HELPING TO BUILD A GREATER ARTESIA

VOLUME FORTY-SEVEN

ARTESIA, NEW MEXICO, TUESDAY, JUNE 20, 1950

NUMBER 49

POT POURRI

We have asked several times in this department for suggestions for the new municipal recreation park and athletic field.

Now our good friend, J. D. Smith, who is somewhat of a sportsman himself, comes up with a very name we had in mind all the time.

"Scratchy" died while engaged in one of his favorite sports. He was flying a Piper Cub and chasing a coyote, while Hugh Donald was manning a shotgun.

Here is the letter we received from J. D.:

"I have noticed several times in your newspaper that you say the athletic field North of Artesia should have a name. I agree with you and would like to suggest a name for the field.

"I would like to see it called 'Rideout Field' in honor of 'Scratchy' Rideout.

"I do not know of anyone who has done more for sports than did 'Scratchy'. I am sure that a lot of the younger boys playing now had him as their idol when they were younger.

"Scratchy" gave generously of his time and talents to all lines of sports here. Back in the days of baseball, he was a player and leader, then when the fad of softball took over he was the main one to get it started for Artesia.

"I am sure that if he were with us today he would be one of the hardest workers for our new recreation program. 'Scratchy' was willing at all times to teach the younger boys how to play not only baseball but all of the sports. He would not only teach them but he would show them. Since the field would be used primarily as a sport field, I believe it should be named for someone that has done a lot of sports here at Artesia, so I think the name 'Rideout Field' would be appropriate."

We agree with J. D. except for one thing. We believe the acreage in question should be named 'Rideout Park,' rather than 'Rideout Field,' as there will be recreation areas, as well as the ball field. That, however, is a small matter and can be ironed out, after the principal part of the name is selected.

Any other nominations, or any further remarks about using 'Scratchy's' name for the park and field?

It is beginning to look as though an old question which has been lying more or less dormant for many years, is about to come out into the open again.

We are referring to the formation of a new county in New Mexico, which would include what is now North Eddy County and South Chaves County.

Jo Ann Jackson, Hobbs, Named Theta Rho President At State Meet Here

JoAnn Jackson of Hobbs was elected president of New Mexico Theta Rho at the two-day state convention held Friday and Saturday in Artesia, with the local club host to 275 members of the order, advisors, Rebekahs and Odd Fellows.

The Hobbs girl succeeds June E. McDorman of Artesia, who was named president at the Farmington convention in June last year.

Hobbs will be the 1951 convention city.

Three members of the Artesia club were chosen for appointive offices. They are Corinne Aaron, conductor; Nila Naylor, custodian and Alice Martin, page to the past president.

Miss Aaron, conductor, was also elected president of the president's club, an association formed to promote the state convention.

To the state convention Miss McDorman gave a white engraved altar Bible and an American flag. Presentation was by Nila Naylor and Alice Martin, both of Artesia, right and left supporter to the president.

Miss McDorman delivered her report on her year as president. Feature of her work was that she has been the first president to make official visits to all clubs.

After her farewell speech she presented gifts from the clubs. There were 10 clubs represented at the convention, Artesia, Hobbs, Albuquerque, Jal, Eunice, Tucumcari, San Jon, Alamogordo, Farmington and Roswell.

Reception Opens Program A reception for the girls and their advisors was held from 9 o'clock to noon Friday by the Artesia club.

Admission of a Rebekah sister was the ceremony, presented by the Eunice club, opening the afternoon program.

Women Jurors Advocated By Girls State That women be permitted to serve as jurors in New Mexico was a resolution adopted at the third annual New Mexico Girls State held in Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, June 11-16.

The proposal is to be sent to the legislature. Geraldine Blount, one of the four Artesia representatives at the citizenship training course, said today.

Learning how to campaign and how bills are enacted into law were salient in Miss Blount's impression of the convalescence which was attended by 143 girls. City, county and state government comprised studies.

Other Artesia girls at the session were Becky Sharpe, Kay Booker and Linda Boyle. Ages of all are 16, except the latter, who is 17.

Two of the Artesia girls were named mayors of mythical towns. Miss Booker, mayor of Organ City; Miss Blount, Sandia.

Miss Sharpe served as highway department commissioner. Miss Boyle, land commissioner; Miss Booker, supreme court justice and Miss Blount, state representative.

Anita Ethelbaugh of Santa Fe and Columbia Juergel of Hot Springs (Truth or Consequences) were named delegates to Girls Nation to be held this summer in Washington, D. C.

Newly elected governor of Girls State is Judy Hubbard of Farmington.

Old Blankets For Polio Packs Are Wanted

Old blankets, torn blankets, worn-out blankets—provided they contain no less than 60 per cent wool—are being collected in Artesia today and Wednesday to be used for hot packs for polio patients, it was announced by Judge Jerry Losee, chairman of the North Eddy County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The chairman asked that blankets be taken to the Red Cross and welfare office at 511 West Main Street.

The blankets or parts of blankets do not need to be clean, for all are to be laundered before being put into use.

A drive for woolen blankets is going on throughout the state this week. Judge Losee said the drive was made necessary because of a shortage of material in the state.

Lee Re-elected To D.A.V. State Exec Committee

Ruffus E. Lee of Donald S. Simons Chapter 19, Disabled American Veterans, Artesia, was re-elected a member of the department executive committee at the ninth annual convention held in Silver City, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Other department officers elected were: Lester Boyse, commander; Mrs. Lillian Renshaw, Belen, senior vice commander; A. R. Jacques, Dixon, junior vice commander; Rev. W. L. Russell, Albuquerque, chaplain and Lake J. Frazier, Roswell, judge advocate. Mrs. Renshaw and Russell were elected without opposition and by unanimous vote.

The local chapter was represented at the convention by Leonard A. Wittkopp, Wade C. Cunningham, Ruffus E. Lee, Kenneth R. Jones, Buster Cline and Bill Dunnam. Mrs. Cunningham and Mrs. Wittkopp accompanied their husbands on the trip.

All delegates from Artesia served on convention committees: Lee, employment; Cunningham, time and place; Wittkopp, resolutions and nominations; Bill Dunnam, chairman of both publicity and hospitals; Cline, credentials and Jones, child welfare. Albuquerque was selected as the place for the next convention and the department executive committee will name the date later.

Lee and Dunnam were also designated as representative of the Department of Welfare, C. Wilson to drive to El Paso Friday and escort Charles E. Foster of Washington, D. C., who had arrived there the night before, to represent National Commander David N. Brown at the convention. Foster is assistant national director of legislation and was the principal speaker at the banquet Friday evening.

While there was a great amount of work for the delegates, the event was not without its entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Threepersons, who were frequently referred to as "a couple of swell Indians," actually are Cherokees and had done an excellent job on convention plans.

On Thursday afternoon the delegates and their friends were conducted on a tour of the huge mill and smelter of the Kennecott Copper Corporation at Hurler, where they learned that 200 to 250 tons of copper, which sells for around $300 a ton, are produced daily. Their amazement grew when they learned that only about 20 pounds of copper is obtained from about 2000 pounds of ore or rock. From the plant they went to the open pit mines, the largest in the world, at Santa Rita and from there to a barbecue.

The banquet was held Friday evening in the Murray Hotel, with Foster as the principal speaker. His talk was mainly on why the disabled veterans should oppose the Truman-Hoover commission report as it pertains to veterans, that instead of saving taxpayers' dollars, it would actually result in higher cost for caring for the disabled, not to mention the chaos and confusion, reminiscent of the days after World War II, when veterans had to flit from one government agency to another. Prior to the talk, a square dance team of youngsters under 10 gave an exhibition of their art, which was followed by an excellent all-girl chorus with several numbers.

Saturday morning, a memorial service was held at Fort Bayard Veterans Hospital, after which the delegates were taken on a tour of the facility and grounds.

Raymond Hall To Direct Physical Ed at Junior High Raymond Hall, former coach at Rochester, Wash., high school, and a brother of Calvin Hall, Artesia High School baseball coach, has been employed as physical education director of Artesia Junior High School.

He is to begin his duties in mid-August, a half month prior to the opening of the building now under construction at 11th and Bullock.

Hall was selected for the position after making a trip from Washington to Artesia and having a personal interview, Supt. Tom Mayfield said.

Boys Needed For Junior Baseball Team

Here's an opportunity for Artesia boys up to 16 years old to play baseball, and perhaps be hosts at the state American Legion junior baseball tournament in August.

Coach Cal Hall of Artesia High School, who is coaching the American Legion post's junior baseball team, said he has 16 boys out, but needs more in his efforts to have a winning team.

The boys are working out on the high school diamond from 4 to 6 o'clock each afternoon and candidates for the team can contact Coach Hall there during any practice period. He said each boy must bring his birth certificate.

The American Legion post is buying new equipment for the team and all boys making the squad will be suited out.

Artesia has been promised the state American Legion junior tournament, if the bleachers at the new recreation park are erected in ample time to schedule the event definitely.

Jaycee Float Takes First at National Convo

New Mexico Jaycees won first place on their float in the parade at the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce convention held in Chicago, June 14-17.

This was the first time New Mexico had been represented by a float at a national convention of the organization.

The top honor was doubly pleasing to Artesia Jaycees and South-eastern New Mexico, since Jaycees here spurred interest in the exhibit and two Artesia concerns each gave $25 toward shipping costs on the float.

They were New Mexico Asphalt & Refining and Artesia Alfalfa Growers.

Eddy County further shares in the rank attained by the float because three Carlsbad businesses paid cost of the exhibit. They were U.S. Potash, Potash Company of America, and International Mining.

The float was 14 feet wide, 40 feet long, 18 feet high, was arrow-shaped, had a cloud background.

In the center was a five-compartment revolving platform. In each compartment was a girl attired to represent New Mexico's five basic industries, oil, farming, ranching, mining, and tourist trade.

Paul Turner Is Bound Over To District Court

Paul Turner, 33, was bound over to the action of the Eddy County District Court Friday afternoon by Justice of the Peace J. D. Josey, at a preliminary hearing, on a charge of having carnal knowledge of a child under 10 years of age, in the alleged raping of a 9-year-old girl in the country near Artesia here Saturday night, June 10.

Turner, who entered a plea of not guilty, was represented by Caswell S. Neal and Foster S. Windham. Assistant District Attorney Gene Lusk prosecuted the case.

It was brought out at the hearing Turner has been living with the mother of the little girl and another minor child at a trailer camp in Artesia.

Six exhibits of clothing belonging to the man and the girl were entered in evidence.

Caudle Concedes Nomination After Recount Of Votes

In a recount of votes for nomination for the State Legislature on the Democratic ticket of 13 of the 32 boxes in Eddy County Friday, J. R. Caudle, Jr., of Artesia, who had petitioned the recount, lost by 12 votes to Frank A. Alford of Carlsbad for the second nomination.

In the official canvass of votes made a week prior, Alford had only a one-vote lead over Caudle. Virgil O. McCollum of Carlsbad, incumbent, won the other nomination by a good plurality, D. M. Archer of Artesia ran 14 votes behind Caudle in the official canvass.

Caudle accepted the recount ruling made by the Eddy County Board of Commissioners and conceded the nomination to Alford, whom he congratulated.

He and his advisors at first considered further legal action, when it was discovered that 22 voters who are registered as independents had voted in the Democratic primary. Had action been taken, these votes could have been purged for the ballots so cast are illegal.

D. D. Kincaid Is Winner In Caudle Oil Census Contest

In the Caudle Oil Company census guessing contest, similar to the sweepstake conducted by The Advocate in conjunction with a number of merchants, D. D. Kincaid was awarded a check for $50 for having guessed closest to the official census release for Artesia of 8115 persons.

The Advocate notified J. T. Caudle at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning of last week, at the time the Census Bureau district office in Roswell released the figure to this newspaper and both contests were closed at that hour, as had been announced prior to that time.

Caudle said there were about 1000 guesses in his company's contest and that they covered a wide spread of figures.

Artesians Attend State Convention Of 20-30 Club

Jim Scoggin and Gail Ray were the Artesia delegates to the state 20-30 convention, which was held in Albuquerque Friday through Sunday. J. W. Boggs of Artesia also attended the convention. Albuquerque Heights 20-30 Club was the host club.

Four hundred forty-eight state members were present at the convention, setting an attendance record of 79 per cent.

The program included a coffee for ladies, luncheons, dinners and dancing, as well as the business sessions.

In the business meetings, a complete new set of by-laws was adopted. Progress and expansion of the 20-30 Club in Mexico and other places was discussed. There is a new 20-30 Club in Guam and a new one in Denver, Colo. Jim Scoggin of Artesia has offered his support to Cal Beaver of Denver in the organization of this club. Beaver was a guest at the convention.

Another honorary guest at the convention was "Dad" Shimmer of Phoenix, Ariz., who has given his time and money to the expansion of the 20-30 Club. Shimmer is planning to visit the Artesia club soon.

Stan Gallup of Las Cruces was elected district governor of the club. Las Cruces placed its bid for the mid-winter convention, which was accepted.

The Artesia club is backing the Roswell club for the next sub-district convention, the tentative date for which is July 15-16. Artesia has been instrumental in chartering the Roswell club as it has reorganized. In spite of the fact that the convention will be only a sub-district meeting, many state officers plan to be present.

Artesia delegates to the state convention said the meeting was very well planned, well represented and much enthusiasm was displayed.

Miss Jacquie Jones Becomes Bride Of Troy Harris At Roswell

In an afternoon ceremony held June 6 in the First Baptist Church at Roswell, Rev. Arthur A. Dulaney officiating, Miss Jacquie Jones, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rhodes of Roswell, became the bride of Troy Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Harris of Artesia.

The altar was banked with baskets of white gladioli and gypsophelia and potted ferns. Seven-branched candelabra held lighted white tapers.

As guests assembled, Mrs. Luther of bridal selections, "Clair de Lune," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer" were played during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Don Brown, wore a ballerina-length dress of chantilly lace posed over taffeta and styled with a round neckline outlined with a wide ruffle. The dress was fashioned with fitted bodice, puffed sleeves, and a bouffant skirt. The bride's picture hat was adorned with white illusion, caught with dainty ribbon bows about the brim. Her long mits matched her frock. She carried a white prayer book with decor of a white orchid and stephanotis.

Miss Ann Nesbit was the bride's only attendant. Bill Welch of Hobbs was best man. Cadet Andy Anderson of Houston, Texas, and Cadet George Grobrien of Monterrey, Mexico, were ushers.

The bride's godmother, Mrs. R. H. McCune of Roswell, wore a pearl gray gown of marquisette with a pink hat and matching corsage.

Mrs. Harris chose for her son's wedding a sheer summer print gown of black, white and aqua. She wore a corsage of white flowers and an aqua hat.

A reception in the Corral Room of The Village followed the ceremony.

The couple will make their home on a farm near Artesia after a wedding trip to Colorado.

The bride was graduated from Roswell High School and attended Texas State College for Women.

Mr. Harris was graduated as a senior in the college department from New Mexico Military Institute on the morning of his wedding day.

Artesia Eagles to Open New Park With Game Against Carlsbad Skulls

For the first time Artesia baseball fans will have the chance to see the Artesia Eagles in action on their own diamond when the Eagles play the Carlsbad Skulls at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon on the Eagles North Tenth Street diamond.

Although work is not finished on the field it was necessary to use it so the contest could be arranged. The game will mark the premiere of the new diamond on which the Eagles have been putting in extra-curricular training.

It will be the first time this season the Eagles have played an out-of-town team here and their third home game this season. Previously the Eagles played two games here against the Artesia Veterans. The Eagles have a keen edge on their playing as the result of their 17 to 6 walloping of the potent Mesalero Indians in a game played at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 18, in Mesalero.

Carlsbad Team Beats Artesia Chevrolet, 15-3

Montgomery Agency of Carlsbad, girls softball team that defeated Guy Chevrolet of Artesia 15 to 3 in a game played in Carlsbad on Saturday night, is to play the Chevrolet's a return game here Friday night in the new city park.

The contest Saturday night was the second game of the season for the locals. They lost a game to Thayer Apartments in Carlsbad two months ago 6 to 3.

A schedule jinx has been making an off-and-on jumble for the Chevrolet's. They had been anticipating a second game of the season with Carlsbad Pepsi-Cola. The game was to have been played in Carlsbad. On arrival there the locals found their opponents missing from the park. Somehow they had failed to get word to Artesia of the cancellation.

Another game was slated with Pepsi-Cola, this one in Artesia, on Friday night. The Carlsbad team couldn't get transportation so the game was cancelled. Likewise chalked off was a third try the next night against Pepsi-Cola in Carlsbad when the second Chevrolet-Pepsi Cola game was discarded.

The figures show that 203,515 individuals worked in employment covered by the job insurance law during 1949 as compared with 176,328 in 1948. While this is an increase of 27,817 over the previous year, the increase in the number in New Mexico workers was from 85,374 in 1948 to 90,100 in 1949 or 5.5 per cent.

The other workers on jobs in New Mexico in 1949 came from every state in the union as well as from the District of Columbia, Hawaii, and Alaska. Workers from Texas numbered 30,133; Oklahoma, 9643; Colorado, 7992; California, 7641; Missouri, 5362, and Kansas, 4718.

Game With Jal on July 9 to Open Artesia Yanks 15-Game Home Series

A game with Jal on Sunday afternoon, July 9, in the new municipal park on North Thirteenth will open a 15-game home series for the Artesia Yankee baseball team in the new city park.

Red Goodwin, Yankee manager, said the series would continue to August 27. Games will be on Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons. Goodwin said he wanted to bring professional baseball to Artesia in Class D league play.

"The Yanks are serving as a proving ground for this proposal. If the backing merits professional ball," he said, "then it won't be long until Artesia will enter that rank."

In a game at Roswell on Sunday afternoon, the Yanks slaughtered the Roswell Veterans 23 to 4 on Rocket Stadium.

The Yanks sizzled through the melee, getting 24 hits, four home runs out of 60 times at bat. They also netted three doubles, a triple, and 16 singles.

Big Don Heathington blasted the longest hit of the season with a towering 400-foot homer over the centerfield wall, left field was the target for homers by Bill Case and Jerry Jordan while Russell got his four base hit high off the left centerfield scoreboard.

Energy and base running of the Yanks was gratifying to Manager Goodwin who said his team was "improving fast and will be in peak condition for the season opener against Jal."

Foster was the winning pitcher, Luna losing.

Innings pitched - Foster 4, Hamilton 3, Koonce 2, Luna 3, Lopez 6, Romero 9.

Handsoms Awards Are Offered In 4-H Club Programs

Handsoms awards for superior records of New Mexico 4-H Club members will be offered in the crops and frozen foods program in 1954, according to L. S. Kurtz, state 4-H Club leader.

County winners will receive gold-filled medals of honor. The state champion in field crops will be given an educational trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November. The state award in the frozen foods program will be a gold wrist watch, and the regional award—a Chicago Congregational award—a Chicago Congregational award—$300 college scholarships will be awarded to four national winners in each program.

Last year, Clifford Copeland of Nara Vista and Barbara Bonham of Albuquerque were state winners in the 4-H Club field crops and frozen foods programs, respectively. There were eight county medal winners named in field crops and three in frozen foods.

County extension agents will furnish complete information on these programs.

Sprays Do Not Always Fulfill Nitrogen Needs

Apple growers who supply nitrogen to their orchards through the new urea leaf sprays may need to apply additional fertilizer to the soil for best growth, says Dr. C. P. Harley, plant scientist of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

His studies indicate that at present recommended rates leaf sprays supply about one pound of actual nitrogen per tree when the necessary amount of spray is approximately 20 gallons. This is in three applications at the rate of five pounds of urea for each 100 gallons of water. In many cases, one pound of nitrogen per tree is not enough for best growth in large trees. Higher concentrations are not recommended because they may injure the leaves. Only a part of the nitrogen in the spray will stay on the leaves. From one-third to one-half of the spray is retained by the foliage. The remainder drops to the ground.

Harley points out that application of nitrogen in leaf sprays has several advantages in the apple orchard:

It saves labor. Growers in areas where sprays are required for the Club Members Learn to Keep Up Tractors

Keeping the nation's fleet of three and one half million farm tractors operating efficiently is a job of basic importance to the whole economy. Aiding in this task today is the 4-H tractor maintenance program, through which nearly 130,000 club leaders and members in the United States have been trained to know their tractors, care for them well and operate them efficiently. In New Mexico, 146 club members and leaders have been trained this year.

"Through this program, our local club leaders receive special training in tractor care and operation at annual district clinics conducted by the Extension Service of New Mexico, A. & M. College," explains Jimmy Apodaca, assistant state 4-H club leader. "The leaders pass on what they learn to club members, who carry out the training on the home tractors. In this way, club members not only learn the value of efficient tractor operation, but also develop the qualities of leadership, helpfulness, initiative and thrift."

Veterans Fire Back at Clovis Team, 13 to 5

Avenging the walloping they took a week ago the Artesia Veterans turned the tables on the Clovis Godevils 13 to 5 in a game played here at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The preceding Sunday, June 11, the Vets were soundly whipped 17 to 6 against the same team in the Curry County capital.

Hobbs is next on the Vet schedule. The Artesia team is to play a Hobbs nine in that town at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 25.

A Hagerman-Vet game that had been slated for Tuesday, June 13, was cancelled, then reset and played Friday night at Hagerman, the locals winning 11 to 5.

In the game here yesterday, Izy, Vets pitcher struck out six, walked four, while his opponent, Torres, struck out four, walked two. A three-bagger by Saiz, Vet third baseman, was another feature of the game.

Stencilling Cotton Bales Is Outdated

The practice of stencilling cotton bales with purple stencil ink or carbon base black ink causes many complaints from cotton mills, according to Marshall C. Thompson, extension cotton marketing specialist with the New Mexico A. & M. College.

"These inks soak through the bagging and into the cotton," Thompson said. "At the mills it is necessary to pick off every bit of the stained lint before it is spun. Otherwise, many yards of cloth would be ruined by a single stained bale. This picking process costs money and labor and wastes several ounces of valuable lint. Naturally, this increases the cost of manufacturing."

"Inquiries directed to compresses, railroads, shippers, and mills have failed to show any good reason for stenciling or painting cotton bales at the gin. The tag is the most important identification."

"The spinner will look with increasing favor on cotton that comes to him in such a condition

BALE YOUR HAY THE MM WAY

Baling hay the MM way saves time and man-power, preserves more of the feed value of hay, saves much valuable storage space, makes hay much easier to handle. The Bale-O-Matic compresses hay into uniform slices and automatically ties it tightly with wire into compact, solid bales of uniform size and weight.

If you now have hay or straw in the stack which you would like to bale for market or for more convenient feeding, you can do it easily and economically with an MM Bale-O-Matic, or you can bale your hay as you cut it, from windrow or swath, with much less work. See us now if you would like complete facts.

Ten Sound Reasons For Home Ownership

1. ECONOMY. Time-tested statistics have proven that, all elements considered, it is cheaper to own a home than to rent. Home renting provides mere shelter and results in the accumulation of useless rent receipts. Home purchasing gives not only shelter, but at the same time builds up a bulwark of safety and protection in times of stress.
2. INDEPENDENCE. More people have started on the road to financial independence through home ownership than in any other way.
3. THRIFT HABITS. The purchase of a home imposes beneficial obligations which encourage systematic saving.
4. SECURITY. Home ownership is the strongest foundation for security.

Need of Sturdy Defense Basic V-J Day Theme

Is America any better prepared for defense today than it was in 1942-43?

That was the question asked today by Don Bush, chairman of publicity for the 1950 V-J Day celebration, to be held here Aug. 10-12.

"We remember the laborious island hopping in the Pacific, how, at the cost of thousands of lives we re-took the islands our lack of preparation had lost," commented the celebration publicity director.

"It is to bring these recollections back to us that the United Club stages its annual celebration. Cost of preparedness in dollars is great. The cost in human life will be substantially reduced if we are prepared in equipment and trained in its use.

"You are the people and you have your choice. The United Veterans Club only takes this opportunity to remind you of the events of recent history."

Some of those events Bush summarized:

On Dec. 7, 1941, an amazed nation awoke to the fact we had been attacked by Japan.

First reaction of most of us was one of contempt, that we could smash Japan in a few months.

We were amazed at the fall of the Philippines and our sorrow grew as we learned of the fate of our soldiers on Corregidor while we stood helpless and unable to come to their aid.

That amazement grew to worried surprise during the next few months as we watched island after island fall to the advancing Japanese armies.

Then we began our frenzied and wasteful preparation for a conflict we belatedly recognized as a grim battle against a well trained and equipped opponent.

During those days everyone worried about being unprepared and made a solemn vow never to let this nation get into a state of physical and mental unpreparedness in which it then found itself.

We know and remember, also, the anxious days of the European campaigns and the crosses that now embellish the hills of Europe and Africa.

That ground we lost to us because we were not ready. Is our situation much different today than it was in 1942 and 1943?

are ready to go into the hat if and when we get ready to succeed.

We knew that "Ma" and "Pa" Folkner were off on another of their extended trips, for we wrote a local about it when they left. But now we know just where they are—or at least where they were Tuesday of last week: from the cancellation mark on the nice souvenir folder they were kind enough to send us.

It is one of those affairs with 18 panels of pictures, as well as a pictorial cover. And it is from Reelfoot Lake, Union City, Tenn., which seems to be quite a place.

We had heard about Reelfoot Lake before, but had never seen any pictures from there. And it seems to be a vacation paradise. And we'll bet "Ma" and "Pa" have some good fishing stories to tell

Stovall Speaks At Business Education Meet

T. STOVALL

T. Stovall, principal of Artesia High School, spoke Friday afternoon on "What I Should Like to Have Business Education Teachers Do," during a panel discussion on "Business Education and General Education," part of a two-day conference on business education Friday and Saturday on the Highlands University campus at Las Vegas.

Another Artesia faculty member, Don Riddle, who is to be principal of the new Artesia Junior High School, served as chairman of the typewriting section on Saturday afternoon.

when they return home. They usually do.

Some friends who have just returned from a trip to the West Coast said they were informed miles ahead about the best roads to take for the 1950 crop of tourists compare notes at eating places and inform each other about any bad stretches and what substitute roads to take.

If this be the case, we are certain that some tourists are telling others to avoid Highway 83, because of the unfinished stretches in the Sacramento Mountains.

So it is well that the Highway 83 Association has been formed. Even before the highway is all finished, perhaps the association can sell more tourists on the good points and discount the bad ones.

More Plantings Of Fish Are Made In Pecos River Waters

Second plantings of fish in recent days in waters in the Artesia area and farther south in the Pecos Valley were made Saturday by L. Q. Carman, superintendent and James Miller of the U.S. Fish Cultural Station at Dexter.

They planted 5000 bass and 300 channel catfish in the municipal lake at Carlsbad.

In the Pecos River near Boiling Springs, 1500 bass and 125 catfish were planted. And at Six-Mile Dam the Pecos at Loving was planted with 2000 bass and 250 channel catfish and the river at Harroun Dam received 2000 bass.

Superintendent Carman said fishermen on the river near Loving, Otis and Carlsbad said the fishing was good and channel catfish and bass were being taken for the most part.

Kentucky has 13 state parks. Nevada, in March, 1921, became the first state to adopt the gas chamber as a method of execution.

El Salvador is the smallest American republic in area and most densely populated.

Drilling oil wells by shooting torpedoes into them was first practiced in 1865.

Las Cruces Man Chosen Governor Of State 20-30

Stan Gallup, advertising manager of the Las Cruces Sun-News, was elected governor of New Mexico district of 20-30 International, at the organization's mid summer convention, June 16-18, in Albuquerque.

He is to assume office Sept. 1 this year, succeeding Dave Siegling of Albuquerque.

Mid-winter convention is to be held in the governor-elect's town, Las Cruces, in January. Exact date has not been set.

Three members of the Artesia club attended the Albuquerque conclave. They were Gail Ray, delegate, Jim Scoggins, alternate, and J. W. Boggs.

Heights 20-30 was the host club. Place of the convention was El Fidel Hotel.

Delegate Ray said three highlights of the conclave were the district governor's dinner-dance at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night; business session the following morning at 9:30 and the Dutch lunch following.

Registration for the convention totaled 95.

Convention speakers proudly noted that 79 per cent of the 448 members of New Mexico 20-30 are regularly attending club meetings and 20-30 is expanding so clubs are now being formed in Mexico. Carlsbad 20-30 won the man-mile attendance award at the session.

Ray was scheduled to make a report on the convention at the local club's supper meeting last night. Election of officers was also on the agenda.

The Artesia delegate said a sub-district meeting, similar to one held here two months ago, is slated for August in Roswell. Attendance is due from clubs of Artesia, Carlsbad, Hobbs, Clovis, Roswell and Portales.

Grain Sorghums More Economical than Corn As Feed For Livestock

Why should farmers and ranchmen feed corn to their livestock when grain sorghums will do just as good a job — especially since it costs 47 per cent more money? It's the question that Clyde R. Keaton, assistant economist with the New Mexico Extension Service, W. E. Flint, county agent-at-large, are asking livestock producers in New Mexico these days.

Recently in Eastern New Mexico, according to Keaton and Flint, corn priced at $2.80 per hundredweight, while grain sorghums were selling at $1.90 per hundredweight — a difference of 90 cents.

To feed a 900-pound steer to 1200 pounds, a livestock producer would need 1900 pounds of corn, costing $5.32 at the above prices. But the amount of grain sorghums would cost only $36.10 — a saving of $17.10 a head, or $5.70 for each hundred pounds of gain. In other words, the producer who feeds grain sorghums realizes a profit of per cent $55 a head, the corn feeder the other hand nets only $37.90. That $17.10 premium is too much to pay for a personal preference in grains, say Keaton and Flint.

The extension workers point out experimental results have shown in sorghums are just about as good as feed as corn. Animal husbandmen at the New Mexico Agricultural Experiment Station would have fed that kaffir, a grain sorghum, lacks only 6.6 per cent of as good as corn as a feed for cattle. Tests by Kansas, Nebraska, and Texas experiment stations have shown that cattle fed and milo, another grain sorghum, gained as rapidly as other feed ground corn and required only a trifle more feed per pound of gain. The Florida Experiment Station has reported ground shaluu heads, a grain sorghum, were fully equal to and ear corn for fattening yearling and 2-year-old beef cattle.

Lamb feeding test by the Texas Experiment Station showed that 2 pounds of good quality shelled hogari were equal in feed-value to one ton of shelled corn. Based on current New Mexico prices, the 2000 pounds of corn would cost the feeder $56, while 2052 pounds of the grain sorghum would cost $38.99 — a saving of $17.01 for the hogari feeder.

Poultry feeding experiments also proved that there is no difference in the feeding value of corn and grain sorghums. Workers at the Texas Experiment Station compared milo and pound for pound in broiler pens, they found that as long as adequate carotene was supplied by adding 5 per cent of good quality alfalfa leaf meal, ground milo was just as good a feed as ground yellow corn. In an experiment with starter rations, the Texas Experiment Station concluded that pound milo maize can be relied on to produce approximately the same gains in body weight as ground yellow corn. This confirmed earlier findings by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Later, Texas experimenters found that ground milo maize could replace either ground white or yellow corn, pound for pound, in poultry rations, and USDA workers in 1945 reported that the feeding value of two grains was approximately the same.

In many tests with swine, grain sorghums have been proved to be fully equal to corn for fattening and breeding stock. Work by the Nebraska Experiment Station revealed that the quality of pork from sorghum-fed hogs is equal to that from corn-fed swine. A well-known test-book, "Feeds and Feeding" (21st edition), by F. B. Morrison, states that grain sorghums have a net energy factor of 97.5 based on grade No. 2 yellow dent corn as 100 — difference of only 2.7 per cent.

"No experiments have shown that corn is more than 10 per cent more effective than grain sorghums as feed," Keaton and Flint say. "Therefore, the feeder cannot profitably pay a premium of 10 per cent more for corn, if he can pay that much. That is, if grain sorghums are selling for $1.90 a hundredweight, the feeder should not pay more than $2.09 a hundredweight for corn.

"All these experiments indicate that New Mexico livestock feeders who buy corn from neighboring states are paying a premium for which they receive little or no feeding value. On the other hand, as grain sorghums are one of New Mexico's chief grain crops, the feeder who buys them instead of corn not only benefits himself, but also helps the agriculture of the state."

Vogue Cleaners Stresses Finest Of Service

The Vogue Cleaners at 305 South First Street, phone 55-W, is fully equipped with a pre-spotting Cycle unit, pants stretcher and Wind Whip, to dry clothes and prevent breaking buttons or fancy ornaments, along with other new and modern equipment.

In spite of the Wind Whip, extra precautions are taken at the Vogue Cleaners with fancy buttons and ornaments. And all belts are hand cleaned, to keep from breaking them down inside.

Dry cleaning solvents at the Vogue Cleaners are specially treated to keep them clean and free from fatty acids or any foreign materials that would prevent clear and sanitary cleaning.

The Vogue Cleaners uses a lighter cleaning solvent than most cleaning establishments and J. W. Hair, owner, says this takes out spots better and the garments dry faster. All of this improves their service.

This is because Nutrena chick feed is stepped up with Livium and is compounded from the most carefully worked out scientific formula.

Mr. Smith said he switched to Nutrena last fall because Nutrena was voted best by poultry raisers in a 14-state survey, including New Mexico, over 140 other brands.

Nutrena tests also show earlier egg production.

Keep Them In Prison

WHILE IT IS ONLY RIGHT and proper for us to be concerned about law observance and enforcement, it becomes more and more apparent we are going to have to become more concerned about those convicted serving their sentences.

Law enforcement officers have complained for years because of some of the problems they encounter in endeavoring to secure convictions of those they know to be guilty. They have voiced their objections to the failure of district attorneys to properly prosecute the cases; the disappearance of witnesses; the refusal of witnesses to testify and the methods and tactics employed frequently by defense counsel.

They also have registered their objections to the fact that the pardon and parole board apparently at times turns those convicted of crime loose and back on society hardly before the doors close on them in the state prison.

And when the habitual criminal is released under a parole or a pardon he again becomes a problem of the enforcement officers in those communities from which he was sent up.

Usually within a few months they have to go through the same thing they went through before, arrest, gather evidence, convict and take the individual to prison.

A splendid example of how the pardon and parole board acts is shown the recent case of Louis Crownover, who has just received a conditional release. He was sentenced from Lincoln County, July 30, 1943, to 25-28 years for rape. The sentence had been commuted three times to 16 years, 10 months and 28 days. He actually served less than seven years of his 25-to-28 year sentence and is now released.

We presume that the court was convinced that he was guilty following his trial. The court heard the evidence and handed down the sentence in keeping with the crime.

And we are never going to bring about law observance or law enforcement by handing down light sentences or turning them loose within a few weeks, a few months or a few years after they have been sent to prison.

It is time that the citizens of the state protest the steady release of prisoners under conditional pardons and paroles and if the present board and present law doesn't take care of the situation then the legislature should adopt some laws that will halt this wholesale releasing of those being punished for their crimes against society.—O.E.P.

Let's Halt Prictice

THERE IS A STATE in the nation where it is illegal and unlawful not only for the political candidates to nail or tack their placards on the telephone and telegraph poles, but on the trees and in other public places. The only notices that can be nailed to these posts are death notices.

But in New Mexico we find that posters and placards are nailed and tacked to most anything anywhere. This includes the telephone and telegraph poles, trees, sign boards and anywhere else that the individual handling the signs can find room to tack the poster.

That sign is not only unattractive during the campaign but it is unattractive for months after the election. There are places in Artesia where signs or posters put up a year and a half ago can still be found.

And the placing of so many of these tacks and nails in these posts make them dangerous to be used by the linemen of the company which erected the poles and uses the poles.

We would like to see this city adopt an ordinance prohibiting the placing of all posters and placards including those of political candidates, shows, carnivals and anything else on the posts. And we would like to see the practice of nailing anything to our trees halted forever.

It would probably be for the best interest of the state for a state law to be passed but in the meanwhile maybe quicker action could be obtained by the city governing bodies.

Many cities make considerable effort to make and to keep their city as attractive as possible and the fact that placards and posters can be placed on the posts or trees doesn't assist in this program.

If these placards are placed in business house windows they are usually discarded or thrown away after the election is held or when the show, program or entertainment is over. But when they are tacked to the telephone poles they remain until the weather destroys them.

We certainly would like to see adequate legislation adopted by our cities to prohibit this practice in the future and if that can't be done then a law which would make it mandatory that the signs be removed after the election is held or when the event is over.—O.E.P.

Still The Best

WE'RE STILL IN THE MIDDLE. We're still the smallest. But we're still the finest in the Pecos Valley. And we'll probably remain that way. But we'll have to get on the ball and remain on the ball to do so.

We heard a newcomer here say last week that although most all Artesians are quite fond of the city, they do not brag it up as much as they should. He said that in his two months of residence here he had yet to hear anyone go all out to claim Artesia to be the finest, fairest, nicest, most healthful city in the land.

It must be that we have failed to say so the last two months, but we have so claimed time and again in the past.

Well, we wouldn't trade Artesia's 8115 population—the 1950 census figure—for Roswell's 25,569 or Carlsbad's 17,915.

We are quite proud of our sister city to the south for having increased 151.7 per cent in a decade, which was a much greater gain in proportion to that in Artesia, where the figures showed an increase of 99.3 per cent—nearly double. At the same time, Roswell was not far behind Artesia in percentage of increase, which was 89.6. And we are happy for Roswell.

But had both Roswell and Carlsbad shown several times the percentage increase of Artesia, we still would claim this is the best spot not only of the Pecos Valley, but of the world at large to live—and that's taking in lots of territory.

Practically every community in the state showed a substantial increase in population in the last 10 years. So it was to be expected the three largest communities in the Pecos Valley should have grown greatly.

But there is still something missing in the picture. A large part of Roswell's growth undoubtedly can be attributed to what was known as Roswell Air Base during the war and now is known as Walker Air Force Base.

Artesia had no such installation. Early in the war we had a pre-glider school for a few months. Later in the war we had a side camp of the Roswell Prisoner of War Camp. And a handful of soldiers was stationed at the local airport, which was a practice port for B-17's and B-29's from Roswell. But that did not materially add to the city's growth.

Carlsbad likewise had an Army air base, with thousands of men stationed there. This called for much building and growth, which the Cavern City has held and added to. Increased output of potash also helped Carlsbad.

But our growth has been more or less steady, with no outside influences. Only minor oil pools in the Artesia area have been discovered in the last decade. And the number of drilling rigs is about the same as it was then. But still we have had a healthy, steady growth.

However, the time has come when we must get on the ball if we wish to maintain the population we have and to increase it steadily.

We must find new payrolls, new industries, and new businesses in order to progress as we would desire.

But if we all work together, we will accomplish just those things and we will continue to be the best place in the world to live.—A.L.B.

It Is Your Taxes

WE DO NOT KNOW HOW LONG it is going to take for the citizens, the voters and the taxpayers of the nation to realize that it is their responsibility and duty to make the changes they desire to make in Washington but we can assure them it won't be done until they make it mandatory.

Today, we are told, we are paying 500 hidden taxes in a pair of shoes and another 151 taxes in the buying of a loaf of bread. It doesn't sound possible but it is true.

For that matter it doesn't sound possible when we say that America has spent more money in the past five years than it spent in the 156 years prior to this time but that also is true.

And we are going to spend more and more money just as long as we the citizens, the voters and the taxpayers permit it to be done.

Our tax bill has continued to grow from year to year. It will continue to grow just as long as we permit that to be the case. The responsibility is ours—we can't escape it.

But when we decide it is too large and we want to do something about it—then we can reduce it. We can have most of the things we have today and perhaps have more when we demand that efficiency and economy be practiced in Washington, and when we demand that all of the duplication of bureaus, departments and agencies be halted.

We probably can have more when we halt the waste and extravagance that prevails in Washington. We can have more when we demand that those in charge of the government stop using and spending our money to perpetuate themselves in office.

But they are not going to stop it until we put a stop to it. And we won't put a stop to it until we either impress on the Congress that they must reduce expenditures instead of increase them or until we replace those we have in Congress with those who will follow the wishes of the people.

We can neither borrow nor spend ourselves rich despite the fact we have those preaching this idea. We have about borrowed our limit or at least to the limit of good business.

It is time that we start saving for that rainy day; pay off what we owe; adopt an economical program and reduce our government spending.

And this spending will halt when we demand that it be halted. But if we continue with the attitude of indifference we have displayed for some years and those in charge will figure we don't care and they will continue their wild spending spree.

Our taxes will only be reduced when our spending is reduced. And our spending and duplication and waste and extravagance in public office will only be halted when the citizens of this nation demand that it be halted.

We have been willing to go along; accept the handouts; permit the government to provide jobs and payrolls and apparently believed that the government could continue indefinitely creating prosperity.

But it won't last. It can't. The money comes from the people and when the tax load becomes too heavy there is always just one thing that occurs—the people revolt.

It has happened before. It will happen again. But under our system of government we can stop the waste, the extravagance and the duplication of spending if we will only make our demands and make them loud enough.

And it is your responsibility and your duty Mr. and Mrs. Citizen and voter—not the responsibility of just your neighbor and your friends.—O.E.P.

MEMBERS OF AMERICA'S DEFENSE TEAM

10. THE OHIO NATIONAL GUARD

Dedicated to the service of the community, the state and the Nation, the Ohio National Guard today is a major member of America's Defense Team. With all its 27 allotted Air units and 196 Army units—93.9 percent of the allotted 211—organized on Feb. 20, 1950, the Ohio Guard was well on the way to meeting its vital postwar 30-day mission. Assigned a total strength of 27,854 officers and men, sixth in size of all the States and Territories, Ohio had a strength of 15,506—or 55.7 percent of its full allotment—at the end of January, 1950. Fully organized are Ohio's main tactical units, the 37th Infantry Division, the 186th Regimental Combat Team, all non-divisional Antiaircraft Artillery units, the one bomber and three fighter air squadrons, and supporting units.

Like the National Guard as a whole, the Ohio Guard trains with the latest weapons and equipment under the direct supervision of the regular Army and Air Force. A hundred percent voluntary organization, its citizen-soldiers have unlimited opportunities for advancement and learning. They may take courses running from a few weeks to nine months in hundreds of special skills that make them better soldiers and airmen and at the same time more valuable to their employers in civil life. In token of their high regard for Guard training thousands of employers in Ohio and over the Nation grant their Guardsmen-employees two weeks military leave with full pay, in addition to their regular vacations, or make up the difference between their Guard and regular pay for the two weeks that Guardsmen spend each summer in full-time soldiering in the field.

Guardsmen prepare for their annual field encampments by 42 training periods, usually once a week in their spare time during the year at armory or Air Base. For their training they receive pay and benefits at regular service rates according to rank. Enlisted men in the National Guard are given every opportunity to become non-commissioned and commissioned officers. A National Guard tradition is to choose its leaders from the ranks.

Under provisions of law passed by Congress, Guardsmen are eligible for generous lifetime pension benefits at the age of 60 after 20 years of service. Service during the war counts substantially towards this generous pension and many veterans have taken advantage by joining the Guard.

The Ohio National Guard has a proud record of service in both World Wars. Typical of the battle record of Ohio Guardsmen is the history of Ohio's 37th "Buckeye" Division. In World War I the 37th drove the enemy back at Meuse-Argonne, St. Mihiel, Ypres-Lys, and was still pursuing the Germans when the Armistice came. In World War II the Buckeyes fought 92 days of combat in the toughest engagements of the Pacific with a record of 35,590 enemy dead and 2,161 prisoners. From Guadalcanal to Manila, a saga of bitter fighting against a fanatical and persistent opponent, the Buckeyes of Ohio "were there."

Adjutant General of Ohio is Major General Leo M. Kreber, a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

A member of the Ohio National Guard since 1922, following his resignation from the regular Army, General Kreber was commander of the 37th Infantry Division Artillery in the Southwest Pacific in the last war. He holds the Distinguished Service Medal, Silver Star, Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster, Bronze Star, Air Medal, Purple Heart and Navy Star.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—I was, I believe, about 17 when for the first time in my life I had too much to drink. Maybe I shouldn't say that because of the one or two small fry who may read these deathless essays, but it is a stark fact and nothing can be done about it.

Besides, we are in an era when the 14-year-old is allowed to stop by with the old folks for a cocktail—a civilized era, I believe we call it—so the small fry knows what gin tastes like and can understand that too much of it can set you on your ear. Let us be realists, always.

But this is no lecture on the evils of gin. You see, when I was 17 and had too much to drink, I was at a party on Riverside Drive, in the apartment of a girl named Isabella. Isabella was a smooth one, a tall and languid type who could play Smoke Gets in Your Eyes on the piano and who, I believe, married a Boston salesman and had twins.

Also at the party was a girl named Helen, also a sharp number but something of a steady influence. Indeed, she grew up to become George Sokolsky's secretary.

Well, Helen saw the bombs sneaking up on me, so she spirited me out of the apartment and, to get some air, walked me halfway across the George Washington bridge, which was just outside. Gin is a wonderful thing and occasionally lulls you into the same mellow, expansive mood that Vaughn Monroe's singing does, but I think that by the time I got to the center of the bridge and looked south to the sparkling city and its dark towers, I was virtually a well man.

So it wasn't drink that influenced me when I stood there and looked at the city virtually in my lap and the Hudson river gleaming below me like a black mirror and the incredibly beautiful bridge strung out like a necklace of lamps, and decided that one day I would live in a place where I could awaken and look out my window and see the bridge.

THE MOVING FINGER WRITES, AS O. KHAYYAM SAID, and now I find myself living in just such a place. And do you know—in the 17 years that have passed since that first marvelous visit, nothing has happened to stale the beauty of the sight?

Seventeen years have changed the world in many ways—the stairs are steeper, the school children are younger, the things to believe in are fewer and the women I would consider kissing are reduced sharply in number—but the bridge is still there, still incredible, still able to make me pause when I see it from the street, or sit on the edge of my bed in a trance for minutes on end in the morning when I should be shaving.

I see it in the rain and I see it in the sunshine. I see it caught up in the fog that settles so often over the Hudson, wiping out even the red beam of the Will Rogers beacon at one end of the bridge, and I see it from the window of an airplane going to Chicago. I see it from a taxicab rolling up the West Side Highway at 2 in the morning, and I judge the number of minutes before I will be in bed from the distance it is from me.

I see it from the deck of a boat and I see it in the sunny Sunday morning haze when I am sitting on the roof of my apartment trying unsuccessfully to do the Times crossword puzzle.

And always it is mine. This you must understand. In spite of legal cover-ups, for income tax purposes, I own both the George Washington bridge and the Empire State building. I permit visits to both of them only from the young and the pure in heart.

THE BRIDGE AND I BOTH HAVE BEEN THROUGH A LOT in the 17 years since we met. Only the Lord and the newspaper fish know how many people have walked out to the center, as I did, and there departed from the script by stepping out of their clothes and into the big drink below, and sudden death.

It never has a restful hour; they paint it every day in the year. I am given to understand, starting at one end and working their way across and then turning around 365 days later and starting back. And at night, when the painters have left, the traffic continues, the hundreds of thousands of cars going into or coming from the barbaric reaches of New Jersey.

I lay in bed last night and listened to them, their tires stripping endlessness, and then I raised up on one elbow and looked out through the Venetian blinds at them—little lightning bugs crawling insignificantly over my bridge.

Across the shore and to the south was the whiz-bang of an amusement park, and below them the ghastly green and blue-lighted factories of Jersey where infernal machines are made.

And far below was the Empire State building, a pinpoint ringed in red in the spring night. I checked my two properties sleepily and then went to sleep, with what I suspect was a smile playing around my mouth.

Increased Tourist Trade One of Aims Of 83 Association

Warm weather prompts many persons to get out road maps, travel folders—and bank books. For them it means vacations are not far off and plans must be made in advance.

Tourist trade is one of the five major industries of New Mexico. Increasing amount of tourist travel on New Mexico Road 83 and Texas 328 is one of the purposes of the Highway 83 association formed at a meeting held here June 14.

Plans outlined at the session call for erection of road signs leading to the combined Texas 328-New Mexico 83 route between Welch and Alamogordo, emphasizing the route attractions and shorter distance for those traveling east to west and vice versa.

A magazine survey this season says that average middle-income Americans on vacation will travel greater distances and spend more money "getting away from it all" than ever before.

The survey, says the Oil Industry Information Committee, Dallas, covers 2,500,000 families with incomes averaging $3870 annually and shows plans to travel an average of 1630 miles and spend $279 on vacation trips this year. This is 381 miles and $66 more than the same group reported for 1949.

Farmer Finds Blower Effective Hay Dryer

Mounted on Cart, It's Easy to Move About

Wet springs and early frosts aren't the headaches they once were to a growing number of farmers. For they have discovered that immature grain can be cured just as effectively in storage buildings as in the field.

The average farmer will find that mechanical drying of hay and grain is not as expensive as it would appear. Hay and grain saved will soon pay for equipment.

Equipment for mechanical drying of grain is simple, and present farm structures can be converted easily, quickly and inexpensively to handle this newest of farm production chores. Farmers, who have hay curing equipment, will find that the same fan and motor can be used for both drying grain and finishing crops. The accompanying illustration shows what can be done in the way of inter-changing hay curing and grain drying equipment. When the hay curing season is over, this farmer mounts his fan and motor on a cart and hauls them to a crib where they are put to use blowing moisture out of his immature corn. An outlet, into which he plugs his five-horsepower motor, is located in an adjacent building.

When double cribs are used, as in the case shown, the air blast enters through one end of the driveway. The opposite end is sealed up, and heavy paper placed on walls of the crib from the peak of the roof to the top of the corn layer. Openings around the fan and in the floor also are closed. In single cribs, wooden ducts or "A" frames are laid down the center of the floor and the air blown directly into them.

Drying is successful without supplementary heat when the temperature is 60 or above and the relative humidity 65 per cent or below. If heat is used, buildings should be insulated and properly ventilated. Warm air is blown into storage sheds by motor driven fans. Thermostats and other controls automatically keep the temperature and the flow of air at efficient drying levels.

Check Strips Can Test Fertilizers

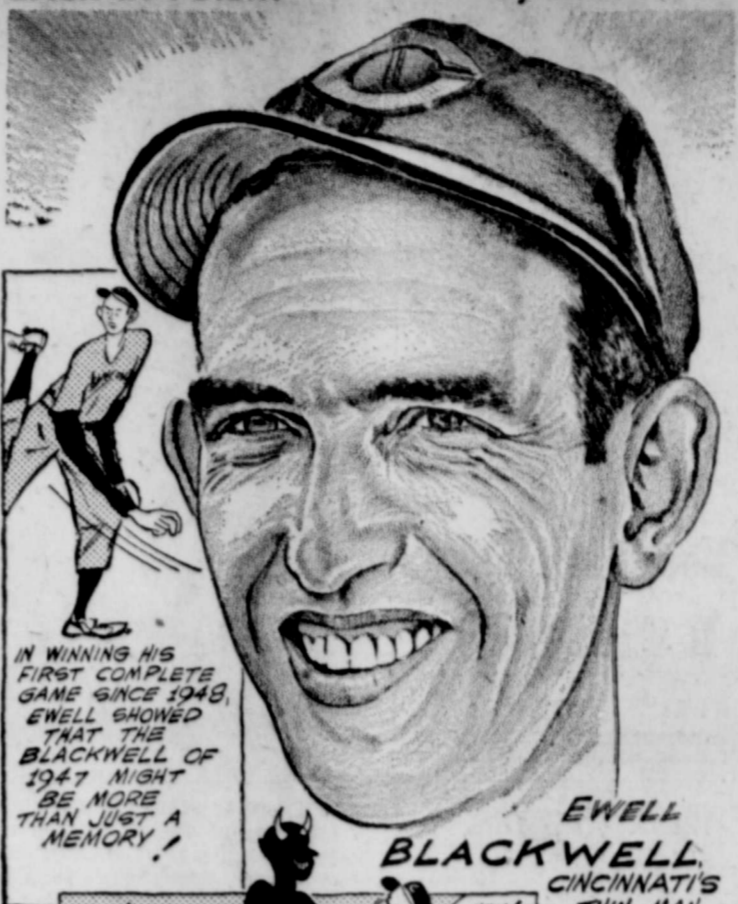

"If you really want to test the fertilizers that you are using with your small grain, pastures, alfalfa or any other crop, leave a check strip of one or two drill widths," suggests Gordon B. Hoff, extension agronomist with New Mexico A. & M. College.

"Such a check strip will give you a good chance to observe the difference between the fertilized and unfertilized crop all through the season, from first emergence to harvest," the agronomist says. "If you harvest carefully, you can even make a pretty good estimate of the difference in yield, which is the real test of whether fertilizing pays off."

Check strips, according to Hoff, should be away from the fence rows and away from dead furrows and should be as nearly typical of the rest of the field as possible.

"Sometimes cattle prefer the forage on fertilized soil over grass on the check strip," he points out. "Therefore, the grass on the check strip often appears better than that which was fertilized. Watch your cattle to see if they prefer the grass on the fertilized soil and are grazing it more intensely. Also compare the recovery of the grass on the fertilized and unfertilized soil when cattle are removed from the pasture." Hoff recommends 60 to 66 pounds of P205 be applied to alfalfa at planting time and each spring thereafter. His fertilizer recommendation for irrigated pastures is 40 to 60 pounds of nitrogen and 44 pounds of P205. Half should be applied in early spring and the remainder in mid-summer. However, if you have a grass legume mixture with heavy production of grass and light production of legume forage, use 40 pounds of nitrogen and 66 pounds of P205. Where your mixture is producing a high proportion of legumes and a low proportion of grass, use 60 pounds of nitrogen and 20 pounds of P205.

In this way, you can partly control the amount of legumes and grass forage produced, because a fertilizer mixture high in phosphate will increase the growth and spread of legumes, while a mixture high in nitrogen will increase the growth and spread of grasses in the pasture.

Modern may be aptly called "Furniture with a purpose." It has been designed with the function of each piece in mind, rather than the traditional appearance as is the case in most former period furniture. Naturally as our activities and modes of living change, so our requirements are different. Today we have many more properties—books, games, clothes, radios, televisions—and rooms are generally smaller. This undoubtedly inspired the design of Modern Unit furniture that is currently so popular.

These logical, simple, soundly constructed units can be had in open stock collections, and additional pieces may be added as desired. They offer the maximum flexibility. May be piled vertically or banked horizontally as room plan dictates.

The wide variety of finishes available range from light to dark tones, through middle colors, dark glossy and dull finishes. Lighter tones appear to be lighter in weight and are preferable in small areas.

Sketched above: pale beech chests and bookcases become center-of-interest group in a room. A Chinese curtain is vertically added to Modern Unit. Yellow walls have been replaced to match chair upholstery of yellow, cocoa brown and beige. Rug is cocoa brown.

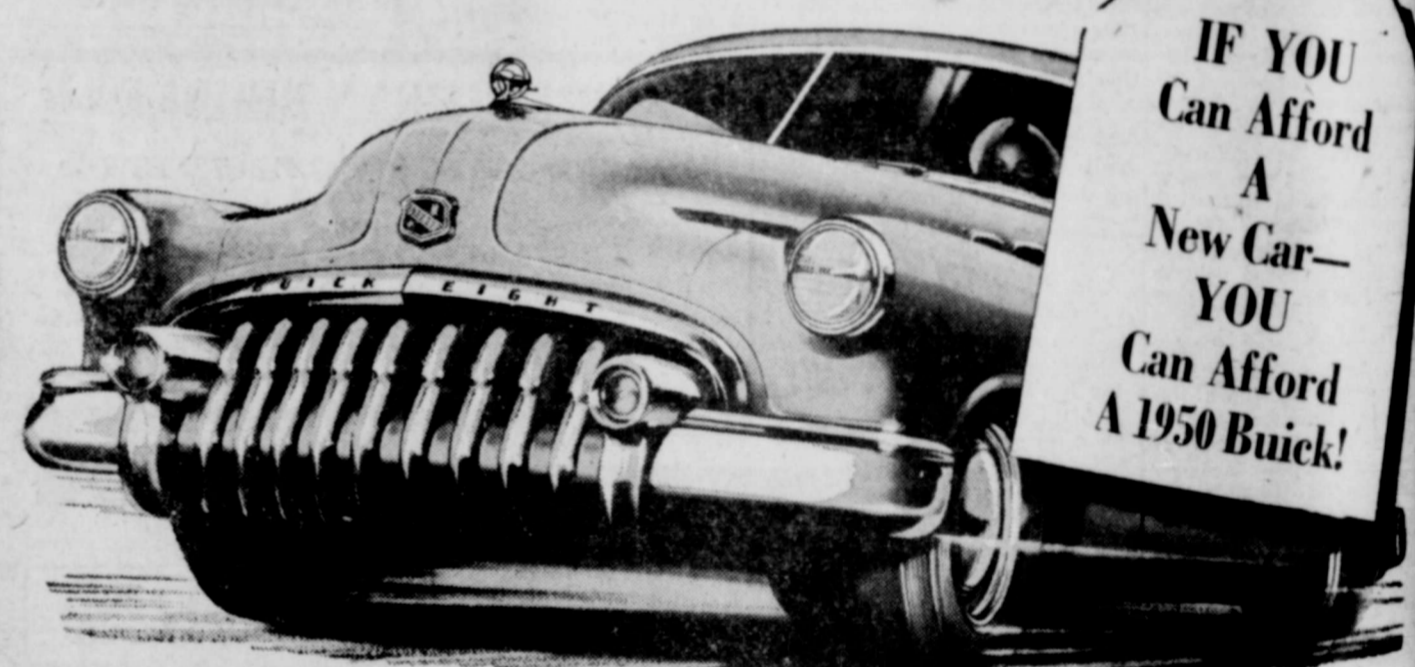

Come in, let us tell you about many more backgrounds that will help bring out the beauty of Modern furniture.
