Newspaper Week

ALONG IN OCTOBER the nation will again be requested to join in the observance of "National Newspaper Week."

During this week tribute will be paid to the press of America from the largest metropolitan daily to the smallest country weekly for their work and efforts in behalf of the communities.

The freedom of the press will be emphasized. And yet that so-called freedom of the press is jeopardized every day in every week of the year.

It is jeopardized by those very people, who will be listening to talks in civic groups and applauding the papers.

Newspapers, of course, are managed by individuals and all individuals make errors and mistakes. And newspapers can no more please all of their subscribers or their advertisers when they express their views and their opinions than any other individual. The fact is that no newspaper, which voices and expresses its opinions, endeavors to please its readers.

It can't and voice its own opinions because the opinions of those readers are almost as varied as the individuals themselves.

But it is always interesting, even if unpleasant, to have someone threaten the press if they print this or that story. They threaten by declaring they will stop or halt their advertising if they print such a story or if they voice such an opinion.

The non-advertisers and subscribers threaten to cancel their subscriptions.

Such threats, of course, are more or less common to the average newspaper editor or publisher. He isn't going to be bluffed into changing his views or his ideas or his opinions merely because someone threatens him.

He will doubtless be more determined than ever to voice his opinion if and when these threats occur.

We are only mentioning this in connection with a discussion of the freedom of the press. We are always hearing about censorship by the government and efforts to withhold news or information. This, of course, is done by some governments. Sometimes it is done by our own government.

Yet there is always present this hometown effort to gag the press or to prevent the publication of news items or editorial opinions.

And we presume that this practice will continue. And the unfortunate part is that those individuals, who threaten to take their business away from the paper if it doesn't do as those individuals want it to do, are the same persons who always are very much concerned about the freedom of the American press.

But most newspapers go right ahead with the job they have and try to do the best job they can under the circumstances. And we are sure they will continue along these same lines in the weeks and the months ahead.

Right or wrong they continue to voice their opinions—the real exercising of the American privilege of freedom of speech and the freedom of the press.—O.E.P.

Opportunities Now

IF THERE WAS EVER A TIME for an employe, who has some ability and who desires to get ahead with their employer, now, we believe, is the time.

The complaint concerning employes lacking many of the qualities, which an employer desires, are heard over a wide area. Not only are complaints registered about the "I don't care attitude," but also against the attitude of indifference and the lack of dependability.

Employers are crying for good, loyal, dependable workers, who will do the job they agree to do and for the pay for which they agreed to work.

There are, of course, scores of such employes. There are many today doing an outstanding job, producing, and winning approval of their bosses and also receiving increases in pay.

There are employes giving their best to their jobs and winning promotions because they are doing a good job. They are not only concerned about their firm and their work but they want others to do the same thing. There are employes, who forget themselves at their work and who are dependable and loyal.

They do not walk out without giving notice; they will not leave on a trip either for pleasure or business, unless there is someone to do their work.

They are willing to do their jobs and more too. But what employers declare they need is more employes of this type and description. They feel there are far too many, who do not care and who are only interested in their pay and in their hours.

Certainly all employes want good pay and they want reasonable hours and they can demand and get these. But on the other hand the employer deserves a little consideration, too. He deserves dependable employes, who are willing to do the job they agreed to do when they came to work.

And there are plenty of jobs right here in Artesia available to those, who want to do and give a little more and who want to give a dollar's worth of work for every dollar they are paid.

Developing a dependable attitude toward the job and producing to the best of our ability will win us promotions and a good reputation and in the final analysis will result in us having a better job.—O.E.P.

Full Steam Ahead

WHEN THE OLD JALOPE runs well it is given a little thought. With the tank full of gas and an occasional lick and a promise by way of keeping it in tune and a change of oil from time to time, we are prone to take it in our stride.

So it is with a newspaper. As long as the thing runs, we give it little thought, allowing each working part—human or mechanical—to do its part. Occasionally some little thing will go wrong with a piece of machinery, so it gets the lick and promise and all goes well again.

Sometimes, however, a human part gets out of gear or, as in the recent experience of The Advocate, gets way off the beam and drops off.

Then for several weeks, when that happened, The Advocate ran just like a jalope with a couple of plugs laying out, the timing way off, and the clutch slipping.

But we are happy to report that the missing part has been replaced—a part which is well engineered for the job, a part which knows what it is doing, and a part which has the old newspaper again running smoothly.

Of course, it will take a few days to make up for the lost motion, but we are pleased to say we are a happy and well-working machine again—A.L.B.

It's Everybody's Baby

PERHAPS SOME PEOPLE do not realize how fortunate Artesia is in having the U. S. Navy Band booked to play here Oct. 9. And few know what a bite the Lions Club has taken in sponsoring the band's appearance here.

It is true that the Lions Club would like to make a little money out of the endeavor, but it was more by way of doing a public service than as a money-making scheme that the Lions took on the task of meeting a "nut" of more than $2000 for two performances in one day.

The engagement should need no promotion, for undoubtedly the Navy Band is the greatest attraction ever brought to Artesia, an organization such as few cities of this size ever have had or ever will, and everyone for many miles around should be anxious to attend one or both of the performances.

But it will need some promotion, for many people do not realize just what is in store, how splendid a musical organization the Navy Band is, or how much enjoyment one will derive from the band. A knowledge of music will not be needed to appreciate the band, for it is not a "long-hair" outfit, even though the evening program will be made up of great music.

The Lions cannot carry the entire burden of making the engagement a success, although they are willing to try. And they should not be permitted to carry the whole load. Every other organization, civic, church, fraternal, youth, or otherwise—should do all in their power to assist—and then give the Lions credit for a good job well done.—A.L.B.

Worth The Price

THE EFFORTS HERE of local food handlers to follow a definite health code and to follow all sanitary rules and regulations is one which deserves the commendation of the entire community.

Oftentimes it appears that to follow suggestions for sanitation is rather an expensive matter, but anything invested in safeguarding the health of our citizens is money well spent.

It is true, of course, that we have gone and do go along following all practices and seemingly nothing happens. Yet just why we should want to take chances when it can prove extremely expensive if an epidemic should get underway is always a little difficult to understand.

Artesia has always taken the lead in attempting to spray garbage cans and in endeavoring to free the city of flies. It has conducted its campaign to demand that all garbage cans have lids on them. And good results have been secured from this.

In other ways, however, we have taken many chances and as a result have exposed ourselves to various diseases, which come from filth and dirt.

We might be able to continue to do this indefinitely and escape any epidemic. But during the summer months we know there are many dangers lurking here and there. We know that polio works during the hot seasons. And we know that we should employ and use every bit of knowledge we have to prevent this disease or any other disease getting started.

Health is not something with which we can afford to gamble and neither can we ignore health regulations indefinitely and expect to escape from an epidemic.

The wise course to follow is one of sanitation. We must watch our water supply and see that it is properly chlorinated; we must make our cafes and restaurants and those places serving the public foods of any kinds as clean and sanitary as possible.

It is always far easier to halt or prevent an epidemic than it is to stop one after it gets started.

Artesia, we feel, has taken a real step forward in adopting and seeking to follow the health code for food handlers. And we know that Artesia can be counted upon to take and employ every precaution to carry out a sanitation program for the entire city.—O.E.P.

As Artesia Grows

TWENTY YEARS AGO
(From The Advocate files for Sept. 27, 1928)

Showers, mists, and fogs continue throughout the latter part of the month and thus this section retains its reputation as a wet country. The rains have interfered with the cotton picking operations, but have not seriously damaged the staple let. The ranges are in the best condition known here for the last 15 or 20 years. The grass is plentiful, but there is little stock to eat it.

Clarence Conner who has a position as a bookkeeper with the Star Lumber Company in Albuquerque, visited his home-folks last week.

The Eastern Star will hold its annual picnic Friday evening in their hall. All members of the Eastern Star and their families are invited to attend and to bring well-filled baskets.

The local high football team will stack up against Carlsbad high school on Friday afternoon. Originally the team was in Pecos this week, but Pecos cancelled the game. Arrangements were immediately made to play Carlsbad. As this is the th first home game, it will be a big show-off for the Bulldogs.

If you hear the fire siren at 12 o'clock from this date on don't get excited; it's only eating time. Starting today the siren will be blown each day at noon.

TEN YEARS AGO
(From The Advocate files for Sept. 22, 1938)

Total of 120 New Mexico big game hunters are going to be disappointed because they will be unable to get a permit to hunt buck antelope. Just how many of the 120 hunters denied the permits are Artesians and Eddy County men could not be learned.

The Bulldogs of Artesia High School will experience their first season under fire for the 1938 season Friday afternoon, when they invade Fort Sumner for the initial football game of the season.

Enrollment in Eddy County rural schools up to the end of last week totaled 1062 pupils, about 100 more than last year at the same time, with an expected increase of more than 600 at the end of cotton season, a check-up showed.

Mr. and Mrs. Buford Gray, Miss Ina Cole, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cole and children drove to Clovis Sunday, where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cole for a visit to Conchas and Alamogordo Dams.

Albert Richards is able to be out for a short period each day, after returning Saturday from a Carlsbad hospital, where he was taken earlier in the week in a cri-

Tuesday from Buckeye, where she had spent 10 days visiting her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Standard, who brought her home. Clifford Standard, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Standard of the Empire Camp, and Miss Laura Fowler of McCamey, Texas, were married at Rankin, Texas, Wednesday, Sept. 1. A justice of the peace performed the ceremony. Mr. Standard spent some time in the U.S. Army and is now employed at McCamey, where the newlyweds plan to make their home. Mr. Standard is a brother of Mozelle and Rex Standard, a nephew of R. B. Standard and a grandson of "Grandma" Standard.

Forest Fire Damage Is On Increase In Entire United States

The foresters of the United States Department of Agriculture hope the public will have better luck with fire in the woods this year than last, when the number of forest fires went up to more than 200,000, compared with 172,000 in 1946.

Last year's forest fires cost the nation more than 55 million dollars, nearly enough money to pay the national share of the school lunch program. Damage from the Maine forest fire disaster alone was 13 million dollars.

Many parts of the United States are now in the most dangerous forest fire season of the entire year. That's especially true in the West, where it doesn't rain much in summer. The forest floor dries out and stays dry until snow falls. Foresters say the number of fires (for the remainder of this season) will depend heavily on how well vacationists co-operate—vacationists and other folks who'll be smoking and camping in the woods.

Strong Passion For Liberty Is Asked of A.A.U.W. By Sharpe

"Let us have as strong a passion for liberty as we have for equality, so that our educational system can be improved and that the good of the past be appreciated and the unknown path of the future be hedged in on both sides by liberty and overarched by responsibility," Luther E. Sharpe, secretary manager of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce appealed Saturday afternoon, when he spoke at the opening program of the Artesia branch of the American Association of University Women.

The program was held at the Veterans Memorial Building, after a 1 o'clock luncheon.

The speaker said it is easier to applaud education than to define it, as one is always hazy about the exact benefits of an education. However, he added, education does serve valuable ends in the democracy.

The objects of an education, Manager Sharpe said, from a practical point of view, should enable one to do his work well, for only that person who does his work well has any sense of social obligation. The chamber manager told the university and college women that history of education stems from the philosophy of Jesus in placing the child at the center of life, and universal education has stemmed only from those nations in which the principles of religion have been recognized and carried through.

But education has been divorced from religion, he said, which he declared is as it should be, for a separation of state and church is essential to the preservation of the republic and the continuation of the democratic way of life.

Touching on universal education in the United States, Manager Sharpe said it was set up and has been continued because the forefathers set up certain checks and balances to insure the purest form of democracy.

However, he said, the nation is under heavy attack from within by a subtle form of governmental influence. This trend of government big business is seen in the present bill in Congress known as the Federal Aid to Education Bill, which Manager Sharpe said has many followers who are anxious for the federal government to pay the bills, who forget that he who pays the bills will sooner or later run the business.

The speaker asked the association members to analyze carefully and discuss dispassionately the federal aid bill to education and to think through and see if more danger might not be done by its passage than by its defeat.

Manager Sharpe suggested that in order to implement the fine work being done by the school authorities in Artesia, the local branch of the A.A.U.W. might investigate at the proper sources the need for a full-time counselor among the junior and senior high school students.

The A.A.U.W. will hold its next meeting Saturday at the Veterans Memorial Building.

Early Fall Is Good Time To Kill Out Weeds

Early fall is a good time of year to kill weeds in lawns, pastures, and grain fields, say Gordon B. Hoff, extension agronomist, at New Mexico A. & M. College.

In other seasons, it's hard to reseed the barren spots left by killing out the weeds in the lawn, and as a result, weedy grasses invade the lawn and establish themselves so that they cannot be controlled by 2, 4-D, Hoff explains. Therefore, lawn weeds can be easily controlled in the autumn, the season that is most favorable to the growth of lawn grass. The bare areas that result from killing the weeds may be replanted to grass, within two weeks or a month after the areas have been treated.

Hoff warns that new lawns should not be sprayed, as grass seedlings are easily killed by 2, 4-D.

The agronomist points out that weeds which have been clipped in pastures or grain fields are also ripe for treatment with 2, 4-D at this time of year.

As the weeds recover and make new growth, they'll be ready for 2, 4-D treatment when they reach a height of 10 to 12 inches, Hoff says. At this stage, a good kill can be made with a spray using one to one and a half pounds of parent 2, 4-D acid to the acre.

Chemical Treatment Of Small Grain Seeds Is Advised By Rierson

Chemical treatment of small grain seeds for fall planting will improve stands and control several seed-borne diseases, County Agent Dallas Rierson advises.

The agent says that treatment of oats, wheat, and barley seed at least a week before planting will control smut, seedling blight of oats, covered smut, stripe and seedling blights of barley, and stinking smut and seedling blight of wheat. Loose smuts of wheat and one of the loose smuts of barley cannot be controlled by chemical treatment, however.

Rierson recommends that seed be treated with new improved ceresan, at the rate of one-half ounce to a bushel. Care should be taken not to inhale the dust and to insure that all unused treated seed is burned or buried, he warns, as the treatment substance is poisonous to both animals and humans.

Consumers And Farmers Benefit By Price Support

Consumers as well as farmers benefit from the price support and soil and water conservation programs administered by farmer-elected committees in every agricultural county in the United States.

William B. Crawley, assistant administrator for production and acting director of the Agricultural Conservation Programs Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration, backed up this assertion by showing how both consumer and farmer gain from these programs. He said there is a mistaken idea that price supports are responsible for high prices.

He pointed out that parity—the base for determining price supports—is tied to the prices of things the farmers as well as other consumers have to buy. When the prices of these things go up, the parity level goes up with them, but not ahead of them. Price supports for most supported commodities is 90 per cent of parity, which is 40 per cent below an even break. A number of commodities produced on the farm are not supported. Beef is one. Lamb is another. Then the prices of many commodities are above support levels and therefore are not affected. The commodities supported are among the better buys at the grocery store. He called attention also to the spread between what the farmer gets and what the consumer has to pay and said that in many instances if the farmer got nothing the consumer still would have to pay a fairly high price.

On the other hand, with farmers protected from price collapse they have not been afraid to produce abundantly. Consumers have gained from this abundance. Abundant production has prevented prices of farm products from going even higher.

Farm Storage Is Good Business, Says Hemphill

Providing enough farm storage to take care of the grain crop is good business—both for the farmer and for the country—says C. V. Hemphill, chairman of the New Mexico Production and Marketing Administration committee. For the farmer it means stabilizing his market by not having to "dump" his crop on the market at harvest time and it means price support provisions become effective. For the country it means the saving of

Shown here is the U.S. Navy Band, "The World's Finest," which will play matinee and evening concerts on Morris Field in Artesia Saturday, Oct. 2, under the baton of Lt. Com. Charles Brendler, noted conductor. The matinee program has been selected largely for children and will be relatively light in nature, but will be enjoyable to music lovers of all ages. The evening program will consist of numbers selected from the world's "great music."

food, feed, and grain in good position and not concentrated in a few central places. This is particularly good in the case of feed grains. They don't have to be shipped into a central elevator and then shipped back again.

But this year with the record-breaking crop of grain in prospect it is essential that farmers have enough storage to take care of the crop. Every effort should be made to store as much of the crop on the farm as possible to avoid congestion and waste at country and terminal elevators.

Hemphill said every farmer who has grain to store should know price supports depend on getting the grain in to suitable storage. Loans cannot be made unless the grain is protected by adequate storage. Purchase agreements also depend for their effectiveness on proper storage because the Com-

AN IMPORTANT MILESTONE

Last week we passed the million mark in telephones.

Just a few years ago—in 1939—there were only 500,000 telephones in the seven states we serve, and it had taken us about 60 years to grow to that size.

We added the second half-million in less than ten years!

The economic development of this state has played an important part in telephone growth.

There are still unfilled orders, pending the installation of more equipment in our buildings and the extension of wire and cable facilities. Completing these orders is our number one job.

Small Farm Units Are Big Implement Buyers

Two-thirds of the one and one-half billion dollars being spent for agricultural implements this year is being expended for small one-family farms, according to a recent survey of the Anti-Friction Bearing Manufacturers association.

For the first time the small farm operator, who owns 6 per cent of the country's total farm acreage, will be the biggest customer for automatic labor-saving implements.

The low ebb of farm labor as well as the increase in farm savings has been responsible for the mechanization of the smaller farms.

One outstanding result is that by 1950, it is estimated that four million farms will produce 33 per cent more than the total production of six million farms before the war.

Plastic Lily Pond

Kerosene or plastic lily ponds make it possible for the farmer as well as the city dweller to have a lily pond without the expense of building a stone or concrete basin. The plastic pond may be emptied, folded up and brought indoors and stored during the winter months. The pond also may be used as a wading pool for children or as a duck pond.

Weevil Damage in Grain Traced to Unclean Bins

Prevention of weevil damage to the new crop is possible if the granary is cleaned and sprayed with DDT. Nearly all cases of "weevily" grain can be traced to unclean bins, according to Purdue university entomologists. Any infestation which occurs likely will come from insects which remain from year to year in the grain and can be prevented by proper cleaning.

Rev. Heffner Is New Vicar Of St. Paul's Here

REV. EDWARD HEFFNER

Rev. Edward A. Heffner, formerly of Belin, has been named vicar of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Artesia, as well as vicar of St. Christopher's Episcopal Church at Hobbs...

The new vicar succeeds Rev. Joseph H. Harvey here. He has been coming to Artesia from his home at Roswell, where he will remain. However, it was explained, because of his age, Rev. Harvey has been relieved of his duties at Artesia.

Rev. Heffner is likewise a physician and will practice at Hobbs on a part-time basis the treatment of diseases of the eye.

The new vicar was born in Texarkana, Texas, in 1910. He attended Texas A. & M. College and Texas Christian University and received his doctor of medicine degree from Tulane University in New Orleans in 1935.

Rev. Heffner was a flight surgeon during the war, in which he served six years including 20 months in the European theater.

In June, 1946, he was instrumental in the reorganization and reopening of St. Phillip's Church in Belen, in which he conducted services as lay reader of St. John's cathedral, Albuquerque.

In the principal talk of the evening on "Artesia Lions at the Present Time," Tom Mayfield, superintendent of schools, said members cannot hope to hold the Lions Club's prestige in the community on the record the club has set in the past.

He encouraged all Lions to join in putting the Navy Band's concerts over the top. This, he said, will enable the club to something of real service for the boys and girls of the community.

Besides a brisk ticket sale in Artesia, members of the club reported the sale of many tickets in other communities throughout Southeast New Mexico already.

It is expected the concerts will attract thousands of persons to Artesia, school children especially for the afternoon performance and adults for the evening.

Plans are for both concerts to be given at Morris Field, but the high school auditorium will be used should there be bad weather.

Work Of Girl Scouts Is Needed For Booth At Fair In Roswell

In order that Artesia Girl Scouts may share the recognition made possible by the procurement of a Girl Scout booth at the Eastern New Mexico State Fair in Roswell, it will be necessary for all Scout and Brownie leaders and troop members to get together an exhibit of any art and craft handiwork which they may have in their possession and get it to Mrs. V. P. Sheldon, 811 West Texas not later than Friday evening of this week.

Mrs. C. P. Bunch, local president, said. As she was not advised of the availability of the space in the booth until Monday or of the Sept. 25 deadline for entries, Mrs. Bunch said she was unable to get word to the leaders sooner.

However, she urged all Girl Scouts and Brownies who have anything which they have made in troop meetings, established camp or day camp not to wait on their leaders to contact them, but to fix the objects they wish to enter, their name, troop number, and address so they may be returned, and persons viewing them will know they are from Artesia Girl Scouts and Brownies.

It was stressed that the Testaments will be accepted on a strictly voluntary basis by the students, that there will be no attempt to influence any boy or girl into taking one.

Collection Of Eggs Frequently Saves Quality

Approximately five eggs out of each 100 produced become unfit for food as a result of quality deterioration or other causes, according to estimates by U.S. Department of Agriculture poultry marketing specialists. This 5 per cent loss has taken an annual toll of more than 233,000,000 dozen eggs in the last five years. Because a substantial portion of this annual loss can be attributed to quality deterioration on the farm, County Agent Dallas Rierison urges farmers to make constant efforts to maintain egg quality at all times and especially during the hot weather period. NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

more than 233,000,000 dozen eggs in the last five years. Because a substantial portion of this annual loss can be attributed to quality deterioration on the farm, County Agent Dallas Rierison urges farmers to make constant efforts to maintain egg quality at all times and especially during the hot weather period. Here are some pointers:

Farmers should collect eggs from nests at least three times each day during the hot weather season. Less frequent collections not only delays proper cooling of the eggs, but also results in a partly-cooled egg being left in a nest to be rewarmed by other hens using the same nest.

Eggs should be collected in wire baskets which permit the free circulation of air around every egg. This is impossible when pails, boxes or woven baskets are used. The wire basket should not be filled and should be placed in a cool, moist room for at least 24 hours after the eggs are collected and before they are packed.

A few degrees of heat make a tremendous difference in the keeping qualities of eggs. Freshly laid eggs held at 90 degrees lose as much quality in 20 hours as eggs held for three days at 70 degrees or for 24 days at 50 degrees, according to tests. Insufficient moisture in the rooms where eggs are held in temporary storage also results in serious deterioration of the original quality of the eggs. Improper temperature and moisture conditions cause evaporation of some of the water in the eggs, the thinning of egg whites, the weakening and enlargement of the yolks and enlargement of the air cells.

Eggs are properly kept in temporary storage in a humidity of 85 to 90 per cent and in temperatures within a range of 32 to 60 degrees. The lower the temperatures within these limits, the better the eggs will keep. More frequent marketing is the only answer when farm facilities do not provide either the proper temperatures or the proper humidity for temporary storage. Further, because eggs absorb odors quickly they should not be kept in places where there are strong odors such as those of onions, lemons, kerosene, or mustiness.

Autumn Is Good Time To Start Erosion Control

The place to start controlling erosion is where the erosion begins, and fall is often a good time to start, says Roy Forehand, chairman of the Eddy County Agricultural Conservation Committee. Too often control measures are started after a lot of the damage has been done. As the chairman said, "We shouldn't wait until fields are cut up with gullies before we do something about trying to stop erosion on our farms."

If muddy water is running off the farm, erosion is taking place. The first step is to determine where it is coming from and then to determine what steps should be taken to keep the land from getting away. Hillsides planted to row crops and natural waterways plowed up and taken out of sod are often the starting points, the chairman suggests.

The Agricultural Conservation Program was set up to help farmers meet these conservation problems wherever they are on the farm, says the chairman. Whatever the problem, whether erosion is getting started or already at a serious stage, there are practices to meet the most serious problems in every farming area.

Mentioning a few erosion controlling practices, the chairman points out that farming on the contour helps in many instances on hilly or sloping land. Where terraces are needed, grassed waterway outlets should be provided so that the terrace doesn't become an erosion hazard instead of control.

In many cases grass and cover crops are about the only means of keeping land from washing away. Sod crops in rotation help. But whatever the problem the big thing is to catch erosion before it gets to the gully stage. The chairman urges farmers to check their conservation problems now with the county agricultural conservation committee to take full advantage of the program for fall and winter practices.

Ground Broken For New Dorm At University

Ground has been broken for construction of the new men's dormitory at the University of New Mexico. The $1,500,000 structure is expected to be completed by September, 1949, according to President Tom L. Popejoy. It will house about 400 additional men students.

The four-floor building will include a dining room, private dining rooms for banquets, a large recreation room on the fourth

Elevator Will Serve Many Uses on Farm

Conveyors Eliminate 'Back-Breaking' Chores

Elevators are becoming as common on farms as they are in city department stores. They are, however, of a different kind—and not used for the same purposes. Unless, of course, city stores have started conveying farm produce from the sidewalk into ninth or tenth story "mows."

Farmers began to think seriously about elevators and conveyors during the last war, and they've been doing something about them ever since. Many built their own equipment. Others bought commercial models. The source matters little—it's what they can do that counts most.

All-purpose elevators, either portable or stationary, are capable of elevating to desired heights baled, chopped or loose hay, ear corn, root crops, shelled corn, ground grain and forage. Chopped hay is being elevated in the accompanying illustration.

They do these "back-breaking" chores easily, and all day long without complaining. However, before you build or buy an elevator be sure you know for what it is to be used. That knowledge will determine the size and type best suited for your needs.

Costs of operation vary somewhat, but, in general, farmers can figure on it taking from 1/10 to five kilowatt hours of power to elevate 1,000 bushels of grain with an elevator, run by a five horsepower motor.

floor for dances, ping pong, and other activities; a huge refrigerator plant which will store food for the dining hall as well as the other dining halls on campus, and study rooms in each wing of each floor.

Most of the rooms in the dorm will house two men, providing them 180 square feet of living space, said President Popejoy. The rooms will be comfortably furn-

Malaria Cases Of Vets Cured By Thousands

Thousands of veterans who contracted malaria overseas during World War II have been cured, the Veterans Administration said.

Within the next few year, the problem of relapse from war-acquired malaria will be an insignificant one, VA added.

The rate of cures is indicated by VA statistics. During June, 1947, approximately 130,000 veterans were receiving compensation for malaria incurred in service. Nine months later, in March, 1948, this number had dropped to 32,000. It is still declining.

The number of relapses also has declined—from approximately 500,000 cases infected during the war to less than 10,000 at present.

The parasite eventually "burns itself out" in human bodies if from one to three years, although some cases are known to have remained infected for as long as 20 years.

Use of drugs chloroquine, pamaquine (plasmochin), and the more recently synthesized aminoquinolines, such as pentaquine and isopentaquine, have given splendid results, VA said.

VA recognizes the necessity for thorough diagnosis of ailing veterans, especially those who served in tropical areas.

VA said it is greatly concerned about the need for increased educational facilities in the field of tropical medicine and is exerting every effort to provide greater opportunities for the training of physicians and laboratory technicians.

Alfalfa Seed Prices Are To Be Supported At Last Year's Levels

Alfalfa seed prices will be supported again this year at the same levels as last year, says an announcement of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Supports are 25 cents a pound for Northern alfalfa, 20 cents for Central, and 17 cents for Southern. New Mexico is included in the Southern group.

The support program will be carried out by the Commodity Credit Corporation through both loans and purchase agreements.

Either or both of these programs will be available to farmers from the time of harvest through Dec. 31. The loans will mature May 31, 1949, or earlier on demand. The purchase agreements will provide that the UCC will buy at support prices whatever quantity of eligible alfalfa seed a producer may elect to deliver to the Corporation during the 30-day period after the maturity of the 1948 loan.

These programs will be administered locally by county agricultural conservation committees.
