visitors here last week Birmingham, Ala., were quite pleased with Artesia, as are all of our little city.

These visitors went further their impressions that just derived from seeing the splendor and other buildings, the parks and beautiful meeting a handful of friendly citizens.

They reported that they had an inquiry or two of a traffic and that he was extremely good and helpful.

It did not stop there. The from Birmingham went to go west over Highway across the Sacramento Mountains were somewhat apprehensive they might run into and weather conditions. The amazement of the visitors, police contacted Alamogordo telephone and inquired as to weather and roads. The from Birmingham went on way rejoicing, after assurance that conditions were good with the greatest of praise for in general, for the cops in general.

While we're talking about Artesia cops, Chief Earl D. believes in his officers leading and enforcing by police quarters is a pointed or addressed to all city police officers that they will obey all traffic city, county and state, except in case of emergency. For the first time, the penalty will be suspension, the order says. For the dismissal!

ing that line, inasmuch as you the cops make left hand inside the center of an intersection, instead of making a wide, impractical, dangerous outside and inasmuch as you know they aren't going to traffic rules under penalty suspension, why not everybody the same kind of turns?

My attention has been called to an editorial which you carried in your newspaper under date of Nov. 4, 1949, under the heading, "What About Highway 83?" You state in this editorial that indications are that the State Highway Department has dropped the promised improvements on Highway 83 between Artesia and Hope. You also state that this work had a definite place in a program set up many months ago, but it appears now that it is not just being bypassed, but wiped off the program, and that you would like to know why.

First, I would like to state to you that this section of road is on the Federal Air Secondary System, and as such is eligible for Federal Aid Secondary Highway funds for its improvement. I would like to call to your further attention that it is the policy of this department to secure from the

Community Chest Drive For $8600 To Be Staged Tuesday

Plans for the annual Community Chest campaign for funds in Artesia Tuesday are rounding out with hopes it may be completed in one day, it was announced this morning by Luther E. Sharpe, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who has been named campaign chairman.

The quota for the Community Chest here is $8600, of which $2400 is for the Girl Scouts, $4200 for the Boy Scouts and $2000 for the community welfare fund.

Manager Sharpe said about 50 campaign workers are to meet in the basement of the Masonic Temple for a complimentary breakfast at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, after which the campaign will be staged.

At the breakfast, he said, assignments for calls will be made to individual workers.

However, Manager Sharpe added, the list of calls will naturally be incomplete and the workers will overlook many firms and individuals wishing to contribute. If this should happen, he asked that those concerned send contribution checks made out to the Artesia Community Chest to the Chamber of Commerce office in the Artesia Hotel.

He also requested the heads of businesses to solicit contributions to the fund among employees, as it is desirable everyone do his bit

Thanksgiving Will Upset Routine Again

Another holiday, Thanksgiving, will upset the routine at The Advocate office next week for the second time in two weeks, but will not cause a change in the day of issue as did Armistice Day.

The two issues next week will come out on the regular publication days of Tuesday and Friday, but by necessity copy for the Friday issue, both advertising and news, must be in early.

Major news happenings on Thanksgiving will be covered as far as possible in the Friday, Nov. 25, issue, but less important items and news stories will be carried over to the Tuesday, Nov. 29 issue.

Correspondents, club and church reporters, and advertisers are asked to co-operate by getting in copy and information as early next week as possible for the Friday issue.

Whooping Cough Immunization To Be Given At Outlying Schools

Because of the present whooping cough epidemic, Dr. O. E. Puckett, district health officer, has asked Mrs. Naomi Votaw, North Eddy County nurse, to hold immunization clinics in the Artesia suburban communities, a schedule of which has been worked out for the next two weeks.

The schedule: Atoka, Monday, Nov. 21; Hope, Tuesday, Nov. 22; Cottonwood, Wednesday, Nov. 23; Oilfield, Thursday, Dec. 1; Lake-wood, Friday, Dec. 2.

All of the clinics will be held at the schools in the various communities from 9:45 o'clock in the morning to 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon on the scheduled days.

All children needing immunization will be immunized, and any child 4 months old or older may have the benefit of the program, if accompanied by a parent. School children will need a written request for the service.

If a child is now being taken to the family doctor for immunization, Dr. Puckett urges that the parents keep all appointments made with their physician.

He said very young babies, less than 4 months old, should receive their immunization from family doctors.

Mrs. Votaw said it is an old-fashioned idea that children must have the so-called "childhood diseases," especially when immunization can be given to prevent them. She pointed out that just as progress is made in other fields, so does the science of medicine advance.

If there are any question about immunization or booster doses, Mrs. Votaw asked that parents go to the school in the community on the date specified and she will be happy to help and to answer all questions.

The immunizations are free.

Last Rites For Arthur Rowland Held Thursday

Arthur P. Rowland, 67, of Albuquerque, formerly of Artesia, where he came from Missouri in 1910, died at Albuquerque Monday after a short illness.

His body arrived in Artesia Tuesday night and lay in state at Paulin Chapel, where funeral services were conducted at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon by Rev. Arthur G. Bell, pastor of the First Christian Church. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery.

E.N.M.U. Prexy Speaks As Club Honors Bulldogs

FLOYD D. GOLDEN
President Floyd D. Golden of Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, speaking Thursday noon at the weekly Artesia Kiwanis Club luncheon, at which members of the Artesia High School Bulldog football squad were guests, talked on "Playing the Game."

He held the football players, members of the pep squad and Kiwanians that the game should be played according to the rules—not only (Continued last page this section)

Bulldogs To Meet Cavemen Tonight On Carlsbad Field

The Artesia Bulldogs, backed by a large number of supporters seated in a special section of the Carlsbad stadium, will meet the Cavemen at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

And the Cavemen will be faced by a strengthened Artesia squad of 35 Bulldogs, with the varsity bolstered by the addition of 10 "B" squad men, held over after the completion of the "B" schedule.

On the other hand, it is understood the Cavemen have suffered some injuries, which might weaken their game, for the Bulldogs are in splendid shape.

Head Coach Jack Tinson's Bulldogs will go to Carlsbad with a season record to date of five wins, three losses, and a tie, while the Cavemen have won five and lost four. One each win and loss were in games against Texas teams, the remainder in New Mexico.

So far this season the Bulldogs have piled up 209 points to 81 for their opponents. Of the Artesia total .89 points were rolled up in to games by blanking Jal 41-0 (continues last page this section)

Program On 'Crusade For Christian World' Presented Monday

About 70 friendly members and friends of the First Christian Church enjoyed a covered-dish supper Monday evening, with chicken pie as one of the chief attractions.

A challenging program was presented by a team representing "The Crusade for a Christian World," the three-year program of the Disciples of Christ. The team leader was Marion W. Nilsson, pastor of First Christian Church of Roswell. He was supported by Phil M. Runner, Rocky Mountain area director of religious education, with office in Denver, and C. Manley Morton, for more than 30 years a missionary in Latin America.

All present felt a great uplift by the excellent addresses of the team.

Cage Practice Is Started In Earnest Monday

Candidates for Coach Floyd Davis' Bulldog basketball squad started practice in earnest Monday after some preliminary workouts last week.

He reported more than 30 players who are not on the varsity football squad were coming out and predicted the number would more than double after the Hobbs-Artesia Thanksgiving Day football clash here next week.

The cage team will play its first game at Lake Arthur Tuesday, Dec. 6, with three more regularly scheduled games and the invitational tournament at Capitan coming up before the Christmas holidays.

The remaining regularly scheduled games all will be played here. They are against Hope Friday, Dec. 9, Santa Fe Saturday, Dec. 10, and Rosedale Tuesday, Dec. 13.

The invitational tournament at Capitan is to be played Friday and Saturday, Dec. 16-17.

The Bulldogs have a season schedule of 24 regular games, of which 12 each will be at home and on the road.

'National Kids' Day' To Honor Boys And Girls Here Saturday

All details and plans for the honoring of boys and girls of the Artesia trade territory Saturday in observance of "National Kids Day" are complete, it was announced this morning by C. C. Morgan, general chairman for the Artesia Kiwanis Club, sponsor of the program.

Earlier this week Mayor Oren C. Roberts proclaimed Saturday as "Kids' Day" in Artesia and called on citizens of the community to co-operate in the efforts of the Kiwanis Club in support of the objectives of the day.

The program for the day calls for a parade of boys and girls of all ages at 10 o'clock in the morning, a free movie for them at the Landsun Theater at 11 o'clock as guests of Ray Bartlett, manager of the Artesia theaters, and the Kiwanis Club and a program at Morris Field at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Leo Williams, parade marshal, said the various groups and individuals are to assemble for the parade at Ninth and Main Streets at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and that the parade will start from there promptly at 10 o'clock.

It will proceed down Main Street to First Street, where it will break up. The boys and girls are to go from there to the Landsun for the free movie.

The parade will be headed by a police car. Groups which have definitely said they will be in the parade include the Artesia High School Bulldog football team, high school pep squad, Girl Scouts and Brownies, and Boy Scouts and Cubs.

All other groups of boys and girls in the Artesia trade territory have been invited and a number are expected to accept. The 4-H Clubs in all schools in this area and the various rooms with their teachers have been asked to participate.

Williams said those taking part in the parade do not need belong to any group, but that all boys and girls are invited. He suggested that some of the individuals might wish to ride bicycles or horses and said provision will be made for such riders in the parade.

Although it had been announced previously the parade would have a longer line of march, the distance (Continued last page, this section)

Dozens Of Deer Are Brought In By Small Percentage Of Hunters

Dozens of casualties during the big-game season to date have been reported—casualties to deer. But only a small percentage of hunters have been successful, the killing of so many deer attributed merely to the thousands of hunters in the mountains, probably the largest number in the history of New Mexico.

The only human casualty reported—the first in New Mexico in three years—was Mrs. Juan Jaquez, a Navajo Indian, about 45, of Blanco Canyon, near Farmington. Mrs. Jaquez was mistaken for a deer while she was gathering pinon nuts.

Thomas Millard Traylor, 13-year-old Weed boy, who was shot in camp near Weed Sunday by a bullet from a .22-calibre rifle, is doing nicely at Artesia Municipal Hospital. The bullet went through his liver and intestines.

J. B. Champion, Jr., of Artesia, who was shot Thursday afternoon of last week by a spent bullet, while hunting in Dark Canyon in the Guadalupes, is little the worse for his experience. However, he is still carrying the bullet in his left thigh near the bone.

Four contests are being conducted by Artesia businesses for lucky hunters, but as they will continue until after the close of the season, which will be Monday, those who today are apparent winners may have been beat by that time.

Brimard-Corbin Hardware Company and Baldwin's have offered prizes for the heaviest deer, with the Brimard-Corbin contest limited to bucks having six or fewer points. Evans Hardware and Raymond Wood, gunsmith, are giving prizes for the widest spread. At all except Evans Hardware, a hunter was required to register before going hunting in order to be eligible for a prize.

As many successful hunters as possible will be named in these columns in the next several issues, as lists are compiled. Here is the first of them, giving first the hunter's name, then the number of points, the weight or probable weight and the area where killed, insofar as possible, otherwise only those facts which were learned:

Bill Gelwick, 9, 195, Pinon; Mrs. Bill Gelwick, 10, 164, Pinon; Homer W. Heathman, 7, 165, Wild Horse; A. D. Shaw, 4, 85, Mule Canyon; Riley Brown, 10, 140, Mule Canyon; Jackie Don Woodside, 9, 150, Mule Canyon; Ormond Loving, 9, 170, Jernigan.

Donald Kiddy, 5, 125, Dark Canyon; Lee Francis, 7, 150 and a turkey, Sacramento River; Curtis Wilson, turkey only, Sacramento River. (Continued last page, this section)

State Highway Engineer Gives Facts About Improvement Of 83

(A recent editorial in The Advocate under the heading "What About Highway 83?" raised the question as to why the Artesia-Hope section of the highway is being by-passed in the construction program.

In reply, B. G. Dwyr, state highway engineer, has written The Advocate the following letter:)

My attention has been called to an editorial which you carried in your newspaper under date of Nov. 4, 1949, under the heading, "What About Highway 83?" You state in this editorial that indications are that the State Highway Department has dropped the promised improvements on Highway 83 between Artesia and Hope. You also state that this work had a definite place in a program set up many months ago, but it appears now that it is not just being bypassed, but wiped off the program, and that you would like to know why.

First, I would like to state to you that this section of road is on the Federal Air Secondary System, and as such is eligible for Federal Aid Secondary Highway funds for its improvement. I would like to call to your further attention that it is the policy of this department to secure from the Board of County Commissioners of the several counties of the state their approval of the location of all Federal Aid Secondary projects.

In the case of Eddy county, the Federal Aid Secondary projects which have been built since Jan. 1, 1947, with the consent and approval of your Board of County Commissioners are as follows: S-78 (1), Carlsbad-Otis, 6.4 miles, $86,277; S-93 (1), Southeast of Artesia, 6 miles, $121,910; S-85 (4), Loving-potash mines, 8.7 miles $168,843.

In addition to the above, we have programmed for construction the following Federal Aid Secondary projects: S-183, north and west of Artesia, 14.2 miles, $108,200; S-144 (1), Atoka, two miles, $43,000; S-145 (1), Atoka, one mile, $22,000; S-147 (1), north and west of Carlsbad, nine miles, $225,000.

As above stated, the selection of these projects was the result of a joint study made by the county Commissioners of Eddy County and the State Highway Commission, and during these studies nothing was set up in any program for the reconstruction of any part of the road between Artesia and Hope. There was, however, a commitment made by the State Highway Commission to improve the road (Continued last page, this section)

Artesians' Luggage Stolen At Duke City Is Valued At $400

Luggage valued at about $400 and belonging to two Artesia citizens attending a conference of the New Mexico Council of Churches in Albuquerque, was stolen there between 7:30 and 10:15 o'clock Monday night from the automobile of Rev. Ralph O'Dell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Artesia.

Mrs. Katherine Smith, migrant worker in this area, said her grip and clothing was valued at about $150 and Rev. O'Dell reported a $250 loss.

Albuquerque police, who were notified immediately, have not reported any headway with the case as yet.

The conference was in session from Monday night through Wednesday noon. Mrs. Smith and Rev. O'Dell returned home Wednesday evening.

First 'Methodist Fellowship Hour' Is Well Attended

The first of the series of the "Methodist Evening Fellowship Hours" held Sunday evening at the First Methodist Church, was well attended by both adults and young people. Much interest is being created and many more participants are expected next Sunday.

For the next eight months throughout Methodism a study is to be made of "Our Faith." During the month of November Methodists will study and discuss "Our Faith in God" from one of the eight booklets written for this series of study. These booklets are still available from Rev. R. L. Willingham, pastor.

This is one of the greatest programs launched by Methodists during this time, members said. It is non-demonstrational, a study in which any Christian might enjoy. Many grave problems would not exist today if those who profess to be Christians only knew that God is ever near and ready to help for the asking, they said. Through the study of "Our Faith" men and women, boys and girls, will gain strength and courage and also find their lives enriched, it was pointed out. Every Methodist is expected to attend if possible and any others interested are welcome.

Francis Spins Breezy Yarn Sea Captain Builds 'Windwagon'

(The series of articles written for The Advocate by John J. Francis of Glendale, Calif., continues, as he writes of "Windy Weather and a Tall Tale That Is Really True.")

The writer, brother of Lee Francis of Artesia, gathered material on a recent visit in Artesia and on a trip to the Midwest and has written a number of articles, which will be published as time and space permit.)

By John J. Francis
Truth often appears to be stranger than fiction, especially if it is presented at a later date and time.

While visiting in Artesia, I was told that the wind blows there in March. Nevertheless I was treated to numerous days recently when some gustful winds must have exceeded 50 miles per hour.

If you know your "rule of thumb," you know how hard the wind blows: At 50 miles per hour sand flies through the air; at 60 miles per hour pebbles crack your spectacles; at 70 miles per hour rocks come through the wind shield; at 80 miles per hour we should all be home with the wind bolts bolted down.

I know a tough old Hollander who lived all his life in Western Nebraska, where the wind rarely blows. When he moved to Artesia he anchored the corners of his garage with 600-pound pumpjack weights.

However, the highest and hardest blowing winds must be recorded for the region around Vaughn. I can attest to this, because of a fact the bus driver told his passengers.

Vaughn, as you know, is a railroad center. Well, a "rattler" of about 120 boxcars was slowly coming into Vaughn from the north. It was terribly windy and the train was stretched out and slowed down from heading into such a terrific wind. The engineer threw the full head of steam, but he lost ground. Soon he looked at the ground and saw he wasn't traveling at all. Then he looked at his drivers. They were turning up to regular speed, but his train was sitting still, right there on the flat prairie.

Presently a short lull came in the wind. He got up a little speed and made it on into Vaughn and a half hour later.

I think the bus driver got his story straight from the engineer. I will attest to the fact that between Vaughn and Cline's Corners one must of necessity travel about 20 miles an hour to keep a hard crosswind from skidding the front end off the road. Did you know these modern buses weigh 19 tons? Boy, what it must be like in March!

And now for a true story: The basic facts are found in the old newspaper files at Independence, Mo.

About 1825, Westport, located where Kansas City now stands, and Independence vied for supremacy in being the jumping-off place for the Santa Fe Trail. The (Continued last page, this section)

Proceeds From Box Supper To Buy Kids Gifts

All proceeds from a public box supper next Tuesday night, sponsored by the Artesia Lions Club, are to be used to purchase gifts for underprivileged children of the Artesia area for Christmas.

Earl Zeigler, president of the Lions Club, urged everyone in the community to attend and lend financial support to the project, as well as to enjoy the supper and an evening of fun and entertainment at the Central School gymnasium.

High on the entertainment list will be a boxing match between W. R. Petty, welterweight and Jack Faunterloy, bantamweight. Over-size gloves, padded with goose down and sponge rubber, will be worn by the contestants.

With that as a pattern, other entertainment will be provided, musical and otherwise.

The box supper is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock, with admission requirements a boxed supper for two brought by each couple. The boxes will be auctioned off to the men and the purchaser of each will eat with the woman whose box he has bid in.

President Zeigler pointed out that the higher the bids, the greater the proceeds from the evening will be and the better job the Lions Club will be able to do in providing Christmas gifts for underprivileged children.

Knife-Fork Club Inaugural Dinner Plans Are Set

Plans for the inaugural dinner of the new Knife and Fork Club of North Eddy County that will meet in Artesia were announced Thursday by Theodore Fisher, field director, who is handling the organization of the local club unit.

This first dinner meeting will be on the evening of Tuesday, Dec. 13, with the women of American Legion Auxiliary serving the dinner in the Veterans Memorial Building.

The guest speaker on this occasion will be Dr. Gerald Wendt, who will make a special trip from New York City to serve the club here.

On the preceding evening, he will open the new Knife and Fork Club of Carlsbad, meetings of which will be held in the Woman's Club building of that city. Wendt then goes to Midland, Odessa and other Texas cities as initial guest of affiliated clubs in that section.

Dr. Wendt's subject will be "On the Horizon in Science" He will (Continued last page this section)

Boy Scout Circus To Be Presented Saturday, Dec. 3

A Boy Scout circus, or merit badge show, for Scouts and Cubs of the Gateway District will be held in the Central School gymnasium in Artesia Saturday, Dec. 3.

The boys will devote the morning to decoration of booths and the placing of exhibits in the gymnasium, which may be viewed by the public from 2:30 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The main program will start at 7 o'clock in the evening, for which a charge will be made. The first hour will be devoted to the inspection of exhibits. At 8 o'clock there will be a parade around the gymnasium with the Scouts and Cubs in costumes of any type, with emphasis on originality on the part of the boys. Three prizes will be given for the best costumes.

Starting at 8:15 o'clock each unit is to present a program.

Willingham To Speak At P.T.A. Meeting

Rev. R. L. Willingham, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will speak on "Struggle for Independence" at a meeting of the Artesia High School Parent-Teacher Association in the home economics room at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

The public is invited to attend and hear Rev. Willingham's address.

Bratcher Daughter Is Born Wednesday

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bratcher are the parents of a daughter, born Wednesday at the Artesia Municipal Hospital. The baby has not been named as yet.

Is It Worth While?

MOST OF US WONDER sometimes whether some of the community jobs and projects we carry out are worth while. They usually get a little old and it seems that the calls for our time and for our money are always on the increase.

But if Artesia could have some of the fine things that are said about their football field, their attendance for grid games, the fine spirit that prevails and their splendid high school band—well all of the work and effort would seem very much worth while.

Artesia, of course, has always had a fine reputation for a city that backed its school programs, athletics and otherwise. And it seems to be increasing the support and backing it gives its teams, clubs and groups.

We are sure that it builds for a better relation between the students and the citizens of the community. It certainly helps the school have the things it wants and needs.

There are a good many schools that have talked considerably after they returned home about the spirit they found at Artesia and the splendid attendance for the various gridiron contests.

That is the case at Las Cruces after they played at Artesia. They appreciated the fine attendance; the fine spirit; the enthusiasm and the splendid band.

The result is that Las Cruces is going to try to develop a similar spirit for their school and to bring about needed improvements in their football field. Artesia has long had one of the finest athletic fields and stadiums in the state.

So when some of us get to wondering whether there aren't too many calls or whether it is all worth the effort, all we need to do is stop to realize all the fine publicity and the fine comment on Artesia's splendid school spirit and support given to the schools and we will realize it is all more than worth while.

Artesia does one of the outstanding jobs in the state in backing its schools and the day is coming when there will be an outstanding football team at the local high school because of this fine spirit and the fine support.—O.E.P.

Can We Trust Him?

THERE HAS BEEN A LOT of newspaper space, a lot of radio comment and a lot of discussions devoted to Tito and his supposedly "change of face" insofar as Russia and Joseph Stalin are concerned.

But we have wondered from the first whether Tito is sincere, whether he can be trusted and whether he is in earnest in his opposition to Soviet Russia or whether his actions and conduct are all for the benefit of the United States.

Insofar as we are concerned we classify Tito in the same group with Stalin. He acquired his power in the same manner; he employed the same tactics to win his authority and he rules in a like manner.

We are rather firmly convinced that whether he has or hasn't turned against those who helped him to win and to hold his present dictatorship that he is only interested in promoting himself and he will employ any and every means possible to continue to rule with an iron hand in his own country.

We wonder whether he has reserved his position insofar as Russia is concerned under a Russian plan to get anything he can get from America or whether he is sincere. We question his sincerity and feel sure there are those in America who are watching him, his actions and activities.

Personally we have never felt that he has the armed forces or the power to dictate to Russia. His position does not permit him to do some of the things he has done or is doing unless that he has been given a program to follow and Russia has endorsed that program and is permitting him to carry it out.

We see no particular reason why we should take him in and grant to him the things he wants or needs or would like to have until he has proven that he has definitely broken with Russia.

We still wonder whether he has or hasn't.

We sincerely hope that America is not being "taken in" by his present action and conduct. We hope that we have placed him on the list of those who must prove themselves before they are granted and given the things they want and need and only America can provide for him.—O.E.P.

The Community Chest

THE COMMUNITY CHEST campaign in Artesia will start Tuesday, with hopes that it may be completed in one day.

A total of $8600 is being asked for the Boy Scout, Girl Scout and community welfare funds. That, it seems to us, is not a large figure, when it is considered three drives are being rolled into one.

From that standpoint, the average contributor probably would be asked to give more and would give more were there to be three separate drives.

But every drive means sincere supporters have to go to work and give of their time, for which they get not a penny. If it were not for such people no drive could be put across.

And on the other hand, people must be bothered—if that is the term—every time a campaign is staged, for without solicitation there would be no successful conclusion of any drive. It is human nature to have the best of intentions about contributing and then to forget to contribute, unless some worker comes around at the proper time and asks for a donation for a certain cause.

Surely there are no finer causes than the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and community welfare. There are others just as fine and worthy, but there is none finer.

Everyone, realizing this, should be ready and willing next Tuesday to make his contribution to the Artesia Community Chest.—A.L.B.

Continue Road Work

THE STRIP OF HIGHWAY built by the state just north of Carlsbad on No. 285 is about as fine a strip of road as can be found in the state and we are sure that Eddy County appreciates the fine job done on this project.

It, of course, could and should have been done many years ago because of the condition of this route and because of the hazards to all traffic.

But it has been done now and it was worth waiting for. The program as announced calls for the repaving or re-surfacing of the entire strip of 285 in Eddy County. And that will be a real aid to the county.

It is hoped and expected that the project will be carried out as rapidly as possible. It certainly is hoped it can and will be done under the administration of Gov. Thomas J. Mabry.

Governor Mabry has given more consideration to Eddy County than any governor who has served in a good many years. On the other hand Eddy County has shown its appreciation for this interest of Governor Mabry by giving him a splendid vote when he needed it.

But we can't keep from thinking that it would only be fitting and proper since the approximately 10 miles of paving work has been completed north out of Carlsbad, that it would be perfectly in line for the next strip of paving to be completed south out of Artesia. The third project then could be the area between these two strips of highway.

It is our understanding that the next project is to extend on north from the end of the project recently completed. Certainly that is fine and it will mean eventually that the entire project will be completed.

But since the first strip was north of Carlsbad it appears to us there is no reason why that the next project couldn't be at the south edge of Artesia.

It would bring about an improvement that is needed there; would indicate that all consideration is given to all communities of the county and would mean that this part of the road is merely completed ahead of the area farther south of Artesia.

We do not know whether a request has been made that this be done. We do not know whether it is practical but we are presuming it could be worked out in this manner.

Most of us realize that any improvements we can make or have made to our city are more than worthwhile. Efforts have been directed along these lines for some time now. Hopes are entertained that considerable improvement can be made in these approaches to Artesia and certainly the work on Highway No. 285 south to link sooner or later with the other work done and that to be done certainly would help considerably in the improvement program being urged.

We see no particular reason why this work couldn't extend south from Artesia just as well as extending north from that part of the project now completed.—O.E.P.

Larger Library Needed

NATIONAL BOOK WEEK is being observed throughout the nation this week. What better time to consider the growing need for a larger library for Artesia?

The present quarters in the city hall building have been used about a decade and are a far cry from the old library on Roselawn, which was razed a few months ago.

And the library quarters in the city hall served very nicely at the time they were first occupied.

But over the years the city has more than doubled in size and the number of books on the library shelves has grown month by month, until there now is little available space for further expansion.

Just as a municipality is judged by its schools and churches, so is it judged by its library—another mark of culture, progress and the desire of its people for the better things in life.

The books in a library provide a means of information and knowledge, as well as a form of amusement, that of reading fiction. They serve all ages and people from all walks of life. They provide reading from the heavy to the extremely light. They lead youth to learn to broaden their knowledge and teach them how to find out things they would know more about.

But in order to broaden the thinking and reading of the people of the community, we need to broaden the size and scope of Artesia Public Library.

We sincerely hope that ere "National Book Week" is again observed, a movement will have taken definite form for a new and larger library building for Artesia.—A.L.B.

Jewelers are to hold a convention in a western city. Oh, goody, youngsters—another gem session.

AN EASTERN COLLEGE laboratory has developed a machine which measures the speed of the movement of the eye. Fine, now we'll know the exact length of a nap which is only 40 winks.

Inside WASHINGTON

MARCH OF EVENTS

Civil Air Regulations Changes Seen Certain | Expect Another Bill Over AEC's Chairman

WASHINGTON—You can definitely look for some changes in United States civil aviation regulations to keep military planes off airports where big commercial airliners land.

Even if the Civil Aeronautics Administration doesn't get around itself to changing these flying regulations, it is a sure bet that Congress will act to strengthen them after it convenes in January.

The storm stirred up by the collision of the Eastern Airlines DC-4 with a P-38 over Washington National Airport which killed persons in the nation's worst airplane disaster won't quiet down unless some action is taken.

Already, the leading aviation experts in Congress have announced their determination that flying regulations are revised to protect airliners from mid-air collisions.

There are strong indications that the CAA will change its present regulations without waiting for Congress to act. However, if some change might necessitate a new law being passed, Congress, the legislators are ready to act.

NEW LILIENTHAL APPOINTMENT FIGURE—One of the bitterest fights of the next session of Congress will revolve around expected reappointment of David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

Lilienthal yields to the urging of his physician and retires. It is unlikely, however, that Lilienthal, whose tireless work weakened his strength, will retire. His friends say he thinks he would look like quitting under fire and that his temperament would not permit him to do that.

Six Republican members of the congressional atomic "watchdog" committee already have declared war on Lilienthal for alleged mismanagement of the country's atomic energy program. It is believed certain that they will wage a hard battle against his confirmation if President Truman renominates Lilienthal, whose term expires next June 30.

Lilienthal went through one rugged confirmation battle when his commission was created three years ago.

WHAT PRICE PEACE?—Reports persist in Washington that United States, Britain and France are planning to write a Japanese peace treaty that ignores both the Russians and the Chinese.

The last two nations have consistently blocked efforts to write a treaty by insisting on provisions unacceptable to the three great powers. Although it was the Chinese Nationalist government that raised objections to treaty plans, the Chinese Communists are expected to be just as difficult, along a different line.

The Japanese peace treaty almost certainly was discussed at recent Washington meetings of Secretary of State Dean Acheson with French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin. But no announcement was made of any plan.

WELFARE STATE?—Some government officials foresee that current trend of industry-financed pensions for employes may do business in the paradoxical position of advocating the so-called "welfare state."

The Ford company and Bethlehem Steel both signed new contracts binding the companies to pay the cost of $100-a-month pensions, less federal social security.

Thus government officials will not be surprised if Ford, Bethlehem and any other companies with similar plans give support next year to administration legislation to expand and raise social security benefits.

CIO President Philip Murray told the steel firms during a presidential fact-finding board hearing on the industry's pension dispute that they could settle the issue by joining him in backing such legislation.

Now, the companies may do that.

The cost to Ford and Bethlehem of pension programs will increase with each boost in the government's social security benefits. One steel industry spokesman estimated that the cost of the 15-month pension plan to Bethlehem might drop to around $100 a month if social security benefits were doubled.

Frost Doesn't Hurt Buried Vegetables

Frost won't hurt the eating quality of those vegetables that were hit by frost. Actually, in some cases ground makes a good storage place for them, says County Agent Dallas Rierson.

Sweet potatoes, turnips, parsnips, salsify, carrots and onions all are good after frost. However freezing will hurt the storage qualities of sweet potatoes. Onions and carrots, for instance, can freeze solid, and if they are thawed out slowly, they are just about as good as they ever were.

However, they should be consumed as soon as possible. If left in the ground through a large part of the winter, carrot tops will rot even with the ground surface, but all the rest will be good to eat. Even this loss can be avoided by hilling a little soil over the crowns.

Janie Lou Dunnam Becomes Bride Of Rev. Kenneth Ford On Sunday

MRS. KENNETH FORD

—Gable Photo.

Miss Janie Lou Dunnam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Dunnam, became the bride of Rev. Kenneth Erwin Ford, son of Mrs. Ruth Warren of Portland, Ore., in an impressive afternoon ceremony held in the First Methodist Church of Artesia at 3 o'clock Sunday.

The altar before which they took their vows was beautifully decorated with tall baskets of white giant and small pom-pom chrysanthemums banked with greenery. Gleaming white tapers, arranged in pyramid effect in tall, fern-entwined candelabra, were lighted by Misses Anna Marie Dunn and Norma Smith before the ceremony.

Rev. R. L. Willingham, pastor, was officiant at the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Glenn Caskey, as organist played the wedding music, including "Clair de Lune," by Debussy; "Liebestraum," by Liszt, and "Great Is Thy Love," by Bohm.

For the entrance of the wedding party, Mrs. Caskey played the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin and as the recessional, Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

As a pre-nuptial song, Rev. V. E. McGuffin sang, with Mrs. Caskey accompanying, "Because," by D'Hardelot. At the close of the ceremony, Rev. McGuffin sang "The Lord's Prayer," by Malotte, as the bride and groom knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of pure white satin, fashioned with draped overskirt, which fell into a slight train over a chantilly inset. The lace was repeated in the round yoke, finished at the neck with a small Peter Pan collar of the satin. A line of tiny satin covered buttons adorned the back of the bodice from the neck to below the waist, and trimmed the long sleeves, which ended in calla points over the hands.

She carried a white Bible with decor of a white yellow-throated orchid, with a shower of white satin streamers.

The bride's double veil of illusion was fingertip length and cascaded from a tiara of opalesque circlets and orange blossoms.

Observing tradition, the bride wore something old, her mother's engagement ring, on her right hand; something new, her beautiful wedding gown; something borrowed, the white Bible, belonging to her sister, who also carried it at her wedding, and something blue, a garter belonging to the Coke-etie Club of Girls of which she was a charter member.

wore something old, her mother's engagement ring, on her right hand; something new, her beautiful wedding gown; something borrowed, the white Bible, belonging to her sister, who also carried it at her wedding, and something blue, a garter belonging to the Coke-etie Club of Girls of which she was a charter member.

Mrs. Allen Mills, attending her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Fidelia Hamill, as maid of honor, were attired in floor-length gowns of brocaded satin, identical in style. Mrs. Mills' gown was of deep blue, and citron yellow was worn by Miss Hamill. This color scheme was repeated in the attendants' shower bouquets, ornamental flower arrangements in their hair, satin mits, and in the decorated candles carried by the candle lighters.

Rev. Robert D. Harris of Dallas, Texas, a classmate of the bridegroom, was his best man. Allen Mills, brother-in-law of the bride; Dr. C. Pardue Bunch of Artesia, and Garrell Malone of Odessa, Texas, were his ushers.

Mrs. Dunnam, mother of the bride, wore a gray-blue crepe dress with silver trim and grey accessories. Mrs. Hale, grandmother of the bridegroom, was attired in a black crepe dress and wore black accessories. Both wore corsages of pink rosebuds.

The home of the bride's parents was the scene for a reception after the ceremony. Forming the receiving line were Mrs. Dunnam, Mrs. Mattie Hale of Abilene, Texas, as the bride and bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Mills.

Presiding at the guestbook were Misses Anna Marie Dunn and Norma Smith.

The lace-spread table held a three-tiered bride's cake, topped by miniature bride and bridegroom and the bridegroom's cake. The punchbowl and bride's cake at opposite ends of the table were circled with garlands of greenery, into which yellow and white flowers were tucked.

After the first piece of cake was cut by the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. T. E. Johnson, Mrs. Sue Metzger, Mrs. Grady Wright, Mrs. Mittie Hamill, Mrs. Irene Whitcomb, Mrs. Bertha Stahler and Mrs. Leona Gott assisted in serving.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were double-strand pearls, which they wore to complete their ensembles, and her gifts to her candlelighters were jeweled pins.

The bridegroom presented his best man and ushers sterling silver belt buckle sets.

Mrs. Ford is a graduate of Artesia High School and attended the University of Oklahoma, where she was elected a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, national honorary music sorority. She has been employed by the Carper Drilling Company and has been active in church and music circles in Artesia.

Rev. Ford is a graduate of Mc-

Murray College, Abilene, Texas, attended Fordham University at New York City, and is now enrolled in Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas, where the couple will spend part of their time. They will make their home at present in Palo Pinto, Texas, where Rev. Ford is a pastor in the Central Texas conference.

For going away, the bride chose a green wool suit, worn with dark brown accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Rev. and Mrs. Robert D. Harris, Dallas, Texas; Mr. Roy Sanderson, Blackwell, Texas; Mrs. Mattie Hale, Abilene, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Malone, and daughter, Sandra, and son, Gary; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burgess, and Mrs. Louis Schlemeyer and daughter, Mary all of Odessa, Texas; Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Puckett, Mrs. Ben Duke, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fulton, and Mrs. Mary Rigsbee, all of Carlsbad; Rev. J. A. Bell of Hagerman, Rev. Mitchell of Lake Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Weindorf of Hope, and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Jordan of Lovington.

Agriculture Is Important To City Dwellers

In a recent discussion of the importance of agriculture to city dwellers, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan said:

"We all immediately appreciate the importance of agricultural production of food. There are a few other facts about agriculture, however, that need to be repeated from time to time.

"How many persons, for example, know that industries which produce one-third of all our manufactured products would be completely crippled if they were deprived of agricultural raw materials?"

"How many realize that almost half of all the money American consumers spend for goods and services goes for products that originate on the farms?"

"How many persons appreciate the fact that about one dollar in four of the revenue of the nation's railroads is derived from the transportation of agricultural products?"

"These are some of the facts that a person needs to know in order to appreciate the place of agriculture in our economy."

Feed That Used To Go To Bull Supports Cow

In many a dairy herd, the feed that used to go to the bull now supports an added cow. This is the rule, dairy specialists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture find, when a dairyman sells his herd sire and goes in for artificial insemination.

At the beginning of 1949, nearly 2000 bulls in the U.S. were in service in artificial-breeding associations. On the average, these sires were serving nearly 1250 cows each. There are not exact figures as to how many sires have been displaced, but the feed they would have eaten and the space they would have occupied represents an important item in true conservation of feed and investment. Also important is the safety factor in not having bulls of uncertain temper on thousands of dairy farms.

At the beginning of the year more than 2,400,000 cows in more than 300,000 herds were enrolled for artificial insemination during 1949. The Bureau of Dairy Industry estimates that about 10 per cent of all dairy cows in the U.S. will have been bred artificially in 1949 — and in a few leading dairy states fully 25 per cent.

The primary advantage of artificial insemination, of course, is from the much wider use of the best sires. The artificial breeding association can afford to select sires of highest quality, such as the individual owner of a producing herd could not expect to use, because there are not enough sires of superior quality to go around.

Turkey Year-Round Is Subject Of New Ag Department Bulletin

A handbook for cooking turkey — as modern as buying part of turkey steaks for dinner — is the U.S. Department of Agriculture's newest publication for the home maker. This one — called "Turkey on the Table Year-Round" — is timed for this year's plentiful supply of turkey.

Turkey dinners throughout the year as well as on traditional feast the unusually large crop. The big days are in prospect because of crop also makes likely wider marketing of the new smaller turkey parts and steaks to suit small families.

Direction in the new handbook tell how to prepare and cook turkey parts and steaks as well as how to roast the holiday bird. There are specific instructions for cooking turkey halves, quarters, half breasts, legs and other smaller parts, and also turkey steaks. All are kitchen-tested methods developed by food specialists of the Department's Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics, and all are illustrated with "how-to-do-it" pictures.

Recipes for turkey dishes — also from Bureau laboratories — are another feature of "Turkey on the Table Year-Round"

Turkey chowder, pie, salad loaf, dumplings and turkey wings — both creole and fricasse — are included.

The bulletin also contains some guides for buying turkey parts and either dressed or ready-to-cook whole birds. How to draw and clean dressed turkeys and directions for thawing frozen birds and part are included. The poultry branch of the Production and Marketing Administration, USDA, co-operated with the bureau in publishing the handbook.

A free copy of "Turkey on the Table Year-Round" may be had by writing to county agent or to the Extension Service, State College.

Feeding Once Daily Lowers Yield Of Milk

If a dairy farmer is seeking leisure time, he can get it by feeding his cows once a day instead of twice a day, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. But his cows will eat less hay — and his milk cows won't be quite as full. The rather controversial question of once-a-day versus twice-a-day feeding was studied by the Bureau of Dairy Industry at its Huntley, Mont., field station, in co-operation with the Montana Agricultural Experiment Station. The experiment was prompted by the general interest in the relative merits of the two systems of feeding, especially since some authorities recommended more frequent feeding of roughage as a means of saving grain in 1947-48, and other have recommended once-a-day feeding as a means of saving labor.

Ten Holstein cows of about the same age, weight, producing ability, and stage of lactation were divided equally, and one group received all the day's feed of grain, alfalfa hay, and corn silage in one feeding in the morning. The other group received half the day's feed in the morning and half in the afternoon.

The cows that were fed twice a day ate 10 per cent more hay and produced six per cent more milk, but required 70 per cent more labor for feeding than the cows that were fed only once a day. Grain consumption was about the same for both systems of feeding. Assuming that the same amount of labor per cow would be required in larger herds as was required in feeding the experimental cows, twice-a-day feeding would take 29 minutes longer for a 20-cow herd and 45 minutes longer for a 30 cow herd than once-a-day feeding.

A Vegetable-Kidney Stew

By ALICE DENHOFF
THERE'S lots and lots of good meat around, but prices are still too high for many a table budget. So here are some good, meaty suggestions to get the utmost out of this most vital of foods, with emphasis on the less expensive cuts and variety meats, such as kidneys.

For a good, wholesome, satisfying and inexpensive dish, serve a vegetable and kidney stew. To serve 6 remove fat from one lb. kidneys (beef, lamb, veal or pork). Cover kidneys with cold water; bring slowly to boil, then simmer until tender. Drain; cut in small pieces. To 4 c. stock from kidneys, add kidneys, 6 each whole small carrots and onions, one c. cubed potatoes, one c. sliced mushrooms (if desired), 2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce, and one tsp. salt (less if desired). Cook 30 min. or until tender. Add 2 tsp. chopped parsley. Thicken, if desired.

Good Combination
Lamb and lima make a lovely dish! Brown lamb cubes in hot fat with a clove of garlic (it's just made for lamb you know) and place in casserole with salt, pepper, cooked lima beans and a c. of boiling water. Cover and cook at 300 F. for an hour.

For something different in the way of using left-over cooked meat, just chop it and add one or 2 c. to a regular pancake recipe. Served with golden brown syrup, apple or honey butter, such a dish adds up to a good luncheon or supper job, is quick and not expensive.

A Liver Dish
How about the idea of broasting liver, whether it's lamb, beef, veal or pork liver? Use sour cream with the broasting liquid and you'll have a gravy that will have the folks drooling. Good with broasted oxtails, too, also with veal or lamb neck potroasted.

Any left-over cooked ham at hand? Then try this one for size and satisfaction: Mix 2 c. minced cooked ham with chopped pickle, chopped parsley, minced onion as desired, plus 1/2 c. thick white sauce. Fill bottom half scooped out baked potato shells with mixture and top with scooped out potato all nicely washed and fluffed up, with grated cheese sprinkled on top. Bake about 20 min. in hot oven.

Chairman Points Out Four Ways To Stop Erosion

There are only about four practical ways for farmers to stop soil erosion, according to J. R. Ogden chairman of the Eddy County PMA Committee: Construction of barriers to check the movement of water, improvement of sod, addition of humus to the soil, and the use of materials to promote soil-holding plant growth.

By construction, the chairman said he refers to such conservation practices as terraces, dams, contouring dikes, and spreader ditches. The purpose of these practices is to check the run-off by placing a barrier across its course and by providing for disposal water on sod or where damage can be kept to a minimum. This type of conservation practice is needed for cultivated crops on hillsides or sloping land, on waterways that have begun to erode, and on land that washes easily.

The establishing of a good sod is one of the best ways of checking erosion. The sod breaks the fall of the raindrops and keeps them from breaking up the surface soil structure. By slowing down the run-off, more of the water soaks into the soil to promote increased plant growth and the roots of the growing plants hold the soil together. Sod, also, is about the most effective means of controlling wind erosion.

Restoring humus to the soil by plowing under green manure, using a sod crop in rotation, or by incorporating the crop residues into the surface soil, strengthens resistance to erosion. Humus helps maintain the needed soil structure holding sand and clay particles together in clusters like miniature popcorn balls. When the soil structure is broken down, the tiny separate grains are easily washed or blown away. The use of lime and fertilizers is an essential part of the conservation process because they stimulate the growth of grass and legumes. These crops provide sod cover protection and add humus.

'National FHA Week' Is Busy One For Chapter In Artesia

"National Future Homemakers of America Week," Oct. 30-Nov. 5, was a busy one for the Artesia F.H.A. chapter.

Members of the chapter attended the First Christian Church for a special service by the choir and Rev. Arthur G. Bell, pastor, on Sunday Oct. 30.

A picnic was held at "Maple West Curve" on Monday, and on Tuesday of the week a display was placed in a Thompson-Prior Company window, representing the purpose of F.H.A.

The week's activities were given on the radio school news on Wednesday, and candy was sold on Thursday and Saturday, the money from which went to the chapter's travel fund.

Members of the chapter started packing a box on Friday to be sent to a needy family in Artesia. T. Stovall, principal of Artesia High School, issued a proclamation proclaiming the week "National F.H.A. Week."

Fossil Remains At Ghost Ranch One Of Greatest Finds In History

A couple of years ago, Arthur Newton Pack's 30,000-acre Ghost Ranch near Abiquiu became the scene of one of the greatest finds in history of ancient fossil remains. It was not altogether an accident because employees of the American Museum of Natural History don't walk over rocky arroyos with their eyes closed.

George Whitaker was the first to notice a dinosaur's claw embedded in a 200-million-year-old rock. It took Dr. Edwin H. Colbert, the museum's curator of fossil reptiles, only a couple of minutes to verify Whitaker's discovery. Then the hunt was on. Was this a stray claw with no confirming skeletons to back it up? The summers of 1947 and 1948 marked frenzied efforts of the museum's paleontologists as they chiseled and hewed their way gingerly among a veritable horde of ancient monsters that roamed New Mexico.

Their work did not go without reward. Under the leadership of Dr. Colbert and Dr. George S. Simpson, workers uncovered a dozen or so complete skeletons.

But it was a tedious job. The bones were so fragile that huge, one-ton blocks of rocks were laboriously carved apart for transportation to laboratories, where more delicate instruments could be used. To transport the one-ton blocks, it was necessary to wrap them in burlap and cover them with a protecting layer of plaster of paris, using juniper limbs for splints.

Then came the long haul by truck to New York. Luckily for the University of Arizona and the University of New Mexico, two of the one-ton blocks could not be loaded on the truck for the New York jaunt.

That's where Dr. Stuart A. Northrop, University of New Mexico geologist head, came into the picture. Dr. Northrop, together with Professors Carl W. Beck and J. Carl W. Beck and J. Paul Fitzsimmons, made the trip to the Ghost Ranch to bring back the huge boulder.

Back on the campus in the pick-up truck, it was another thing to maneuver the massive stone down a narrow stairway to the geology basement lab. Earl Bowditch's affectionately-named crane truck, "Juanita," couldn't do the job. It was then that "Mary Lou," the 50-foot crane workhorse truck was called into action.

Once in the basement lab, it is up to the university scientists to find out what they have. Dr. Northrop says frankly he does not know whether he has one complete skeleton or half-a-dozen parts of the most fearsome animal of the long-ago period.

He won't know until some graduate student spends a year or more in tedious work chiseling, scraping, dusting, prying and drilling. His tools will be delicate needles, camel hair brushes and precious dental tools, because the bones of the Coelophysis are hollow like chicken bones and no more than an eighth of an inch thick.

From tip of the vicious carivore's tail to the end of his nose, the small dinosaur measured about six feet. It lived on other reptiles by its ability to run down other animals on its powerful, kangaroo-like hind legs and then tear them to pieces with its short forelegs and teeth. With all of its ferocity, the small dinosaur, because of its hollow bones, probably weighed little more than 50 pounds, Northrop said.

Dr. Northrop is sure of one thing: His one-ton rock will not be a waterhaul, as the skeletons were piled pell-mell, alongside, across

AFTER NAMING THE WEDDING DAY

THREE MAKES A HAPPY CROWD, as proved by Vice President Alben Barkley, Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley and her daughter, Jane, 14, after the couple announced they would be married in St. Louis on November 18th. Barkley, 71, and the widowed Mrs. Hadley, 38, have been a romantic twosome since they were first introduced in Washington. (International)

Numbering Used On Applications Is Explained

The Veterans Administration has explained the numbering system being used to identify applications for dividend payments in connection with the 2.8 billion dollar National Service Life Insurance dividend.

The application number, which is stamped by VA on both the application form and the acknowledgment card returned to the applicant, is in two parts.

The number appearing to the right consists of two digits preceded by the letter "A". This number remains the same for each group of 1,000,000 cards. The designation, "A05," therefore, indicates that the application is among the fifth million cards processed.

The number of the left, composed of four digits, is a batch number, identifying each batch of 100 cards within the one-million group. Thus, the number, "0247 A05," indicates that the application is in the 247th batch of the fifth million cards processed.

All the applications in each batch of 100 cards bear identical numbers.

N.M. Farm Real Estate Values Show Decline

The value of farm real estate in New Mexico declined 1 per cent from March to July, according to a recent release by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. However, this is still 11 per cent higher than it was in March, 1948. The peak value of land in New Mexico was in March, 1949, when it was 93 per cent above the 1912-14 period.

Several factors are apparently the cause of this decline in value, according to J. Z. Rowe, state extension economist.

"One of the important influences has been the steady decline of farm product prices and the resulting lower net income from farming," the economist explains. "In view of this decline in prices, many prospective buyers feel they cannot buy land at present prices. Others in the farm real estate market do not have enough money to make an adequate down payment. Some of the backlog of savings which had accumulated during the war has been used for the purchase of goods as they became more available.

"Another factor is that many people in the land market, such as tenants and veterans, may have already purchased their real estate and therefore are not bidding for land."

The volume of farm sales may continue to drop during 1949 and 1950. U.S. farms were sold at the rate of 58 per 1000 during 1946 and 1947, 49 per 1000 during 1947 and 1948 and at 41 during 1948 and 1949. Consequently, about 17 per cent fewer farms changed hands during the year ending last March than during the previous year and about 20 per cent fewer farms changed hands than during the peak year. Generally when prices start down, many prospective buyers are apt to delay their purchases in hopes that farm values will decline more, according to Rowe.

Buyers of farm real estate are requiring more financing to aid in the purchase of their farms than previously. About 55 per cent of the farmers needed credit to purchase farms in the year which ended March, 1949. During 1945 and 1946, only 40 per cent of the sales involved some form of credit.

"In New Mexico, with the imposition of acreage allotments on cash crops, especially cotton and wheat, it is possible that prospective buyers may be more cautious in bidding on farm real estate," Rowe added. "Generally, the new buyer who are saddled with rather heavy debt obligations need cash crops with which to repay outstanding obligations. Any reduction in acreage of cash crops may be an important factor in influencing a prospective land buyer."

New Mexico Is Supplying Part Of Capitol Ceiling

The state of New Mexico is supplying a fire-proofing element for the ceiling of the United States Capitol, Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico announced.

"The exposed portions of the trusses over the Senate and House chambers are fireproofed with a one and an eighth inch thick layer of perlite plaster, the basic element of which is mined in New Mexico," the senator said. "The aggregate, from pumice, is used in place of sand for the plaster with better fireproofing results."

Senator Chavez, chairman of the special Senate committee on reconstruction of the Senate roof and chamber, said the material is mined in New Mexico and processed at plants of the Great Lakes Carbon Company at Fort Worth, Texas, Torrance, Calif. and Linden, N. J.

The plaster is made from selected volcanic glass aggregate, treated with heat and is known as "perlite" Senator Chavez said.

Built-Up Litter Adds Convenience

Built-up litter means added convenience and less labor, as leading Eddy County poultrymen have found from experience. County Agent Dallas Rierson says the best time to start this litter program is when pullets are moved into the laying house.

While the weather is warm, the houses are open for best ventilation and droppings in the litter quickly dry and crumble, thus becoming a part of the base of the built-up litter.

A thin layer of litter is spread over the floor at first. As it breaks up, an additional layer is added at two-week intervals or in smaller quantities once a week. As straw is the most commonly used litter, no new straw is added until the fowls have broken the litter into small lengths about two inches long.

As long as litter remains dry and the fowls are in good health the litter is not removed from the pens. When it appears to be dirty, additional litter is needed to keep it bright appearing and so a proper balance is maintained between the litter material and the dried, broken droppings.

When damp spots appear, they should be removed and dry broken litter leveled into place before new litter is added.

With this type of litter program poultrymen have reduced the cleaning job to once or twice a year, costs of material also have been lowered, Rierson says.

Methodist Choir Is To Present Vesper Service

The annual Thanksgiving vesper service by the choir of the First Methodist Church will be presented at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Mrs. Glenn Caskey in charge.

Prior to the service, a 15-minute organ prelude will be played by Mrs. Sammons.

Both the organ and piano will be used in accompaniment of the chorus singing, with Mrs. Sammons as organist and Mrs. Lloyd Davis as pianist.

Everett Dean O'Bannon, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bob O'Bannon, will play a violin solo. Mrs. Loyd Traylor, the former Miss Sue Booker of Artesia, who is here visiting from Spokane, Wash., will sing incidental solos in the anthems. Mrs. Traylor sang in the Methodist choir here before her marriage.

Rev. V. E. McGuffin, assistant pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be a soloist on the program. The public is invited to attend the special Thanksgiving vesper services.

After the services, the second in the series of "Methodist Evening Fellowship Hours" will be held.

State Highway—

way Department to replace the one-lane bridge over Eagle Draw, and this will be done as soon as a suitable structure for this location is available. We have a number of good bridges which are being replaced on some of the main highways which will serve its purpose very nicely, and it is our intention to move one of these bridges to this location as soon as possible.

Concerning your question, "What About Highway 83?" I would like to call your attention to the fact that there have been built, or are now under construction, a total of 14 projects between Hope and U.S. 70, north of Almodogordo, the total cost of which is $2,629,826. We appreciate the fact that the road between Artesia and Hope is obsolete, and we are just as anxious as anyone else to eliminate all sections of obsolete road, but we believe that, in all fairness, you will agree with us that building this section of road ahead of the improvements to which we above refer would have been a short-sighted policy on our part. I am sure that you will agree with us that the road between Cloudercroft and U.S. 70 is in much greater need of improvement than is the road from Artesia to Hope. Likewise, I believe you will agree that the work which we have completed between YO crossing and the forest boundary was entitled to be placed ahead of the Artesia-Hope improvement.

This office feels that your Board of County Commissioners has used good judgment in the selections which they have made for improvement on the secondary system in your county. This department will be ready and willing to agree to the expenditure of funds on the Artesia-Hope project when your Board of County Commissioners feels that such improvement is in order.

This letter is not written in criticism of your editorial, but rather to present the facts and figures which our records show. It goes without saying that the Highway Department would be very happy indeed, to be in a position to improve all roads needing improvement, but it must be remembered that our funds are limited, and because of this, much care and judgment must be exercised in selecting improvements which will afford the greatest benefit. For this reason, tearing up and rebuilding roads which have been built to a bituminous surface ahead of the improvement of dirt or gravel roads must be carefully considered. The man who is obliged to use a dirt or gravel road while watching the highway department tear up and rebuild a road which is already oiled, can't help but feel that he is being neglected, and we must admit that in this he has a point.

Very truly yours,
B. G. DWYRE,
State Highway Engineer.

Sea Captain—

southern terminus of the trail was Santa Fe, N.M.

Slow, ox-cart caravans ran the trail, taking an entire summer to make the journey.

Word had spread around the world about this magnificent area of level grasses, where the wind blew all the time. In fact, it was called by writers the "sea of grasses," because long rollers wavered the grasses ahead of the wind.

Also the winds were falsely called "trade winds," because they blew so steadily.

A former sea captain came up the river from St. Louis. He had heard the stories of the prairies and the winds. All his life he had sailed on ships, watched the winds billow the sails and push the ship ahead. And the captain was interested in getting some of the freighting money that plied the trail.

He would build a sailing ship that would go from Westport to Santa Fe in one month! And he would build it on wheels!

The bushwhackers and loafers laughed at him, but he went to work. They nicknamed his ship "Noah's Ark." He built his wheels about 20 feet high, with hugh axles. He built a tall, broad platform above the wheels as the deck of his "windwagon," for this is how it was known about Westport.

The captain rigged lines and masts on his windwagon, greased the huge axles, and fixed a pilot wheel to steer the front wheels.

The captain was triumphant! Bets were made by the local gamblers that sails wouldn't propel the monstrous windwagon. But as the thing took on the appearance of an immense ship, with its sails trying to tug at the breeze, some of the people began to believe in him. Promoters began to organize and sell stock in a windwagon company that would operate on the trail. Goods could be shipped to Santa Fe in one month!

Fever ran high the day the captain hoisted full sail and released the wheel braces.

But the captain's dream was short lived. His windwagon sailed down the trail at a fast clip for several miles. The people cheered as the windwagon went over the first hill. But, alas, the huge wheels wouldn't negotiate the first dry gully at a fast clip. The rudder wheel spun loose and the thing fell on its side.

The Indians had sped away in terror before it. But they grew braver, returned and burned it.

The captain escaped to the river bank. And that ended a venture to sail freight on the Santa Fe Trail by huge wagons propelled by wind.

Every method known was tried that would shorten the distance between the Yankee trader in Westport and the colorful senoritas in Santa Fe.

and Lovington 48-0. Total points for Carlsbad not available.

In state play the Cavemen defeated Lovington, Santa Fe, Gallup, and Clovis and lost to Hobbs, Tucumcari, and Albuquerque. Bowie of El Paso fell before the Cavemen, but Ysleta defeated Carlsbad.

The Bulldogs, all of whose games have been in state play, defeated Jal, Lovington, Clovis, Las Cruces and New Mexico Military Institute, but bowed to Tucumcari, Almodogordo, and Roswell. Artesia's only tie of the season was with Eunice.

Five hundred adult tickets for tonight's game were received here Tuesday and were sold out in short order. Coach Floyd Davis, Artesia High School athletic director, prevailed on Carlsbad High School to send an additional 300, which it was expected would be sold today long before game time. In addition 200 student tickets were received.

Carlsbad has set aside a section of 1000 seats at the southeast corner of the stadium, from the 40-yard line down, for Artesia fans.

was cut down so as not to tire the little boys and girls.

The program at Morris Field in the afternoon will be in charge of Rev. Ralph O'Dell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

He announced there will be a series of events, in which the participants will be divided into four groups, first through third grades, fourth through sixth, seventh through ninth, and 10th through 12th.

For each group there will be a sack race, various distances to be set for the several age groups. And there will be tugs-of-war and bicycle races around the field. In the older age groups, there will be separate contests for the boys and girls, Rev. O'Dell said.

W. W. Ports, president of the Kiwanis Club, said for many years, Kiwanis has been interested in and working with the problems of underprivileged children. Most clubs have a committee on underprivileged children, which work at the local level. The National Kids' Day Foundation, Inc., co-sponsor nationally with Kiwanis International, is organized, however, only at the national level. After considerable discussion between executives of both groups, it was decided to co-operate in the celebration of "National Kids' Day."

As the National Kids' Day Foundation, Inc., is primarily a promotional organization, an agreement has been signed whereby the foundation provides publicity and assistance for a complete fund-raising campaign for Kiwanis Clubs throughout the United States and Canada, President Ports said.

discuss such practical matters as new principles of home design, heating and lighting; new drugs and medical knowledge that have materially increased life expectancy, new foods and latest in science of nutrition, new uses for farm products, future of atomic power and others.

Not only of immense practicality to his hearers, Dr. Wendt's presentation is a delightful survey of current knowledge and products, Fisher said. His ability as a speaker is attested by his record with Associated Dinner Clubs—of which the New Mexico groups are members—as being the most in demand for return dates of any of the clubs' many speakers.

Dr. Wendt was formerly science editor of Time, editorial director of Science Illustrated, director of science and education of the New York World's Fair and consultant to Standard Oil Company of Indiana and other major manufacturers.

Local members and those intending to join now, should note that if they will for any reason find it more desirable and practicable to attend the club dinner at Carlsbad rather than here, they may, of course, do so, Fisher said. Directions for dinner place reservations will later be sent all members, giving full particulars.
