Oil Men Seek Regulations To Permit New Developments

Air Their Troubles at Hearing Senate Sub-Committee Tuesday

WANT DEVELOPMENT

Hiram Dow Would Strip Power From Interior Secretary.

Their troubles aired, independent oil operators of Southeast New Mexico are looking forward today to constructive legislation or modification of federal regulations to permit the unhampered development of new sources of petroleum for the war effort, after a hearing here Tuesday of the Senate sub-committee on public lands.

The daylong hearing at the Carper Terrace attracted oil men from throughout the state of New Mexico, as well as a number from West Texas, where the hearing is being continued today at Midland.

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, chairman of the sub-committee, presided at the hearing, at which a number of oil men and attorneys presented the case of the operators and producers, bringing out the need for prompt development of new oil reserves in the United States.

Senator Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico chairman of the committee on public lands and surveys, and three government department representatives completed the examining body, which is making an investigation with respect to the development of the public lands of the United States.

Hiram M. Dow of Roswell, former lieutenant governor of New Mexico and chairman of the permanent conference of oil regulatory bodies, set the keynote of the hearing, when he demanded that the secretary of interior be stripped of the power to renegotiate federal oil leases.

Commissioner Office Sought By J. D. Patrick

J. D. Patrick of Loving, who some time ago officially announced as a candidate for Eddy County commissioner from district No. 3, subject to the Democratic primary Sept. 12, has authorized The Advocate to place his name before the voters.

He was born and reared on a cotton farm in Barstow, Tex., and later attended school in California. After completing his schooling, the candidate went to the tropics for the United Fruit Company, growing bananas in Mexico and Central America, where road building was of prime importance in order to get the bananas out.

Having been on a farm the greater part of his life, Patrick understands the problems of farmers and ranchers and he has the welfare of the community at heart.

Patrick always has taken an interest in civic affairs and at Loving is a member of the Commercial Club. A staunch, lifetime Democrat, he has been active in public and party affairs.

The candidate is married and has three children. At Loving, where the family lives, Patrick owns a gasoline service station and grocery.

He said he would prefer to meet everyone personally during the campaign, but he realizes this would be impossible, even were it not for the rubber shortage and his desire to conserve the tires on his (continued on last page, column 5)

Sidelights From Hearing of the Sub-Committee

The local branch of the Independent Petroleum Association of America met at the conclusion of the hearing Tuesday and adopted a resolution expressing appreciation to the Senate sub-committee, Senators O'Mahoney and Hatch and the government representatives with them.

John J. Dempsey instilled a bit of humor into the hearing, when he said, in regard to the possibility of gasoline rationing in the West, "It would be as silly as rationing sunshine in New Mexico. Just because there's little sunshine in Pittsburg does not mean that we should stay darkened in New Mexico to equalize things."

Senator O'Mahoney said in an interview that his bill to set a flat 12 1/2 per cent royalty to the government is still in committee (Senate public lands) and probably will be revised on the basis of information at the hearings.

Worth Franklin disclosed that operators have been saying privately about 50 per cent of new drilling in this area probably will shut down next month for lack of casing.

Gov. John E. Miles of New Mexico was among the notables here for the hearing. And his successor was here too, for John J. Dempsey and Judge Bryan G. Johnson, the two Democratic candidates, both attended. And, of course, Congressman Clint Anderson was conspicuous towering above the crowd.

Farmers to Need 2,000 Laborers for Picking of Cotton

Meet Tuesday With Hatch and Anderson, Who Pledge Assistance

Farmers of Eddy County, meeting at the Artesia Hotel Tuesday evening with Senator Carl Hatch and Congressman Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico brought before them the grave labor problem facing the cotton farmers as picking season approaches.

Members of the USDA board and of the Victory Council committee told the legislators Eddy County has one of the best crops in history and that it must be saved.

Senator Hatch and Congressman Anderson assured the farmers they would do all in their power to bring in labor, either domestic or from Old Mexico. They at once began making contacts by means of long-distance telephone.

The farm delegation agreed immediately to make a survey of the county to determine how many cotton pickers will be needed.

The survey was about 75 per cent completed Wednesday and on the strength of figures obtained it was tentatively determined last evening about 2,000 laborers will be needed in Eddy County.

The survey will be completed today and the information will be started through the proper channels at once. The Employment Service office at Carlsbad will be contacted first and from there it will go through the state to national headquarters.

In taking the survey, members of the USDA war board and the Victory Council are getting all farmers to sign up, showing the number of cotton pickers they require and request.

The legislators told the farmers they will attempt to have all red tape eliminated and get quick action in order to relieve the situation.

The delegation waiting upon Senator Hatch and Representative Anderson represented the farming communities in both the north and south parts of Eddy County.

Rains Put Penasco Out of Bank Sunday In the Sacramentos

John Boans of Sacramento said the Penasco was on a rampage Sunday from heavy rains in the Sacramento Mountains Saturday night and Sunday.

Although nothing like the floods of last year, the river was out of bank at many places under flash flood conditions and all traffic was held up at Elk on Sunday. Boans said crops were not damaged by the water.

The Penasco was running over the top of the Hope dam Sunday.

Guard Company In Maneuvers at Damsite Sunday

A tactical problem involving the Hope retard dam was worked out Sunday by the State Guard, which was divided into attacking and defending platoons, respectively under the command of 2nd Lt. Howard Stroup and 1st Lt. Oscar Samelson.

Serving as referees were Major J. A. Pozz and 1st Lt. E. H. Day of New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell.

At the conclusion of the game, the visiting cavalry officers conducted a critique of the various phases of the maneuver, but did not announce a decision as to the winning side, if any.

Also acting as observers were Major Charles Morgan and Ben Bowers, who had surveyed the vicinity of the dam last week in order to make a topographical map for the use of the company.

The problem was outlined to the two platoon commanders by Capt. Oren C. Roberts, company commander.

At the conclusion of the maneuver, the Thompson .45-calibre sub-machine gun was demonstrated by Corp. Frank Smith.

The body was brought to Artesia, where funeral services were conducted from the First Baptist Church at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. S. M. Morgan, pastor. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Gilbert Langford, "Doc" Herndon and Lon French, Alamogordo; Bernard Cleve, Elk; Clay Thompson, Cloudcroft, and Alva Daugherty, Deming.

Surviving Mr. Norton are his widow; a son, Donald Norton, Jr., 11 years old; his mother, Mrs. Grace Vanderhoef, Canisteo, N. Y.; a sister, Mrs. John Clarkson, Canisteo; a brother, Paul Vanderhoef, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and a great-uncle, Steve Carney, Cloudcroft.

Donald William Norton was born April 23, 1901, in Pennsylvania. The family moved when he was young to Canisteo, N. Y., where he was converted and joined the Baptist Church.

Messer Brothers, at Home on Leave, Are Both Vets of Action

Two likely-looking lads, sons of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Messer of Artesia, were at home on furlough from last Thursday night until Wednesday morning, both veterans, and the younger was only 17 years old when he enlisted the day before Pearl Harbor.

The older brother, Jack Messer, shipfitter third class, wears three stars on his pre-Pearl Harbor service bar, each star indicating an engagement in which he has taken part, one of which was Pearl Harbor itself.

The kid brother, Bob, seaman second class, has one star on his bar. The service bars are those awarded to men who were in the service at the time the Japs made their sneak attack and Bob jumped the gun by one day, so he is entitled to wear it.

Both are on their way back to the West Coast to report again for fleet duty.

Kids Storm Movie This Morning at The Last Playday

Junior Woman's Club Project Attendance Totals More Than 1,000

A throng of boys and girls stormed the Ocotillo Theatre between 9 and 10 o'clock this morning to see a free movie with the compliments of Ray Bartlett, manager, and as their promised special treat on the last playday of the summer.

The ten previous Thursday mornings the kiddies assembled at the municipal swimming pool and high school for two hours of supervised fun, play and swimming.

The project, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club for the second summer, was quite successful, as the younger women of the city undertook to give the boys and girls something a little different one morning a week.

The free movie this morning was the climax of the program, carried out under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Parry, project chairman of the Junior Woman's Club.

At the conclusion of the show, the youngsters were to be taken to Central School, where cookies and cold drinks were to be on hand.

Although the boys and girls had not been counted at the time they went into the movie, it was known there were sufficient to have totalled more than 1,000 during the ten-week season.

GILMORE AND HENSON IN OFFICERS' TRAINING

Harry Gilmore and R. M. (Tex) Henson, who are to report Friday morning at Fort Bliss for assignment for volunteer officers' training in the Army, and their wives left this morning for El Paso. The men took their entrance examinations about a month ago.

Mrs. Henson and Mrs. Gilmore will remain in El Paso over the week end.

Sgt. Lynne Cobble, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cobble, who is stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., arrived home last Thursday on a fifteen-day furlough. He received the rating of a sergeant Aug. 15. Sgt. Cobble said he still enjoyed receiving and reading The Advocate every week.

Carlsbad 20-30 Wins Over Artesia Club in Donkeyball Game 5-2

The Carlsbad 20-30 club defeated the Artesia 20-30 club in a donkeyball game at Carlsbad Friday evening at 5 to 2, as nearly as the score-keeper could tell, for anything goes in that sport and the fun seems to carry away all serious thought.

The main thing about the game was that the proceeds were given to the USO.

The Artesia 20-30 Club now is meeting each Thursday evening at the Carper Terrace, as the young civic club men fight to hold their organization together. However, although member after member has gone into the service, the roster again is building up and now carries the names of eight local men.

Funeral services were from the Methodist Church in Yuma, Colo., Aug. 4 by the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Pritchett. Burial was in Yuma Cemetery.

Mr. Sipple is survived by his wife and a daughter and two sons, Mrs. Lee H. Myers and Ray H. Sipple, both of Haxtun, and Earl C. Sipple of Casey, Ill. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. Abbie Young of Kenesaw, Neb., and three grown grandchildren.

Caleb Augustus Sipple, a son of Benjamin and Julia Sipple, was born in Monroe County, Illinois, Nov. 19, 1862. At the age of 19 years he moved with his parents to Nebraska. When he was 24 years old he married Mary Ella Carter of Kenesaw, Neb. To them were born four children, of whom a daughter died in infancy.

The family moved to Artesia early in the century and here Mr. Sipple engaged in the real estate business. He is best remembered in Artesia for the construction of the building at the southeast corner of Fourth and Main Streets, known for many years as the Sipple building, but now called the Ward building.

Mr. Sipple later was in the automobile business at Hastings, Neb., and then owned and operated a large cattle ranch near Petersburg, Neb. The last few years the family lived in Colorado.

Red Cross Letter Clarifies Number Points on Soldiers

In Answer to Inquiry From Mrs. R. E. Warren for FDR About Son

A letter from Richard G. Burlingame, administrative assistant for insular and foreign operations of the American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., in a letter to Mrs. R. E. Warren of Artesia, after she had written President Roosevelt in regard to her son, Roderick Warren, will clarify a number of points to parents and friends of boys who were in the Philippines at the time of the capitulation. The letter:

Your letter of Aug. 12 to President Roosevelt has been referred to us by the president's secretary, Mr. McIntyre.

We are deeply appreciative of your worry over your son, and I take this opportunity to assure you that the American Red Cross is making every effort through every channel available to secure further information concerning the American boys who were in the Philippines at the time of the Japanese occupation.

Until such time as the Japanese release the official lists of prisoners of war taken by them in the Philippine area, there is no way in which we can get any information concerning these Americans. Therefore, both the Red Cross through the neutral intermediary of the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva and the State Department through diplomatic channels have continuously endeavored to obtain the release of these lists by the Japanese. To date no prisoners of war lists for the Philippine area have been released.

We have also tried through every available means to have a delegate of the International Red Cross Committee appointed in Manila in the belief that this might Official Sanction West Coast Area All That Is Needed - Big Spring Father and Son Ask Cooperation Only.

ANNOUNCED FRIDAY

Tentative plans for an Army pre-glider training school at Artesia, with a monthly payroll of upwards of $40,000, were announced Friday evening at a mass meeting of local citizens at the city hall.

Art Wintheiser of Big Spring, Tex., definitely will open the school here under government contract to train cadets in pre-glider work, provided final sanction is given by the West Coast Area, with headquarters at Santa Ana, Calif., the Artesia people were told. Tentative approval was made by telephone Friday.

Vernon Wintheiser, the school head's son, who is associated with his father, addressed the crowd and explained the type of training the cadets will receive. He said he and his father are not permitted to disclose the number of cadets to be trained or the number of instructors, but it was intimated there will be a considerable number of each.

Ask For No Money

Young Wintheiser said he and his father are asking for no financial assistance, but that they only want the cooperation of the community, in helping them get things done.

The citizens elected Glenn Booker, himself a pilot, the community liaison man to see that the wishes of the Wintheisers are carried out and to make contacts for them in their project.

The school is to be about three miles east of the Pecos River bridge near the highway, where bulldozers and other equipment will be put to work as soon as official sanction comes from the headquarters of the West Coast Area, which may take another week.

Scouting Needs Renewed Vigor During the War

The weekly meeting of the Artesia Rotary Club Tuesday noon was turned over to discussions of Boy Scout work, which all agreed it should go ahead with renewed vigor during the war, as many of them may be called into service before the war is ended and the future of America will depend on them all later on.

E. B. Bullock, a member of the national Boy Scout committee, was the principal speaker and he pointed out the great work the Scouts have done and are doing. During the aluminum drive last year, the Boy Scouts were responsible for 10 of the 12 million pounds collected. He read a number of excerpts from the annual Boy Scout report.

F. E. Atkinson, new Boy Scout field executive, who replaced Barney Hopkins, after the latter enlisted in the Army, said the great need at present in scouting is leaders and said men are needed who are not likely to be inducted into service. Atkinson is making his home in Artesia.

Congressman Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, a past president of Rotary International, spoke briefly, as Chuck Aston was taken in as the newest club member, welcoming him to the organization. The congressman also spoke in behalf of the Boy Scouts, in whose work he has been interested for many years.

AT LAST IT IS NEWS

Bringing of the pre-glider school story to a head has several happy aspects, as far as we are concerned, including, of course, the pleasure of knowing Artesia is to have such a project.

But it cures what to us has been a headache for a number of weeks, a headache because we have followed the whole story through its ups and downs, while our hands were tied by way of news stories, and we just kept our trap shut.

At times there seemed cause for writing something and telling the public just what was going on, but then another angle would develop and we would change our mind.

In frequent conference with Mayor Emery Carper, Fred Brainard, Glenn Booker and others, we were in the know every time a new phase developed and, by common consent of all concerned the problem was kept from the general public. We all agreed that it would avail nothing to tell what might come about, or what we hoped could be accomplished, only to have to turn around and take the wind out of the public's sails.

On several occasions we decided to break the whole story wide open, when it seemed Artesia was washed up as far as a school was concerned. But before we could get the story in type, there would be new developments, again giving us hope, but not enough hope to publish the fact.

During the last few weeks we have written possibly 6,000 words in airport and air school stories. But each one was discarded, as we said above, when the tide would seem to change. Chiefly, we were going to tell the public that everyone had given up hope. That was after several conferences here with Art Wintheiser, when he first said he hoped to come to Artesia, and then everything went against the community.

Now we are happy that we didn't tell you that we were blown up, according to all indications. And we are just as happy that we didn't paint the more happy phases of the whole picture as they developed, for the entire picture changed considerably from time to time.

For instance, one time when we thought we had a pre-glider school, or a civilian pilot training school, in the bag, the Roswell Army Flying School took away considerable of our air. Then the plans were changed to meet the Army's requests from that quarter. But we had not considered the Army field at Carlsbad, which popped into the picture. Then we were stymied again, so we thought, as more air was restricted.

And so we wrote one of our numerous stories, in order to tell you that "stuff is off."

But, like a pendulum, the thing swung the other way again and Art Wintheiser, not to be kept from Artesia, where he wanted to bring his school, and some of the local men began to scout around across the river, which was not in restricted territory.

So finally the story was made public at the meeting Friday evening and there you are.

If you were in a newspaperman's boots, you would understand the great temptation to inform the public. But on the other hand, there is none more used to keeping confidences than a newspaperman.

Among other reasons we wanted to say something was the fact we kept hearing complaints that the city administration and the Chamber of Commerce were not trying to bring anything to Artesia. As that was an absolute falsehood, we wanted to set the public straight. The city dads and Chamber of Commerce directors knew how they were being talked about and they were willing to continue to work for something for Artesia, taking the slaps and reserving the taking of bows until such time as they could say: "Here it is."

And so it is here now and we all can rejoice and we should all realize that Artesia leaders were working and working hard for many weeks on the school idea, which now is nearly a reality.

IN OTHER WORDS, DO IT NOW

If we had received as many blanks filled out with the names, addresses and birthdays of boys in the service as we did compliments on the stunt introduced last week, the stunt would have been a great success.

The trouble with most people is that they see something which attracts them and the thought goes through their minds, "I must do something about that," and then they forget all about it.

But that won't get the job done. Send in the names, addresses and birthdays of those boys right now, while you have it on your mind, and do what we would seldom recommend: Put off for a few minutes the remainder of your reading of this the best weekly in New Mexico.

BESIDES, THE PRICE WAS FAR TOO LOW!

And that last crack above reminds us that a week or two ago a New Mexico sheet was advertised for sale in The Publishers' Auxiliary as "the best weekly newspaper and job shop in New Mexico."

This is by way of letting you know that was not The Advocate and therefore The Auxiliary either had a typographical error, or somebody was bragging unduly.

CONFUSED WITH CAVERNS BATS?

We see by a headline in The Roswell Dispatch that "Pre-Glider School Is Planned for Carlsbad" and note that the fact is verified in the first paragraph of the story. But further along in the story the name of Artesia is used, so we guess it is us after all.

As we wrote the Associated Press dispatch from which the news release came, we are quite certain Carlsbad was not mentioned. Somewhere along the line the Cavern City slipped into the story and there it was.

But we all make mistakes, so we will forgive The Dispatch this time.

Dere Folks:

Fort Knox, Tex., Aug. 10, 1942.

Dear Ora: I received your card. Glad to hear from you. I am well and hope you all are the same. I don't know much about this country, for I have gone no place.

Well, tell that boy and gal of yours that I would like to see them, but it is a long way to go for that. But you can send their pictures. That would help. I will send you my picture, when I get it made. I may get to go to town Saturday, but I don't know till then.

Well, I like the Army just fine, but it is so hot and damp here. We get all we want to eat.

I know you would like to know what I am in. Well, it is the Tank Division—those things like a cat,

Helping Spanish People With Men In the Service

George King, home service officer of the North Eddy County chapter of the American Red Cross, this week said that a number of Spanish-Americans wishing help in locating boys in the armed forces, or in getting allotments, have made useless trips to Carlsbad.

The southern half of the county is in another jurisdiction, King said, and Spanish-Americans having made the trip there for information or assistance have to be referred back to him at his home at 610 West Texas Street.

For the benefit of Spanish-Americans, he has prepared a statement in Spanish, which, it is suggested, Anglo readers of The Advocate clip and pass on to families with boys in the armed forces. It reads:

"Noticia—Para toda la gente Espana Americana que tengan hijos en el servicio militar del los Estados Unidos de America. Si Uds. necesitan ayuda para saber de sus hijos o parientes o para saver delos pagos de sus hijos, pueden ver Uds. a George King, 610 West Texas, Artesia. Par favor no voyan a Carlsbad."

New Mexico produced a total of 2,695 tons of old tires, girdles, non-bounceable rubber balls and old galoshes in the recent scrap rubber campaign, Fay Guthrie, executive secretary of the New Mexico Salvage Committee, announced.

Collections from the campaign are now moving speedily to reclaiming plants to be turned into the essential rubber implements of war, Mr. Guthrie said.

He announced Eddy County collections in the campaign were 141 tons.

Powell said he resigned "because I had accomplished everything I had set out to accomplish." He added that he had been on leave of absence from his firm.

Powell has been a member of the State Guard since its organization. As a major, he was in command of State Guardsmen on duty during the Rio Grande Valley 1941 floods.

SAFEWAY Homemakers' Guide

NUMBER 58 ★ How to fool the fuss-budget ★ A list of foods that save you money early in the week, too ★ A timely story with a moral

Have you a fuss-budget on food in your house?

Here's how to fool him!

In which the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau presents four sensible tips and two delectable recipes

1. Give the fussy eater more foods rich in B vitamins, because these vitamins promote healthy appetite, good digestion, and general well-being.

2. Disguise foods that are disliked. For example, serve milk in custards, milk shakes, cream soups, and other milk-rich dishes, or instead serve cheese.

3. Combine disliked foods with others that are well-liked. For example, mash turnips with potatoes, season with milk or cream and butter, and the turnips can hardly be tasted.

4. Don't talk too much about nutrition, or tell the fuss-budget how good a certain food is, or urge him to eat, or you'll surely invite rebellion. Just make the food as attractive and good-tasting as you can, and watch what happens.

This recipe for Southern Spoon Bread makes it easy to include milk, eggs, and cereals in his diet and still make him beam with contentment.

SOUTHERN SPOON BREAD

2 1/2 cups milk 3 tbsps. melted butter
1 1/2 cups corn meal 1 1/2 tbsps. baking powder
1 tsp. salt 3 eggs

Heat milk in double boiler. Add corn meal and salt gradually, stirring constantly. Cover and cook 15 to 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool slightly. Beat egg yolks; add with melted butter to corn meal mixture. Beat egg whites until foamy; then add baking powder and beat until stiff. Fold into corn meal mixture. Pour into deep well-greased 2-qt. casserole or baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 45 minutes, or until set. Serve from baking dish with melted butter. Serves 6.

VEGETABLE CUSTARD RING

2 eggs 1 1/4 tbsps. salt
1 1/2 cups evaporated milk 1/4 tsp. pepper
2 1/2 cups coarsely chopped vegetables 1 tsp. lemon juice
1 tbsps. melted butter

Beat eggs slightly; add milk, vegetables, seasonings, and butter. Line bottom of well-greased 1 1/2-qt. ring mold with waxed paper. Carefully pour in custard mixture. Bake in pan of hot water in moderate oven (350° F.) about 45 minutes, or until silver knife inserted in center comes out clean. Unmold to serve; fill center with creamed fish, meat, or vegetables. Serves 8. (Note: Vegetables may be grated raw carrots, diced plain or mixed vegetables like peas, asparagus etc.)

Members may bring as guests prospective members. Each member is expected to bring a covered dish for herself and her guests and also a service, including silver for both herself and guest. If possible the covered dishes should be from the "Victory Gardens" of the members. Also members are invited to bring choice specimens of canned fruit or vegetables from their gardens to display at this meeting.

Points Out the Regard Held for Mrs. R. N. Thomas

Mrs. R. N. Thomas' competency and popularity can best be gauged by the regard in which she is held by county school employees. Though Mrs. Thomas and her efficient husband are strict and militant in administering county school affairs, Mrs. Thomas' candidacy to succeed her husband in office is enthusiastically supported by bus drivers, teachers and county school employees generally.

Discrimination has been eliminated in the county schools during the Thomas regime, bus drivers' schools have been conducted assuring parents of better trained operators, school budget records are in excellent shape, and letters from the state auditor and comptroller certify the books as being in the best shape in the history of Eddy County.

Cash balances have been maintained and a sizeable one built for possible future sales tax deficiencies, which may arise in the state, thus protecting teachers' salaries.

While Carlsbad and Artesia voters ballot on the county school superintendent, the person elected has no supervision over educational institutions in those cities. It is vital however that the county school superintendent be one willing and able to coordinate and work with Carlsbad and Artesia school administrators and the person selected by the voters should be able to measure up to the requirements of coordinated educational efforts, so badly needed during this time of stress.

With able bodied males being taken out of the country by the scores and no accurate information on the drafting of all available manpower, it behooves us to elect a county school superintendent whom we can be certain will remain in office for the duration and competently administer school affairs. Mrs. Thomas, being a qualified educator and administrator seems ideal.—Eddy County News.

The total membership of the First Baptist Church at Artesia is now 657 and the average attendance at Sunday school classes during the past year was 300.

The total amount contributed by the Artesia church for pastor's salary, missions and other local expenses was $8,375.90.

At the election of officers for the Baptist Men's Brotherhood, J. V. Starkey was elected president; O. J. Ford of Hagerman, vice president; and Elmer McGuffin of Artesia, secretary, and H. P. Garrett of Roswell, song leader.

The annual session of the Pecos Valley Association will be at Carlsbad next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rowland and children, Glenn and Ray, left Tuesday after spending several days visiting his brother, John Rowland, and family. They will visit in Fort Worth and Dallas, Tex., before returning to their home in Cassville, Mo.

Arthur Wimperis, who collaborated with James Hilton in writing the screen play of "Mrs. Miniver," which is coming to the Ocotillo Theatre for five days, starting Sunday, Sept. 6, was in London at the time of Dunkirk. He not only witnessed the departure and return from Dunkirk of men from his own village, but was in London during the now famous September blitz, which failed.

In setting the scene for "Mrs. Miniver," Wimperis selected background and incidents from his own experience for the film. The story is that of an average English family, living in a village near London, and the part played in the war by the villagers.

Wimperis used his own village as the key setting and the Miniver home, like his own, was located on the banks of the Thames from where literally hundreds of small boats set out to aid in the Dunkirk evacuation. Wimperis missed making the epochal trip by a few minutes, because he was hurrying home from London at the time.

"Mrs. Miniver" is unique in the respect that it is a war picture, yet shows no battle scenes. It reverses the usual war film by recording, instead, the courage and bravery of the civilian, carrying on despite air raids, and points up the importance of civilian morale to a nation's strength in modern warfare, which has been brought to the very doorsteps of the average family.

Towers of Truth

Chinese, Finnish, Tagalog, Dutch, Spanish—programs in more than a dozen tongues go out from the towers of General Electric stations WGEA and WGEQ, Schenectady, and KGEI, San Francisco.

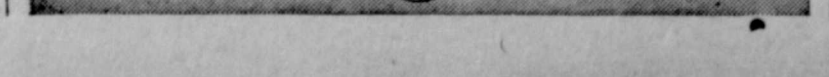

1. They provide authentic war information for news-starved peoples around the globe, entertainment for U.S. forces abroad. These G-E short-wave stations...
2. ... have special antennas "pointed" at Australia, South America, China, Europe—making reception there almost as strong as from local stations.

3. They provided the only U.S. programs that reached Bataan. People in conquered lands risk their lives to listen. Smuggled letters say they bring hope of release.
4. Some announcers are regular G-E production employees, working on war work. They tell people in their native lands that America is determined on victory.

Series Navy Articles Tells "How Can I Help My Country Most?"

This is the first of a series of four articles designed to give readers of this newspaper a clear, concise picture of the Naval service and to aid the men eligible for military service in making their decision as to which branch of the nation's military service can best use their talents.

Today every true American is asking himself one question. It comes from the heart: "How can I help my country most?"

The might of industrial America is laboring night and day to produce the most powerful Navy the world has ever seen. Battleships, cruisers, destroyers, aircraft carriers, torpedo boats, sub chasers, submarines—every day new ships slide down the ways. Airplanes, too—lightning-fast fighters, deadly hell-divers, giant long-range bombers—we're turning them out at a rate no enemy can even approach.

But your Navy is more than ships and planes. It's a worldwide network of land bases—bases for ships, planes, tankers, transports, hospital ships. It includes dry-docks, wharves, machine shops, ramps, anchorages, barracks. It's a vast fleet of armed merchant ships carrying weapons of war across the seas. It's a great system of steel mills, factories, arsenals, ordnance depots. It's air power and air bases. It's more than a score of the finest training schools in the world.

Upon enlistment as apprentice seaman, you go to one of the great Naval Training Stations for about eight weeks. During this time you get to know real Navy life, Navy traditions, Navy regulations. Every recruit has an equal chance for assignment to one of the Navy trade schools at the end of his training period. More than 25,000 a month are selected. This does not mean that the men who do not qualify for trade schools have lost their chance for training; they are sent to sea for practical experience, and when they return they are qualified, they are returned as soon as possible to shore duty to attend advanced trade schools, where they can become expert in the trade for which they have shown themselves adapted.

You don't need experience. If you show the right qualifications, the Navy is ready and willing to send you to a trades school and give you training worth $1,500—the first year alone—teaching you to be an expert in the trade for which you are qualified, helping you to develop all the skill and talent which you always knew you had.

If you're handy with tools, or if you like radio, photography, welding or any of nearly fifty other skilled occupations, here's your chance to get the finest training to use the finest equipment, the world has to offer. Costly metal lathes, marvelous telescopic cameras, vast power and tool plants—they're all part of Navy equipment, all part of the workshop you can call your own.

Remember, the Navy is just as anxious as you are to have you become an expert in a specialized field. More than half of the men now in the Navy are skilled experts! You will be given training and promoted as rapidly as your qualifications permit. And every day of training you get will not only make you more valuable to your country now . . . but more valuable in a well-paid civilian job after the war.

The second article of this series, opportunities in the Navy for men with skilled trades, will appear in an early issue.

The entire working population of the United States would have to spend all its time at spinning wheels and looms to produce, by colonial methods, the cloth now used in America.

Internment of 3,000 Men Soon At Roswell Camp

An internment camp for 3,000 men, "probably Germans," will be opened shortly near Roswell, it has been announced by Col. Murray F. Gibbons, U. S. Army, who will be in command.

The exact date the camp will be opened was not announced, but a detachment of the Quartermaster Corps is expected to arrive in the near future.

Col. Gibbons will have about forty officers and 1,000 enlisted men, mainly military police, under his command. Lt. W. L. Patrick of the Engineering Corps will be post engineer.

There has been considerable speculation in regard to government construction a few miles south of Roswell and it is presumed that is the location of the internment camp. No official announcement had been made in regard to an internment camp in this locality before last week.

The camp was constructed at a cost of approximately a million and a half dollars. Approximately 240 acres of land are included in the area, about seventy of which will be placed under irrigation, and cultivated, Col. Gibbons reported. There is a complete water system and sewage disposal plant, and other equipment to serve the dozens of buildings that have been prepared.

If the defendant had been able to find a buggy, his jail term would have been longer. Judge Foster Wheatley of Jefferson City, Mo., studied the police court charge of riding while drunk—but found no law to cover a horseback offense. "If he had been driving in a buggy . . ." the judge mused. But he wasn't. So—"Thirty days for plain drunk."

Riders on a Memphis streetcar saw a look of consternation come over the face of the motorman as a black cat strolled across the tracks ahead. The motorman brought the car to a stop, turned his cap around backwards, and then proceeded.

Responding to a call at Emporia, Kan., Teachers College, the fire ladies found that the blaze was an optical illusion. Floodlights striking millions of insects gave them the appearance of sparks jumping from the roof.

Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, the gentleman who bombed Tokyo, learned about war when visiting in Memphis, Tenn., recently. Main Ellis, drug store manager, told this episode: A man walked into the store, asked for toothpaste but couldn't get it because he had no used tube. Then he wanted an item which the store was unable to get because of the war; finally, he protested against the tax on another purchase. "Well, don't take it out on us," said Ellis. "You've heard about the war haven't you?" Replied the man: "I just didn't know. You see, I've been away. Doolittle is my name." He got the toothpaste.

COOPERATION

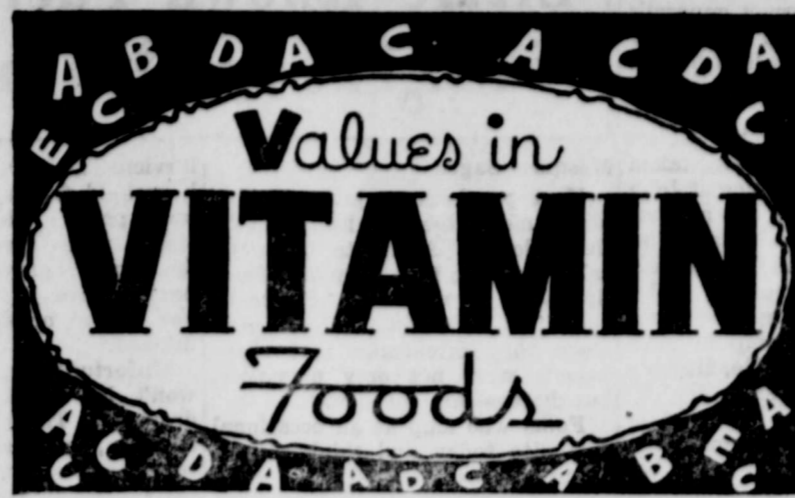

"Uncle Joe," said the gentleman to an old darkey who was always cheerful in spite of having had more than his share of life's troubles, "how have you managed to remain so cheerful and calm?"

"Well, I'll tell yo'," replied Uncle Joe. "I've jus' learned to cooperate with the inevitable."

Surely there are more boys in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard from North Eddy County than the number of names turned in since last week's issue on coupons like the one above.

The names, addresses and birthdays of all the boys are being sought and The Advocate will publish each about a month before the date given, in order that all friends—both known and unknown

It is such a simple thing to do: Merely fill out the blank and send or bring it to The Advocate office. Then everybody watch for the advance notices on birthday anniversaries and take out from there.

If the boys can go out and risk their lives for the whole community and nation, the least the nation can do is to help to keep 'em happy.

News Briefs of the "Sunshine State" Gleaned From Many Sources

Governor Miles has instructed the Motor Vehicle Department not to accept registrations on new cars which come within a freezing order issued by Leon Henderson, administrator of the Office of Price Administration. Unless automobiles covered by the order were purchased and delivered before Aug. 18, the Motor Vehicle Department will not issue license plates, he said. The new OPA order freezes sales until Oct. 31 of 1942 models in the $1,000 or less class.

War time travel conditions not only reduce tourist attendance at the annual Inter-tribal Indian Ceremonial by one-fourth, but kept that percentage of tribesmen away from the event in Gallup, Aug. 13-17. Ceremonial sponsors estimated, on the basis of the number of Indians in the parade, that 25 per cent fewer Redmen were on hand this year. About 1,000 Indians in full regalia participated in the parade.

A survey of New Mexico housing by the Census Bureau showed that tenants of urban dwellings paid less rent in 1940 than they did ten years before. The median rent was $18.50 in 1940, compared with $23.01 in 1930. More than two-fifths of the urban and rural non-farm dwellings in New Mexico rented at less than $10 a month in 1940, the survey showed. Monthly rents of $50 or more were reported for 3,781 of the 96,534 units covered by the survey.

The attorney general's office held that a village may hire an attorney to defend election officials in an action for a recount. In an opinion written for State Comptroller C. C. Sebastian, Assistant Attorney General George Hunker, Jr., expressed the opinion a village could pay such fees, although he said, the 1933 statute providing for an election recount action in District Court does not provide for such payment. He added, however, that a majority of the village trustees must vote to retain the attorney.

Ask City Patrolman Moses Koury of Santa Fe today about the old maxim: "Pride goeth before a fall." After receiving a $10 merit award for outstanding police work during July, he went home, oiled, gassed and greased his sister's car and parked it in front of the house ready for an early morning trip to Albuquerque. The next morning, he looked out the window, and the car had been stolen.

Coach Jimmie Rudd of Tucumcari High School has been appointed assistant to Coach Ju Johnson of New Mexico A. and M. College.

The attorney general's office held that candidates who file declarations of candidacy and later withdraw are not entitled to refund of their filing fees. In an opinion written for William P. Eaton, Raton attorney, Assistant Attorney General William Federici wrote: "Under the provisions of the New Mexico election law, the fee paid by the candidate is a fee for the privilege of filing his declaration. All the services performed by said law with respect to filing have been performed by the proper officer. The services have been performed, the officer is entitled to the fee designated in section 10 of the act. 'I am unable to find any statute,' he continued, 'which authorizes or provides for the refund of any fees paid under section 10 of chapter 2, Special Session Laws of 1938.'"

Cattle shipments from New Mexico dropped during July, with 11,538 head leaving the state compared with 15,480 during June. The State Cattle Sanitary Board reported last month's shipments by district included Roswell, 2,095; Hobbs, 782; Clovis, 2,287; Las Vegas, 35; and Lovington, 864.

Internal revenue tax collections in New Mexico during the past fiscal year totalled $8,999,305 for a gain of 99 per cent over the preceding year with individual income tax revenue up 147.5 per cent. The Internal Revenue Bureau announced individual income taxes totaled $4,961,083, compared with $2,004,760; and corporation income taxes were $1,209,376, compared with $726,394 the preceding fiscal period. Miscellaneous internal revenue collections amounted to $1,874,764 compared with $1,023,961.

A total of 709 rams was sold for an average price of $35.58 in New Mexico's fifth annual and largest ram sale. Prices ranged down from $290 paid for a range ram consigned by W. S. Hansen, Collingston, Utah, and bought by T. J. Hudspeth of Seligman, Ariz. In the sale, registered and range animals were consigned from New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Montana, Colorado and California.

A municipal school board may not include in its budget money for a "supervisor of grounds for a boys' club," the attorney general's office has decided in an opinion for R. H. Grissom, state school budget auditor.

About 92 per cent of the state's daily oil production is being taken by purchasers, State Geologist John Kelly reports. Placing the amount taken at 88,000 barrels daily, an increase of about 15,000 barrels over the last two months, Kelly said all purchasers except the Humble Oil and Refining Company were taking their full allowable, Humble takes 55 per cent, he said.

John J. Dempsey, Democratic candidate for governor, outlined before a political rally at Mountainair his program "of constructive work for maintaining high standards in rural schools and all educational works in New Mexico during the war." Dempsey described also his plans for seeking federal aid for flood control and water storage during the post-war reconstruction period.

It appears that New Mexico School of Mines at Socorro will be lacking a head coach at least until the opening of basketball season. President Richard H. Reece said no replacement had been found for Chuck Finley, who joined the Navy, but officials aren't so worried — football isn't played at the school.

Priority regulations have extended to cover gas floor furnaces. John J. Ginner, state director of the War Production Board, said that the ruling did not require a priority rating by prospective purchasers — only that "the units are removed from the open market."

A decline of an estimated 55 per cent in non-resident automobile traffic into New Mexico was noted by the State Tourist Bureau in July. The regular 24-hour traffic check showed 3,345 cars with 9,942 passengers in July as compared with 7,464 cars and 21,304 passengers in July, 1941.

Al S. Roughton, state drivers' license director, reported a considerable decline in automobile fatalities during the first half of this year — 68 compared with 107 in the first six months of 1941. Traffic deaths during June totaled 10 as against 24 for June 1941.

If New Mexico bottling companies had hopes of utilizing "used" bottle caps, they apparently went flimflaming today. Dr. J. W. Elder, district health officer, said such a request has been turned down by state health authorities in Santa Fe. But they may use reclaimed metal caps with new cork gaskets, or plain caps without lettering so long as they do not misrepresent the bottled product.

Financial affairs of the Farm Security Administration in New Mexico and five other Southwestern and Southern states will be handled in Dallas under a consolidation of regional financial offices. G. E. Lukas of Cincinnati, chief FSA fiscal officer, said the change would relate about 300 trained workers for war activity. The Amarillo and Little Rock offices are to be eliminated.

A total of 113 "critical" occupations in the production of petroleum, natural gas and natural gasoline have been set up by Selective Service, calling for deferment into Class II-A for men engaged in these activities, Ad. Gen. R. C. Charlton, state director of Selective Service, announced. He emphasized, however, that no blanket deferments are given by Selective Service, and that the question of deferring individual registrants employed in the oil and natural gas industries must be decided by local draft boards.

Secretary of State Jessie Gonzales said that Republican and Democratic primary candidates filing in her office paid fees totaling $12,210.15. The money has been distributed among the counties to finance the Sept. 12 primary elections. With division based on the vote cast in the last election, Bernalillo County received the largest share, $1,169.39, with De Baca getting the smallest, $96.71.

Approximately 100 young ring-necked and golden pheasants are for sale at the Albuquerque City Zoo at "very cheap prices," Mayor Clyde Tingley said. The birds are from this year's hatch, and are suitable for stocking and breeding purposes, he said. Recent additions to the zoo family include four fawns, born within the last month.

State Engineer Thomas McClure said that as a result of New Mexico's appeal from a recent Army Engineers' Pecos River flood control report, the document had been sent back for reconsideration and possible revision.

Purchasing of F and G Series War Savings Bonds in New Mexico totaled $161,785 during the period Aug. 1 to 15, as compared with $67,617.50 during the first half of July, the office of S. P. Vidal, state bond sales administrator, announced. New Mexico and Wyoming were the only states in the Kansas City

Little Known Facts and Sidelights on Oil Industry

Mosquito Saga—

Most people have just one idea about mosquitoes — how to slap them down. Scientists have the same idea. In fact, they've made a life work as well as a science of slapping down mosquitoes ever since they discovered that these insects were not only nuisances, but disease-carriers as well.

Folks who slap at an occasional mosquito today and think they're being tortured should have been around in the good old days when resort visitors were met at the station by swarming committees winging in on the salt breezes from the marshlands. Those were the days when having a home at the shore, and even in the country, meant braving misery and malaria every evening.

That time was as recently as 1914. Today folks live on farms, enjoy their front lawns and gardens, cool off at the beaches, sail or fish along the coast, and shoot par on low-lying golf courses which would have been unendurable a generation ago. And they don't acquire malaria!

Mopping Up—

The solution of the wholesale mosquito problem, scientists have found, is to mop up the marshlands where grasses grow rank and tall in stagnant water. Mopping up takes plenty of ideas and team-work, but it is still going on. The project includes ditching, and the application of petroleum larvicides to water surfaces.

In some marshy regions, miles of ditches have been dug. Flooded daily by the tides, they are also planted with great schools of killifish, which eat mosquito larvae.

Stoppages and debris are cleared away, so that the water cannot become stagnant. This job has to be done every spring, and sometimes after every heavy rain. Dense vegetation is removed from the banks of ditches and streams, and the worst sections are filled in.

In locations where biological control of impractical, oil is applied to the water. An extremely thin film will remain on the surface, even despite tides, rain, and wind.

The idea is this. All mosquitoes breed in water. Thick, damp grass shelters mosquito swarms. But they get along poorly in running water. And oil film on the water clogs breathing tubes and even makes it difficult for mosquito life processes to augment vital statistics. In other words, the oil film suffocates the larvae.

Experiments are now being conducted with petroleum insecticides which not only kill mosquitoes, but sink to the bottom of the water, leaving the surface free of film. In areas where oil cannot be used, a larvicide similar in composition to household fly sprays but much more powerful is applied, sometimes with hose-equipped motor sprayers. Spraying is reported to be effective in areas which, for one reason or another, cannot be ditched.

Unfortunately, the mosquito just won't be completely downed, or drowned. There's the case of the common, ordinary house mosquito, member of an extremely large and virile family. Given an old tin can partly filled with water and ten days time, this mosquito will raise a family large enough to keep a neighborhood annoyed for weeks. Halting his depredations is a job for the individual, who must be prepared either to bury old tin cans or spray them constantly.

Savings from Sweepings—

Manufacturers, awakening to possible shortages of metals and chemicals, are sweeping up the floors and samplings the smoke floors and sampling the smoke the metals and chemicals that are being lost through fumes and dusts.

Useful amounts of copper, manganese, alumina, tungsten, molybdenum, selenium and nickel can be recovered by electrical precipitation, metallurgical and chemical engineers report and they're getting busy on some real checking up.

In one western magnesium plant, about 20,000 pounds of magnesium-bearing dust are being handled daily. In another similar plant, equipment is being installed which will handle 200,000 pounds a day. A large Western aluminum factory plans precipitation apparatus in its flow sheet.

Gases from smelting and refining furnaces, copper and lead blast furnaces, sintering machines, converters and similar equipment may carry off $1,000,000 yearly in waste from single plants and many millions in the aggregate, it is estimated.

Oil and Magnesium—

One of petroleum's newest uses is in the production of magnesium. Researchers are using oil instead of hydrogen as a cooling agent in reducing magnesite to magnesium.

Rapid expansion of capacity for producing and fabricating magnesium signalizes its arrival as one of the great commercial metals. One-third lighter in weight than aluminum, it is the lightest of structural metals.

By itself it has serious faults which researchers have been trying to overcome with special alloys, chiefly aluminum. Many special alloys of magnesium and aluminum have been developed.

Certain magnesium alloys are easily machined and are useful for reciprocating machine parts. Castings and die-castings have many industrial uses, also. Photo-engraving plates for publishing promises a larger peacetime market.

Coffee was first used not as a beverage but as a paste similar to a chocolate bar.

Growers Warned To Watch for the Cotton Leaf Worm

Spot Dusting Is Recommended in Some Areas, General in Others

The cotton leaf worm infestation has spread widely over all cotton growing counties in Texas, according to reports received by Wallace Johnson of the New Mexico Extension Service, from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and injury to cotton is increasing rapidly and spreading to new areas.

Farmers in the extreme southern edge of Eddy and Dona Ana counties in New Mexico found the first brood of leaf worms already at work early in August. This infestation is likely to spread farther north to include all of the New Mexico cotton growing area. Consequently, farmers should keep a close lookout for the leaf worm and be prepared to "spot dust" those infested areas in the fields as soon as the worms appear, instead of waiting until they become generally distributed, Johnson said. If the second brood is allowed to develop, the pest will be much harder to control. By "spot dusting" small hand or power dusters may be used in the early stages of the infestation, thus avoiding the widespread use of the poison over large areas of cotton. This will conserve the poison, avoid mechanical damage to the cotton crop, and prevent a large loss of foliage.

Airplane dusting, as practiced in 1941, destroyed large numbers of honey bees in both the Rio Grande and Pecos Valleys, and is being used again this season in Eddy County. The recommended control for leaf worm is calcium arsenate, applied at the rate of 8 to 10 pounds per acre each week. Two or three applications should be made for effective control of the first brood. If the infestation is exceptionally heavy, one pound of Paris green added to each 100 pounds of calcium arsenate will hasten the kill of worms.

Explains Pledge Of Allegiance to American Flag

For the information of schools and organizations, Selective Service state headquarters has issued the text of "Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag."

The text was approved by President Roosevelt in June, when he signed a joint resolution by Congress, which codified and emphasized existing rules and customs pertaining to the display and use of the flag. Section 7 of the Uniform Flag Code provides for the text of the pledge of allegiance to be:

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible with liberty and justice for all."

The pledge is given by standing, with the right hand over the heart; extending the right hand, palm upward, toward the flag at the words, "to the flag," and holding this position until the end, when the hand drops to the side.

Eaker Is Leader of First All-American Bombing Raid on France

The first all-United States bombing blow at the German-held continent Aug. 17, was led by Brig. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, whose parents, Y. T. Eaker of Eden, Tex., and the late Mrs. Eaker, formerly lived in Artesia and on the Cottonwood. He is a nephew of Mrs. W. A. Eaker of Artesia.

News dispatches related that U. S. Army pilots, flying American bombers and British Spitfires, battered Nazi targets in occupied France Monday afternoon.

Led by Brig. Gen. Eaker, the young American pilots "nonchalantly" bombed Rouen, the dispatches said.

Public Warned Of Unexploded Bombs in Area

The public has been warned to watch out for bombing ranges, of which there are a number within sixty miles of the Roswell Army Flying School, which territory includes Artesia.

The roads leading to these ranges are barred by gates, on which are signs: "Danger. No Trespassing. Bombing Range."

The ranges are hexagonal in shape, surrounded by barbed fences and with warning signs every 100 yards or so.

If at any time a resident of the region comes upon one of these clearly marked bombing ranges, he is cautioned not to get too close, as an occasional bomb has been known to land just outside of the target area. Each of these bombs carries three or four pounds of black powder.

Once in a great while these bombs do not explode when they land, so if at any time a person should happen upon an exploded or unexploded bomb, do not touch it. Write a card to the commanding officer of the Roswell Flying School, advising him of the location of the bomb, and he will have it removed.

Bomb 'em with JUNK

Let's blast Japan—and Germany—and Italy—with the chain lightning of destruction that can be built from the scrap in our cellars, attics and garages, on our farms and in our places of business.

Scrap iron and steel, other metals, rubber and waste materials. It will all be used to make tanks, ships, planes and the fighting weapons our boys must have. It is needed at once.

Sell it to a Junk dealer—give it to a charity or collection agency—take it yourself to the nearest collection point—or consult the Local Salvage Committee. . . . If you live on a farm, and have found no means of disposing of your Junk, get in touch with the County War Board or your farm implement dealer.
