REMEMBER THAT HALF HUNDRED?

For convenience we might say that Uncle Sam, or the government of the United States, or the Treasury Department is asking us to raise fifteen billion dollars in the Third War Loan campaign this month, which was launched this morning.

But we would rather say that it is not one of those three, but that ten million men now in arms are asking us.

Or we in this locality might point to the few thousand of American boys who are prisoners of the Japanese, or even bring it down to a half hundred North Eddy County boys who are in the prisoner of war camps maintained by the Japs and say that it is they who are making the appeal to us in North Eddy County.

Of course those half hundred boys do not know there is any such thing as a Third War Loan. But they do know that fighting a war costs money. And although they have been wondering for more than a year just what happened to them and to us, surely they realize that it couldn't be helped.

We hope they do not think that we let them down, that they have learned enough of the facts of isolationism and smugness, which we had been practicing, and of the Japs' half-century of planning to stab us that they will know there was no chance to bring them help.

And we hope that they believe we are doing all in our power to get help to them as soon as possible, to make it so that MacArthur can return to the Philippine Islands.

We recall a striking War Bond poster, which came out some months ago. It showed a tattered and torn, dirty and sick soldier. He was saying, "Remember me? I was on Bataan."

Let us in North Eddy County do more than our share in raising the fifteen billion dollars, so as hasten the day, expenses be hanged. Let us do it for that half hundred boys from North Eddy County.

JAPS WOULDN'T CARE, BUT WE DO, DON'T WE?

Every time there is a change in the seasons—and usually several times between—we rehash our old editorial about trimming trees along sidewalks, so that those persons who have to walk may do so without danger of losing an eye.

This time, although we are on the same general subject, the appeal is being made from the opposite standpoint, not that of saving anyone's sight, but of comfort to someone who has lost his sight.

John Gates, with his new "Seeing-Eye Dog," is asking no favors. He has the dog to help take the place of his eyes, the use of which he has lost as a mature man after enjoying sight during his childhood and academic years.

He is slowly adjusting himself to a sightless world and he is doing nicely with his canine companion.

But he cannot see those low-hanging branches, which are so common in Artesia. The devoted dog can and does see them, and she stops before John runs into them, as she has been taught. This, of course, is puzzling to John, for the dog has no way to tell her master why she has stopped. As she is trained to do his bidding, he presumes that she will advance when he so orders her. But she is protecting him, when she stops for those low limbs.

It is not so bad for many Artesia property owners and tenants to force themselves and others to dodge tree limbs, although it is very bothersome at night when one has to walk—and who doesn't have to part of the time nowadays?

But it is another thing when we force a sightless young man to bump into and brush limbs, or else be protected by his dog from so doing.

Don't tell John Gates that we asked you to do this, but let's all cooperate for his safety, comfort and peace of mind and for the peace of mind of his faithful "Seeing-Eye Dog."

Thanks, we thought you would!

NOW, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT?

Now that the kids have gone back to school, it might be well for some of the rest to brush up on one of the most common mistakes of grammar of the man on the street, as well as of trained speakers and writers.

We refer to the use of the pronoun, "that," when "who" is indicated.

The substantive pronoun, "who," any dictionary will tell, refers to a person, whereas "that" refers to a thing.

Personally we do not care to be referred to as a thing. A simple example is: "The boy that lives next door."

It is funny how we become conscious of some such mistake which seems to have become common. We always have disliked the substitution of "that" for "who," or its objective form, "whom," but of recent weeks it seems we have noticed it dozens of times in publications, which are supposed to be among the best.

Perhaps it is as we used to say twenty-five years ago, "C'est la guerre."

Woman cannot become on a parity with man until she has a bald spot on her head, and still thinks she is handsome.—Donley County (Texas) Leader.

Much is being said about what this country stands for. It might be well to consider some things it won't stand for.—Pathfinder.

Horse meat may become a staple food in the United States just as in Europe several years ago. Maybe the next slogan will be "Remember the mane."—Marysville (Wash.) Globe.

Idaho farmer who plowed under his gasoline ration book doubtless mistook it for his food coupons.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

It has been so hot and dry around here that we haven't been able to spit for a week.—Aztec Independent-Review.

There's only one place you can find success without work—that's in the dictionary.—Elburn (Ill.) Herald.

Epidemic of Fowl Pox Hits Eddy County

During the last few days many poultry producers have been inquiring of Fred Barham, Eddy County agent, as to what was wrong with their poultry. In most instances the disease has been fowl pox, he said.
The symptoms of this disease are the general symptoms of roup, but is distinguished from it by an eruption of pox nodules on the head and by the presence in the mouth, throat, and eyes, of tough, cheesy patches which are firmly attached to the tissues beneath them.
The eruption appears as round, oblong, or irregular shaped nodules about the beak and nostrils and on the comb, the eyelids, the wattles, and the ear lobes.
Some fowls in a flock are resistant, and after a few days of illness rapidly recover. Others remain dull, weak, and thin in flesh, and may have more or less catarrh and difficulty of breathing for a long period.
The treatment of fowls severely affected with this disease requires much time and patience and as a rule does not pay. It is often better to kill the badly affected birds, bury or burn their carcasses, and disinfect the poultry houses, and in that way eradicate the disease as soon as possible.
If it is decided to treat the sick birds, they should be removed from the flock and put into a comfortable, well-ventilated room that may be easily disinfected. Remove from the mouth or larynx the false membranes which interfere with eating or breathing, and apply tincture of iodine. If the eyesight is threatened by large swellings under the eyes, open the swellings, remove the cheesy pus, and apply 15 per cent argyrol.
As this disease is contagious, the houses, drinking vessels, and feeders should be kept disinfected during the outbreak and for several days after all the birds apparently have recovered. The drinking water can be made antiseptic by dissolving one-third of a teaspoon of permanganate of potash in each gallon.
This disease can be prevented nearly 100 per cent by vaccinating young birds between the ages of 3 and 5 months. Vaccination of a flock of poultry is not recommended, however, under any circumstances, unless the disease has been known to exist on the premises, or the owner considers that his flock is in danger from infection from neighboring flocks. Never vaccinate birds after they become affected from the disease.

In Salt Lake City, Park Commissioner Fred Tedesco called on cowboys to lasso three escaped deer. The deer didn't care for the game. Every time they were cornered, the leaped disdainfully over the men's heads.

Near Point of Rocks, Wyo., a cow wandered on to the Union Pacific tracks. A westbound freight of fifty-six cars hit the cow, which rolled under the locomotive, derailing it and twenty-seven cars. The derailed cars fell into the path of a sixty-four-car eastbound freight. The second train was unable to stop. Its locomotive and twenty-three cars jumped from the rails.

The first bale of cotton here was ginned yesterday at the gin of the Farmers' Gin Company. It was raised by Jesus Ereda, who lives on the John Ball farm. Charles Rogers of the gin said it was strict middling cotton and that the bale weighed 497 pounds.

Dr. J. J. Clarke and son, John, left Sunday for Santa Fe, where John will attend St. Michael's College the coming year.

The Joyce-Pruit office force is now occupying the new office quarters at the rear of the grocery department. The old office was wrecked some time ago by an explosion.

V. S. Welch, local oil operator, recently returned home from a trip to Illinois and other points in the East.

V. D. Bolton, who recently bought a half interest in the Chevrolet business, has moved into the Howell Gage house on South Roselawn.

In Salt Lake City, Patrolman Stanley D. Butcher didn't suspect the relationship that existed between the young couple, age 2, that he found walking down the street—clad only in high-heeled shoes. But there was one. Young Lee Pierce and Miss Wanda McCarthy—his aunt—were bundled home in separate blankets.

NOW YOUR NEIGHBOR

BEAN NITRATES transformed from their peaceful role of serving as quick energy for agricultural crops into war-vital nitrates...

...now form an important part in the high explosive content of powerful, death-dealing bombs under miles of shifting sands, in one of the most fertile regions known to man...

...the nitrate region lies on the border to the South has opened the arsenals of world democracy. The northern boundary of Chile, less than 100 miles from the burning sun of the desert land. Where only a misplaced drop of rain fall a decade, even the tortured soil of the barren wastes has turned a deep brown. Just why should choose this inactive spot to bury one of man's most valued treasures will be answered through the ages...

...peace-time, nitrates and by-products of iodine, nitrate sulphate of soda, and common salt have been widely used in the agricultural industry. Nitrogen, phosphate, and potash have long been considered as the most important fertilizer elements for farm crops, especially grown annually on the same soil. The biggest American nitrate consumers have been in the cotton and tobacco farmers of the South, where the growing of a single crop year after year impoverished the soil.

...at the world is at war, and Chile's great nitrate beds have become almost priceless, furnishing the prime source for powerful explosives which shower over vast battlefields. The huge volume of the nitrate industry is proceeding on a much larger and more thoroughly modern scale of production, due to developments of recent years. New shovels have supplanted labor in extracting the much sought caliche. The lumps of crude are now loaded by electric hoists into motor trucks or cars hauled by electric locomotives to the refineries or "off-shoots." A new refining method also has been developed, whereby the containing smaller amounts of nitrate may be profitably extracted, and a larger amount of nitrate recovered.

...with such a large-scale industry carried on in a desolate region, utterly devoid of natural resources, but necessarily inhabited by thousands of engineers, chemists and workmen, one may wonder how these hardy inhabitants sustain themselves. Water is obtained from the melting snows of the towering Andes through pipelines extending hundreds of miles, following roads and producing miniature canals as measured distances along the routes. Foodstuffs also are necessarily transported, entering the nitrate area on a large scale under that food-growing materials may be sent out.

...Hundreds of scientists are studying the caliche in Chile's vast warehouse for the production of any future commodities. And the reality will still further add to the bewilderment of the world. Nature's queer visitation of a useless heritage upon the barren wastes of one of the world's most desolate regions.

What Soil Conservation District Cannot Do Is Told By Stovall

(In a recent article published in The Advocate, J. T. Stovall, acting soil conservationist, explained "What a Soil Conservation District Can Do." Today he discusses the other side, "What a Soil Conservation District Cannot Do.")

In many cases organizations are set up or fostered upon a group or area, and the program is worked out and handed to those affected and they are told, "You must do this or that if you are to receive the benefits of the organization." In other words, the individual has no voice in the matter. Such is not the case in Soil Conservation Service districts. The state law is very plain as to what a soil conservation district cannot do.

In listing a few of the points most frequently raised in hearings and educational meetings, I believe the following will cover the field:

1. A soil conservation district can not force a land owner to put his land in the soil conservation district. If a district is in the process of formation and a landowner wishes to have his lands left out of the district, a note to the State Soil Conservation Committee giving his name, address, and the legal description of the land he owns is all that is necessary.

The law makes it mandatory that such lands be excluded from the district. It's true that such land is not only outside the district, but it forbids the district from helping such individuals with any technical, material, or financial assistance that might be available to cooperators of the district.

2. A soil conservation district can not levy an assessment on lands in the district. Remember, the only way a landowner can spend any money with a soil conservation district is under a written contract. Such a contract states specifically what the land owner will furnish in the way of labor, materials, cooperation, equipment, and cash and at the same time, shows what the soil conservation district will give in return for such consideration. This usually includes the technical assistances, furnished by the federal employees loan to districts, materials and use of heavy equipment to do specific jobs the specifications of which are included in the written contract.

The landowner is under no obligation to sign a contract if any point in such a contract is objectionable. All cooperation is voluntary on the part of the landowners. There can be no blanket assessments in a soil conservation district.

3. A soil conservation district cannot vote taxes on an organized district. Even if it were the desire of every landowner in a district that a levy be placed on the land, they could not place a tax on the land as a soil conservation district. The law specifically forbids such action.

It is true that in many cases you find ditch companies, irrigation districts, and conservancy districts voting taxes or levying assessments to do work and make improvements and, because they can make a better contract with the soil conservation district than with any other contractor, let this work or contract to the district. In this case as with an individual, the written contract duly drawn

Canned Tomato Juice Will Save Ration Points

With a thought for her blue ration coupons and another for the new tomatoes forming in abundance on her "Victory Garden" vines, the homemaker may well add tomato juice canning to her activities, said Mrs. Dorothy Hanny of the New Mexico Extension Service, for home-canned tomato juice is point-free and leaves the ration coupons for other foods that cannot be put up in the home kitchen.

Tomato juice canning is easy and does not require a hard-working pressure canner. "If you have no 'Victory Garden,' you will still want tomatoes that are home-grown, that is, from a farm or garden nearby," she said. "Soft tomatoes, not firm enough for canning and yet not overripe, make excellent juice."

Remove the stems and all green or bad spots. Cut the tomatoes into pieces and simmer until they are softened. Put them through a sieve; add one teaspoon of salt to each quart, if you wish. If there is a baby in the house, keep in mind that unsalted tomato juice will fit into an infant's diet, and then decide whether or not to salt. Reheat the juice to boiling. Pour into hot jars or bottles immediately and leave one-quarter inch head space. Then seal the jars or bottles according to the type of jar top you have. Now process in boiling water bath canner for fifteen minutes. You can use your tomato juice in many more ways if you do not add spice at the time of canning. Spices, moreover, tend to darken the juice and change the flavor over a period of time. So, if you like your tomato juice seasoned, add the spice at the time of serving.

In response to the nation's call for every possible pound of meat, milk, and eggs, at least forty-five people of the Artesia locality have become members of a "Fighters on the Farm Front" honor roll, striving to increase production.

Applications for the various antelope seasons will be up to 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Sept. 21. Each must be accompanied by a fee of $5.

The commission said preference will be given to hunters who did not kill antelope last year. Should there be more applications than the number of permits authorized, a public drawing will be held.

Of most interest in this part of the state is the season Oct. 9-11 in the Roswell and Alamogordo areas, for which 431 permits were authorized and in which doe may be killed.

The season in the Magdalena, Engle and Separ areas will be Oct. 2-5, with 310 permits, while in the Bar Y, Waggoner, Crews, Burns and Watts, and Bell areas the season was set for Oct. 17-19, with eighty permits authorized.

The decision to permit the killing of doe in the Roswell area was made because of an overstocked condition, the commission announced. Licensed hunters with permits may take either buck or doe. It was thought this would help maintain the sex ratio in the area. However, only one antelope of either sex may be taken.

A special elk season was set for the same dates as the big game season, Nov. 11-21, on GOS Ranch north of Silver City with 100 permits at $10 each to be sold to residents of Grant, Luna, Hidalgo, Dona Ana, Sierra and Catron counties and non-resident ranch owners of the area. Similarly a special elk season in the Costilla and Comanche Creek drainage of the Vermejo Park property was set for Nov. 1-8 with a limit of 50 permits.

The commission also authorized a special deer season in the Sandia mountain area with 200 permits to be issued for either buck or doe. A fee of $2 will be charged and permits will not be issued to any person who has killed a deer elsewhere in the state this season.

Other special deer seasons were authorized as follows: West Sacramento special deer season—Issuance of 500 permits for either a buck or a doe on the West Sacramento deer management unit was authorized. The hunt will be during the big game season. Applications for permits will be received up to Oct. 30.

Senior Game Refuge season—Issuance of 250 permits for a deer of either sex was authorized for the refuge east of Cuba in the Jemez Mountains for the regular big game season. The final date for receiving applications is Oct. 30.

Zuni Federal Refuge—Through agreement with the U. S. Forest Service, 100 permits for legal bucks only will be authorized for the Zuni Federal Refuge near McGaffey for the regular big game season. Applications will be received up to Oct. 30.

The department also announced the pheasant season will open at noon Saturday, Oct. 23, and will close at sunset Monday, Oct. 25. In this part of the state the hunting area will be the Pecos Valley in Eddy and Chaves Counties east of the range line between ranges 21 and 22. The bag limit is two cock pheasant pheasants per season per hunter.

At Pepperell, Mass., the widow of a World War I veteran and sister of the first Pepperell boy to die in that war has a good claim to being the nation's No. 1 World War II volunteer worker.

Mrs. Irene Leary, 45, town clerk, is chairman of the Pepperell women's division of the Civilian Defense Committee, secretary of the town committee on public safety, a first lieutenant in the Massachusetts Women's Defense Corps, chief observer of the Air Raid Wardens Service, a senior hostess at Fort Devens, a member of the War Services Committee of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and four times a Red Cross blood donor within eighteen months.

Flat tires mean nothing to Cpl. Johnny Palaima, 22, of Maynard, Mass., who everyone says is the strongest man at Fort Devens, Mass. When Pfc. Leslie Corsey's jeep had a flat tire the other day, Corporal Palaima held the jeep off the ground while Corsey changed the tire.

Former Chicago Alderman Jacob M. Garvey, now a lieutenant colonel on duty in the Pacific, wrote his friend, Judge Oscar S.

Laughs blazed a trail up the ladder of success for Rochester, who will be seen at the Ocotillo Theater Sunday through Tuesday in "Cabin in the Sky."

Rochester believes implicitly that if you laugh the world laughs with you, but if you weep it's a one-man job.

He prefers crowds, having kept them laughing with him since he started his career as a chorus boy in 1919. He depends largely for his wide acclaim upon two factors—his ready repartee and his peculiar voice.

It was Hall Johnson who summed up Rochester's tonal peculiarity as "gritty glottis." That rasping sound has become familiar around the world since Rochester first released his plaintive gags upon the air waves.

When he appears to be most serious, Rochester is likely to spring a gag. And frequently, when he is very grave about a subject, he will be grinning from ear to ear. In any case, a laugh is never far behind his gleaming teeth.

Although he is partial to his radio name, acquired when he went on the Jack Benny air show in 1937, his real name is Eddie Anderson.

"Sometimes it isn't what you say but how you say it that gets the laugh," he observed.

With all his mirth, Rochester takes his work seriously. Years of vaudeville, the song-and-dance routines with rolling eyes and limber legs have not interfered with his natural acting ability. He demonstrated his talents as a serious artist in the difficult role of Noah in "Green Pastures." He has repeatedly proved himself in "You Can't Take It With You," "Old Country Doctor," and now in "Cabin in the Sky."

The World's War-Free Frontier... be ready to drive right over

No fierce border forts or haughty garrisons separate the U.S. and Canada, where peace-loving good neighbors welcome you. But there's fight in the fish up there. "When the lights go on again, all over the world," you can steer for the Canadian Rockies or quaint Quebec, without even a passport. You'll need a car, of course, but re-designing and re-tooling for new cars will take long months. So for prompt recreation after hard-earned Victory you'll need your present car!

But note: Rationed mileage that might seem to conserve your car now, may actually be destructive, because it encourages the inroads of engine acid!

Always produced by combustion, this acid was little worry when constant driving kept the heat on it. Yet now, despite aggravated conditions, acid can be still less worry!—because you can OIL-PLATE with Nth today, for your engine's future. Continental Oil Company

State Fair Is Attracting Many Fine Racers

With all but one or two of the Western race tracks closed and their annual fall meetings cancelled because of war conditions, more horses are being entered in the coming eight-day race meeting of the New Mexico State Fair than ever before. C. W. Jackson, manager in charge of racing, who is in Albuquerque to inspect the fair's racing plant, found nearly all available stall space in the racing stables reserved and arranged for stabling of a number of horses outside the grounds.

Not only is the number of horses larger than at any previous race meeting, Jackson said, but the class of running horses, favorites of formed fair race meetings, have been entered, a large number of animals new to New Mexico racing fans will appear.

"Aside from one track on the Pacific Coast," Jackson said, "ours is the only important race meeting to be held west of the Rocky Mountains this fall. The result is a substantial increase in our stall reservations and a promise of the best racing we have seen at a state fair. Quite a number of the horses being entered here will go on from Albuquerque to the great race meeting in Mexico City, to open in October."

Advices from Lynn Beutler, Elk City, Okla., rodeo impresario, who is again in charge of this year's State Fair rodeo, indicate that many of the stars of the rough riding arena are entering this year's event. Many of the larger rodeos, as in the case of race meetings, have been cancelled, because of war conditions and the "big time" boys are eager for an opportunity to "show their stuff."

"We will have the largest number of entries and the best group of riders and ropers we have ever had," Beutler wrote Leon H. Hams, fair manager. You can promise the people that every night of our six nights will be an all-star exhibition.

News Shorts

Lt. Col. H. A. Pollock of the Royal Scots Fusiliers, on a lecture tour of Army service command and state guard schools, remembers the advice of friends at home to proceed slowly in acquiring American slang. "As a matter of fact," he said, "the only slang expression I feel perfectly safe in using is 'okay'—and, believe me, that's the cat's pajamas."

Cries of "Shark! Shark!" resounded along the beach at Coney Island and 30,000 bathers hastily splashed their way out of the water on to land. But the mass exodus was unnecessary. The "sharks" turned out to be mild-mannered porpoises.

Workers at the Houston Shipbuilding Corporation yard are spending their spare minutes collecting wampum—any trinkets which might catch the eye of a South Pacific native. The trinkets will go to fighting men in that area, where United States cash has no appeal.

There was a lot of valuable merchandise in the Briggs Transfer Company's place in Chicago—grease guns, electrical generators and the like that are hard to get, even if you do have a priority. So when thieves broke in they took—thirty-six cartons of indigestion pills.

Governors of Indian pueblos in the Rio Grande Valley voiced strong opposition before a Congressional sub-committee to construction of any dams on the Rio Grande near their homes and protested that such construction would ruin their lands and destroy their shrines.

From Lordsburg, comes a story demonstrating Italian prisoners' satisfaction with their lot in the United States. When the first batch came into camp, it is said, the customary camp meal was served, but one prisoner, plainly impressed, is quoted as asking: "What's the banquet for?"

Clovis, site of an Army air base, voted dry 1861 to 1,185 in a local option election last week. It was the third local option election since repeal in the Eastern New Mexico municipality. In 1933, both the city and county voted wet. In 1939, the county went dry, while the city stayed wet by about 300 votes. The present election, which drew 120 more votes than were cast in 1939, came after a long campaign in which drys were forced to file local option election petitions twice because of technical errors.

A quota of 202 high school graduates for enrollment in the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps by the end of the year has been allotted New Mexico, Dr. J. R. Scott, state health director, said.

Lower Cottonwood (Ora Buck)

The Cottonwood Gin Company office and scales were destroyed by fire Friday, including all of the Pearson Brothers' business papers and office equipment. It is not known what started the fire. Word has been received that Herbert Wheatley, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Wheatley of Lake Arthur, has received his commission as second lieutenant in the Army.

Tom Terry was among farmers who began the first of the week picking cotton. In a few days cotton picking will be in full swing. Several farmers are cutting their grain.

A marriage of much interest to Cottonwood friends was that of Lehea Leora Ansley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Worley of Roswell, formerly of Cottonwood, to Horace Todd White of Oklahoma City, Okla., which took place Aug. 31.

Pvt. and Mrs. Roy C. Lamson are the parents of a daughter, Dorothy Jean, born at 10:25 o'clock Saturday night at Artesia Memorial Hospital. She was named after her aunt, Miss Dorothy Norris. The mother and daughter are doing nicely. Private Lamson is stationed at Fort Crockett, Tex., near Galveston. He is expected home in a few days.

Miss Hazel Lamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lamson of Cottonwood, underwent an appendectomy at Artesia Memorial Hospital Friday and is doing nicely. She will be brought home this week.

Miss Alice Norris left last week for a place near Santa Fe, where she will teach school this year. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bobo and little son, Melton, of Cottonwood were guests at a dinner Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Collier of East Grand Plains.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bobo and son, Melton, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Edgerton of Artesia were business visitors in Roswell last Thursday. Mrs. Mamie Schrier of Las Cruces and Almagordo has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Will Santo, the last two weeks.

Will Santo left Sunday for the Veterans' Hospital at Albuquerque, where he will be several days undergoing treatment. Jessie I. Funk and James Thigpen of Upper Cottonwood were transacting business in Carlsbad Wednesday of last week.

J. J. Terry and Orval Gray of Cottonwood made a business trip to Roswell one day last week. Miss Helen Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Johnson, has been teaching in Lake Arthur School, taking the place of A. R. Bostick, while he is in the hospital at Artesia recovering from an appendectomy. He was brought home Friday and is doing nicely.

Mrs. John Lane returned to her home in Lake Arthur last Thursday from a two-week visit in Pasadena, Calif., with her sisters, Mrs. Turn Russell and Mrs. Buck Papone.

Mrs. Calvin Graham was badly burned about the body a few days ago, when she went to remove a pressure cooker from the stove. Her burns were not serious, but very painful.

Jack Nail of Vaughn visited Saturday with his grandmother, Mrs. Roxie Clark. He is an operator on the railroad there.

Rudolph Cummins, who is in the Army, arrived last Thursday for a day's visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cummins of Lake Arthur, and other relatives and friends. Miss Dorothy Cummins, who is attending college at Portales, visited her parents and her brother last week.

Dean Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nevt Campbell of Lake Arthur, left last week for Portales to attend college this year.

Incorrect Addressing of Package To Navy Men May Cause Delay

A letter or package that a Navy man serving overseas expects and does not arrive, in addition to causing suffering, may mean the expending of innumerable wasted man-hours and the lessening of space that might be better used by vital war materials, if not correctly addressed, the Eleventh Naval District said.

Letters incorrectly addressed because of the omission of a man's specific unit or his Navy number, a misspelled name, or the use of nicknames or initials often must be relayed to Washington for a tedious search through personnel files before delivery can be made, after traveling half way around the world.

To lessen the chances of mail going astray, families and friends of men in the Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard are reminded that the essentials of a correct mailing address for any person in the Naval Service include his full name, with rank or rating, the ship or unit to which he is attached if at sea, or, if ashore, the name of the station or Navy number, and the fleet postoffice.

Examples of correct addresses are:

For Naval personnel stationed aboard ship:
John Adams Jones, AMM 3c
USS Robert Hyde
c/o Fleet Post Office
San Francisco, Calif.

For Naval personnel stationed where Navy numbers are used:
James Hall Hancock, S1c
Section Base
Navy 118 (one one eight)
c/o Fleet Post Office
New York, New York.

For Marine Corps personnel:
PFC John Robertson Clark,
USMC
Company B., 2nd Battalion
8th Marines
c/o Fleet Post Office
San Francisco, Calif.

Ever think about Running a Factory?

IF you've ever run a farm or dairy or store, there are a lot of things about running a factory that you'd find pretty familiar. Things like working any and all hours, training green help, planning for months ahead without letting the planning interfere with the job of the moment.

These are the responsibilities of management. And the peculiar American ability to meet and lick these problems means a lot today, both on the food-producing and weapon-producing fronts.

Ability to manage isn't picked up overnight. For good management is a skill just as much as good workmanship—learned the hard way.

It won't be forgotten overnight, either. For it is these men who, on farm and in factory, have actually produced the things from which our high living standard is derived, who can and will, by working together, give every American a more abundant life in the peacetime years to come. Declaration of Income Is Due By Sept. 15

S. P. Vidal, collector of internal revenue, announced that 83,000 copies of the declaration of estimated income for the calendar year 1943 have been mailed out to the taxpayers in the New Mexico district. It is estimated that 40,000 taxpayers in the district will be required under the current payment tax act of 1943 to file the form, on or before Sept. 15 and make payment of at least half the amount of the balance of 1943 tax estimated to be due at that time.

While most taxpayers will not be required to file the declaration, Vidal said, because they are paying their tax in full through the withholding reductions made by their employers, he urged all taxpayers to read carefully the instruction sheets which accompanied the forms to determine whether they are required to make a declaration, so as to avoid penalties for either failure to file or for making substantial underestimates of 1943 income.

Many persons do not realize, Vidal said, that the withholding tax does not automatically make all persons current on their 1943 incomes. Generally speaking, single persons earning over $2,700 a year or married persons earning more than $3,500 a year; those with outside incomes, such as from dividends, interest, rents, professional fees or business profits, and those classes not subject to withholdings, such as persons in the armed forces, clergymen, domestic servants and farm labor, will all be required to file declarations in order to place all taxpayers on an equal footing.

Vidal also asked employers to be prepared, if requested, to give their employees a preliminary statement of the withholding deductions for each payroll period, and the amount of victory tax withheld in the first six months, to help them compute their estimated total withholders for the year. While the law requires employers to furnish a written statement to employees only after the end of the year, still the act does require the filing of a declaration by certain taxpayers on Sept. 15 and they may need this assistance from employers in filing the form required. Inasmuch as only a relatively small proportion of employees will be required to file this Sept. 15 declaration, it is not expected that this will involve much extra work on the part of employers, and their cooperation would be greatly appreciated, Vidal said.

The Soil Conservation Service at the Army's request has worked out erosion control plans on 63,932 acres in New Mexico, Colorado, Arizona, and Utah, Cyril Luker, regional conservator, said. He said the erosion control plans are designed to prevent small "dust bowls" around thirty-four military reservations. Luker said the Army has put erosion plans into effect on nearly 34,000 acres. The SCS has supplied 64,921 trees and shrubs and 15,870 pounds of grass seed for re-vegetation of these military reservations, he said.

Employers in New Mexico, Colorado, Utah, Montana, and Wyoming can eliminate standard wages by raising rates to 40 cents an hour without WPB approval, even though the employer might seek to use the wage hike as a basis for price relief, Chairman Charles A. Graham of the National War Labor announced.

left Friday for their home in Albuquerque. They also visited Mrs. Mae Sharp, sister of Mrs. Tolman, in Artesia.

News Briefs of the "Sunshine State" Gleaned From Many Sources

Mayor Clyde Tingley of Albuquerque, chairman of the New Mexico infantile paralysis fund and board chairman of the Carrie Tingley Hospital for Crippled Children, wired the Kenney Institute at Minneapolis for a graduate nurse to aid in the combat of infantile paralysis in New Mexico. Mayor Tingley reported that "several cases which have only developed in the past few days have been reported by local doctors and parents asking that the children be sent to the Hot Springs hospital. We can't send them to the hospital until doctors say they are past the contagious stage," he declared. Mayor Tingley reported that several children from other parts of the state, and one from Albuquerque were admitted to the hospital last week.

New Mexico's sales tax is continuing its half-million-dollar-a-month pace, Governor Dempsey reported. The governor made public August collections, which totaled $506,408.52, beating the same month last year by $103,036 and comparing with $500,758 collected in July this year.

Senator Carl Hatch said Frank E. Bennett, chief of the industrial unit of the War Production Board, had assured him that the restriction on sale of permanent type anti-freeze in New Mexico would be lifted shortly. New Mexico in a recent switch from the Rocky Mountain to the Gulf area for gasoline purposes also became ineligible for anti-freeze allotments.

John G. Bamesberger, regional engineering chief of the Soil Conservation Service, said that irrigation improvements completed this year in 120 Soil Conservation districts of the Southwest region have benefited crops on 186,350 acres. Outstanding projects in New Mexico were listed by Bamesberger as including: Repair of the Halford-Independent Ditch and the construction of the Ross Lateral in the San Juan Valley, benefiting 2,260 acres; construction of the Springer Diversion Dam in Colfax County, benefiting 4,500 acres; installation of heading and improvement of canal on the Pueblo de Taos Ditch, benefiting 1,200 acres, and removal of silt and debris from the Hope Retard Dam, benefiting 3,200 acres.

The general state tax rate for all state purposes for 1943 will be slightly under 6 1/2 mills, Harold Sellers, chief state tax commissioner, announced. Sellers said the rate was fixed at .006450, "a very slight decrease" on the 1942 rate of .006460. Compilation of figures on county and municipal rates has not been completed, he said. Pointing out that the decrease in the general state levy was slight, Sellers said: "We want to keep up funds for use in the post-war era. If we don't get our tax money when times are good, we aren't going to get them. We feel we can reduce taxes when there is an actual need for reduction, if at such a time we can avail ourselves of surpluses built up in good times. This is the theory that is being adopted in virtually all the states." New Mexico's assessed valuations for 1943 ran the highest in a score of years, jumping to 351 million dollars from 339 million last year. Sellers said the amount the general state levy would raise for all state purposes this year was estimated at $2,040,935. The money from the levy takes care of legislative general fund appropriations and is used in defraying certain debt payments. Sellers explained that the amount to be raised for state purposes does not equal appropriations because in fixing the rate it is possible to benefit from certain credits. Tax collections at present, he said, are running better than in many years, with some counties already reporting collections amounting to 98 per cent.

Permission to abandon 20,527 miles of their branch line between Carrizozo Junction and Capitan has been sought from the Interstate Commerce Commission by the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad and the Southern Pacific Company, the State Corporation Commission said. Interested parties in the area have been notified and asked if there is any protest to the abandonment. If so, Commissioner Don R. Casados said, the ICC will be advised and a hearing called. The applicants said the region's industries were not dependent on the line, cited dwindling traffic, and said they wished to avoid operating losses.

Increases of $3 a thousand board feet over basic prime maximums have been granted to producers of white pine lumber in Arizona and New Mexico. OPA said the increases were allowed to compensate for recent wage boosts in the area approved by the War Labor Board. The $3 markup was limited to lumber of the following grades: Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 common; one-inch shop common; Nos. 2 and 3 of 5/4 and thicker shop lumber; all box lumber and Nos. 1 and 2 dimension lumber.

State wheat acreage goals for 1944, representing an apportionment of the national goal of sixty-eight million acres—26 per cent above this year's seedings—have been announced by the War Food Administration according to Fred L. O'Cheskey, chairman, USDA War Board. The goal for New Mexico is set at 400,000 acres. County goals will be established on the basis of these state figures and will constitute the wheat goals farmers will be urged to meet in 1944. County goals for New Mexico will be announced immediately by the AAA State Committee. WFA Administrator Marvin Jones said that in planning wheat planting on individual farms, farmers should reserve land for other needed crops such as flax, dry beans and peas, potatoes.

If the paint can be obtained, New Mexico passenger cars will sport yellow license plates with red numerals in 1944, Governor Dempsey said. The governor said he had conferred with officials of the Motor Vehicle Department and that an investigation was being made to determine if the yellow and red paints could be obtained. Steel for the plates already has been ordered.

Vox Populi

HOW IMPORTANT IS A GATE?

Few people realize or give it a thought when passing through a gate how important it is and if left open what damages it might cause to the landowner or rancher.

I am going to relate to you what open gates have cost me and I am satisfied that I am not the only one who has had the inconvenience of people leaving gates open.

About ten days ago someone, presumably a fisherman, passed through one of my gates and failed to close it. The result was that he turned forty head of my cattle into field of cotton and hegar. It was several days before I found it out, so you can see what damage and what it cost me for this gate to be left open. Besides this I was several hours getting this stock out of the field. It would have taken only a few minutes for this party to have closed this gate.

I have looked for days after stock that have strayed by someone being careless about closing gates when they go through them.

It can be the death of livestock for you to let them into a certain area and I have lost them in that way.

Few people know that we have many poisonous weeds and crops and if cattle or horses eat them at certain times it will kill them. I was very fortunate in not losing some the other day as hegar is a rank poison when green. In the fall and winter goldenrod is very poisonous to cattle and horses as well. The common cocklebur is very poisonous when it has its first leaves. We stockmen quite often have these places fenced off and can keep the cattle off at these particular times. But all it takes is for some hunter or fisherman to leave the gate down and in they go.

Another thing is that a rancher might be weaning a bunch of calves and have them separated by a fence with a gate in it for his or your convenience and you can readily see what the result would be if this gate would be left down.

It doesn't make any difference how poorly constructed the gate might be, if it is closed, so after passing through it, be sure you close it.

You can readily see what I am driving at. It takes but very little of your time and will save many hours for us farmers and ranchers. And in this wartime you will be contributing very much to the war effort by saving livestock and our time. So I say PLEASE close any and all kinds of gates when using them.

EMIL T. BACH.

a taxi strip to the intersection of the diagonal runways and another in a diagonal direction to approximately the center of the east-west landing strip.

There also is a taxi strip indicated between the north extremities of the two diagonal landing strips.

Within the "U" taxi strip are indicated spaces for buildings, but no building construction is shown in the plans and specifications.

The immensity of the job is shown by the indicated excavation of 865,000 cubic yards, clearing and grubbing of 570 acres, the seeding of 477 acres and the building of 1,450 rods of fence.

The prospectus recites that a bidder "proposes to furnish the materials and perform the work for clearing, fencing, paving, conditioning, and seeding" the Artesia airport.

C. C. Smith Wins Herald-Post Invasion Guess

C. C. Smith of Artesia led the field in this area in naming the time and date of the invasion of the European mainland and won himself a $50 War Bond in a contest sponsored by the "Side-Bar Remarks" department of E. M. Pooley in The El Paso Herald-Post.

Smith's guess, made on June 22, was that the invasion would start at 4 o'clock the morning of Sept. 4. Although he missed it 23 hours 30 minutes, for the invasion started at 4:30 o'clock the morning of Sept. 3, Smith won in a walk, for the next closest guess was by Miss Florence Liebreich, who chose Sept. 15.

The $50 War Bond, which Pooley announced Sunday Smith had won, in reality amounts to two prizes of a $25 bond each, one for the date and the other for the time of day.

And while on the invasion date subject, Miss Georgie Pate, former member of The Advocate staff, who now is attending Baylor University, won a pool in which six of the staff members participated.

Her good fortune was not because of any crystal gazing on her part, but rather on luck. Six lists of dates, starting June 17, when someone in the office conjured up the idea, were made, each having dates six days apart. Through the sequence of the system, Georgie drew, among other days, Sept. 3, the day of the invasion of the continent proper, so she received the War Savings Stamps.

Cards From—

Two cards were received from Pfc. G. D. Ashton from Camp No. 2 by his mother, Mrs. F. O. Ashton. They read, differences indicated by parenthesis: "My health is good. I am under treatment (uninjured). I am well. Please inquire Red Cross how to write me. Please inform all folks that I am OK. Hope to see you soon. Love to all. (Write me through Red Cross. Tell everyone hello.) Please give my best regards to all friends (all)."

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Witherspoon received a card from their son, Sgt. Phil Witherspoon, in Camp No. 2: "My health is excellent. I am not under treatment. I am well. Please see that your letter to me through International Red Cross is taken care of. My love to all. Am doing fine and don't worry. Please give my regards to Mary and Tommy (his sister, Mrs. Tom Futch, and Mr. Futch of Carlsbad)."

Cpl. William G. Ballou, reared by Mrs. T. R. Tice, sent two cards to her from Camp No. 2. They read: "My health is fair. I am under treatment (uninjured). I am improving. Please see that Red Cross supplies are sent to me. Tice was OK in November." He was referring to his foster-brother, Pfc. Alton Tice.

Mrs. Ben Champion has heard from her niece, Mrs. Oma Morrel of Bakersfield, Calif., that their nephew and brother, Cpl. Roy Terry, had written her. In it he said in part, "I am well . . . uninjured . . . in good health." He is in camp No. 1.

The only card from the Asiatic mainland was received Wednesday by Mrs. John R. Castleberry from her son, Pfc. Roy C. Castleberry, who is at the Mukden, Manchoukuo Prisoner of War Camp. His card was typewritten and read:

"I am receiving good treatment from the Japanese. Still in good health. Send telegram and let me know how you are. American Red Cross will give you the details how to contact me."

Tony King, whose educated clarinet was heard Friday evening by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. King, and other members of the family, seems to have sent word home in more ways than anyone else that he is all right.

Mr. and Mrs. King have had a card and a letter, the only one known to have arrived here, and they heard his voice over the radio several weeks ago, and now they have heard his clarinet.

A woman announcer said that they were treating the American and British prisoners of war well. "Listen to them now," she said. She explained that a prisoner of war orchestra was about to be heard, in which were a Canadian violinist, two men from London, one from South Wales and others, "featuring Tony King of the United States of America on his clarinet." He was the only one named.

The orchestra started off with "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," with singing. Then Tony "gave out" on his "gobstick" with "St. Louis Blues," on which he used to be featured when at home. The orchestra then played "Isle of Capris," featuring the Canadian violinist. The two English boys then sang in Cockney dialect, after which Tony was featured, playing "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

At that place a sergeant said the boys were having a good time. The program finished with them singing: "Take this message to my mother, far across the deep blue sea. It will fill her heart with pleasure. She'll be glad to hear from me."

Mr. and Mrs. King and others who heard the program were certain it was Tony King, for they recognized his style. He started in on the instrument here a number of years ago under Mrs. E. L.

Smoke Fund Project Is Picking Up

At last the American Legion post's campaign to raise funds to send cigarettes to men in the service on foreign duty is picking up speed and the public is taking more note of it, with the distribution of attractive red and blue coin boxes in about two dozen places of business.

In addition the offer of Howard Whitson, past commander of the post, to underwrite a case of cigarettes the final month of year's campaign, provided funds for the first eleven months were raised, has brought forth similar offers for the eleventh, tenth, and ninth months respectively by the Artesia Alfalfa Growers Association, Oren C. Roberts, present commander, and the Southern Union Gas Company.

The new red and blue coin containers, on which Bill Dunnam, cigarette project chairman, has placed printed cards explaining what they are for, replaced a scattered few pickle jars. The boxes were furnished the post by the manufacturer of one of the popular priced cigarettes.

The cigarettes to be bought will cost the post a nickel a package and are tax free. They will be delivered by any of the cooperating cigarette manufacturers designated to a point of embarkation, from where the government will see that they are sent to men in foreign lands, to whom they will be distributed without cost.

All coins, including pennies, will be welcome, Dunnam said, who suggested that smokers make it a habit to buy the boys a package of smokes every time they buy some for themselves.

Maljamar Oil—

All contributions will be given full credit in the permanent records of the post and they will be used only for the purpose intended, Pottorff said. Until the building is erected, the funds contributed are being invested in War Bonds, to assist in the war program.

Pottorff said that when the building is erected, the names of all contributors will be engraved or otherwise inscribed on a suitable plaque or tablet which will be a permanent part of the building.

Besides the gift of the four lots from the Maljamar Oil & Gas Corporation, contributions acknowledged Tuesday evening by the building committee were:

H. W. Etz, Jr., $74; S. A. Lanning, $74; T. J. Terry, $37; Glenn O'Bannon, $50; John F. Runyan, $74; Mrs. E. L. Landreth, $370; Dr. D. N. Schneberg, $37.50; M. E. Baish, $370. U. L. The announcement was made by W. M. Hamilton, state chairman.

Lt. Leonard L. Spivey Missing In Action

First Lt. Leonard L. Spivey, a native of Artesia and a resident here until five years ago, has been missing in action since Aug. 19, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. (Tom) Spivey, now of San Jose, Calif., have been notified.

He was a navigator on a Flying Fortress, stationed somewhere in England since last May.

Lieutenant Spivey received his commission at Mather Field last Nov. 21 at the age of 21 years. He was promoted to first lieutenant April 15 at the Pueblo (Colo.) Army Air Base.

While serving in England since May 1, Lieutenant Spivey and the crew of the Flying Fortress to which he was assigned were interviewed twice by the Associated Press. He had received the Air Medal for his activities.

In a formation of 123 bombers which flew over the bay area some weeks ago, termed to have been the largest formation ever in that region, Lieutenant Spivey was the navigator to the commanding officer in the lead ship of his squadron.

The only relative of Lieutenant Spivey here is Mrs. W. L. Vandiver, a sister. There also are three brothers and another sister, Roy, Tommie and Russell Spivey of San Jose, Calif., and Mrs. Charles Renfro of Albuquerque.

Tells Lions of Dehydrated Foods in War

The part dehydrated, trated foods are playing in war and the part they will take in the days of occupation after the war were described Wednesday at the weekly Lions luncheon by E. J. Foster.

Dehydration is very important today, he said, in making possible to save shipping space in transportation of foods, retaining in them their food value.

When peace comes, Foster said, they will be of assistance to the peoples of other countries. The method of dehydration of food is being perfected and improved, the processes of have been developed rapidly since the start of the war.

A True Conversation

BETWEEN GENERAL MARSHALL AND SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY MORGENTHAU

General George S. Marshall

"Mr. Secretary, can we military leaders plan to fight this war in an orderly way—in the surest and most effective manner—or must we take extraordinary risks for fear the money will not hold out?"

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury of the United States

"General, the American people will take care of that. They will not let our fighters suffer from lack of support until we achieve complete victory, no matter how long that may take, nor how much it may cost!"
