Housing Need

EVERY MOVE, which is made here, to secure new firms, new industries and more people for Artesia, encounters one problem — housing shortage.

That problem, of course, is one common to the nation.

Every community faces a housing shortage. In some communities efforts are being made to solve the problem. In other communities, which are not too much concerned about their growth and expansion, little interest is being shown.

Artesia, however, is in the class of cities, which is ambitious. Artesia is among those communities, which want to grow and to expand and to take care of new industries, new businesses and more people.

Considerable has been done about the housing shortage. The new homes erected here in the past year testify to this fact.

There are under construction in Artesia today, a shortage of building materials, many homes and residences.

However, regardless of how many new places are provided, there still are not enough.

For Artesia to take full advantage of the opportunities, which are here, there must be even more homes for people to live.

There must be even more homes than those erected now. There must be more rent houses and apartments.

During these difficult days and times of the housing shortage, those communities, which do something about the problem will be the communities which move ahead.

As long as houses are being erected elsewhere, as long as pre-fabricated houses can be purchased, then more houses can be secured for this community and other communities.

Every citizen in Artesia, we believe, appreciate the problem here and the situation which every citizen of Artesia interested in the future of this community, we believe, wants to see being done about this housing shortage.

The future, so we are told, appears extremely bright. New developments are anticipated.

Whether we receive the greatest benefit possible from these is going to depend on whether we are prepared to take advantage of these opportunities.

In Artesia, we feel, has not only the finance but the leadership to do something about this housing shortage.

It is now we perhaps haven't done all we want but the fact does remain if we want to make the most of the opportunities, which are ours and which are to be ours, then we must solve this housing shortage.—O.E.P.

Reading

FAST DRIVING and speeding continues, despite the efforts of police officers to make and assess fines for violation of traffic laws.

Speeding continues not only on residential streets but, every now and then, right down Main street, even in the business district.

Main street has always had its fast cars. They seemingly have not decreased.

The New Mexico law requires that we must have our motor vehicles under control at all times.

We have it under control when we are speeding on one of Artesia's streets or boulevards.

We believe the average citizen is not only anxious for the police officers to continue their efforts to halt speeding, and trust they will continue them until safe driving is a real thing in Artesia, instead of something which is a hindrance.—O.E.P.

Pledge

A DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE, who pledged to support the completion of State Highway No. 83 from the Alamogordo, did not win the election.

Naturally he can't keep the pledge.

The Republican and Democratic candidates are seeking votes and support in the general election.

It is still an opportunity to secure a highway that will benefit the completion of that highway.

Believe the completion of that highway is the most important thing to a great part of Southeastern New Mexico. There are thousands and thousands of dollars worth of products to be moved out of those mountains and valleys besides the tourist travel on this cool, scenic and shorter route to the west coast.

Now is the time to secure the pledge that this all-important highway will be completed during the next term of office of New Mexico's new governor.

It means dollars and cents to those producing products in the valleys of the Sacramento Mountains. It means business for Artesia.—O.E.P.

More City Parks

CERTAINLY ARTESIA'S CITY PARK, located between Quay and Richardson and between Seventh and Eighth streets, is as attractive, well kept and inviting a park as could be found in any small city in the nation.

It is a beauty spot.

But Artesia needs more of such parks. Plans call for a small park in the Hightower addition and this will add to the attractiveness of the section.

But such a park nearer the business section also is needed—needed for our farm and ranch folks, who do their trading and shopping in Artesia.

The fact we are not a county seat prevents us from having a court house and the park, which usually goes with a court house. Desirable spots for a park are not too plentiful. But there are places where plantings could be carried out.

A small quarter block, which could be created into a beautiful little city park at not too great expense, is just north of the city hall. Sooner or later this spot will be utilized for a city building. However, between now and that time, it could be planted with trees, grass and flowers. It could be made into a beauty spot and would be a place where our out of city folks could find benches and a cool spot to rest.

It would pay dividends, besides providing another beauty spot in our city.—O.E.P.

New Industries

EVERY NEW INDUSTRY, which locates in Artesia, not only means another payroll, more jobs and more shoppers in Artesia, but it also means another service, which is being rendered to those in Artesia and the Artesia trade territory.

And the greater the number of services we can render as a community and the greater shopping center we become, then the more traders and shoppers we attract to Artesia.

The realization is growing today that it is the small industries, which each and every community wants. Communities are learning they are on a much sounder and firmer foundation with 50 small industries, which employ 10 people each, than they are with two large industries, which employ 250 people each.

They are on a firmer foundation because even a half dozen of the small firms could fail and yet the community has not lost its payroll. Let one of the large firms fail, employing 250, and the community has lost half of its payroll.

Small sound industries, which are rendering service; serving the community; paying good salaries and employing even a small number of employees are far better. One sound such firm doing a good job is far better than two of such firms when uncertainty begins to prevail in so far as the business is concerned; profits are concerned; number of people that can be employed and the salaries being paid.

We can recall, off hand, five new services provided for Artesia in recent weeks. All were needed; all are filling a place; and all just make it possible for the community to be better served, to have additional payrolls and to provide more shoppers in our city.—O.E.P.

Closed Shops

SLOWLY BUT SURELY the march of the states in adopting laws outlawing closed shops, is making its way across the nation.

Florida was one of the first states to adopt such a law—a law which permits men to work whether they desire to join a union in order to have a job.

Louisiana has such a law before its state legislature and the house of that legislature has now adopted that law.

It is all a determined effort to make America, the land of the free, a free country.

A land where men can join unions, practice collective bargaining and exercise their American rights.

A country where the individual, who does not desire to join a union and pay a fee, can also enjoy the privilege of work and the right to earn a livelihood.

Unions claim that the open shop is UnAmerican and that it denies men the right to collective bargaining, the right to strike.

Advocates of open shop point out that organized unions also deny Americans those privileges and rights, which are theirs.

But it is also true that all labor or any laborer has the right to refuse to join a union, to refuse to participate in collective bargaining and to refuse to walk off from his job, which is the livelihood for himself and his family, if he does not desire to strike.

But it is likely true that both organized and unorganized labor are now agreed that racketeering in labor unions must be eliminated; that responsibility must be accepted by unions, by labor and by industry. And surely all of us are convinced that it has reached the point where we must place America above all else and work for our country in the days ahead.

If we don't, wise labor leaders are very much concerned and are fearful that labor will lose all of its gains, many of them only after years of work and rightfully theirs.

There is no room in a democracy for the methods of dictators.

There are always certain duties and responsibilities, which go with authority and with rights and privileges, which are ours. We must learn we have to accept these responsibilities if we are going to assume the authority.

The mere fact that we have and hold the big stick does not mean we also possess the right to wield it and for only our own selfish advantage.

Unfortunately many of us as yet have not learned this lesson.—O.E.P.

Up and Down Main Street

THE END OF LIFE UP AND DOWN MAIN NEVER WELCOMED

The approach of the end of life seldom if ever finds any of us prepared. Death, to most of us, is something which always happens to others, yet never comes home to us. That, of course, is not true. It comes to all of us and most of us are never prepared. Few of us travel those last few miles toward the end of the trail in a graceful manner. Few of us can look back with a great deal of satisfaction at the life we have lived and can feel we have contributed something during our life here and to the lives of others. Recently one of our close personal friends, a lady with whom we had worked for years, reached the end of the trail. Hers had been a full life of service to others and yet an empty life to her. She and her husband had celebrated more than 50 years of wedded life yet their home had never been blessed with a child. Yet perhaps she had helped to raise more children and done more for children than anyone else in that particular community. She had given years of her life to aiding others. She had carried the relief and welfare load when there was no pay for this and when money had to be begged to buy food, clothing, shelter, fuel and medicine for the poor, the destitute and the sick. She had worked hard during the years of her life and given of her talent, energy, her ability and of her means. She had helped direct school plays; assisted in club work; assisted in all worthy causes. She had worked for one newspaper as that newspaper's society editor for more than 25 years. She had written birth notices and death stories; she had written articles of all types and kinds in the newspaper field. All the years, she would have been 85 this August, she had maintained her interest in civic and community affairs. She had lived a full life.

Youths of 18 Still Register On Birthdays

State headquarters for Selective Service has announced that statistics being received reveal many men reaching the age of 18 years believe they do not have to register under the present 45-day extension of the Selective Training and Service Act, and are failing to register. For the information of those who have recently reached the age of 18 or are reaching that age this coming month, Col. Rufus Sedillo, state Selective Service director, said, "All men are required to register on the day they reach the age of 18, and the liability to register remains unchanged and the regulations pertaining to registration continue in full force and effect."

The actions related to registrants 18 and 19 years of age which are now suspended by the local boards, in accordance with the present 45-day extension of the Selective Service Act, Public Law 379, are as follows: The mailing of questionnaires, the classifying or reclassifying of such registrants, the ordering or forwarding of any such registrant for pre-induction physical examination, induction, physical examination, or for work of national importance, or any other action relating to classification, physical examination, induction, or assignment of a registrant. Col. Sedillo also said that registrants 18 and 19 years of age who were classified prior to May 15, will be retained in their present classifications.

There is nothing in the present law which would prohibit registrants 18 and 19 years of age from volunteering for induction either through Selective Service or through the recruiting stations of the armed forces, Sedillo said.

Peacetime Naval Reserve Officer Training Planned

Plans for establishment of a peacetime Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps at the University of New Mexico have been announced by Capt. Joel Newsom, commanding officer of the unit.

The "wartime" in-Navy training program closes this month, after which trainees will be civilians in colleges.

Legislation embodying the plans is now before Congress, Captain Newsom said, providing for retention pay to midshipmen in the NROTC at the rate of $600 per year for a four-year college period. It would authorize the payment of tuition, laboratory fees, books and uniforms.

There is a very good prospect of the legislation becoming law, Captain Newsom said.

Under the present law, the NROTC is authorized to furnish uniforms and provide the midshipmen a ration allowance of 65 cents per day during the junior and senior years.

Dude Ranches Offer Vacation to Those Liking Outdoor Life

Dude ranches in New Mexico, Arizona, and Texas offer an ideal two-week vacation to those interested in the outdoor life, according to an article entitled "Dudes in the Rockies" in the July issue of Holiday.

Horseback riding, moonlight hay rides, walks up mountain trails, trout fishing, and motor trips along picturesque roads are among the pleasures awaiting the ranch visitor.

Average price is $50 to $75 per week, with the fee as high as $250 for the ritzier establishments. The prices usually include everything—rooms, meals, the horse one rides, the cowboy who guides the party over the mountain trails.

Insect Types Indicate Means Of Control Used

It is time to begin thinking about insects and disease control in gardens and flower beds, County Agent Dallas Rierson warns. But first, he says, it is necessary to know exactly what species is involved in order successfully to combat them.

"Since these destructive enemies are forms of life, it is possible to distinguish them by their appearance and by certain of their general habits," Rierson declared. "In view of this, insect and plant diseases are grouped into convenient categories for purposes of control."

The county agent explained that one of the worst types of insects are "sucking insects" which extract their food as liquids in the form of sap from plants or as blood from animals. Examples of this type of pest are lice, leafhoppers, scale insects, and mosquitoes. Other sucking insects, especially plant lice, feed on the water and food-carrying vessels of plant stems or branches and cause the plant to become discolored, wilted and sometimes stunted.

Rierson said that sucking insects can be successfully controlled by contact poisons. These include nicotine dusts, pyrethrum dusts and sprays and oil sprays. Forty per cent nicotine sulfate is used against sucking insects at the rate of one pint to 100 gallons of water for aphids and leafhoppers, and one quart for insects such as

Farmers Find Ray of Hope for More Lumber

Farmers may find a ray of hope for more lumber as the result of recent actions taken by the Civilian Production Administration.

The actions are: Instructions to CPA field offices to cut down two-thirds on the amount of lumber approved for uses other than in housing and farm construction; 25 per cent of a distributor's regular monthly supply of lumber must now be held for uses without priority ratings as well as all lumber a distributor may get above his regular certified amounts. Distributors also must release their reserve lumber at the end of the month it is received, rather than wait 60 days as previously required. Hitherto, lumber distributors could hold all their supplies for priority sales, making it difficult to get lumber even for small repair jobs on the farm. Immediate effect of the changes should be to release for sale without priority all the lumber the yards received prior to June 1 — except that which is obligated to those holding priorities. Huge lumber demands, including requirements for veterans' housing, together with production difficulties, are listed as reasons for the lumber squeeze by John D. Small, administrator of CPA. Total requirements for 1946, he said, are figured at more than 35 billion board feet—20 per cent more than the estimated supply.

County Agent Rierson Gives Some Good Advice on Planting of Trees

County Agent Dallas Rierson has been taking time out to talk about trees. "Trees," he said, "are needed for shade, for background, and to frame a house. There are few plantings that make more difference in giving interest to a home. Perhaps, if we stop to consider why they are planted, we will have a better idea of where they should be located to give the best results and avoid a common practice of planting a hedge of trees around the yard fence."

Rierson first discussed locating the trees: "To provide shade and protection from the hot afternoon sun, a tree should be placed on the southwestern side of a building. This will throw a shadow on the house at the time when the sun is hottest. The second tree should be planted to the rear of the building to provide a background which will show up the house well. A third tree should be placed so that it and one of the others will help frame the house and add to its attractiveness. In this way, with thought in planting, three trees may give all the effect needed, as well as the desired protection."

Speaking of the kinds of trees to plant, Rierson said the best trees for New Mexico conditions are cottonwood, Russian olive, poplar, elm, and juniper. He recommended for those desiring more detailed data on trees and shrubs to consult New Mexico Agricultural Experiment Station Bulletin No. 284—"Ornamental Trees and Shrubs for New Mexico."

The county agent added that the trees should be planted in good soil and the holes for planting should be large enough to receive all the roots without crowding. It is desirable, he said, to start with trees six to eight feet in height. Larger trees sometimes require several years to get over shock of transplanting.

In conclusion, Rierson gave this advice: "Secure good, healthy stock from a reliable nursery. It is not sufficient merely to set out a tree and then forget it. It tree should be watered regularly and fertilized annually with a nitrogen carrying fertilizer."

Beauty Added To Homes by 4-H Club Members

Four-H Club members are learning that landscaping their home grounds makes the property more valuable. Exceptional landscaping achievements of these rural youths are also rewarded in the National 4-H Home Grounds Beautification program.

Participants learn how to plant correctly and care for grasses, flowers, shrubs, and trees. They are encouraged to keep their lawns mowed, weeds cut and shrubbery trimmed, also to remove unsightly objects from their yards, repair rickety fences, and improve driveways. Their training serves to develop a happy relationship through working with other members of the families in beautifying their homesteads.

Merit cards donated by Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen, Chicago horticultural enthusiast, comprise silver medals to county winners and a gold watch to the state champion. All-expense trips to the national 4-H Club Congress are awarded to eight selected state winners.

Last year's state winner in New Mexico was Mary Ann Hendley of House. County winners were named in Union, Bernalillo, Lea, and San Juan Counties.

The State Extension Service will provide information and suggestions to 4-H Club members for carrying on this activity and for helping them in reaching its objectives.

Prevention of Dust Bowl Repetition Is Causing Precautions

Albert Tillinghast, district PMA representative, reported that extreme drought continues over the grain sorghum area of Eastern New Mexico.

He said there is grave danger of it reaching dust bowl proportions again. Most of the dryland farmers in this particular area, through the assistance of the Agricultural Conservation Program, are sub-soiling their entire cropland, ripping up the hardpan and leaving a rough cloddy surface in order to keep the topsoil from blowing.

This practice will also put the cropland in shape to absorb the maximum amount of any dashing rain which might come.

Abundant supplies of new potatoes are now rolling into most markets, the Department of Agriculture reports. A record movement has started from producing areas.

PRACTICAL FARM BUILDINGS

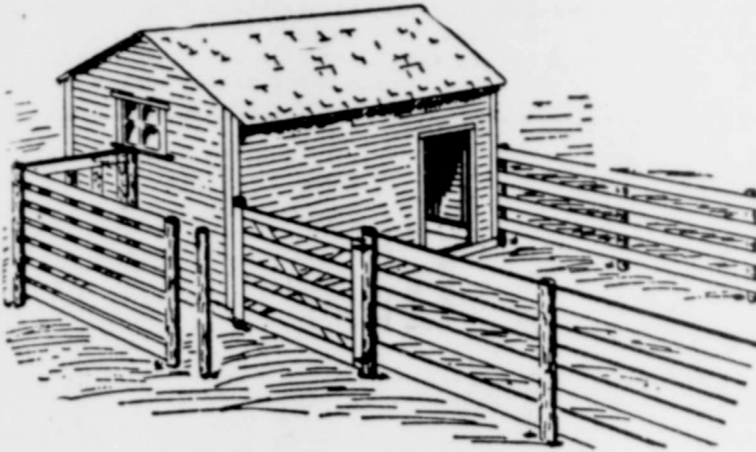

Safety Bull Pen

By W. J. Dryden, WNU Farm Editor.

The use of a safety bull pen is not only a necessity but is a practical method of protecting the bull, the owner or attendant, his family and visitors from injuries caused by an enraged bull.

The Arkansas pen provides a safe, convenient and time-saving means of handling the bull. More years of service are possible and there is little chance of spreading disease from one herd to another through should be carefully planned to include shade, water, good drainage and convenience. The type of material used in the construction of the bull pen, shed and breeding rack will depend, in part, upon local supplies and prices. It should be remembered, however, that the grade of lumber is important. Cheap lumber will prove expensive in this construction. Too many knots or defects in the lumber will soon re-oull service, when the safety pen and breeding chute are used.

The time required in feeding and handling a dairy bull in a safety pen is no greater than that required in handling any other animal on the farm, especially if water and pasture are provided in the exercising yard.

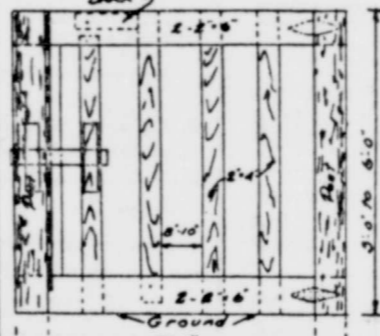

A careful study of the use and construction of the safety bull pen in bull breaking through with injury to himself or to others.

In this type of construction the bull can be kept in confinement so that he may be stabled, watered, bedded and led back and forth to the breeding pen without the attendant necessarily coming in contact with the bull. The building problems of every farmer will be individual ones. Each farmer has a different system of management, and arrange-as cross pieces. The first requirement of the bull pen is strength, and only such materials as are known to possess unlimited strength should be used.

It is always advisable to build separate bull pens for each bull, and in most cases it has been found advisable to place them so that the bulls will not be in sight of each other at any one time.

Causes of Damage

- 1. Siding boards broken by livestock. 2. Lack of protection on inside of barn. 3. Not sufficient room back of stalls.

Cotton Owned by Government Is Lowest Since '34

The amount of government owned and controlled cotton available for sale is now at the lowest point since Aug. 1, 1934, according to A. M. Hauke, extension economist of New Mexico A. & M. College. Since Aug. 1 of last year stocks of government cotton have decreased from six billion bales to 250,000 bales.

Hauke said that since the latter part of 1944, when the export subsidy program was inaugurated, nearly two million bales of government stocks have been exported. Arrangements have been made, he added, to ship 154,000 bales to the United States zone of occupation in Germany. This cotton will be paid for in cotton textiles the same as under the arrangements with Japan.

In Germany, the extension agronomist declared, "one ton of cotton can replace about seven tons of coal needed to manufacture synthetic fibers, and Europe is very short of coal. All of Germany can use about three-fourths of a million bales of cotton in 12 months, and there are possibilities of working out arrangements for American cotton to be used in the British, French, and Russian zones of occupation."

Hauke explained that Germany and Japan are equipped to handle short staple, low quality cotton, which provides a good opportunity to market surplus stocks of this type of United States cotton. He added that these arrangements will help to get Uncle Sam back in the world cotton market, and the German and Japanese mills can help to relieve the world shortage of textiles.

Another factor involved in getting more trade in American cotton pointed out by Hauke is the fact that the export-import banks loans can provide financial backing.

"A loan has been negotiated with China, which will make it possible to supply Chinese needs for American cotton," the extension economist said, "and other countries in both Asia and Europe are arranging for loans that will make it possible for them to get the American cotton they need."

PROTEIN, SOYBEAN CONTROLS TIGHTENED

To keep protein meal and soybeans moving in normal trade channels, and prevent the trading of soybeans for meal, government controls over bartering of these products have to be tightened to provide that:

No person may receive or direct the delivery of protein meal in an amount exceeding receipts during the corresponding month of 1945; soybean purchases are limited to the buyer's requirements for the period ending Oct. 10, 1946 (for the 1945 crop), and Oct. 10, 1947 (1946 crop).

In addition, reserves above contracted deliveries are limited for dealers.

Potatoes are reported to be selling generally at moderate prices and to be of good quality. Consumers are being asked to use potatoes as an alternate for bread and flour wherever potatoes are available in abundant supply.

LET'S GET THE FACTS RIGHT ABOUT THE WHISKEY SITUATION!

Simple questions and direct answers that will explain what's happening...and why.

How long will whiskey be hard to get?

Q. Why is whiskey still scarce?

A. No whiskey was distilled during the greater part of the war. All distillers' facilities were devoted to the production of war alcohol. During this period, however, distillers continued to bottle whiskey from their warehouse inventories, reducing supplies of aging whiskeys to a low point.

Q. Haven't distillers replenished their whiskey stocks since the war?

A. No. Because of the shortage of grain, the amounts available to distillers have been drastically reduced. Therefore whiskey has been produced only intermittently... currently at the rate of three days a month. And, of course, whiskey distilled now cannot be used until properly matured.

Q. How long will the shortage last?

A. It will be three or four years before the whiskey distilled since the war is adequately aged and ready to drink. Straight whiskeys of "bondable" age (4 years or more) won't be plentiful until after 1949... younger straight whiskeys not much sooner. Scotch may be scarce even longer. The shortage of better quality Blends will also continue for at least 3 or 4 years.

Q. How long must whiskey be aged?

A. To be called "Straight", whiskey must be aged at least two years. To be called "bottled-in-bond", whiskey must be aged four years. Good Blends usually contain blending whiskeys aged 4 to 8 years.

Q. Is "bottled-in-bond" whiskey of better quality than other types?

A. No. The U.S. Government itself, in Treasury Decision No. 1299 says: "Bottled-in-bond stamp not a guarantee of quality." The "bottled-in-bond" stamp guarantees only quantity...that the whiskey is 100 proof and not less than 4 years old. All whiskey is made under government supervision and stored in warehouses under government bond. The "bottled-in-bond" stamp is merely a government tax classification method.

What's the low-down on Bonded Whiskey?

Q. Why is more blended whiskey on the market than other types?

A. In blended whiskeys a major ingredient is grain neutral spirits which are more readily available than straight whiskeys. Like the grain spirit whiskeys of Scotland used in Scotch whiskey, and the highly refined grain distillate used in Canadian whiskey, grain neutral spirits when properly produced make for a lighter, milder-tasting whiskey.

Q. Are grain neutral spirits ever aged?

A. Yes. But in America, the law does not allow a distiller to advertise that his grain neutral spirits have been aged. Despite this, some distillers mature grain neutral spirits in barrels to the exact point where they can contribute the utmost in flavor, mellowness, bouquet and body.

Q. Is blended whiskey "cut" whiskey?

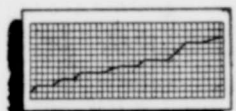

A. No! At Calvert it is just the opposite. It is built up...a whiskey created to meet exacting standards of uniformity, bouquet, flavor and mellowness. Various carefully selected, aged base whiskeys and grain neutral spirits are blended together scientifically to achieve the exact qualities and character Calvert knows the consumer prefers.

Q. Is it easier to make Blends?

A. No. Blending is not "mixing", but is a scientific procedure in which compatible straight whiskeys and grain neutral spirits are brought together to arrive at a predetermined, uniform taste. Successful blending depends upon "know how," based on long experience and the use of costly special equipment. For instance, at Calvert's distillery there is a "library" of hundreds of whiskeys and grain neutral spirits, each catalogued according to its characteristics, compatibility, etc. Calvert specializes in Blends...markets no other types.

Distilling and aging are not the end—but the beginning—of the long process through which Calvert whiskeys pass. In other words, blending begins where distilling ends.

Q. Are Blends more popular than other types of whiskey?

A. Decidedly! After Repeal, only 10% of all whiskey sold was blended whiskey. By 1942, before the whiskey shortage, the trend to Blends was so great that the figure was 50%. Today, 80% of all whiskey sold is blended whiskey...and undoubtedly, many distillers who are making blended whiskey for the first time will continue to produce it to meet the popular demand.

Q. What does blending accomplish?

A. Three things. It creates a product with a distinctive character, impossible without blending. It assures uniformity that could not be achieved in any other way. And it makes possible a definitely lighter product. Cigarettes, coffee, tea—dozens of products Americans use are blends.

Q. Do Blends vary in quality?

A. Yes. Just as methods, ingredients and standards vary. Huge resources in plants, equipment, and expert personnel enable Calvert to produce whiskeys which have made the name CALVERT a hallmark of quality. Out of Calvert's extensive laboratories have come exclusive processes that have made possible whiskeys of unmatched smoothness.

Q. Are Calvert Blends superior to others?

A. We think so, because Calvert has blended more fine whiskey in its time than any other distiller in America. Calvert's matchless inventories, greater experience, and devotion to high quality products during the shortage period give ample evidence that the House of Blends can be relied upon to produce the best.

Betty Jane Everts, J. D. Gilbert, Jr., Exchange Wedding Vows on Sunday

The First Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Betty Jane Everts and J. D. Gilbert, Jr., on Sunday afternoon.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Louise Bush sang "O, Promise Me," by de Koven, and "Because," by de Hardlot. Mrs. Helen Henson played her accompaniment and also played a soft medley during the marriage ceremony.

The lovely double-ring ceremony was read before an altar banked with white gladioli, coated in soft candlelight, by Rev. S. M. Morgan.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a white linen suit with accents of white. Her shoulder corsage was an orchid and she carried a white Bible. Complying with tradition, she placed an old coin in her shoe, her Bible was new, she carried a blue handkerchief, and wore a black onyx ring borrowed from Mrs. George Lynch, completing the assortment.

Mrs. Lynch, who was matron of honor, chose to wear a summer ensemble of pink linen with white accessories and a white gladiolus corsage.

Mrs. Everts, mother of the bride, was gowned in a black crepe costume with white accessories and had a shoulder corsage of talisman roses.

Mrs. Gilbert, the bridegroom's mother, also wore black, and her corsage was of white roses.

The bridegroom was attended by Teddy Vandagriff. Ushers were Allan Mills and John Simons, Jr. All of the men of the wedding party wore white carnation boutonniers.

Immediately after the wedding, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Chester Cave. The bride and bridegroom cut a three-tiered wedding cake which was placed on a mirror and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. It was elaborately decorated with icing and flowers of frosting.

Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Dwayne Atwill, and Mrs. Lonas Young assisted in serving to the guests, who called to congratulate the couple.

After the wedding trip, which will take them through many scenic points in Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert will be at home at the Gilbert Courts.

Request Made for Senior Women to Pay Dues Now

A request for all members of the Senior Woman's Club, who have not paid their dues for 1946-47 to mail their checks to postoffice box 475 has been sounded by Mrs. Dave Saiken, chairman of the membership committee.

All members desiring to have their names appear in the yearbook are requested to mail in their dues now if they have not paid them.

Many calls and contacts have already been made in the membership drive but it is hoped that the names of all members can be published and the cooperation of all who have not paid their dues is requested at this time.

Marriage of Dortha Gleghorn In May Is Told

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gleghorn have announced the marriage of their daughter, Dortha, to Andrew M. Bunch. The ceremony took place in Roswell on May 14.

The double-ring service was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Garner and was read by Rev. Brown of the Roswell Presbyterian Church. Only close friends and relatives witnessed the affair.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a sheer navy wool suit with white and navy accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of sweetheart roses and carried a white Bible.

The bride's attendant, Miss Lorraine Echler of Roswell, chose to wear a street-length frock of aqua and brown with a corsage of pink carnations.

Robert Garner attended as best man.

Mrs. Bunch was reared in the Pecos Valley and is well known in the younger circles. She has been employed for the last four years as a ticket agent for the New Mexico Transportation Company and worked in Artesia until her transfer to Roswell a year ago.

Mr. Bunch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Bunch of Walters, Okla. He served with the Marine Air Corps for two years and was discharged early this year. At present he is employed at the Roswell Army Air Field.

The newlyweds are making their home in Roswell.

Artesia Garden Meets at Funk Rural Residence

The Artesia Garden Club held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Jesse I. Funk on Cottonwood Friday of last week.

A regular business session was held and it was voted to take a vacation for the next two months bringing the next meeting into September. At this time the group plans to reconvene with a luncheon.

A tour of the yard was conducted and the various plants were discussed. Mrs. Funk has one of the best displays of flowers and shrubbery in this area and also has a fine vegetable garden.

A frozen dessert was served out of doors on the spacious lawn to James J. H. Ellis, J. W. Jones, W. H. Ballard, E. J. Bonnell, Marie Sharp, Lee Francis, Clarence Smith, W. S. Hogsett, Harry Jordan, S. W. Gilbert, Molly Brown, Lee Glascock, Ray Zumbach, and Pete L. Loving, and Mrs. Catherine Walterscheid, and Harold Francis.

John Fanning Honored On Birthday Sunday At Barbecue Picnic

John Fanning was honored on his birthday Sunday with an all-day barbecue picnic at the Fanning home.

About 150 guests from Carlsbad, Roswell, and Artesia were present to help Mr. Fanning celebrate and also to help do away with quantities of delicious barbecue and "all the trimmings."

Mr. Fanning received many gifts and the entire group spent a memorable day.

Homemakers Meet With Mrs. Carroll Brown

The Homemakers' Circle of the First Baptist Church met with Mrs. Carroll Brown on Thursday afternoon of last week. There were 13 members present.

After business was taken care of, delicious refreshments of cake and spiced ice tea were served by the hostess.

Ellis and Stewart Circles Have Joint Meeting Thursday

The Ellis and Stewart Circles of the First Methodist Church met in a joint session last Thursday afternoon.

The program was in charge of the Ellis Circle and Mrs. Reed Brainard opened the meeting with a short devotional service. The topic for the meeting was "Awakening Our Spiritual Life." Mrs. Howard Gissler presented an interesting program based on the "Doorway to Religion in Family Living."

After the meeting Mrs. E. B. Bullock, Mrs. Ed Stone, and Mrs. Austin Stuart, of the Stewart Circle, served delicious refreshments to the 20 guests present.

Miss Meredith Martin Wedded to Dr. James Weedon in Garden Setting

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Martin have announced the marriage of their daughter, Meredith, who became the bride of Dr. James B. Weedon, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Weedon, of St. Joseph, Mo., in a gracious ceremony in the garden of the J. W. Berry home on Thursday evening, June 20. Rev. A. C. Douglas of Pecos, Tex., was present to read the impressive double-ring service.

A backing of cedar hedge, lined with huge baskets of white gladioli mixed with blue delphinium, made a charming setting for the joyous event.

Proceeding the ceremony, a medley of appropriate music was played by Mrs. Robert Suderland. H. O. Miller sang "Ich Liebe Dich" and "Because." As the wedding party entered the garden, Mrs. Suderland played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," and followed with soft music during the ceremony.

An aisle marked with white satin ribbons led the group to the altar setting. Ribbon was used further to enclose the area in front of the altar in which members of the two families were seated.

Mrs. Edmond Runyan, matron of honor, was lovely in pink marquisette fashioned with a fitted waist, low rounded neckline, tiny puff sleeves, and a flowing skirt. A blue heart-shaped bonnet completed the costume and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Misses Polly Weedon and Mary Catherine Martin, sisters of the bride and bridegroom, were quite picturesque in gowns matching Mrs. Runyan's and carrying bouquets of blue delphinium.

Miss Martin entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was exquisitely dressed in a flowing white marquisette formal gown made with a fitted bodice cut with a deep square neck outlined in a silk eyelet embroidery ruffling and was closed to the throat with the material of the dress. Long, full sleeves gathered to a fitted cuff at the wrist. The billowing skirt had a short train. A fingertip veil was held in place by a heart-shaped starched eyelet cap.

In keeping with tradition, the bride carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Tom Runyan, for something old; a pearl necklace, presented by the bridegroom, she wore for something new; earrings borrowed from her mother fulfilled something borrowed, and a blue garter completed the group. Her beautiful bouquet was made up of white roses and staphanotis. Miss Polly Weedon was the lucky young miss who caught the bouquet.

The bridegroom was attended by Dave Dickenson, a friend here from St. Joseph, Mo., for the wedding. Ushers were Jack Hansen of St. Joseph, and Tommy Smith, from Ryan, Okla. The bridegroom, best man, and ushers wore white coats with dark trousers. Other men of the party wore dark suits and all wore red carnation boutonniers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Martin chose a smart black summer sheer cut on simple lines and wore a shoulder corsage of deep red roses.

Mrs. Weedon, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a summer silk print formal with a white gardenia corsage.

Mrs. James Runyan of St. Joseph, Mo., arrived last Tuesday to attend the wedding of her niece.

After the ceremony, a reception was formed, headed by the new Dr. and Mrs. Weedon, and Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Martin and Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Weedon.

A wedding cake, of four elaborately decorated tiers topped with a bride and bridegroom, was placed on a mirror and encircled with gardenias, set opposite a crystal punchbowl. The lace-covered table was lighted by tall white candles and appointed in crystal.

Miss Marilou Lanning, a cousin of the bride, presided at the guestbook, which was signed by about 475 guests.

A profusion of mixed roses decorated the house, and a huge number of dazzling wedding gifts were on display.

For her wedding trip, Mrs. Weedon chose a two-piece summer suit of blue, accented by a frosty white blouse with other accessories of blue. She wore a shoulder corsage of orchids.

Mrs. Weedon, born and reared at Artesia, and a popular member of the younger set, is also a mem-

Mrs. Stanley Blocker, outgoing president, conducted a business meeting and the retiring officers gave yearly reports. An instructive program was conducted by Mrs. Kidd with interesting talks by Mrs. Williams, Miss Rogers, and Mrs. W. H. Ballard. Their subject was "Africa."

Mrs. Blocker was presented a gift by Mrs. Ballard, who represented the council, in appreciation of her year's work.

Mrs. A. W. Boyce and Miss Cora Rogers were hostesses for a social hour after the meeting.

Besides Mrs. McGonagill, the Artesia unit was honored by having at the convention another past department president, Mrs. Albert Richards, who served a few years ago.

Marriage of Dortha Gleghorn In May Is Told

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gleghorn have announced the marriage of their daughter, Dortha, to Andrew M. Bunch. The ceremony took place in Roswell on May 14.

The double-ring service was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Garner and was read by Rev. Brown of the Roswell Presbyterian Church. Only close friends and relatives witnessed the affair.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a sheer navy wool suit with white and navy accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of sweetheart roses and carried a white Bible.

The bride's attendant, Miss Lorraine Echler of Roswell, chose to wear a street-length frock of aqua and brown with a corsage of pink carnations.

Robert Garner attended as best man.

Mrs. Bunch was reared in the Pecos Valley and is well known in the younger circles. She has been employed for the last four years as a ticket agent for the New Mexico Transportation Company and worked in Artesia until her transfer to Roswell a year ago.

Mr. Bunch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Bunch of Walters, Okla. He served with the Marine Air Corps for two years and was discharged early this year. At present he is employed at the Roswell Army Air Field.

The newlyweds are making their home in Roswell.

Miss Meredith Martin Wedded to Dr. James Weedon in Garden Setting

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Martin have announced the marriage of their daughter, Meredith, who became the bride of Dr. James B. Weedon, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Weedon, of St. Joseph, Mo., in a gracious ceremony in the garden of the J. W. Berry home on Thursday evening, June 20. Rev. A. C. Douglas of Pecos, Tex., was present to read the impressive double-ring service.

A backing of cedar hedge, lined with huge baskets of white gladioli mixed with blue delphinium, made a charming setting for the joyous event.

Proceeding the ceremony, a medley of appropriate music was played by Mrs. Robert Suderland. H. O. Miller sang "Ich Liebe Dich" and "Because." As the wedding party entered the garden, Mrs. Suderland played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," and followed with soft music during the ceremony.

An aisle marked with white satin ribbons led the group to the altar setting. Ribbon was used further to enclose the area in front of the altar in which members of the two families were seated.

Mrs. Edmond Runyan, matron of honor, was lovely in pink marquisette fashioned with a fitted waist, low rounded neckline, tiny puff sleeves, and a flowing skirt. A blue heart-shaped bonnet completed the costume and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Misses Polly Weedon and Mary Catherine Martin, sisters of the bride and bridegroom, were quite picturesque in gowns matching Mrs. Runyan's and carrying bouquets of blue delphinium.

Miss Martin entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was exquisitely dressed in a flowing white marquisette formal gown made with a fitted bodice cut with a deep square neck outlined in a silk eyelet embroidery ruffling and was closed to the throat with the material of the dress. Long, full sleeves gathered to a fitted cuff at the wrist. The billowing skirt had a short train. A fingertip veil was held in place by a heart-shaped starched eyelet cap.

In keeping with tradition, the bride carried a lace handkerchief

City woman appointed policeman in a bank and he told her about a loan she would have to talk to one of the bank officers. She replied she already had, and had been told to "talk to the cop." He was the only one she had seen around. The bewildered policeman checked up. It developed she had been told to see George Kopp, a vice president of the bank.

State's Attorney John W. Curren of Springfield, Ill., reported the telephone awakened him shortly after midnight. "This is Mrs. —," began the late caller. "I've got fallen arches, swollen ankles, varicose veins, diabetes and a bad heart." Curren gulped. "Someone threw a brick into my yard," the woman continued, "and I want you to investigate." Promising action, the prosecutor went back to bed—with a headache.

In Virginia, Minn., when Harold Lakoskey's friends laughed when he tried to tell about the big one that got away, he went on another fishing trip in Hoodoo lake. And he came back with a better story. He caught the one that had fooled him the first time, a 20-pound Northern pike. To prove it, he exhibited the fish from whose jaw his original hook, leader and sinker still dangled.

Bill Rumpaltes, Union Pacific Railroad ticket agent at Hastings, Neb., turned purchasing agent for infant wear when he received this wire from the Omaha stationmaster: "Mrs. —, rear car, No. 27 today, desires one pair of pajamas size three, one pair coveralls size three, three towels, three wash cloths, on color book and one box crayons for her baby account her baggage not placed on train at Sioux City."

Kansas law says candidates for public office may not give anything of value to induce voter support. Attorney General A. B. Mitchell, in an unofficial opinion, ruled out big black cigars, cigarettes, ice cream sodas, and even match folders. But they may still kiss the babies.

Fear of Cotton Surplus Now Is Vanishing

Fear of a cotton surplus, which has so long haunted Cotton Belt farmers, is vanishing as the so-called surplus rapidly disappears, with many better grades of lint already scarce, according to A. L. Ward, educational director, National Cottonseed Products Association.

"Combined with the highest prices in two decades, the American cotton supply situation offers farmers in 1946 the strongest encouragement for increased production that they have had in many years," he pointed out.

"Farmers," who recall the way in which so-called surpluses of corn, wheat, and other crops became shortages, can easily foresee the possibility that cotton supplies may soon be insufficient to meet the demand.

"Cottonseed products, especially oil and feed products, are critically scarce and have been for a number of years, and the need is acute for increased production to meet American and foreign requirements for meats and fats."

Ward said that value per acre of cotton was far above the average for other crops in most cotton states last season, when yields were very low and prices less favorable than today; and that, on the average, cotton is both the most dependable and valuable crop that most farmers can grow.

From the standpoint of both income and the need for its products, the outlook for cotton is very favorable this season where farmers make it the keystone of a balanced farming and livestock program, and follow practices that will increase yields and lower production costs, he added.

NEXT OF KIN OF OVERSEAS DEAD URGED TO GIVE NOTICE OF CHANGES OF ADDRESS

MAJ. GEN. T. B. LARKIN

The War Department has appealed to those who during the war received notice of the death of a relative in the armed forces overseas to inform the military service to which the deceased was attached if they have changed their address in the United States SINCE THE DATE THE NOTICE OF DEATH WAS FIRST RECEIVED. The Department has been authorized by Congress to ascertain the wishes of the legal next of kin concerning the return and final burial of World War II dead of all military services. The request is made also on behalf of the Navy Department, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Red Cross and War Shipping Administration.

Many thousands of next of kin may have changed their place of residence since the date they received a telegram from the military services informing them of the death of a relative overseas. Such change of residence, without notification having been sent to Washington, may cause serious delays and make it difficult to send important information to proper persons.

To those next of kin who received notice of death from the War Department, the correct present address SHOULD BE MAILED AT ONCE to

Memorial Division
Office of the Quartermaster General
Washington 25, D. C.

Next of kin who had relatives who died in the other services should mail their correct present address as follows: Those in the Navy to Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Navy Department, Washington, D. C.; Marines to Commandant U. S. Marine Corps (Casualty Section) Washington, D. C.; Coast Guard to commandant U. S. Coast Guard (Casualty Section) Washington, D. C.

Applicants may apply to Com. E. G. McDonald, USMS, district supervisor, U.S. Merchant Marine Cadet Corps, 1000 Geary Street, San Francisco, Calif., or directly to the supervisor, U.S. Merchant Marine Cadet Corps, Training Organization, WSA, Washington 25, D.C.

Handle With Care Is Rule for Making Bathing Suits Last

"Handle with care" is the rule for making bathing suits last and give good service, says Mrs. Pearl C. Gehl, extension clothing specialist of the New Mexico A. & M. College.

She says, "Most bathing suits today are made of rayon. Because rayon is weaker when wet, it is important to take off a wet suit gently."

Rules for bathing suit longevity offered by Mrs. Gehl are:

Never leave suit in a damp heap on the floor, as rayon dries slowly. Hang suit so there is little strain on the fabric—preferably over a double line or flat on the floor.

Wash frequently in mild suds to make fabric last longer—suds salt, or dirt injures the fabric.

Wash suit by hand and squeeze out the water.

Salvage of Fats Is Solution for Soap Situation

A survey, conducted in April to determine the attitude of housewives toward salvaging used kitchen fats and the extent of their current participation, indicated that three out of five women (60 per cent) were currently saving used fats, compared with only 46 per cent in September, 1945. Forty per cent of the women interviewed reported that they had added to the salvage campaign within 24 hours of the interview.

Interviews brought to light another important point in the fat salvage campaign—the soap supply situation. Women everywhere are beginning to wonder how soon they are going to get extra soap.

All realize there is a worldwide shortage of fats and oils. The only source of additional fats to make soap and other peacetime products here at the home is the "kitchens of America." Housewives should therefore, be more concerned with maintaining present supplies of soap. This can be done by salvaging all used fats and oils.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Knowles of Beaumont, Tex., arrived on Monday of last week to spend some time with the Glenn O'Bannon family, Walter Knowles at Lake Arthur, and the Archie McDonald family of Artesia. They plan to visit Cloudercroft, Alamo-gordo, and Carlsbad Caverns while here.

Those in the car were Buddy Parker, Raymond Pearson, Dickie Shoemaker, Gene and Ralph Par-nedd, Autherine and Earlean Harton, and Oneta and Oleta Johnson.

The Cottonwood Community Extension Club held its annual picnic supper for the members and their families on the well-lighted lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Parker on Tuesday of last week. A wonderful array of foods of every variety and quantities of cold drinks were consumed by those who attended. Guests at this charming affair were Mr. and Mrs. Babe Wooten of Coleman, Tex., a sister of Mrs. Jimmie Buck, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Knowles. It was announced that the next meeting will be an all-day affair at the Cottonwood gym. Miss Doris Mardis, county demonstration agent, will be present to assist with stenciling work. All members are urged to be present and bring their materials.

The Cottonwood Ladies Aid Society met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. I. P. Johnson. The lovely home was further enhanced with cut flower arrangements. The meeting opened with the entire group singing "Jesus Calls Us" and Mrs. E. P. Malone gave a devotional service. Mrs. James Thigpen, vice president, presided at a business meeting, at which time it was decided to have a revival meeting in September, and that the July meeting will be at the home of Mrs. A. C. McGuire with Mrs. Glenn O'Bannon as co-hostess, and Mrs. James Thigpen in charge of the program. Miss Elizabeth Johnson presented a fine program and was assisted by Mrs. Roy Ingram. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Johnson was assisted by her daughters in serving refreshments to 14 members and a guest.

TRAIL DUST

An arm of light claws the plains' soft garment of tranquility as the streamliner pounds iron rails with restless hoofs and spews out of space like a silver monster whose heart is on fire. The tremulous horn reverberates its plaintive despondency into dark valleys between the stars, and with a swish of its red tail the inconsolable metal demon is gone. But the sound of its cry hangs on the cornice of silence like the scream from a tortured child in the star-chamber of a miserable dream. It bellows at the gates of distance and echoes in hills of darkness, finally sobbing on the deep pillow of horizon. In a flame of madness, another gleaming train plows its path through the night and again the melancholy lamentation; the cry of estrayed lovers lost to each other for eternity.

Roaches were spaced in motionless impudence on the greased wall beside the virulent yellow pimples of dried tangerine blonde who had her chin in her hands and the young miner with his steeple hat spoke. VENEZUELA CELEBRATES INDEPENDENCE JULY 5
Venezuelans may well be proud of the day which is annually celebrated for the independence of their country, July 5, marking the declaration of their absolute independence of the Spanish crown in 1811. Now a staunch supporter of inter-American solidarity, and firmly allied with the United Nations cause, Venezuela was the first colony of Spain to revolt and declare her independence through an elected congress.
As the fatherland of the great South American patriot and liberator, Simon Bolivar, Venezuela's fight for freedom could not well be other than illustrious. Also, Venezuela is the birthplace of another national figure, Francisco de Miranda, also a pioneer in the quest for freedom in the Americas, and first leader of the free country.
Venezuela had for two and a half centuries followed the life of the usual Spanish colony, with dozens of governors, good and bad, coming and going. The colonial policy was such that the country by the end of the 18th century was a powder keg waiting for the starting spark.

The two Venezuelan patriots, Bolivar and Miranda, were trembling with eagerness to fan the flame, and in 1806, Miranda, who had the unusual experience of serving in the North American revolution, succeeded in financing an expedition in New York and sailed to the Venezuelan coast. Two of his ships were seized, but Miranda escaped to Trinidad, where he again restored his depleted forces and zealously began his campaign again. But to his complete surprise, he found that the people of Venezuela were not ready for his dreams of greatness for his country, and Miranda then turned his back on his disappointing attempts and sailed for England.
Young Simon Bolivar seized the torch, imbued with one idea—that of freedom for Venezuelans. He gradually and quietly gathered around him a group of his countrymen who were ready to fight and die for the same cause. In 1808, under the last of Napoleon wheels Perhaps youths of a half-forgotten war, their cheeks still wet with mother tears, passed on this road, never to return. Before the corridor was gutted of its bridges, friends followed in slow procession the grim caravans of the dead; lovers halted beneath the altar of stars to pledge their devotion. Abandoned roads are empty pockets in the world's old coat, which once contained the sweetened bread of life.

White and gleaming beneath the bright Oklahoma sun, the new roadside filling station bore testimony of the two young partners' confidence in the future. Small gold buttons were fixed at the pocket flaps of each boy's spotless unionalls. Young grass will soon be sprouting in the mulched soil which held the sign, white with ten-inch neatly-painted red letters, these two words: "Clean Ladies."
Nothing asks so little and gives so much as the truth.

Bonaparte's European dictatorship, Ferdinand VII of Spain had to renounce his throne in favor of Napoleon's brother, Joseph Bonaparte. Freed, then, of their Spanish supremacy, the patriotic Venezuelans roused to their cause and, in 1810, French deputies and the Spanish captain general who had pledged his allegiance to Napoleon, were expelled from the city of Caracas.
In July of 1810, Simon Bolivar went to London to win support of England for the provisional government that had been set up in Venezuela, and to persuade Miranda to return to his country. England did not support Bolivar, but Miranda did agree to return, and on July 5, 1811, the congress of Caracas took the final step in renouncing Spain by declaring complete and absolute independence. A constitution was adopted the following December, with General Francisco Miranda as head of the government.
Tragic days were to follow for Venezuela, for Miranda and Bolivar, with bloody marches laying waste to men and the country, as the Spaniards sought to revive their cause and seize the land again from the Venezuelans. But the valiant example of Venezuelans in fanning the early flame of the revolution throughout South America, shed a steady light throughout the years that were to culminate finally with the full freedom of the struggling colonies.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
SERVICES
613 West Main
Sunday school, 10 a. m.
Sunday service, 11 a. m.
Wednesday service, 7:30 p. m.
"Christian Science" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 30, 1946.
The Golden Text is: "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come you, buy, and eat;
yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price."
(Isaiah 55:1).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people."-(Matthew 9:35).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "There are various methods of treating disease, which are not included in the commonly accepted systems;
but there is only one which should be presented to the whole world, and that is the Christian Science which Jesus preached and practiced and left to us as His rich legacy."

They should change those signs in hotels from "Have you left anything?" to "Have you anything left?"

BEGIN THINKING OF
CROP INSURANCE
Now is the time for wheat crop farmers to begin thinking about crop insurance on their winter wheat crops. C. V. Hemphill, state PMA director, said that Federal Crop Insurance gives the farmer the same protection that other businessmen have been able to get through private companies.
It is a non-profit insurance financed by the government with cost based on the amount of protection desired by the farmer. It provides protection against loss of crop from all uncontrollable causes. Rates and the manner in which premiums can be paid places it within easy reach of all wheat farmers, Hemphill said.

Barnett Continues Rotary Informational Talks on Tuesday

The second of a series of talks on the principles of Rotary was given at the Tuesday luncheon of the Artesia Rotary Club by Boone Barnett, who took up the second aim and object, vocational service.

In general, he explained, it is the application of the Golden Rule and service to all through the practice of high ethical standards.

B. N. Muncey, Jr., who completed his year as president of the club, expressed his appreciation for the honor bestowed upon him and for the cooperation given him during the last 12 months. And he asked the continued cooperation of the members for his successor, Chuck Aston, who will assume the presidency at the next meeting.

Not Too Early To Register for General Election

Although the general election is not until Tuesday, November 5, pleas are being sounded here for all eligible to register who have not qualified to vote to do so now.

One voter, who was active during the primary election, stated this week he contacted many during the primary period, only to find they were not registered and could not ballot.

There are two registrars in Artesia and voters can register with either to be qualified to ballot in the November election. Those not registered, of course, can qualify any time up to within 30 days of the election. During the 30-day period prior to the election the polls are closed and being completed for election.

There remains, however, more than four months for anyone, who is not qualified to vote, to register if they are eligible. But all were reminded they should register now because if they postpone it they may forget it and the general election will again find them unqualified to go and cast their ballot.

This, of course, applies to all Republican and Democratic as well as independent voters eligible to register but not qualified.

bers of the autocave were entertained by a four-piece cowboy string band, which also entertained the mountain hosts at each stop. The band is composed of Roy Laman, fiddle; Barney Laman and Ray Walker, guitars; and Troy Murphy, bull fiddle.

Their music is being amplified by means of a public address system, furnished by Harold Ulrich, which also is being used for announcements.

Major domo for the trek is Tom Watson, manager of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the good-will trip. Arrangements for the trip were made some days ago by Manager Watson and Arba Green, former manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who visited the various communities and worked out the schedule.

Assisting in the advance work in Artesia was a committee representing the Chamber of Commerce, the members of which contacted various local firms and individuals, prevailing upon them to make the trip and to donate prizes for Artesia's neighbors in the mountains.

The committee was composed of Hollis G. Watson, W. W. Batie, G. V. Price, Calvin Dunn, Harold Ulrich, Charlie Bullock, and J. T. Caudle.

The annual good-will trips to the Sacramento Mountains were discontinued during the war. The last previous trip was made in 1941, continuing a custom initiated a number of years prior to that. It was planned by the Chamber of Commerce to reintroduce the custom with the current good-will trip.

The six vital steps in arranging a Veteran's Loan—be it for town property, farm, business, or equipment—are described in a recent pamphlet, "Guaranteed Loans for Veterans," published and distributed by the Loan Guaranty Division, Veterans Administration, Washington 25, D. USDA Urges Use Of Foods Which Are Abundant Ample supplies of fresh onions, potatoes, and tomatoes offer New Mexico housewives an added variety of foods for well-balanced meals.

Encouraging increased consumption throughout the state, Ted Tenorio, assistant state director, USDA's production and marketing administration, is asking meal planners to buy and serve them often while they are seasonally plentiful. While rich in food value, these foods are highly perishable and must be consumed soon after they come to market to prevent food waste, he explained.

Home canning additional amounts now will assure continued variety in meals later when fresh supplies will be limited, he added.

Harvesting is still underway in producing areas and peak marketing is yet to be reached. By buying generously and often, housewives can keep supplies moving steadily, providing farmers with a ready market for crops still unharvested, Tenorio said.

The food trade throughout the state, already cooperating with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in featuring these abundant foods, is creating additional outlets for the large crops.

HUDSON VALLEY SEES ANOTHER HISTORIC FLIGHT—The Army Air Forces P-80 Shooting Star, powered by an 1-40 G-E jet motor, will retrace the aerial route blazed along the Hudson River Valley by Glenn H. Curtiss 36 years ago. The flight was scheduled for the afternoon of June 21 at the opening of the General Electric Company's air research demonstration. Curtiss in his little biplane (above) made the trip from Albany to New York City in two hours and 51 minutes. His average speed was slightly over 50 miles an hour.

The Shooting Star (below), piloted by an AAF officer, covers the same distance in approximately 15 minutes. The route of the new jet plane is from above the City Hall in New York up the valley to the State House at Albany and thence in a two-minute dash to the Schenectady County Air Port. Flight operations of advanced types of AAF, Navy and civilian planes begin this national demonstration. There was much fanfare in Curtiss' pioneering achievement in 1910. He won the $10,000 prize offered by Joseph Pulitzer for the flight from Albany to New York under 24 hours and comparison was made between his flying time and the historic voyages of Henrik Hudson and Robert Fulton over the same route. Hudson's time in his sailing vessel the "Half Moon" in 1609 was five days, while Fulton's run in the steamboat "Clermont" in 1807 was 32 hours.

Don Bush to Speak at Methodist Church on 'This Hungry World'

Don Bush, Artesia attorney, will fill the pulpit of the First Methodist Church at the morning services on Sunday, speaking on "This Hungry World," it was announced by Rev. C. A. Clark, pastor.

His talk will be along the lines of an address he gave Tuesday of last week at the meeting of the Artesia Rotary Club, in which he made a strong appeal to the people of Artesia to help feed the starving millions of Europe, not only from a humanitarian standpoint, but because the success of the United Nations Organization depends on it, and the future peace of the world depends upon the success of the UNO.

The pastor has extended a cordial invitation to the public to hear Mr. Bush Sunday morning.

Santa Fe, Clovis Boards to Publish Expenditures in Full

Publication of statements of expenditures as required by a 1939 state statute has been started or is to be started by two New Mexico municipal school boards, it was announced in state newspapers during the past week. One of these schools is in Santa Fe and the other is in Clovis.

Most school boards in the state have neglected to observe the law, due largely, it has been explained, to rulings and regulations set up by a state office. A summary of expenditures, which is incomplete and does not list those to whom checks are issued or the amounts, has been published by the school board.

The same statute, which the Santa Fe and Clovis school boards have announced they will observe in the future, also applies to city councils and to county commissioners, but no announcement has been made by any of these as to what course they will follow.

Otto Smith, a member of the Clovis school board, was quoted in the Associated Press story as saying, "We have never done it (referring to publishing the statement of expenditures) but we will follow the law. It's a good ruling, people should know how their money is spent."

The question of the publication laws recently arose in Artesia when District Attorney G. T. Watts, on the complaint of a taxpayer, filed removal proceedings against the five members of the Artesia School Board for failure to follow the publication laws. After permitting the charges to stand for 20 days he asked that the case be dismissed in District Court at Carlsbad. The question of the legality of the law was never brought before the court and no evidence was submitted and no witnesses were called.

None of the city councils, the school boards, or the county commissioners in Eddy County publish a statement of their expenditures in a newspaper.

The complete Associated Press story, as it appeared in the state papers, reads as follows: "The Santa Fe School Board recently began newspaper publication of statements of expenditures, and a spokesman said that the Clovis School Board in the future will publish statements of expenditures.

"The school boards are acting in compliance with a 1939 state law which requires all school, city, and county boards to publish lists of their expenditures.

"Reese Fullerton, Santa Fe School Board secretary, said that "Like most boards, we neglected in the past to publish the statements on expenditures because of the expense involved. But since the local controversy developed, we decided to publish the expenditures for our own protection."

He referred to the controversy over the firing of R. P. Sweeney, Santa Fe school superintendent, and Bright E. Greiner as high school principal.

"Otto Smith, member of the Clovis School Board, said, 'We have never done it, but we will follow the law. It's a good ruling. People should know how their money is spent.'"

Calf Roping at El Chico Park Scheduled Sunday

What is hoped and expected to be one of the largest and best calf roping contests ever held in Artesia is slated for 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at El Chico Park, it has been announced by Miller Ammons.

El Chico Park, it was stated, is straight west on Grand Avenue and is west and south of the Goat Ropers' Club.

There is to be a $10 entry fee with 25 per cent of the gate to be added to the prize money. The money will be split on a 50-30-20 basis.

The contest to be held in Artesia was announced last Sunday at the event held in Capitan and indications are that some of the best ropers in this part of the state will be present to participate in the program here. Considerable publicity also is being given the contest over the Carlsbad radio station. It is also expected there will be a good attendance for the event.
