Pearl Smith and Ed Montoya Guilty in Manslaughter Cases

Negress Enters Plea in Stebbing of Irene Price — Jury Returns Verdict Against Spanish-American in Shooting.

DEFERS SENTENCES

Convicted Man's Brother Pleads Guilty of Assault With Intent to Kill.

One Artesia resident entered a plea of manslaughter and another was found guilty of the same charge in Eddy County District Court in Carlsbad last week.

Pearl Smith, Negress, entered her plea of guilty to a manslaughter charge growing out of the death by stabbing last April 18 of Irene Price, another Negress, when arraigned before Judge J. B. McGhee Saturday, and Ed Montoya, Spanish-American, was found guilty by a jury Tuesday night of the manslaughter last June 2 of Alfonso Perez.

Sentence in each case was deferred by the court. The jury in the Montoya case, which deliberated two hours before a verdict, recommended clemency. The case grew out of the slaying of Perez during a night brawl at the Montoya pool room on Mexican Hill, in which Perez was shot and killed.

In the same fight, Eulijio Perez, brother of Alfonso, was badly injured, for which Montoya and his brother, Juan Montoya, were charged with assault with intent to kill. Juan Montoya entered a plea of guilty to that charge Tuesday and Judge McGhee deferred sentence in that case also.

A total of fifteen witnesses were heard in the manslaughter case, which opened Monday morning and took the greater part of two days to hear.

Miss D'Arcy, Former Artesian, Flies Here To Visit Her Sister

Miss Billie D'Arcy, West Texas aviatrix and a former Artesia girl, made a "flying visit" to Artesia Saturday to visit her sister, Mrs. Frank Walker, and her mother, Mrs. Rena D'Arcy, the latter of whom also was visiting Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. D'Arcy, whom Mrs. Walker visited last week at Wink, Tex., returned here with her daughter, to remain a few days before continuing to Sacramento, Calif., to make her home. Mrs. D'Arcy is one of Artesia's first settlers.

Miss Billie D'Arcy will be remembered as a former student of the Artesia schools. She attended here from her first year in the grades to high school, later finishing with a bachelor of science degree from Sul Ross College and the University of California. She said while here that Artesia has a good airport, but that "it is a long walk to town."

Hi Beacon Staff Named by School Journalism Class

The staff of The Artesia Hi Beacon, semi-monthly newspaper published by the journalism class of Artesia Junior-Senior High School, was named at a class election last Thursday, with Wayne Truett as editor-in-chief.

Staff members besides Truett: Assistant editor, Bettyne Lane; sports editors, Leon Bert, sports writer for The Advocate, and Ray Lewis; feature editors, Phyllis Bartlett and Frances Brookes.

Society editor, Catherine Louise Williams; circulation managers, Maxine Brazelton and Wanda Story; exchange editors, Clyde Dunn and Kitty Beth Hughes; advertising managers, C. A. Ray and George McNett.

MAY REGISTER UNTIL OCT. 29

Men who come under the draft law, but who were unable to register on Oct. 16, may present themselves for registration with the Eddy County registration board, which has an office in the courthouse at Carlsbad, prior to the national lottery, to be Oct. 29, and will not be treated as delinquents, T. H. Flint, Artesia member of the board, announced this week.

The information came from National Director Dykstra of the selective service. The message reads: "Some persons were unable to register Oct. 16. Until national lottery, persons who voluntarily present themselves for registration will be registered by local boards and will not be treated as delinquents."

It is presumed that after the national lottery the government will begin to "crack down" on those men who failed to register up to that date.

The county registration board is quite busy getting ready for the lottery.

America Must Back Up Ideals Of Democracy

Two Methodist Pastors Returned For Next Year

The Rev. John S. Rice, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Artesia, was returned for another year, according to the announcement of assignments made Sunday at the closing session of the annual New Mexico Methodist conference at Tucumcari.

Likewise returned here is the Rev. Constantino Gonzalez, pastor of the Mexican Methodist Church at Carlsbad and Artesia.

Few changes were made in the New Mexico conference, embracing this state and West Texas, and it is presumed, as no changes were noted, that other Methodist pastors in this territory were returned for the coming year.

Of interest to people in North Eddy County was the transfer of the Rev. Wayne Douglas, formerly of Hope, from Loving, where he has served the last year, to Grand Falls, Tex.

The 1941 conference will be at Odessa, Tex.

Christian Endeavor Members in Artesia Attend State Meet

A number of young people from the Presbyterian and Christian Christian Endeavors are expected to attend some or all of the sessions of the New Mexico Christian Endeavor at Roswell, registration for which will be this afternoon, with the opening session this evening.

The meeting will continue through Sunday morning. The Rev. Henry Stout, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, will lead a discussion group at the convention on "Recreation in the Local Church." He likewise will be in charge of the singing.

Kerr Will Head Panel Discussion At State Meet

W. E. Kerr, superintendent of Artesia schools, will lead a panel discussion of the social studies program at the annual session of the Elementary Education Section of the New Mexico Educational Association in Santa Fe this afternoon.

He will be assisted in the panel discussion by Eunice Adams, Bernillo County supervisor; Mary Watson, principal, Namba Experimental School, Santa Fe; Arthur Pruitt, principal elementary schools, Portales, and J. B. Linthicum, principal Longfellow School, Albuquerque.

The discussion will consist of a series of pertinent questions and practical answers, asked and answered by members of the panel. These will, in turn, be followed by an open forum, when teachers and interested persons in the audience may ask questions and make comments.

All questions and answers will be confined to the classroom teacher's role in successfully teaching the social studies, how she can help others, and how she can be assisted by her fellow teachers, her principal, her superintendent, the N. M. E. A., the State Department of Education and teacher training institutions. As a result classroom teachers will receive many practical suggestions for the successful handling of many problems, which have heretofore been most troublesome.

A number of teachers from Artesia Junior-Senior High School and Central School will be in attendance at the meet, others will visit home folks and friends out of the city, while still others will remain at home, as the schools have closed for the remainder of the week.

First Conservation Payments for Eddy Have Been Received

The Eddy County ACA office announced today the first 1940 conservation payments for Eddy County have been received.

The first checks to come in were eleven range conservation payments, said G. R. Howard, chairman of the Eddy County conservation committee. However, no farm conservation checks have been received. This first group of checks totaled approximately $3,400.

"We want to urge all producers who have received notice to come in and sign their applications," Howard said. "We are trying to get all payments in by the first of the year. All producers north of Seven Rivers will be able to sign in Artesia at the city hall on either Mondays or Wednesdays, until further notice."

Bulldogs to Meet Duke City Indians Here Friday Night

First Time the Albuquerque Team Ever Has Played Artesia

After nipping the Institute Colts 6 to 0 to break a three-game no-score jinx and then rolling over their last two opponents with apparent ease, the Black and Orange gridgers of Artesia High School will meet the invading Albuquerque Indians on Morris Field Friday evening without the starting services of their star left halfback, "Kit" Carson, who is out from a knee injury suffered in the Jal Panther game Friday. The game will start at 7:30 o'clock instead of 8 o'clock as did previous games.

The Bulldogs take on the Albuquerque aggregation with three wins and three losses, while the strong Indians have been beaten but once this season and that was 14 to 0 last week end to Gallup, which is considered one of the three most outstanding elevens in the state.

This is the first time in the history of the local school the Bulldogs have scheduled the Indians.

An exceptional passing attack has headed the Albuquerque team's offensive in the four games played this year. Both teams may use an aerial attack Friday evening, for the locals put a formidable passing combination on the gridiron against Jal, with Carson or Bill McCasland doing the tossing and "Icky" Lewis or Raymond Kennedy doing the receiving. The Indians use a single wing, sometimes with a balanced and at other times an unbalanced line, according to what their opponents use.

Both elevens have the same school colors and it may be hard to distinguish Artesia players from Indian gridgers.

A PROCLAMATION By the Mayor

We focus renewed attention to the observance of Navy Day, Oct. 27. We shall also commemorate with patriotism and pride the birthday anniversary of the Navy, Oct. 27, 1775, which will be celebrated on Monday, Oct. 28, this year, since the 27th falls on a Sunday.

Never before in the memory of living men have navies been the subject of so much interest and speculation. With the whole world in chaos, this is no time to allow our first line of defense to slip behind the sea forces of foreign powers.

Neither can we afford to permit the American Merchant Marine, a vital element of our seapower, to lose its prestige and effectiveness.

The Navy has always borne well the blunt of conflict in past wars. How well it has secured our freedom and safeguarded us from outside aggressions is known to every American man, woman and child.

We love the Navy for its glorious traditions. We honor it for the brilliant leadership it has produced. We admire it for the courageous achievements, both in war and peace, which have marked its 165 years of unblemished service.

Therefore, in harmony with the interest so widely shown, I do hereby proclaim Oct. 27, 1940, as Navy Day throughout this city. I particularly urge that all public buildings fly the National Banner. I trust that our loyalty to and our appreciation of America's sea defense will be more conspicuously manifested this year than ever before.

In charge will be the Rev. Fr. A. de Anta, O.M.L., a native of Spain, who came to this country since the recent Spanish revolution.

The mission will begin at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening and will continue through the next Sunday, Nov. 3, with services at 7:00 o'clock each morning and 7:30 o'clock each evening.

Men on GOP Ballot Speak in Artesia Monday Afternoon

Crile, Botts and Hernandez Are Heard at Party Rally Here

Maj. Herman Crile of Roswell, Republican candidate for Congress, speaking at the Valley Theater in Artesia Monday afternoon at a Republican rally, said that if elected he will fight for an amendment of the national labor relations act, as at present it is dangerous to labor as well as to capital.

It is not the American way that a board be appointed by the executive "shall constitute itself the complaining witness, the prosecutor" (Continued on last page, col. 4)

Public Invited To Visit Russell Model Residence

The public has been invited to attend open house from 7 to 9:30 o'clock Monday evening at the new model residence at 708 West Grand Avenue of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Russell, into which they just have moved.

The invitation was issued jointly in an advertisement in this issue by Big Jo Lumber Company, which furnished the materials used in the construction; J. A. Clayton, J.C., contractor, and Russell Auto Supply Company, which furnished the electric appliances and lighting.

Special attention is called in the advertisement to the kitchen in the house, which is completely electrically equipped as to large and small appliances.

Motion pictures will be shown in the basement of the home during the open house period, demonstrating proper lighting and the effect of it on the eyes. The movie show will be continuous.

The residence is a six-room, one-story frame stucco house of semi-modernistic design.

LEAKY WATER FAUCETS WILL WASTE MUCH MONEY

A drop of water can be expensive, especially when it's hot water. The United States Housing Authority has advised managers of low-rent housing projects to guard against leaky hot water faucets. The agency warned that one drop of water per second from one hot water faucet in each of 600 dwellings would pay costs of heating eighteen dwellings, supplying hot water to forty, or equal rent costs for one dwelling through the period of time the leaks continue.

Stout Will Assist In Ordination of Roswell Man Tuesday

The Rev. Henry S. Stout, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Artesia, serving as moderator, will take a leading part in the ordination of Roger B. Sherman of Roswell as a pastor of the church at special services at the Little Gray Church in Dexter at 7:30 o'clock next Tuesday evening.

The local pastor will make the presentation of the candidate and constitutional questions and laying on of hands, as well as making the declaration.

Sherman has, for the last twelve years, been serving Eastern New Mexico as a Sunday school missionary under the Board of Sunday School Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. He has organized many Sunday schools in outlying districts and has established many preaching points.

The public is invited to attend the ordination exercises.

President Approves Sixty-Eight Thousand Sewer Project Here

BIG PEP RALLY AT 6:30 TONIGHT

Artesia football fans are backing the Bulldogs to the limit to beat the Albuquerque Indians here at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening and they will stage a big public rally downtown at 6:30 o'clock this evening.

Traffic will be stopped between Roselawn and Fourth on Main Street at 6 o'clock, J. C. Floore, police chief, said, in order that the team, band, pep squad, members of the Bulldog Boosters and other fans may assemble and put on a program in the street. Fred Cole, president of the Boosters, will have members on hand to direct traffic and keep cars from driving into the block, under the direction of Floore.

Everybody is invited to take part in the program and to help instill additional pep into the Bulldogs, who have won the last three games, for meeting the strong Indian squad.

C. D. Marshall, high school principal and athletic director, pointed out that the game will begin at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, instead of 8 o'clock, the time being set back because of the shortening days.

Voting to issue the bonds by the city council in August was necessitated when the State Health Department found the present plant inadequate to handle the load. The department at that time recommended that action be taken at once.

At the time the bond issue was voted by the city council, members said it was expected only about half of the $70,000 would be necessary, as the WPA project had been set up and application was ready to be made.

As the ordinance for the bonds recited that they will be payable solely out of the net income to be derived by operation of the sewer system and from excess income to be derived from operation of the waterworks, another ordinance was passed insuring an income for the sewer system, the income from which was pledged for paying off of the bonds.

The ordinance called for the establishment of a charge for sewer connections, which was made 5 cents a connection a month, with a minimum monthly charge for a property of 30 cents.

That charge was reflected the first of this month for the first time on the water bills.

Two Additional Local Men in Defense Group

Gov. Miles Appoints G. E. Currier, Charles Morgan Members of State Committees to Round Out State Organization.

Two more Artesia men have been appointed by Gov. John E. Miles as members of committees of the State Council on National Defense, to complete the organization of committees. However, additional members will be appointed later, along with an executive committee, the governor said.

Charles Morgan of the American Legion and superintendent of the Continental Oil Company refinery here, was named a member of the committee on human resources, skills and training, and G. E. Currier of the Artesia Abstract Company was named on the committee on agricultural and livestock resources and production.

Other committees appointed were on housing, public works and facilities and civil protection.

The governor said that in letters of appointment being sent to the members he is requesting that they meet at an early date to organize and discuss possible cooperation. (Continued on last page, col. 3)

Ott's Store Stock To Be Sold at Public Auction

The stock of the Paul A. Ott's Jewelry Company store, which has been adjudged bankrupt, has been bought by B. F. King of King's Jewelry, Lubbock, Tex., and will be sold at auction at the store location here at Roselawn and Main, starting at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The auction will continue at 2:30 and 7:30 o'clock each day until it has been disposed of, a representative of King said this morning.

It is the intention of King's Jewelry to reopen the store at the same location after the old stock has been sold out, with a complete stock of new jewelry and well-known makes of watches.

An expert watchmaker and jeweler will be part of the store staff, the representative said.

He said King has had a number of sales in the past and each has been marked by its fairness to the public and he assured the public the current sale will be clean and courteous.

In the transaction, King bought both the business and the stock.

THE SKYROCKET BURSTS

We are not always right in our first impressions or analyses of situations, but it is surprising how often we do hit the nail on the head, just as we now believe we did in regard to Wendell Willkie.

When he was nominated and we were asked what we thought of him, we had to admit we never had heard of him until recently, as was the general case.

But, we added, he was coming up so rapidly we believed he would be like a skyrocket, that he would make a beautiful ascent, describe a graceful arc in the heavens and then in a burst of glory fade out and drop again.

Today it appears that we were correct. He did rise rapidly, as a skyrocket. He did make a beautiful start. Finally he did begin to describe an arc, leading to descent, as he is doing now, and the burst of fireworks is on, whereby Wendell Willkie is burning himself out in the public eye.

Mr. Willkie has been a great disappointment to many of his party leaders. And those anti-third-term Democrats who rallied to his banner some weeks ago are swinging back to Franklin D. Roosevelt, as they should—where they should have stayed.

They are wondering what a man would do in the White House as president of the United States if he can jumble things up and put his foot in his mouth so much while campaigning. If a man can pull so many bonehead declarations before he is in, what would he be like after election? they ask.

We were opposed to a third term on general principles, whether it be Roosevelt or Joe Doakes in there pitching, but there are certain things which alter cases, and the world picture at present certainly alters the case.

Perhaps a recent editorial in The Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal can tell it better than we. It said, in part:

"We were sorry when Mr. Roosevelt decided to run again. Our dislike of the third term was not based on fear of dictatorship. (No one who has watched the president in action could think he was either capable or desirous of being a dictator. His worst failure is his inability to be ruthless.) But we thought, wrongly it seems, that the third term attempt would lead to bitterness and irrelevant argument. We did not like the talk of indispensability. And we thought, wrongly again, it seems, that the country would prefer a rest from Roosevelts."

"The campaign is now half over; the evidence, we believe, is now on hand. We find that with all his faults we still think Mr. Roosevelt is a great man who may prove greatly daring in the face of the world menace. We find, reluctantly, that we think Mr. Willkie is a confused man who cannot be expected to fulfill the hopes of his supporters. His campaign record discourages us for four main reasons.

"First, we doubt if he has a clear policy on the war, a policy that can be trusted not to change. His friends claim there is no difference between the Willkie and the Roosevelt war policies. We suggest that there is this difference: The Roosevelt war policies are all of a piece, whereas Willkie cancels out his own best statements."

"Our second reason for discouragement is that Mr. Willkie's record on domestic policy also seems dangerously unclear. He has accepted many New Deal measures, such as the farm program and the National Labor Relations Act and the Wage-Hour Law, and he has praised many New Deal objectives. At Tulsa he went so far as to say that he stands on the 1932 Democratic platform—which would commit him to most of the New Deal, except for emergency spending and the unbalanced budget. Yet in Indiana he asked for a Republican Congress so that 'we can repeal some of this pernicious legislation.' Which legislation? He doesn't say."

"Third, we are discouraged by the lack of balance and reliability in some of Mr. Willkie's speeches. He seems to lose control of himself under the heady excitement of a campaign."

"Our fourth discouragement comes from the fact that Mr. Willkie has proved himself a bad organizer. One reason for the country's excitement over Willkie was the thought that here was a man who knew how to control great enterprises efficiently. Such a man might have seemed sent from Heaven at America's dark hour, to help us prepare a total defense rapidly and with no waste motion. But Mr. Willkie is not such a man. As is well known, his campaign is a model of disorganization and crossed purposes."

"On the other side, we have Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace. They stand shoulder to shoulder on a foreign policy of which we approve, on a philosophy of democracy at home and abroad which seems to us one of the few remaining hopes of a free world. The president's New Deal has sought, blunderingly at times, to find the new social and economic forms which can save democracy in this new and perilous world."

"Mr. Roosevelt and his running mate have convinced us—as Mr. Willkie has not—that they never forget we are in the midst of a world revolution. They have convinced us—as Mr. Willkie has not—that they see there is but one vital task ahead: to prevent the revolution from abolishing democracy on either shore of the Atlantic. We think they have the will and the experience to fight this dire battle, at home and abroad, more successfully than any other candidates. Therefore we give them our support."

THE AMERICAN WAY IS TO SMILE

We will say for Mr. Willkie, though, and for President Roosevelt and for every other candidate and government head whose picture we have seen from time to time, that they can and do smile.

But have you ever seen Hitler, or Mussolini, or any of their satellites smiling, even for the camera boys? Nor have we!

It must be terrible to be a major functio of a totalitarian power, so crowded with meanness that you can't smile.

It is equally delightful to be or strive to be a leader in a democracy such as ours, in which it is a pleasure to live and run things, so delightful that you can smile even during a period of world strife.

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Mortals need not fancy that belief in the experience of death will awaken them to glorified being. Universal salvation rests on progression and probation, and is unattainable without them."

Sands of Time

THIRTY YEARS AGO

(From The Advocate Files for Oct. 22, 1910)

Southbound passenger train No. 113 on the Santa Fe, leaving Roswell about 7 o'clock Saturday morning, was wrecked three miles this side of Hagerman by running into a burro. J. H. Sauter, fireman, was killed.

The buff brick building of Gilbert & Collins on Roselawn and the Sipple building at Fourth and Main have been completed and add to the community. Artesia now has two splendid structures that rival anything in the territory.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

(From The Advocate Files for Oct. 22, 1925)

The possibility of the installation of a casinghead gasoline plant for the Artesia oil field is one of the latest developments this week. Surveys of the field have been made by three of the largest companies interested in the project.

Artesia's first fatal grade crossing accident was closely averted Tuesday morning when the coupe of T. J. Dostalik was hit by the passenger train.

C. Bert Smith was elected for the seventh consecutive time grand secretary of the I. O. O. F. of New Mexico last week at Albuquerque.

Mrs. G. R. Brainard, president of the Artesia Woman's Club, was elected one of four delegates from the state to attend the biennial at Atlantic City.

State Comptroller R. H. Carter this week distributed the county's share of the motor vehicle license fees, amounting to $1,114.17, which is one-third of that collected between March 18 and June 30.

The Woman's Club began its year's work with a reception in the clubroom at the I. O. O. F. hall Saturday afternoon, with Mmes. Brainard, Graham, Richards, Stroup and Hartell in the receiving line.

Fred Brainard and wife returned this week from Baltimore, Md., to spend the winter in Artesia. Mr. Brainard, who has earned quite a reputation as a ball player and team manager, closed one of his most successful seasons this year, when his team, the Baltimore Internationals, won the pennant.

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Knowles visited Mr. and Mrs. Clayborn Butler in Carlsbad Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Cleve of Elk were in Artesia this week visiting in the home of Mrs. Cleve's father, D. S. Martin, and also with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keinath. They attended the Round-Up Club dance Saturday evening.

WHAT'S WHAT in NEW MEXICO

News Briefs of the "Sunshine State," Gleaned from Many Sources

Barnaba Naiche, grandson of a famous war chief, was the first to answer Uncle Sam's call for the draft among the Mescalero braves, who responded to a man. Pronouncing the registration 100 per cent, Superintendent H. L. Newman reported seventy-six Apaches, six Comanches and eleven Indians from the Southwestern tribes registering at Mescalero. "The young men were all anxious to go," Newman said. Barnaba's grandfather fought at the side of Geronimo when the Apache struck terror over the Southwest in the eighties. An army report described Chief Naiche as "one of the most determined, untractable, defiant—even more than Geronimo himself."

The 1940 Coronado program, a series of historical and informative pageants depicting the travels of the conquistador 400 years ago, will close with a Coronado Southwest fiesta Nov. 28-29 in El Paso, Managing Director G. C. Dieken announced. Organization of the Santa Fe group to participate in the Southwest fiesta already is under way, he said. The fiesta will be held in the El Paso Sun Bowl, and will be preceded by a Coronado prologue, written and directed by Mark Hamilton, a director with the federal administration staff this summer.

A police radio, ordered jointly by Chaves County and the city of Roswell, arrived last week and the work of installing the equipment started immediately. The city workmen started erecting the necessary radio towers and the connecting lines that run to the radio. A radio specialist, sent out by the builder of the equipment to be used in Roswell, is expected to arrive within the next few days to hook up the sending equipment, and test it. The receiving sets, for the city, have not yet arrived, but are also expected in the near future. The radio equipment to be used there is a 500-watt transmitter, built especially for use as police radio equipment. It is being installed at the police station in the city hall.

Fred Campbell, Bernalillo archer, last week brought home a 90-pound brown bear, which he killed in the Jemez Mountains of Northern New Mexico with a bow and arrow.

Wet weather and a scarcity of pickers were attributed last week as partially responsible for a Dona Ana County cotton ginning this season of 4,956 bales of cotton as compared with 6,502 at that time last year.

About the same number of sheep will be fed in New Mexico this year as last, the Department of Agriculture said. Excellent condition of wheat pastures of Kansas, Oklahoma and Eastern Colorado was expected to attract a heavy movement.

New Mexico income gained $8 per capita over 1938, the Commerce Department said, to reach $323 per capita in 1939, compared to a national per capita income of $536. Mississippi was lowest with $203 and New York highest with $825. In the peak prosperity year, 1929, the state's income was $358 and in 1933 at the bottom of the depression $218. The New Mexico income was placed at $170,000,000 in 1939.

An average of 665 inmates were confined in the state penitentiary during the last year, the prison board reported. The prison population varied from a low of 625 to a high of 676. The board said it cost about $250 a year for each prisoner—68.5 cents a day—to operate the prison, adding the cost was "the lowest in years." In addition to maintenance and subsistence, the total included $6,457 for repairs and improvements. Convicts earned $45,241 in the year, the board said, including farm and dairy produce and livestock.

A supplementary NYA appropriation of $108,000, to be spent within four months to employ 1,500 New Mexico youths in related defense training has been granted in Washington, State NYA Administrator Tom Popejoy announced. The 1,500 youths will be in addition to the 900 already employed on out-of-school work projects he said. Several shops in key centers throughout the state will be established and shops already in operation expanded. "We plan an extension of projects which will give work experience in shops devoted to metal products and related instructions, and education under the state department of vocational education," he said. The program will be completed under this appropriation in four months. Location of the shops and ones to be expanded were not announced.

Miguel Otero, Sr., former territorial governor of New Mexico, celebrated his eighty-first birthday at Santa Fe Oct. 17 with a party at his home. Already author of three volumes on New Mexico pioneer life, he announced he planned to do more writing.

Ralph S. Trigg, chairman, believes the state merit system commission will have its program operating in eight state agencies by Dec. 1. He gave the estimate after a commission meeting at which examinations for medical positions in the institutions and departments under the system were set for Nov. 2.

Secretary of State Jessie Gonzales withdrew the Communist party emblem and the names of its national candidates from the New Mexico ballot on advice from the attorney general's office. The Communist party, Assistant Attorney General A. M. Fernandez advised the secretary of state, had failed to file its party rules as required by law. Fernandez said the Communists had filed what they described on the document as "excerpts from the constitution and by-laws of the Communist party of New Mexico as amended in convention, May 14-15, 1938." "The law requires the rules of a party to be filed, not excerpts," said Fernandez. "The defect pointed out makes this paper wholly insufficient to constitute rules of a party authorized by the statute, and is wholly insufficient to authorize the conclusion of the so-called Communist ticket on the state ballot."

More than 100,000 persons visited the Monjeau Observatory in the White Mountains near Ruidoso during the last summer season, officials of Lincoln National Forest estimated. The observatory is a three-story structure built at an altitude of 10,000 feet, and serves as a forest fire watch station for the Bonita and Ruidoso watersheds.

Highway users paid $1,252,205,000 in direct taxes to state treasuries during 1939, the Federal Works Agency said. State gasoline taxes provided $821,656,000; motor vehicle fees, $412,494,000, and motor-carried taxes, $18,055,000. The highway users' taxes distributed in 1939, by states, included: New Mexico, $6,177,000; Oklahoma, $21,613,000; Texas, $66,518,000.

Japan has a farm-hand shortage.

Miss Marjorie Keyes of Roswell was a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Welch the first of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Runyon of the Lower Penasco were in Artesia Monday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Yates, Jr., spent last week in Dallas visiting friends. Their young son, John Ashby, accompanied them on the trip.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Walker, Sr., had as their guests last week their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Walker, Jr., of El Paso. They arrived Wednesday of last week and returned to their home Saturday.

UNUSUAL TIMES . . .

Require Men of Unusual Ability

DENNIS CHAVEZ
For United States Senator

CLINTON P. ANDERSON
For Representative in Congress

JOHN E. MILES
For Governor

These are unusual times.

They require men of unusual ability

It is especially important that in the Congress of the United States we have men who are trained in government . . . men who are experienced and who know their way around.

In times of crisis, men who have proved their ability under fire are vital to our security.

The Democratic Party offers such men.

United States Senator Dennis Chavez may well prove, during the next few years, to be the most important man in the Congress in our national effort to bring about unity and solidarity among the Americas. Senator Chavez is the only man in Congress of Latin-American descent. His long service makes him invaluable at this crucial time.

This year friendship among the Americas becomes of paramount importance. It is vital to our economic security. Senator Chavez is one of the most valuable men in the United States to help cement this friendship.

Clinton P. Anderson, Democratic nominee for representative in congress, has, over a period of years, established many important contacts in Washington. He is no newcomer in that field. He knows the key men in the various departments in Washington. He is personally acquainted with most of them. He will lose no time in taking up his important duties and in getting results for New Mexico.

Mr. Anderson has repeatedly demonstrated his ability as an executive, a business man and an administrator. He will take talent, determination and the priceless gift of leadership to his important job.

THE ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF UNSELFISH LEADERSHIP

The present state Democratic administration has been the most efficient and economical in the history of New Mexico.

It has worked closely with our president and our congressional delegation and with the national administration to get things done.

As a few examples of what capable, unselfish leadership can do, we cite the following:

Cost of government in New Mexico has been reduced by $2,157,000 annually.

Cost of highway construction has been cut almost in half.

Roads are built today for approximately 50 per cent of what they previously cost. This great saving means that New Mexico will complete all primary highways during 1941 and 1942, years ahead of schedule.

Strict adherence to a policy, inaugurated by the Miles administration, of letting all highway contracts only by open, competitive bidding, has made this tremendous saving possible.

The leadership of Governor John E. Miles has been chiefly responsible for the great economic gains which the present administration has made.

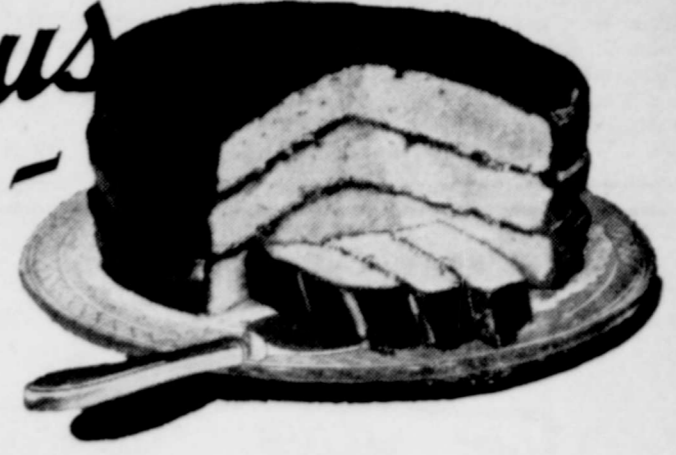

On the basis of their records, these men deserve your full support.

Miss Mary Johnson of Artesia and Miss Blanche Fesler of Carlsbad, representing Eddy County at the national Dairy Show in Harrisburg, Pa., last week, won second place in the national dairy foods contest.

They previously had won the New Mexico championship, which earned them the trip to Harrisburg.

Misses Johnson and Fesler, both freshmen at New Mexico State College, placed second in the entire United States with their demonstration on the making of farm process cheese and some of its uses. All demonstrations in the division in which the two girls competed were on the manufacturing phase of the dairy program, designed to show new uses for dairy products and to demonstrate the method of preparing dairy products for consumption.

Donald Miller and Preston Martin, both of Curry County, placed third in the Western division of the national dairy demonstration contest. In this contest, they competed against eight teams from the Western division for national honors. Their demonstration was on the production of quality milk and cream, emphasizing the necessity for cleanliness in milk production. These boys were state winners of the dairy production demonstration contest which was held during the State 4-H Club Encampment at State College.

Jal Panthers, 1939 Gateway Bowl Champs, Bow to Artesia

Bulldogs Take Game 27 to 6, Third Straight

Locals Make Touchdown In Each Quarter and Convert Three.

The Jal High School Panthers, undefeated during the 1939 season and winners of the Gateway Bowl classic here last Dec. 8 over the Silver City Colts, bowed in defeat on their own field Friday evening to the Artesia Bulldogs, who took them 27 to 6.

"Icky" Lewis and Bob Ferguson, Artesia backfield stars, raised to the heights of their prep school careers and galloped far and wide for the Bulldogs' four touchdowns, tucking away their third straight victory.

The Bulldogs tallied once in each quarter and the Panthers' lone score came late in the third quarter. "Kit" Carson passed complete to Lewis early in the first period from the Panthers' 23-yard line for the first Artesia counter. Lewis took Carson's second down pass standing in the end zone, after the Bulldogs had driven down the field on three firsts-and-tens after Phil Mooney, Bulldog center, recovered a disastrous Jal fumble on the Panther 38-yard line. Raymond Kennedy's place kick try for extra point went wide of the posts.

Lewis shoved off on a 32-yard jaunt around right end to start the second Bulldog scoring thrust in the second quarter, carrying to the Jal 18-yard line. Artesia took to the air again on first down with "Kit" Carson flipping a pass to Lewis again, who took it on the Panther three-yard line and scored standing up. Kennedy made good his kick try for the point.

It was Lewis again starting the touchdown fireworks when he express-trained left end in the third canto, carrying for thirty-four yards this time and setting the locals up for a touchdown on the Jal 18-yard line. Ferguson crashed over left guard into Panther pay dirt on first down. The try for conversion was blocked.

Gail Ray, substitute halfback, took Jackson's fourth down pass in the Bulldog end zone for the Panthers' only score late in the third period, after Coaches Joe Greeno and Alan Thompson had taken out their starters and put in the second string. Bill Jackson passed it over from the Artesia 15-yard stripe, after the Jal grid-ders had advanced the ball from midfield on a passing attack. The kick for extra point was no good.

Bob Ferguson, outstanding Bulldog fullback, stole the spotlight on the nicest run of the game in the final period, ripping through the complete Panther eleven on a 79-yard punt. The play began from the Bulldogs' own 21-yard line with Lewis faking the ball to Ferguson, who tore off left tackle and into the clear, where he showed some nice broken-field work, eluding two would-be tacklers on the Jal 20-yard line.

Artesia's other two points came midway in the final period on a safety. "Buck" Buchanan, Bulldog left tackle, broke through the Panther forward wall and blocked Ray's third down quick-quick on the Jal eight-yard line. On the next play three Bulldogs broke through the line again to nail Jackson behind the goal line where he stood to kick.

The locals were well on their way to another score as the game ended with the pigskin in the Bulldogs' hands on the Jal 12-yard line,

Name Football Winners for Coming Week End And Get Tickets to the Portales-Artesia Fray

With the football season in full swing, more and more fans are trying each week to dope out the games over the week ends. So The Advocate, with the cooperation of the athletic department of Artesia High School, is going to give its readers a chance to play an interesting game, not a new one, but one which always delights drug store coaches and sideline prognosticators.

All one has to do to play this game is to guess, figure out by means of astronomical calculations, or play hunches as to what teams will win, lose or draw over the coming week end.

The person who guesses most correctly this week's list before the deadline, which has been set at 6 o'clock Friday afternoon, Oct. 25, will be awarded two tickets to the Portales-Artesia football game here Friday evening, Nov. 8.

Fall Cleaning Includes Menus, Too

Shake the mothballs out of the damask drapes, hang the comforters on the line to soak up the Indian summer sun, and send those woolens to the cleaners. But don't stop there; carry your Fall house-cleaning into the kitchen too.

Take an inventory of what's on the shelves, from top to bottom. Scour out those pots and pans, wash down the cupboard, relime the shelves, and polish up the silver. Make it a field day in your own particular field.

Don't overlook your coffee maker. Coffee is as good as the pot it comes from, and the kind of maker doesn't matter. Cleanliness being what it is, your winter-time coffee will be the brew that really cheers if you start out with a sparkling coffee maker. This is how:

Keep Your Coffee Maker Clean

- 1. Empty grounds from coffee maker as soon as coffee is made, rinse in hot water. 2. Wash in clean hot water as soon as possible after using. 3. Rinse thoroughly with clear, very hot water to remove all trace of suds and dry with a clean towel. 4. Use a brush to clean parts where sediments or oil may collect. 5. Leave the coffee maker unassembled between uses so that it can "air."

Cheese croutons on top of pea soup are fun and good. Roll bread cubes in cooking oil, then in grated cheese. Broil under low heat until brown.

Fete the bride, the birthday guest or you: press initials into the top of the uncooked meat loaf with sliced stuffed olives, then bake. Tastes good, looks pretty, please.

Curried orange slices with lamb chops—that's the Florida way. Peel Florida oranges, cut in 1-inch slices. Dot with butter, brown sugar and a dash of curry powder. Broil with chops 5 to 7 minutes.

Shake up! is what you do to dates. Pat stuffed pasteurized dates into a sack with a little sugar in it and shake, but gently. Quick confection.

Look to your Emergency Shelf, re-stock it for Fall with things like jars of Julienne potatoes, ready to heat and serve; chicken a la king, cute glass pots full of baked beans, canape spreads of ham, chicken, turkey and cheese, sandwich spreads for lunch.

Carrier

The world's biggest conveyor belt, a cotton fabric band ten and a half miles long, is carrying ten million tons of concrete aggregate up to the Shasta Dam in California. Until the dam is completed in 1944 this belt will never stop running, night or day.

There is another conveyor belt which normally carries a purchasing power aggregate of a billion and a half dollars annually to the farmers of America—several times that amount to American businessmen. It is the conveyor belt of cotton buying which carries the raw material from two million farms through 15,000 gins, 2,000 markets, nearly 2,000 spinning and weaving mills, nearly 20,000 garment and other factories, making finished consumers goods for 140,000,000 American cotton consumers.

Your own individual cotton purchases are the threads in this giant carrier. Because of the vast commercial edifice dependent on them, they must not break down.

To Observe Navy Day Here and Over Nation on Monday

U. S. Two-Ocean Defense Adds Significance at This Time

Navy Day, which will be observed over the nation Monday, Oct. 28, as Oct. 27 falls on Sunday this year, has been proclaimed a day of special significance here by Mayor Emery Carper, whose proclamation appears elsewhere in this issue.

The day was inaugurated in 1922 by the Navy League of the United States and its observance sponsored by the league annually.

The date of Oct. 27 was selected because it is the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt, so much of whose life was devoted to establishing a sound naval policy for the United States of America. It will be remembered that President Roosevelt first achieved a national reputation by writing a naval history of the War of 1812, a work of such merit that it was incorporated into "Clowe's Royal Navy," a monumental history of the British sea service. Later, as assistant secretary of the Navy, and finally as president, Theodore Roosevelt bent his tremendous energy to impress upon the American people the necessity for an adequate Navy and endeavored through his leadership to realize this ideal.

October is also the month in which the American Navy was founded in 1775 by the Continental Congress.

In addition to paying a deserved tribute to the sea heroes of the nation and recalling the splendid part the Navy has played in making and keeping the nation, Navy Day observance has proved a valuable means of fostering a better understanding of the Navy and its work. Such information, in a country where government is by public opinion, is essential to the formation of correct judgments affecting naval policy, and, by its work of information, Navy Day observance has played a considerable part, Mayor Carper said.

With the cooperation of the Press, the radio broadcasting industry, and motion pictures, and with the participation of the Navy and other governmental agencies, as well as the American Legion, the Daughters of the American Revolution, Veterans of Foreign

WORLD NEWS —in— BRIEF FORM

From Near and Far, Some Timely, Some of Human Interest

A St. Louis man who telephoned the Weather Bureau to inquire about conditions between there and Shenandoah, Ia., asked so many questions that Forecaster Walter Moxim thought he must be an aviator. "Are you traveling by auto or plane?" Moxim queried. "Oh, no," was the reply. "I'm just hitch-hiking."

Pat Patrick, Phoenix, Ariz., softball pitcher, won and lost the same game 2 to 1. He hurled for both teams. During the season he played on each team in different leagues so when they finally opposed each other he didn't leave the mound. He pitched sixteen innings, giving five hits to the winners and seven to the losers. P. S.: He didn't bat against himself.

Wars and other patriotic societies, Navy Day has developed into a day of serious thought on the subject of reasonable naval defense.

Navy Day took on added significance in 1939 because of the international situation. However, interest is even greater this year because the preparedness program now calls for a two-ocean navy.

A. H. Kramer of Aurora, Colo., a farmer, is proud of his farming ability but prouder still of his talent with musical instruments. "I am," he says, "the first man on record who planted a tree, watched it grow, saw it begin to die, cut it down and from the wood built a violin, which I'll enter in any contest of quality and tone." The tree was planted years ago. Kramer's children, now grown, played in the shade of it. He had no expert knowledge of violins, although he played that instrument and others.

At Morehead, Ky., Allie Young, garage worker, is glad he looked the second time. He threw away a letter thinking, he said, it was an advertisement. Upon his mother's suggestion, he later opened it. It informed him he had inherited the estate of an aunt, Mrs. Taylor Young of New York. Young said attorneys told him the estate would aggregate between $75,000 and $100,000.

Eugene, Ore., waitresses in the restaurant thought it was love. A man and woman sat at a table throughout the luncheon hour, so engrossed in conversation they were unaware they had not eaten. But it wasn't love. They were doctors, attending a state medical society meeting. And they were discussing of all things—diabetes.

Bernie R. Meidinger of Louisville, Ky., is one of those fellows who's proud of a receipt for speeding. In Indiana the other day Meidinger was arrested by a state policeman and hailed before a judge who fined him $1 and costs of $5. The receipt was signed: "Jesse James, magistrate."

Farmer J. J. Parker of Dunn, N. C., bought his children a bicycle. He went riding and broke a leg. His little daughter tried out the wheel the next day and broke her nose. His son hopped on it next day and started for the family groceries. He fell and broke an arm.

New York Magistrate Michael A. Ford was like the absent-minded professor. When a couple came to his home to be married, the magistrate, thinking of his unfinished dinner, suggested that they go to night court instead, and "My colleague there will be glad to accommodate you." Later Ford remembered it was his turn on the night bench—so he rushed down to court and performed the ceremony.

A Kansas City barber nicked C. A. Bawer's nose while shaving him. Blood spurted from the cut. The excited barber, hurrying to a telephone for aid, cut his own thumb on the razor.

At Waterloo, Neb., Wayne Sass, 2, takes his politics not seriously but internally. He swallowed a campaign button given to his parents. Doctors said his condition was "good," but that they would have to operate to remove the button.

In Shreveport, La., a 27-year-old Negro is ill in Charity Hospital, a victim of his own "toothache remedy." When an aching tooth persistently pained him, he filled his mouth with kerosene and resolved to keep it there until the pain ceased. After an hour he fell asleep—and swallowed the kerosene.

Because Traffic Policeman Edward Ryan was "very courteous" in arresting him for speeding, Emery Huff responded in kind. Huff paid a fine of $8.35 in a Springfield, Ill., police magistrate's court and then invited the arresting officer to lunch.

Rancher or Farmer John Doe in Town vs. the Hunter Out in the Field on Ranch or Farm

(The North Carolina Wildlife Conservation Association some time ago issued a story, "Rancher or Farmer in Town vs. Hunter on the Ranch or Farm," which brings out some pertinent points, well worth a moment of thought on the part of the many men who will take to the hills next week after their buck and with quail season coming soon. It was passed on to The Advocate by a rancher, who is a sportsman himself, but who knows just how the things related work. The association comments on the story by saying, "Sportsmen who respect landowners' rights are seldom refused hunting privileges." That is worth thinking about and the following is worth reading and thinking about.)

Rancher or Farmer John Doe goes to town to sell his produce, to purchase his weekly supply of groceries, and to get additional farm or ranch implements. The following happenings greet him. They are the normal procedure of city life, but compare them a little later to the things which the sportsman expects of the farmer or rancher during the hunting season.

1. He sees "No Parking" or "Half Hour Parking" signs everywhere.

Result: Rancher or Farmer John Doe drives over to the vacant lot and Hunting Season Friend D. M.

Goodshot collects 25 cents for parking permission for three hours.

2. He meets a group of friends, talks for a while, and later goes to the office of a notary public.

Result: The notary public, a hunting season friend for the past three years, charges him the customary fee for notarizing a paper, despite the fact that on numerous occasions he secured the bag limit of game on the Doe ranch or farm.

3. He purchases his groceries at Hunting Season Friend I Sellum Cheap's store on credit.

Result: He has to pay the carrying charges, and other innumerable costs, although he would sell his wheat the next week and could pay the bill then.

4. He gets a haircut from another hunting season friend, I. Clippum, and meets some more friends there.

Result: He pays for services rendered and notes a large prominent sign which reads, "No loafing—This is a place of business."

5. As most of his business in town is finished, Rancher or Farmer John Doe goes to a place of amusement and meets Hunting Season Friend I. M. Tight, manager.

Result: He pays 35 cents for a ticket, sees the show, and remembers that Mr. I. M. Tight said last fall that he hunted for amusement rather than for the meat.

6. Rancher or Farmer John Doe starts for home, but his car fails to run properly; therefore he has Hunting Season Friend I Fixum, mechanic, to work on his car for a few minutes.

Result: He pays 75 cents for services rendered.

The list of courtesies that could have been shown Mr. Doe for the hunting privileges of his ranch or farm could go on until far into the night, but none of them were shown him.

We have seen how Mr. Doe fared in town, so now let us see how he gets along on his ranch when Mr.

D. M. Goodshot comes out to the farm during the hunting season.

1. Mr. Goodshot started hunting in the pasture and failed to close the gate securely.

Result: The cattle got out and grazed on frosted clover which meant a veterinarian's bill or the probable loss of one or more cattle.

2. Mr. Goodshot flushed a covey of quail which flew towards the thicket which was between Mr. Goodshot and John Doe's house.

Result: One or more loads of No. 8 shot rained on the tin roof. Since Mrs. Doe already has a weak heart from overwork, the raining of shot on the roof doesn't help her in the least.

3. Mr. Goodshot goes directly to another covey by crossing a wheat field which is so wet that he gets mired past his ankles.

Result: Loss of stand of wheat wherever Mr. Goodshot mired up and if heavy winter rains do not come, Mr. Goodshot's tracks can be picked up for months afterward.

4. Mr. Goodshot decides to drive his car to the far side of the ranch or farm to save time and walking.

Result: He gets his car stuck in the mud and Mr. Doe has to get his team and pull the car out of the mud hole, but breaks a trace chain and single-tree in doing so. The only pay that Mr. Doe receives for this service is "Thanks."

5. Mr. Goodshot cuts two small well-shaped cedar trees for Christmas trees for the kiddies at home.

Result: Mr. Doe loses two or more fence posts, or he loses two 50-cent Christmas trees that he could have sold in town the next week.

Mr. Goodshot leaves Mr. Doe's farm or ranch with a very good bag of game. In fact, it is an excellent bag of game considering the investment which Mr. Goodshot has made in producing and protecting wildlife; Mr. Goodshot's investment is one hunting license, the cost of which probably would not purchase one life native bobwhite quail. Mr. Goodshot left without even offering Mr. or Mrs.

Mrs. Juanita Braum and small daughter, Patricia, arrived Saturday from Idaho Falls, Idaho. They expect to make their home with Mrs. Braum's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Hogan.

Mrs. Cavitt Jackson and small daughter are here this week from their home in Los Angeles, Calif. They are visiting Mrs. Jackson's sister and brother-in-law, Mrs. Glenn Stone and Dr. Stone.

Dr. and Mrs. Wainright Miller had as their guests Friday Dr. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carter Miller, of El Paso. The visitors were en route home from South Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Dru Taylor of Maljamar and Mr. and Mrs. Roy McClane of Carlsbad are leaving this week end for Fort Worth and other points in Texas. They expect to attend a cattle sale and to be gone about two weeks.

Plucked from paradise back to England's hell. The singularly unpleasant dilemma of the gallant British captain and member of Parliament whose disgruntled constituency told him he would have to come back from Hawaii and suffer with the rest of them—or else! Read of his spectacular career in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next week's Los Angeles Examiner.

Doe any of the game taken from their farm.

Grand total result: Mr. Doe posts his farm against hunting and very reluctantly allows a very few of his closest and best friends to hunt once in a long while, and at the same time loses interest in increasing game on his farm.

Moral: If you plan to hunt in years to come, why not work out a better understanding with ranchers and farmers and respect their property rights in the same way that you expect yours to be respected?

Mrs. Gertrude Hogan, head of the Artesia Credit Association, and her daughter, Miss Nell, and another daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Juanita Braum and small daughter, Patricia, have moved from 501 Dallas to the Metzger tenant residence at 412 South Third St.

Mrs. Tom James arrived Saturday from Oceanside, Calif., where she has been for more than a year with her husband, who passed away there last month. Mrs. James, a former resident of Artesia, will make her home for the present here with her sister, Mrs. Gussie Izzard.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lanning left Tuesday for Albuquerque, where Mr. Lanning was to attend a Continental Oil Company meeting of district superintendents.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams and daughter, Catherine Louise, and son, Billy, arrived home Monday morning from Amarillo, where they spent a few days with Mr. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Williams. The Williams family attended the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. Williams' parents Sunday. They also visited Mrs. Eva C. Cudd, mother of Mrs. Williams, who resides in Amarillo.

Blind Boy's Broom Factory Latest Addition to Artesia's Industries

Along with Artesia's four axes, livestock, petroleum, agriculture and recreation, the community is becoming somewhat of a manufacturing center—in a small way, perhaps. The latest addition to that line of endeavor is a factory at Sixth and Texas, a small factory, in a trailer house, the broom factory of John Bessire, young blind man.

There Bessire began about six weeks ago to make his own living in the manufacture of brooms and to supply the Artesia trade with homemade brooms.

The blind boy used to make brooms before he totally lost his sight, for he learned how to make them six years ago when he was attending the Oklahoma School for the Blind at Muskogee.

At that time he had reasonable vision, but Bessire was threatened with loss of his impaired sight, so he studied Braille and other things taught to the blind, insurance against the time when sight would leave him. That loss came unexpectedly, the result of an injury sustained in an association football game at the school.

Prior to that time, young Bessire could read the printed word, as well as Braille, and he was licensed to drive a car. But those days are gone forever, so the young man has called on his knowledge of broom making, learned previously, to support him now.

The work today is all done by feel and it makes a person with average vision wonder how it can be done with the handicap, for part of the process calls for precision workmanship.

But Bessire, with his factory established in his trailer—and the overflow machinery out in the open—works alone day after day, making brooms, alone except for his "Seeing Eye Dog," Buster, who drowns away the days while John labors. Buster does his work when John makes his periodic visits to the Artesia stores, to which he sells his output at wholesale prices. Buster leads the way, seeing for John. However, in the factory Buster has nothing to do.

There John selects a handle for whatever type of broom he is going to make and inserts it in a like-like clamp in what he calls the winder. Then he tacks on a special kind of fine wire, held tight by the machine and fed off of a spool.

Using a foot treadle, which slowly turns the handle, John winds the wire around the handle and bit by bit adds broomstraw, until the broom is built up. It is not as simple as that, for there must be a little more straw here, a little less there, and the proper amount everywhere. But John knows just how much to use and where to use it, feeling everything with his fingers, which a person with vision would have difficulty in judging with his eyes.

At last, all of the straw in place, young Bessire continues to wind the wire around the handle, tapering it down and, in part, over colored felt for a pleasing effect to the eye—the customer's. The wire finally is tacked to the handle and broken off.

Then the unfinished broom is placed in a clamp, which Bessire has in the yard, to flatten out the bunched straws in the semblance of a broom as one is accustomed to it. While in the clamp, the blind boy uses a double pointed flat needle, the hole of which is in the middle, with which he sews the straw. Five rows of sewing are used.

The final process is cutting all of the straws to an equal length and to comb out the seeds. Then, with the addition of a label, the broom is ready for use.

Young Bessire is making four types of brooms at present, ware-house, regular house, wisk and toy, and he intends later to make mops, by a similar method.

It takes him about fifteen minutes to make a broom, which John defines as the wrapping process, and another fifteen minutes to sew and trim them, which gives him a weekly output of about six dozen at present with ordinary working days. However, he hopes to step up production as he becomes more familiar with the work.

He has been finding a fair market in the stores of Artesia, but he hopes also to step that up, as shipped in stocks diminish and consumers learn that a local product can be had.

America Must—

luncheon meeting of the Artesia Rotary Club on his official visit. The district governor, in a talk embracing the four aims and objects of Rotary, became eloquent when he reached the fourth, international service, and delivered one of the most splendid addresses the local club ever has heard. He told how society developed from the beginning, with people living in communities, then intermingling by intermarriage and trade because of the difference in products produced, and how the time came when the natural influence of adventure prompted certain persons to venture out as their own communities became more and more crowded.

Dr. Wright related how peoples from all nations of the earth peopled this continent and how they migrated to the West as conditions became more crowded in the East. Then, he said, there were no more geographic frontiers to conquer, so they "began to roll back from the Pacific" and had to adjust themselves and their social relationships.

And he spoke of unity, telling how no nation can express itself with other nations without unity of thinking within itself. In this respect, he said, Rotary has a splendid chance to help bring about a unifying of thinking of what Americanism is.

In idealism the American people can be brought together, Wright said. However, he continued, at the end of the present strife the world will be divided into two groups, the democratic nations and the totalitarian, the former with an ideology of freedom, the latter with an ideology of domination.

The totalitarian nations, said Gov. Wright, will have no trouble selecting leaders, but with the democracies it will be different.

But America has the materials to back up the ideals of democracy, he concluded, adding, "Do we have the guts to do it?"

Marriage licenses were issued Monday in Carlsbad to William Lee Wills and Marie Patton, and to James B. Carter and Gracie Bell Patton, all of Artesia.

He said he is particularly eager to have any suggestions from the committees as to what New Mexico can do in the defense program and how it can develop a long time plan that will not only aid in that program but in the economic progress and betterment of New Mexico.

The committees appointed, with the committees previously appointed, complete the organization of the various units of the state council, except for an executive committee.

tor, the judge and the jury," Crile said. "It must be borne in mind that the personnel of an appointed board is subject to change almost at will, and under the present act, if composed of a membership antagonistic to labor, would ruin labor."

With Crile on the program were Robert Botts, a former Hope boy, who is running for lieutenant governor, and Walter Hernandez, candidate for corporation commissioner. The three were guests of honor at a dinner on the Roof Garden of the Artesia Hotel at noon, prior to the public speaking. There all three were introduced and spoke briefly. Neil B. Watson, local attorney, presided.

At the rally Crile declared himself as unalterably opposed to the Cole Bill, or any similar legislation that would place control of the oil industry in the hands of a federal bureau.

He touched also on tariff, saying that so long as cattle, potash, petroleum and the development of new minerals are necessary for the national defense, they must be protected from imports. The best method is by means of a tariff, he said.

Crile charged that recent Congresses have failed the people, by failing to perform their duties and functions, and that instead have delegated powers to the executive, which has encouraged national socialism, as a result of which the American way of life has all but been lost.

The speaker, who came home from overseas at the conclusion of the World War with a commission as a major, attacked the recent appointment of Elliott Roosevelt as a captain, not because of the young man himself, but because of the effect it is having on the morale of other young men in America, especially those who are subject to military training for a year.

Botts in his talk declared the traditional differences between the Republican and Democratic parties are gone and as an example pointed out that the direct primary has been an essential part of the program of the Democratic party for years, but that his opponent in the coming election said in a speech at Tucumcari that "the direct primary law should be changed or repealed."

The speaker said his position is that it should remain on the books until it definitely has proved itself to be a failure. "And it certainly can't be said yet that it will not work," he added. It will have to be tried several more times before it will be known whether or not it needs any substantial amendment, he said.

Hernandez cautioned the audience against "allowing your personal adulation to sway your better judgment and be blinded to the threat of the third term," which would be voting for those people who were appointed by the president, "none of whom show the ability to run a business of the magnitude of a peanut stand."

Mrs. Boyd Brown, Mrs. Jack Wyatt, Mrs. Sidney Fleming and Mrs. Charles Brown spent Friday in Roswell shopping.
