Artesia Junior Baseball Team Plays Today and Friday in State Tourney

Fifteen local boys, together with their coaches, left Artesia Wednesday afternoon for Albuquerque, where they will represent Artesia for the first time in the annual state American Legion junior baseball tournament.

Sponsored by the Artesia 20-30 Club, through the Clarence Kepple American Legion Post, the boys will play in Albuquerque today and Friday at Tingley Field. The winners of the state play-off will go to the national American Legion junior baseball tournament with all expenses paid by the American Legion.

Drawings for opponents in the state tourney were held at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Albuquerque Y. M. C. A., where the local sluggers are being quartered during their stay in the Duke City.

DAV Chapter Named For David S. Simons

Donald S. Simons is the name selected Friday evening by the newly organized North Eddy County chapter of the Disabled American Veterans, honoring the memory of the private first class in the Marine Corps, who gave his life on Saipan June 14, 1944.

At the meeting Friday Rufus E. Lee was elected commander of the chapter and other elective officers for the coming year were selected.

The name of Private Simons was selected by the public in a poll conducted here Saturday, July 20.

It had been announced by the DAV that perhaps two war heroes would be honored in the naming of the chapter, but the members voted Friday evening neither to use the name of a second World War II man, as had been proposed, nor the name of a World War I serviceman who was lost.

In the poll on July 20, the second highest number of votes were cast for Dee White.

Private Simons was 18 years old when, on June 14, 1944, he was killed on Saipan. In the same action his former schoolmate and Marine Corps buddy, Pfc. Avery Gray of Artesia also was killed. They were members of the Fourth Marine Division.

Donald Simons was the youngest of three sons of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Simons, all of whom served in World War II—the others are John, Jr., and David—as did their father in World War I. He was born in Artesia Sept. 3, 1925, was reared here, and graduated from Artesia High School in 1943. In high school he was active in the Cadet Corps and then he joined Company 8 of the Second Battalion of the New Mexico State Guard.

He was inducted into the Marine Corps on Oct. 21, 1943, and was sent to San Diego, Calif., for his "boot camp" training. Early in 1944, only three months after his induction, Donald Simons took part in the invasion of the Marshall Islands. From there his division moved on to Saipan, where he gave his life for his country.

Members of Donald S. Simons Chapter, Disabled American Veterans, besides naming Commander Lee at the meeting Friday, elected for other officers:

Senior vice commander, Alan Thompson; junior vice commander, Bud Boggs; treasurer, King Burtner.

The office of chaplain, also elective, was not filled at the meeting last week. The adjutant, service officer, officer of the day, two color guards, and judge advocate are to be appointed by the commander.

The officers are to be installed at the next meeting, the time and place for which are yet to be announced. At that time it is expected some of the New Mexico department officers will be here and a number of members of the DAV chapter at Roswell have signified their intentions to attend.

Commander Lee will succeed Wade Cunningham, who served as temporary commander during the organization period.

The charter was closed at the meeting Friday, with 37 members.

Rent Provisions Prevailing on June 30 Are Effective Again

The return of federal rent control means that rent increases imposed since June 30 are illegal, and landlords are prohibited from proceeding with evictions that do not comply with OPA requirements, according to Norman M. Pfutzenreuter, area rent director.

Two important exceptions apply to renewed controls, Pfutzenreuter explained: In cases in which rents higher than the OPA ceilings were paid covering the period while controls were suspended, landlords are not required to refund the excess amount; tenants actually evicted during the interim period may not regain possession, even though the eviction might have been on grounds not specified in the rent regulation.

Any question about rent matters may be referred to the area rent office, which is located at 104 West Fox Street, Carlsbad, Pfutzenreuter said. The guiding principle, however, is that all the rent provisions that were in effect on June 30 are in effect now, he stressed.

The landlord may collect no more than the rent ceiling, regardless of any higher rent announced during the interim period.

Tenants whose rent was changed from a monthly or a weekly basis to any other basis contrary to the regulations will revert to the standard operating on June 30, the rent director said.

Pfutzenreuter pointed out that tenants in eviction suits, who have not been actually removed from their housing accommodations, will again have protection under the eviction provisions of the rent regulations.

Security deposits collected between June 30 and the date of the renewal must be returned to the tenants, the rent director said.

A landlord who first rented a dwelling unit during July has 30 days in which to register with the area rent office, and a dwelling first rented in June must be registered within 30 days not counting the number of days while controls were suspended.

Pfutzenreuter said the federal act expressly states that federal rent control supersedes local and state laws. Any local or state legislation in effect during the interim that allowed rentals higher than the OPA ceilings therefore have lost their effectiveness.

Motor Vehicles Must Have New Mexico Licenses

Chief Homer C. Ledbetter of the New Mexico State Police has directed the organization to make a check of all automobiles for New Mexico registration and defective equipment, State Officer Bill Lewis said this week.

He said that anyone who has established residence in this state is required to display New Mexico registration on his automobile.

Licenses purchased at this time will be valid in New Mexico until next March, Officer Lewis said.

He also stressed that motor vehicle operators who do not take steps to make proper correction of brakes and lights will be cited to court. All motor vehicles, except motorcycles, must have two headlights and at least one tail-light burning during the night hours when on a public street or highway, Officer Lewis said. Motorcycles are required to have only one headlight.

USCC Manager Is Speaker at Lunch Today

D. HODSON LEWIS

D. Hodson Lewis, general manager of the Southwestern division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was to be guest speaker at the August luncheon meeting of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce at noon today on the Roof Garden of the Artesia Hotel.

Before going to Dallas to take over his present job, "Hod" Lewis was executive vice president and general manager of the Little Rock (Ark.) Chamber of Commerce. In his work with the Southwestern division of the national organization he supervises activities of that body in the eight states of New Mexico, Texas, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

Lewis is stopping in Artesia while making a tour of the Southwest and has told Chamber officials that he is anxious to meet local businessmen and civic leaders while here. He was in Hobbs Wednesday night and will go to Roswell from Artesia. Mrs. Lewis is accompanied by the Chamber executive on his trip.

The luncheon meetings are open to members, their guests, and visitors, Artie McAnally, president, said in urging a big attendance.

Campaign to Rid City of Surplus Dogs Under Way

A campaign to free Artesia of some of the surplus dogs is now under way in Artesia and will be continued as long as necessary, it was announced Wednesday by Chief of Police Kelley Stout.

The number of dogs here has increased in the past few months and with a few cases of rabies reported over the country every effort to reduce the number of dogs here is to be made.

Those owning dogs and desiring to keep them should purchase licenses and have their dogs vaccinated against rabies, Chief of Police Stout stated.

Stray dogs and those running loose will be picked up. Those who desire that dogs be picked up should notify the city police.

It is hoped that in most cases the dogs have already been caught in order that it will not be necessary for officers to chase down the dogs.

The cooperation of dog owners as well as all citizens in the campaign is being requested by local police.

Representative National Legion Coming Tuesday

ROBERT MARR

Robert Marr, national representative of the American Legion's expansion-stabilization service, is to be in Artesia next Tuesday noon, Aug. 6, when he will hold a conference with Dee Donnell, commander of district No. 6; Dr. L. F. Hamilton, commander of Clarence Kepple Post No. 41 of Artesia, and members of the local membership committee and other officers of the post.

Commander Hamilton said it is hoped Marr's schedule will permit him to remain in Artesia for the regular monthly meeting, which will be in the Central School gymnasium at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

It is possible, however, that Marr will not be able to remain for the evening meeting, as department headquarters notified Commander Donnell that Marr was scheduled to be here at noon, implying that he would have an evening appointment elsewhere.

Council, Medics Praised for Fly Scarcity Here

The Artesia Rotary Club went on record Tuesday noon giving praise to the City Council and members of the medical profession for the nearly flyless condition of Artesia at this time.

Rev. C. A. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist Church, who made the motion, stressed that through the efforts of the council and city administration all of the garbage piles in the city are being sprayed regularly with DDT in an effort to keep the community sanitary and to minimize the threat of polio.

Members of the medical profession had prevailed upon the city to take steps to eliminate, so far as possible, the presence of flies and fly breeding places.

Rev. Clark said that New Mexico in general has one of the most fly-infested states, but that Artesia at this time has nearly eliminated the menace.

Samelson Sells Out Interest in Smoke House to Mrs. Carson

Oscar Samelson has sold his interest in the Smoke House business to his half-sister and partner, Mrs. Kit Carson, but retained ownership of the building in which the business is located.

Samelson and Mrs. Carson, the former Miss Ethel Olsen, have been in business, operating the Smoke House, the last 11 years and at the present location since last February.

No plans for the future were disclosed by Samelson, but he indicated he intends to remain in Artesia.

Two-Hour Park Limit on Fourth Starts Today

Car owners were being reminded again Wednesday that the two-hour parking ordinance goes into effect on two blocks of Fourth Street Thursday (today).

Chief of Police Kelley Stout announced last week that the enforcing of this ordinance is to start on Aug. 1.

The ordinance limiting parking on Fourth Street between Quay and Texas was passed some months ago by the City Council. Officers have delayed enforcing the ordinance in an effort to secure regular paint for marking the street. However, it was necessary to use what was available and the street now has been marked.

With the enforcing of parking regulations on two blocks of Fourth, this limits parking on two Artesia streets. The parking limit on Main between Fifth Street and First Street also is two hours. Cars are marked regularly.

Those who have been in the habit of parking their cars on Fourth Street and leaving them more than two hours are urged to watch this, starting today, to escape receiving a ticket.

Chief Stout requested the full cooperation of all citizens in observing the ordinance.

Legal Profession Contributions To Public Told

Contributions of the legal profession in the last 10 years to the public as expressed by Rotary ideals of service were discussed in a vocational talk Tuesday noon by Neil B. Watson, Artesia attorney.

He pointed out the fact that through the bar associations the legal profession has adopted new codes of civil and criminal procedure, which have eliminated much of the technical wording in indictments and other proceedings.

AAF 39th Anniversary Today

The U.S. Army Air Forces are celebrating today the first peace-time "Air Force Day" since 1941 in observation of the 39th year of accomplishments, of which there were many in the technical field.

Throughout the nation the Army Recruiting Service, with the cooperation of businessmen and individuals, is sponsoring advertisements in the newspapers. Three such full-page ads appear in this issue of The Advocate, all stressing the theme, "Air Power Is Peace Power."

In stressing the accomplishments of the Army Air Forces during the last year, it was pointed out that a Lockheed P-80 Shooting Star streaked across from the Atlantic to the Pacific in the spectacular time of less than four and a quarter hours, 21 world records were broken by AAF planes, at Wright Field an AAF experimental plane withstood a simulated speed of 4300 miles an hour in a wind tunnel, Boeing B-29 Superfortresses dropped three atomic bombs, two of them on Japan and a third in an Army-Navy test, the Consolidated B-36 bomber, capable of flying 10,000 miles without a stop, was evolved, and the XS-1, a rocket-powered fighter, was designed to fly at 1500 miles an hour.

Remarkable advances were made in the field of radar, to help pilots in their winning battle against weather and other obstacles to flight.

These achievements, auguring even greater developments in the future, are a far cry from the work of the Division of Aeronautics established by the Army Signal Corps on Aug. 1, 1907, for the "purpose of study of the flying machine and the possibility of adapting it to military purposes."

The division consisted of three men and no airplanes.

From that small start, the AAF grew. The first Army airplane, built by the Wright Brothers, was accepted and approved on Aug. 2, 1909. The plane flew at a maximum speed of 40 miles per hour, carried two men with a combined weight not exceeding 350 pounds and carried sufficient fuel for a 125-mile flight. The airplane remained aloft an hour, 12 minutes, and 40 seconds.

When World War I began, the Aviation Section of the Signal Corps, as it was then designated, had 1152 men and 55 obsolete airplanes. By March, 1918, the United States Army Air Service, the title by which it was then known, had expanded to a strength of 131,000 men.

The World War II, which ended shortly after the Army Air Forces started the 39th Air Force year,

Prices Appear Leveled Off Here, as New OPA Ceiling Law Is Passed

There has been little comment regarding the passage of the OPA ceiling price law during the past few days in Artesia. Apparently the prices here have about leveled off and comment on prices for various products also has been absent.

The fact that OPA has gone or is to go back into effect is not expected to make many changes in prices here. The advance in milk and dairy products is expected to remain. However, the special decontrol committee, which President Harry Truman has named, must decide whether prices are to go on meat and poultry products between now and Aug. 20. If they fail to act, the ceiling prices automatically go on to these products.

Just what effect ceiling prices will have on manufactured goods remains to be seen. There is every indication that there will be some increase in prices granted. Many are firmly convinced that many manufacturers have been storing goods waiting for the OPA to be removed or for increases in prices. Whether this is true, is not known.

It is a well known fact, however, that many kinds and types of merchandise are more difficult to secure today than during the war years. Some products have been more plentiful and many believe that the supply of these will continue.

Clothing of various kinds, men's, women's, and children's, remains scarce. Certain types of linens also are still extremely scarce and the supply is far from being adequate to take care of the demand. It is hoped that if increases are granted on the prices of these products that it will be sufficient to result in more of this merchandise being made available.

The scarce articles in the food line continue to be meat and meat products, as well as soaps, shortening, syrups, and other products.

To The People Of Artesia

Under date of July 18, 1946, there appeared an ad in The Advocate over the signature of Mrs. Tom W. Heflin, from which we quote: "Misrepresentations have been made by salesmen claiming that commissions are paid to the Woodbine Cemetery Association on their sales of monuments." In as much as our business is located in this territory, we immediately asked Mrs. Heflin to follow up with a statement in The Advocate that in making this statement she had no reference to the Maddux Monument Company. We have never failed to contribute liberally to any cemetery where we have had the opportunity to do so. We have no ill feeling toward the Artesia Cemetery Association or Mrs. Heflin, but will say that neither the Maddux Monument Company nor any of its representatives have ever made the above statement. We have all we can do attending to our own business, and are selling around five hundred monuments a year. We are thankful that a large part of these sales come from the Artesia territory. We have as fine equipment as money can buy, and can give you twenty-four hour service on your work. We also handle all the leading materials, such as Barre, Clarendon Blue, Regal Blue, Winsboro, National Blue, Rock of Ages, Sienna Pink, Tennessee Pink, Egyptian Rose, etc. We have on order a full car load of National Blue Granite, which we expect to be delivered this fall. When you think of monuments, think of Maddux, a name associated with the memorial industry for more than a quarter of a century.

Here Comes the BRIDE

The person who started this business about the June brides just didn't hear about Artesia. This last week has seen at least six more happy couples taking the big step, and news of one which took place in May. At the rate things are going the community can look forward to a greater shortage of white satin, net, blue garters, and old coins.

Wheatley-McDowell

Miss Barbara Withington Wheatley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Wheatley, became the bride of Fred Oren McDowell at 8 o'clock on Friday evening, July 26, in an impressive and beautiful candlelight ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church. The date of the wedding was chosen to fall on the anniversary of her father's birthday.

Rev. Paul L. Brown heard the vows before a white kneeling altar flanked by tall jardiniere of white feverfew and yellow gladioli, and candelabra with white candles.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Stanley Carper played softly on the organ a medley of appropriate songs. After the mothers of the bride and bridegroom were seated, Miss Joan Wheatley, sister of the bride, sang "Still as the Night," by Carl Bohm, and Greig's "I Love Thee." Her first song is a traditional wedding song of the bride's family.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an exquisite gown of white matbroderie organza with fitted bodice and full skirt which fell into a court train. Her fingertip veil of white illusion was held by a beaded tiara. She carried a colonial nosegay of white roses, stephanotis, and baby's-breath.

Attending the bride at matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Frank Bentwood, attired in a gown of blue organza and carrying yellow roses. Claire Bentwood, niece of the bride, served as flower girl and wore a dainty gown of pale yellow organza. She carried a basket of petals topped with yellow roses tied in blue. The gowns of her attendants were patterned after that of the bride.

The bridegroom was attended by his best man, Oscar Bayer. Wallace Gates and Frank Bentwood served as ushers. The men of the party were in formal attire.

After the exchange of vows, Miss Joan Wheatley sang a poignant prayer, after which the minister pronounced the benediction. The wedding party left the sanctuary to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wheatley was attractively attired in a street-length frock of deep brown with matching hat and accessories. She wore a corsage of pinocchio roses.

The mother of the bridegroom was charming in a sheer ensemble of black and pink with a chic feather corsage and a hat of begonia blossoms.

The out-of-town members of the families attending the wedding were Mrs. C. M. Humphrys, an aunt of the bride from Amarillo, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bentwood and their children, Claire, Richard, and John, of Torrance, Calif.; Mrs. Hazel McDowell, mother of the bridegroom, from Shelton, Wash.; and an uncle and aunt of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. John Lovett of Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. McDowell was born in Artesia and attended the Artesia schools. After being graduated from high school she attended the Knox School for Girls at Cooperstown, N. Y. She spent her sophomore year at Occidental College in Los Angeles, and then completed the work for her bachelor's degree at Teachers College, Columbia University, in New York City in June of this year.

Mr. McDowell was reared in Shelton, Wash. Before entering the Air Corps he attended Washington State College at Pullman.

A reception in the Wheatley home was held after the ceremony. Bouquets of lavender asters, white daisies, and yellow snapdragons were used throughout the reception rooms. The four-tiered wedding cake centering the beautiful appointed table, surrounded by stephanotis, was cut first by the bride and bridegroom, who served their mothers and then left the serving of the cake to Mrs. Lovett, assisted by Mrs. Humphrys. Mrs. Elsie Johnson and Mrs. V. L. Pate presided at the punchbowl. Friends of the bride, who assisted in serving the guests, numbering some 200, were Misses Wanda Hattye Ruth Cole, and Mmes. Shirley Bartlett, and Mmes. Charles Baldwin, William Felton, William Keyes, and Oscar Bayer. Miss Janice Mann presided at the punchbowl.

Mrs. McDowell's going-away costume was a becoming two-piece suit of beige linen with brown and accessories. Her shoulder corsage was a duchess rose, fashioned of talisman roses. She wore a natural straw cloche hat.

The young couple drove to Roswell where, the following morning, they boarded a plane for New York City. During their two-week stay in New York they will occupy the apartment of the bride's sister, Miss Joan Wheatley.

After a short time spent in Artesia, Mr. and Mrs. McDowell expect to enter the University of Washington at Seattle, where Mr. McDowell will major in economics.

Something borrowed was a handkerchief sent from England by the bride's brother, and belonging to her mother. On each side of the cake were branched crystal candelabra. The reception rooms were decorated throughout with a profusion of summer flowers.

The first slice of cake was cut by the bride and bridegroom, after which Miss Lora Mae Lane served the cake, with Mrs. E. L. Hinton and Mrs. F. H. Kenmore presiding at the punch bowl. Miss Ada Mae Hair, a college roommate of the bride, had charge of the guest-book.

Girl Scouts Return From Successful Summer at Camp in Sacramentos

The Artesia Girl Scouts have returned from another summer camp session at Camp Mayhill in the Sacramento Mountains, with at least one honor for the group. Troop 7 had the largest enrollment of any troop represented.

Artesia also boasted the largest group from any community. Thirty-seven girls from here attended.

Some of the highlights of the camp were constructive activities, as well as fun for the girls. On one occasion a blocked roadway was opened to form a circular driveway through the camp. Also flower beds were weeded, stone walls were repaired, a cactus garden was planted, a campfire circle was constructed, and a "Chapel-in-the-Woods," where the "Scouts' Own" programs were held on Sunday mornings.

A huge replica of the Girl Scout emblem and the words, "Girl Scouts," were built in stone. Each unit of the camp constructed a fireplace for outdoor cooking and breakfast cook-outs were a feature looked forward to each morning.

Aside from their camp activities, the Scouts aided the community by weeding a local carrot patch. They worked at this for a portion of every morning for three weeks. This helped the gardener, who is in poor health.

The Scouts were quite active in the local Sunday school programs. Woodcraft and handicraft were combined in many interesting ways as the girls leaped to make cork hanging baskets, trail cooking equipment, "Scouts' Own" hymn book covers, shadowgraph plays, wood carvings, and decorative pine cones. Some of this material was useful in their recreation which included trips to the Mayhill fire tower, tree walks, mountain climbing, and exploration hikes.

In the recreation program also were campfire songs, corn popping parties, baseball games, evening stunt parties, folk dancing, and camp movies with the local forest rangers.

The Senior Scouts participated in an overnight camping trip to the James Canyon tourist park and also were hostesses at a party which was well attended by village boys. Various Indian relics were found by the Senior Scouts when they climbed "Ambition Mountain."

On the Fourth of July the girls had a formal flag raising ceremony with a fried chicken dinner topped off with fresh cherry pie. In the evening the younger scouts acted as hostesses for a progressive dinner out of doors. Barracks "B" took the prize for outdoor cooking sites with a clever image of the camp site.

The Scout camp has had a successful summer session with a total enrollment of 136, of whom 129 attended the camp. Eight sets of sisters were present and one set of twins. Four of the sister sets were from Hobbs. The Marshall twins are from Artesia. States and country represented were New Mexico, Texas, Kansas, and the Netherlands West Indies.

Mr. Walker is coowner and manager of the Walker-Hill Grocery & Market here. He has recently come to Artesia from Shamrock, Tex.

After a brief wedding trip to Ruidoso, the couple will make their home in Artesia.

AIR POWER is peace power

A grateful nation today salutes the world's most powerful air force whose vast war-time strength now serves as a bright potential for the maintenance of a firm and everlasting peace.

Founded thirty-nine years ago today, the Army Air Forces has come a long way from small and experimental beginnings. Back in 1907 there were only one officer and two enlisted men. There were no airplanes until two years later, when Orville Wright delivered his first military craft. The giant, triumphant force which speeded the end of World War II grew out of the vision and ingenuity of the men who saw, from the first, the immensity of air power. Many of these pioneering airmen are turning their abilities to the demands of the future.

The air forces that crushed Germany's ability to make war and finished Japan with lifesaving speed, was made up of bombers and fighters whose sole aim was to end the horror of war. Today, in addition to fighters and bombers for defense, the Army Air Forces has begun a mighty research program for the benefit of the world at peace.

Equipped with the latest radar devices, Army Air Forces planes are able to fly into storm zones, chart the course and speed of an approaching hurricane, and rush warning to weather stations in time to avert waste and tragedy.

Experimental jet-propelled planes, with Army fliers at the controls, will pioneer the way to speeds faster than sound.

Improved design, greater engine power, and new flight techniques will open the way to still greater safety in commercial transport. Army bombers will be the first to test and report on innovations which later will be made available to the nation's civil air lines.

Side by side with technological progress goes the Air Forces' vital duty of preserving world peace and national security. The nation's safety, in a world where distance now means little, rests with the men who fly. It is to them that we offer our thanks—with the promise that we will do our part toward keeping alive the hope for world peace. The future of the Air Forces is the future of the nation.

"The mission of the Army Air Forces in peacetime is to develop and maintain a military air force capable of immediate, sustained, and expanding application of the doctrine of military air power. It must be geared to work in harmony with the nation's ground and naval services in supporting American foreign policy and maintaining the peace. For this task in national security the Army Air Forces needs the full support of the American people."

State 4-H Club Encampment to Be Aug. 14-20

New Mexico's 25th annual 4-H Club encampment will be held Aug. 14-20, it was announced at the State College by Miss Travis N. Hughs, assistant state 4-H Club leader.

The encampment, which will be the first held since 1942, is being built around the theme, "Serving as Citizens in Maintaining World Peace, which is one of the guide posts selected for 4-H Club work. In addition to the program of conferences, recreation, and field trips which is being planned for the 250 delegates expected on the A. and M. campus, state winners in the dress revue, dairy foods demonstration contest, and home economics judging will be selected during the encampment.

For the first time, contestants in the dress revue will be divided between senior and junior groups. Mrs. Pearl C. Gehl, extension clothing specialist, in charge of the revue, said senior participants will be girls more than 14 years old, who have had more than three years 4-H clothing work.

Senior division winner will be awarded a trip to the National Club Congress next December in Chicago. Junior winner, who will be a girl under 14 with less than three years of experience, will receive an award yet to be determined.

The junior-senior division of contestants will hold, too, for the dairy foods demonstration contest, which will be supervised by Miss Edith Mae Woodard, extension nutrition specialist. Senior winners in this contest will receive a $50 savings bond. Junior winners also will be presented an award.

Another contest for 4-H Club girls during the encampment will be home economics judging. Big point winners of this contest, which will be supervised by Miss Veda Strong, home management specialist, will receive trophies. Boys' contests will be held this year at the State Fair in Albuquerque, Sept. 29 through Oct. 6, Miss Hughs said. Included in this group of contests will be livestock loss prevention, crops judging, livestock judging, and fruit and vegetable standardization demonstration.

Lice and Mites Take Toll This Season of Year

Lice and mites usually take their toll in poorly cared for flocks at this season of the year, County Agent Dallas Rierison said. He warned that mites multiply almost as fast as a calculating machine.

"At summer temperatures," the county agent said, "eggs laid by adult mites hatch in 48 hours. These newly-hatched individuals lay more eggs in less than a week. Frequent examination of houses and birds for mites and lice is an important detail of summer management. Commercial products, such as barbolineum, are available on the market for use in fighting mites. But be sure to be thorough in their application."

Rierison said that lice also multiply and affect production because of the discomfort they cause. He declared that they can be controlled by the use of any one of several roost paints, applied to the roosts in a narrow band with a small oil can or paint brush, an hour before roosting time.

This treatment, the county agent added, should be repeated in 10 days. This will kill the lice that hatch from the eggs that were on the birds at the time of the first treatment. For individual treatment dust with sodium fluoride or apply mercurial ointment.

TIGHT SUPPLY OF PROTEIN PREDICTED

July production of proteins was only about 65 per cent of July last year, according to A. D. Woolfer, members of the State Production and Marketing Administration Committee. He said that ranchers and farmers should be looking ahead on their protein requirements, because drought and poor range conditions make it highly probable that more protein feeds will be needed this fall and winter than last year.

Farmers and ranchers in problem areas are now afforded the opportunity of purchasing some oil seed meal which is being distributed under recent set-aside orders. Woolfer said that New Mexico's allocation of set-aside meal in July was 734 tons. This amount was in the hands of several processors and was released to problem areas to help give some relief in the present dairy and livestock feed situation.

POTATO PURCHASE PROGRAM IS WORKING

The Production and Marketing Administration's potato purchase program is now in full swing, C. E. Habiger, PMA marketing specialist said. Farmers will not suffer for lack of markets for their Irish potatoes as the government will buy all that is offered at $2 per 100 for U.S. No. 1 grade, 87½ cents for U.S. No. 1 grade, size "B," and 87½ cents for U.S. No. 2 grade, 1½ inches in diameter. Purchases will be made from growers, cooperative associations of growers, or authorized agents or dealers. Prices per 100 are loaded f.o.b. cars and trucks at shipping points. The PMA is also offering $2.25 per 100 for U.S. No. 1 grade and $1.25 per 100 for U.S. No. 1 grade, size "B," both grades sacked and loaded f.o.b. cars and trucks.

PRACTICAL FARM BUILDINGS

Coldframes, Hotbeds, Greenhouses

By W. J. DRYDEN, WNU Farm Editor.

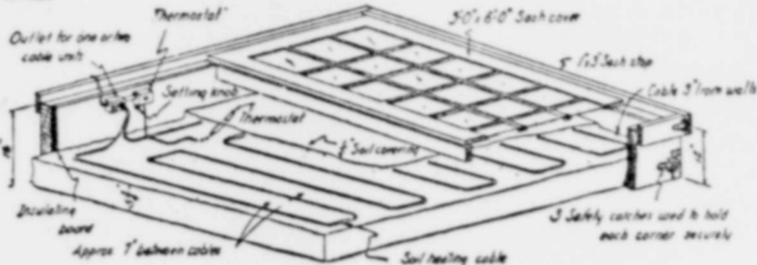

A small greenhouse is an asset for starting early seeds. This low-cost Minnesota house can be built with standard hotbed sash. A well-drained site with a southern exposure protected on the north by buildings or wind-break should be chosen. Heat may be supplied by a coal or wood stove or by hot water heat from the central farmstead boiler.

Electric hotbeds are rather new in America, although they have controlled, such a construction may not be financially practical, when a coldframe or hotbed will serve as well.

The main difference between hotbeds and coldframes is that the former are provided with some means of artificial heat such as fermenting manure, hot water, steam or electricity, while the only source of heat for the coldframe is that provided by the sun's shining through the glass cover. The details of con-

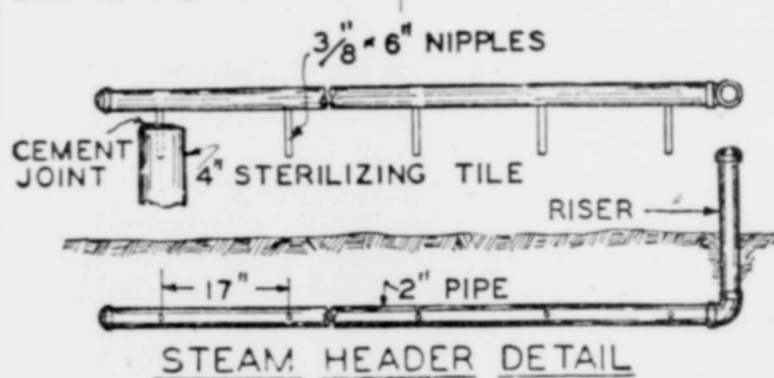

A small greenhouse will soon pay for itself on the average general farm.

TECHNICAL DRAWING

involves the use of good seed, the treatment of the seed and soil to prevent disease infection, the proper selection of soils for both the seedlings and transplants, and careful attention to the seeding, watering, ventilating, transplanting, hardening and other plant growing operations.

Farms Rank High As Industrial National Market

The enlarged market for the goods of industry should play an important part in bolstering the nation's post war economy, the Department of Commerce says in its publication to "Current Business." Emphasizing the close economic interdependence between farming and business communities, the publication points out that no sustained prosperity can be attained unless both prosper. High wartime earnings of American labor enabled millions of persons to enjoy for the first time something like an adequate diet and satisfactory dress, the survey continued.

The publication pointed to a huge $10,000,000,000 backlog of cash and securities in farmers' hands to the 200 per cent increase in net farm income during wartime. The eventual size of the postwar market among farmers will depend in part on whether farm savings go into purchase of goods or are diverted into farm property speculations.

Farm prosperity should continue well into 1946, but after that there is no assurance that the old farm problem—lack of adequate markets and hidden farm employment—may not again appear, the Department of Commerce said. The best insurance of continued farm prosperity lies in an adequate number of jobs in business and industry with continued business prosperity and a high level of wages so people can continue to buy farm products.

More Pork, Less Beef Predicted For This Year

Judging by slaughter so far, the economists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture expect almost as big a supply of meat this year as last, according to Dallas Rierison, county agent of Eddy County. They look for moderately more pork, but a little less beef, veal, and lamb.

This smaller supply follows a winter of the heaviest meat eating in the U.S. history. From October through March Americans ate 85 pounds per person, two pounds more than in the same period any year of the war and the largest for at least 35 years. With feed grains short and grain prices high, the economists expect hog slaughter to continue large compared to last year all through December, the county agent explained. But beginning early in 1947, with a smaller proportion of this past spring's pig crop left to market, farmers will have fewer hogs for slaughter than in the same months this year.

By next spring and summer, when the small pig crop probably in the fall of this year comes to market, the falling off in the supply of pork is expected to become evident, Rierison said. Cattle numbers seem likely to continue the down swing, with fewer cattle for slaughter this year than last and fewer next year than this. On the other hand, farmers and ranchers have been cutting down their sheep flocks for four years now. If farm labor gets plentiful enough and sheep and lamb prices rise, they may halt the downswing in sheep numbers by sending slaughter and keeping more at home for breeding stock. All in all, the economists expect the total output of pork, beef, and lamb next year may be about a billion pounds less than this year, the county agent concluded.

HIGH PRICES DO NOT MAKE MORE FOOD

Higher prices will not make much difference in the total supply of food available this year. Neither will higher prices have much effect on the amount of food available for civilians unless the price increases force a curtailment of food exports, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. A boost in prices, however, would tend to change the distribution of available supplies among various sections of the country and among income groups, the USDA economists believe.

CROP INSURANCE PROTECTS FARMER

Unavoidable hazards which farmers, to be careful, cannot control—hail, insects, and many other natural hazards in crop raising—can be insured against. A specified number of crop insurance policies are now being issued by the county agricultural officers as now prepared by the state insurance department.

Farm Shorts

Talk about square pegs in round holes, we have been doing square farming in a round country too long.

Plenty spawns waste—scarcity brings thoughts of conservation.

America has undergone more than a century of land use and abuse. Approximately 100 million acres of formerly good cropland have been ruined by erosion for any further food production. Another 100 million acres of cropland have been seriously damaged. Topsoil is still being destroyed faster than it is being repaired or created. Crop production has been increased in the United States, largely by increasing crop acreage.

No great nation ever existed that was not surrounded by an adequate agricultural area, because a substitute for food has never been found.

International Rice Festival Planned

Crowley, "The Rice City of America," stages its International Rice Festival in the Louisiana rice metropolis Oct. 17-18 under the direction of Jerry Ashley (left) and R. E. (Bob) Schlicher. Besides U. S. rice producing states, 25 foreign nations are being asked to send delegates to the spectacle.

CROWLEY, La., July 31—Crowley, "The Rice City of America," takes the wraps off its festival this year, and "goes international" to boot on Oct. 17-18.

to send delegates, and "princesses." From these princesses will be chosen the Queen of the Festival, to be feted and dined and honored, and her highness will be the recipient of an all-expense paid cruise in the Caribbean.

Not to be outdone, however, are the princesses from the nation's rice producing states—Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, and California—who are being invited by the festival association to enter the contest for queen. From past experience, the job of selecting the queen will be a tough one, for beauties have in past festivals posed a serious problem for the judges who must choose from among 50 odd, the fairest of them all. For the first time in history, the festival will be a two-day affair. The first day is "Farm and Home Day," to feature adult and junior livestock shows, displays of farm and home labor saving devices and machinery, the children's queen, while Oct. 18 is "International Day." On that day, besides selection of a queen and many other attractions, all free of charge, there will be a grand parade and a grand ball over which the queen will reign. Identity of the queen will not be known until early that Friday afternoon.

Office Supplies Limited Still, as In Other Lines

Although there has been made available merchandise in some instances in office supplies, the same situation prevails for the most part in the majority of lines as in other fields.

In one or two lines, such as bookkeeping supplies, journal and ledger sheets, finders and various forms used are more difficult to secure now than they were a year ago.

During the last year of the war most of these forms were available in most any supply wanted. Today there is a delay on every shipment and in some instances it is impossible to obtain the books, binders, or forms sought.

Steel furniture appears to be just as scarce as ever, while even good office furniture cannot be shipped immediately and there is usually a delay.

Steel files, four drawers, are still difficult to obtain and recently it has been impossible to obtain even steel card filing cabinets, as well as the carboard files in all sizes.

A shipment of these steel card files has been promised, as well as some two-drawer files in legal size.

Other supplies continue hard to secure, such as wire files, small steel files for the desk.

Staplers and staples are available in all sizes and in most lines.

Heavy carboard storage files, legal and letter size, which have been scarce, are back in large quantities, but voucher size Liberty storage files are not available. Pencil sharpeners continue to be received now and then in small shipments.

Typewriters apparently are becoming more plentiful, although types are limited, as well as the sizes of the carriages.

Adding machines, large, small, hand, electric, are still scarce and difficult to secure.

Meat, Poultry, Butter, and Eggs

Meat, poultry, butter, eggs, and other dairy products are the principal items in our stores which continue without price control but subject to possible reconrol after August 21st. We believe Congress has made a wise decision in providing for a continued free market for these commodities. From our knowledge and experience with meat and dairy products, we believe that consumers and producers alike will be benefited in the long run if meat and dairy products are not controlled. A free market is the only way to assure a continuation of adequate non-black market supplies at non-black market prices.

Make summertime salad-time by including whole meal salads on your menu frequently during the week. If you make the salads substantial enough by adding hard cooked egg, seafood, cold chicken or meat or cheese, as well as garden fresh vegetables, then all you'll need to complete the menu is a dessert.

SUPER SUPPER SALAD—Combine 1 cup shredded cabbage, 2 or 3 tomatoes cut in wedges, 2 or 3 chopped green onions, tops and all, 1 cucumber finely diced. Season with salt and pepper. Add beans and toss in a tart dressing. Serve in lettuce cups or on shredded mixed greens. Serves 6.

KIDNEY BEAN AND VEGETABLE SALAD—Drain and chill 1 medium-size can of kidney or baked beans. Combine 1 cup shredded cabbage, 2 or 3 tomatoes cut in wedges, 2 or 3 chopped green onions, tops and all, 1 cucumber finely diced. Season with salt and pepper. Add beans and toss in a tart dressing. Serve in lettuce cups or on shredded mixed greens. Serves 6.

SPORTS AND GAMES OF LATIN AMERICA

Sports and games are undoubtedly one of the common denominators of all countries and the world at play has practically no feeling of national differentiation. When a little Latin American tries to catch a ball in Costa Rica, for instance, he probably does so very much in the same way as a North American child would do in the United States.

However, the rules and forms in which games are played differ often according to regions and some sports may be definitely classified as being native to one country in particular.

One of the earliest games on the Western Hemisphere must have been a certain ball game played by the Mayans and later by the Aztecs. The ball, when in play, was not thrown with the hand but struck by the hip, around which the player wore a protective pad of leather. At each end of the court was a great stone disc with a hole in the center and through this orifice the ball was driven before a point was scored. Very naturally a live ball was used, since rubber trees dominated the forests. Not amateurs but professionals usually took part in these contests which sometimes lasted as much as four hours.

Ball court of this type have been discovered in Yucatan near ruins of temples and other relics of Mayan civilization, and traces of it seem to have been found in the West Indies.

Some wild tribes of the interior of Brazil have a ball game of their own that closely resembles our badminton. The rubber balls that the players strike with their hands have — just like shuttlecocks — feathers affixed to them for greater accuracy. The Indians generally indulge in this game at their return from the day's fishing or hunting and the end of the period of play is marked invariably by sunset.

Again a different variety of ball game is played by the Araucanian Indians of Chile. There, of course, we are no longer within the rubber tree zone, so the ball becomes a wooden one and the game, the "chueca," is similar to la crosse or field hockey. In primitive times, this was sometimes considered a training for war in which the members of the Araucanian tribes brandished a very heavy club, the famous "ma-zuca araucana."

To train warriors to avoid the arrows and spears of the enemies was also, to a certain extent, the object of another Araucanian traditional game, "pilma." In this, two players stand several feet apart and one tries to hit the other with a light fiber ball, his opponent endeavoring to dodge the ball by leaping, or falling to the ground. Every five balls the position is reversed and the player securing the first 20 hits is the winner. Spectators surrounding the contestants return the ball to the server, showing great appreciation of skillful play.

A certain type of bone dice is known to have been used by South American Indians in an indigenous game, while another local pastime of the natives is the use of a "bola" or "boleadora" to pursue wild ostriches. These animals are lassoed by means of a Y-shaped arrangement of two or three rawhide covered balls with connecting ropes of hide.

The arrival of the horse in the Western Hemisphere prompted a series of games of cowboy type especially in southern South America, where the boleadora was soon tried on the equine species. There was enough danger in this sport to thrill even a gaucho's adventurous heart, but it was hard on horseflesh. Even today when the mayordomo, or superintendent of the estancia, is not looking, the gauchos are at it again, bolas whirling, horses and horsemen rolling in the dust.

Another popular Latin American game in which the horse takes part is the "topo." Played in front of wooden crossbars, the game consists of having one horseman press his mount's head over that of another horse whose rider endeavors to disentangle himself as quickly as possible. The horses are as highly trained as our polo ponies and when

HANGAR FLYING

Al Elkan of Lovington flew in last week to announce to Artesia people and to invite them to the big flying party at the Elkan ranch between Lovington and Tatum Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 3-4. Everyone is invited to attend. Plenty of barbecue and cold drinks are to be provided, Elkan said. The landing strips on the Elkan ranch have just been bladed for use of those who fly to the party.

Herman Fuchs and Gene Sherwood flew to Hobbs last Thursday afternoon to get the new Piper super-cruiser. The cruiser, bought by Hazel Flying Service, is the center of attraction at the airport this week.

F. G. (Limey) Farrell was a visitor at the airport Friday morning. He was quite surprised at the change. Mr. Farrell was sergeant in command of the detachment while the base was under Army control. The absence of Army barracks makes quite a difference in appearance in the headquarters building. Farrell was on his way to El Paso, where he has been employed by American airlines as a radio operator. Visiting planes for the past week were: Mr. and Mrs. Lovett of Detroit, Mich., who were flying their new Stinson Voyager. They came on Tuesday and left Saturday. Dr. Lathrop and his daughter, from Carlsbad, were sight-seeing in an Aeronica. Mr. McLaughlin came from Houston in a twin-engine

Cessna. Burkstaller Brothers from the B. & B. Flying Service at Roswell made a short and snappy trip. Twin-engines which came in were the Magnolia Petroleum Company's Beechcraft, Iverson Tool Company's Cessna, and Continental Oil Company's Cessna. There were also a Cub trainer and a Cub cruiser down from Roswell, a Luscombe from Monahans, a Taylorcraft from Carlsbad, and a BT-13 from Carlsbad, and one of the Moutrays flew up from the Moutray farm and ranch on Seven Rivers.

Jim Ferguson's blue Fairchild has been brought to the field here from a Roswell field, where it had been stored. He is working on his first 1000 hours.

Lt. Ray Burison of Roswell has bought Glenn Booker's BT-13. Lt. Burison is stationed at Army Air Field, Randolph, Va. Sunday afternoon.

matched with skillful riders a single struggle may last an hour. A good topeo match is equally exciting for riders, horses, and spectators.

Traditional in Paraguay is the game of "la sortija" in which the rider gallops by crossbars from which is suspended a small ring which he tries to tilt. In other parts of Latin America a variation of this sport consists in endeavoring to pull away, while riding by at a gallop, a ring hanging from a piece of ribbon whose colors correspond to those worn by a young lady in the audience. Twisting a bull's tail to make him tumble over is an innocent, bloodless, yet exciting, form of bullfighting popular in Venezuela and Colombia, while another indigenous game of the Americas is a form of cup-and-ball played in Mexico with a wooden pin to which is attached by a string a ball or small wooden cylinder which is supposed to end up impaled upon the pin after a series of flip-flops and whirrs in the air. A hundred variations, immense skill in the number of somersaults and rapidity of execution make the game fascinating.

TWENTY all-time world's records—in speed, duration, distance, and load-altitude—have just been broken by airmen of the U. S. Army Air Forces.

The significance of these accomplishments should be made known to every citizen of this nation. Our Army Air Forces—an "also ran" in world aviation as recently as 1940—has gained first place by the swift and unprecedented effort of science, industry, and the Armed Forces backed by a determined American public.

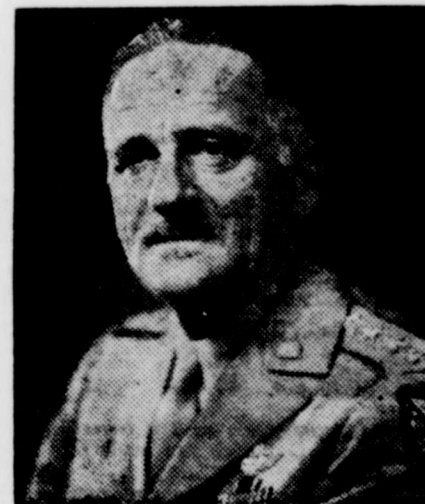

The smashing of twenty records—mostly German and Italian—by Superfortresses, helicopters, and jet fighters is not merely a show of strength. It is a symbol of U. S. Army Air Forces policy now, and in the future . . . a symbol of continuing research, continuing invention, continuing development of skilled men to man and service the planes which will command respect everywhere, forever and a day.

These fine planes, and others, may be seen at Army air fields from coast to coast on August 1st, Army Air Forces Day. You are urged to bring yourself up to date in this rapidly changing field . . . to recognize the responsible position of the AAF in safeguarding the future of our country. To know your Army Air Forces is to know security.

Former Artesia Boy Reverses Trip to Manila

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Davis of El Dorado, Kan., former Artesia people, were here Wednesday through Friday of last week looking up old friends.

dated several weeks ago about their son, T/Sgt. Robert Davis, who went into the service from here and became a member of the 200th. It reads: "T/Sgt. Robert Davis, American Army sergeant, who experienced the Death March of Bataan and survived to remain a Japanese prisoner until the war ended, is preparing to leave Tokyo for Manila.

practically free That day termed 'the best of all' from a prisoner's point of view. Some 138 American planes bombed and strafed Tsuruga all day long. 'We stood on top of foxholes and shouted while planes strafed within 150 yards,' he said. He estimated Tsuruga, a city of 70,000, was approximately 90 per cent destroyed during the war.

"This time the sergeant is in the role of captor. He is escorting several fugitive Japanese apprehended here (Tokyo) and wanted at the Tokyo war crimes trials. "Recently at SCAP, legal section offices, the slender sergeant recalled the jubilation 400 American prisoners experienced nearly a year ago, when they raised an improvised American flag over their prison camp at Tsuruga (Honshu). This was after Japan had cracked, but before full liberation had arrived. The flag was made of blue barracks bags and other odds and ends of materials. "To us it was almost the same as the Fourth of July," Davis said.

Robert is still in Manila. Mr. and Mrs. Davis said when on their visit in Artesia. They were accompanied here by Robert's uncle, J. R. Guyot, and Mrs. Guyot of Douglas, Kan.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS REGARDING FINAL BURIAL OF SERVICE PERSONNEL WHO DIED OVERSEAS IN WORLD WAR II

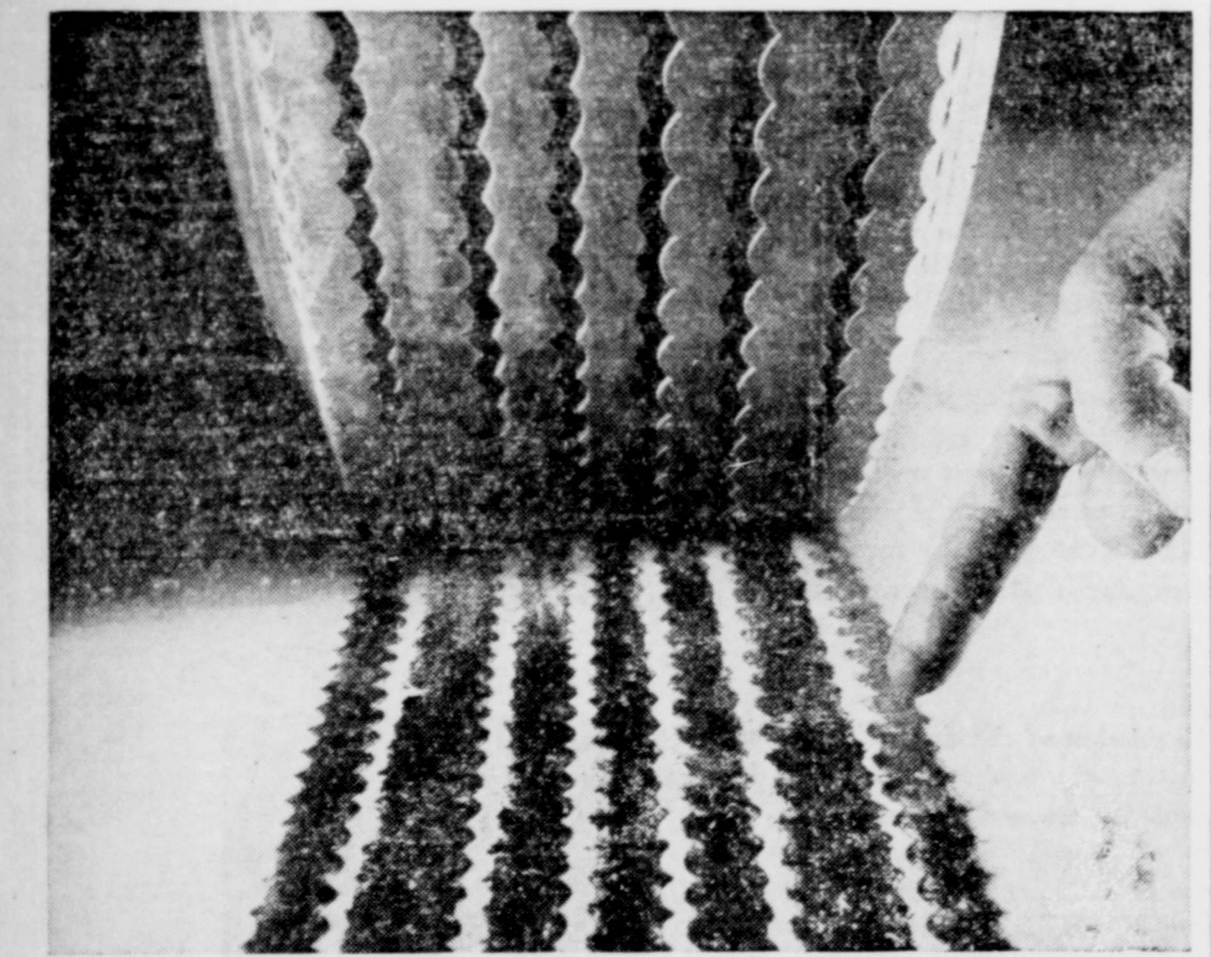

- Q. Who is responsible for the final burial of the dead of World War II? A. The Quartermaster Corps has been given this responsibility by the War Department, and is now completing plans. Q. Who will decide where the final burial of service personnel or civilian who died overseas during World War II in the service of the United States will be made? A. In the absence of special circumstances, the War Department will recognize the wishes of relatives for final burial in the following order: If the deceased were married, the surviving spouse. However, he or she must not have been divorced or separated at the time of his death or remarried. If the husband or wife has remarried, or the parties were divorced or separated prior to the death, preference passes to sons who are over 21 years of age. If there are no sons over 21, preference passes to daughters over 21. If there are children under age, or no children, then the right passes to surviving relatives in order of relationship to deceased. If deceased was not married at the time of death, decision rests with father, then with mother. Brothers over 21 make decision after father and mother. If there are no brothers, sisters over 21 make decision. If brothers and sisters are under age, or if there are no brothers and sisters, the right to make decision passes to other relatives of deceased in order of their relationship. Q. What choices are open to relatives who have the right to decide on final burial of service personnel who died overseas during World War II in service of the United States? A. Remains may be returned to United States for burial in private cemetery; remains may be returned to United States for burial in a national cemetery; remains may be interred in permanent military cemetery overseas; remains may be interred in a foreign country, the homeland of the deceased.

Country Editor Gains Fame by Unorthodox Yarns

Arthur Aull, country editor of The Democrat, who has achieved national fame for its ingenious reporting, is not typical of anything. It is The Democrat and there isn't another paper like it in the world.

ganzized to keep the news out of The Democrat. They always fail. A while ago the Lamar Business and Professional Women's Club innocently permitted three distinguished looking strangers in town to attend their monthly meeting under the impression that they would be entertained by a talk on native crafts of Old Mexico. It was a disastrous mistake.

satisfied himself by beating up his press foreman instead. Far from landing him in the poorhouse, Aull's ideas of how to run a country paper have brought financial success in a usually impoverished business. Lamar — where President Truman was born in 1884 — is the county seat of Barton County. It is a pleasant, prosperous community on the edge of the Ozarks where the Great Plains begin.

has never learned to use one. For 42 years he singlehandedly composed the paper's news in his illegible scrawl. Four years ago one of his three daughters, Mrs. Madeline Van Hafften, a graduate of the University School of Journalism, joined The Democrat as editorial assistant. Since then he has dictated the news and confined his quill driving to editorials.

Aull is most eloquent when writing editorials about the weather or his pet shepherd dog, Tip-ty, which often rates two columns. The Democrat's birth notices are masterpieces of detail listing all available family information including a roster of additional children and their ages. The editor found out long ago that women like to see how their neighbors are spacing them.

Not long after that it will be recalled Jewell got into a fight in front of Tuck's Cafe with another girl, Betty Miller. The girls had a real battle and in the fight Jewell lost her pants. Or at any rate she turned up out there on the street without any pants. The way to put scandalmongers completely out of business, Aull argues, his blue eyes snapping behind gold-rimmed spectacles, is to publish the facts.

The girls sat there fairly paralyzed listening to him talk. When it began to look like he might even be willing to pass out samples the chairman let him know that wasn't on the agenda, and he would have to desist. It was bad enough but it wouldn't have been quite so bad if they had not had the 14 Carthage women as guests. It will be some time before any of them forget the experience. Aull's pious policy of reporting everything that happens in his small town has produced surprisingly little civil warfare. When he does have a wrathful visitation from a subscriber he religiously gives it coverage.

Aull thinks nothing of getting on the long-distance telephone just like a big city editor and spending a week's profit covering a story with a hot Lamar angle in California. When the press breaks down in the average country shop the paper misses an issue. The Democrat always goes to press, even if they have to fly a mechanic in from Chicago. Only once was there a seemingly insurmountable catastrophe. A now forgotten press foreman, stumbled with the fourth page form just before deadline time, scattering type from one end of the shop to the other. Aull was summoned from the barber shop where he was being shaved. His face still covered with soap, the editor hurriedly composed a new page and returned to finish his shave. The Democrat went to press with the following announcement: "This page was pied."

Aull, who looks like the late Senator Borah of Idaho, has been publishing The Democrat since 1900. Until that time he had been a frustrated district school teacher suffering from an uncontrollable itch to write. "I got the notion very early," he muses. "I had a lot to say and I figured the best place to say it was on a newspaper, especially my own. Unreasonable as it may sound I managed to borrow enough money from a bank to buy The Democrat." The price was $5500. For this he received a rheumatic typesetter, a battered handpress and a weekly circulation of 500. At the time most country papers were political organs. Uninhibited by previous experience, Aull changed that. He made The Democrat an independent and turned it into a rousing alter ego of his own boisterous personality. Today The Democrat shop is one of the best equipped, if the most topsy-turvy, in business.

The raising of the flag is always a wonderful thrill. This statue of the scene on Mount Surabachi which now stands across from the Navy Department in Washington, D. C., our nation's capital, recalls the back-the-attack spirit and your deeds as a wartime bond buyer. My slogan for you today on the first peacetime Flag Day since 1941 is "Now Back Your Future." Continued investment of part of your earnings in savings bonds is consistent with devotion to the flag. Old Glory symbolizes the security which savings bonds assure. U. S. Treasury Department.

As a matter of fact Rita Mae burned up two dresses, the wedding dress and another dress. In 1941, an advertising agency invited Aull to fly to New York with all expenses paid to collaborate on a radio program they were dreaming up for the rural consumer. Aull went. He had never been farther away than a few hundred miles from Barton County before. The meeting was one of mutual disillusion. The agency hoped to find another Bob Burns. Aull took the assignment seriously. He believed that for the important money the agency was spending special prose was in order. After three days he decided to go home. The country editor had spent most of his time walking up and down Fifth Avenue studying the people. "God Almighty," he roared to a reporter before leaving. "I can see why New York has to have night clubs and Lamar doesn't. You can't stay cooped up in one of these damned two-room apartments all the time. I'm going back to Barton County and get the paper out."

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

Questions and Answers about Newspaper Advertising

- Q. Do you know of any measure for the value of newspaper circulation to an advertiser such as the stanaras that a business man uses in buying merchandise? A. Yes. In the well-known standards that have been approved and adopted by advertisers—namely A.B.C. standards. Q. What is A. B. C.? A. A.B.C. stands for Audit Bureau of Circulations, a cooperative association of 2000 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers in the United States and Canada. Q. What is the Bureau's work? A. To audit the circulation of newspapers and periodicals so that advertisers can buy space on the basis of definite standards and verified facts and figures. Q. How does A. B. C. accomplish this? A. The Bureau has a large staff of experienced auditors. These men visit the publisher members annually and make audits of their circulation records. This information is then published in A.B.C. reports for the use and protection of advertisers. Q. What do these reports show? A. A.B.C. reports tell how much circulation a newspaper has, where this circulation is, how it was obtained, how much people paid for it, and many other verified facts that advertisers should know when they buy advertising. Q. Are all publications eligible for A. B. C. membership? A. No. Only those with paid circulation. This is important to advertisers because it is the best proof of interest and purchasing power on the part of the readers. Q. Is this newspaper a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations? A. Yes. We are proud of our circulation and we want our advertisers to know just what they get for their money when they advertise in our columns. The audited information in our A.B.C. report gives them the complete facts.

AIR POWER is PEACE POWER

A grateful nation today salutes the world's most powerful air force whose vast wartime strength now serves as a bright potential for the maintenance of a firm and everlasting peace.

Founded thirty-nine years ago today, the Army Air Forces has come a long way from small and experimental beginnings. Back in 1907 there were only one officer and two enlisted men. There were no airplanes until two years later, when Orville Wright delivered his first military craft. The giant, triumphant force which speeded the end of World War II grew out of the vision and ingenuity of the men who saw, from the first, the immensity of air power. Many of those pioneering airmen are turning their abilities to the demands of the future.

The Air Forces that crushed Germany's ability to make war and finished Japan with life-saving speed, was made up of bombers and fighters whose sole aim was to end the horror of war. Today, in addition to fighters and bombers for defense, the Army Air Forces has begun a mighty research program for the benefit of a world at peace.

Equipped with the latest in radar devices, Army Air Forces planes are able to fly into storm zones, chart the course and speed of an approaching hurricane, and rush the warning to weather stations in time to avert waste and tragedy.

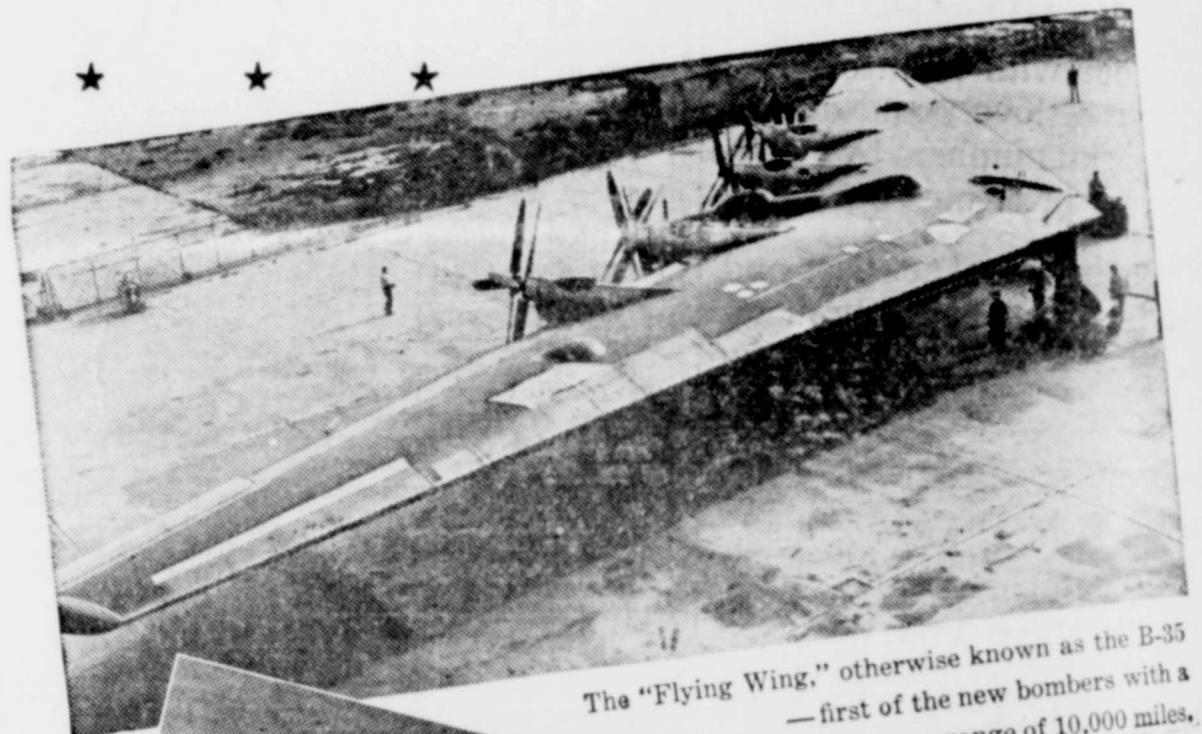

Experimental jet-propelled planes, with Army fliers at the controls, will pioneer the way to speeds faster than sound.

Improved design, greater engine power, and new flight techniques will open the way to still greater safety in commercial transport. Army bombers will be the first to test and report on innovations which later will be made available to the nation's civil air lines.

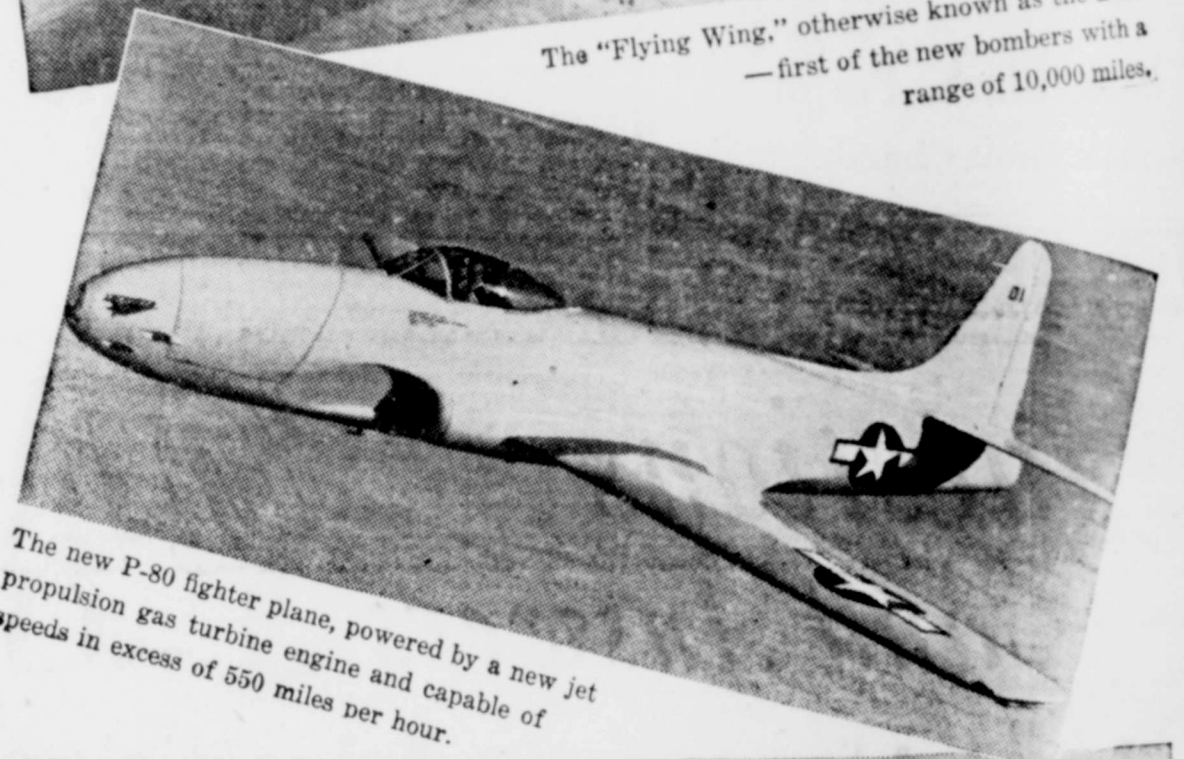

Side by side with technological progress goes the Air Forces' vital duty of preserving world peace and national security. The nation's safety, in a world where distance now means little, rests with the men who fly. It is to them that we offer our thanks—with the promise that we will do our part toward keeping alive the hope for world peace. The future of the Air Forces is the future of the nation.

*"The mission of the Army Air Forces in peacetime is to develop and maintain a military air force capable of immediate, sustained, and expanding application of the doctrine of military air power. It must be geared to work in harmony with the nation's ground and naval services in supporting American foreign policy and maintaining the peace. the flames while her husband repaired faults in the worn harness. The shot came from a red hole in the darkness. One of the horses fell with a heavy thud; there was a single groan and silence. The man grabbed a rifle leaning on the wagon wheel and fired in the direction from which the shot had come. The ball crashed through leaves and branches but there was no other sound. At dawn he found boot tracks in the soft, rich earth and farther away he found the tree to which a horse had been tethered. The cattlemen had voiced an objection to more homesteaders. With one horse the couple pulled their wagon to a distant sloping hill. Fresh dirt soon covered the roof of a new dugout and soil was broken for a small field. Destiny peopled the West with her own children whose hearts were great enough to hold a sufficient measure of courage.

Life is full and sweet to the dark-eyed man who returned from the wars without bitterness. There is a song on his lips and each hour is an adventure filled with 60 enticing minutes. He is neither young nor old, but seasoned with experience. He would like to be in love if its sweetness could be had without its pain.

TRAIL DUST

Time has worn deep tracks in the memory of that cold and rainy Sunday afternoon. Soaking through the thick soil overhead, water dripped from the bright pine boards that covered the new dugout. My companion was a boy my age, thin, freckled and clad in damp rags. His worn shoes were laced with strings of colored calico. The room was warm and fragrant with the odor of freshly-baked bread which my mother had left. The hunger of body and soul was in the boy's eyes as I removed the white, pressed tea towel covering the brown loaves. A crack of golden butter was on the table, a pot of honey was on the shelf. The hour was an adventure. It was his first time to taste light-bread. It was my first time to experience the miracle of sharing with another.

Love is the spark from an anvil when the heated metal of youth is struck by blows from the hammer of destiny; beautiful for a fleeting instant.

Mercy wears a soiled robe on the prairie where heavy wheels of the chuck wagon have crushed the mesquite and sage into yielding soil. Silence covers the terror and pain of the empty round-up grounds. No trace remains of the flames from white-hot irons burning soft hair and tender hides on the flanks of little calves. Red blood is caked on snow-white fences. Sweet dew is on the sage and wild flowers nod in the wind, but pain retreats so little at a time.

In our eagerness to purchase success at a bargain we may make the mistake of paying for it with less than our best. True quality is cheapened when the egotist seeks to become impressive. It is impossible to be great without first being humble.

Once I complained when the laundry did not iron my shirt to perfection. Now I am grateful merely for its return.

Flames of the day's dying fire licked the red grate of clouds. A chill, like the whisper of fear, swept hurriedly through the little valley, leaving shallow tracks on the warm soil. Two sweat-streaked horses were grazing beyond the shabby wagon they had drawn into the clearing and smoke from a stubborn fire tried to find its way through branches of the tall cottonwoods. Night thickened its bowl of shadows and peppered the sky with stars. Warily, the young woman held a skillet over

 "Love" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Aug. 4, 1946.
 The Golden Text is: "Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace; and the God of love and peace shall be with you."—(II Corinthians 13:11.)
 Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love."—(I John 4:7, 8.)
 The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Mortals believe in a finite personal God; while God is infinite Love, which must be unlimited."

 Visitors always welcome.

Hats Off to this Fellow...

HE fed us, our soldiers, our allies, and a lot of other people while we won a war. Now he's asked to keep the world from starving.

He's the American farmer.

He deserves the thanks and appreciation of everybody. He deserves it more than most folks realize because he increased his production by 30 per cent in five years without enough new tools to replace the labor he lost.

But, American farmers are disappointed—and they have a right to be. They expected that the end of the war would bring them an opportunity to replace their patched, repaired, weary and over-worked farm implements.

Of all of our shortages, that in farm tools and implements is the most serious.

Strikes have caused the shortages in farm implements—strikes in steel, strikes in coal, and strikes in the farm implement industry itself.

In the steel industry alone, the production of steel in the ten months following VJ day was 19 million tons short of expectations, enough to supply farm needs for at least five years. Most of the decline was due to strikes.

That is why the steel industry has not been able to catch up with the demand for new roofing, wire, fencing, tools and all the things of steel needed on the farm.

That is why the farmer is being penalized through no fault of his own. This nation cannot move ahead under the threat of ever-recurring labor strife.

Steel mills need all the scrap iron and steel they can get. Farmers can help increase steel output by sending worn-out machinery, etc., on its way to the furnaces. AMERICAN IRON and STEEL INSTITUTE, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York 1, N. Y.

USE THE HOT WATER METHOD!

So relaxing...
 So comfortable...

Maybe you're worried about taxes... or the state of the world... or your job... or maybe you're thinking you shouldn't have had that cup of coffee—anyway, you can't sleep! you're all tied up in knots; you toss and turn; you count sheep; and still you can't sleep!

What you need is something to make you relax, something to untie the knots, something to ease the tension of your nerves. You'll find that something in a tub of hot water... hot water not luke warm or cool. Step in and relax, let fatigue and tension slip away in steam. Then, try sleeping; you'll be relaxed, your nerves will unbend and you can drift off into the arms of the Sandman. Sleep relaxed... relax with hot water... another comfort provided through Natural Gas.
