POT POURRI

Just by way of getting the record straight, now that the potpourri of date setting and changing seems to have settled down, perhaps it would be well to run a calendar here.

In the past, we have Advocated (that's a pun, son) a clearing-house for all coming events, so there will be no conflicts, with every organization urged to register dates as soon as set. But we surely had a mess this time.

The Elks signed a contract last spring for their minstrel, which was to have been Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. But before they made the dates pub-

Regardless of all other announcements, the Elks' Minstrel will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The Artesia Shrine Club announced their annual carnival would be on the same days. Then the Shrine Club changed to Oct. 27-29. And about that time the Elks decided to skip this Friday, because of the football game at Alamogordo, which would take a number of potential audience members, as well as quasi actors, out of town and announced the performances would be Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

And then Brunk's Comedians booked Artesia for this week. So the Elks switched again and definitely set "Talk of the Town" for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. So that leaves the calendar thus:

Friday, Oct. 14, Bulldogs at Alamogordo, "B" squad at Ruidoso. All of this week, Brunk's Comedians.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Oct. 17-19, Elks minstrel at the high school. Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Oct. 20-22, Shrine carnival.

Thursday, Nov. 10, through Monday, Nov. 21, big game season. Thursday, Nov. 24, Thanksgiving. Sunday, Dec. 25, Christmas.

Now please don't change any of those dates or set any other activities on them.

Dean Martin L. Cole of Eastern New Mexico University, who spoke at a dinner meeting of the Artesia Woman's Club Wednesday of last week, would have you know he has nearly gone native since coming to the Land of Sunshine from the Northwest, where he was reared. But he made one little slip in talking to Mrs. C. R. Blocker, who was to introduce him, when talking to her before the meeting and she passed the slip on to the audience, thus stamping him as a newcomer.

It seems that Dean and Mrs. Cole, as they came into Artesia, stopped their car and walked into a cotton field, just to see what it was like and to get a few mosquito bites. And as he told Mrs. Blocker and Mrs. Blocker told the audience, they were quite intrigued with the cotton bulbs.

Here's That Man again. To her day we asked Hizonner the Mare, Oren C. Roberts, if he had any gems of wisdom, advice or hangings out which he wanted to pass on to his unsuspecting public.

"Let the people up," he said. "They've had enough."

After we had bored the members of the Kiwanis Club last Thursday with a tirade about freedom of the press in observance of "National Newspaper Week," Bob Siegel admitted he had set him straight. "I always thought," he allowed, "that freedom of the press was one's right to walk in and use the editor's typewriter."

We have seen a "flying saucer." No foolin'. And observing it with us were more than a half dozen other people, including two cops, one of them the cheese; two officers of the Civil Air Patrol and two other pilots besides ourself. And it was not just a fleeting glance.

A B-29 flying at about 1000 feet released the "something" a short distance south of Artesia about 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The two CAP officers were talking at the time and one was looking at the B-29 at the instant and he called it to the attention of the other.

They described it as appearing to be a disc, which was turning and that it seemed to have lights or something similar around the rim. Every few minutes there was a puff, as of smoke and the gadget shot some mighty fancy dipoles from time to time.

By the time we were called, several of the observers had been watching it more than a half hour, during which it had climbed to an altitude of about a mile and a half and appeared to be about that distance south of town, but it could still be observed to dart hither and thither at times and occasionally there were still puffs.

The observers agreed that it, whatever it was, must have some store of power, because there was a strong westerly wind here, but the disc remained in the same general position more than an hour, until finally faded from view because

'Fire Prevention Week' Is Kicked Off Here On Monday

Observation of "Fire Prevention Week," Oct. 9-15, was kicked off in Artesia Monday afternoon, when firemen staged a parade and visited all of the schools in the city, at each of which a fire drill was held. The next phase of the week was last night, when the firemen held open house in the new fire station at Fifth and Texas Avenue, where hundreds of visitors inspected the station and equipment, while members of the department served as guides and explained things.

The theme of fire prevention will be carried through the week, during which members of the department are to appear on the programs at meetings of the service clubs of the city.

In connection with the observation of "Fire Prevention Week," an essay contest was held in the schools, with students to write essays up to 300 words on any phase of "Fire Prevention." These essays were all to be turned in by last Friday.

Walter G. Short, principal of Park School, who is chairman of the essay contest, said the essays are being judged this week and the winners will be announced in the near future.

Cash prizes of $30 and a $25 U. S. Savings Bond were offered by the Chamber of Commerce.

The parade Monday afternoon, which formed at 13th and Main Streets, was taken successively to Park, Artesia High, Central, Carver and North Side Schools.

It was led by a State Police car, behind which were the two Artesia fire trucks. Next was a large float, carrying out two themes. That near the front was in the form of a small building, which appeared to be on fire, with firemen in the process of putting it out.

The back part of the truck trailer body was devoted to a demonstration by the department's first-aid squad. An iron lung and resuscitator, both of which were purchased through efforts of firemen, were on display.

A sign on the rear of the trailer disclosed that since the resuscitator was purchased, the emergency squad has been called out with it 38 times, in 18 of which the squad was credited with saving lives. Hugh Kiddy was chairman of this phase of the parade.

Eight "Careless Fire Riders," each on horseback and wearing a sheet, rode behind the Paulin ambulance. And each carried a sign showing the causes of death by fire.

General chairmen for the parade were Dallas Golden, full-time fireman and Bill Bullock, volunteer. Golden and Assistant Chief Elmo Naylor were in charge of open house last night and Fire Chief Albert Richards is chairman in charge of the programs at service clubs.

Firemen Are Hosts at Open House

Here are the Artesia fire eaters, who were hosts last night as hundreds of citizens of the community attended open house at the new fire station.

Duck Season To Open At Noon On Next Friday

Nimrods will have only a day and a half to rest their shotguns after the close of dove season at sunset Wednesday until the opening of the first half migratory waterfowl season at noon Friday.

The first half season will run through Oct. 31, with hunting each day from a half before sunrise to an hour before sunset. On opening day it will be illegal to shoot before noon.

The attention of hunters was called again this week to the erroneous release from the State Game Department a number of weeks ago, in which it was announced migratory waterfowl shooting time would start an hour before sunset. However, the legal time is a half hour before official sunrise.

The second half season will be from noon Dec. 21 through Jan. 7. The bag limit for ducks will be four per day. Possession limit will be two daily bags, or eight ducks, except on the opening day of the season.

The goose daily bag and possession limit will be four, of which not more than two may be Canadian or Hutchins geese.

As in the last few years, the use of live decoys and the shooting over baited grounds or waters is prohibited, as is the use of livestock as blinds.

Migratory waterfowl may be taken with shotguns of not more than 10 gauge, which must be incapable of holding more than

Oilfield School Presents Circus Friday Evening

The first community meeting at Oilfield School was in the form of a circus, which was held at the school Friday evening.

Rennele Forsyth, dressed in a black suit and high hat, served as master of ceremonies. She introduced children who performed as wild and tame animals. Tommy Hill, Glenda Rae Matthews and Verna Day Derrick sang solos. A rhythm band under the direction of Glenda Jean Lunsford played and sang a number of circus songs.

Billy Joe Forsyth, Austin Pennington and LaJuana Jackson brought much laughter from the audience with their clown acts. Dancing girls dressed in dainty dresses were Louise, Edna and Marcia Pennington, Glenda Jean Lunsford, Gloria Smith, Verna Day Derrick and Mary Alice Jackson.

Charles Clevinger was declared the winner in a boxing match between himself and F. J. Malicoat. Malicoat's trainer was Tommy Hill and Clevinger's trainer was Billy Joe Forsyth. The timekeeper was Austin Pennington, while the referee was Bill Jackson.

John Francis, a former student at Oilfield, entertained the group with his magic Chinese sticks. He was dressed in a Chinese costume.

Concluding the program, was an "organ recital" by Prof. Y. Z. Spatterfuss from New York City. The "organ" was formed by Vernon Derrick, Andrew Beard, James Francis, Witcher Angell, S. L. Forsyth and Robert Corbin. The "organ stool" was Doyle Pennington. "Prof. Spatterfuss" was played by

Wednesday To Be Columbus Day; Fly The Flag

Mary Griggs Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is urging citizens of the Artesia community to display their flags on national days, of which Wednesday—Columbus Day—is one.

Navy Day, which will be observed Thursday, Oct. 27, is the second in October.

It is the universal custom to display the flag only from sunrise to sunset from buildings and on stationary flag-staffs in the open.

However, the flag may be displayed at night on special occasions, when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect.

Both of the Artesia banks will be closed Wednesday in observance of Columbus Day.

First Frost Of Season Is Noted Monday Morning

Meteorological disturbances here Sunday, during which strong westerly and southwesterly winds blew all day, were followed that night with a sharp drop of temperature and the season's first frost early Monday morning.

Some farmers claimed there not only was frost on their places, but that ice froze. In town the temperature was down to about 35 degrees early Monday.

The frost is expected to hasten defoliation of cotton here. But it likewise is expected to loosen the vast amount of needle grass on the prairies, which then will be ready to blow the next time the wind rises.

Even before the frost of early Monday morning, some needle grass was noted drifting in the heavy winds of Sunday, the third day of winds unusual for October.

Observers said the first frost here is seldom experienced before Oct. 25 and that the one this season was about 15 days early. Whether this is indicative of earlier cold weather in general was not known.

Roswell Juniors Defeat Bullpups 13-0 On Friday

The Roswell junior football team defeated the Artesia Bullpups on Morris Field 13-6 Friday night, with Roswell scoring in the second and third quarters and Artesia in the third.

Swayze of Roswell made the first touchdown on a pass from the Artesia five-yard line. White's attempt at placement failed.

In the third period, Swayze again scored, going over from the three. This time White made a placement good.

A few plays later on a delayed pass from Cranford to Barker, the Bullpups made their only score of the game. The attempt for the extra point failed.

The two "B" teams are scheduled for another game at Roswell Oct. 21.

In the meantime, the Bullpups are scheduled to go to Ruidoso Friday to meet the Junior Mountaineers.

Shades Of The Old West! Touring Menagerie Visits Here

One of the strangest sights ever seen on the streets of Artesia since the old pioneer days—and probably stranger than any then—was Orville Ewing of Pritchett, Colo. and his touring menagerie, which was hitched to, ringing in, or led behind his rubber-tired prairie schooner.

The strange schooner, on which were hung many utilitarian items, such as water cans and a bale of hay, as well as others strictly for atmosphere, such as holsters, was pulled by an ox and two burros. A fourth burro was tied behind, while in a pen at the rear of the wagon, was a milk goat, the source of part of Ewing's diet.

APOLOGY DEMANDED

AN EDITORIAL

A retraction, an apology and some proof of statements made are due to Artesia's Coach Jack Tinson, the Artesia Bulldogs, Artesia High School and the Artesia community by Bern Gantner, for statements he made in The Clovis News-Journal Sunday in reference to the Bulldog-Wildcat game at Clovis Friday night.

Gantner, in his signed column and in a by-line story of the game, overstepped the bounds of sportsmanship and journalistic privileges, when he said, after describing the game as rough, among other things, "And Artesia was guilty of starting the rough stuff, no doubt instigated by Bulldog Head Coach Jack Tinson, who kept charging on to the field every time an infraction was called against his team, which caused confusion and lots of delay."

And in his signed column he said, "That was a sorry display by Artesia Coach Jack Tinson Friday night. A high school coach should have more sense than to continuously charge on to a field because his team is penalized. . . . The rubebarbs and rough stuff which was produced during the game can in a large measure be traced to the actions of the Artesia coach. . . . Such an exhibition is a

John Francis Continues Yarn About Ruidoso

(In this, John L. Francis of Glendale, Calif., concludes an article written for The Advocate, "Side Road to Ruidosos," while back here visiting his brother, Lee Francis, "20 years after.")

By JOHN L. FRANCIS

I was told the resort (Ruidoso) has an ice rink and also a ski season that starts sometime in December of early January and lasts until the middle of May. This seems like a fairly long winter sports season and Ruidoso is fortunate. About the only other ski-lifts this far south are at Palm Springs, Calif. Colorado has one at Aspen. This second morning, I was up at 8 o'clock. There were clouds over the mountains. Old Baldy, the pride of Ruidoso, had her peak covered at a height of 12,000 (in the big Rockies, peaks reach 14,000 feet high).

I was skeptical about getting breakfast, but found a drug store open, so had a regular drug store breakfast of toast and coffee.

The proprietor's little daughter hung over the counter with her books, waiting for the school bus. She had that early morning mood and was afraid she was going to flunk her history test for that day.

The clouds came on and in 15 minutes, it was spilling out over town. Only in the mountains does rain fall straight down, with the (continued last page this section)

Bulldogs Rate 40-7 Win Over Wildcats At Clovis On Friday

After a jumble of penalties, call-backs and expulsions from the game, the Artesia Bulldogs were rated a 40-7 win over the Wildcats at Clovis Friday night.

In the course of the game, two Bulldogs and three Wildcats were benched by the referee and two trips over the goal line by the Bulldogs were called back.

It was estimated more than 500 fans from Artesia attended the game.

And while that game was going on, the Roswell juniors were winning a 13-7 victory over the Bullpups on Morris Field.

In the game at Clovis, the Wildcats chose to receive and Junie Russell's kickoff was taken by Buddy Foote, who fumbled on the 10. Cameron McTavish picked up a first down going through left tackle. Scotty Watkins made eight through center. Captain Pete Hurst fumbled and Artesia recovered on the Clovis 32.

Bulldog Freshman Back Doyle Cole then circled right end to score on Artesia's first play from scrimmage. Russell's attempted placement was blocked.

Russell's kickoff was taken by Al Stickley on the goal line and returned to the Clovis 21. Gains and two first downs took the Wildcats to their 44, where Clovis punted. The kicker was so badly rushed, the punt was blocked and the ball went nearly straight up and came down on the line of scrimmage, hit Tom Boyd and was recovered by Clovis for another first down.

Four downs later Artesia took over on the 20, as the quarter ended.

On the second play of the second period, Ronald Dublin passed to Walter Burch, who ran 60 yards over the goal line, but the play was called back, when Artesia was ruled off-side. Eugene Batie then made seven over left tackle and on the next play, Batie carried to the Clovis 25 for a first down. Dublin lost five on an attempted pass, when he could not find a passer. Vernon Haldeman was thrown for a loss and then Dublin passed to Batie, who was downed on the Clovis 13 for a first down. Cole went over around right end, but this touchdown was also nullified, as Artesia was not to be denied the tally for Dublin made a pass good to Bobby Morgan on the next play and he went over for the second legal touchdown of the game. Russell's placement was good.

Russell's next kickoff was taken by Frank Love, who handed to Jerry Crook on a reverse and he was downed on the Clovis 30. Clovis was held for downs and was forced to punt. Cole caught the ball on the Bulldog 30 and returned it 70 yards for another touchdown. Russell converted, making the (Continued last page, this section)

'Forget-Me-Not Day' To Be Observed By D.A.V. Chapter

Annual "Forget-Me-Not Day" will be observed in Artesia next Saturday by Donald S. H. Ledbetter.

He said members of the D.A.V. will be assisted in the sale by members of the Artesia High School band.

Plans are to make a complete canvass of the city, as well as to have veterans or band members stationed at some of the more prominent locations in the business section.

Advocate Takes Issue With Clovis Sports Writer

AN EDITORIAL

The Advocate takes issue with The Clovis News-Journal sports editor.

We are quoting verbatim here a number of items we gleaned from Bern Gantner's glowing account of the Artesia-Clovis football game, which took place last Friday night at Clovis. These quoted items appeared in the sporting section of The Clovis News-Journal, dated Sunday, Oct. 9, 1949.

Under the heading, "Wildcats Are Submerged by Bruising Bulldogs," Mr. Gantner states: "That was a sorry display by Artesia Coach Jack Tinson Friday night. . . . a high school coach should have more sense than to continuously charge on to a field because his team is penalized. . . . the rubebarbs and rough stuff which were produced during the game can in a large measure be traced to the actions of the Artesia coach. . . . such an exhibition is a disgrace to high school football.

"Small wonder that Artesia found itself with three players thrown from the game—all because of the roughing and slugging, no doubt incited by Coach Tinson's ranting and raving on the sideline. . . . Artesia already has a reputation for poor sportsmanship as a result of other games this season. . . . the (Continued on Society Pages)

Many 'Braceros' Arrive, But Some Have Taken Out

Many "braceros" have arrived from Mexico—probably about 2400 of them—and still more are expected daily the next few days.

But on the other hand, some have departed and were being sought late Monday. Approximately 50 disappeared from the Moutray Brothers farm on Seven Rivers over the week end. And there have been reports of others taking out.

Besides that, about 25 went on strike last week and were jailed for safe keeping until the next morning, when they were to be returned to Mexico. But the next morning, they were ready to go back to work.

As payday has been set by general agreement on Tuesdays, the Mexican nationals did not come to town in swarms Saturday as in recent years, so there was not as large a run on the food stores as had been anticipated.

On Sunday, however, hundreds of them came to Artesia and spent the afternoon looking into the shop windows in the business section, many of them amazed at the things therein offered for sale. For most it was their first glimpse at a foreign country's stores.

Up to Monday, 1600 Mexican cotton pickers assigned to the Artesia Alfalfa Growers Association had arrived here and been assigned to various farmers, in an attempt to give all cotton farmers some of them. And on the same day, about 800 consigned to the Farm Bureau had arrived.

It is expected the numbers will be more nearly equalled, as one group to be employed through the Farm Bureau was to arrive in Carlsbad Monday night and other groups were scheduled to arrive at Artesia today and Wednesday.

Another 300 to 400 consigned to the association will be here by the end of the week.

For Our Own Good

EVERY NOW AND THEN the sanitary department of our city has to remind us to keep the lids on our garbage cans, get lids for our garbage cans or buy new ones.

And sometimes we are not very happy about it. Yet the fact remains we are being told to do this not for the good of the officer but rather for the good of the individuals—each individual in our community.

But we never take that attitude regarding the matter. We seem to think that they are just telling us to do something that costs us money or something that can just as well be left undone.

But the fact remains that regardless of how careful we may be in our sanitation program and in our health program we still are taking chances.

And our sanitary inspector is merely asking us to do something that we should be doing ourselves—doing without any reminder being given. He is merely asking us to help contribute to our own health and to the health of our neighbors and the other citizens in our community.

If each and every one of us would accept the responsibility which is ours and would do the things we know we should do for the good of our own health—then the city wouldn't have to do these things and spend the money it spends to help protect us.

If we would spray around our own garbage cans; if we would keep the lids on these cans; if we would help to destroy anything that might contribute to flies and to the increase of flies we would be improving our health situation and our sanitary conditions.

And if we would do this as citizens and individuals in the community then there would be no necessity for the city to have to do it. There would be no spraying needed and no money spent by the city in such a program.

All of us could be a little more co-operative if we only would. And when we are co-operating we are merely contributing to our own health, our own sanitation, and to the health of our city.

And it shouldn't be necessary for our city to have to remind us or even force us to do the things that need to be done for the good of our own health.—O.E.P.

Such A Contrast

FREQUENTLY WHEN WE HAVE a contrast of conditions in our home community and those we find in other communities it does us considerable good.

And we can't keep from thinking about the fine spirit we find prevailing in Artesia between our city administration and the various civic groups and organizations and that which prevails in some other cities of the state.

We have always noticed there is a determined effort in Artesia on the part of those in public office to serve the community; to think of the city; and to consider things from the standpoint of growth, development and progress.

This isn't always done elsewhere. And we have noticed that here we consider the good of the community and of our city rather than considering things from the angle of just how much good we can do ourselves.

We know a city in the state where the city administration, which is controlled by one individual, does everything it does on the basis of how much good it will do for this individual or some other individuals connected with the administration.

The administration never considers the suggestions, the movements or the ideas of civic or community leaders or the groups working for the good of the city. They are never concerned about what these people think because they are only concerned about themselves, not about the future of the city.

under the city administration need to be done—the city officials take the lead and provide the leadership to get the job done.

And that is one of the reasons why Artesia can and does move ahead. That is one of the reasons why Artesia can get things done while other communities stand around and wait for someone to take the lead.

That has been done in this community for years. It was done by past city administrations. It is being done by the present administration and Artesia is extremely fortunate and lucky. We are sure that the citizens appreciate this splendid attitude and this fine spirit of co-operation that prevails between the city administration and all community groups. And we are sure that as a city we propose to keep it just as it is today.—O.E.P.

Mechanical Pickers

PITY THE COTTON FARMER! Or should we? No sooner have the cotton pickers started to come in than trouble brews in one form or another, just as it does every year.

If it isn't wage troubles, it's Saturday troubles. Just when farmers would like to have the cotton pickers stay on the job, they take off, for they simply do not work when they decide it is time to quit, no matter whether the job badly needs being done.

We understand a few farmers are using mechanical pickers, and others plan to have mechanical pickers by next season.

That is the answer. And it will be only a matter of years until a large percentage of all cotton in the Pecos Valley will be picked mechanically.

What of the migratory agricultural workers of the United States? They would not be out of work, for history proves that every time a machine is made that replaces men more jobs are created in the long run and those who had to change occupations were better off ultimately.

When the automobile started to replace the horse, more and more blacksmiths had to give up shoeing horses. But they merely bought a few more tools of a different kind and became automobile mechanics. And today the various types of powered machines, including tractors, have built up several industries that employ in one form or another millions of workers, most of whom enjoy better living than did the blacksmiths in the horse and buggy days.

The fact there were fewer horses to eat oats didn't affect the growing of oats. As things progressed man began to eat more of the old-time horse food, for numerous new and delicious ways to prepare and serve oats were invented and perfected.

The invention of the cotton gin made for better economy, although it threw many people out of their particular kind of work.

As far as that is concerned, the invention of the electric light played hobbs with the candle-making industry. But the electric light and other electrical appliances and gadgets put hundreds of people to work making them, at the same time giving the people of this nation and the world more comforts and better living.

Even in this business, the invention of the linotype machine put hundreds of compositors out of work. But it created better—although fewer—jobs for operators, who are skilled mechanics and not just drudgery workers. And the linotype, with its capacity for much more type composition which is easier for the printer to handle, because it is in slugs or bars, rather than each character being separate, makes it possible for the thousands of publications and books which are printed today.

Many of the women compositors of years ago became stenographers or secretaries, certainly more pleasant jobs. And that was possible because the typewriter had been invented, even though it did put many professional penmen out of jobs.

So don't pity the poor farmer, because the mechanical picker is here and can be had. And don't pity the cotton pickers, because they probably will be better off in the long run, when they have to find some other kind of work.

Most of all, don't pity the Mexican nationals, who would be better off if they stayed in their own nation and stuck to their plodding ways.—A.L.B.

Less Than Three Months

WE HAVE ALWAYS been a little envious of that individual who has been able to say a couple or three weeks before Christmas that he or she has their Christmas shopping all done.

And we know that the average individual feels exactly the same way about it. It is now a little less than three months until Christmas. There is ample time for all of us to do at least some of our Christmas shopping and to do it now.

There is always plenty of the standard merchandise on the shelves of the local merchants that makes splendid Christmas gifts. Most of these items are available the entire year—they are not just merchandise for the holiday season.

Many of us go to seek out this merchandise when the season for Christmas shopping arrives. And all of us wish we had gone around a little earlier when things were not so crowded and when we could have taken our time in doing our buying.

Well, now is the time. We can not only buy what we want; have it all taken care of but we can also do our local merchant a real favor. He, of course, isn't expecting us to do this. He is planning on being worked pretty hard during the holiday season. He doubtless is planning on buying plenty of holiday merchandise and will have it available when that time arrives.

SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME?

Humoresk

Corporal: "My sister used to work for a magician that saved her in half."
Sergeant: "What did she quit for?"
Corporal: "She couldn't make both ends meet."

He: "Aw, please."
She: "No."
He: "Let me take 'em off."
She: "NO!"
He: "It feels so-o-o good."
She: "I said NO!"
He: "Aw heck, Maw, all the rest of the kids are going barefoot."

"Are you allergic?"
"No, I'm Irish."
"Were you inoculated?"
"No, I enlisted."
"Got your appendix?"
"Supply didn't have any."
"Hells, bells, man—don't you know the King's English?"
"He is?"

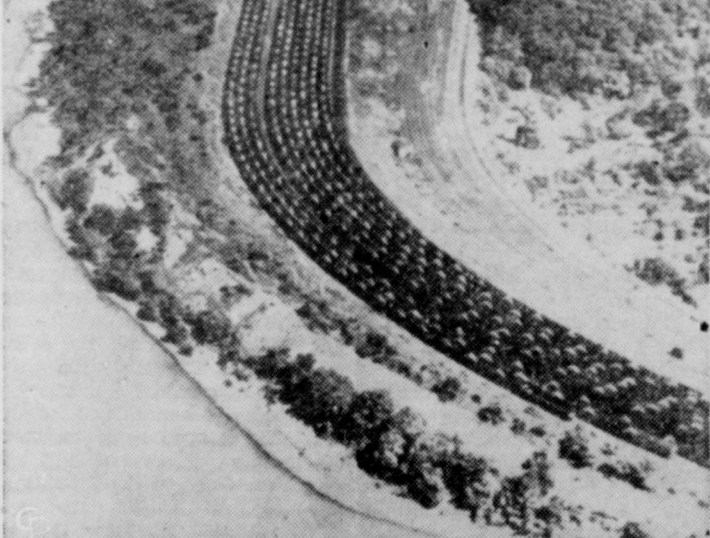

Sailor: "Just look at this civilian suit that I bought on the Coast. The wool was grown in Australia, the cloth was woven in New England, and the thread came from India. Then the suit was made in Baltimore."
CPO: "What's so wonderful about that?"
Sailor: "It sure is amazing that so many people can make a living out of something that I haven't paid for."

There was a young lady from Kent. Who said she knew what it meant. When men asked her to dine. Give her cocktails and wine— She knew what it meant but she went.

A mule and a jeep stopped on the road one day and looked at each other.
Mule (breaking silence): "I'm a horse. What are you?"
Jeep: "I'm an automobile."
Whereupon they both laughed heartily.

Sergeant: (taking clothes to the line) "Want to send this civilian suit?"
Roommate: "Does it need to go?"
Sgt.: "Well, it has gray stains on the sleeve, salad dressing on the pants, butter on the cuffs and coffee on the lapel. . . On second thought I better take it over to he mess hall and put it on ice."

COAL STRIKE PILES UP GONDOLAS

UNPROFITABLE PATTERN is formed by thousands of empty coal gondolas idled by miners' walkout near Brownsville, Pa. Although northern and western coal operators have resumed negotiations with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., they will not discuss specific terms for new contract until steel industry pensions dispute is settled. (International Soundphoto)

SAUERKRAUT CENTER and East Bicycle have just staged their annual baseball playoff — to determine which club should have undisputed possession of last place in the Corn Stalk league.

Sauerkraut Center valiantly defended its position at the bottom of the ladder almost all season, its most remarkable streak being 28 consecutive losses.

However, by mid-August East Bicycle gave unmistakable signs that it had its eyes on the circuit basement, being shutout for 10 straight games Aug. 14-23.

On Labor Day, the Peddlers ousted the Cabbage Heads from their eighth-place haven and from then on it was a terrific battle to see which club would win caboose or booby prize honors.

As Artesia Grows

From The Advocate files for Oct. 17, 1929

Stirring scenes of the Old West were recalled Sunday when John Fanning, pioneer resident, held his annual branding and round-up at the Lakewood stock pens. Incidentally, this event is also the occasion for a reunion of all old-timers of this section and Sunday's round-up was attended by more than 300 persons.

Two carloads of furniture arrived the first of the week for the new hotel and the first shipment of carpet has been received. The remainder of the hotel fixtures are expected to arrive before the close of the week.

Earl Darst has purchased the Williamson residence property on Quay Avenue.

Pete Loving had on exhibit yesterday a large collection of beautiful dahlias, which have been entered in the yard and garden contest. One of the dahlias grown from a seedling measured more than eight inches in diameter.

The Artesia and Carlsbad all-star grid teams battled to a scoreless tie at Brainard Park here Sunday afternoon and gave the local fans a good exhibition of the popular American pastime.

The Artesia Boy Scouts carried away 13 prizes at the Chaves County Cotton Carnival, which closed at Roswell Saturday.

Local duck hunters laid a veritable barrage for the ducks on the river at the beginning of the season yesterday morning and many were quite successful.

Taylor Ross of Lakewood was in Artesia Monday shopping. Harvey Yates was at home from the New Mexico Military Institute for a week-end visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Arba Green were in Albuquerque Saturday and Sunday visiting their daughter, Miss Helen, a junior at the University of New Mexico.

U. M. McCaw and son, Will McCaw, left Sunday for Dallas, Texas, on a business trip and are also at tending the Dallas Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Paton returned Sunday from a visit of a month to various points in Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Rex Wheatley drove over to Hobbs yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Davis and family of Hurley are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ransbarger. Mr. Davis is Mrs. Ransbarger's brother.

TEN YEARS AGO

(From The Advocate files for Oct. 12, 1939)

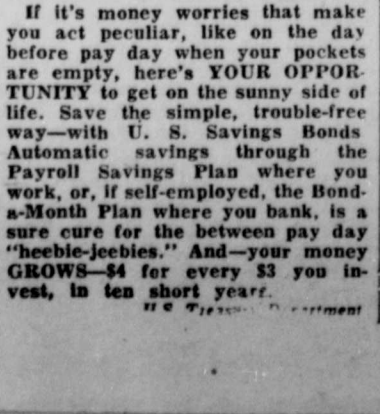

The Artesia Bulldogs found their stride at Roswell Saturday and outplayed the New Mexico Military Institute Colts, but through tough breaks in the second half failed to win the grid game, tying the score 13-13.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kiddy entertained the Pinochle Club at their home Tuesday evening. A tasty antelope supper was served at tables beautifully arranged with Halloween decorations.

The Viernes Bridge Club met at the home of Mrs. Wallace Hastings Friday afternoon with Mrs. J. D. Mann as a guest.

Mrs. E. N. Bigler was hostess to the 1937 Bridge Club Friday, when members and guests enjoyed a 1 o'clock luncheon at the Artesia Hotel.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—The threat of rain hangs over the city in the early fall night, but you are a New Yorker; with the calm disdain of your breed, you have no rapport with rubbers or umbrellas.

You are downtown and you are footloose and you laze your way through the streets. You look into a record shop and eye a couple of albums meditatively and then you drift along past a bookstore, a darkened tailor's shop.

People go past you on the street, but they are only shapes out of the corner of your eye. School may keep and again it may not. So? you say. So?

Whenever you wander along the streets of the city and can see long stretches of lights and buildings before you for blocks, always there in the back of your mind the speculation about what the rest of the people are doing.

Here is the city's autumn night, cool and with the damp in the air, and you wonder if the streets over on the East Side are, at the very moment, as cluttered with people and pushcarts as ever. How is Grace Square faring; are there lights in the mayor's stony house in the little park there, and are there boats going past slowly in the East river?

How goes the little red lighthouse under the Washington bridge, and are the gambling men sitting around in the Times Square cafe waiting for the rain to come, so they can bet on the drops courting down the windows? All the cities within the city; what's with them, here and now?

Your meditation is brought up short when the raindrops begin to come. "I ought to get an umbrella," you say, and you pull the lapels of your jacket together and look around uneasily for haven, and you make for it and duck downstairs just as the rain begins to drum swiftly and heavily on the sidewalk. You hear the sound of piano as you go down the stairs, and when you get there it is a little bandbox of a room and a lean pianist with short, gray hair, working over Royal Garden Blues. The minute you enter, you know you have not come to the wrong place.

You do not want to drink, but to observe the amenities, you order a highball and you lean back at a corner table and listen to the talk and the man playing the piano and, as Thorne Smith put it, the rain in the doorway.

IF IT WERE SPRING, you might be keyed up and aware of every word said about you, but it is fall and you are lazy and amiable, you hear only the undercurrent of talk and the crisp but not counterpoint of the piano.

You sip the drink out of curiosity and you gag on it and grin a little; it is in the grand tradition of wood alcohol poured through a loaf of rye bread. You look around. What is there about a saloon that sometimes gives it the warm and peaceful air of an empty church in the evening?

It is a room, with tables and the faint smell of beer and a waiter sitting with legs sprawled out at a nearby booth, reading a magazine, and the presence of people and the music. You put the ingredients together, sometimes, and it comes out easy and happy and timeless.

The gray-haired pianist works surely and delicately over the bass with his left hand and outside and upstairs the rain keeps coming down. Listen, once in a while if you will, to rain on the street and music at your elbow. Listen, and you will lose yourself in the stam.

There is a bar somewhere off to the left of the little place, in a room by itself. A trombonist and a bass player and a cornetist troop out of the bar and stand idly around the piano.

The gray-haired pianist finishes his work and goes over to a table and sits down for a drink and a shorter, stockier man with the stub of a two-for-a-nickel cigar in the corner of his mouth takes his place. He looks like a deacon.

The deacon nods to the bass player and they begin the melancholy mood of Georgia on My Mind, a little slowly, a little uncatchably. You can bet they never did this one together before, but you have an idea that before they get too far along it is going to sound good, and presently it does.

SO HERE YOU ARE IN A DOWNTOWN CAFE, while the rest of the city does Lord knows what in the rain. But while musicians can play, men must work, and the hour is late. You pay for the wood-alcohol-strained-through-rye-bread and the deacon calls out a pleasant goodnight to you and you go upstairs into the night.

The rain has stopped, and the lights glisten on the damp streets. You walk off toward the subway and you are feeling fine, but just a little sad, for another summer has gone and you count the rest of them in your mind and you say to yourself, is that all? Is that all there is left?

Local folks who attended the I.O.O.F. Grand Lodge and Rebekah assembly held in Santa Fe the first of the week were Mrs. Ernest Gonagall, Miss Ina Cole, Jack Bette and Ward Cave.

Mrs. Glenn O'Bannon of Cottonwood entertained with a lovely party complimenting her daughter, Mary Frances, on her birthday Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Neva Wikerson of San Antonio, Texas, is visiting her sister, Mrs. R. E. Coleman, and other relatives on Cottonwood for several weeks.

The deer is insulated. His hole is hollow, keeping out cold in the winter and heat in the summer.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

TWO elderly ladies checked into a sporty new hotel in Miami Beach. The first thing they noticed was a furtive little man circulating from guest to guest in the lobby, whispering.

They were told he was a bookie—a man who took bets on horse races. In vacation abandon, they decided impulsively to risk two dollars themselves. They lost.

That night one of the ladies tossed around in her bed and sighed so lugubriously that the other counseled her, "Becky, you shouldn't cry so over spilled milk. Stop worrying because you lost. It was only two dollars." "It ain't losing I'm worrying about," Becky answered. "I was worrying about if we had won. What would we have done with the horse?"

'Johnny Allegro' Is Tailor Made For George Raft

George Raft, playing a character who wears a flower on his coat and a gun under it, is back on the screen again in the type of role that he does best.

"Johnny Allegro," coming to the Ocotillo Theater next Sunday through Tuesday, the suave Raft plays a guy with a record, who goes straight after a superb war contribution and sets himself up in the florist business. But as a sucker for luscious blonde Nina Foch, he's put on the spot with Treasury agents and international mobsters and then hops on a merry-go-round of intrigue, murder and treason to the tune of half a billion dollars before he gets off! As all movie fans know, this sort of role is tailor-made for the dapper star. Raft is famous for his slick clothes; Johnny Allegro is a slick dresser. Raft is handy man with his dukes, having been at one time a professional boxer. Johnny Allegro packs a mean wallop, as he demonstrates to neat advantage on the jaw of George Macready, the principal "heavy." The parallel could be developed still further; Raft, with the dark good looks reminiscent of the greatest lover of the screen, Valentino, is certainly an attraction for the girls, especially those blondes who believe that opposites attract. As Johnny Allegro, he's romance with a capital "R" to Miss Foch, who's not unattractive to him, too. The real Raft is a mighty nimble fellow on the dance floor, as all movie fans know; as Johnny Allegro he performs a neat rhumba with Miss Foch that will recall the fiery dance routines that he executed in

THE LONDON postoffice reports that within a month 1,200 pen holders and 7,200 pen points were stolen from its various branches. It's a practice the P. O. would be glad to stamp out.

They must have been taken for souvenirs for certainly no one would swipe a postoffice pen with intention to use it for writing.

The postoffice pen has no moving parts yet everyone we've run across seems to have been out of whack.

Uncle Sam Says

During the years America was growing up, Grandma hid her savings in the old, cracked teapot, the tin canister, or even that old horse-hair mattress. This was the hard way to save and her denials of many things to build those savings sometimes came to naught. Thieves, fire or other hazards wiped out her savings in a jiffy. Today we have the finest and surest way ever invented to build security for the future—the U. S. Savings Bonds way. This means you can put aside every pay day, part of what you earn by signing up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. Either way, you get back $4 for every $3 invested in just ten years.

WE THOUGHT EVERYBODY KNEW REDDY!

A recent national survey showed that 20% of business-managed electric company customers either think their electricity comes from a government operation, or don't know what kind of company serves them.

That came as quite a surprise! One out of every five customers didn't know who Reddy Kilowatt works for! We thought everybody knew that wherever you see Reddy you see the symbol of business management... free enterprise... in the service of all the folks in the community.

Yes, and that's what your Public Service Company is... a home-operated company... business managed... ever striving to bring more and more dependable, low-cost service for better living—electrically—to everyone.

Uncle Sam Says

During the years America was growing up, Grandma hid her savings in the old, cracked teapot, the tin canister, or even that old horse-hair mattress. This was the hard way to save and her denials of many things to build those savings sometimes came to naught. Thieves, fire or other hazards wiped out her savings in a jiffy. Today we have the finest and surest way ever invented to build security for the future—the U. S. Savings Bonds way. This means you can put aside, every pay day, part of what you earn by signing up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. Either way, you get back $4 for every $3 invested in just ten years.

Dean Martin Cole Of E.N.M.U. Speaks At Woman's Club Meet Last Week

Martin L. Cole, dean of Eastern New Mexico University, speaking Wednesday evening of last week at a meeting of the Artesia Woman's Club on the theme for 1949-50, "Building a Better Community," declared the two foundations for a better community are the church and education.

Dean Cole praised the educational program in New Mexico which, he said, pays more per capita for education than any other of the United States.

Western civilization is one of the five surviving civilizations, and it favored to survive the longest, if God is kept linked with democracy he said.

The dean pointed out that the color of a man's skin does not make him different. Ethically, he said, race relations is easy, but living next door or across town makes it different for the average person.

Dean Cole, a forceful speaker held the attention of the group as a speaker seldom does. He spoke from his heart and soul and expressed a deep faith in God and man.

Husbands of members of the Woman's Club were guests at the dinner meeting, which was held in the clubhouse. It was beautifully decorated with gorgeous fall dahlias, zinnias, chrysanthemums, and pyracantha. Dinner was served buffet style from a table with white linen and handsome silver.

Sliced pumpkin pies were attractively served by Mrs. J. E. Roberts and her committee, composed of Mrs. Clyde Parrish, Lucille Metzger, Marion Welch, J. A. Fairer, Charles Cole, M. C. Livingston, G. Taylor Cole, Grady Wright, Shirley Hager, and Wesley Sperry.

Mrs. H. C. Bidwell, the outgoing president, was presented a small antique china basket, in which a nosegay of yellow rosebuds was nestled in fern, and a lacy white and yellow satin bow swished from the handle, in appreciation of her leadership in the club for 1948-49.

Mrs. Bidwell always presided with grace and dignity and under her leadership the club enjoyed a splendid year. The presentation was made by Mrs. H. R. Paton, president.

Mrs. Fred Cole, chairman of the "Building a Better Community" committee, reported on a recent meeting of the committee, composed of Mrs. E. J. Foster, J. W. Jones, Carl Lewis, Grady Booker, Clyde Parrish, C. R. Blocker, Dave Bunting and Robert J. Parks in which they hoped to get the co-operation of civic clubs, city officials and others in providing public rest rooms for the people who come to town, particularly on Saturdays, and particularly transients.

The also hope to find ways and means to establish a museum for Artesia for which a wonderful collection is now available, she reported.

Plans are being made also for helping to landscape the school grounds for the Negro children which are now so barren.

It was announced plans are also under way to sponsor a better approach on the highways of the city by cleaning up and perhaps landscaping.

An annual reception for new comers to the city is being given thought and plans are formulating. Announcement was made of the

Artesians Attend Council Church Women Seminar

A seminar for the Council of Church Women was held in Roswell Wednesday of last week. This was one of the seminars being held in the states west of the Mississippi and is visited by teams from the Eastern states en route to the national board meeting of the United Council of Church Women being held today through Thursday in Los Angeles, Calif.

Those who came to Roswell were Mrs. Chester Martin of Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Roy Dillon of Oklahoma City and Miss Louise Gridley, president of the Vermont council. "Women in the Ecumenical Church" was the theme for this meeting.

Mrs. George Wilcox, president of the Roswell council, was the hostess at a luncheon and Mrs. John Knorr, fire vice president of the state council, was in charge of the program after the luncheon.

Mrs. J. H. Walker of Artesia, the first president of the state council, gave greetings to the visitors and spoke briefly concerning the Ecumenical movement started at the Amsterdam Assembly, which she said was unmistakably "toward God's design" and that women of churches may have a part in promoting this great movement through the local councils.

Others attending from Artesia were Mrs. E. J. Foster, president of the Artesia council and Mrs. Jack Frost, recording secretary.

"It was a great inspiration to hear these speakers from other states who are so Ecumenically minded and we regret that more Artesia women could not attend," Mrs. Walker said. These visitors went to Albuquerque where another seminar was held the next day.

American and national defense are being stressed by Mrs. Roscoe O'Byrne, president general of the national society of Daughters of the American Revolution, in her fall conference trip which includes appearances in New Mexico, California, Texas, Indiana, New York, Washington, D. C. and South Carolina.

New Mexico Daughters of the American Revolution supported Mrs. O'Byrne in her stand, opposing any form of world government by passing a resolution at the 29th annual state conference in Silver City, which ended Oct. 1. World peace cannot be created by mandate or by signing a piece of paper, Mrs. O'Byrne said. It will come only after long progress of education and through a mutual understanding of the problems among nations, races and religions.

The D.A.R. also opposes boosting of immigration quotas, placing the control of education under one bureaucratic head, state medical care and radio programs featuring crime.

Mrs. O'Byrne gave the dedication address of the National Tribute Grove, which has been set aside by the Save the Redwoods League as a living tribute to the men and women who served in World War II. The location is ap-

Advocate Takes—

Bulldog's actions here Friday night didn't help that reputation any... from a reliable source, it is learned that two schools, who played Artesia earlier in the season, said they will drop the Bulldogs from their schedule because of the rough stuff.

"Last week at Artesia, the Bulldogs STOMPED (get the stomped) Lovington 48-0—and in doing so were assessed 200 yards in penalties—THEY SAY (the caps are ours) it was for roughness.

"And Artesia was guilty of starting the rough stuff no doubt (there he goes again) instigated by Bulldog Head Coach Jack Tinson, who kept charging on to the field every time an infraction was called against his team which caused confusion and lots of delay."

We can see no point in continuing on with Mr. Gantner's gruesome description of the bloody massacre of the innocent, so we will spare you more of the harrowing details. To be factual he made no mention of poisoning wells or mutiny on the high seas. He did, however, take great delight in telling us how Tinson teaches the team tricks that costs them 200 yards in penalties every game.

We want to point out at this time that this article originated solely with The Advocate. No local school official, coach, athlete or student has been approached for a statement or is connected in any way. This is entirely between The Advocate and the News-Journal, as far as we are concerned. The maliciousness of some of those statements about "Artesia's poor sportsmanship, Jack Tinson and the kids who live here and are playing football for Artesia has galled our sense of fair play aplenty.

In our book that was only a football game at Clovis the other night—not a life and death struggle.

Picture Of Original Baptist Church Is Being Sought

Rev. S. M. Morgan, pastor of the First Baptist Church, is trying to find a picture of the original Baptist Church here, which was built about 1904 and was moved off in 1910.

The local pastor, who is president of the state Baptist convention, which will be held at Santa Fe Oct. 24, and who is program chairman, needs the picture for the convention program. Up to now he has been unable to find one.

He said the original church was cut in two and that the two halves

Why the bitter diatribe against Artesia and Tinson?

We saw the Jal and Lovington games played and that "bruiser, slugging and stomping" guff make us yearn for the knowledge to spell that sound the uncouth plebians make with their lips to indicate "nuts" so that we might properly dilate.

The kids that play high school football for Artesia are the same kind of boys that play for Clovis or any other town in the country. They are now playing the game to the hilt, they tackle, block and run hard, which is as it should be in football. Trying to hang that mantle of dirty players on them is hitting a lot of nice kids below the belt. Eight of those boys are carrying facial cuts and bruises as a result of the Clovis game, Mr. Gantner.

Make up your mind about Jack Tinson. In one place you tell us how lucky he was to have fallen into so much good, veteran material here which won one game last year. Now after a few games under his coaching regime you list us among the strong teams of the state.

We like and admire Jack Tinson, his wife and four daughters, here in Artesia. He is a gentleman and we want him to stay here. Show us where he has really ever resorted to playing or teaching "dirty" football. Sure, we know he walks up and down in front of his players' bench during games and wants to know about injuries, penalties, etc. We can give you a list of coaches that will sound like the "Who's Who" of football over the past 40 years that have or have had the same characteristics. Tinson goes all out for his teams.

Beat him and his squads on the gridiron, if you can. We can take that. Smearing visiting coaches and teams have no place in that grand, old give-and-take game of football.

Nice going, Tinson, we are 101 per cent behind you now.—C. C. Morgan.

Sports Notes

By Sam Johnson

With all of the "sudden death" football games being played on New Mexico sports pages, the year may wind up without a "live" high school squad. The phrase supposedly applies to any contest between two unbeaten teams. Actually, there ain't no such affair in football.

Closest thing to it pops up Friday when Hobbs takes its jeweled crown to Carlsbad. Whoever cuses this one into the end zone pocket may very well grab the big red apple in our year 1949.

The Cavemen are running on a schedule built like a picket fence. After the Hobbs game, all that remains for them to do is score over Clovis, Albuquerque, Tucumcari, Artesia and Roswell. The odds are against them.

If Hobbs siderails the potash city team this week, the Eagles probably will coast along in the driver's seat the balance of the year. There are a number of reasons why Hobbs and Carlsbad and some of the other schools in the Pecos and High Plains regions generally hold the balance of power in state high school football.

Besides having some football players, these schools have the spirited support of the townspeople and the enthusiastic backing of their newspapers.

Tucumcari and Clovis fall within this category. So does Dawson up in the coal country. Year in and year out Dawson proves that spirit is 75 per cent of the battle, size 25 per cent.

Often when a team falls into a losing rut, the citizenry sits back and says: "When we have a team don't worry, we'll support it all right, all right," never realizing that spirit is something which precedes, not follows.

The only interesting aspect of this mental wandering is that the teams of a school sometimes reflect the community spirit in general. Find a team that acts like it has a sprinkling of high-life on its spinal junctures and the odds are you will find the same sort of spirit in every community activity.

Belief in a coach is another important factor in athletic success—belief, that is, by the people. Let a coach have a bad season and a lot of back-stabbing along with it and morale takes a nosedive. A good coach doesn't put up with it long.

Every week there are a lot of issues going on to football fields in our state high schools, but little recognized.

Humus In Soil Must Be Replaced

Generally, only about two or three years' protection to the soil is provided when a good grass sod is plowed under. According to Roy Forehand, chairman of the Eddy County Agricultural Conservation Committee, research finds indicate that after two or three years the roots have decayed to the extent that most of their value as protection against erosion has been lost.

The studies indicate that during the two or three-year period the plowed-under vegetable matter is effective it helps hold the soil together, adds to the ability of the soil to soak up water, protects the soil structure from breaking down and when the roots decay they add to the fertility of the soil. Forehand explains that kind of soil, condition of the soil, temperature, rainfall water and the velocity of winds have much to do with the rate of decay and amount of erosion. While in general plowed under sod offers erosion protection for two or three years, there are conditions where the period is reduced to one year or less. Some soils may become an erosion hazard the first year they are broken out of grass, which means that they should not be plowed.

This whole problem becomes of increasing importance, the chairman explains, now that farmers are again facing the need for reducing the acreage of tilled crops, providing a real opportunity to get land most susceptible to erosion back into grass. Not only will the grass protect the land but it will build reserves for future cropping if and when necessary.

Information on the Agricultural Conservation Program practices to help farmers to seed and maintain grasses and legumes may be obtained at the county ACP office located in the courthouse at Carlsbad.

Las Cruces Centennial Celebration Oct. 9-15 To Mirror Early History

The Las Cruces Centennial Celebration, Oct. 9-15 will mirror key historical events of the Southwest more than 400 years and reveal the friendly village level, the colorful contrast of American and Mexican civilizations.

The week-long fiesta in the city of 15,000, which has acquired atmosphere ever since Coronado and his conquistadores, is packed with such events as historical dramatizations, parades, a rodeo, square dancing, a chuck wagon dinner, old timers' fiddler contest, Southwestern mayors' milk-contest and a beard-judging contest.

At least 50,000 Southwesterners and tourists are expected to take part in various phases of the celebration in the city, where three crosses mark the death of the Apaches at the hands of the Apaches in 1787.

Less than five miles away is Old Mesilla, one-time capital of Arizona where the first American flag was after signing of the Gadsden Purchase Treaty in 1854. Here is famous restaurant, La Posta, specializing in Mexican food, its museum packed with authentic relics. Across the age-old plaza is the mission with its famous bells, rung day in, day out the last 60 years by Bell-Ringer Manuel Valles.

At Old Mesilla, Billy the Kid was imprisoned and sentenced to hanging.

At the site of what is now the thriving city of Las Cruces, A. W. Doniphan led his Missouri volunteers down the Rio Grande from Santa Fe to win the Battle of Brazito at a point between Las Cruces and El Paso. This historic march, which is ranked with that of Xenophon, then continued south for the capture of Chihuahua City in Mexico and east to the Gulf of Mexico, where the victorious and footsore soldiers were returned to their Missouri homes by way of New Orleans and the Mississippi River boats of the day.

Near Las Cruces is the Indian Village of Tortugas, where once a year the natives climb the mountain, El Cerro, barefoot to atone for their sins. Somewhere in the Organ Mountains are the rich lost

Unclue Bill Says

By Will Robinson
A nation isn't any good that has not a national game, this meaning the kind that is played by contending teams, not by successive dealers. Each year it is demonstrated that baseball is the premier. Here at the University of New Mexico, a large proportion of the campus goes nuts over football. All of them get that way over baseball.

This week the current of life was held at a standstill each day until the end of the game. The most learned professors were just as loco as the bright-eyed frosh or dignified seniors. Just why they made any pretense of classes isn't clear. Maybe they had to. The hint that the usual grading severity was thrown into the waste-basket was more or less justified.

Over 42,000 people saw the game in Ebbets Field and more than 20,000,000 hung on the radio, lots of them missing their dinners and all of them were either Dodgers or Yankees. Here on the campus, the normal 5000 didn't have many absences.

All of which is wholesome, of course. There isn't anything materially out of gear with a nation that would rather hang on the radio than eat. Baseball is one of the world sports that doesn't stink. Everything about it is wholesome.

Clean sports are good for a people, as they are for a person. Hurrah for the Yankees!

The Mesilla Valley of the Rio Grande boasts the largest pecan orchard in the world and is famous for its long staple cotton. Radium Springs with its baths and swimming pool are 15 miles to the north on Highway 85. Also in the area are ruins of the Shalam Colony, a onetime elaborate set of edifices dating back to the 1680's, where sin was to be overcome through the joint efforts of a mystic and a Boston importer. Legends about the area are legion. At one time or another the flags of Spain, Mexico, Texas, the Confederacy and the United States have flown over the Las Cruces area.

open their doors. Fire Chief Albert Richards pointed out, in urging local business leaders to join in the observation of "Fire Prevention Week" Oct. 9-15.

"Fire don't just happen," the chief observed. "There is always a reason for them and we know enough about those reasons now so we can cut down the number of fires."

"For example, we know that millions and millions of dollars go up in smoke each year simply because customers and clerks are careless with cigarets and matches. If we can keep people constantly aware of this one hazard, we can save many businesses from failure by fire."

The chief also outlined a 10-point inspection program for store managers, recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. He suggested:

1. Keep the basement clean and orderly, since poor housekeeping in the basement is responsible for many fires.
2. Check the heating system thoroughly.
3. Provide covered metal containers for ashes and trash.

Carlsbad Irrigation Project Has Been Transferred To District

An agreement to transfer management of the 25,000-acre Carlsbad Irrigation Project from the Bureau of Reclamation to the Carlsbad Irrigation District has been approved by Acting Secretary of the Interior Oscar C. Chapman.

Announcement of the acting secretary's action was received in Amarillo by H. E. Robbins, regional director of the Bureau of Reclamation, under whose jurisdiction the project has been operating.

"Negotiations between the Bureau of Reclamation and the Carlsbad Irrigation District, headed by R. T. Spence of Carlsbad, president of the board, have been in progress for some time," said Robbins. "The transfer of the project's operation and maintenance program from the bureau to the irrigation district," he added, "conforms to reclamation law and departmental policy."

Construction of the project by the reclamation service was completed in 1907. The project has been operated since that time under direction of a project superintendent, employed by the federal agency, in co-operation with a board of directors representing land owners in the area.

Initial costs of project construction, advanced by the bureau in accordance with reclamation law, were repaid by the landowners in 1947. However, landowners are continuing to repay costs for the bureau's construction of Alamogordo Dam, completed in 1937.

"From the standpoint of repayment of construction costs," said Robbins, "the Carlsbad project has one of the finest records of all Western reclamation projects."

There are approximately 430 farms and suburban homes in the project area in South Eddy County. Cotton and alfalfa are the principal field crops, although livestock feed is produced in abundance.

ected to be completed by the bureau this fall. The studies, requested by the district's board of directors, will be compiled in a report for use by the district, if desired, to seek congressional authorization and an appropriation of funds for work as required.

Several persons employed by the bureau for operation and maintenance services on the project have accepted employment with the district. Other employees have been transferred to various Western reclamation projects. H. H. Kidder, superintendent of the bureau's project operations, has accepted an assignment by a private engineering firm for work in South America.

In addition to President Spence officers and directors of the Carlsbad Irrigation District are J. C. Howard, secretary-treasurer; J. W. Stagner, attorney; Francis Tracy, Jr., Enea Grandi, C. F. Beeman and James Craft.

Howard has been named manager for the district, according to advices from Carlsbad.

with vegetables and fruits supporting the major enterprise.

Irrigation in the Pecos River Valley was begun by Spanish settlers in 1600 and this type of agriculture was expanded in the early 1800's under a system of colonization on Spanish land grants. Irrigation by Anglo-Americans was introduced in 1838 with organization of the Pecos Valley Land and Ditch Company. Financial difficulties, combined with floods that destroyed project storage dams, confronted the original and subsequent developments until rehabilitation of the project was completed 42 years ago by the bureau.

The project's irrigation water supply is stored in three reservoirs with a total capacity of 175,200 acre-feet. Alamogordo Dam, 16 miles north of Fort Sumner, was added to the system to supplement storage in Lakes McMillan and Avalon, reservoirs between Artesia and Carlsbad.

Investigations of work needed to rehabilitate the project are expected to be completed by the bureau this fall. The studies, requested by the district's board of directors, will be compiled in a report for use by the district, if desired, to seek congressional authorization and an appropriation of funds for work as required.

Attendance Record Set In September At Carlsbad Caverns

Carlsbad Caverns National Park set another attendance record last month, with 39,614 visitors as the all-time record for the month of September. This total was 1.2 per cent above the attendance figure for September, 1948.

Park Superintendent D. S. Libbey said last month's visitors came from all 48 states and Hawaii, Panama Canal Zones, Alaska, Guam, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Germany, Japan, Okinawa and Saipan.

Texas again was best represented with 4262 visitors at the Caverns during September. California ranked second with 1813 and Iowa was third with 717. New York, 668; Kansas, 301; Colorado, 299; Louisiana, 253; Ohio, 211; Missouri, 195.

Since the U.S. National Service took over the Caverns last attendance has been 4,000 as of Oct. 1, Libbey said.

Nation Uprooted

THE SOVIET government has eradicated half the population of Latvia by sending men and women to Siberia as slave laborers, Latvian refugee Janis Siron, 36, says at Springfield, O., where he is on maintenance force of Wittenberg college. He and his wife and children were taken from Latvia by the Nazis as they withdrew late in the war, and the Siron made their way to the U. S. later. The children, Carlos, 11, and Diana, 9, have to study (above) doubly hard, learning English along with other lessons. (International)

KEN KEENE THE CORNER DRUGGIST

This introduces Kenneth Keene (better known as just "Ken" to his townspeople), proprietor of the corner drug store. Ken's knowledge goes beyond his thorough acquaintance with pharmacy and merchandising. He is a practical philosopher and his observations (as seen as his name) will be reported here from time to time.

The other night in the drug store I asked Ken Keene if he recalled the days when some people wore smelly asafetida bags to ward off disease.

"Well, we have learned much since then," said Ken. "But at least those old timers wanted to stay healthy—and they also wanted to keep the nation healthy. Their ancestors had established a pattern of national strength and political health as an example to the world back in 1787, and they had the good sense to guard that against the disease of crackpot 'isms'."

"There still is nothing the matter with us that good-sense Americanism will not take care of. Yet there are some strange characters who are attracted by political and social quack dope which—so far as freedom and progress are concerned—have been fatal wherever tried. These phony remedies are harmful—which asafetida is not—and they smell much worse."

Anything that's OBLATE seldom rolls,
For, like the earth, it's flat at both poles.

If Columbus had not proved that the earth was round, we would know it now. What but spinning around an axis could cause the present international dizziness?

A decade or so ago it was the American custom to pop up a slow stove or to start a fire in the cook stove with a cupful of kerosene. Destructive, personal injuries, and property damages which resulted from this custom have for the most part stopped this careless custom; but it has been reported that some thoughtless and careless persons still follow this archaic custom. Don't ever take this chance!

Probably most mothers of children who go to school via bus, breathe a prayer for the protection of the youngsters leaving home each day. That's as it should be. But it would help further frequently to warn the children always to pause and look both ways when alighting from the bus.

YOU ARE INVITED
I have had a number of letters from readers—and I like them and want more of them. Come on in—with suggestions, questions, comments, or criticism. Rivers of grass...

"Rivers of grass" flow across this country. Millions of cattle and lambs have spent the spring and summer turning grass into meat. Now they are ready for round-up and shipment. So in October they move to the markets—in a great flood of livestock. Many go direct from the range to meat-packing plants. Others go to the feed lots to be grain-finished. But, either way, these meat animals are mostly grass—which folks cannot eat—converted into appetizing, nourishing meat for people. They are adding greatly to the health and wealth of the nation. Without this "livestock economy," in which you and we are engaged, 779,000,000 acres of our United States would produce little food for human use.

Whether you ship your cattle and lambs early or late—whether it's to Chicago, Ft. Worth, Denver or any of scores of other markets—you'll find buyers there to bid for them. With many others, Swift & Company helps provide the year-round daily market which is as essential to your business as it is to ours.

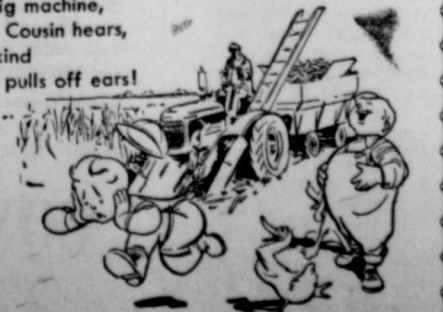

Your grass, turned into meat, is a vital raw material of all meat-packing operations. There is keen competition for it. Every meat packer and commercial slaughterer (and there are more than 18,000 of them in the United States) must have a regular supply of meat animals. Each buyer knows the high bid gets the animals. He knows also that his own price range is set by supply and demand. He sees your steers and lambs as so many pounds of meat and by-products. The price you are offered for your livestock is governed by what the meat packer can get for the meat and the by-products.

OUR CITY COUSIN

That big machine, City Cousin hears, is the kind that pulls off ears!

Your Markets for Meat

In the early days of our country, livestock was produced close to the point where it was eaten. But as the population grew, those conditions changed. Today two thirds of the people live east of the Mississippi, while two thirds of the livestock is produced west of that river. To bridge that gap of more than 1,000 miles is no small job. Millions of head of livestock must be processed and the meat distributed to where it is wanted. The facilities of nationwide meat packers provide you with markets for your meat animals; move the meat to cities and towns where it is in demand.

Swift & Company, and other nationwide meat packers, sell meat to retailers wherever there are people who want to buy it. . . no matter how far that may be from your farm or ranch. We bring you the benefit of national, rather than local, demand. This means that, in selling your livestock, you choose between the price created by local demand, or the price created by the national demand of millions of meat eaters.

We work hard to encourage people to serve meat oftener—to eat more of it. . . And we are proud that our nationwide system is one of the most efficient, low-cost food distribution systems in the United States.

Martha Logan's Recipe for SAUSAGE AND CORN BREAD

(Yield: 6 servings)

- 1 lb. pork sausage meat

"We, as ranchers, are not sufficient unto ourselves. In fact, we are only the beginning of the beef line. Of equal importance are the feeder, the processor, the distributor and the consumer. Disregard the rights or welfare of any of these, and sooner or later we suffer."

Supplement that Poor Forage

by Robert D. Rasmussen
New Mexico A. & M. College

Dried-up pastures and winter weather create the same feeding problem for the cattleman. They simply mean that you have lower quality feed and less of it. And you have little choice as to what you can do about it. You can let the cattle eat what they can find. In this case you're likely to take a weight loss on your cows. You'll also take a chance on a weak calf crop. Or you can feed a supplement. If you feed enough of the right kind, your cows and unborn calves will come through in good, healthy condition.

California experiments on deficient range showed the cow herd that got a protein supplement produced a 91% calf crop. Cows on similar range, without a supplement, produced a 61% calf crop. Arizona found that feeding supplement increased the weight of the calves at birth by 10 pounds.

The amount of supplement needed varies. Cows carrying calves, and young stock require more protein than open cows or mature animals. A safe rule to follow is to watch the condition of the stock. Keep them healthy and thrifty.

Research by the New Mexico agricultural experiment station shows that during the winter months range forage is most critically short of phosphorus as well as protein. While some of the cake supplements are high in phosphorus as well as protein, most ranchers over the state are using mineral supplement for year-round use. A mineral supplement containing at least 6% phosphorus should be made available at all times to range cattle. Experiments have shown that year-round use is better and more profitable than seasonal use.

Here's a goal for cattlemen. Use whatever kind and amount of supplement is necessary to keep your cattle healthy and thrifty. (Editor's Note: The principles of animal nutrition discussed above apply in all parts of the country.)

NIGHT CLUB FRACAS BLAMED ON BRAWL OVER DOLL

Robin Roberts and Miss Roberts.

Man-about-town John Jelke and banker's daughter Peggy Rabe.

ONE OF THOSE New York night club brawls, full of sound and fury but signifying nothing, again has the Big City in a dither. According to reports (as always) the affair started when Peggy Rabe tried to pick up a panda doll brought into the club by a couple of playboys. Movie star Humphrey Bogart dashed forth, the reports continue, and pushed Miss Rabe. Her escort, John Jelke, broke a couple of dinner plates by way of protest. A few minutes before (still quoting those reports) "Bogie" had floored model Robin Roberts when she "paid too much attention" to the same panda. Robin said she was bruised. Bogart was sued for assault by Miss Roberts.

score 20-0 in favor of Artesia.

The kickoff by Russell was taken by McTavish, who fumbled, then ran to the 12. At this time Fred Hernandez, 215-pound Artesia lineman, was put out of the game by the referee, charged with improper language. The half ended several plays later, with Artesia in possession of the ball in midfield.

In the second half, McTavish took Russell's kickoff on the Clovis five and returned to the 32. On the next play, McTavish passed to Riley beyond the Artesia secondary and ran to the one-yard line, where he was tackled from behind. He fell over the line for the only Clovis touchdown. Tom Hamilton made a placement good.

Sam Chandler's kickoff was taken by Cole on the Artesia 12 and he returned to the 33. Haldeman made nine yards around left end and then A. L. Terpening made a first down through right tackle to the Artesia 46. Dublin passed to Burch, who advanced to the Clovis 17. Batie picked up three through tackle, but the Bulldogs were penalized 15 yards for holding. Dublin then passed to Haldeman for a five-yard gain, but Clovis was penalized 15 yards for piling on. Dublin then passed to Terpening on the one-yard line and Terpening smashed through right guard for six points on the next play. Russell's placement was good, but Artesia was penalized five yards for off-side. His second attempt went to the left of the upposts.

Two plays later Bulldog Buster Brown was put out of the game on a charge of slugging.

And only a few plays later Batie went through left tackle for 10 yards and a touchdown, the final score of the game.

Artesia made 14 first downs to 12 for Clovis. The Bulldogs attempted 12 passes, of which eight were completed and one was intercepted. Clovis attempted 10, of which three were completed and three were intercepted.

John Francis—

drops looking like long arrows and hold exactly as much water.

After the shower, I hiked to the upper section of town. The community public service building which I passed is noticeably modern.

At The Ruidoso News office, I met the town's very attractive editor, Mrs. Mary Nell Barber. With several helpers and feature writers, she edits a compact weekly tabloid.

Each mid-May they publish a city-size special edition to get the season rolling. The pictures show no parking space left on Main Street. I was surprised at the spacious ads throughout the edition.

There is no forester in Ruidoso during the fall season, so I received some facts from Mrs. Barber about the Ruidoso area and why it is a favored resort.

The Rio Ruidoso, which makes the resort what it is, rises about nine miles west of the resort. Below the town it joins the Benito and Hondo and thence flows into the Pecos.

The Ruidoso has more water than usual this year. There are 32 miles of fishing water and it is a stocked stream. Brown, rainbow and brook trout are caught. Dr. Snow of Roswell caught the year's prize, a 24-inch brown trout, in a pool above the resort. The extra flow this year is pushing the fish out of the pools.

The city cab man, who drove me to the airport, is a former B-17 gunner. He flies a light ship in and out over the mountains. The airport is two and a half miles from town and is in the process of building. There is a north and south runway a mile long or more, with excellent south approach that wouldn't daunt a modern pilot for a minute.

From personal observation, the airport valley contains sufficient natural terrain for larger runways, which can be gained in time with surveying, drainage and development. Clubs of light plane enthusiasts use the airport during the summer and winter seasons.

My last trip was to the top of Lookout Point. The fire lookout tower is locked at this season, but excellent all-direction views can be seen from the landings.

The sights and developments of this resort have really changed in the last 20 years and I hope your reading about them has been as pleasurable as my seeing and writing about them. I have only scratched the surface in telling you of all the available wonders here

That is, they agreed to that until "Sug" Hazel, who makes a business driving aeroplanes and knows a thing or two about weather, said there was a well-defined wind-shift line about a mile south of town, which remained in about the same position all of Friday afternoon.

He took all the fun out of it when he said it probably was some sort of experimental balloon, which happened to be released at the wind shift and that it was buffeted back and forth between the westerly and easterly winds, which helped make its position static, at the same time making it cut capers because of the turbulence.

But he hasn't explained the lights and there were too many puffs for there to have been a series of balloons bursting one after another as the altitude increased.

Apology—

disgrace to football.

"Small wonder that Artesia found itself with three players thrown from the game... all because of roughing and slugging, no doubt incited by Coach Tinson's ranting and raving on the sidelines... Artesia already had a reputation for poor sportsmanship as a result of other games this season... The Bulldogs' action here Friday night didn't help that reputation any... From a reliable source, it is learned that two schools, who played Artesia earlier in the season said they will drop the Bulldogs from their schedule—because of the rough stuff.

"Last week at Artesia, the Bulldogs stomped Lovington 48-0... and in so doing were assessed 200 yards in penalties... They say it was for roughness."

In our book, those are fighting words, which need to be challenged. And their author needs to retract them, with all the bowing and scraping and apologizing Gantner can find possible in his soul.

And we want to know his authority for that statement about Artesia being dropped by two other schools. We had heard nothing about it. And we had heard nothing about undue roughness on the part of the Bulldogs.

Certainly they are rugged. And they are tough. And they go into games to win them. That is the way they have been taught by Jack Tinson. But they have not been taught unsportsmanlike actions. Coach Tinson believes in his players being in condition. That is reflected in the small number of injuries they have sustained. They have been taught to take care of themselves.

And on the other hand, if a coach did not protect his team when it appears there have been bad decisions on the part of football officials, he would not be worth his salt. Many an official does not know the rulebook. Many a coach does not, as far as that goes. But we'll bet Jack Tinson does. And when he sees his team's actions wrongfully called, it is his job to step in and do something about it. If he merely sat on the bench and allowed officials to make bad decisions and themselves be guilty of infractions of the rules, he would not be doing his job.

We certainly believe Bern Gantner owes Jack Tinson, one of the outstanding coaches in the nation and this community an apology—and quickly.—A.L.B.
