Some Areas Received More Than Four Inches Of Rain

Late Monday evening, local law enforcement officers and civil defense workers opened every available shelter in Muleshoe, as dark, threatening clouds moved toward Muleshoe.

Bailey County Sheriff's Deputies Steve Bearden, then Jerry Hicks, had watched funnel clouds dangling from the approaching clouds.

One funnel became a tornado near Needmore, as it touched the ground in open country near Needmore.

Accompanying the approaching storm were hailstones reported up to baseball size, south of town.

As the storm neared Muleshoe, passing just to the south and east of town, high wind, driving rain and pea-to-marble size and larger hail, fell.

Streets quickly resembled rivers and stalled vehicles became the 'norm' as the storm pounded the city.

Small tree limbs, leaves and debris slammed through the air, whipped by the wind.

Many reports of funnels were called in constantly, with the National Weather Service issuing tornado warnings, and urging Muleshoe residents to immediately seek shelter.

With the passage of the first storm, NWS reported a fast-building storm to the southwest of the city.

However, the second storm pounded the Progress area, some five miles to the northwest of Muleshoe.

Again, up to baseball size hail fell in the Progress area, and many roadways were inundated by very deep water.

Funnel were reported and one funnel shaped in a 'V-wedge' dipped to the ground just to the north of Progress, again in open country.

Some two hours after the 'take shelter' warning was issued, local residents were released from the local shelters to make their way back home.

Street flooding and deep water in low-lying areas caused travel problems, including the presumed drowning of one person between Clovis and Portales, who remained under a 'flood watch' on Tuesday morning.

Officially, the 24-hour rainfall reported Tuesday morning was 2.85, some area residents reported up to four inches and more of rain overnight.

Rain again fell in Muleshoe early Tuesday morning, with the NWS predicting much the same conditions to prevail Tuesday afternoon and evening, again with some storms expected to become 'severe.'

PREPARING FOR TRANSFER--CareLink personnel from Lubbock, and nurses from West Plains Medical Center are crossing the back parking lot at the hospital to the CareLink Twin Star scheduled to take a newborn girl to Lubbock after it ran into difficulty at the Muleshoe hospital shortly after being born. Although CareLink had planned to fly into Muleshoe in a fixed wing aircraft, that plan had to be scrapped after CareLink learned the old airport was closed for landings and the new airport was not ready for landings. They had planned to use a fixed wing as both helicopters were busy when called from Muleshoe. After a delay, the small helicopter flew into Muleshoe.

CHEVROLET ANNOUNCES PRICE REDUCTION

Effective May 29th. at 7:00 a.m. the War Excise Tax on automobiles was discontinued. In talking to K.K. Smith of the Valley Motor Company, local Chevrolet dealer, he states that the reduction amounts to approximately $15.00 on each model with the exception of the trucks.

Mr. Smith further stated that the automobile was the last of all the so-considered luxuries to be so taxed. The removal of the tax from automobiles is one thing that manufacturers and dealers alike have been fighting for some time and it is with certainty the one thing that has gladdened their hearts. It is estimated that the removal of the tax will save people of the United States something like six million dollars this year. The savings alone in Bailey County would have been sufficient to have given some family a new Chevrolet coach with all the trimmings.

These credits enable graduates of this high school to enter college or university without the detail of having to take examinations. Affiliated schools are also looked upon with greater favor by parents with children to educate and by the state department as well as the public generally.

ANNE CAMP, LIBRARIAN WOMAN OF THE YEAR

On Saturday, May 13 the Alpha Zeta Pi and Xi Omicron Xi chapters of Beta Sigma Phi held their annual mother-daughter luncheon. Highlight of the occasion was the presentation of the "Lady of the Year" award to Mrs. Bernis (Anne) Camp, librarian for the Muleshoe Public Library.

Her first exposure to library work and her first experience came early in her hometown of Winters, her mother organized, and opened a library in one room of her home. The circulation of books from the home library increased until the library found a new home in an abandoned bank building.

She graduated from Winters High School and was working in a nearby community when she met her husband, Bernis Camp.

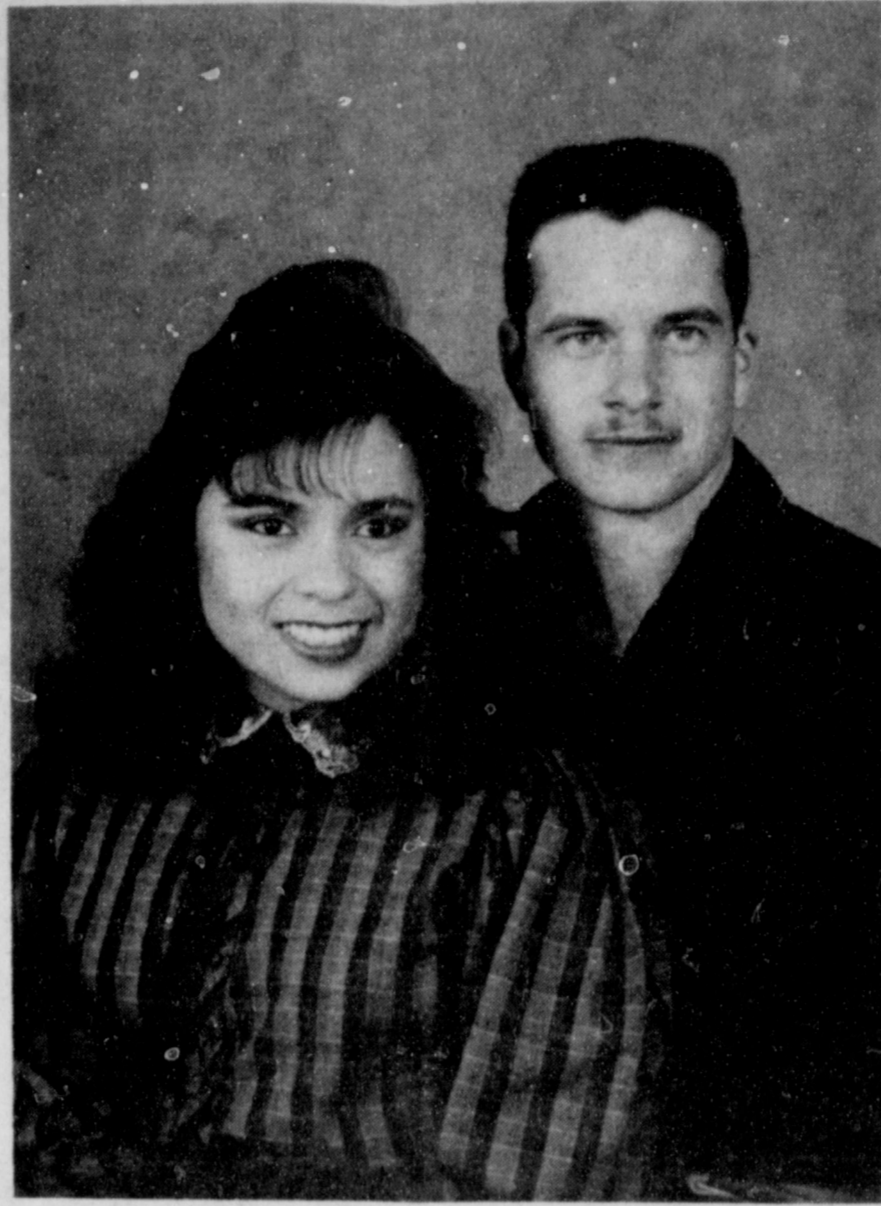

They moved to Muleshoe where she answered a plea over Radio Station KMUL for volunteer help on the bookmobile. Shortly thereafter, she was hired as Muleshoe's (one and only) Librarian.

MICROWAVE TIPS

By Linda Attaway

Eggs illustrate the difference between cooking conventionally and cooking with your microwave. While cooking conventionally, the white portion cooks first, then the yolk.

When microwaving the yolk contains more fat than the white and so attracts more energy. Standing time is necessary to finish cooking the whites of eggs without getting the yellow tough.

Texas Watermelons Are Now 'In Season'

There's no better way to cope with hot weather than with a cold slice of watermelon--and Texas watermelons are now "in season."

"Buying a whole melon is best when considering price per pound," said Tom Longbrake, a horticulturist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. "But, if an 18-to-20 pound melon is more than you can use at any one time, convenience packages of melon wedges, cello-wrapped for freshness, are the answer."

Watermelon is one of the cheapest fruits per pound that you can buy, Longbrake said. An average wedge of watermelon has only 120 calories. Watermelon is about 90 percent water and the remainder is natural sugar.

A mature watermelon has a soft, hollow sound when thumped and a yellowish ground spot on its belly. Handle a melon carefully to avoid rolling, bump-ing or dropping to prevent internal bruising of the flesh.

"Good quality melons are usually firm, symmetrical in shape, fresh, attractive in appearance and of good color," said the horticulturist. "The external rind color may vary from deep solid green to gray, depending on the variety."

Store watermelons at temperatures ranging from 60 to 70 degrees F. Temperatures below 50 degrees or above 90 degrees for extended periods will increase flesh deterioration. Once a melon is cut, it can be refrigerated in wedge form or in small chunks in plastic-covered containers.

Use The Right Containers For Freezing

Freezing may be the fastest and easiest form of food preservation, but it's not foolproof. The end product will depend both on the quality of the produce and the packaging materials you use.

"Most people start freezing foods because they have excess from their gardens or they've found a source of top-quality produce at farmer's markets and truck farms," said Marilyn Haggard, a specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

Spanish Youth

Welcomed Through

AYA Program

A Greenwich, Connecticut-based educational exchange organization has a unique way of teaching Spanish traditions, customs and language--it sends you a native Spanish student for a year.

The American Institute For Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation expects to welcome 500 Spanish youths this year through its Academic Year in America (AYA) program. Families who would like to "share America" while learning about Spain are encouraged to enroll early in this cultural exchange. The Foundation is seeking host families in communities throughout the United States.

In addition to helping families learn Spanish, the young people join fully into family life sharing chores, attending local schools and participating in community activities. This year visitors will also get to witness both the presidential election and the Olympic competition from an American point of view.

Interested families can preview "picture profiles" of the students scheduled to arrive next fall to choose someone whose personality, background and hobbies best fit their family. This unusual opportunity lets families make a good match with a visiting student and long lasting friendships are often formed.

Host families will receive up to $800 in scholarships for overseas travel and study and qualify for a monthly tax deduction. They may choose to host a student for either five or ten months.

Students from Spain speak English and are fully covered by medical insurance. A nationwide network of Local Coordinators supervises their visit providing support and guidance to both the students and families, arranging get-togethers among visitors and helping students, families and school systems make transitions.

Additional information about hosting a Spanish student is available free from the American Institute For Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation, Dept. P-33, 102 Greenwich Ave., Greenwich, CT 06830 or 3661 Buchanan St., San Francisco, CA 94123. Families interested in hosting can call toll-free, east of the Mississippi: 800-727-AIFS, ext. 6081; west of Mississippi: 800-458-7100; or in California: 800-841-9028.

"Yet, it's easy to compromise the quality of that food by skimping on the materials or failing to use proper packaging procedures," she said.

The right packaging materials will protect the flavor, color, moisture content and nutritional value of frozen foods from the dry climate of the freezer, according to the specialist.

"Rigid containers, flexible bags or wrap are made to be moisture and vapor-proof especially for freezer use," she said.

"If the label does not state that the material is made for freezing, don't use it."

Haggard said rigid containers made of plastic or glass are suitable for all packs of food and work especially well for food that is packed in a liquid.

"Wide mouth freezer jars have no exchange of vapor, keep out odors, don't lose shape and are easy to reuse," she said.

According to the specialist, the major problem with plastic containers is getting the lids to fit tightly. If they don't the seal must be reinforced with freezer tape. Masking tape won't work because it doesn't stick at the low freezer temperatures.

"Don't freeze fruits and vegetables in a container larger than a quart. In a large container foods freeze too slowly to produce a good product," said Haggard.

She said the freezer bags have the advantage of eliminating practically all excess air, but are more easily damaged during storage.

"Use a rubber band instead of twist closures that have wire, since the wire can catch and tear bags. To make stacking and storage easier, put the bags of food inside milk cartons or in cardboard freezer cartons and then freeze them," she said.

Both read the same Bible, and pray to the same God; and each invokes His aid against the other.

Small Home Businesses Not New Idea

Small home businesses offering everything from homemade jams and country crafts to custom drapery making, day care or accounting services have popped up all over Texas, especially in rural areas.

"Economic circumstances are still fragile for many farm families, so anything that can contribute to improving financial security looks attractive," says Bonnie L. Piernot, a consumer economics specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Besides, working at home isn't a new idea for people who are used to spending long hours on the farm and ranch enterprise," she adds.

With a national failure rate of 70 percent for all new businesses however, Piernot says it's important to consider what it will take to own and manage a home-based business.

The specialist suggests assessing your skills in each of the following areas before embarking on a home business venture:

- Organizing and Planning. Can you set and follow through on goals, time commitments and work schedules?

- Handling Money. A home business will require planning budgets, securing loans, keeping financial records and completing tax forms.

- Selling Ideas and Products. You may have to sell your idea to secure business loans and engage in direct selling to customers or determining sales quotas.

- Management. Can you make decisions about allocating your resources, setting goals and determining when they're been met?

- Working With People. Many businesses require the ability to work with people having different views, such as suppliers, part-time employees and customers.

- Ability to Take Risk. Can you tolerate moderate, calculated risk, such as investing in the business, purchasing raw materials or shouldering liability?

- Willingness to Lead and Work Alone. A home business often requires great self-discipline and efficiency. Can you take initiative when required and are you willing to accept and accomplish more than your share of the work?

- Knowledge And Skill. How much do you know about the service or production of goods you intend to provide?

"Not all of these skills are necessary for every small home business," notes the specialist. "Often you can learn or buy what you need to know."

"However, be honest with yourself before you decide whether you can spend the time to learn necessary skills for starting a home-based business or whether you can afford to pay for consultants," Piernot says.

Pension Pointers
Facts From The U.S. Dept. of Labor

By David M. Walker, Assistant Secretary of Labor Retirement Planning For The Small Employer

Simplified Employee Pensions--known as SEPs--represent an easy and flexible retirement plan option for employers who do not have a pension plan for their employees.

SEPs are retirement programs which allow employers to make contributions to individual retirement accounts (IRAs) for themselves and eligible employees. Employers have flexibility as to when and how much of a contribution will be made to the IRAs. Employers can set aside as much as $30,000 annually per participant with a minimum amount of complexity and paperwork.

In addition, employers may set up salary reduction SEPs that accept employee pre-tax contributions.

Private pension plans are an attractive way of supplementing Social Security. They offer tax advantages to sponsoring employers and employees and can be an important tool in attracting and retaining qualified workers.

The U.S. Department of Labor and U.S. Small Business Administration have published a booklet highlighting the advantages of SEPs. For a free copy of the publication, "SEPs--What Small Businesses Need to Know," write to: SEPs, U.S. Department of Labor, Room N5666, 200 Constitution Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20210.

Reduce Summer Utility Costs

Utility Costs

Temperatures are beginning to rise toward their summer peak, and without some energy-saving steps your utility bills will rise right along with them.

"No matter what kind of system you have, carefully set thermostats can hold down utility bills," according to Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Many of us are in the habit of over-cooling our homes. In the winter we set the thermostat at 78 degrees to stay comfortably warm and then in summer put them all the way down to 68 degrees," she said.

"For every degree below 75 degrees that you set your thermostat, your operating cost goes up six to ten percent," said Owens. "So in a 1600 square foot home, setting the thermostat at 76 degrees rather than 72 degrees will save about $220 during a cooling season."

"When you're going to be gone during the day, turn the thermostat up to 83 degrees. You can save about 25 percent of your energy by cooling the house once you get home, instead of keeping it cool all day," said the specialist.

Owens advised turning the air conditioner off entirely when you will be gone for more than 24 hours.

"Thermostat control won't have much impact on your utility bills unless you also clean or replace the air conditioner filter regularly," Owens said.

"A clogged air filter causing a 10 percent reduction in air flow will increase your operating costs by 11 percent," she said. "The air conditioner has to work harder to reach the thermostat setting, so you're paying for energy that doesn't make the house feel any cooler."

"Also check the ductwork in the attic for air leaks," said the specialist. "Use duct tape to seal any leaking joints so you aren't paying to cool the attic."

Owens said a fireplace can pull cool air out of the house and increase cooling costs by up to 20 percent. A tight-fitting damper will reduce any cool air loss.

Severe Weather

Many young crops were believed to have been flooded out during the Monday night and early Tuesday morning storms, although there was no way to know as many fields were completely under water.

No injuries were reported in Bailey County overnight on Monday, as law enforcement officers, the Muleshoe Fire Department, Civil Defense and Bailey County EMS prepared for another day of local and area severe weather.

By Wednesday afternoon, all was calm in Bailey County after an evening and early morning of severe weather and heavy rain that left extensive crop damage, as well as damage to vehicles, buildings and crops.

In Muleshoe, the official measurement was three inches, although rainfall up to four inches was reported in the city limits.

Heavy, dark clouds started moving in late Monday afternoon and the street lights came on shortly after 6:30 p.m. as the threatening clouds moved into the area from the southwest.

Following an evening and night of rain, some of the reports included Butch Green, who recorded 5.3 inches on the Plainview highway.

From the Maple area, 4-4.8 inches was reported, along with baseball size hailstones that knocked out windows at the Three Way School.

Other baseball size hail was reported from the Y-L community where more than four inches of rain was recorded.

Two other areas reporting baseball size hail were north of Needmore and in the Progress area.

Around West Camp, two inches of rain was recorded, with four inches in the area of the Longview Baptist Church.

The Bula area received some one and one-half inches.

Hailstones, from pea-size to marble-size were common reports.

Although the entire area needed moisture, unfortunately, the rain fell to hard and too fast to be that beneficial for farmers with young crops. Many reported 'wash-outs' along with crops wiped out by hailstones.

At presstime, bright sun was shining, and the heavy winds of the past couple of weeks had settled down to a very light breeze.

National Weather Service predicted much the same type weather for the rest of this week.

Because of some volunteers, the roof of West Plains Medical Center has been replaced.

A new roof was built over the existing roof after discovery of severe leaks which were causing extensive damage to the interior of the hospital.

Although the materials for the new roof were sold to the hospital at cost, donations are still needed to pay for the materials.

If you would like to make a donation to the West Plains Medical Center Improvement Fund, go by 215 South First, or make your donation to the fund at Muleshoe State Bank.

Swimming lessons will be given at the Muleshoe Country Club pool beginning June 6, with new classes starting every two weeks.

Country Caravan Returning To Muleshoe For Concert

"Country is in your heart."

The famous country storyteller Tom T. Hall hit the nail on the head when he wrote the lyrics for his memorable song "Country Is." Music that will warm the hearts of country music lovers can be found in this season's edition of "Country Caravan" scheduled for a performance in June 24 in Muleshoe.

Showtime is 8:30 in the New City Park. Admission is free to the performance being sponsored by Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture.

Produced annually by South Plains College in Levelland, Texas, this down-home music celebration has delighted country music fans for 12 summers now, bringing genuine family entertainment to communities throughout West Texas and Eastern New Mexico. And like its predecessors, this latest edition of "Country Caravan" builds a country mansion out of an energetic blend of top country music hits, classic standards, colorful costumes, sizzling vocals, topflight musicianship and precision dancing. The next result is 90 minutes of nearly non-stop country music fun.

The foundation that holds up the entire framework of "Caravan" is entertainment, and plenty of it.

"We're here to entertain," says John Hartin, general director for "Caravan" and instructional coordinator of SPC's unique country and bluegrass music program. "The magic of country music comes alive in our show, and we want people to leave the performance with a happy feeling -- one that they will talk about for days.

To achieve just that, Hartin and his crew have put together a show that features powerful country tunes which have deep roots in the music industry and which bring home the spirit of country music. "Country Caravan" combines contemporary songs with all the colorful nuances which have influenced country music throughout the years and have made it great.

The program for the 1988 season runs the gamut of contemporary country chart-busters. In fact, Tim McCasland, assistant professor of music at SPC and the show's musical director, says "Caravan" has become more contemporary with each passing year. "Current artists are reviving a lot of the country styles that were prevalent 15 to 20 years ago," he says. "They are adding a different twist to the songs they write and perform today."

So the program of songs include hits like Rosanne Cash's "Tennessee Flat Top Box"; Hank Williams, Jr.'s, "Born to Boogie" that helped earn him 1987 Entertainer of the Year; Asleep at the Wheel's "House of Blue Lights" that revives western swing; Reba McEntire's "Last One to Know"; and Los Lobos' movie hit "La Bamba".

But the show would be missing a key element to the country music story if it didn't touch on the country classics. Hartin and McCasland have orchestrated a wonderful medley of seven country music favorites that are sure to please. "Country music is like culture itself," says Hartin. "You touch part of it, and you wind up touching it all. These particular artists touched a part of country music which strengthened the industry and certainly contributed to the collective nature of country music."

So take a walk down memory lane with songs made famous by country music greats Mel Tillis, Tammy Wynette, and Ray Price. The styles of Kitty Wells, Conway Twitty and Ernest Tubb are presented in memorable tunes like "Honky Tonk Angels," "After the Fire is Gone," and "Walking the Floor Over You." And who could forget the Sons of the Pioneers' "Tumbling Tumbleweeds."

The instrumental and vocal talent found in "Country Caravan" is at an all-time high, say both Harlin and McCasland. The cast consists of 11 multi-talented students from South Plains College's country and bluegrass music program and four faculty members.

Game Animal Feed Exempt From Sales Tax

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said late last week that sales tax will no longer be charged on feed normally eaten by farm and ranch animals that is also used to feed Texas game animals.

"It doesn't make sense to tax feed that farmers and ranchers use to support the native wildlife population when other farm animals get to eat the same stuff tax-free," Bullock said.

Bullock said removal of the sales tax on hay, corn, oats and other feeds that can be eaten by deer, turkey and other wild animals will promote progressive wildlife and conservation practices.

According to Bullock, Texas farmers and ranchers who lease hunting acreage will benefit by being able to provide supplemental feed during drought conditions or when animal habitats have been reduced.

Land owners will find it easier to buy feed under the proposed rule, since they will no longer have to declare the type and location of the animal eating the feed.

"We've had some confusing situations because of the current rule -- for example, corn bought to feed deer is taxable, but corn bought to feed cows isn't," Bullock said.

Feed for domestic farm animals and work animals will remain exempt from the state sales tax, but feed bought for pets such as cats and dogs is still taxable, he noted.

Safe Driving Could Save Child's Life

School's out and there's no cares or worries for tomorrow's lessons. Many children get excited while playing and forget the rules of life.

Major V.J. Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Department of Public Safety is calling on all Texas motorists to drive with extra care this time of year. He said, "Long tiring trips across the West Texas Plains can be nerve racking on all occupants in the car. Frequent rest periods should be used so the children can run off that excessive pent-up energy." The Major also reminds us to be extra careful to keep alert while driving in residential areas.

Children seem to forget safety rules and run into the roadways unexpectedly, not realizing that the oncoming car is in the local vicinity. Since the younger children do not know the law, it would be wise to always expect the unexpected and be prepared to give him the right-of-way.

Major Cawthon said, "That in order to make this an accident free summer vacation, we need to take a more mature attitude towards safe driving. Let us all remember to slow down a little and live alot by driving defensively each and every day this summer while school is out!

Perryton Author Visits Sudan School

John Erikson of Perryton, author of "Hank, the Cowdog" was at the Sudan school auditorium Tuesday morning to present a program. He was introduced by Superintendent Willie McAlpin who stated that three-year-olds enjoyed Erikson's books, and "even he enjoyed them."

Erikson opened the program describing Hank and his sidekick, Drover. He sang the song which he wrote, "Bark at the Mailman Battle Hymn" (tune to "God of Our Fathers") with animation included. He said he had problems now keeping a straight face in church when "God of Our Fathers" is sung.

Erikson has lived in New York, Boston, Mexico City after leaving Perryton. He thought the larger cities was where a writer ought to be, but soon returned to Perryton after the "Texan" would not leave him he could not change his clothes or change skin just to get away from it and he returned to the Panhandle of Texas. He formed his own publishing company Maverick Books, when other companies would not publish his writings. He was the first of his generation to attend college. His books as well as tapes include 'real' people, the serious and funny side. They include music on the tapes and different voices for the different characters he portrays.

Musician Trev Tavis accompanies Erikson on the road to provide musical background for the program. He had three keyboards as well as synthesizers and plays the mirimba. He played a mirimba solo of "Chicken Reel" with specific "chicken" movements and sounds.

Some of the characters in Erikson's writings are Drover, the crosseyed dog; Hank's girlfriend, Beulah, the collie, Scamper, and Missy Coyote; a one-eyed horse, Twerto; Sally Mae; Laurel; Slim, the cowboy, and High Loper, a cowboy.

The duo played and Erikson sang "Cold Weather Cowdog Blues", Erikson played the banjo and sang a medley of love songs including "Buzards Love Song" from the Hank series, and closed with "I Can See You Now" which Hank sang to Beulah.

Schools from Amherst, Anton and Springlake Earth were at the auditorium for this program.

He is bare of news who speaks ill of his mother.

Local Students

Visit Los

Alamo Laboratory

Six students from Three Way High School were among more than 500 young people visiting Los Alamos National Laboratory during this year's Science Youth Days. The students who attended were Bryan Kindle, J.J. Duarte, Kelly Tucker, Melinda Turney, Sheila Tucker and Jarrod Sowder. Sponsors for the trip were Don Parker, Ken Livingston, Benny Prater, Ann Sowder, James and Sharron Kindle.

During this one-day stay, all students visited the Bradbury Science Museum and toured a variety of technical sites. They were given the opportunity to talk with scientists in a laboratory environment and ask questions about the projects shown.

Although students did not see the same areas, some of the sites visited included research reactors, particle beam accelerators, electron microscopes, and ion beam research. Topics ranged from antibiotics and volcano studies to magnetic fusion and radiation detection and measurement.

Each year in April, schools from a five-state area are invited to send senior science students to participate in Science Youth Days.

Los Alamos National Laboratory is operated by the University of California for the Department of Energy.

Thanks to caring designers, the not-so-slim and petite woman can enjoy wearing swimsuits that flatter her figure. Stripes and solids are cleverly used to minimize the bottom-heavy torso, and legs are not cut very high. Soft shirred bows enhance the figure that needs a more bosomy look. There are many choices one can make in these swimsuits. Some have draped fronts that give figure control, while others feature eye-catching front-draped skirts.
