Discussed Secure More Security Benefits

Means and methods of getting a public understanding and preventing loss of Social Security benefits were the chief topics discussed at a recent conference of Social Security Administration office managers in Dallas.

Perry A. Webb, manager of the Roswell office, reported upon his return. Oscar C. Pogge, national director of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, emphasized responsibilities of the field office personnel to the public. Webb said. The head of the government insurance system for workers and their families stressed the importance of informing the people of their rights and benefits under this program.

Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Some bronchitis may develop if cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot take a chance with any medicine more potent than Creomulsion. Creomulsion goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germs and heal raw, tender, inflamed mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood bark by special process with other tested medicines for coughs. Contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines have tried, tell your druggist to give you a bottle of Creomulsion with understanding you must like the quick relief it gives. Perse, rest and sleep, or you are to your money back. (Adv.)

Farm Briefs

By Dallas Rierson
Eddy County Agent

Farm leaders in Washington have called for 20 million gardens in this country for 1948, in order to make food available for shipment to hungry folks abroad. To help meet this goal, every family with room for a home garden should grow one during 1948.

By growing and using more and better vegetables and fruits, the home gardener can help in keeping down living costs, in raising nutritional standards, and in producing more food.

For complete information write or visit the county extension office.

Seed of sorghum, corn, oats, and other spring planted crops should be processed for planting as soon as time is available. The re-cleaning of the threshed seed is an important step in getting such seed ready for planting. By having this work done early, one can have time for testing for germination and purity without undue rush. The re-cleaning will also remove immature seed and bits of straw or stalk material.

Market garden soils or soils growing two or more crops a year under irrigation need special treatment if they are to produce best yields. Soils provided with irrigation are farmed intensively and usually receive larger quantities of manure and commercial fertilizer for increasing their crop producing capacity. Irrigated vegetable land which is being farmed intensively must be well drained and well aired. Where quantities of water are applied during the growing season, underground drainage is especially important.

Crops grown under irrigation should be fertilized differently from those grown-out of irrigation. The type of soil has a bearing on the method. Fertilizers in many instances would produce a better plant growth if they were applied in two, three, or four top or side dressings and the nutrients carried to the roots through the irrigation water. This is especially true of the sandier types of soil which have a tendency to leach more rapidly than the loam of the heavier types. Application of fertilizer is largely an individual farm problem which must be closely observed by the grower's experience in former years.

A grass mixture to produce a good sod is valuable in a vegetation rotation. The grass will not only help to conserve moisture and deepen the soil, but will also help to prevent erosion from both wind and rain.

During the winter, frosts will penetrate deep into the soil and during freezing and thawing will help make it more porous and open. The next year this soil will remain open and will be in a condition to receive more water and store larger quantities deeper. This will also tend to increase the organic matter in both the surface and subsurface soil and improve its physical condition.

Now is a good time to soak down the ground around shrubs—especially evergreens. Soak ground well where shrubs and lawns are in need of moisture so that they will be in a good thrifty condition next spring.

In early December the shrubs and lawns should have a second through sprinkling, and a third watering in February will prove beneficial. It's surprising how much moisture frozen ground will absorb. Shrubs and lawns use a lot of water during long, dry periods. The leaves of evergreens and the stems and branches of shrubs give off water in winter as well as summer. Winter watering will insure a healthy, vigorous growth next spring.

Roosevelt 4-H Leader Wins Chicago Trip

For her outstanding record as a woman 4-H club leader in New Mexico, Mrs. W. D. Pate (above) of Portales has been awarded a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 30-Dec. 4, according to Mrs. T. W. Coleman, president of the New Mexico Association of Home Extension Clubs, sponsors of the trip.

Mrs. Pate has lead Roosevelt County 4-H clubs for the past 11 years. During that time, she has enrolled 196 girls in 540 club projects and has trained nine girls to win trips to the National 4-H Club Congress. In addition, her trainees have won hundreds of prizes in local, county, and state competitions.

"To me, the value of 4-H club work cannot be measured," Mrs. Pate says. "In my work with boys and girls and their families, I have made friendships which will last a lifetime. The work of these club members will have its influence on future generations in many ways."

Thankful America

Thanksgiving Day is our country's public recognition of the power and providence of God. It is peculiarly an American institution, which has no counterpart in other lands.

On this day the people of our country, led by the government itself, express their humble and heartfelt thanks to God for His protecting care and the abundance of His provisions for our comfort and welfare.

The day itself is a wholesome influence in American life. It means a great deal when the people of a great nation lay aside their material concerns and gather in family groups to express gratitude for divine providence.

The Thanksgiving dinner may be a feast of delicacies or an unpretentious meal of simple fare. But those who partake of it should do so with thankful hearts and understanding minds.

"Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord," sang the Psalmist. And in thousands of churches and millions of American homes this Thanksgiving Day, grateful people will bow in humble recognition of God's matchless goodness.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

James B. Marley, director of activities of the Social Security Administration in Region X, stressed the obligations of public servants to the people. The managers of the 28 field offices in Region X, which includes New Mexico, Texas, and Louisiana, attended the annual conference.

"It was forcefully brought out," according to Webb, "that we must do a better job of securing public understanding of old-age and survivors insurance. Our efforts must be directed especially toward those who may now be eligible to receive the insurance so that no one will lose a payment because he lacks knowledge of his rights."

"In addition to paying those who may now be eligible, discussions at the conference made it clear that it is our responsibility to inform the families of all workers of their future right to insurance payments, so that individual workers and families can make better plans for the future."

Bulldogs Win Five, Drop Five; Are Now Poised For Santa Rosa

By Bert Shipp

Entering the "47" grid season, Coaches Whittington and Sams had 26 men, including 13 lettermen, with which they produced one of the best teams Artesia has had in years.

On the following Friday the Bulldogs took the Jal Panthers 30-0, before an estimated 4500 fans. The local boys took command of the game from the opening whistle, when guard Carson recovered a Panther fumble.

The Artesia Bulldogs journeyed to Eunice the next Friday where the Cardinals tried to deprive them of their undefeated record. This time they ran up against a stronger team than in their previous games and were scored on for the first time.

Sudderth scored the first touchdown after sprinting 20 yards off tackle to the goal line. He also made the conversion on a line plunge. Eunice came into the ball game after recovering a Bulldog fumble on Artesia's 35-yard line in the third quarter.

Six plays later Scoggins of Eunice went over for the first Cardinal tally, but the conversion was blocked by Fleming.

In the last three minutes of play remaining, the Bulldogs came out of the huddle determined to score. They wormed their way deep into Eunice territory in three downs, including a 40-yard sprint by Batie. Sudderth then, with intensive blocking, by the line, made the final score. Sudderth also made the extra point.

Final score, Artesia 14, Eunice 6. Eagles Rout Bulldogs One of the most outstanding games ever witnessed in Morris Stadium was played the next Friday when the Bulldogs clinched with the powerful Hobbs Eagles. Despite the furious attacks by both teams, the game ended with a small score, 7 to 6, the Bulldogs tailing.

Venison Should Be Cooked With Heat Cut Down

It's a lucky household that has a hunter to provide it with venison. And this week Edith Woodard, state extension nutritionist, came forth with some good suggestions for homemakers who are going to serve venison at the family table.

"Game meat ranks with other meats as a palatable and nutritious food," Miss Woodard said. "But remember that game flavor is not like the flavor of domestic meat. Flavor varies with the different game and owes its distinctive qualities to the conditions under which each animal lives.

"Much of the success of a game dish depends upon the handling of the animal after it has been killed. Thorough bleeding, removal of the inner organs as quickly as possible, rapid cooling, keeping the game cold, and protecting it from contamination en route from the hunt—all are as important as the actual cooking of the game. Because game is less fat than domestic meat, it should not be aged too long. But aging from one to two weeks will improve the game flavor."

Here are some of Miss Woodard's suggestions for cooking wild game:

Game meats, like all meats, are cooked at a constant temperature (moderately low) to the desired degree of doneness. All strong-flavored fat should be removed from the meat before cooking, but generous amounts of butter, bacon, salt pork, or other fats should be added, especially when the game is cooked by dry heat. Young, tender, and quality meat with a small amount of connective tissue retains its natural and distinctive flavor and is best when cooked by dry heat, as in broiling, roasting, or frying. Older and less tender game, high in connective tissue, requires long, slow cooking by moist heat, as in braising and stewing, to make it palatable. With few exceptions, all game should be cooked to the medium-done stage. It should be savory, juicy, and tender—not dry, tasteless, and tough. Rare venison steaks are not recommended, unless they come from an unusually prime animal.

Venison steaks are prepared much the same as beef, except they are usually cooked more slowly and longer to tenderize the muscular tissues. They are cut about an inch thick and broiled, or, if cut thinner, they may be pan fried.

Another way to cook venison is

Ready-Mixed Spray Is Recommended For Dormant Fruit Trees

Ready-mixed spray materials are recommended for dormant fruit trees, according to L. C. Gibbs, state extension horticulturist.

Oil emulsion and concentrated lime-sulphur can be purchased in gallon cans carrying directions for diluting, Gibbs said. One to two gallons of diluted mixture is needed for each tree. The cost of these materials will range from 5 to 10 cents a tree for the oil emulsion spray and from 12 to 25 cents for the lime sulphur spray.

cent of the wheat, and 94 per cent of the oats are normally stored. According to USDA estimates insects cause the loss of at least 5 per cent of stored grain and cereal products every year. That's 1945 prices—insects destroy over $350 million dollars worth of stored grains annually, and and mice account for another $20 million worth.

Are you counting the days to Christmas? There's nothing comparable to the warmth of Christmas feeling. Second best perhaps is the feeling when you have the money to make dreams come true for you and your family. The most efficient and sure way to build up a healthy backlog of savings is through your company's Payroll Savings Plan for buying United States Savings Bonds or your bank's Bond-A-Month Plan. Every extra savings bond you add to your bond holdings is one more powerful stride toward security. The best Christmas gift you can give your family is to start a 10-year plan of automatic monthly bond buying. For example, your investment of $18.75 a month in a savings bond every month until Christmas, 1957, will result in a nest egg of $2,498.94.

He's Looking into Your Future

The scientist in the agricultural laboratory is as truly a pioneer as our grandfathers who fought their way westward to the rich farmlands and the broad ranges of the west. He's looking into your future... seeing greater things!

Miracles like hybrid corn seldom happen by chance. Into its development went more than 80 years of patient research. It cost federal and state governments about ten million dollars. Experiments on individual farms cost unknown amounts.

There are similar thrilling stories being written in every phase of agriculture. Many of the new developments come from colleges and experiment stations (largely financed by taxes paid by individuals and business) or from laboratories supported by private industry.

pests, parasites and diseases, and many another aid to production. The man who keeps abreast of scientific progress and applies it on his farm or ranch usually profits most.

Swift & Company, for many years, has engaged in extensive research on agricultural products. It enables us to develop new products; to improve existing ones; to produce better nourishment for your family, your livestock and your crops.

Track Down the Facts

Old Ringtail, the raccoon, holes up in hollow trees. He's hard to track down without trained 'coon dogs... similarly, there are some hard-to-locate facts about any business. But no one needs any special 'fact hunting' ability to get all the facts about what determines livestock prices.

3 tablespoons chopped pimento

From the Editor's Notebook

Since the days of the Pilgrim fathers, Thanksgiving has been a heart-warming day for American families. This year we, more than any other nation, have cause to be thankful for an abundant harvest.

If you plan to visit the International Livestock Show in Chicago, November 29 to December 6, plan also to visit us at Swift & Company.

Producers who attend the International Livestock Show, particularly those who come in from distant points, will quickly realize why the livestock-meat industry needs nationwide meat packers, like Swift & Company.

Size of Business

by J. L. Tennant, Rhode Island State College

A farm business should be large enough to pay operating costs, interest on the investment, and family living expenses. A southern New England dairy farm, for example, should have at least 18 cows per man; a poultry farm, 1,500 layers; a market-garden farm, 10 acres; a potato farm, 40 acres; and an apple farm, 20 acres.

If more crop land cannot be bought, perhaps it can be rented. Another plan is to check means by which crop production on present acreage can be increased.

He's Looking into Your Future

The scientist in the agricultural laboratory is as truly a pioneer as our grandfathers who fought their way westward to the rich farmlands and the road ranges of the west. He's looking into your future... seeing greater things! His findings, put to use by practical livestock men and farmers, are resulting in thrifter, faster-gaining cattle and lambs, grazing the Great Plains... higher yielding crops enriching the Corn Belt... new immunity from disease for your livestock. He is pioneering a better and more abundant life for you through new markets for your output, improved products for you to sell.
Miracles like hybrid corn seldom happen by chance. Into its development went more than 20 years of patient research. It cost federal and state governments about ten million dollars. Experiments on individual farms cost unknown amounts. But last year alone hybrid corn added more than $750,000,000 to farm income. Thanks to research, we now have such chemicals as DDT. Chemists searching for an insecticide to protect our armed forces from malarial mosquitoes found this potent bug killer. Already, DDT has made livestock producers many extra millions through increased production of meat and milk from fly-free herds. One ranch reports an extra ton of beef for every pound of DDT used. What a return on a half-dollar investment!
There are similar thrilling stories being written every phase of agriculture. Many of the new developments come from colleges and experiment stations (largely financed by taxes paid by individuals and business) or from laboratories supported by private industry. From them you get improved varieties of crops, better control of pests, parasites and diseases, and many another aid to production. The man who keeps abreast of scientific progress and applies it on his farm or ranch usually profits most. Your county agent, vocational agricultural teachers and farm and ranch publications are your helpers to keep you abreast of latest research information.

Swift & Company, for many years, has engaged in extensive research on agricultural products. It enables us to develop new products; to improve existing ones; to produce better nourishment for your family, your livestock and your crops.

OUR CITY COUSIN
Old Tom heard City Cousin say—
"What a meal for our Thanksgiving day!"
Track Down the Facts
Old Ringtail, the racoon, holes up in hollow trees. He's hard to track down without trained 'coon dogs... similarly, there are some hard-to-locate facts about any business. But no one needs any special "fact hunting" ability to get all the facts about what determines livestock prices.
A recent top price for beef steers on a midwest market was $35, with an average of near $30; best lambs, $23.50, average $23, and hogs were selling up to $30, with a $27 average. These prices for livestock are unusual but, in general, they are due to the demand for meats being greater than the supply. They reflect what the consumer is willing and able to pay for meats. All farmers and ranchers should remember these basic facts, whether prices are high or low. The price producers receive for their livestock is governed by what the packer can get for the meat and the by-products.

From the Editor's Notebook

Since the days of the Pilgrim fathers, Thanksgiving has been a heart-warming day for American families. This year we are more than any other nation, have cause to be thankful for an abundant harvest. In helping to feed America, we are thankful that we can add our efforts to those of the hard working farm and ranch families who produce our food.

If you plan to visit the International Livestock Show in Chicago, November 29 to December 6, plan also to visit us at Swift & Company. Competent guides will gladly show you along the Visitor's Route through our plant. All of us in the Agricultural Research Department cordially invite you to drop in for a chat. We'll be looking for you!

Producers who attend the International Livestock Show, particularly those who come in from distant points, will quickly realize why the livestock-meat industry needs nationwide meat packers, like Swift & Company. Two-thirds of the nation's livestock is produced west of the Mississippi River, but two-thirds of the meat is eaten east of the Mississippi. This means that, on the average, there is a gap of more than 1,000 miles between major producing areas and major consuming centers. There has to be somebody to bring the producer and the consumer together. Helping to bridge that gap between the western range and the kitchen range efficiently and economically is one of the chief services performed by Swift. F.M. Simpson, Agricultural Research Department

by J. L. Tennant
Rhode Island State College

A farm business should be large enough to pay operating costs, interest on the investment, and family living expenses. A southern New England dairy farm, for example, should have at least 18 cows per man; a poultry farm, 1,500 layers; a market-garden farm, 10 acres; a potato farm, 40 acres; and an apple farm, 20 acres.
Doing more business with the same capital investment is one way to lower costs and higher profits. With the larger business, the operator can spend more of his time at productive work. For example, workers on a dairy farm with 9 to 10 cows per man will be just as busy as on a farm with 15 to 18 cows per man. The gross sales and net income on the larger operation will be much higher because more of the time is used in producing milk. Reducing costs per unit puts the farm operator in a stronger competitive position.
If more crop land cannot be bought, perhaps it can be rented. Another plan is to check means by which crop production on present acreage can be increased. Ways to do this include: the use of lime and fertilizer; winter cover crops; higher yielding varieties; double cropping; drainage and terracing.
Another step toward efficiency is to install modern equipment which enables one person to produce more per hour. Overhead costs per unit of product can be lowered when each machine is used profitably for as many hours as possible.

Cows in Dairy Herd Improvement Association herds in the United States established another new high record in 1946 by producing an average of 8635 pounds of milk and 349 pounds of butterfat per cow. The previous high record was established in 1945, when the average production of association cows was 8592 pounds of milk and 346 pounds of butterfat.

These high-producing association herds were not quickly developed. Over the years, association members have brought their herds to the present high level of production by following three simple, but basic practices. They have used the association records on their herds to cull low-producing, unprofitable cows, feed the remaining cows according to their individual milking ability, and select the best animals in their herds as breeding stock for the inheritance of their future herds for high-producing capacity. And those principles all add up to more profit for DHIA members.

Selling Of Cull Livestock Now Pays Two Ways

Removing unproductive, inefficient livestock from a herd is good business at any time, but is especially desirable and profitable under 1947 conditions. That is why close culling of livestock is strongly recommended this fall by Extension Service livestock specialists and other authorities.

Livestock producers who carefully select unprofitable animals and sell them profit two ways. The cull animals they sell at unusually favorable market prices, and more high-priced grain is made available for feeding the more efficient animals remaining in the herd.

Several factors are important in selecting cull animals. Culling should include crippled, diseased and poor-quality animals, and unproductive stock. In the breeding herd, it is desirable to cull cows that have missed calving for one or two years; they are likely to be fat and bring more money when sold. Dairy cows that produce less than the herd average are worth more when sold than when kept as "boarders." Sows which have farrowed small litters are not paying their share of the cost of feed and care. Hens that have stopped laying and are getting fat are robbing the flock of a profit. As a rule, it pays to cull animals that are passing their period of usefulness because of age, and to replace them with younger stock.

Rigid culling will allow farmers to feed more generously animals that are able to return a profit for the feed given them. However, under present conditions, even the best of animals should not be fed to grade higher than "good," as the extra finish requires too much grain. Young and pregnant animals will have more feed at the time when their nutrition needs are most critical, helping to insure better, heavier calves, lambs or pigs next year.

Culling also will aid the improvement of permanent pastures. With unproductive animals eliminated, proper stocking of pastures and ranges is encouraged so that livestock operators will be in better position to capitalize on the use of better grazing in the future.

Another major advantage of culling stressed by livestock authorities is that it will help to reduce the hazard of continued large livestock inventories. They urge the elimination, now, of many animals which have been kept in the herd in the past because of the general uptrend in prices.

For these reasons, close culling is recommended this fall as one of the important steps in the good management and feeding, which will help to solve the problem of scarce and high-priced grains. Other practical methods of saving and using grains efficiently will be discussed in future articles of this series.

More Than 300 Plan To Attend Cattle Meeting

More than 300 state ranchers are planning to attend the fourth quarterly meeting of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association in Hot Springs Dec. 8-9, according to George A. Godfrey, Animas, president. While the number in attendance is only a small percentage of the organization's total membership of 4200, they will represent every county in New Mexico, Godfrey said.

Dr. John R. Nichols, recently elected president of New Mexico A. & M. College, and Dr. H. R. Varney, state director of extension, will appear on the meeting program along with several other state agricultural leaders.

Ed James, Chloride, one of the few remaining pioneer charter members of the organization will appear as a feature speaker on the convention program, Godfrey said.

G. W. Evans, Magdalena, vice president of the association and state senator from Socorro County, will serve as chairman of the resolutions committee during the meeting, Godfrey announced.

The Sierra County Sheriff's Pose and the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce are arranging a banquet and dance for visiting stockmen for the evening of Dec. 8, and arrangements are under way for a delegation to visit Carrie Tingley Hospital.

The organization is expected to act on several important bills now pending in the Congress which deal with agriculture, livestock, and public land management, Godfrey said.

BEEF CATTLE FEEDERS CAN SAVE GRAIN

Cattle feeders who are fattening cattle for the market can save grain by feeding their animals less grain and more hay. That is what feeders at the North Carolina Experiment Station found as a result of some experiments that were completed recently. The experiments were designed to see how much concentrate feed could be saved by varying the amount of hay and grain fed to beef animals.

The experimenters fed yearling steers on varying amounts of lespeza hay and barley with a small amount of protein supplement. They found that reducing the amount of barley to two-thirds of a full grain ration produced the best results in the saving of grain when the grade of carcass was considered.

New Method Devised For Treating Posts

A new method of treating fence posts and freshly sawed green lumber has been originated at the Lake States forest experiment station. This procedure, the "dry salting" method, consists of applying a mixture of copper sulphate and sodium bicarbonate in powder form to the surface of freshly peeled green posts and freshly sawed green lumber.

The mixture of these chemicals dissolves in a humid atmosphere and clings to the surface of moist posts and lumber when applied as a powder.

The method results in deep penetration of the preservative which appears to be firmly fixed in the wood so that it is not readily leached out. A definite advantage of this process over any other now available is that treatment can be concentrated at the ground line and top where more protection against decay is needed. The resulting posts have an attractive blue color which is not readily leached out, and tests indicate that the preservative is relatively noncorrosive to staples and wire.

Drawing shows method of installing section of vitrified clay pipe for use as storage pit for fruit, eggs, milk and vegetables. Note that bell rests on bricks. Spigot end should protrude above ground two inches so dirt fill will slope away from opening. At bottom is layer of coarse drainage material. Top opening covered with gravel screen or with wood or metal lid.

Small Amount of Salt Needed by All Pigs

After several years of tests, the Missouri experiment station has found that hogs having free access to salt consume an average of only a fraction of an ounce per head daily. However, this small amount of salt caused these hogs to make much faster gains than hogs fed a similar ration without salt. The tests indicated that the best way to feed the salt is free choice in mineral mixture.

Medicated Poultry Mash Is Effective

Government Trials Show Remedy Deworms Flock

Use of a medicated mash containing nicotine-phenothiazine has proved effective in deworming poultry. It was shown in trials conducted by the department of agriculture.

In the government trials, two kinds of worms (cecal and round) were checked and kept at a low level by using a medicated mash containing nicotine, bentonite (a clay-

Roundworm parasites from small intestines of a chicken. (like substance) and phenothiazine in ordinary poultry mash. Says the government report:

"Under experimental conditions the treatment expelled approximately 99 per cent of the two kinds of worms. Under field conditions, the feeding of this medicated mash to chickens for three consecutive days, at intervals of three weeks, maintained a low level of parasitism in the treated birds.

"Fifteen grams of 40 per cent nicotine sulfate solution were combined with 151 grams of phenothiazine and 287 grams of nicotine bentonite in 44 pounds of ordinary chick mash."

"This combination of nicotine, bentonite and phenothiazine has been found effective in research carried on by private organizations, and there are products on the market of essentially the same composition as that used by the agriculture department.

Priorities Are Being Applied To Practices

Many state PMA committees and state technical committees which work with them in selecting farm practices to meet the conservation needs of the state have taken a practical and realistic view of adjustments needed in the 1948 Agricultural Conservation Program, because of the prospective cut in funds, according to Allen W. Manchester, head of PMA's Agricultural Conservation Programs Branch.

To make conservation funds go as far as possible in getting the conservation job done, many committees have listed practices on a first, second, and third-choice basis. Those practices most urgently needed and which will result in the greatest conservation for each dollar spent head the list. Other practices—not so urgently needed or which have been adopted rather generally—are not given as much emphasis, and funds for assistance have been cut down. In some instances practices have been dropped.

In a number of Western states, protected summer fallow on wheatland has been left off the list. In others it has been incorporated as a supporting practice. For instance, in some states protected summer fallow is a part of the strip-cropping or contour seeding practices. No payment is made on the protected summer fallow but it is required as a condition to earning a payment on the strip-cropping.

Under the 1948 program some states will not offer assistance for the application of phosphate, not because the application is not excellent and needed conservation practice but because it is believed that available funds will get more conservation if used on other practices. These might include erosion control dams, terraces, contour farming, reorganization of the farm irrigation system, and the establishing of sod waterways.

Motor Oils And Greases Prevent Rust On Plows

If having trouble with rust on plows, give them good protection by using rust preventive compounds, usually petroleum oils or greases, says Dallas, Rierson, county agent.

These compounds may be special rust-proofing oils, heavy non-drying coatings, or hard-drying compounds. When selected for the job and applied according to directions, they give good protection from 9 to 12 months. Tests made with rust preventives on plow bottoms that had been exposed to the weather gave the following data:

Crankcase and transmission oil prevented rusting from 7 to 30 days.

Axle grease and pressure gun grease prevented rusting from 60 to 90 days.

Five samples of rust preventive compounds prevented rusting for 276 days. These would give unlimited protection to machinery under cover.

Nine samples of rust preventive compounds prevented rusting for 365 days or more.

Liquid rust preventives can be sprayed or brushed on metal parts and will prevent rusting six months on machinery standing outside and for a year or more on machinery stored under cover.

Soft grease type of rust preventives, when brushed on metal surfaces, will prevent their rusting for 10 to 12 months on machinery stored outside and for an indefinite period when stored under cover.

State College Prexy Appoints Feed Committee

A state livestock feed committee, to serve during the present emergency of the grain-saving program, was appointed by Dr. John R. Nichols, president of New Mexico A. & M. College, at the request of Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson.

E. E. Anderson, extension dairy and poultry specialist, was named chairman of the committee. Other members include J. H. Knox, State College, head of animal husbandry and nutrition chemist of the State Experiment Station; W. R. Ludwick, State College, deputy in charge of feed and fertilizer control; Arthur Ravel, Albuquerque, president of the New Mexico Grain & Feed Dealers Association; George Godfrey, Animas, president of the New Mexico Wool Growers Association;

Delmar Roberts, president New Mexico Farm Livestock Bureau; J. M. Los Lunas, president of the Mexico State Dairy Association and J. R. Clarke, Albuquerque, president New Mexico State Dairy Association.

The committee will meet to determine what programs feed conservation can be set up in New Mexico, E. E. Anderson said.

From where I sit... by Joe Mars

Ed Carey is Sky-High!

Ed Carey got his pilot's license Saturday—the first farmer in our town to fly his own plane.

But as Ed says, getting his license doesn't put him on his own. His plane is subject to a periodic inspection, just as Ed himself is subject to strict flying regulations. And if either plane or pilot violates the rules they're simply "grounded" immediately.

He was talking about it to Andy Botkin, who owns and runs the Garden Tavern. And as Andy says, it's the same with folks who sell beer. Getting a license doesn't get them on their own. The brew check to see that they and the taverns are a credit to the industry and the community.

So far I haven't heard of many tavern keepers being "grounded" and from where I sit, it's because of that program of "Self Regulation" by which the licensed tavern keeper, just like the licensed pilot, becomes part of a program healthy control.

Spanning Canyon Diablo

Another new bridge on the Santa Fe

A new double-track steel bridge now spans Canyon Diablo (a giant gash 225 feet deep in the tableland of northern Arizona) on the main line of the Santa Fe between Chicago and California.

This new bridge, which replaces the old single-track viaduct, is 544 feet long, 32 feet wide at track level, and contains over 2,000 tons of structural steel.

The heaviest trains can cross it in both directions at once, and it's built to handle anything in rail traffic the future may bring.

Canyon Diablo Bridge is just a part of Santa Fe's continuing program of improvements—typical of the Santa Fe spirit of progress and initiative—to provide Santa Fe passengers with smoother riding, and Santa Fe shippers with more efficient freight handling. It is another good reason for traveling or shipping "Santa Fe—all the way."

Coach Kenneth Lance Considers Bullpups' Season Successful

By Ed Murdock
—Artesia Hi Beacon

The Bullpups journeyed to Carlsbad for their first game this year, but returned home on the short end of a 24-12 score. Although the team's play was spotty, they put on a good airshow, with Ronald Dublin tossing, and Morgan and Foster receiving. Roswell's "B" squad fell before the Pups the following week to the tune of a 13-0 defeat. Again Artesia showed a strong pass offense, but their ground attack was a little weak. Malone plunged the first touchdown over in the first quarter and took a pass from Dublin for the second. Boyce Cauble's "educated toe" made the second conversion good.

The "B" squad went to Hobbs for the next game, but were stopped in their tracks by what seemed to be an overpowering "B" squad. Upon investigation, Coach Lance discovered that some of the Hobbs varsity were playing. The game was forfeited at the half, and the boys returned home badly bruised by the beating they had taken from the older and more experienced Eagles.

Ruidoso's varsity proved to be too much for the youngsters of A. H. S. The Pups fell before the "mountainmen" by the score of 25-13.

The game was played in the afternoon and the boys were home in time to play the last half of a varsity game against Clouderoft that night. Four plays after the second half started, Ronald Dublin completed a pass to Kenneth Foster for six points.

After two consecutive losses, the Pups staged a comeback against the Carlsbad "Dawgs" to defeat them by the narrow margin of a conversion, 7-6, kicked by Boyce Cauble. Both team's scores were made in the second quarter. Barry Woods took a pass from Ronald Dublin and sprinted 24 yards for the Artesia tally.

The Ruidoso varsity handed the pups their worst defeat of the year in a 40-6 rout. A strong wind kept the Artesia boys from using their pass attack.

The N.M.M.I. Ponies threw the Pups for another loss the following week in a 6-0 bout. A strong wind again interfered with the Bullpups' offense.

In the last game of the season the Pups made their best showing of the year by defeating the Roswell "B" team, 19-6. Two of Ronald Dublin's passes were complete for touchdowns. The third score was made by fullback Boyce Cauble.

There were 38 members on the "B" squad this year. Coach Kenneth Lance reports that all 38 will receive school letters practice just before the Roswell game. Dan was a long, lean and lanky end who was a pass snagger deluxe. On the "B" squad, Tommy Cover was playing a fine game at the guard position when he received an injury which put him out the rest of the season.

highest standing in science studies. The winner in each school is eligible to compete for one of the Bausch and Lomb scholarships. At present, there are 18 holders of these scholarships studying physics, chemistry, biology, or other sciences at the University of Rochester.

In May, 1948, about 20 winners of the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award who will have completed their applications for the Bausch and Lomb Scholarships will be guests of the University and of Bausch and Lomb Optical Company for two days of tests and interviews. From this group of finalists, the Scholarship Committee of the University of Rochester will select five winners of the 1948 Bausch and Lomb Science Scholarships.

Upon request, Mr. Green will give further details on the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award.

Our great scientific and industrial achievements that hastened the conclusion of World War II have stimulated widespread interest in the future of science and its peacetime applications. Moreover, Dr. Vannevar Bush, in his report, "Science, the Endless Frontier," states that the need for scientists is more than twice as great today as before the war. The purpose of the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award program is to interest more talented young students in the great opportunities for service and advancement that scientific careers offer, as a means of helping the nation to fill its need in that field.
