July 4th Celebration Draws Crowds

Bright Sun; Hot Weather Provides Perfect Setting

It was a 'perfect' day for a celebration. As bright sunshine washed over the area, and the temperatures soared to nearly 100 degrees, hundreds of people turned out for the annual Independence Day Celebration in Muleshoe.

Robert Lepard and Lonnie Adrian coordinated the races that started off the day. Leaving from the KMUL Radio parking lot, by the time it was over, Loy Triana was winner of the 2-mile run for the male division; and Shane Schuster was winner of the female 2-mile division. Overall winner was Doug Masters for the 10-K.

Activities moved toward the Bailey County Coliseum where the annual World Champion Mule Shoe Pitching Contest was held. A large number of entries were coordinated by Jeri Wiede-bush and Bob Stovall.

James Turnbow emerged as the World Champion. He was also winner of the Men's Division. Jama Mays was in second place. She won the Women's Division.

Second place in the men's was Garry Shipman; while Mary Hicks was second for the women. Jama and Robert Mays won the Doubles, with Darin Shaw and Lance King in second place. Winner of the Youth Division was Kyle Embry, with Heath Eagle, second.

Many youngsters entered the Kid's Activities, sponsored by Alpha Zeta Pi. No results were available at presstime. They will maybe be available for the Sunday edition of The Bailey County Journal.

At noon, the pickup to be given away by the MAC and Jenny-slippers, was unveiled at Muleshoe Motor Co. Both organizations are holding tickets at $10 each at this time.

In the early afternoon, the Bailey County Civic Center meeting room was filled with people for the Old Settler's Reunion.

In the absence of the president, T. R. White acted as president. Glen Williams gave the invocation, and the group made the pledge to the flag.

Hazel Gilbreath gave the treasurer's report, and Roy Whitt provided entertainment.

Whitt presented "The Mississippi Squirrel" and a patriotic recitation popularized by Johnny Cash.

The audience participated in singing "America."

New officers were elected. By acclamation, T. R. White, president; Hazel Gilbreath, vice president and Maurine Hooten, secretary-treasurer.

One of the highlights were display boards of stories taken from old issues of The Muleshoe Journal, many of them from the 20's, 30's, and 40's.

Irvin St. Clair drew the name of Olive Cox as winner of the centerpiece.

Rose Ann Gloria was a very happy person following the MAC Buck drawing at 2:30 p. m. at the Civic Center. She won both top prizes, $175 and $300. Winner of $125 was Lillie Ham.

The parade at 4:30 p.m. was one of the largest and best parades held in Muleshoe in many years. The streets were lined with hundreds of people who turned out in blistering 98 degree weather to watch the parade wend its way through the streets to the New City Park.

The Jennyslippers were win-

Buchenau Postmaster For Happy

Sylvia J. Buchenau has been appointed the new postmaster at Happy, TX, effective Saturday, July 1, 1989. Sectional Center Manager/Postmaster Donald S. Bloyd of Lubbock announced Monday.

Buchenau, a native of Olton, TX, with 14 years of postal experience, has served as a window distribution clerk at Muleshoe for the past six years. Prior to that, she served as a distribution clerk in the Farwell, TX post office for eight years.

Postmaster selections are made on the basis of merit from a list of qualified candidates submitted to the sectional center manager by a review committee. The review committee, composed of sectional center director from the same sectional center, a postmaster from the same sectional center, and a sectional director from a different sectional center, review the applicants for the position and recommend to the sectional manager those candidates who best meet the position requirements. The sectional center manager then selects and recommends to the postmaster general the best qualified person for appointment to the vacancy.

Ms. Buchenau has three children, Blaine, 27; Blake, 25 and Camille, 21.

Ms. Buchenau is a member of the Chamber of Commerce in Muleshoe. She was also a member of the Blood Bank in Farwell. She enjoys collecting stamps and playing tennis.

The new postmaster is looking forward to her new job and to serving the postal customers in Happy, TX.

TDA Issues Crisis Declaration For Corn Growers Miticide Use

The Texas Corn Growers Association (TCGA) learned Friday that the Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) has issued a crisis declaration authorizing the use of Capture miticide on field corn in 20 Texas Panhandle-South Plains counties.

Carl King, TCGA president, said his office was informed of the crisis declaration Friday morning by the office of Texas Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture Mike Moeller. He said the declaration was issued after the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) informed TDA that it probably wouldn't issue a final ruling on TCGA's request for a Section 18 temporary use of Capture before mid-July -- too late to facilitate the proper use of the product by farmers.

Counties covered under the miticide's crisis declaration include Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, Potter, Carson, Deaf Smith, Gray, Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd and Lubbock.

"TCGA is excited about the crisis declaration," said King. "It enables corn producers in these counties to immediately use the miticide in their pesticide management programs."

Banks grass mites and other spider mites have caused problems for regional corn farmers virtually every production year. Through 1987, Azodrin was used extensively to control major mite infestations. However, alleging that Azodrin was a health hazard, EPA banned its use on corn, creating a desperate situation for farmers.

Dr. Pat Morrison, extension entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Lubbock, said Capture, produced by FMC Corp., shouldn't be used in the same manner as Azodrin. Capture is also used differently than Comite, a miticide used earlier in the growing season, he said.

"Capture is not a rescue miticide like Azodrin," said Morrison. "It cannot be used to effectively stop a large mite explosion." Morrison said Capture should be used "in a management scheme" by farmers, depending on their particular situations. The miticide is "most effective on mites which are beginning to increase rapidly" in population, he said.

The TDA declaration stated that Capture is to be applied by air at rates ranging from .08 to .10 pounds per acre, or 5.1 to 6.4 fluid oz. in a minimum spray volume of two gallons of water per acre. No more than four applications can be made and no more than .40 pound or 26.5

EXTENSION GRANTED TO RURAL ROUTE 1

Mrs. E.W. Charles, postmaster, informs us that the local postoffice has been advised of the granting of an extension to Rural Route No. 1 out of Muleshoe. This extension was made necessary by the large number of new settlers who have located in the territory North and East of Muleshoe during the last twelve months.

Route 1 travels one of the richest sections of the country in this part of the State, and the extension covers a distance of about 22 miles through this fine farming section.

The farmers living along the new route very greatly appreciate the convenience that will be offered them with the establishing of daily mail service. This service will start on July 1, 1929.

MORE LAND PLANTED IN BEANS, TOMATOES THAN EVER BEFORE

More acres than ever are planted to beans and tomatoes in the Muleshoe country, according to an estimate of the situation by management of the Muleshoe Canning Company.

It was said that the bean crop here this year will cover approximately 500 acres, more than ever has been planted in this neighborhood. Most planting was done last week and the crop is expected to be ready for picking in July or about 60 days from planting time. Last year the local canning factory put up about 40,000 cases of green beans, more than they have ever processed before.

However, this year the factory will not handle blackeyed peas. Year before last a large number of cases were canned here but the market has been such that the factory will eliminate this product from their schedule.

This year, however, the largest acreage has been planted to tomatoes that the Muleshoe territory has ever seen.

It was estimated that more than 300 acres are planted to tomatoes in this immediate neighborhood, and the canning factory is planning to can at least that part which does not go into the green wrap.

Build-It-Yourself

Outdoor furniture should be comfortable, attractive and functional, with classic good looks that never go out of style. That's something Stanley, the "Do-It-Yourself" company, kept in mind in its newest "Build-It-Yourself" brochure and video, "Outdoor Projects." The plans include detailed instructions for building two styles of a garden furniture set, a planter box and even a gazebo. To make your do-it-yourself work fun, projects are included on three different "comfort" levels of woodworking skill.

The Litchfield chair, loveseat, bench/table and planter box are relatively easy to build. The Galway chair, loveseat and table require somewhat more skill to complete, and the gazebo calls for some real woodworking savvy and possibly some extra help during the actual assembly.

Do-it-yourselfers can check their progress on these projects (with the exception of the gazebo) by viewing the "Outdoor Projects" video tape. The 40-minute video demonstrates the actual construction of the projects while simultaneously providing hands-on woodworking tips and techniques applicable to most similar projects. The accompanying brochure includes separate pull-out plans for each piece that itemize all materials, hardware and tools required while providing narrative instructions and illustrations.

Do-it-yourselfers can order the "Outdoor Projects" brochure alone for $1, or the brochure and video together for $14.95 by sending payment and return address to: The Stanley Works, Advertising Services, Box 1800, Dept. PR89, New Britain, CT 06050.

Youth Development

Addressing Current Concerns

4-H, the youth development program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, has come a long way since the Corn Clubs and Canning Clubs of the early 1900s.

While individual projects are still the backbone of this youth organization, emphasis is on the development of leadership and life skills to mold youths into productive citizens and tomorrow's leaders.

And today's 4-H program is addressing the problems and concerns of youths across the state and nation. A major effort in modern-day 4-H is to help youths build a positive self-concept so that they can better cope with the pressures of today's society.

For example, studies have shown that youths active in organizations such as 4-H are less likely to become involved in drug abuse, teen pregnancies and related problems.

As adults, these same youths are more involved in community activities, continued education and voting. In other words, they take their leadership and citizenship responsibilities much more seriously, and they become productive members of our society. They become taxpayers and assets to society rather than liabilities.

By providing youths with many basic skills, 4-H helps them get "a step up" the ladder of success and makes them more employable. Business and industry wants prospective employees to have certain basic skills before employment.

With the high school dropout rate among many of the state's youths as high as 40 percent, jobs may go begging in the future. That's where youth development programs such as 4-H can play a key role—in providing youths with some of the basic skills needed for employment.

4-H can provide preventative education which is much less costly than programs to rehabilitate individuals after they "have gone wrong." Every dollar spent on preventative education saves taxpayers $4.75 on rehabilitation programs.

A 1988 report by the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health provides some pertinent information as to investments in preventative education.

According to the report, the cost of providing one child with a continuum of preventive services, beginning with prenatal and preventive health care and continuing with Head Start, Chapter I Compensatory Education, summer jobs for high school students, and four years of college paid at public expense is $39,000. In contrast, the cost per year to keep one juvenile delinquent in a Texas training school is $25,000.

The 4-H program has had a positive influence on hundreds of thousands of youths for more than 80 years, and it will continue to lay a solid foundation for those who avail themselves of its benefits. Our youths are the most precious resources we have; they are our future. To assure a prosperous future for Texas, we must invest in our youth development programs.

Harmful Bacteria Invade When Given A Chance

Toxic bacteria and other microorganisms can create unnecessary problems if food safety precautions are not taken, said Dr. Mary Kinny Sweeten, a registered dietitian and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Sweeten said a report from the Food and Drug Administration by Roger Miller noted that 21 million to 81 million cases of diarrhea a year are caused by food-borne microorganisms. Kidney damage, arthritis and heart problems are other consequences of food contamination.

Bacteria are the main culprits responsible for the great problems, Miller said in the report, although all bacteria are not harmful. Some are found in the intestinal tract, where they aid in digesting food and others help produce foods such as buttermilk and yogurt.

Sweeten said that even harmful bacteria cannot do their work without proper conditions, such as food, moisture and warmth. Also, bacteria have no method of transportation and must rely on hitching rides by means of cooking utensils and other kitchen tools.

In the report, Miller said that all food preparation equipment must start out clean and stay clean. Equipment that is handled or comes in contact with food should be washed between each step of food preparation.

Miller said that hand washing is a necessity before preparing

Chewable Vitamin

C May Cause

Dental Problems

People who attempt to ward off the common cold by munching on chewable vitamin C tablets could be damaging their teeth, said a Texas Agricultural Extension Service expert.

Dr. Dymple Cooksey, an Extension Service nutrition specialist, said the ascorbic acid in vitamin C has been associated with dental erosion in the past, but the problem has become more acute with increased sales of extremely high levels of the vitamin in chewable tablet form. "The chewable vitamin C tablets that contain mega-dose levels of the vitamin may present possible dental health problems according to latest research," the specialist said.

She said a recent American Dental Association report indicated that the acidic level of three 500-milligram chewable vitamin C tablets, when dissolved in distilled water, about equals that of stomach acid.

"While saliva has a certain buffering effect, it can provide only limited protection when there is daily direct contact between ascorbic acid and teeth," Cooksey said.

Cooksey said when people attempt to chase the common cold, vitamin C cough syrup which clings to the teeth also is not recommended, since it may cause dental problems.

The specialist recommended that persons who use chewable vitamin C tablets on a regular basis should check with a dentist for any signs of dental problems.

any meal. This requires soap, warm water, and at least 20 seconds of working the soap into the hands and underneath fingernails.

Refrigerators also must be kept clean and at a temperature no warmer than 40 degrees Fahrenheit and the freezer should not register no more than zero degrees. High temperatures kill bacteria and cold stops or slows their growth. Foods denied proper conditions give bacteria the opportunity to double in numbers within 20 minutes, according to the report.

"Thus, frozen items and perishables purchased at the grocery should be refrigerated as soon as possible," Sweeten said.

She said cooked or refrigerated foods, such as meats and salads, should be stored in small, shallow containers and refrigerated immediately. When reheating foods, they should reach at least 165 F.

The specialist said major ways to thaw frozen foods include in the refrigerator, under cold running water, in a microwave oven or as part of the cooking process. "Never thaw foods at room temperature," Sweeten cautioned.

date its inventory at a greatly reduced price, may offer consumers some good bargains. However, these sales are also susceptible to deceptive advertising.

In one recent case investigated by the Attorney General's Office, ads claimed savings of "up to 60 percent" from the liquidation of high quality jewelry "traditionally" sold at a well known outlet. Our Consumer Protection Division alleged that the claims were deceptive because:

- all of the high quality goods had been removed from the store and replaced by a lower quality inventory;
- many of the goods had been acquired for the sole purpose of being sold for profit;
- and most prices were not significantly less than normal market prices.

Another case involved an auctioneer who claimed to be liquidating "artifacts" from the estate of a "Prince." Our office alleged that there was no such "Prince" and that the auctioneer was simply selling his own inventory.

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division has taken action against these and other deceptive practices. But consumers can also protect themselves by being smart shoppers.

Don't Buy Phony Price Comparisons
A "sale" should be a significant price reduction from the advertiser's usual and customary price. Consumers should be familiar with the prevailing price of a product.

A business advertisement should compare sale prices to:

- their own former selling price;
- the current price of identical merchandise at other stores;
- the current selling price of comparable merchandise at their own or other stores.

Watch out for comparisons which include:

- list price;
 - manufacturer's list price;
 - suggested retail price.
- These terms can be used deceptively to imply savings when there is none.

"Dealer Cost" may sound good, but it might include the cost of the product to the dealer plus overhead, advertising costs, sales commissions, and other expenses.

It is misleading and illegal for a seller to raise prices for a short period, then cut them to the normal price and advertise a sale.

If you have complaints about liquidation sales or any other consumer problem, call your nearest Consumer Protection Office in Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Houston, Lubbock, McAllen, or San Antonio. The Attorney General's Office is the people's law firm. We're here to help you.

fluid ounce of product can be applied per growing season.

TDA said the chemical shouldn't be applied within 500 feet of waterbodies containing "fish or aquatic invertebrates" or within one mile of fish bearing waters that may contain endangered species. Also, it shouldn't be applied when weather conditions favor run-off from a treatment site into fish bearing waters, TDA said. Capture shouldn't be applied within 30 days of harvest, and livestock shouldn't be allowed to graze treated fields prior to harvest, the declaration stated.

Morrison said growers should consult their chemical dealers and/or pesticide consultants for further information on the use of the chemical and the need for its use on their particular fields.

In the declaration, Moeller said, "inasmuch as an application for a specific exemption has been submitted to EPA... this crisis exemption will remain in effect until EPA renders a decision on that application."

King concluded that TCGA was grateful for the assistance it has received from TDA and Morrison. "With the threat of mites starting corn farmers in the face, it was essential that this miticide be approved for usage," said King. "This was made possible through a combined effort of TDA, the extension service and Texas Corn Growers."

TAES Schedules Area Onion

Tour This Friday

Onion growers and shippers, seed company representatives, industry leaders and others may tour transplanted onion variety trials and demonstrations Friday, July 7, said Dr. Roland E. Roberts, vegetable specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The tour will begin at 9 a.m. at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center on FM1294, just east of Interstate 27 at the Shallowater exit. The group will then visit several commercial onion growers in the Lubbock area.

Transplanted onions featured will be five intermediate-day Willseeds, red hybrids, Tango, Midstar, Perla and 00048 varieties. The group will also see five breeding lines of transplanted short and intermediate-day types developed by Dr. Leonard Pike, Texas A&M onion breeder.

Plots of direct-seeded onions to be viewed include 43 intermediate and long-day types. These have all been precision-thinned to four inches apart in each row.

Dr. David Bender, assistant professor and vegetable researcher with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, will detail an onion-nitrogen nutrition research program under his direction.

"A second tour of the direct-seeded, long-day varieties will be held in August," said Roberts.

Hay Reserves Depleted From Adverse Weather

Hay sheds and storage areas across Texas are practically empty, according to reports from producers, county agents and specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Texas produced almost eight million tons of hay in 1987," said Dr. Sim A. Reeves, Jr., Extension Service agronomist at Overton. "Production last year, according to Texas Department of Agriculture figures, was 5.35 million tons, down 32 percent."

Sims said most producers fed their total hay supply, including any reserve, last fall and winter. "In a normal year, hay grown in Texas has a value of more than $300 million. Adverse weather, such as the 1988 drought, can quickly cause large monetary losses."

Charles Beckendorf, a dairyman at Tomball, said, "People in our part of the country are planning to cut everything. We normally try to carry over about 500 rolls each year, but like all our neighbors, we have no reserve left."

That's the story in many sections of the state as hay producers await enough rain to boost the first cutting or enough dry weather to harvest a good first cutting.

South Texas is still very dry, receiving only 1 to 2 inches of rain in April and generally less than one-half inch in May. "We need about 5 inches of rain in May to produce a cutting of hay," said Doyle Warren, Extension Service district director at Weslaco. "Many producers have sold their calves and are trying to held their brood cows. If rain does not come soon, some will begin selling cows."

Far West Texas and the High Plains also are short of moisture. "Hay supplies will be tight for most of West Texas," said Charles Stichler, Extension Service agronomist at Fort Stockton. "Our alfalfa acreage is down 25 to 40 percent because many producers have turned to Pima cotton for better profit."

More forage sorghums are being planted in North Texas. "Our sorghum-sudan plantings are up as much as 30 percent," said Gary Bomar, Grayson County extension agent.

Extension Service agronomist Dr. Noble Kearney at Uvalde said, "Not only is more sorghum-sudan being planted, but producers are taking better care of existing coastal meadows." But much of the area continues very dry and rains will be needed to produce hay crops.

Brent Ramage of Hooks, in Northeast Texas, said, "Hay production costs are up and profits are down. Our meadows, about 400 acres, look better than ever. But, fertilizer costs are up as much as $40 per ton. Weather has played havoc with hay yields the last five years and producers can only pay so much for hay."

Jack Parks of Stephenville also said his fertilizer is costing more and much small grain acreage there was winter killed, thus very little small grain hay is being produced.

"We use about 35,000 bales of hay per year and right now, the prospect for bermudagrass hay looks the best I've ever seen," Parks said. "If more rainfall comes and more hay is produced, quality will definitely influence price."

Irrigated hay producers are less concerned about the moisture situation.

Paul L. Garrison, Jr. of Bandera County raises about 100 acres of irrigated coastal. "Our first cutting is up about 15 bales per acre," he said. Our total production should be up about 5,000 bales this year. Our primary market is quarter horse producers. Prices are a little higher on high quality hay and about normal on hay for cows."

Carl Tanberg, a contract sprigger near Harlingen, said that business is about the same this year. "People are still interested in good quality sprigs for the irrigated acreage in the area," he said.

David Finley, Wichita County Extension agent, said that some producers may sell cows if the price of hay gets too high. "They can only pay so much for hay and still be in an economical situation," he said. "We look good for the first cutting but expect prices to be on the high side."

Dr. John McNeill, Extension Service beef cattle specialist at Amarillo, said, "Round bales of hay weighing 1,800 pounds normally sell for about $35 in the Panhandle. Last winter the price went to $50 in some areas. Most of our hay is grown locally for stocker operations. A lot of dryland sorghum-sudan is being planted."

Jack Mewbourn of Van Zandt County normally produces about 2,000 acres of hay. "People in our area are trying to secure their hay supply early," he said. local producers are buying early instead of depending on their own meadows. If alfalfa prices stay high, then coastal hay prices will stay up. Right now, alfalfa costs about $125 per ton delivered to our farm."

Dr. Dale Lovelace, Extension Service forage specialist at Dallas said, "The price of hay will be good until all the barns are full. After that, the price may drop if over-production is anticipated."

Reeves said, "Overall, producers are optimistic about a good hay year. However, weather is the primary factor which will determine whether we have a repeat of 1988 or build our reserves back to normal."

Container Plants Add Color To Landscape

Container plants continue to gain popularity because of their versatility, portability, and limited space needs.

Colorful flowering plants, as well as vegetable and fruit producing plants, can be grown in containers, said Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Container plants have been used for landscape enrichment throughout history. They can be highlighted in a prominent spot when at their peak and hidden from view when not needed or when in less than attractive condition, Tanksley said.

In addition, a wide variety of plant species have different cultural requirements may be grown on the same premises since individual soil, watering, pH, fertility, light and other environmental requirements can be provided for each container.

Almost any plant can be used as a container specimen as long as its cultural requirements are met, Tanksley said.

Placing a plant in a container tends to dramatize it and make it more important visually. Deciduous or evergreen trees, shrubs and vines, annual and perennial flowers may be used.

"The key is to determine where the plant will usually be located and the availability of sunlight, moisture and protection. Annual flowers usually prefer at least a half day's full sun, but most tropicals and evergreens do well with less," the agent said.

Design of the overall area should be considered. When selecting from the wide variety of containers on the market today, choose those of simple design that do not compete with the plant but tend to feature it, said Tanksley. For instance, plants in plain terra cotta clay pots often are featured on beautifully designed terraces, patios and entrances. Fortunately, some of the most appropriate containers such as clay products are often moderately priced.

Care of the plant is quite important. Container plants usually require more care than those grown in the ground. Frequent watering, often on a daily basis, is necessary for most species, especially during hot weather, said Tanksley. Arrangements should be made for their care during vacations, or they can be partially sunk into the ground in a shady, moist area.

Once the plant is well established, add small amounts of a complete fertilizer, periodically, concluded Tanksley.
