Draft-Age Group Offers Services In National Defense Plans

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox with Mark S. Matthews, President of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, during their conference to determine ways and means of tying in Junior Chamber activities with the National Defense Program,

United States Junior Chamber of Commerce to Gear Organization and Activities to Nation's Needs

NEW YORK, N. Y .- In line with recent conferences with Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, and other Government officials, Mark S. Matthews, President of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce has announced plans of his Board of Directors to gear the activities of the organization into the needs of national defense and preparedness. The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, which was one of the first organizations to is probably the only national group in the country having the same age limits as the Selective Service Proclamation now in operation. Every one of the 150,000 young men who are members of its 1,000 affiliated Junior Chambers of Commerce throughout the country are from twenty-one to thirty-five.

Three-Point Program A three-point program has been dissemination of information through local organizations to all men of draft age and relating to all matters on compulsory military service; 2, The training of aviators through establishment of Flying Cadet recruiting programs, Junior Chamber of Commerce flying clubs, and CAA courses under JCC sponsorship; and, 3. Establishment of local schools and courses for the training of skilled workers essential to the national defense program, mechanics, welders, machinists, etc.

Knox Commends

Commenting on the program during their conference, Secretary Knox said to Mr. Matthews, "Your far-sighted interest is obvious in urge compulsory military training, your early demand for compulsory military training. I congratulate you on your stand here today and ask that you assure your Board of Directors of the gratitude of the United States Navy." Though the membership of the Junior Chamber of Commerce falls 100% within the age limits of Selective Service, Mr. Matthews pointed out that they do not look upon themselves as a special group having any special privilege. SERVICE

Service

A great word is "Service." Service to our Creator, service to our country, service to our fellow men. Service is the anti-thesis of selfishness.

This friendly bank is not only a safe depository for your money, it is also an institution of service. Think of the convenience and value to you to have at hand a place where you can leave your money secure from all hazards and risks, to be paid out as you order it done and every month receive an exact accounting in the form of a detailed statement. Checks, deposit books, statements, etc., are furnished free and we do the bookkeeping for you besides. In many other ways we give, without cost, our services to you.

To do these things, to pay taxes and costs of operation, it is necessary that the bank have earnings. This comes when you borrow or when you pay for certain services which we are unable to give to you free. You support your bank, a local and helpful institution, when you use it so that it may earn. As was said in the days of the Blue Eagle, "We do our part."

Lovington Beats Bulldogs at End of Twelve Grid Clashes

The once-mighty grid team of Artesia High School, weak on the ground and in the air last Thursday afternoon, fell to defeat 14 to 0 on the Lovington field at the hands of the Lovington Wildcats, who had been beaten but one time in their last nine games.

The Wildcat clash climaxed the longest and toughest football schedule that a Bulldog eleven has ever played, which was made up of twelve games, and was the lengthiest schedule of any prep school aggregation in the state. The locals came through with five wins and seven losses for their eason record.

After losing their first three games without ever making a score, the Bulldogs came back and piled up five wins in a row to make ico 4-H Club representatives at the them one of the most highly rated National 4-H Club Congress in Chigrid aggregations in this part of cago this week-Artesians both- congress. the state, and then several disas- who won the honor of going Miss Juanita Cline, right, was trous injuries struck Coach Joe through their outstanding club winner of the state canning con-Greeno's outfit and it lost its work. ench and lost the last three games to teams Artesia should his "pig project." FAITH AT CHRISTMASTIDE (Guest Editorial by W. W. Byers)

This month heralds the Christmas season. At this time of the vear we indulge in thoughts and feelings for which, strange though it be, we seem to imagine that we need a justification. We think of it in its broader sense and its truest value. We think of each other more as friends that we should be all the year. We think of our Heavenly Father as a reality that is closer than at other times. The reason is because upon the gift of His Son is our Christmas celebration founded. comers are invited to visit our Everyone is invited to come and The most inspiring idea that the Christ gave to this old world was that services and to make our church brink a basket. We extend an inof a new kind of faith.

Faith is not a thing to be sold in dozens or weighed in pounds or city. measured in bushels. It is in the beauty of the actions it inspires that faith becomes tangible. We need more of it in the home life, in the church, in the community and in the nation.

In any group, community, city or country, you will find those who continually forget the value of faith. We have at our very door a large percentage of the natural resources necessary in the making of a city just in the proportion to our faith. Faith promotes cooperation and cooperation is the certain road to success. Those who forget the value of faith easily become angry with others. They consume themselves in their own boiling wrath and drive away those whose friendship they surely will some day need. We need to have faith that will still secure and maintain friendship with those who for the issue, are are always delighted to have you by their beliefs thrown upon an opposite side. We have only to make worship with us. a few observations to be convinced that the prophecies of failure that some have enjoyed voicing have been unproved by events. This applies to every worthy industry. In all the known undertakings of mankind there will always be individuals who fail, but the business they represent, as long as those undertakings are important to life and comfort, will continue to progress. So we need not to fear for the future of our city or any worthy industry in the county. The task is to study and understand the trend of events, the need is to try to forestall anything that can be discouraging or detrimental. To continue to be successful it is necessary for us to make our own work as good as our 9:30 a. m. personal resources of education and strength and finances will allow. And is that enough? We must have faith and more faith in our business and in our future.

Included with faith were two other desirable things, hope and charity. We need to hope and while we hope we are happier and a happy person can work to real advantage. Charity in its broader sense, should it not mean that we give to others our belief in them, that generous certainty that all is going to be well, even though we cannot at all times understand?

At Christmas time let's give the gifts of faith and hope and kindness, even though it may cost the melting of a too proud spirit, the saying of a word of apology, a friendliness that is big enough to for. is the subject of the lesson-sermon get grudges.

WHAT'S THE NAME, PLEASE?

If there is anything which will make a newspaper man boil, it is to receive an anonymous letter, even if it is signed by "A Citizen" and contains a thought worthy of passing on.

And if the thought is passed on, it is done in such a way that "A cludes the following passage from What's wrong with love on the Citizen" gets no credit for it.

It seems to us that when anyone has anything worthy of saying, "Mortals must gravitate Godward, the observant and wise-cracking do so in such a case. And it is by the friendly interest of readers and broader interpretations of being, article appearing in The American "A Citizen" that editors get ideas to expand.

We have in mind a particular letter, mailed locally on Dec. 4 and signed by our old friend, "A Citizen," which brings up a timely topic. And we'll bet a lead nickle that the writer was afraid to give his name because someone's toes might be stepped on and it might backfire if the writer were known.

But the editor-the fellow with the stiff back and broad shoulders-can spout off for the other fellow and take the bouquets and scallions, mostly the latter, and that is all right!

So if you want cognizance taken of what you write, news or complaint, sign your name.

SURE WE CAN SPELL "DIOXID"

We have been asked a number of times the last two weeks if we know how to spell the name of a certain gas, and if so, how we do it. Our answer is that we do and that it is spelled either "dioxid" or "dioxide."

The latter is the more common spelling, we will admit, but the former is that most commonly used by chemists and, believe it or not, our first two years in college were spent as a chemical engineering

And besides, it worked into the headline better that way! The same goes for "sulfur."

Sticks have been here for several weeks, but have not been touched by the boys because of the numerous postponements. They will be used Friday evening, when some simple drum tunes will be tried

Although it is planned to buy drums and bugles and the whole outfits later, no bugles or drums have been ordered, committee members said, until the boys begin to "show their stuff."

However, any of the boys who wish to play bugles and have either bugles or cornets are asked to bring them to the rehearsal. All are to be taught the use of drum sticks, but the bugle section will be developed as time goes along.

It is hoped to have a crack drum and bugle corps before the state convention of the American Legion

Sands of Time

THIRTY YEARS AGO

(From The Advocate Files for Dec. 10, 1910)

The Commercial Club met in special session Saturday night and made arrangements for the entertainment of Governor Mills and Adjutant General Brooks, who came in on the northbound train Monday morning and spent most of the day in Artesia.

Those who have not been paying attention to the rapid and steady improvement of the Artesia military organization, Co. C., N. M. N. were agreeably surprised at the neat and soldierlike appearance presented by the company on the occasion of the reception of the governor and adjustant general.

Owen McClay has purchased the entire stock of the Artesia Furniture Company, so that he and the company are two in one flesh. Mr. McClay has been in Artesia several years as manager of and undertaker for the company.

Wednesday morning Dr. John J. Clarke, Jr., made his debut in New Mexico politics. He manifested a disposition to apply the principles of the initiative at once and insisted that his opinions be heard and heeded. His pa says that the young man is laboring under a misapprehension of facts and thinks that he is in Arizona where the referendum refers.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

(From The Advocate Files for Dec. 10, 1925)

The finding of a deeper sand by the Ohio Oil Company in their No. 6 well in SE 28-18-28 early Wednesday morning at a depth of 2,710 feet is considered by many as the most valuable addition made to the local field since the bringing in of the New States producer in Section 4 more than a year ago. The Continental Oil Company and Flynn, Welch & Yates refinery will be in operation by Dec. 15, two weeks before the scheduled time, Jan. 1, estimated some time ago. The present capacity of the refinery is 1,000 barrels.

A complete reorganization of Clarence Kepple Post 41 of the American Legion was made at a meeting of more than thirty-five former-service men Tuesday evening. Floyd L. Venter was elected commander.
