Hagerman News

(Crowded out Friday) (Mrs. Edna Burck) Funeral services for Betty Lou Jarshey, who was killed Saturday n a plane crash, were held on Monday afternoon at the Methodist Church with the pastor, Rev. John A. Bell, officiating. The choir composed of Mmes. Ramon Welborne, A. D. Menoud, Horace Freeman, Elwood Watford, Joe B. Bell and Reno Haley, Rev. Bell and R. W. Cumpsten sang, "Abide With Me' and "Peace, Be Still, with Mrs. Lester Hinrichsen at the piano. The casket bearers were Robert West, Kenneth Richards, Bill Huckabee, Curley Derrick, Cecil Arnold, and Edwin Coleman, and the honorary pallbearers were Hillard Watson, Sanford Evans, Jimmie Lankford, Wesley Menefee. Orville Ridgley and Ralph Pollard. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. Burial was in the family lot in Hagerman Cemetery, where a large number assembled while the Rainbow Girls and their mother advisor Mrs. E. S. Bowen conducted the Rainbow burial ritual. Betty Lou Harshey was born April 25, 1935, and lived all her life at the parental home near Hagerman. Be'ty Lou was treasurer of the Rainbow Girls and was a member of the Methodist Sunday School and of the M.Y.F., of which she was an active participant. Besides her parents, Mr.

That's not so far-fetched as it sounds! Behind every generator -and every other piece of equipment in your Public Service Company - are the investments of our "owners," the stockholders. These are the investments that run our company. You, or someone you know, may be a stockholder. Lots of folks are ... doctors, teachers, housewives, ministers, and many others ... and no one of them owns more than 2% of the total stock.

If you have a savings account at the bank, or life insurance policies, it is likely that some of that money has been re-invested in your Public Service Company. This is the way the company really belongs to the people. It's a case history of free-enterprise . . . the system that has made America great and strong.

The relations between a worker and his employer depends directly on the firm making a profit and efficient production on the part of the emplove to help insure this proves to be the case.-

Keep FBI Files Inviolate

E GO ALONG with J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in the matter of maintaining confidences and keeping the files of the federal agency inviolate.

Hoover pointed out recently that the public record clearly proves that the FBI, because it does maintain confidences, has been able to develop valuable sources of information which have a direct bearing on the internal security of the nation.

The question of opening the files of the FBI involves a grave matter of principle, Hoover declared. These files contain complaints, allegataions, facts and statements of all persons interviewed. And, depending upon the purpose of the investigation, particularly in security cases, they contain not only background data on the individual, but details of his private life which bear upon the investigation.

We would not draw a parallel between the FBI and the press, but we would point out that each is a Yet men of high standing can hurl their fact-gathering organization which frequently com-

TEW YORK-When you are 16 and if you are of a certain turn of mind, the most exciting thing in the world can be sitting in a subway car and studying the race of man. Your intellectual and emotional maturity has been ripped just about enough by that age so you are as receptive to people as a high-powered radio set.

Every face tells a story. Each pair of hands ascinates you. The papers that the citizens read, the bundles they carry and the shoes they vear-all are sharp and important clues to the lives they lead and the violence or gentleness in their souls.

Some of this eager curiosity dims with the years that come, alas. The little old lady with the plain gold wedding ring, the worn hands and the copy of the Bible on her lap-you have seen her before, once, twice, many times.

Worker-you have bought him dinner, for your amusement. With the years, you learn the sad truth that, while no man is like another, there are big, loose pigeonholes that will take care of pretty In the subway, for instance, you will see: THE SLEEPERS: Until the subway train slides noisily into the station, they are alert, bird-like, anxious. The doors open, they drive for the empty seat like a halfback trying to cut off tackle, they sit down-and they fall asleep. Not halfway. Completely. Inside of a half-minute, while the train roars and the crowds jostle above them, they are off in dreamland. They are mostly work-

The man with the beard and the easel and the copy of The Daily

g people who sleep in the morning and sleep coming home at night t night, most of them have insomnia. THE BROODERS. They manage one of the most difficult feats f all-that of maintaining a complete appearance of aloofness in the midst of a crowd jamming its way into a subway car. Once inside, they stand meditatively all the way. They raise their eyebrows quizzically. They frown. They look far away. They are on a desert island, for all practical purposes. What they brood over is anybody's guess. A likely guess is income tax. THE FUSSERS: These are chiefly small old ladies who pick out a certain spot to wait on the platform, and then change it half a dozen times. When they finally get into the car, they keep shifting their bundles and flinching every time another passenger accidentally digs an elbow into their ribs. They try to remain separated from everything and everyone, like the new Salvador Dali paintings. No one knows what makes a fusser tick, although we had a coarse phrase back in fourth term at Groton: ants in the pants.

THE NEWSPATER OPENERS: Not to be confused with newspaper readers. These lost souls spend all their time in the subway opening and folding, creasing and examining, dropping and picking up, their newspapers. This is not done in haste or confusion, but with an air of imperturbability. When the loose sheet drops out of the paper and slides across the concrete floor of the car, they half-get up, spear it nonchalantly and return to their seat. They never are embarrassed and they never feel called on to say "Pardon me" when they spread the paper across their neighbors' laps during the course of folding. They never get time to read the paper, except perhaps the weather report. A sinister species, all in all. I am a newspaper opener.

THE CUT-UPS: These are violent young men, between 8 and 18, who race from car to car, whooping and skipping, and managing to step with great skill on seated passengers' newly-shined shoes. They are full of the high spirits of youth but they should be taken out, stacked up in rows in Yankee Stadium, and shot.

I know. I was one myself, once, and as Ogden Nash wrote in his incomparable poem, To a Small Boy Standing on My Shoes While I Am Wearing Them, a better man I'd be today if someone had done it to me. Shot me, that is. THE SCHOLARS: Immediately upon arrival in the subway car, they open their thick and impressive books and read them with an intensity bordering on the ferocious. Their hair tumbles over their foreheads, their eyes almost cross, their brows furrow. The Twentieth Century rumbles about them, but they are off in the misty, yet precise, world of the pedant. When they leave, you get a glimpse of the books they carry. They always are copies of THE PUSHERS: Entering, occupying or departing the subway, they push. Even when the car is half empty, they push. These are not actual human beings, but roughly-fashioned facsimiles, so you mustn't feel too badly about kil'ing them. I have shot four myself, during on season, and never have any trouble at all sleeping

Legion Lands With Tide of Toys

THE U.S. SECTOR OF BERLIN was transformed into a tot's paradise when millions of toys, games and other gifts collected in the U.S. under the American Legion's "Tide of Toys" program were distributed to Berlin children. When the Berlin kiddies had been taken care of, plenty of toys were left for other children of western zones. Playing Santa Claus are Legionnaires George Kelly, of Virginia (left), and Herman Luhrs, Flint, Mich.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF-HOMER CROY, in his autobiography, Jesse James Was My Neighbor, tells how he left the Missouri farm where he was born to seek his fortune in New York's journalistic mart. He applied for a job at the Butterick Company, just after Theodore Dreiser had become editor there. "A Missouri lad, eh?" said Dreiser. "Well, where is Washington, Missouri?"

"It's in Franklin County, sir," said Croy promptly, "not far from St. Louis. They make mighty good corncob pipes there." "You're hired," said Dreiser. "You're the first man I ever met in New York who could answer that simple question. Washington is where my wife comes from."

When Alexander Meiklejohn was president of Amherst he made a speech in Kansas City enlarging upon the blessings of university training. He was not too pleased with the headline in a local paper the following morning. It read, "Meiklejohn Shows Need of College Education."

which, for just a few dollars more, brings you all of Hudson's exclusive advantages. Only Hudson, with America's lowest center of gravity; offers the security of "The New Step-Down Ride"?

In Hubson, safety is inherent—as deep-rooted as its exclusive Monobilt body-and-frame* with recessed floor ("step-down" design), described at the left.

Your very first view of Hudson's free-flowing lines tells you that here is the car with America's lowest center of gravity, yet with full road clearance and more head room than in any other car.

The low-built Hudson has a tenacious roadhugging stability and ease of control that helps prevent accidents . . . with the added protection of ail-welded, steel-girder construction that encircles the entire passenger compartment.

What's more, Hudson clone provides Triple-
