor

Vote Unanimous for Oil Man at Mass Meetings Monday and Tuesday—Other Candidates Are Named.

Emery Carper, well-known oil man, who has been generally talked for mayor of Artesia, subject to the municipal election Tuesday, April 2, was nominated for that office at a citizens' mass meeting at the city hall Monday evening and again at a second mass meeting at the Artesia Hotel Tuesday evening.

The nomination of Carper was unanimous at both meetings, where supporting candidates also were nominated.

In order to complete a city ticket, five men were nominated for aldermen, one from each ward except the third, where Fred Brainard was nominated to fill out the unexpired term of Carper, who, if elected, will resign. The full term for councilman being four years, Brainard was nominated as a candidate for member of the council for two years by each group.

The supporting ticket named at the mass meeting Monday evening: In the third ward Leland Price was nominated for the full term, to fill a vacancy caused when J. R. Atteberry moved to Alamogordo. A. G. Glasser, councilman from the first ward, whose term expires, was nominated to succeed himself, as was W. H. Gilmore of the second ward.

M. G. Schulze was nominated for councilman from the fourth ward to succeed Albert Richards. Besides Carper for mayor and Brainard to fill out his unexpired term as alderman from the third ward, nominations Tuesday evening were:

Alderman, first ward, Ben Pior; second ward, J. K. Wallingford; third ward, Jim Ferguson; fourth ward, Tom Hefflin.

W. H. Ballard, police judge, was named as a candidate to succeed himself at both meetings.

At the Monday evening meeting C. E. Mann was elected mass meeting chairman and J. S. Ward clerk. Carl Folkner served as chairman at the meeting Tuesday evening and Elmer Perry as clerk.

Present councilmen, whose terms do not expire for two years and will carry over: First ward, V. D. Bolton; second, C. O. Brown; fourth, Arba Green.

Funeral arrangements had not been made as The Advocate went to press.

The gasser is the Franklin, McIntyre No. 2-A, in SE SE section 20-17-30, which was completed at a total depth of 1,819 feet. Gas sand was encountered from 1,720 to 1,725 feet.

The other completions: Premier, Beeson 4-F, NE SW 31-17-30; total depth 2,831 feet; flowed 160 barrels in 14 hours through 4-inch choke.

Fred W. Bloxom, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Roswell, was elected vice president and Fred Cole, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Artesia, was named secretary-treasurer.

Principal topics discussed at the meeting were: "Wagner Wage and Hour Laws," "The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and Its Relations to Public Funds" and "Laws and Regulations Regarding Collateral Deposits Out of the State of New Mexico."

More than thirty bankers were present from Artesia, Roswell, Carlsbad, Hagerman, Hobbs and Alamogordo. Besides Watson and Cole, the bank here was represented by S. O. Pottorff, vice president, and William Linell, assistant cashier.

Maloney Official Announces Shifts In Territories

J. C. Highfill of Tulsa, Okla., general manager for the Maloney Tank Company, has been here since last week working with Carl Folkner, district manager, in checking through New Mexico and Western Texas in regard to yards, crews and salesmen.

In a shifting of territories in this region, Highfill said Folkner's territory is being increased to include all of New Mexico and West Texas.

N. B. (Pat) Garner, formerly of Artesia, who recently was transferred from Wink, Tex., to Midland, is now being transferred to Fort Worth as salesman. Roy Guthrie is being shifted to Midland to handle sales and service.

Highfill will remain here about another week.

College Glee Club Of Westminster Will Sing Here

A well-balanced musical diet of rousing sea-chanteys, old folksongs, familiar light operatic airs, stirring anthems and novelty and college songs will be offered Artesia when the Westminster College Glee Club from Fulton, Mo., sings here at the First Presbyterian Church at a special 5 o'clock vesper service Sunday.

The twenty-three young men, under the direction of Prof. Robert F. Karsch, will highlight their hour program with popular novelty quartet numbers.

The appearance of the Glee Club will be a part of a week's concert tour through Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. Among other performances on its schedule is a concert in the Carlsbad Caverns Monday.

On its tour last year, the club attracted wide attention with a "streamlined" version of the "Star Spangled Banner," in which voice-breaking high notes were eliminated and the words were modernized.

The Rev. Henry S. Stout, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, said the general public is invited to attend and hear the Glee Club.

At least five men in Artesia are alumni of Westminster College, including the Rev. Mr. Stout, R. L. Paris, Martin Yates, Jr., and Wallace and John Gates.

Little Theater Takes Definite Place in City

Presentation Friday Evening of "The Silver Chord" Success—Band Shares in Net Proceeds of Production.

The presentation Friday evening in the auditorium of Artesia Junior-Senior High School of "The Silver Chord," first major production of the Little Theater of Artesia, proved to the community that there is great dramatic talent here and made members of the organization feel they are taking a step in the right direction, by way of providing live talent plays in a locality where they otherwise never would be seen.

"The Silver Chord" was better than any home talent play presented here in recent years, in the opinion of many members of the audience, who pointed out the talent of the actors, the direction of Mrs. C. E. Robinson, permanent director of the Little Theater, and Mrs. Louis Blackburn, production director, and the organized efforts of members making it possible.

The Little Theater of Artesia definitely took its place in the activities of the Artesia community, and those who saw "The Silver Chord" are looking forward to subsequent presentations, the next of which will not be until next fall, according to present plans of the group.

The school band shares in the proceeds of the production, which were not as large as had been expected, but which were encouraging to the Little Theater. The play grossed about $80, from which, after expenses are paid, the band will receive half of the net for use towards buying new uniforms.

Outstanding in performance was Mrs. Arthur Shaw of Hagerman, who played the difficult part of Mrs. Phelps, widowed mother of two sons, whom she has reared to believe she is the perfection of womanhood. A selfish woman, Mrs. Phelps is jealous of her daughter-in-law, Christina, ably portrayed by Mrs. Arthur Paton, and Mrs. Shaw caught and passed on the character of the mother.

Mrs. Paton, as the cultured and charming Christina, could not have been better cast. Equally difficult was the part of Hester, fiancée of Mrs. Phelps' younger son, in which Mrs. D. C. Blue played the role of a young (Continued on last page, col. 4)

BROTHER-IN-LAW, PARTNER OF J. S. WORLEY, KILLED

Dr. M. A. Beasley of Matteson, Tenn., brother-in-law and partner on the farm southeast of Artesia of J. S. Worley, was killed in an automobile accident Saturday night, according to word received here Sunday morning by Mr. Worley. The accident happened while Dr. Beasley was on a professional call.

He had been here a number of times on visits and on business.

U. S. Senator Wires Advocate, Along With News of Final Approval by Civil Aeronautics Authority of Extension.

TO GATHER DATA

Chamber Committee to Furnish Information—No Bond Issue Vote.

Artesia may be included shortly in the extension of Continental Airlines' route from El Paso to Albuquerque by way of the Pecos Valley, Dennis Chavez, United States senator from New Mexico, wired this newspaper Saturday, along with the news that the Civil Aeronautics Authority just had given final approval to the extension.

The airport committee of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Emery Carper, has known for several weeks that Senator Chavez was assured Artesia will be given consideration and that he felt this city will be included in the stops in the Pecos Valley before long. However, no announcement was made publicly until released for publication in the senator's telegram Saturday.

Senator Chavez in a telegram to the editor of this newspaper, former chairman of the airport committee, last month requested pertinent information regarding Artesia and airport plans in order that he might work for the city from the Washington end. Preliminary information already has been furnished the senator and the committee is planning to make a complete survey of facts needed by the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the Post Office Department.

Act Is Declared Unconstitutional By Supreme Court

Knocked Out Over 25 Cent Fee. Because of Dual Provisions

The 1939 capitol remodeling act was declared unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court Tuesday in a unanimous opinion written by District Judge Bryan Johnson of Albuquerque, sitting for Justice A. L. Zinn.

The court held that the act, by its dual provisions for statehouse improvement and acquisition of new state park sites, violated a section of the state constitution limiting statutes to a single subject.

"We cannot escape the conclusion that two unrelated subjects are embraced in the bill," said Judge Johnson in summing up the opinion.

The ruling affirmed a Chavez County District Court judgment, in which Judges James B. McGhee found in favor of Henry D. Johnson in a suit for recovery of a 25-cent fee charged him by the county clerk for filing a chattel mortgage. Johnson had paid the fee under protest, alleging the capitol remodeling act, which created the filing fee, was invalid.

The 1939 statute set up a $750,000 bond issue, backed by a 25-cent fee to be charged on each instrument filed by county clerks and a 50-cent fee for each instrument. (Continued on last page, col. 1)

Carlsbad, which is to have a $50,000 bond election April 2, hopes to hold construction costs of the airport there to $35,000 through a plan worked out by Sam Sampson, city engineer. Hobbs likewise is planning to (Continued on last page, col. 6)

Contestants Run Neck and Neck at End of First Period

As the first period in The Advocate's Goodwill Subscription Campaign draws to a close—it will be at 9 o'clock Friday evening, March 15—it still is anybody's race.

Mrs. S. O. Higgins held the lead for almost a week. But Mrs. Dan Watson, up to Wednesday afternoon had a slight lead over her. And Tracy Wilcox, campaign manager, said this morning, the Wednesday night report, which had not been completely figured up to press time, can again change this position.

Mrs. James Dew, Mrs. Pat Gormley, Mrs. Charlie Buck, Mrs. Roy Langston, Mrs. Ruth Sarvey, Miss Clementine Cobble and Mrs. Eunice Curtis of the Flying H are bunched so closely behind these two that any one of them with just a little more and some effort can change everything, Wilcox said.

The campaign has thinned down to the real workers, the manager said this morning, and from here to the end it is work and work alone that will make the winners. Of course, he added, it is essential to them to have the support of their friends and acquaintances.

"These high type workers are certainly worthy of your support," Wilcox said. "Without this support, effort will be wasted."

So far, Mrs. Langston has the prize subscription, Wilcox said this morning, for "Governor Miles sent us a check with Mrs. Langston as his candidate. This shows that our paper, as well as our contestants, are well thought of in New Mexico." However, Wilcox did not know that Gov. Miles was a regular reader of The Advocate even before the contest began.

After the first period closes at 9 o'clock Friday evening, March 15, the vote value drops approximately 20 per cent. Now is the time your subscription dollar goes the furthest. Help your favorite now!

Rotary Walks in on Lions And Hears Splendid Talk

Members of the Rotary Club, which gave up its regular meeting Tuesday noon on the Artesia Hotel Roof Garden in favor of the Artesia Alfalfa Growers' Association, "walked in" on the Lions Wednesday noon in what was supposed to be a surprise visit.

Some of the Rotarians, however, thought the Lions had prior information, for they had devised various means of fining the visitors in order to swell the milk fund.

But the Lions had provided an exceptional program, a talk by Dr. H. A. Zimmerman of Phoenix, general secretary of Baptist work in Arizona, a missionary in Brazil for six years, who told of the beauties, the immensity and potentialities of that nation. However, the speaker said, his greatest interest there was the possibility of developing men, the greatest need of any country.

Members of both service clubs were surprised to learn that Brazil is larger than the United States and Alaska, embracing 3 1/2 million square miles, that there is one state more than twice as large as Texas and that there are a number greater in area than New Mexico.

Brazil, said Dr. Zimmerman, is largely unexplored and few people live in the vast interior. The greater part of the population is in the coast cities, the largest of which is Rio de Janeiro, with 2 1/2 million people.

A great possibility lies in Brazil's agriculture, Dr. Zimmerman said, and that country can run the United States a race in cotton, for plants there produce for as long as three years. The agricultural development has been little, for Brazil is "the land of the hoe," with practically no machinery as yet in use. However, prior to the war in Europe, Germany, England and the United States vied with (Continued on last page, col. 5)

BUT SERIOUSLY, AIN'T WE GOT FUN?

The Carlsbad Current-Argus headlined Sunday: "Furore Arises Over Loco Hills Road," and went on to tell of a three-sided controversy last week between The Advocate and two of the Carlsbad newspapers (Max Thomas' Eddy County News did not get in the discussion). And wisely The Current-Argus concluded the story: "Confucius say: That too much money to throw away in two-bit scrap!"

We agree with "Skipper" Rigdon on his stand. But ain't we got fun! Of course, it is somewhat more than a "two-bit scrap"—each of three newspapers putting in its bit—but it is nothing for the two cities to get up in arms over. The matter of a road serving the Loco Hills is one in which the two cities should cooperate—in fact, that is what we quoted Governor Miles as declaring must be done, if there is to be a road.

Although The Current-Argus Tuesday of last week, in the story which started the general fireworks, did not say the road which Artesia would support to the Loco Hills was to be a direct, "beeline" shot from the oil field to the Cave City, it was generally understood here that was the proposed route. And that was the reason for our belligerent stand last week.

Certainly, Artesia will support a road from the Loco Hills, but it must connect Highways 83 and 62 not only by way of the hills region, but must connect with the present surfaced road to the property of the Potash Company of America. That's all we demand!

Rigdon's newspaper said Sunday: "We realize that Carlsbad, Artesia and the oil men want that Loco Hills road—so it would seem equally foolish for any of us to get so involved in an imaginary brawl that we lose sight of the issue at stake."

"That road means thousands of dollars to both cities, and to the oil industry."

Amen!

HERE COMES APRIL AGAIN

Just a year ago, with the approach of April, we advised that everybody cross his fingers and count ten.

Perhaps that might be a good idea again. We pointed out at that time that the majority of conflicts in which the United States has participated started in April, that the fourth month seems to be the belligerent one.

The world passed over April, 1939, with the dogs of war still in leash, but ready to be set free at any time. It was not until September that they were unleashed.

Quite definitely European powers are trying to draw us into the several scraps going on there, by means of propaganda and otherwise, but we hope we are smart enough to keep out.

But we must not forget April, 1917, nor must we lose sight of the fact we have dangerous days ahead.

With this thought in mind and an idea we might mention it this week, in walked W. P. Boggs with a clipping from another publication about United States history in April. This might be a good time and place to recount what that clipping said:

"Did you know that five of America's great wars commenced in April, that the Civil War ended and America's greatest tragedy occurred in this same month?"

"Here are the facts:
"The Revolution began April 19, 1775, at Lexington and Concord.

"The Mexican War began April 24, 1846, on the Texas frontier.
"The Civil War began April 12, 1861, with the bombardment of Fort Sumner, S. C.

"The Spanish-American War began April 19, 1898.

"The United States declared war on Germany April 6, 1917.

"The Civil War closed with Lee's surrender at Appomattox and Lincoln was assassinated in April, 1865."

Let us hope that we can "make the grade" not only during April, 1940, but for all time.

We can and will, if we tend to our knitting, build up a greater national defense, stamp out Communism and other subversive influences and everyone goes to building for a greater United States of America.

NOTE TO PUBLISHER: ORDER MORE NEWS PRINT

It really is quite enlightening to watch the contestants in our subscription contest work.

The first few days, many of them complained that other contestants already had called on the same people they were soliciting for subscriptions. They feared the field had been covered and that as far as they were concerned the contest was over.

But as time went on, each contestant became more and more enthusiastic about the whole thing, buckled down to work and began to have a good time doing it.

And the funny thing about it is that the longer the contest runs, the more interest is shown both by contestants and the general public, and the subscriptions keep coming in.

WHAT'S WHAT

NEW MEXICO

News Briefs of the "Sunshine State," Gleaned from Many Sources

Three Wisconsin youths who plan to make a canoe trip across New Mexico next fall will have to carry their own water, the Santa Fe Chamber of Commerce commented. The boys wrote they intended to use their canoe all the way from Wisconsin to California, entering New Mexico above El Paso, going up the Rio Grande to La Joya, and taking the Rio Puerco from there to Defiance. Chamber officials replied that the Puerco and Middle Rio Grande—however they might appear on a map—wouldn't ordinarily float a 20-foot canoe, and that so far as they knew there was no stream of any sort crossing the continental divide.

New Mexico's 1940 tourist traffic may include two women cyclists from Minnesota. The State Tourist Bureau received a request for New Mexico literature from a Minnesota school teacher and a seamstress, who said they planned to bicycle to New Mexico, if they could find somebody to sponsor their trip.

Seventy cases of whooping cough were reported to the State Health Department during the week ending March 7, compared with 23 the previous week.

Adj. Gen. R. C. Charlton said actual conversion of the 111th Cavalry to anti-aircraft was expected to start April 25. By that time, he said, the guard expected to have most of its new equipment, except the 37-millimeter automatics.

The annual convention of the United Postal Employees of New Mexico will be held in Tucumcari May 10, 11 and 12, it was announced by W. A. Welsh, president of the organization. In addition to the United sessions, meetings will also be held there at the same time by the six other organizations of postal employees: New Mexico Chapter of National Association of Postmasters, New Mexico Branch of National Association of Postal Supervisors, New Mexico State Federation of Post Office Clerks, New Mexico State National Association of Letter Carriers, Albuquerque Branch of Railway Mail Service Association and New Mexico Rural Letter Carrier's Association.

The federal government helped New Mexico to the extent of $4,343,790 during the fiscal year 1939 prepared by J. D. Hannah, chief assistant state comptroller, commented the district court and Judge McGhee for "his conservative and economical management of his court fund," and praised Mrs. Marcellie A. Puckett as being "highly efficient and her records are in excellent condition." The audit was made by the state comptroller's office at the request of Judge McGhee.

Assistant Attorney General A. M. Fernandez held that certificates of nomination for municipal elections must be filed at least 15 days before the voting, in order to be included in the election proclamation. A voter moving from one voting division to another in the same precinct may vote in the old division if his registration has not been changed, he held.

Troops of the New Mexico mounted patrol will hold a state meeting, with competition in riding, pistol-shooting and roping April 6 and 7 at Albuquerque, it was announced. Established troops are at Santa Fe, Las Vegas and Albuquerque, with one at Gallup.

The Elephant Butte fish hatchery will have the largest output of fish for planting this year of any season in its history, T. F. Nelson of the hatchery said. Last year, about 1,000,000 young bass and crappie were turned into Elephant Butte and Caballo Lakes. Nelson estimated this year the two lakes and drainage ditches between Caballo and El Paso would get about 1,500,000 from the local hatchery.

Homer Pickens, district game warden, last week released the remainder of 100 Gambel quail trapped at the old Albert Fall ranch at Three Rivers. Forty of the birds were released from near Albuquerque north to Bernadillo. Pickens released 60 of the birds between Belen and Albuquerque.

Roosevelt County, famed far and wide for its potato industry, also produced plenty of peanuts in 1939. In fact, two millions pounds more peanuts were raised in the county during the year than have ever been raised before, according to a survey conducted by Frank Craddock, secretary of the Portales Chamber of Commerce. Although the yield was greater in 1939, Craddock pointed out, the demand has increased so much that instead of creating a market surplus there is actually a shortage of peanuts on the market.

After a bolt of lightning burned out a 7,500-watt transformer at Carlsbad recently it was discovered the thing had been in service for 35 years and had been used originally at the St. Louis World's Fair of 1904. Electrical engineers said the stamina of the ancient transformer "was remarkable" and the company that built it regained possession of it for "sentimental reasons."

Eleven ducks pioneering it across the United States by way of New Mexico in an airliner made history last week. One of them laid an egg at 11,000 feet. Shipped from San Francisco to Washington, D. C., the birds were to be released at Roaches Run, Va., by Interior Secretary Ickes to see whether they will make the 3,000-mile jaunt back to California under their own power. The ducks little knew their part in the experiment by the U. S. Biological Survey, which wants to know if they'll choose the Atlantic Coast's migratory trails in preference to the long flight back home. Before being crated, the ducks were ankle banded—each band bearing a request that finders notify the Biological Survey.

A report was received in Roswell last week from the state comptroller's office, covering the audit of the District Court in Chaves County. The report, prepared by J. D. Hannah, chief assistant state comptroller, commented the district court and Judge McGhee for "his conservative and economical management of his court fund," and praised Mrs. Marcellie A. Puckett as being "highly efficient and her records are in excellent condition." The audit was made by the state comptroller's office at the request of Judge McGhee.

Receipts of the state land office for February were $253,085.14, up $31,860.78 from those of the month last year, Commissioner Frank Worden reported. Oil and gas royalties supplied $159,565.83 of the revenues, with rentals bringing $64,789.01.

Fourteen persons were killed in 66 automobile accidents in New Mexico in January, Director Al S. Roughton of the Drivers' License Division reported. Ten of the victims were involved in 30 accidents in which the drivers were going "straight ahead."

"PUTTING THE 'R' INTO PERSONALITY" (Resourcefulness)

Most of the unexplored regions of the world may have been discovered, but what a field lies ahead for the mental Columbus, the thinking Peary, the planning Byrd. Physical adventure promises not half the thrill of mental adventure. Physical life brings happiness, but mental life brings interests—a consuming, absorbing interest. What a pity it is, that a person, young or old, cannot shut out the world, open a book, and go forth on an adventure of romance, travel, biography, history or business. What a shame to see so many mental lives slow down after school days are over. So many forget the necessity of everlasting studying if they expect to get anywhere. Real personality must have resourcefulness.

Interest in New Spanish Church Is On the Increase

Increasing interest is being shown in services at the new Mexican Methodist Church, the Rev. Constantino Gonzales, pastor, said Monday when here to hold services. The church now has seats, but not of the best, he said, and they need repairing before they will best serve their purpose. As his own people cannot do much towards this expense and other necessities in order that regular services be continued, the Spanish pastor asked that their friends among the Anglos again give the church some financial aid. One important expense, he said, is plaster for the church. The pastor said everyone always is welcome to attend services and he and his people will be glad for all to join in with them. He called attention to his radio sermon from Carlsbad each Monday morning and his Spanish classes over the air each Tuesday and taled $375,666.64, against $335,657.49 for February last year, Director P. E. Culver reported.

The State Tourist Bureau, anticipating a record drivel year for 1940, has prepared for free distribution 1,200,000 pieces of descriptive literature about New Mexico. Director Joseph Bursay said. The literature includes the 1940 state highway map, and historic trails map in full color and a Coronado Cuarto Centennial-New Mexico booklet. The Coronado New Mexico booklet is a condensation of three booklets issued last year, and includes points of major scenic and historic interest in the state.

Artesia's Go-to-Church Program "JESUS OF NAZARETH PASSETH BY"

(By Member Ministerial Alliance)

The name of Jericho awakens memories for the Bible reader, both pleasant and unpleasant. It is a pleasant memory to think of the original Jericho, the town first conquered by the hosts of Israel, under Joshua. It is an unpleasant memory to think of the present town of Jericho, filled with filthy Arabs, infested with fleas and other vermin, and its most glaring indication of modernness, the sign at the main hotel in Arabic, Hebrew and English offering "ice cold beer" to travellers on the road down from Jerusalem.

To that city, set in the midst of a strange plain, surrounded by heavily-laden and sweet-scented orange groves, came Jesus. In that city a blind beggar, depending on the passerby for both food and information. Hearing the clamor of the passing throng, he asked what it means. The reply was: "Jesus of Nazareth passeth by!"

It was true. It is always true. It is true everywhere. Jericho might have been our city. The first century might have been the twentieth century. Jesus, the Divine Son of God, is ever passing.

Jesus of Nazareth, passing by, is exceedingly near each of us, when we are engaged in the dull, ordinary, uninteresting duties of the day. Routine is life, and life is routine. When we are performing our daily tasks, the Divine Comrade comes close. Moses met God face to face when tending sheep in an Asian wilderness. James and John were called into apostleship by Christ when engaged in such an uninspiring and humdrum task as that of washing nets. Matthew heard the Master say, "Follow Me," when sitting at the dreary and unappreciative job of collecting tax money. Although God is the supreme lover of the beautiful, He comes closer to men in duty than in beauty. Obedience to noninspiring and uninteresting commands often results in God's benediction.

Jesus of Nazareth passing by, comes closer to us in the magic moments of life, in the great moments, when minutes or hours stand out as though all the spotlights of the world were focused upon them. What are some of the great moments when God is so close to us?

One such moment is that when a man chooses his life calling. Life is composed of decisions, a few of which are so fundamental that they effect all others through the years. Such a decision is that of a life calling.

Another great moment is when a great friendship or a mighty love is born.

Another great moment is when a couple looks for the first time into the tiny face of the new life entrusted to their keeping. At that hour if never before, a sense of responsibility of dependence comes, and the heart cries out for aid from a Divine Hand.

There are other great moments. Maybe a cry from the past which lifts one into intimacy with the Master. When victory is achieved at great cost, when hopes come out of the gloom. Such moments are holy moments; Jesus of Nazareth passeth by.

Then again, Jesus of Nazareth passeth in the unheralded hours of gloom. Jesus passeth by in those moments when high hopes die, when far-off horizons fill with dense clouds, and when firm faith flickers. It may take such experiences to make us stop long enough to comprehend the presence of God. What is a pearl? Where found? A pearl comes from an oyster. Some foreign substance finds its way into the shell of a living oyster, something that wounds and slays unless healed. Around this foreign substance grows something healing. This becomes a pearl. A wound, and the healing thereof—what a picture of a human soul—thrown back in dire need upon God!

The heroine in Frank R. Adams' novel, "Help Yourself to Happiness," hears her father say: "When you've got your back against the wall, then you're in the best possible position to win a fight against odds. You know there is something solid behind you. And when you arrive at a point where you have to say, 'There's no help for me,' and you really mean there isn't any help for you but God, and believe that, you'll get it. You've got to—there isn't anything else. Take a chance—put your trust in Whoever it is Who makes you breathe when you're asleep." And we know that person is Christ our Lord. Out of the shadows always cometh God. Jesus of Nazareth passeth by!

BRIEF FORM

From Near and Far, Some Timely, Some of Human Interest

The Paducah, Ky., fire department's hook and ladder truck can be counted on to get there despite a little motor trouble. Fire Chief Ray Wilkins, who's had trouble replacing a worn out part in the old truck's engine, said he would have it towed by a wrecker to any downtown fire.

Even the cats are tough in Washington. Amid clanging steel and 3,000 bustling men, a cat gave birth to four kittens atop Grand Coulee Dam. She's raising them up there, too.

At Springfield, Ill., Lee Becker, a strong believer in individual initiative, went just a little too far when he made his own license plates. Policemen, attracted by the brilliant lustre of the tags and an early series number, arrested Becker, who told them he had fashioned the plates out of a stove pipe.

Eight-year-old Larry Dean Schnase is no stranger at a hospital in Hastings, Nebr. At present he's recovering from a double mastoid operation. Two years ago he was there with a fractured thigh. When he was a year old he underwent a first operation for double mastoid. Three weeks afterward he returned to have his tonsils removed.

Four Worms are seeking to turn their last names. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Worm and Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Worm of South Bend, Ind., filed a petition to change their names to Warren because their present monickers "have constantly exposed us to ridicule and embarrassment." The male Worms are twins.

While the cops are away, the bad peeples will play. The cops—Policemen Martin Kruse and Dennis Reilly—came back to their cars in Indianapolis after an absence to discover the bad peeples had stolen their rubber slatsticks, notebooks and pads of stickers.

A. Stanley Jackson had no trouble getting excused from jury duty in Seattle. He told the judge his wife was in a hospital. "What's the matter with her?" asked the jurist. "She just had a baby and I haven't seen it."

Professorial dignity underwent something of a let-down at Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Ia., because a student janitor was in a rush to meet his "date." He accidentally locked two professors in a chapel washroom after a public lecture. They were released in a half-hour, their knuckles bleeding from door pounding.

At Mexico, Mo., bootblack R. T. Scott, advertised shoe shines at 5 cents a foot. It brought him a dime on most jobs. Then the ad backfired. Customer Forrest Arnold asked for an 8-cent shine, claiming his feet are not two-feet long.

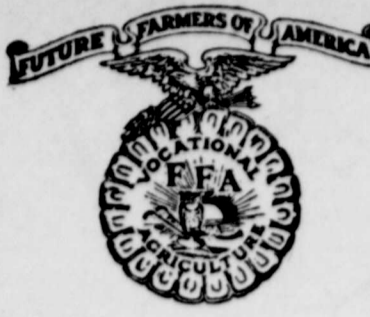

Executive Frank Lea of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation signed his name "F. Lea" until he got a letter addressed to "Mr. Flea."

Mildred Thrift, 26, of Sapulpa, Okla., is recovering from her fifteenth operation in 10 years. Every operation was for something different. "I hope this is my last one," she sighed.

The burglar who tried to break into Detective Sergeant Anto Pszanowski's home in Omaha, Nebr., left Anton cold. Shirtless and shoeless, Pszanowski pursued the invader for a block and a half over ice-glazed streets, but the man escaped.

Thieves who had worked hard with sledge hammers to break open a safe in the Dayton, Ia., school probably were fit to be tied when they found it contained less than $2. And to add to their discomfiture—the safe was unlocked all the time.

So vivid was Margie Rhodes' dream that someone was stealing her chickens at her home in Shreveport, La., that she dressed at dawn and rushed out to check

Both classes of vocational agriculture boys attended the alfalfa hay grading demonstration presented by the Extension Service, at the Artesia Alfalfa Growers Association Tuesday morning of last week.

Speakers at the demonstration were W. A. Wunch, extension economist of New Mexico; Clayborn Wayne, extension agronomist, and H. A. Harlan, government specialist in the uses of hay.

The talks and demonstrations covered the grades and grading of hay, its various uses and the different types of fertilizers one may use and their benefit in the production of alfalfa hay.

up. She found 58 of her 60 chickens had been stolen during the night. Two roosters were left.

Friends bet Harold Prommel, Colorado University sophomore, $1.50 he couldn't stay all night in a tree. He did it. "It got kind of chilly, but I got paid in full," he said. "Now I'm going to have a date."

Maybe the Des Moines, Ia., stenographer was doing some Leap Year dreaming on this one. Iowa social welfare officials told of old age pension correspondence in which this question appeared: "What is the source of the applicant's spouse?" The word "spouse" inadvertently had been substituted for "income" in the transcription.

Guild Sponsors Springtime Style Revue and Silver Tea on Monday

A springtime atmosphere was created Monday evening when a lovely style revue and silver tea, sponsored by the Young Woman's Guild of the Christian Church, assisted by local musicians, was presented in the Artesia High School auditorium.

The models, Misses Bettyne Lanning, Jessyle Cunningham, Gertrude Morgan and Norma Mayes and Mmes. Ralph Barr, Wainright Miller, C. F. Welch, Wallace Gates and Robert Ohemus, very charmingly modeled morning outfits, sport costumes, street dresses, afternoon frocks, Easter bonnets and floor length formal gowns from People's Mercantile Company, Baldwin's Store and the Toggery Shop. Pauline Maack corsages were furnished by the Junior Woman's Club.

An added feature to the style show was two cute little pages, Gail Hopkins, dressed in a dainty pink crepe, and Maureen Barrett, dressed as a little gentleman in black slacks with a white satin long-sleeve blouse. They appeared from an archway at the back of the stage and announced each number.

The stage was beautifully set with potted plants and cut flowers forming a colorful background for the new spring styles.

A selection of musical numbers of airy springtime compositions rendered by talented musicians added to the pleasure of the occasion. A model song by the guild sextette, Mrs. J. Vernon Wheeler, Mrs. Ruth Fields, Mrs. L. F. McCroxy, Mrs. Britton Coll, Miss Gerda Smith and Miss Natalie Murdock, marked the opening of the outstanding event. Other musical numbers presented on the program were two violin duets by Miss Shirley Bartlett and Louis Story; two numbers by the Woman's Club trio, Mrs. Wallace Gates, Mrs. M. C. Ross and Mrs. I. L. Spratt, and personnel violin ensembles by Miss Shirley Bartlett, Miss Helen Wells, Miss Mattie Frances Vaught and Louis Story and Mrs. Doris Welbourne, accompanied by Mrs. Joanna Gerhardt, Mrs. Wallace Gates and Mrs. I. L. Spratt.

Immediately after the style revue a lovely appointed tea was served in the home economics division of the high school with the members of the guild, dressed in beautiful formal gowns, as hostesses. Lace laid tea tables were centered with peach blossoms and cyclamens, with light green tapers in crystal holders on either side.

Presiding at the double service were Mrs. Bert Shipp, Mrs. Harold Crozier, Mrs. J. W. Thomas and Mrs. Homer Boreland. On the refreshment committee were Mrs. C. C. Conner and Mrs. L. L. Ledbetter.

Guests were graciously received by Mrs. Kenneth Waggoner, Mrs. Max Edge, Miss Georgia Benz and Miss Catherine Filbert, ushers.

Mrs. Rex Wheatley spent the week end in Amarillo, Tex., with relatives.

How To Enjoy Your Own Party

WHEN you must be maid and hostess, too, there's only one way to make sure that you will enjoy your own party. Plan ahead, and choose a menu that will require little last-minute fuss and preparation.

The hostess we all admire and envy, too, is the one who can greet her guests in a calm, unruffled fashion, secure in the knowledge that every tiny detail has been attended to: that linen, silver, and china are ready to use; that dainty and delicious food needs only a few last-minute touches; that garnishes are arranged, and that there's no chance for anything to go wrong!

Angel Food Cake is probably "tops" in party foods. The oven in your modern electric range maintains the low, even heat required for the tender, delicate, and moist Angel Food we like, so why not make one for your very next party?

Prize Angel Food Cake

Fruit filled Angel Food is particularly delicious for a party. To make it, bake your favorite Angel Food and when the cake has cooled, separate into 2 layers, using a fork. Spread with Whipped Cream Fruit Filling and put layers together again. Frost with remaining Whipped Cream Fruit Filling.

Whipped Cream Fruit Filling

1/2 pint heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup fruit (crushed)

Whip the cream until stiff, then fold in sugar and fruit.

If whipping cream refuses to whip, place the bowl containing the cream in a larger bowl filled with cracked ice. Then whip as usual.

If lettuce leaves for your party salad just won't "cup," this will help. Take two leaves of head lettuce and with a pair of scissors or a sharp knife, cut a V-shaped piece from the stem end of each. Then fit one V-shaped cut into the other and place on salad plate in form of a cup.

An easy and attractive garnish for the platter of cold cuts or a sandwich plate, is made by cutting small cucumber pickles in thin slices from one end almost to the other. Spread the slices to form a fan.

Use the deep-well cooker on your modern electric range for heating rolls. They will require no watching and when you're ready to serve them they'll be tender and moist, as well as warm!

To prevent flower holders or "frogs" from slipping, pour a little melted paraffin in the bottom of the flower bowl and press holder in the paraffin.

To keep fruit cake moist, place a cut apple or a piece of cheesecloth dipped in cider, in the container.

Always cream the butter and have it soft for spreading when you are making sandwiches.

Little Known Facts and Sidelights on Oil Industry

They Ride Again—
Armed with a law book instead of a gun, oil's vigilantes, the Petroleum Crime Prevention Association, is battling a crime wave of oil-field thefts which costs the industry an annual bill approaching the six-figure bracket.

Current high prices for metal are believed to be the incentive for increasing thefts of portable equipment. Loot recovered recently from a gang of thieves was valued at about $5,000.

Vigilance of police and sheriffs of the oil country is hampered by the number of jurisdictions involved. This slows up the apprehension and prosecution of criminals, as well as the recovery of stolen material. Further complications are the movement of stolen materials which necessitates investigation of the oil fields of other states.

By working for uniform ordinances regulating the secondhand oil well supply business within the counties where stolen material may be sold, and promoting uniform enforcement of laws governing such businesses as well as carrying on a continuous investigation of the purchases made by such establishments, the association is discovering losses and catching up with thieves often before an oil company has discovered its loss.

Highlights of '39—
Highlights of 1939 as seen by industrial researchers include: A new synthetic fiber, made from polyvinyl and known as vinyon; a new type of glass, which can be heated cherry red and then plunged into ice-water without cracking; a new high-test gasoline using sulfuric acid as a catalyst; and the electric-eye controlled process for perfecting precise temperature control.

Other new developments were the discovery that lignin, formerly a waste product in the manufacture of paper pulp, is more efficient than any chemical now used in removing iron from water, and the development of a new hydrogenation process which enables chemists to obtain one and one-fifth gallons of gasoline out of each gallon of crude oil.

Gasoline Breathers—
Expert balloon builders have finally perfected a special job in sausage-shaped balloons, which, tests show, substantially will reduce the more than $30,000,000 annual loss from gasoline evaporation at storage plants.

The new 29-foot balloons, made of specially treated fabric, act as breather bags for gasoline storage tanks. They are housed in a steel building, and pipe lines run from each tank to the bag. On top of each bag is a carefully balanced weight.

When evaporation occurs in a tank, the vapors pass through the pipes to the bag and are kept under compression by the weight. After evaporation has stopped, the weight forces the vapors back into the tanks.

In this way, fresh air, which would produce additional evaporation cannot enter the system, and as the air already there is saturated, further evaporation cannot take place.

Gloves from a Bottle—
Not so glamorous as an invisible cloak but a lot more useful for front-line petroleum workers is the invisible glove, a modern talisman against grease, acids, and all the evils of dust and dirt.

In the traditional manner of magic, invisible gloves come out of a bottle. They're shapeless, but they fit any sized hand and they're flattering enough to be worn by a housewife who answers her own doorbell.

Their super-efficiency lies in the fact that the white cream which composes the "glove" is liquid enough to penetrate the pores of the skin, yet thick enough to seal out foreign liquids and substances. The cream can be applied to face, arms and scalp as well and is removed easily with water.

The Old Oil—
Medicine men of the 1800's, travelling the country in wagons, relied upon Seneca Oil for their stock in trade. Two famous partners, so the story goes, cornered local trade in many villages by using an efficient method for breaking down sales resistance.

On nearing a village, the "straight" man usually went on ahead, stopped at the local tavern and bought a drink. Soon he was rolling on the floor, apparently in great distress.

This was the cue for the entrance of the "feeder" who inquired with unctuous solemnity, "What ails the old man?" Receiving no reply he would feel his pulse, and then exclaim, "Gentlemen, I have in my wagon at the door, a medicine that will cure the stranger in ten minutes."

A dose would be administered, relief would be instantaneous and every man present would demand a bottle of oil irrespective of price. Gas Masks Checked—

English motorists have discovered that the only way to check the ubiquitous gas mask is to ride in an air-conditioned car.

With gas filters installed in the air system, a car will give 100 per cent protection, tests in gas-filled tunnels have revealed. None of the passengers wore gas masks.

News—
For safer night driving a test installation of 15-miles of glass curbs has been made on English highways. Made of white vitrolite, a durable and opaque glass with exceptional reflective qualities, boundaries stand out more clearly.

Pix Rhapsody

By Mary Jane

After two years of work by about 200 artists and the expenditure of more money than it is good taste to mention, "Gulliver's Travels," Max Fleischer's full-length animated cartoon in Technicolor, reaches the screen! Scheduled for next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the Valley Theatre, "Gulliver" is the first picture of this kind to be produced since Walt Disney's "Snow White" of two seasons ago and the first ever to issue from Paramount's studios.

"Gulliver's Travels" comes from Jonathan Swift's immortal classic of the same name which, since its first appearance two centuries ago, has been read by countless millions of children and adults alike and been translated into virtually every language on earth.

As translated on to celluloid by Fleischer, the Swift story deviates from the original only in the slightest degree. Like the book, it plots the amazing adventures of the English seaman whom an ocean storm shipwrecked on a faraway island of miniature people, tiny buildings and minuscule vegetation. All the main characters in the picture—with one notable exception—are the unique, lovable creatures Dean Swift drew, and the situations come directly from his unforgettable tale.

The picture opens with "Gulliver's" shipwreck on the shores of "Lilliput," a fantastic wonderland "somewhere in the South Seas," where the tallest inhabitant measures up to a man's boot and the highest building could be hidden behind a barrel. In spite of their size, the "Lilliputians" tie up the immense visitor while he is sleeping, and he awakes to find himself their prisoner.

"Gulliver's" adventures crowd thick and fast when, after superhuman effort, the "Lilliputians" drag him to their capital city on a flat car. At first regarded as a menace, "Gulliver" turns into a national hero through his amazing feats of strength and soon becomes chief aide to "King Little," the ruler of the bantam kingdom.

The visitor gets the chance to perform his greatest feat when war threatens between "Lilliput" and the adjoining kingdom of "Blefuscu." The controversy hinges upon the question of what song shall be played at the wedding of "Prince David" of "Blefuscu" to "Princess Glory" of "Lilliput." "King Little" insists upon "Faithful," the "Lilliputian" national anthem, while the rival king, "Bom-bom," is just as determined to have it "Forever," the "Blefuscu" hymn. It is up to "Gulliver" to resolve the controversy, reunite the stricken lovers and prevent the war.

State Legion Auxiliary Officers
Make Official Visit Here Monday

Mrs. Ben Pior of Artesia, department president of the American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Norville Thacker of Carlsbad, fifth district president, and Mrs. Albert Richards, department rehabilitation chairman, made their official visit to the local unit Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Pior, who has been active in Auxiliary work for many years and is one of the most efficient department presidents to have served the state, addressed the unit. She gave a brief history of the Auxiliary and discussed the purpose of the organization. Organized without a program other than that of the Legion, their single purpose is serving, she said.

Mrs. Pior announced that the paid-up membership in New Mexico has gone over its quota of 1,518 members. It was also announced that the district and the Artesia unit had gone over their quotas, which is a new record in the organization.

In conclusion, Mrs. Pior expressed her appreciation for the confidence and faith placed in her and for all courtesies extended by those who have shared in the sacred cause of the American Legion, which ever reflects the watchword "For God and Country."

Mrs. Thacker's visit was marked with a grand surprise. She presented the Artesia unit with the Rhoda Carrol trophy, which is presented to the unit conducting the most perfect meeting at the time of the official visit of the district president. Officers of the unit were not aware of the critical observation until the presentation was made. Mrs. Thacker announced that the Roswell unit was second in the fifth district for the most perfectly conducted meeting.

Mrs. Richards, a past department president and present department rehabilitation chairman, has accompanied Mrs. Pior on her visits to units and the hospitals over the state, and has done a marvelous work in her department this year. She gave a splendid report of the meeting of the Western division of rehabilitation chairmen held in Tucson, Ariz., last month.

Mrs. Pior was presented a naval print plate and each of the other visitors a lovely gift. The presentations were made by Mrs. P. V. Morris.

Mrs. J. M. Story, chairman of the program committee, spoke briefly on "Community Service" and the part which the Auxiliary of Artesia has taken in local work. Mrs. D. C. Blue, unit president, spoke of the approaching Easter period, which comes with spring bringing new life. A violin duet, "Little Star," by Lewis W. Story and Miss Shirley Bartlett, with Miss Bettynelle Lanning at the piano, was rendered.

During a social hour after the meeting, a St. Patrick tea was served complimenting the visitors. A gorgeous lace cloth covered the table, which was centered with a crystal bowl of calendulas, and tall tapers in crystal holders flanked either side. Mrs. Story presided at the silver service. Dainty white cakes decorated with shamrocks were served with shamrock mints, nuts and tea.

Hostesses serving with Mrs. Story were Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. J. L. Briscoe and Mrs. William Linell. Mrs. Frances Painter received the lucky prize.

A number of important meetings were announced for the near future. The national president, Mrs. William Corwith, will be in Clovis April 18. Many of the local members expect to attend the meeting to be held in Clovis on the above date. The last district meeting to be held this year will be in Hobbs March 30. The annual birthday party of the Legion, celebrating the twenty-first anniversary, was announced to be held at the hut Friday evening, with Auxiliary members hostesses. Members of the birthday party entertainment are Mrs. B. N. Muncy, Mrs. Lewis Story and Mrs. Frank Smith.

Librarians to Hear History of Printing At SWLA Meeting

Daniel Long of Santa Fe, poet and director of the Rydal Press, has accepted an invitation of the Southwestern Library Association to give one of the chief addresses at its convention in Albuquerque next Oct. 2-5. John White, librarian of Artesia High School, said:

Long's subject, the history of printing, is especially appropriate in 1940, for this is the anniversary of 500 years of printing in Europe, 400 in this hemisphere and 300 in the United States. The first printing with movable type was done by Johann Gutenberg in Germany about 1440. A Spanish printer and his equipment arrived in Mexico City in 1539, and a hundred years later, 1638, a press was set up in Cambridge, Mass., by Stephen Day.

Special emphasis will be placed by Long on printing as it has developed in this part of the country since the coming of Coronado. He believes the Southwest already has taken certain important steps of a publishing nature to supplement the New York industry and protect local and other fields of investigation and expression which New York cannot be expected to take care of.

Chick Project Of Chamber to Close Saturday

With Final registration for the annual Chamber of Commerce boys' and girls' chick project set for 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, it looks as though there will be a number more applications than the limit of forty flocks of chicks to be sponsored, Arba Green, chamber secretary, said this morning.

All registered children are asked to be at the Chamber of Commerce office in the city hall at 2:30 o'clock Saturday for instructions.

The first of the chickens will be assigned for March 22, with other groups on March 26 and 29, Green said.

The Chamber of Commerce has forty sponsors for the boys' and girls' flocks, which limited the number of entrants to that number. The members of the project will be expected to raise the chicks and then bring the best individual fowls of their flocks to a poultry show next fall.

At that time the birds will be judged by a competent judge and prizes will be awarded the winners.

A similar project last year, the first time the Chamber of Commerce sponsored it, was considered a great success.

Control of Artesian Basin Is Provided in New Mexico Law

(This is the ninth of a series of articles on the Artesian basin, prepared for the Roswell Dispatch by E. G. Minton, Jr., Artesian well supervisor. As subsequent articles by Mr. Minton appear, they will be reprinted in the earliest possible issues of The Advocate.)

From all of the data and information which has been given in previous articles, which have been gathered from various sources, a number of public-spirited citizens looked into the future far enough to realize that the Artesian basin was in great need of some kind of control. They felt that in order to make the Artesian water a permanent fixture here that some foundation must be laid to insure that permanency.

The result was the passing by the New Mexico State Legislature of an act giving the state engineer control of the waters and the law will be briefly discussed here.

Section 1 of the act states that the waters of underground streams, channels, Artesian basins, reservoirs or lakes, the boundaries of which are reasonably ascertainable, are declared to be public waters and to belong to the public and to be subject for appropriation for beneficial use. This is interpreted as meaning that the underground water does not belong to any one person, corporation, etc., but it does belong to the state of New Mexico, of which each individual is a part, and each individual should feel it is his duty to see that the water is conserved, that waste is held at a minimum.

Section 2 of the act states as follows: "Beneficial use is the basis, the measure and the limit to the right to the use of waters described in this act." There can be only one way by which beneficial use may be established, and that is the use made by individuals, and the kind of use. A person using water for irrigation purposes, and who applies this water to his lands in a conservative and economical manner, has established a right to the use of water by beneficial use.

The act further states that any person, firm or corporation desiring to appropriate for irrigation or industrial purposes must make application to the state engineer in a form prescribed by him, designating the water from which it is proposed to appropriate, the location of the well, the amount of water that is desired, and the use for which the water is to be made. The act allows for the advertising in newspapers the proposed appropriation, and the allowance of a lapse of time after the advertising in order to permit other prior users to voice their protests to the proposed appropriation, which is their right to do so.

The act states that the location of a well may be changed but only after the filing of an application in the office of the state engineer, and carrying such application through the regular prescribed channels.

Any person, firm or corporation claiming to be the owner of a vested right from any underground source may make and file in the state engineer's office a declaration, setting forth the beneficial use to which said waters have been applied, the date of the first application to beneficial use, location of the well and other information important to the water user.

Section 8 of the act states that when for a period of four years the owner of a water right shall have failed to apply same to the use for which it was vested, appropriated or shall have been adjudicated, such water right shall be forfeited and the water so unused shall revert to the public and be subject to further appropriation. Since the basin is now over-appropriated, any right which has been automatically abandoned cannot be reappropriated.

This is an effort to bring the use of water more closely to the annual recharge, which has been discussed in a previous article. Further, any illegal use of water which is being made cannot be made an established right by this illegal use, an idea which has been somewhat the idea in the past. Any illegal use of water will be an illegal use until such times an illegal user is notified to stop such use, either upon notification by the Artesian well supervisor, or an injunction has been granted by the court.

The control of the underground waters of the state of New Mexico are not to attempt to take anything that rightfully belongs to the public, but is an effort to help the public in keeping intact and permanent that which belongs to them. The state engineer will and does bring every force to bear in keeping vested rights, and, on the other hand, works as hard to stop illegal use, which is the taking of water from those who have established rights by beneficial use.

It is the purpose and desire of the state engineer to hold the use of water in the basin as closely as possible to its safe maximum yield. This purpose is for the protecting of those vested rights and the thousands and thousands of dollars invested in the basin by property owners who have invested here for permanent residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Shelton and Mrs. Vena Newman and Miss Kathleen Newman spent Sunday on the Pat Riley farm at Weed.

Miss June Brookshire of Roswell spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Nevil Muncy, and family of Artesia.

Miss Ruby Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kennedy, student of Eastern New Mexico College at Portales, visited her parents over the week end.

Mrs. E. L. Cox and daughters of Mayhill visited in the home of Mrs. Cox's sister, Mrs. W. S. Hogsett, and family Saturday.

Federal Funds Increase Public Works Fourteen Million in State

A total of $14,168,977 of federal funds was expended in New Mexico on the construction or improvement of public property during the 1939 fiscal year, according to a statement by S. A. Spear, staff representative for the Office of Government Reports, Phoenix, Ariz.

Declaring these buildings and improvements will be permanent additions to the wealth of the state, Spear said that all such federal expenditures since 1933 totaled $70,942,858.

Construction work has been supervised by six federal agencies, of which only the Public Roads Administration, the Public Buildings Administration and the Bureau of Reclamation were in existence prior to 1933.

Expenditures of these Federal agencies during the fiscal year ended last June 30: Public Roads Administration, $2,651,263; Public Buildings Administration, $84,379; Bureau of Reclamation, $1,046,116; Public Works Administration, $1,921,516; Work Projects Administration, $8,285,336; Rural Electrification Administration was $180,367.

In addition, state and local bodies have participated in the programs of the Public Roads Administration and Work Projects Administration.

It has been estimated that on a national basis, 34 per cent of the total WPA expenditures during the fiscal year has resulted in permanent additions to the state wealth.

Collections of Funds From FSA Families Is Up

Collections of funds advanced to low-income farm families in region 12 of the Farm Security Administration for the first seven months of the current fiscal year exceeded collections for the last fiscal year by $92,551.79, according to Paul W. Ball, county FSA supervisor.

Between July 1, 1939, and Feb. 29, 1940, FSA collections totaled $2,383,781.55. This was an increase over a similar period last year of $1,186,792.89.

Ball attributes the increased collections largely to the planned economy program of the Farm Security Administration for all farmers who borrow from this federal agency.

"This agency," said Ball, "is helping low-income farm families become self-supporting, by giving them a little financial aid and guidance in sound farming practices. Farm families who borrow from FSA are assisted in planning their farm and home operations, keeping accurate records and getting the best possible use out of the money they borrow."

Ball said diversification, a live-at-home program, conservation practices and following approved methods of seeding, feeding and production are some of the basic factors in the success of the thousands who are becoming rehabilitated.

Although the repayment record established by thousands of farmers in New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado is an important yardstick in measuring progress in rehabilitation, it is not the only index of progress according to FSA officials.

The increased net worth of these rural people, higher living standards and better health are of

Item Half Century Ago Mentions Old Seven Rivers Town

"R. H. Pierce has removed his stock of merchandise from Seven Rivers to Eddy."

Thus read an item in the "Fifty Years Ago" department of The Albuquerque Journal for March 1.

Old Seven Rivers is no more, nor has there been such a settlement for many years. The old frontier town, situated in what is known as the Valley of the Seven Rivers, about half way between Carlsbad and Artesia, was at one time a "rip-roaring" Western cow town. The old cemetery is all that remains.

Eddy was the name of the settlement near the watering place on the Pecos River adjacent to what is now dubbed Carlsbad Spring, near the flume which today carries Pecos waters over the river proper, furnishing many acre feet annually to the Carlsbad irrigation project. Eddy became Carlsbad.

YOU CAN PAY MORE -but why?

You can pay a lot more than the modest Chevrolet price for a motor car. But you'll find yourself asking, "Where can I get any more beauty, driving and riding ease, road action, safety and all-round value than I get in Chevrolet for '40?"

Particularly when you consider Chevrolet's extremely low prices and Chevrolet's exceptionally low cost of operation and upkeep!

Vacancy in State AAA Committee Is Straightened Out

Filed by Appointment of Frank Lopez, Dona Ana Countian

Frank Lopez, farmer and dairyman of Dona Ana County, has been appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Ickes to fill the vacancy on the state AAA committee caused by the resignation of J. Minor Beene, also of Dona Ana County, according to a statement by Fred L. O'Cheskey, chairman of the committee. Lopez has been connected with the AAA program since its inauguration in Dona Ana County and served as community committeeman during that time.

Other members of the state committee are Fred L. O'Cheskey, of Eddy County, C. V. Hemphill of Harding County and A. D. Woofler of Socorro County. O'Cheskey, who served on the committee last year, will act in the capacity of chairman during 1940. He will also assume the duties formerly assigned to the executive assistant as certifying officer and in charge of state personnel.

Hemphill, who has served on the committee since Jan. 1, 1939, will devote most of his time to the wheat program and field activities. Woofler, also a member of the committee last year, will continue his duties as range member.

In addition to the above, A. B. Fite, acting director of extension, who is an ex-officio member, will serve on the committee.

"The state committee considers that much progress has been made in the program to date," O'Cheskey said, "as approximately 95 percent of the 1939 farm and range applications have been certified for payment. Now that the program is up to date, the state office personnel has been reduced to a minimum force which should be adequate to handle the 1940 program."

Clovis will be the scene of the Coronado entrada on June 4 and 5. This will be the second city in the state to have this magnificent pageant.

School. After the dinner, the guests were entertained with dancing. Those who were present were Supt. Odie Ludlow and Mrs. Ludlow, Mr. and Mrs. Velmon Autry, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Longbotham, Harden Lauderdale, Glenn Menifee, Pleas Cowan, George Olin Teel, R. N. Teel Edwina McGuire, Thelma June Carson, Mary Katherine Teel and Louise Reid.

Baptist Training Union Classes Are Showing Interest

Good interest is being shown in a Baptist Training Union revival at the Baptist Church this week under the leadership of Dr. H. A. Zimmerman, state executive secretary of Arizona. There has been an average attendance each evening of about seventy persons.

Of six classes, Dr. Zimmerman is teaching the first period and has had about twenty persons in his class. After the first class period of forty-five minutes, which begins at 6:45 o'clock, the women of the church serve a supper. Then after an inspirational sermon by Dr. Zimmerman, the second class period is conducted.

Teachers of the other classes: Adults, Rev. Gordon Sterling, Artesia; young people, Rev. W. C. Garrett, Roswell; intermediates, T. Brown, Artesia; juniors, Mrs. W. G. Willard, Artesia; story hour leaders, Mrs. C. E. Mitchell, Artesia.

The revival classes will continue all this week.

A fable . . . but a fable that is based on fact. Does its moral apply to your case?

It Almost Drove Us Frantic

Junior cried so often his wailing almost was continuous. We practically decided he had a naturally crabby nature.

When We Asked Our Doctor

We mentioned this trouble to the doctor, who found the solution: We were starving him! The doctor recommended more milk!

Now Our Troubles Are Over

Almost overnight Junior became the baby we'd hoped he'd be—no sulking, no crabbing, no wailing. Now we give him at least a quart of milk a day.

The Story of Any Baby

The story of any child, from birth to maturity, is chiefly a story of diet. For your youngster's sake, make rich Price's milk the cornerstone of his diet. It has part of ALL the vitamins and practically all the food elements growing bodies need.

Change Winter-killed oil—and here's why to change to OIL-PLATING

Slush in the gutter is scarcely thinner and dirtier than Winter oil over-staying in your engine. Drain now, warns your judgment—and Car Manual. But get more than a re-filled crankcase. Get cylinders, rings, bearings, and other precious parts OIL-PLATED by making sure that you change to Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented.

Your Mileage Merchant puts it in at an ordinary price, in the ordinary way. But how extraordinary is the man-made extra substance in the Conoco formula, that sets Germ Processed oil apart. For here is oil whose strong "power of attraction" makes engine parts draw glossy OIL-PLATING all over themselves and keep holding it close—as drain-proof as plating on hub caps.

Not for one instant can OIL-PLATING go draining "down home" to the crankcase. Though you're speeding the limit or parking long hours, OIL-PLATING is always faithfully maintained. All in addition to the strong oil-film of Germ Processed oil, this drain-proof OIL-PLATING helps to keep down wear. And that's how to keep your engine nearest to the oil economy of its youth. Your correct Germ Processed oil for Spring, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station today, will give you the change to an OIL-PLATED engine. Continental Oil Company ment recorded by county clerks. Of the total amount, $500,000 was to be used for remodeling the state-house and construction of new state office buildings, $250,000 for purchase of land for state parks. Rex French, state treasurer, said approximately $44,000 had been collected from the new tax. About $13,000 already had been spent, he said, leaving a balance of about $31,000.

The attorney general's office said it expected to be asked for an opinion soon on what is to be done with the $31,000 balance, but reserved comment until a formal opinion was prepared.

Mrs. Martin Yates, Jr., who went to Boston for the wedding of her son, St. Clair Yates, and who has visited relatives en route and on the return trip, is expected home this week.

together, are today banding closely as the members of various farm groups are learning to overlook the petty differences of each other and are beginning to look at the real problems. Now, cooperatives are being conducted on a sound basis, he said.

Snyder complimented the Artesia Alfalfa Growers Association on the progress it has shown, and publicly made but one suggestion, and that a general one for such organizations, that they go on a cash basis. He cited instances where cooperatives have bankrupted themselves, or have ruined their credit through carrying too many accounts on their books, which were considered as slow paper.

Most "coops" which have gone on a cash basis have increased their volume and profits, he said. And, he added, it is not fair to a manager to have to distinguish between the credit ratings of members when they all are stockholders.

Highlighting the entertainment side of the banquet was "Stuttering Sam," who was heard here a few weeks ago at the high school football banquet and a year ago at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet. It was several minutes before the members and guests, except for a few who had heard him before, "got wise" Tuesday that the stuttering and stammering of the speaker, who was introduced by McAnally as a coop manager from the Panhandle, was an entertainer, not an embarrassed young man who could not say what he wished. He was brought here through the courtesy of the Santa Fe and C. O. Brown, local agent.

Sharing the spotlight for real entertainment was Everett Dean O'Bannon, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett O'Bannon of the Cottonwood, phenomenal boy violinist, who favored with two numbers, while standing on a chair so he could be seen. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Ted Best.

Jimmie Hoover sang two numbers, accompanied on the guitar by Lynn Cobble. Spanish music was furnished by Mrs. Alvarado and Mrs. Garcia and the Herredia Brothers.

Calvin Dunn reported the club now has forty goats in the herd at the arena, but soon will have more, via the blessed event route. The present herd includes fourteen which were added Sunday.

The members are staging shows each Sunday afternoon, which are free to the public. And in order that both the public and themselves will not go thirsty during the impromptu rodeos, a pop concession was given Monday evening to a boy who is to be on the job next Sunday.

woman, madly in love with a boy, only to lose him because of his "tied-to-the-apron-string" complex and the domineering attitude of his mother. For dramatic interpretation, Mrs. Blue was splendid.

Both of the sons were excellent and the roles were well cast by Mrs. Blackburn when she chose Martin Yates III for the part of David, Mrs. Phelps' married son and husband of Christina, and Russell Floor as the younger, Robert.

Yates was appearing in his first characterization on the stage, but Floor has had considerable experience, not only prior to the formation of the Little Theater, but in that group's "warming-up" presentation, the one-act play, "The Short Cut," which was seen a few weeks ago in a band benefit at the school.

Miss Ethel Cave had the minor, but important, part of the maid.

The rich contralto voice of Miss Helen Dooley was heard between the first and second acts, accompanied by a string ensemble composed of Doris Welborne, Miss Shirley Bartlett, Russell Floor and Lewis Story, violinists, and Mrs. Wallace Gates, pianist, who also played prior to the opening curtain and after the second act, at which time Mrs. Martin Yates III, president of the Little Theater of Artesia, made a curtain talk of thanks.

The production staff: Stage manager, Miss Ethel Cave; business manager, Mrs. Charles Morgan; lighting, Miss Helen Dooley; curtain, Alfred Manley; costumes and make-up, Mrs. Martin Yates III and Miss Katherine Ragsdale; properties, Miss Ruth Bigler; stage assistants, Louis Blackburn, Alfred Manley and A. L. Bert.

each other in selling machinery to Brazilians.

Great untouched natural resources lie in Brazil, he said, including diamonds, gold and silver, timber and petroleum. There has been no development of petroleum in that country, and but little in South America, the speaker said, and the government has prohibited exploration of minerals on a large scale. However, timber is being wasted, as it was in the United States before conservation methods were started.

Topographically Brazil is quite like the United States, Dr. Zimmerman said.

Les Showers, who is in charge of the regional Golden Gloves tournament to be staged in Carlsbad March 25-27, was a guest of Lion Louis Blackburn and spoke briefly about the tourney.

Perhaps the most pointed speech of the noon hour was by C. D. Marshall, president of Rotary, who, when introduced by Fred Cole, president of the Lions, and asked to speak on "Why I Am a Rotarian," said, "I'm a Rotarian because I am not a Lion," and sat.

Postoffice Boxes Are All Rented in Artesia to April 1

Another proof of the steady growth of Artesia is the fact all boxes at the postoffice are rented, the first time since city carrier service began April 1, 1938, only two years ago.

Jesse L. Truett, postmaster, said this morning that at the time carrier service was started, all boxes were rented and in use. Then, with about 2,800 people being served by carrier, many boxes were vacated.

Since that time, he said, carrier service has increased to serve 3,000 people, but all boxes again are rented, with box rent paid up to April 1.

The postmaster suggested that anyone wishing a box in the near future have his name placed on the waiting list, to take advantage of those who might be slow in paying their quarterly box rent as of April 1.

vote bonds April 2, part of which are to be used for the airport there.

No bond issue will be offered the voters of Artesia at the municipal election, Mayor Hollis G. Watson said, but it is possible such an issue will be voted on at the general election next November.

There are ample funds available at present, raised by subscription several months ago, when it was thought another airport site would be purchased, to do all preliminary work at the field, which is about five miles west of town.

Carper said the site is being surveyed this week and that work will begin immediately getting runways in shape, probably sufficient to apply for an air stop by Continental.

In the meantime, it looks as though Artesia will be in a position before many weeks have passed to make the application.

The entire telegram from Senator Chavez: "A. L. Bert, Artesia Advocate—This office has just been advised that the Civil Aeronautics Authority has given final approval to Continental Airlines' application for extension of its line from El Paso to Albuquerque to include Roswell, Hobbs and Carlsbad. This is great news for the Pecos Valley and an confident Artesia can be included shortly. Dennis Chavez, U. S. S."
