

Story League Takes First . . .

Pictured here is the rear view of the winning float in the big V-J celebration and rodeo parade here last Thursday afternoon.

POT POURRI

We at The Advocate office are proud of the United Veterans Club for the top show which was out on last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

And we're rather proud — and we hope excusably so — for the way the story was presented to the readers the last few weeks and in the Friday issue.

In order to meet the moved-up deadline made necessary because of the one mail delivery a day, two staff members had as many typewriters smoking minutes after the parade was over, knocking out different "takes" of the over-all story.

In so doing, however, we made two slip-ups — not as excusable as our pride. But we made 'em.

One was the amounts of prize money the story said was won by the sponsors of the three top floats, the Artesia Story League, Carper Drilling Company, and Alpha Nu Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

Several advance news stories had said the prize would be $200, $100, and $50, respectively. Which was correct.

But the story Friday morning upped the prizes to $200, $150, and $100.

Needless to say, our journalistic generosity will not be reflected in the checks the winners receive.

The second boner was in the complete list of floats entered, one of which we said represented "Woodbine Plumbing."

Well, now, we have a Woodside Plumbing & Heating Company here and we also have a Woodbine Cemetery.

It was a pretty-looking float, so we guess we really were referring to Woodside Plumbing.

Just a moment, please, while we read that back slowly and carefully, to make sure we have the right names in the right places. It's really confusing, but not amusing.

But we're not the only ones who make mistakes, so we have discovered.

The First National Bank, which believes first in newspaper advertising, but also likes to have a few books of matches around for customers, had been handing out books from a new shipment, when someone remarked as to the tenfold increase in capital, according to the printing on one of the books.

Sure enough, it listed capital as $250,000, which is lots of dough in anybody's oven.

Then a handful of match books was examined, and on every one the capital was listed as $250,000, the correct amount, which is also the same as the surplus.

Further search showed the incorrect ones in a few boxes only, but well scattered throughout the shipment.

It looks as though the match company discovered the mistake after a small part of the run had been made, but instead of discarding the wrong covers shipped them along with the correct ones, which makes it somewhat embarrassing to officials of the bank, who in no way intended to mislead the public.

But there'll be no more of the incorrect ones go out for they've been weeded out and discarded.

Those who attend rodeos have the greatest respect for the contestants, all of whom take big chances.

But the top hand — the fellow who risks his neck more than anyone else on the program and more times — is the rodeo clown.

So it was with the rodeo last week. And Alex Alexander the Negro clown, and Gene Autry's bull fighter, whose real job is to protect fallen riders, was the best we have ever seen work, and we've seen many.

To many people in the stands, (Continued on page six)

Newspaper Stories Are The Record

News isn't something that happens in a flash and is forgotten. You may have heard it once but even the best memories can't recall every detail.

For example, there was a businessman who Saturday wanted to know the 1950 census on Eddy and Chaves Counties. It was still news to him, even though he had heard it before. Where did he seek the information to refresh his memory? Right at the newspaper — the permanent record.

A story on the census was published in the June 27 issue of The Artesia Advocate. It showed the 1950 population of Eddy County as 40,421, a gain of 16,110 over 1940's 24,311. For Chaves County the 1950 figure is 38,285; 1940, 23,980.

With Naming Of Winners, Beards Are Shaved Off

The final rodeo performance Saturday night of the fourth annual V-J celebration was the signal for the shaving of dozens of faces, as attempts of men entered in the two divisions of the beard-growing contest were judged and prizes were awarded.

Many of those who had worn face adornments up to two months or more rushed home immediately after the rodeo and before attending the final celebration dance at the Veterans Memorial Building, presumably on orders of their wives. Others waited until Sunday, and still others, preferring to have the expert service of barbers stuck it out until the shops opened Monday morning.

But by midmorning Monday everything was back to normal, as far as beards goes.

In the dudes' division, reserved for those who did not start their beards until the second week in July, Herb Haskell, with mutton-chop sideburns, won a cup for having the most unique; Ed McGonigill, in full black beard, won a cup for having the longest whiskers, and A. L. Bert, with Buffalo Bill adornment, received a razor set for the most futile attempt.

Prizes were the same in the old-timers' division, for those men who started their beards early in June.

Jack Clem was judged to have the most unique beard, with his old-time sideburns; W. M. Simmons, in full beard, varying in color from pink to white, was found to have the longest beard, and Oscar Bayer, with Maine fisherman whiskers, took the prize for the most futile attempt.

Judges were John Boren and John Sharran, barbers who have been scraping chins here many years. With the contestants in the middle of the rodeo arena, the judges experienced some difficulty in choosing the one with the longest whiskers in the old-timers' division and had to resort to a measuring stick. Officers Looking For Soldier In Knifing Case

Artesia city police, sheriff's officers of Eddy and Chaves Counties, and State Police were still looking late Monday for a man described as a Spanish-American soldier, in connection with a cutting in an automobile north of Artesia on State Highway 285 about 8 o'clock Saturday night, in which Clyde Odell Keller of Roswell, 21, was dangerously but not critically knifed.

Keller, who was taken to Artesia General Hospital, was reported Monday to have had a good night Sunday and to be showing improvement.

He was suffering from a number of slashes and stab wounds on his left arm and chest, as well as a cut on his head.

Keller was taken to the hospital about 8:45 o'clock Saturday night by three companions, Cecil Pengergast, Jr., Leroy Walker, Jr., and Eugene Banister, all of Roswell, who told officers of the affair.

They said the quartet had stopped at the Hi-Hat Night Club on the way to Artesia and that as they were leaving the soldier and his girl asked for a ride to Artesia, which was granted.

Pengergast drove and the two Spanish-Americans sat in the front seat, the men said, while the three other Anglos sat in the rear.

Somewhere this side of the county line the soldier suddenly turned and cursed Keller and stabbed and slashed him at the same time, the officers were told. The men said the soldier then jumped from the car and ran to the left, while the girl jumped and went to the right, while the wounded Keller was rushed to the hospital here.

Program Friday Closes Vacation Church School

A two-week daily union vacation church school sponsored by four of the local churches, came to a successful close Friday morning with special exercises at the First Methodist Church, where all of the sessions were held.

Other co-operating churches in the school were the Church of the Nazarene, First Presbyterian Church, and First Christian Church.

Mrs. Fletcher Collins, general superintendent, said there was a total enrollment of 192 boys and girls and that the average daily attendance was 133.

At the closing exercises, 65 of the boys and girls received perfect attendance awards.

The program was held the last morning, rather than Friday evening, as has been the custom in past years, because of the celebration rodeo, Mrs. Colling said. Attending it were 140 of the children and about 50 mothers, all of whom served refreshments at its conclusion.

Opening the program was a 30-minute sound movie, after which those enrolled in all of the departments had a part.

The intermediate department had charge of the Scripture lesson. Next the beginners gave memory verses and sang a song. Members of the primary department then sang a song. (Continued on page six)

Johnny Is Happy Boy Gets Decked Out For Rodeo

One of the happiest spectators at the V-J rodeo Saturday night was Johnny, a 10-year-old Spanish-American boy.

He was all decked out in new clothes, he had been well fed for a week, he had a little money in his pockets for cokes or pop, he was clean and sporting a new hair cut.

Johnny—which is as good a name as any for a 10-year-old boy—had a police escort, but he was not under arrest. He was—and still is—under restraint, while a committee of citizens and Judge J. D.

Josey, juvenile officer, study what to do with him. The upshot of it probably will be that he will go to Cal Farley's Boys Ranch in the Panhandle of Texas.

The likeable boy, who is as sharp as they come, has made many friends the last week, since he was picked up for an infraction of the law, not the first time.

The little fellow knows lots of things, all because he is practically a waif, a fatherless boy, who has been neglected, and because of which he gets hungry at times. (Continued on Page Six)

Vows Are Exchanged Here Sunday By Margery Irene Funk, C. B. Goldston

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Gore was the scene of the marriage of Margery Irene Funk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Funk, and C. B. Goldston, son of Mrs. Ray Bowman, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. S. M. Morgan, pastor of the First Baptist Church, read the double-ring ceremony.

The room was decorated with white gladioli and tall white tapers. The ceremony was performed in front of the fireplace, which was banked with white gladioli, forming a large fan covering the opening.

Jo Margaret Gore, accompanied by Marijo Storm, played, "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," on her violin, while Mrs. H. T. Kane lighted the candles. Mrs. Don Redekopp sang, "I Love You Truly."

Miss Gore played the "Bridal Chorus" as the bride, given in marriage by her father, advanced. The bride wore an ankle-length pink organdie dress, with white linen pumps and a white picture hat. She carried purple orchids over a white Bible borrowed from the bridegroom's brother.

For something old, the bride wore a string of pearls; something new was her wedding dress; something borrowed was the white Bible, and something blue was a blue garter.

Mrs. Charles Pittman, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was dressed in yellow with white accessories. Her corsage was of tansman roses.

Best man was Larry Goldston, brother of the bridegroom.

Harold and Joe Funk, brothers of the bride, were ushers. The bride's mother, Mrs. I. L. Funk, wore a printed silk dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Ray Bowman, mother of the bridegroom, wore navy blue with white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception followed the ceremony, in which approximately 50 guests were present. Mrs. George Dunker poured the punch, and Mrs. E. T. Gore served the wedding cake. Beba Miller presided at the guest book.

The couple are now on a honeymoon in Alamosa, Colo., after which they will be at home at 803 West Marquette, Albuquerque.

The bride is a graduate of Artesia High School. She graduated in 1949, and has been employed by the Southern Union Gas Company since then.

Mr. Goldston, a 1947 graduate of Roswell High School, will be a senior in the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque, where he is majoring in industrial arts.

Potpourri—

(Continued from Page 1) they think the clown is merely clowning — and so he is-but he's doing a very serious duty at the same time. Although he didn't let anyone know it at the time Thursday night, Alex hurt his arm the first time he went over the arena fence in front of an angry Brahma bull. A few minutes later he misjudged his distance — probably because of the pain-and was helped over the fence by another Brahma. Fortunately he was tossed by the bull's head and not his horns. And was not hurt that time. But he showed his nerve a bull or two later when a bull turned on the rider he had just thrown and was tearing towards him at full speed. The bull was so close everyone thought surely the rider would be gored or trampled, or both. However, Alex was right in there in a flash and turned the bull to him, saving the downed cowboy in one of the closest squeaks we have ever witnessed. Although Alex started out Friday night, he could not carry on and another hand took over the job of protecting the downed riders.

Frank Kindel, manager of the Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce, was one of the top attractions in the V-J parade which he led in his old-time bicycle, which he raced up and down the street, weaving in and out around floats and other vehicles.

He's the fellow, if we remember correctly, who some years ago rode a motorcycle across the Pecos River just north of Carlsbad on the rim of the flume which carries water from Lake Avalon to the irrigation district. Just before the parade last Thursday, Frank was nabbed by some of Judge Bean's deputies and hauled before the Law West of the Pecos, where he was in his company.

Inasmuch as Frank was an ambassador of good will from our sister city to the south, Judge Bean suspended sentence, gave him the keys to the city, and turned him loose. But it happened we were in Frank's company when he was nabbed, and we were a little afraid there for a moment or two when Judge Bean looked our way and studied our 10-gallon hat. We thought surely he would have us pulled in also and would try us for all he was worth. You see, our 10-gallon hat is of the famous style which carries the name, "Carlsbad." - A.L.B.

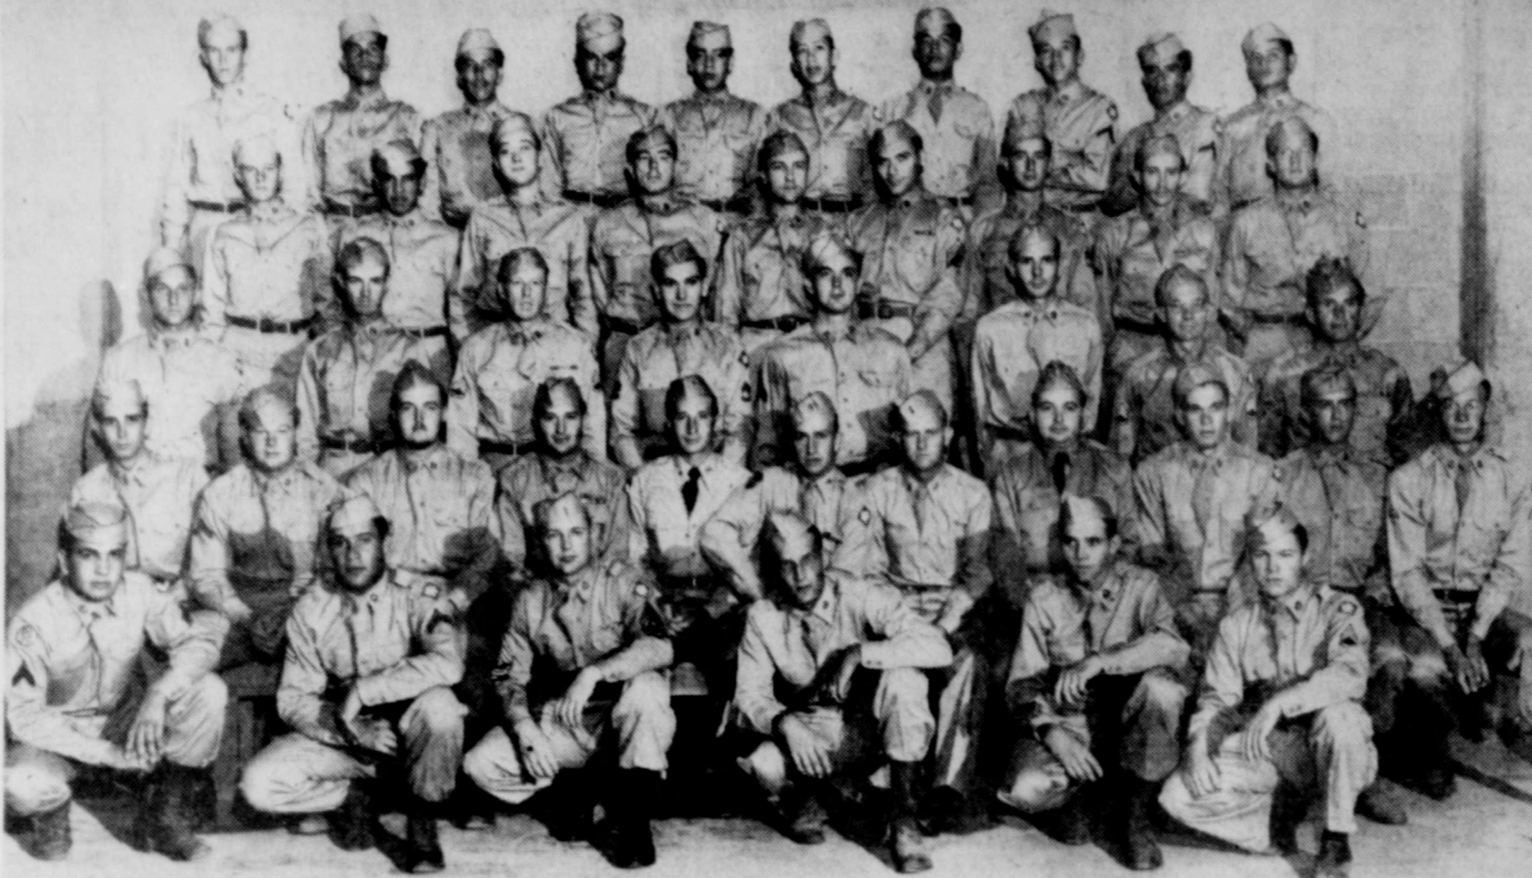

Program Friday—

(Continued from Page 1) Concluding the program was part put on by the junior department, in which the members sang, "Others," which was the theme of their study, and Phillip Meisinger told two stories which those in the department had learned. A display of handiwork of the boys and girls during the two-week Bible school was shown. During the last week of the school, children in the primary department made little wagons, filled them with candy, and took them to Artesia General Hospital. Department superintendent the entire two weeks were: Intermediates, Rev. R. L. Willingham, pastor of the First Methodist Church; juniors, Mrs. Mack Reasner; primary, Mrs. Jack McCarv. Mrs. Jack Knorr served as superintendent of the beginners the first week and Mrs. James Merrifield the second. Helpers who joined the faculty the second week of the school were Jeanette Howard, Naomi Brown, Mrs. Raymond Lamb, and Mrs. Sam Stewart.

Johnny Is—

(Continued from Page One) Then he does what any hungry boy might do. Those who have come to know Johnny believe he is not naturally bad. He certainly is not a smarty. He listens to reason. And he is easily disciplined. He has just been neglected and perhaps has been in bad company a time or two. But he cannot be allowed to continue as he has been, so Johnny is going to enter some boys' home or ranch, not a reform school. Just where and when will be decided within the next few days. In the meantime Johnny is happy in his cowboy outfit and other clean clothes, which were given to him by Artesia stores. It was in that outfit that he attended the rodeo Saturday night as a special guest of the United Veterans Club. In company with one or another of his officer friends Johnny made the rounds of stores, where he was outfitted. And at each place he expressed not only his thanks, but said that someday he would repay the debt. And he meant it, according to a number who heard him say so. At the time the list was compiled, those known to have contributed to Johnny's wardrobe, bath, hair cut, and other necessities included the J. C. Penney Company, The Hub, C. R. Anthony Company, Keys Men's Wear, W. W. Virtue, Inc., Baldwin's, Artesia Shoe Store, Police Judge Jerry Losee, Police Officer John Lemley, and Deputy Sheriff, C. D. Stout. There were probably others.

National Guard Battery C, Medical Detachment Are At Fort Bliss

And there undoubtedly will be some called on before Johnny goes off to grow into a fine American citizen.

Yankees Meet Strong House Of David In First Tilt Of Week End Twin Bill

Two games, one against the famed House of David nine, are on tap this week end for the Artesia Yankees. The local team will play the Benton Harbour, Mich., nationally famous outfit at 8 o'clock Saturday night in Artesia Municipal Park.

At 8:30 o'clock the following night, Sunday, August 20, the Yankees play the Jal Gassers on the same diamond.

In connection with the House of David game, Red Goodwin, Yankee manager, released a feature story on the visiting team.

Organized In 1914. This is the 31st year the Israelite House of David team, sponsored by the cult is touring the nation.

During those three decades the Davids have played in every state in the Union, toured all Canadian provinces, Mexico, and Hawaii territory.

First House of David team was formed in 1914 by Francis Thorpe, now colony secretary, at Benton Harbour, Mich. It was not until five years later that the Davids made extensive road trips.

In 1919 they played at the Polo Grounds in New York City and Shibe Park, Philadelphia.

With the exception of war years 1942-45 they have had representative teams on the road every year since 1919.

Original Pepper Artists. George Anderson, the original "pepper" game artist, has been with the Davids since 1926.

The team boasts of a 160-game year average with a winning average of 738 for 30 years.

Each spring the Davids establish a training camp in the South. This year, for the first time, they trained at Kingsville, Texas.

The Davids do not hire any players not in good standing in organized baseball.

Last year the team played 155 games, won 110, lost 45. They trained at Robstown, Texas, toured that state and Louisiana, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, British Columbia, Oregon, California, Nevada, Manitoba, Saskatchewan.

H. L. Witte, Beloit, Wis., booking agent for the team, says the Davids are recognized as the outstanding traveling baseball attraction and have been a large factor in building up baseball interest in many parts of the country.

"Several cities with team in organized baseball leagues," says Witte, "today are indirectly indebted to the House of David for keeping the game alive in their city during the lean years."

"Many players in organized baseball got their start with the Davids."

Longest schedule of the team was in 1936 when they played 212 games and traveled 60,000 miles by bus and boat. They began at Overton, Texas in March and ended with 13 games in Hawaii in October, their travels including part of Canada as well as the U. S.

The Davids have played most of the leading semi-pro teams of the United States both white and colored and many organized baseball teams. Some of the Davids have never had their beards or hair cut. "The team manager, George Anderson, and some of the old-time players are the finest examples of clean living to be found in sports today," says Witte.

ON THE FIRING LINE OF THE 25TH INFANTRY DIVISION—This U. S. Army photograph, transmitted by radio, shows a machinegun emplacement where troops of Maj. Gen. William B. Kean's command held Communists as they tried to advance from the opposite ridge toward a half-destroyed bridge. There are veterans in the 25th who participated in the jungle fighting on Guadalcanal when the Division was led by General J. Lawton Collins, now chief-of-staff of the Army.

Servicemen May Apply to VA For Protection Of Commercial Insurance

Reports reaching Veterans Administration indicate some life insurance underwriters are soliciting business from men who may be called into active military duty, stating that the government will pay premiums on their commercial policies during their period of active duty.

Under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act of 1940, as amended, servicemen or women may apply to VA for the protection of their commercial life insurance policies while they are in service. This protection is afforded by way of guarantee of premiums. VA has the authority to approve each application in an amount not to exceed $10,000 of the face value of the policy or policies of each individual. VA also has the authority to disapprove any application that does not meet the requirements of the law.

A number of men entering service during World War II were misinformed concerning commercial policies. They were not told that any premiums and policy loan interest paid by VA for the insured under this act would remain as an indebtedness until repaid, a VA spokesman said. VA is not authorized to waive this indebtedness he added.

VA pointed out that many life insurance underwriters rendered service during World War II by co-operating with the armed services in explaining National Service Life Insurance to servicemen. They spent many hours, without compensation, in helping the armed services' insurance officers in the NSLI program and have, since the war, advised veterans concerning reinstatement or conversion of their GI policies.

Certain sections of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act were terminated by the act that set July 25, 1947, as the official end of the war for the purpose of certain benefits for veterans of wartime service.

The Draft Act of 1948 reinstated those sections of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Act previously terminated, and the Draft Act of 1950 extended the law for another year, to July 9, 1951. The act now applies to such civil liabilities as rent, installment contracts, mortgages (including GI loans), insurance, taxes and public lands.

VA administers only the insurance section, although certain legal questions arising under the loan guaranty program will come up for VA consideration.

VA reminded that this protection of commercial policies is made only upon application by the servicemen. It is not automatic. Guarantee of premiums by VA is not made unless requested by the servicemen, and unless and until the application is approved by VA.

Accidents Can And Do Happen

You need to get over the idea that accidents can't happen to you. It's a dangerous and mistaken notion, and it may actually cause accidents.

Here's an actual report of accidents for one week in one neighborhood—and it could have been yours:

A 9-year-old boy fell through a hole in the mow floor and broke his arm at the elbow.

Another boy, 14 years old, was killed when a tractor overturned in a ditch.

A 10-year-old girl was nearly killed when run over by a tractor driven by a 13-year-old boy.

A little boy, 4 years old, drowned in a stock tank.

A farm wife was badly scalded when glass canning jars exploded in the oven.

So, you see, each member of the farm family needs to be on the lookout always for hazards to health and safety. Farm safety is a job calling for family cooperation.

Keeth Propane Gas System Is Cleaner, Cheaper

Keeth Gas Company of Hagerman was originally established in the Pecos Valley and has developed a complete new fuel system—Keeth Gas System—that was designed by the company and that is guaranteed to give complete satisfaction.

It converts tractors from gasoline to propane and can be installed more economically than any other fuel system of its type.

When the Keeth Gas Company has been installed fuel will cost about half the present price of gasoline.

Keeth Gas Company says if the customer is not completely satisfied, the money will be refunded and the original gas system will be put back on, in as good condition as it was originally, at no cost to the customer.

The Keeth Gas System is cleaner, cheaper, and there is no dilution. Therefore, the oil stays cleaner and last longer, making an additional saving in cost of operation.

The system is trouble free and lasts as long as the tractor.

Installation takes only a few hours. And Keeth Gas Company keeps about 20,000 gallons of propane gas on hand at all times. There are three trucks for service in delivering gas.

It will pay farmers and other operators of tractors to contact Keeth Gas Company, Hagerman, phone 2941, to consult about converting from gasoline to propane.

hours of notice. Twenty-five men are employed by Nugent at the plant and on construction, no job of which is too big or too small.

In connection with his other services, Nugent maintains a lumber yard to supply his own needs in building, and a warehouse in which to store cement and other supplies used by the company. His phone number is 718-W.

Demand For Lean Pork Is Trend

The trend in pork buying presents another marketing problem for Southwestern hog producers, points out the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration.

For example, when you buy bacon, you select the leanest cuts, don't you? Nearly every consumer does. This is just one instance of the growing demand for leaner cuts of pork.

This, plus the resulting decline in demand for fat cuts of pork and lard, has brought about changes in price relationships among pork products that are becoming more and more important to farmers.

The need to revise production and marketing practices to meet this preference for lean meat has been widely recognized. It has stimulated efforts to breed a type of hog that will produce a higher proportion of lean cuts.

But progress in improving the type of hogs raised will be more rapid if farmers are paid prices that more nearly reflect the value of the products which can be produced from the hogs they sell.

And to help sell hogs on this basis, the livestock grading specialists of USAD's Production and Marketing Administration have developed new grades for hog carcasses and live hogs. These grades are based on the relationship of yield of lean cuts to fat cuts.

These grades mean more money to the farmer who raises hogs that will produce more lean pork.

Clean the attic and sell the surplus thru the Advocate Want Ads.

Jaycees Put Out Sweat And Muscle On Balloon Detail

Spectators who saw the giant figure balloons in the annual V-J celebration parade on Thursday afternoon saw some boys having a terrific struggle to hold some of the figures upright. But even their appreciation of the work of sweating and toiling in the hot sun, done by the boys, did not include the amount of sweat and muscles members of the Artesia Junior Chamber of Commerce put out on getting the balloons ready.

for the next use of the balloons. To deflate the balloons was simple in some cases, merely pulling out stoppers on the small figures, but for others it took more than a half hour to get the air out of them. Artesia Jaycees were the parade sponsors. It was the Jaycees who laid groundwork for the balloons being shown here. Clayton Menefee was chairman of the parade committee and he and Clyde Gilman, Guy Chevrolet sales manager who did plenty of leg work in getting the deal set up, and getting it underwritten. Cost of underwriting the balloons was borne by eight concerns: Artesia Alfalfa Growers, Artesia Auto, Cox Motor, Evans Hardware, Guy Chevrolet, Mahone-Smith Motor, New Mexico Asphalt and Refining, and Russell Auto Supply. Gilman, who was in the forefront of the move to get the balloons in the parade, was also in at the finish, completing the job. He was one of those who helped in the heavy work of setting up the balloons and in their dismantling. So was Menefee. Some of the Jaycees could not work all the time on the chore but all put out a lot of work. The Jaycees crew included the following, according to Menefee, parade chairman: Quentin Rodgers, club secretary Harry J. Nelson, president; Clyde Gilman, Milford Estill, James W. Boggs. In addition there were three employees of Guy Chevrolet, Louis White, Fredrick Henry, and John Lester, who joined the Jaycees in the task.

Artesia Earthquake Would Cause Flurry For Survey-And Us!

Do you have a little earthquake in your home? If so the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey wants to know about it. In the process of moving office equipment for a repainting job at The Artesia Advocate an official business card of the survey was unearthed. It is labeled Form 680, revised March 1941, and is addressed to Prof. Stuart A. Northrop, collaborator in seismology, U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, University of New Mexico, Albuquerque. Taking a tip from the questionnaire form of vacation postcards the quaking document wants to know, among other things, if the motion was rapid, slow; awakened no one, few, many; all; direction of motion outdoors N, NE, E, and so forth. The survey is also interested in knowing if the quake rattled windows, doors, dishes, made walls creak; swung hanging objects; overturned vases, broke dishes, windows, twisted chimneys. There is cheer in the card for those who protest federal extravagance for a rubber stamp mark in one corner tells the reader the card has the approval of the budget bureau.

Lighter Washer Load Can Mean Cleaner Clothes

Loading the family washing machine to capacity may save time on a busy day, but clothes and linens come out cleaner if the machine is given a lighter load. Experiments in household equipment laboratories of the U. S. Department of Agriculture point to this general conclusion, says Miss Wynona Swepton, county home demonstration agent. In the USDA experiments, 19 machines were tested with different size work loads. Included were automatic, semiautomatic and non-automatic types. Loads that they should handle according to manufacturers' directors, ranged usually up to nine pounds maximum and sometimes 10 pounds. The "wash" put into the machine consisted of white cotton fabric and artificially soiled samples, so that the amount of soil in the samples and the amount removed could be scientifically measured. In general, it was found that a load of six or seven pounds in a domestic washing machine will result in better soil removal and more even washing than a heavier load. The individual user of a washing machine, Miss Swepton suggests, should decide the practical point of how much to lighten the washer load to make thrifty use of water, detergent, and the time and energy on the job.

Bean's Bastile Blasts Offenders During Celebration

Like the traditional Judge Roy Bean, the Law West of the Pecos, Judge Jack (Roy Bean) Fauntleroy operated in the same manner during the fourth annual V-J celebration, August 10-12. The celebration was sponsored by the United Veterans Club. Judge Bean's jail was a chicken wire coop with dabs of green and yellow paint on which the word "klink" was scrawled. Keeping attuned to the historic past the bastile had a list of offenses with a "you can't win" motif. For example, hanging was the penalty for impersonating a cowpoke and also for not impersonating a cowpoke. Stealing sheep was punishable with a 60-day muton diet. Contempt of court made the offender subject to "slow death, mighty painful," and there was a prize bit of double talk in "bank robbin," a capital offense. Part of the time the jail was in front of Artesia Pharmacy. At all times, Judge Bean was "executing" the law in a fashion that added a constant profit to the celebration. All roads led not to Rome but to Artesia Municipal Park was the discovery of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Howard and their three children, Janet, 15, Farrell 12, and Dwayne 10, on the opening night of the V-J celebration rodeo. Their residence is 1211 West Chisum, the corner of North Thirteenth, right at the place traffic turns to go to the park. Interested in the stream of automobiles pouring out Thursday night past their place they kept an impromptu tally from 7 to 8 o'clock in that one-hour period alone they counted 711 automobiles park-bound. This traffic count was at the peak hour, included automobiles alone, did not include those on horseback, motorcycles, scooters or perestrians, and did not include traffic before 7 or after 8 o'clock. Estimating only three persons to the automobile that meant 2133 persons going to the rodeo, by that manner of conveyance. Howard is office manager of Food Dad Can Fix Himself By ALICE DENHOFF WITH all sorts of prepared and packaged foods in the freezer, things are looking up for summer bachelors. Wise guys go in for paper plates and platters too, so that dishwashing is nicely reduced. Eating in restaurants, at first a novelty with deserted dads, soon palls, they say, and most of 'em are ready to settle for a bite of grub at home. Wise wives fill the freezer and line up shelves with jars of ready-to-heat-and-eats like chicken à la king, spaghetti, Spanish rice, corned beef hash and such. And with most of the work done, the dad who fancies himself as a chef can concoct some mighty nice and digestible dishes. A grilled steak accompanied by a good salad bowl and a piquant French dressing will do papa proud! Dressing may be prepared and stored, with a notice pasted to the jar, that the mixture be very well shaken before using. Making the Dressing To prepare about 1 1/2 c. dressing combine 1 1/4 c. salad oil, 6 tsp. vinegar, 2 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. paprika, pinch celery salt, 3/4 tsp. sugar, 1 1/2 tsp. catsup, 1 1/2 tsp. chili sauce, 1 tsp. lemon juice and 1 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce. Combine with rotary or electric beater until smooth and well blended. This recipe was worked out by a good amateur male chef for he-man palates! If he is going to have the boys in for a card game or a television session, suggest that he be the perfect host and serve a mixed grill, adding tomatoes and mushrooms to hamburger patties or chops, or that he prepare a batch of sandwiches for later in the evening, if "the boys" come in after dinner. With some snappy cheese jars all ready, or some containers of prepared sandwich fillings, the rest should be easy.

speaking of census figures... Telephone Population is up 20% in New Mexico The 1940 census gave New Mexico's population as 531,818, while tentative 1950 figures show that there are 677,099 people in the state, a gain of about 27%. But "telephone population" has gone up much faster. In 1940 this Company was serving 32,300 telephones in New Mexico; now the figure has skyrocketed to 97,200, a gain of 201%! "Bringing a telephone into the world" involves a lot more than just delivering it. It has to be connected with all other telephones, which means that wires, poles, cable and central office equipment must be available. Moreover, as telephones are added, the job becomes more complex and costs (particularly at today's high prices) go up. Keeping abreast of demand for telephone service in New Mexico has required an expenditure of $15,400,000 since the end of the war. And, if New Mexico's telephone needs are to be met, large additional amounts of new capital will be needed. This must come from investors, and people will invest their dollars with us only if our earnings compare favorably with those of other businesses. The Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Dusts, Sprays Help Control Lice On Plants

Many Eddy County farmers are finding that the leaves of their cantaloupes, tomatoes, and other plants are beginning to curl downward and roll up. This may be because of yellowish green aphids or plant lice which are sucking the sap from the leaves, County Agent Dallas Rierson says.

State Jaycee Board To Meet In Artesia

A meeting of the New Mexico Junior Chamber of Commerce directors has been called for Sunday, August 20, in Artesia, by Adair Gasset, Carlsbad, president.

"At first the infestation may be confined to just a few plants," Rierson explains. "Then it gradually spreads over the entire garden or fields. The plant lice reduce the quality of the fruit, and under severe conditions, may even kill the plants.

"When aphids are found on cantaloupes and other cucurbits, it is best to remove the first few infected vines from the field and burn them. When the aphids first appear, an effective means of control is the application of dusts or sprays."

For spraying, the county agent recommends the use of rotenone or pyrethrum extract according to the directions of the manufacturer, plus a handful of nicotine sulphate, plus a handful of soap flakes in one gallon of water applied to the undersides of the leaves, is also effective, he says.

"Those who prefer to dust will find either a one per cent rotenone, a four per cent nicotine, or a prepared rotenone-pyrethrum dust will prove effective. The dust should be applied to the undersides of the leaves. Several applications of either a spray or a dust may be necessary."

Veterans Obtain $372 In Annual Poppy Sale

Buddy poppy sale of the local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars netted $54.48 more than in 1949.

Rooster Durbin, poppy sale chairman, said $372.48 was turned in to Creighton Gilcrest, post quartermaster, after the sale held Thursday. Proceeds of the 1949 sale was $318.

Some of the money goes to the Veterans of Foreign Wars home in Eaton Rapids, Mich.; another portion is for the use of the local post for assistance to veterans and their families in need, after initial cost of the poppies is deducted.

The sale was by canvassing by 30 members of Alpha Nu chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, headed by Mrs. Leo Austin, president of the local chapter.

Headquarters was a table set up at Thompson and Price, 331 West Main, and the sale continued from early morning to 5:20 o'clock in the afternoon. Generally the sellers worked in three-hour periods.

Chairman Durbin today thanked the sorority for its work, saying: "I want to thank the girls for their work in selling the poppies and the response of the public in buying."

Vets Entering Active Service Can Resume Training After Discharge

World War II veterans who enter the active military or naval service have the right to resume education and training under the GI Bill after the statutory cut-off dates, Veterans Administration has announced.

The statutory cut-off date for World War II veterans entering training is July 25, 1951, or four years after discharge for those who voluntarily enlisted or re-enlisted under provisions of Public Law 190.

Cari N. Gray, Jr., administrator of veterans affairs, has ruled that any veteran who has initiated his course of education and training, whose conduct and progress in such course have been satisfactory, and who is prevented by reason of re-entrance into active service from resuming education or training before the cut-off date, will be permitted to resume his course.

The veteran will be given a reasonable period in which to re-enter after his release from the active service, even though such release is after July 25, 1951, the administration said.

Such education or training, VA explained, will of course be limited by the extent of the veteran's remaining entitlement, and by the statutory provision that education or training must be completed by July 25, 1956.

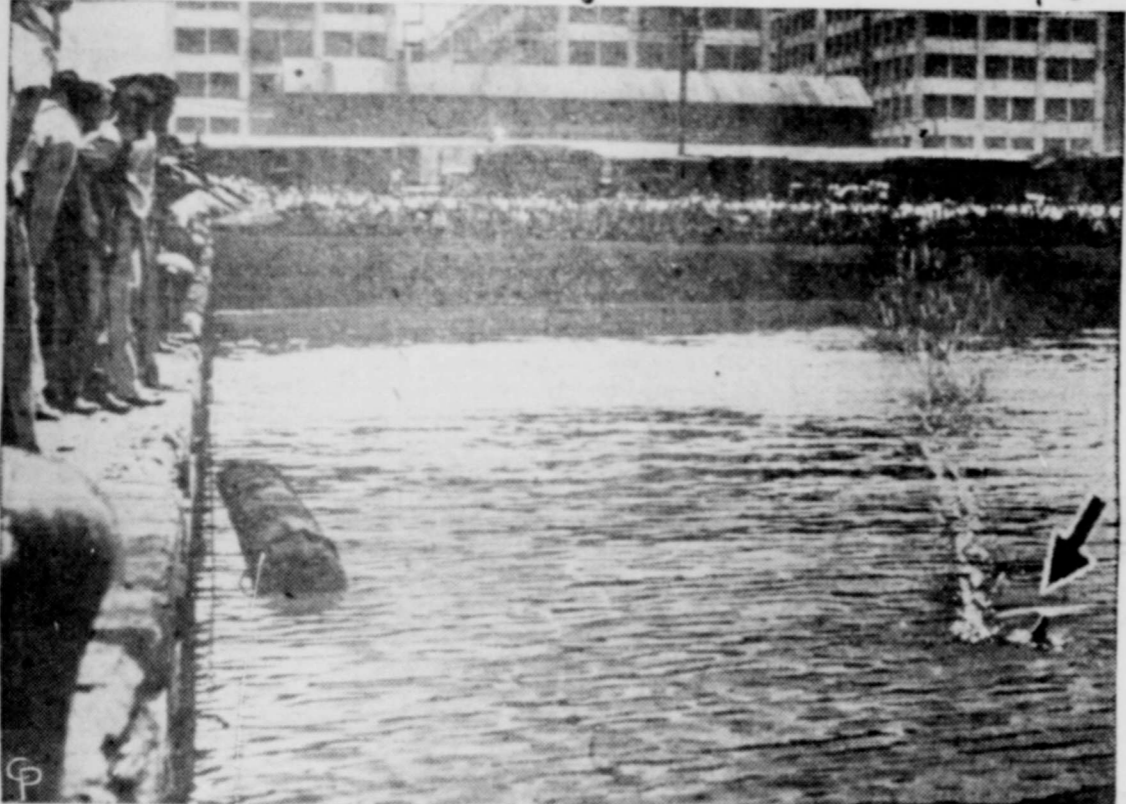

Those who enlisted or re-enlisted under the voluntary re-enlistment act, however, have nine years from the date of their discharge to finish education or training.

LOOK WHAT HAPPENS...

... when the nostalgic charm of grandma's old-fashioned kitchen is combined with the efficiency of today's magic appliances! In her wildest imaginings grandma would never have deemed it possible to have ranges like we have today, with time-saving automatic controls that take all the uncertainty out of cooking; refrigerators and storage freezers that are like having supermarkets right in our own kitchens. Yet her kitchen was livable in spite of the fact that it answered many needs... kitchen, dining room, laundry.

To conserve space in our small homes of today, it is often expedient to use the kitchens as a combination kitchen-dining room. The sketch above shows an effective decorative scheme for such a room. Small-patterned provincial-type wallpaper blends nicely with knotty pine woodwork and cabinets. Scalloped cornice of knotty pine provides attractive frame for window, permits full advantage of light. Deep blue linoleum on floor is repeated on splashboard. This background was planned especially to play up the warmth, friendliness and charm of the magic furniture.

Drop-leaf table and benches provide adequate space for family dining. Hutch... a reproduction of grandma's favorite... has linen and silver storage facilities.

Come in and see our furniture. We've garnered a selection that will meet both your taste and your budget requirements.

10 SOURCES of POWER -and more to come!

10 base load power plants are operated by your Public Service Company to meet your needs for dependable, low-cost electric service. These 10 power plants are strategically placed approximately 100 miles apart.

These 10 great power plants are tied together by a 2700-mile network of transmission lines. The heart of our system—a 115,000-volt transmission line—makes electric power generated at our Riverview plant available at Carlsbad, New Mexico, if needed.

To further assure you a continuous and economical supply of electricity, your Public Service Company has provided a central load-dispatching center which allocates generation to each plant for most economical operation. In this manner the local area plant is still able to meet increased demand for electric service within its own area when necessary.

To meet your growing needs for electric power, important 1950 plant expansions will be made at Amarillo and Moore County, and a new unit has already gone on the line at Roswell. Yes, your Public Service Company is on the job keeping ahead of the rapid growth of the Panhandle-Plains-Fecos-Valley area.
