POT POURRI

Last week after having just learned the news and written a yarn about the increase in the cost of haircuts in Artesia from 75 cents to $1, scheduled for this Monday, we rushed to a shop and had our ears set out a bit, thus saving two bits.

We were just about to tell the barber to do it all over again so we'd be one haircut ahead and thus save four bits, we realized that might be classed as hoarding, a practice with which we are greatly opposed. So we did without the spare haircut.

We ran out of space last week when we were writing this effort, so we neglected to mention that the American Legion post here is about $300 out of pocket from having been host for the state American Legion junior baseball tournament.

Veterans Turn Tables, Defeat Carrizozo 4-1

Artesia Veterans avenged their Aug. 6 defeat by Carrizozo when they beat the visitors 4-1 in a game played at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Artesia Municipal Park.

A fortnight ago, in Carrizozo, the Vets were walloped 11-4. In the game here, Fred Nunez pitched the entire nine innings, struck out 12, walked four. His opponent, Sheaffer, also went the route, struck out six, walked three.

A triple play by the Vets was a highlight. Zamora, Carrizozo right fielder, hit a short fly that dropped into Nunez' glove. Nunez threw to third, then the ball went to first, for the play.

Out of 21 games played, the Vets have won 13, lost eight.

Upholstering Shop Started on South First Street

A new firm in Artesia is that of Joe Hamann and Don Conboy doing business as the Artesia Upholstering Company, 810 South First, telephone 479-W.

Their location is the former place of the Kaiser-Frazier automobile agency.

Before Hamann was connected with the concern, the name was Hardcastle Upholstering Company, located at 407 1/2 West Main, in the rear of Whites Auto Store. Hamann was formerly with Artesia Auto.

Artesia Upholstering has 4000 samples from which customers can make selections. They also offer a pick up and delivery service and a free estimate on upholstery jobs.

Artesia Horseman Among Consignors To State Fair Sale

Walter Solt of Artesia is one of the consignors to the quarter horse palomino sale to be held Sept. 28 during the New Mexico Fair at Albuquerque. There will be 40 head in the sale.

Auctioneer crying the sale will be Hank Wiescamp of Alamosa, Colo.

Besides Solt, other consignors include Jim Derrick, Elmer Helper, both of Carlsbad, and H. E. Babcock, Jr., Roswell.

THE RIGHT COMBINATION

The answer to that frequently asked question, "Can I mix furniture of different styles and periods effectively?" is an emphatic YES! But it must be done discriminately. There should be a relationship of feeling in the styles that are combined to preserve a sense of unity. For instance, in formal groupings, Chipendale and Adam pieces mix well with Louis XV. They all have an affinity in line and design, all have rich mahogany or walnut satin finishes that call for the luxurious fabrics associated with formal rooms.

Pennsylvania Dutch blends effectively with provincial Early American in informal groupings... both naturally suit themselves with homespun, mix in color.

High School Girls Called on to Enter Shoe Store Contest

A contest in which the top award is an expense paid trip to New York City and return, including a one-week stay at the Waldorf-Astoria, was made known today by A. C. Marcy, owner of The Shoe Tree, retail shoe store, 103 South Fourth. The competition is sponsored by Edgewood Shoe Company of Nashville, Tenn., makers of Friendly-Teen brand shoes, for which the Shoe Tree is distributor. In all, there will be 24 awards. Local winner will receive a wardrobe of Friendly-Teen shoes, described by owner Marcy as eight to 15 pairs and be eligible to try for the national. Contest consists of writing a 50-word composition on "Why I Like Friendly-Teen Shoes," and the competition is open to all high school girls of Artesia and trade territory. Entry blanks and complete information can be obtained at The Shoe Tree. Deadline for entries is Oct. 31, but entries should be made early. Local winner will be announced by Dec. 1, national by Jan. 1, 1951.

Mescalero Fails to Arrive in Town For Game With Eagles

post when their opponents failed to show up. The Eagles had scheduled a return game with the Mescalero Indians last Sunday afternoon on Eagle Field. Earlier this season, the Eagles defeated Mescalero 18-5 in a game there. There was no word from Mescalero as to why the Indians failed to appear. The Eagles waited two hours for the visiting team before quitting the field.

Lightning Runs in At Owl Bar, Only Extinguishes Lights

Damage was negligible at 10:35 o'clock Thursday night, when lightning struck at or near the Owl Bar and ran in on the Owl Bar, extinguishing all neon lighting.

Firemen were called to the scene during a hard rain after the lightning had struck, but were unable to find any fire, or any damage other than to the neon circuits. The rain registered 30 inch, according to the gauge of the Southern Union Gas Company. It came about 24 hours after a previous rain, in which .64 inch of precipitation was gauged. The two rains, added to prior rains, made a total of 7.08 inches for the year to date.

Lubbock Team To Play Yanks On August 27

Artesia Yankies, who have seen a catcher read a magazine while nonchalantly awaiting the pitch, will now see a catcher who uses a rocking chair. Jack Brown, catcher on the Lubbock Black Hubbers team from Lubbock, down in the cotton growing South Plains of Texas, catches two innings from a rocking chair. He also has a shadow ball exhibition that has captured the interest of fans. The Hubbers had played 38 games, won 29, lost eight, tied one up to Aug. 4.

The Yanks will play the Lubbock team at 8:30 o'clock Sunday night in Artesia Municipal Park where last Saturday night they saw the magazine reading catcher of the House of David.

The Davids won 5 to 1. In Sunday nights contest, the Yanks edged out the El Paso touring champions, Jal Gassers, 4 to 3, which Red Goodwin, Yankie manager, says makes the Yanks 3-champs, at least technically. B. Case got a homer over left field in the fourth. Clyde Bratcher and Pete Hatch each made a pair of hits. Harold led the Gassers with an equal number. A homer was scored in the top of the ninth by J. W. Scott. Pete Hamilton was the winning pitcher.

Yanks schedule: Aug. 26, Saturday, 8 p. m.—Yankies vs. Hobbs Oilers, Artesia Municipal Park.

Aug. 27, Sunday, 8:30 p. m.—Yankies vs. Lubbock Black Hubbers.

Results Aug. 19-20: Aug. 19—House of David 5, Yankies 1.

Aug. 20—Yankies 4, Jal Gassers 3.

ness more natural resources, work harder."

"No," is the answer to all these. The reason, says the commentator, is freedom of the individual.

Can't Change Jobs
In England, says the film, no man between the ages of 18 and 50 and no woman between the ages of 18 and 40 can change jobs at will.

Nationalization of industry there means taking over industry from stockholders with increased taxes carrying the load of businesses aimed at operating without profit.

If a nation loses economic freedom it loses all freedoms, the commentator says.

One of the shots shows "socialism as a one-way street."

Slave Labor
Of Russia the film shows the family laboring long hours, men and women working when and where they are told, the women as well as the men in heavy industrial work and with rates of work so scheduled that a worker must exceed the minimum output in order to get enough on which to live.

Resolution on Americanism
In line with the film was the statement on Americanism:

"Sacred responsibility of world leadership in keeping the light of high resolve burning brightly for all freedom loving peoples of the world rests on the shoulders of these United States.

"There are dictator controlled slave state nations and individuals dedicated and working tirelessly toward extinction of the ideologies of freedom, religion and the dignity of man.

"Purpose of our organization is to inculcate in the individual membership a spirit of genuine Americanism.

"Be it resolved by this board of directors of the New Mexico Junior Chamber of Commerce, as one of its contributions to the cause of freedom and truth, initiate a nationwide educational program on a community level, dedicating toward keeping us ever mindful of the blessings and responsibilities of freedom and the American way."

Stress on Spiritual
Taking religion out of the "Once a week, go to church" category the Jaycees in two other resolutions emphasized man's duty to his Creator.

One of these motions was a revision of the Jaycee creed that while "implying a faith in God does not make a positive statement of faith.

The amended creed:
"We believe that faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life; that the brotherhood of man transcends the sovereignty of nations; that economic justice can be won by free men through free enterprise.

"That government should be of laws rather than of men; that earth's greatest treasure lies in human personality and that service to humanity is the best work of life."

"Four Chaplains Day"
Noting that Feb. 3, 1951, is the anniversary of heroic deed of four chaplains of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths, "who went down with the troopship Dorchester in icy North Atlantic waters and who gave their own life-belts to shipmates who had none," the Jaycees endorsed a congressional bill "to see to it that their supreme sacrifice and that of their brave comrades to the common cause of human freedom and justice for all shall not have been in vain."

The resolution calls for Feb. 3 as "Four Chaplains Day," recommends that all members through prayer and patriotic observance commemorate the day and remember "those men who gave their lives that all may live in peace and brotherhood."

Other resolutions commended the United Nations action in Korea; offered assistance in the formation of an adequate civil defense; asks the 82nd Congress to admit Hawaii and Alaska as states; and backs Junior Chamber International, with chapters in 44 nations, "as a medium for understanding between young men of the world."

State Level
On the organizational plane, the directors accepted a bid of the Albuquerque club for the annual junior golf tournament to be held in that city next year with Chuck Lanier, manager of the University of New Mexico links, as state chairman.

They also endorsed support for the Albuquerque club in its project of "marshaling" the parade for the New Mexico Fair, a role the Duke City unit has had the last five years.

An operating and financial statement was read and discussed but a budget will not be ready until the next board meeting, Nov. 4-5, to be held in Las Cruces.

At that same session the directors will decide what is to be done on the 1951 Miss New Mexico talent pageant.

Quintet of Material
At their meeting here Sunday, the board had five kinds of printed material issued these. These were the two-page operating and financial statement, dated May 31 to Aug. 18 this year; nine-page set of resolutions.

Four-page list of minutes of the third annual convention of the New Mexico Junior Chamber of Commerce; Aug. 15 issue of Manana, official publication, a four-page, 16-column newspaper, measuring 9 1/4 inches wide by 13 inches long and the 36-page souvenir program booklet of the "Miss New Mexico" talent pageant, 1950.

Plaques Presented
Representatives of two clubs, Roswell and Carlsbad, were presented plaques and one framed certificate in recognition of work done. Santa Fe, eligible for two of the awards, was not represented.

The plaques were small wooden slabs on which the printed commendation was seen under glass.

Roswell received those for profit making and for public relations, Division 1; Carlsbad, for extension, public school welfare and Americanism and a framed certificate from the national organization, marked with a scarlet A, "for outstanding accomplishment, excellence of leadership and community service."

Albuquerque won a half-dozen plaques. They were for sports, trade promotion, youth activities, profit making and in Division 2, for membership and personnel and public relations.

To Santa Fe will go plaques for Christmas activities and civic improvement.

Announcement was made of certificates "in recognition and appreciation" to business firms that have contributed to the Jaycees but the list is withheld pending presentation of all six certificates.

At Board Gathering
No complete official list was kept of those attending the board meetings but those present included: William Adair Gossett, Carlsbad, president; Don Lormor, Albuquerque; Kile Miser, Las Cruces, vice presidents; Bob Jones, Carlsbad, secretary-treasurer.

Paul Smyer, Albuquerque club president; Harry J. Nelson, Artesia, president; Dick Whitman, Roswell, president; Jay Duxman, Las Cruces, president; Earl Stull, Jr., Las Cruces, state director.

Cliff Ryan, Carlsbad, president; Burl Wilkerson, Roswell, secretary; Roy Veach, Roswell; Hugh Rolland, Roswell, state wards chairman; Ray Sage, Carlsbad, state director; Clayton Menefee, Aaron Cunningham, Rooster Durbin, Tommy Brownlee, O. R. Gable, Jr., who took a photograph of the group and E. B. Emerson, all of Artesia.

The executive board gathering, which followed the breakfast and preceded the directors' session, was attended by President Gossett, Vice Presidents Lormor and Miser and Jones, secretary-treasurer.

to do, to bed down, which they did the best they could, with thoughts of blankets and with thoughts of rattlesnakes cuddling up to keep warm.

At the crack of dawn they were up and at it again, and they recalled they had passed near a ranchhouse some miles back, so they backtracked through the sand, went to the house, told their story, and were given a welcome breakfast.

In the meantime, the bride of less than a week and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. (Barney) Lorange, had been quite alarmed and they asked that a search be made from the air. So Bob Ehle, airplane and motor mechanic at Hazel Flying Service at the airport, flew on a search mission, but failed to locate the young men or the panel delivery truck and returned to the airport. He was about to go out on another search when it was reported the young men were safe.

The rancher at whose house they had eaten breakfast had seen them through the ordeal and helped them get home.

When John-Clinton Josey, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Josey, Jr., was taken to have his tonsils out early this month, the general dress in Artesia was Western, in keeping with the spirit of the then approaching V-J celebration and rodeo.

That it works has been attested to by dozens and dozens of letters and telephone calls to Old Tack, who frankly admits he has no idea what makes the deal click, unless there is exerted a slight pressure on a nerve, which in some way gives relief.

We have some friends who are trying it out. But we'd like to hear from anyone else willing enough to give it a try also. And we'd like to know what happens, so we can pass it on.

Seems crazy, but if long-time sufferers in the Panhandle of Texas are getting relief, perhaps it will work here. Who knows? Let us know about your luck. —A.L.B.

We have some friends who are trying it out. But we'd like to hear from anyone else willing enough to give it a try also. And we'd like to know what happens, so we can pass it on.

Seems crazy, but if long-time sufferers in the Panhandle of Texas are getting relief, perhaps it will work here. Who knows? Let us know about your luck. —A.L.B.

When John-Clinton Josey, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Josey, Jr., was taken to have his tonsils out early this month, the general dress in Artesia was Western, in keeping with the spirit of the then approaching V-J celebration and rodeo.

That it works has been attested to by dozens and dozens of letters and telephone calls to Old Tack, who frankly admits he has no idea what makes the deal click, unless there is exerted a slight pressure on a nerve, which in some way gives relief.

You can take this for what it's worth, for we are merely passing it on.

America Has Good-Sized Reservoir Of Veterans Trained Under GI Bill

America now has a good-sized reservoir of veterans trained under the GI Bill in skills and trades that would be essential in time of war, Veterans Administration disclosed.

A VA survey provides some indication of the size and scope of trained former servicemen. The survey covered only veterans actually in classrooms and at training benches. For every man then in training, VA estimated at least two others had either completed or discontinued their GI Bill courses.

At the time of the survey veteran-enrollees included 735,000 in colleges and universities, 808,000 in trade, industrial and other schools below the college level; 304,000 in institutional on-farm training, and 285,000 in on-the-job training courses.

Thirteen per cent of the college students, or more than 100,000, were studying engineering. Most popular courses were general engineering, electrical (including radio and television) and mechanical — in that order.

Another six per cent, or nearly 46,000 were enrolled in medical and related courses. And five per cent, or 42,000, were taking courses in physical and natural sciences, such as physics, meteorology, geology and the like.

Of the below-college-level group, the study revealed nearly 111,000 veterans were taking mechanical courses. Nearly three-fourths of them, or 80,000, were studying automobile mechanics; 11,000 were training as diesel and gas engine mechanics, more than 7,000 as aircraft mechanics, and the remainder, other forms of mechanics.

Radio and other communications courses ranked second with veterans training below college. At the time of the survey, 11 per cent, or 83,000, were enrolled in courses such as radio and television mechanics, aircraft radio, telegraph and telephone maintenance, and the like.

Another five per cent, or 45,000, were taking courses in engineering subjects; 30,000, or four per cent, in flight training 21,000, or two per cent in electricity, and 21,000, also two per cent, in metal work.

Of those taking on-the-job training under the GI Bill, 18 per cent, or 53,000, were training to be mechanics and repairmen of one kind or the other — chiefly automotive mechanics.

Twelve per cent, or 33,000, were in training in the construction trades; nine per cent, or 26,000, were training as metalworkers; five per cent, in communications occupations, and four per cent as electricians.

In addition to this reservoir of veterans training in occupations directly related to war and defense, the bulk of all GI Bill enrollees have trained for jobs which would be useful to a nation in mobilizing its resources for emergency purposes.

Last winter, guards with machine guns were posted outside Sing Sing prison in New York to prevent inmates escaping across the frozen Hudson river.

Case Records Of Veterans' TB To Be Reviewed

Case records of World War II veterans whose applications for compensation for service-connected pulmonary tuberculosis have been rejected, will be reviewed automatically to determine whether they qualify for benefits under the recently-enacted Public Law 573, Veterans Administration has announced.

The new law increases the "presumptive period" for tuberculosis from one year to three years from date of discharge from the armed forces.

Presumption of service-connection means that, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, a disease which becomes manifest within the specified period to the extent that it is at least 10 per cent disabling, is presumed to have had its origin while the veteran was in service.

VA said the new law also applies to Spanish-American War veterans, and that their rejected claims also will be reviewed. World War I veterans are not affected, as they were granted a comparable presumptive period some years ago.

In the case of claims filed prior to June 23, 1950, effective date of the new law, payments on awards will be retroactive to that date. Awards or claims filed later will be effective from date of claim, VA said.

McCaw Hatchery Is Only Plant of Kind in State

The McCaw Hatchery at 13th and Grand, which was established 14 years ago by Jack and Ed McCaw as a hatchery and feed store, today is the only plant of its kind in the state—the only complete egg to broiler plant. They sell broilers the year around, under the "perpetual motion plan," as they say.

Bob McCaw went into partnership with his brother, Jack, four years ago, after being discharged from the service.

The McCaw Hatchery plant is complete in all ways. The laying house of 30x120 feet houses approximately 1500 layers. It is fully equipped with the latest modern equipment, with automatic water fountains, germicidal lamps, time lamps to make a 14-hour day regardless of the weather, and even radiators.

The broiler plant is a large room filled with battery brooders, where chicks are kept until they are 4 or 5 weeks old. They are also equipped with automatic water fountains and feeding troughs. The room temperature is thermostatically controlled.

In the finishing room chicks 4 to 5 weeks old are put into finishing batteries equipped with automatic water fountains and feeders, to make finished fryers at the age of approximately 10 weeks and weighing from two and a quarter pounds up.

The McCaw Hatchery turns out approximately 600 fryers a week and has about 6000 fryers on hand from a day to 10 weeks old in the plant at all times.

Then there is the dressing room, equipped with a new killing stand, where the chicks are killed and bled. Here also is an automatic, thermostatically controlled scalding machine to assure perfect picking, and an automatic picking machine that cleans the chickens thoroughly, even to pin feathers.

A new installation is the packing room, where chickens are inspected, thoroughly cleaned, cut up, packed in cellophane covered boxes, which are sealed and ready for freezing. This room is furnished with a stainless viscerating table and cooling vats. From here the broilers are weighed, marked and put into the freezers.

To say the least, McCaw Hatchery is complete and thorough. Be sure to ask for McCaw friers the next time you buy.

Try a Wop Salad At Carter's Cafe; It's Delicious

Ever eat a Wop Salad? Then you've missed something.

Bill and Tommy Thomas, proprietors of Carter's Cafe at 328 West Main Street, specialize in them and in Italian spaghetti. Wop salads are served in two sizes, the large for 60 cents, the small for 35 cents.

This has become a very famous salad with Carter customers. Bill and Tommy came to Artesia about two years ago from Aliquippa, Pa., where they had been in the cafe business about four years. Their sister, Repha Thomas, joined them a year later and assists them in the business.

Carter's Cafe also features delicious homemade pies. They have fruit pies of all kinds and chocolate and fruit cream pies, browned to a turn and all with flaky homemade pie crusts—good to the last bite.

Bill and Tommy keep Carter's Cafe open from 5:30 o'clock in the morning to 10 o'clock at night and serve regular breakfasts and dinners, as well as short orders at any time.

Drop in and let Bill or Tommy prepare you one of those good Wop salads, for which Repha makes the dressing according to her own recipe—and it's delicious.

Big Jo Lumber Is Place to Buy Mall Tools

Builders not only like to do business with Big Jo Lumber Company because of the complete line of builders' supplies, lumber and hardware, but they know Big Jo is headquarters for Mall portable power tools.

This fine line, found at Big Jo Lumber Company, 209 West Quay, phone 19, includes saws, planes, drills, screwdrivers, and sanders. In fact, there are all kinds of carpenter and masonry tools.

Mall Tool Company was a pioneer manufacturer in the power tool field. Mall engineers were among the first to develop and improve concrete finishers, concrete vibrators, and the use of flexible shafting for power tools.

At the present time 300,000 square feet of manufacturing space is so organized that practically all parts of Mall tools are made right in the factory.

Boone Barnett, manager, or Ed Boans, assistant manager of Big Jo Lumber Company, 209 West Quay, will be happy to show these famous Mall tools and give complete details of these great tools of production.

When you see a workman on the job using a power tool, the chances are that it is a Mall.

And if it's a Mall, it probably came from Big Jo Lumber Company, 209 Quay, phone 19.

Ammunition And Guns Ready at Mid-West Auto

With the dove season scheduled to open Sept. 1 and other hunting seasons coming soon after, more hunters are turning their thoughts to guns and ammunition. And when they think of guns and ammunition they think of Mid-West Auto Supply, in the temporary quarters at 324 West Main Street, where business goes on while the former building at 330 West Main is being rebuilt after a disastrous fire.

Although the temporary quarters are not as large as the other location, nimrods will find a full line of guns, ammunition and supplies at Mid-West Auto Supply.

Likewise shown there are a number of General Electric appliances, not as many as Owen Hensley, owner, or V. S. Henderson, manager, would like to have on display, once again because of the cramped quarters. But they have other appliances which are not shown and which are available.

As the new building construction is progressing rapidly, it is expected the move back to the old location will start in about two weeks. The process will take several days, but there will be no disruption of business, Henderson said.

But in the meantime, hunters should be getting all set for the dove season and looking ahead to other bird seasons and the big-

Artesia Man Writes Local Farm Story

G. L. Beene of Artesia, district conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, is the author of a six-column story, illustrated with three photographs, in the August issue of Southwestern Farm and Crop, farm journal published in Lubbock, Texas.

The article is titled "Leveling Gives Two Bales to One on Artesia's Seven Rivers." One of the photographs is of Jim and Hugh Moutray, owners of Seven Rivers Farms.

Traced in the story is the brothers work in leveling, beginning in 1939. By 1943, when the Central Valley district was organized, Seven Rivers Farm had leveled 250 acres into contour benches.

One hundred and sixty-four acres were leveled in 1948. Again the least productive land was leveled and it became the most productive. Where only a fourth of a bale was grown yields jumped to two bales an acre.

Other good farming practices of the Moutray brothers are insect control and use of geese to do the hoeing on cotton. The first airplane duster owned in the valley was bought by the Moutrays. Cotton is dusted at least three times a year and more when needed.

Cutlines on the pictures in the story read: "Carryalls and land planes are kept busy on Seven Rivers for more efficient irrigation. The Moutray brothers attribute much of their success to level crop lands."

Welfare Is Splendid

AMERICA HAS MOVED FAR in the past 15 years in its efforts to aid and help the less fortunate of the nation.

It has done considerable to aid and help the individual who needs some temporary assistance to keep his family together—to have food, clothing and shelter. It has provided assistance through its welfare program for the widow and children; assistance for those handicapped children.

The nation through federal aid programs operated in the states has given assistance to the aged individuals no longer able to work through granting of pensions. The unemployed have found assistance for a period of time while they also are helped to secure employment. And then through the federal social security program assistance is being provided for many who have come under the program.

Some states have been successful in setting up definite old age pension plans to aid those who reach the time where they can't work and who do not have sufficient income or who have failed to prepare for this time of life.

We as a nation have recognized many problems and we have adopted and worked out programs and seemingly we may go further in our efforts in the years ahead.

But there are two limitations—one that of funds and the other the damage we can do to the average individual.

Long ago we were told that we were limited in how many people we can provide jobs for on public payrolls and how many we can prepare jobs for. Certainly we all know that we can't provide jobs for all. If we all go to work for the government the day and time comes when the income of the states and federal government is going to be very, very limited.

Likewise whether we like to admit it or not, there is a limit to which we can go in our welfare programs—a limit set by the funds available.

If we could drop everything else or drop many other things then could go along indefinitely in our welfare program. If we could it the aid to those actually needing it and to those who should be rearing it, we could serve more and continue further. But we know that can't and won't be done.

Recently we had a well-known and prominent politician and one holding a state job tell us we should see the welfare rolls in this country as a price we pay for politics dominating these programs.

But the other reason there is a limit is that of creating a desire for individuals not to get ahead, not to save and not to prepare for the future. When we destroy initiative and ambitions in individuals—we have destroyed this in our nation. When we make it possible for individuals to live without labor and without effort—then we have destroyed our people instead of helping our people.

We probably need to do more in our welfare programs; we need to increase where we can; expand where we can; actually aid those needing help. And if we were to check more carefully and start providing aid strictly on a need basis instead of on political basis we probably could do more.

But there is a limit in which we can go in this welfare state of ours—a limit set by actual funds available for this purpose, actual sources that can be taxed and a limit on how far we actually want to go because of the effect it can have on many of our people who have too little ambition now.—O.E.P.

It's Still The Truth

FOUR SCORE AND SEVEN YEARS AGO those famous words were uttered by Abraham Lincoln. The exact date was Nov. 19, 1863.

Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., one of the large advertising agencies, has compiled a booklet about Lincoln's Gettysburg Address.

The booklet discloses that seven million adults in the United States have never heard the address. Sixteen per cent of those who have heard it cannot identify the speaker, 54 per cent are wrong about the occasion, 36 per cent can repeat the first line, but only 15 per cent even pretend to know most of the address.

But there is one thing which does not suffer from age is the truth in the message, which has as much meaning today as it had 87 years ago.

It might be well for all of us at this time of uneasiness and of world unrest to read again the marvelous message delivered by Honest Abe:

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth, upon this continent, a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

"Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation, so conceived, and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met here on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of it as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

"But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they have, thus far, so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they here gave their last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that this government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."—A.L.B.

What Other Editors Are Saying

MOBS ON THE MOVE

There are ominous signs of a wave of hysterical repression of liberty in recent actions of a few self-appointed extirpaters of communism in the United States.

Police chiefs in Birmingham, Ala. and Knoxville, Tenn., took it upon themselves to jail or expel any communists found within the city limits. This is easily said, but how is a police chief to decide just who is a communist?

Birmingham made the problem simple by defining as a communist anyone who "circulates or distributes any printed or written matter purported to have been issued by or over the name of such communist party or any branch thereof."

Which means anybody, including the United States Post Office Department apparently, who hands a copy of the Daily Worker to somebody else, or who even passes along a document somebody thinks is communist.

Nor was that all. Birmingham also decided that anybody is a communist who is found "in a nonpublic place in voluntary communication with any person or persons established to be or to have been a member of such communist party." This means that anybody who talks to Louis Budenz in Birmingham is a communist, so long as it is not on the street, that is.

Certainly communism needs to be combated, inside as well as outside the United States. But it should not be attacked by using the communists' own methods of force and violence.

For when that happens, the mob rules. A malicious whisper; and the result can be a murder. And the experience of the past indicates that far more of the innocent than of the guilty are the victims. Any personal enemy can be disposed of simply by labeling him communist. Any champion of an unpopular cause becomes a "Red."

Getting rid of communism is far too serious a matter to be handled vigilante style. Indeed, communism is not suppressed but breeds in the lawless atmosphere of the lynching party. If violence triumphs over justice, democracy perishes.—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

WAR BUSINESS

Business in New Mexico has spurred since the outbreak of war in Korea. Sales tax collections, which accurately reflect business trends came up sharply during July after having fallen behind the 1949 figures for several months. The collection of $1,386,000 was $61,000 over July 1949.

The collections were on June business and only a week of the war period. August collections on July business when hoarding was at its height and prices on many items had gone up should show an ever greater increase.

The war money is welcome for the schools but we'd gladly give it back for an end of the trouble that is breeding the high collections.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—These days, as befits a journalist with French cuffs, razor-sharp trousers and friends in the Social Register, the zoo that I visit nearly always is the Central Park Zoo. It is a tidy little place and its animals are sleek and well-groomed, as befits any resident of the upper East Side.

But it was not always so; there were days in the past when, surrounded by less gout-conscious acquaintances, my pilgrimages to the animal kingdom always consisted of trips to the Bronx Zoo, far uptown.

New York, incidentally, is simply crawling with zoos. We have another out in Staten Island, a forlorn little borough across the lower Bay, and there may be one or two other zoos around of which I know nothing. I have, after all, been in and around New York for only 35 years, and have just begun to scratch its surface.

When I was about 10, however, the adventure of the year was a trip down to the Bronx Zoo from the city in which I lived, just north of New York, in Westchester county.

Armed with Boy Scout knife, raw oatmeal flakes in a canteen and a paper full of sugar to keep up my energy (will someone kindly tell me where small boys get their ideas?), I would head toward the wilds of the Bronx, sometimes alone and sometimes accompanied by dauntless friends. That was in the long ago, but I must admit that even today the Bronx Zoo has a great deal to be said for it.

To be technically correct, there is no Bronx Zoo. There is only the New York Zoological Society in South Bronx Park, just as there is no Brooklyn Navy Yard, but rather a New York Navy Yard in Brooklyn.

The place was thrown open to the public in the autumn of 1899, given most of its impetus by the City of New York, which donated a quarter of a million dollars for the construction of buildings and the purchase of our furry and feathered friends, and also handed over 261 acres in South Bronx Park.

AT THIS WRITING, UNLESS I AM WRONG, a not too startling state of affairs, the Bronx Zoo is the largest park of its kind in the world. It has an animal population of around 2,500 lost and caged souls, including a python that stretches 14 feet laterally, a giraffe that stretches 16 feet horizontally and an elephant that weighs 7,000 pounds impressively.

There also is an enormous earthworm population which, however, is not really part of the tableaux for the cash customer, but is raised purely to keep the duck-billed platypus happy. They put away 1,800 earthworms a day, oddly enough without getting over-fat. You know what would happen to you or I if we ate 1,800 earthworms a day. You do?

These days the zoo must buy its animals rather carefully—elephants cost around $4,000 and giraffes the same. The last time I priced lions, they were selling for $50 and up, and that is about the saddest commentary on the legendary old king of beasts that I ever heard.

They buy pythons by the foot, but I have no definite word from Bill Bridges, the curator of public relations (let's all work in a zoo; the titles are wonderful), as to whether they lop them off here and there, like a liverwurst roll, saying "Ah, I'm sorry, Mrs. Jones. I went a bit over. Is that all right?"

Among the strange characters which infest or have infested the Bronx Zoo was a two-toed sloth, the crossword puzzlers' delight, who went without water for 12 years and finally died, an object lesson of some sort.

They have humming birds and vampire bats—the humming birds drink an artificial nectar—but they do not have a mongoose or a giant fruit bat. The mongoose is the animal that is going to win me a $5 bet from you sometime when I ask you how to spell its plural. However, it and the fruit bat are not permitted in America, since if they bred, they might wipe out the nation's chicken, small-bird and citrus fruit populations.

IN ALL, THE BRONX ZOO CARRIES MORE THAN 150 different kinds of animals; 82 species of reptiles, including a cobra which has engaged in a spitting duel with me since I was 10, separated only by the thinnest of glass, and around 530 assorted kinds of birds.

Some of the wierdest creatures are the aoudad, solenodon, roo rhabok, whydah, markhor, bongo and malabar bulbul, and I wouldn't dream of beginning to explain them to you. They are, suffice to say, stranger than the average racetrack crowd.

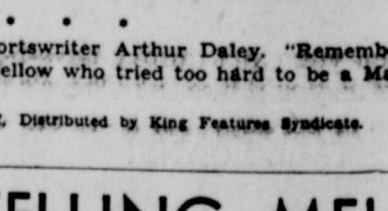

I guess the thing I like best about the Bronx Zoo is that grown-ups aren't permitted in the children's zoo there—unless accompanied by children. That seems in keeping with the eternal fitness of things.

The hurricane season is about to come upon us; one of the tropical disturbances is enough to convince man that he doesn't know it all.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE LATE Frank Crowninshield was an inveterate golf player, making up in zeal what he lacked in skill. When Frank began chopping his way around the course, players behind him resigned themselves to the fact that they would never get home in time for dinner. Grantland Rice called him a "floating hazard." One day in the locker room, Crowninshield announced cheerfully, "Boys, when I die, I want to be cremated, and then have my ashes strewn over the links. Then when the wind blows, all of you can say, 'There's Old Man Crowninshield holding up the course again.'"

Probably Crownie's most quoted line in a golf match was pulled when he was all square with Conde Nast going down to the green of the sixteenth hole. He tugged his caddy's sleeve and asked loudly, "Is that my dear friend's ball in the trap or is the son-of-a-so-and-so on the green?"

"Avoid excess" counsels Sportswriter Arthur Daley. "Remember that a Bowery bum is just a fellow who tried too hard to be a Man of Distinction!"

Rural Recreation Lead Is Taken By 4-H Clubs

The importance of providing recreation for the few leisure hours farm folks have these days has become one of the major concerns of thousands of 4-H Club Leaders and members. During the past three years, a plan has been worked out whereby adults and youth interested in directing recreational activities in their clubs and communities can take a special course set up for that purpose. This training and club participation has been brought about through the national 4-H recreation and rural arts program, now in full swing in New Mexico. The sponsor of the program is providing about $29,000 for leader training clinics, club and individual awards.

Last year more than 10,200 young people and 6400 adults attended these clinics. They receive instructions in group singing, dancing, games, sports, dramatics, handicrafts and many other activities.

While they are having fun, the 4-H'ers are also working hard to make a good showing for themselves and their club. To encourage these endeavors, merit certificates are presented to club members, $25 cash awards to counties, and Chicago 4-H Club Congress trips to eight national champions.

The 1949 state honors went to Bobbie Joy Morgan of Portales, Cash awards were won by Socorro, Torrance, Roosevelt, Curry, and Dona Ana Counties. The money is used for recreational equipment.

Recognition cards were given to 304 members. The program is being conducted in 47 states under the supervision of the Co-operative Extension Service.

Defoliation Of Cotton Subject Of Council Book

A general guide for chemical defoliation of cotton in the various areas of the Cotton Belt, prepared by federal, state, and commercial defoliation workers, has been published by the National Cotton Council. Entitled "Chemical Defoliation of Cotton - Second Report of Progress," the booklet is the first such summary to be made available to the public.

Defoliation is a process where chemicals are applied to the cotton plant to cause it to shed its leaves. This makes harvesting easier, particularly when mechanical pickers or strippers are used. It also is important in late season insect control and in other phases of cotton production.

Listed in the guide are only those chemicals which have been tested in regional defoliation experiments. All have been found to defoliate cotton when applied as recommended. The writers point out that defoliation efficiency depends upon the growth history and status of the cotton plant, and particularly upon weather conditions during and immediately after application. Rates of application are often dependent upon variations of these same limited factors.

In booklet, defoliation workers point out that the area guides for the use of defoliations are general, based on average conditions. Cotton producers are advised to consult their local defoliation worker for more specific information. A list of co-operators in each state appears in the appendix of the publication.

The booklet describes the available defoliant, tell where the various chemicals may be used most effectively, and recommends time and rates of application. Listed also are factors limiting efficiency, needs and benefits, precautions for handling, types of application equipment, and sources of supply giving both chemical and trade names of the various defoliants.

A free copy of the booklet may be obtained from the National Cotton Council, P. O. Box 18, Memphis, Tenn.

Artesia Sector Represented on State Soil Board

E. O. Moore of Dexter and R. T. Spence of Carlsbad are two of the seven farmer-rancher members of the reorganized New Mexico Soil Conservation Committee.

Moore is vice chairman of the board, and a big-scale Pecos Valley rancher. He is chairman of the Hagerman-Dexter soil conservation district. An enthusiastic flying farmer he often uses his plane in attending committee meetings. The Carlsbad man, Spence, is primarily a banker, but also has farm and ranch interests. He had a part in organizing the Otero district at Alamogordo. On the board he worked out application of Senate Bill 153 which appropriated $20,000 to be used by districts in purchase of equipment.

It's a Very Satisfying Feeling

Yes, it's good to slip into a truly fine automobile and sense its richness, its comfort, its room. And there's a great thrill in touching off the waiting power of a great-hearted straight-eight and feeling its swift response at any speed. It's fun to count the quick, admiring glances thrown your way. It's nice to have a car that parks easily, for all its inches. It's very pleasant to do away with gearshifting and clutch-pedal pushing, and know in its stead the utter smoothness of Dynaflo Drive's silken transmission of power. And still that doesn't probe the depths of a ROADMASTER owner's secret satisfaction. For while he knows he has a fine car, by its look, its feel, its appointments— While he has performance at his command that needs play second fiddle to no other on the road— While he enjoys a very special measure of creature comfort in the quite matchless gentleness of ROADMASTER's ever-level ride— He knows too that he has made an exceptionally wise investment. He has spent his money for the things that make a fine car fine—and nothing simply for show. He has paid the lowest price per pound in the fine-car field—he has the very satisfying feeling of knowing his dollars have given him solid merit, and solid merit alone. We'd like to have you try ROADMASTER in honest comparison with the highest-priced cars to be found. We'd like to have you try to match it for room, for comfort, for finish, for handling ease and for ability on the road. Then check the prices—and see if your own sense of value doesn't advise signing up right now with your Buick dealer for a Buick ROADMASTER.

Industry Plans Observance 'Oil Progress Week'

An attractive six-panel folder for dealers jobbers and distributors of petroleum products and an eye-catching leaflet for company mailings, have been prepared by the Oil Industry Information Committee to help promote the observance of "Oil Progress Week," Oct. 15-21.

Printed in two colors and illustrated with informal sketches, the dealer-jobber folder is entitled "Blow Your Horn." It urges service station men and other dealers and distributors to tell the story of oil during "Oil Progress Week," to give the public the facts about one of the nation's most progressive industries.

The front page art features a service station dealer blowing a horn to call the public's attention to his station. One panel of the folder explains the significance of "Oil Progress Week," while another lists a group of facts for the dealer's information. Another panel tells how some dealers promoted "Oil Progress Week" last year and a double-panel suggests a number of ways to do it in 1950.

The folder was designed for distribution by oil companies to dealers, jobbers and distributors. It is being made available through the national and district offices of the Oil Industry Information Committee.

"Hand in Hand" is the title of a four-page two-color leaflet prepared as an envelope enclosure for oil company mailings to credit-card and fuel oil customers, stockholders, royalty owners, employees and community leaders.

Art sketches feature a humanized derrick which emphasizes how "your progress and oil progress go hand in hand" from derrick to driveway. Illustrations indicate how competition and oil research mean better products and more products at reasonable prices for all.

Dove and Pigeon Season Dates Are Proposed

Dates of Sept. 1 to Oct. 12 for doves and Sept. 16 to Oct. 15 for pigeons have been proposed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for New Mexico, State Game Warden Elliott S. Barker announced.

The dates were released by Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman, who reported that the dates were released early so that the states would have sufficient time to prepare their own regulations and to render protests.

The proposed bag limits on both doves and pigeons would be the same as last year, when the federal service made the limit on pigeons eight birds and limited the doves to 10. As usual, pigeon shooting in New Mexico will be limited to areas in the state south of U.S. Highway 60. The highway cuts across the state from Clovis to Socorro to Quemado.

"The Fish and Wildlife Service is at this time asking for protests to their regulations," Barker said. "If pigeon shooting is to be done north of Highway 60 then there will have to be recommendations sent in not only by the Department of Game and Fish and by the various Game Protective Associations, but by all those individual sportsmen who wish to see this regulation changed."

Crystal Gazing Ball Being Used By Rain Makers

A crystal gazing ball has been purchased by the Thunderstorm Laboratory of New Mexico School of Mines at Socorro, currently engaged in rain making research. Asked about this fortune-teller's specialty, Dr. E. J. Workman, physicist-president of the college, said, "It's done with mirrors."

The scientists, it seems, need a reflector which will mirror the whole horizon at once for use in their photographic cloud studies. The 4 1/2-inch, "de luxe" model gazing ball will be coated with aluminum and suspended above a movie camera with lens pointed straight up, out of doors. The camera will record the reflected image of clouds all around the horizon.

Motion pictures thus obtained are projected on a circular screen marked with radiating lines and concentric circles representing a map of the Socorro area where the studies are being made. By this means the scientists can study the formation, growth and movement of clouds—information vital to the understanding of weather phenomena. The project is part of a large research program undertaken by the School of Mines to determine "When, where, and why does it rain."

The crystal ball will be coated by a special process called "sputtering," wherein the ball is placed inside a vacuum jar. Melting of aluminum inside the vacuum causes atoms of metal to fly into space, where they cling to any object

Date for Unused Military Leave Pay Has Been Extended

World War II veterans and survivors of deceased veterans who have not yet applied for reimbursement for unused military leave may now obtain new application forms at any Veterans Administration office in New Mexico, the contact service announced.

Public Law 479, which became law April 26, extended the time to June 30, 1951, in which former enlisted service personnel may apply for payment of leave time not used while in service. Many veterans have failed to avail themselves of the benefit, it was pointed out.

In co-operation with the Department of the Army, the VA will furnish the forms and advise veterans on the proper way to file them out.
