

THE ARTESIA ADVOCATE

HELPING TO BUILD A GREATER ARTESIA

ARTESIA, NEW MEXICO, TUESDAY, MARCH 20, 1951

NUMBER 23

Fire Loss Is $50,000

The Artesia Farmers Gin Company cottonseed delinting plant and an estimated 20 tons of delinted seed were destroyed early Monday morning in a $50,000 fire.

Paul Rogers, manager, said the loss is about equally divided between the plant and the seed. J. W. Cotton, night watchman at the gin, who discovered the fire about 4:15 o'clock yesterday morning, said it appeared to have started around the hot-oil circulators, possibly from a spark from the thermostatic control.

The delinting proper, which was housed in a 24x60-foot building, was a shambles of machinery and burned and scorched cottonseed, when the fire was brought well under control about 5:30 o'clock.

Two large acid tanks adjacent to the buildings were badly charred but did not burst. Rogers said they will have to be emptied promptly. A seed storage house about 40 feet north of the delinting plant building was undamaged.

The delinting installation was located east of the Santa Fe tracks, across from the company's gin, office, and other buildings, which were far from the fire.

At about the time the fire was brought under control, a south-bound Santa Fe freight train ran over fire lines and cut them. But they were not replaced, as it was felt they would not be needed further, but that the embers could be kept under control by means of small hose.

An attempt was made to flag down the freight, but trainmen did not size up the situation until too late to stop.

Rogers said the loss is partially covered by insurance. The manager said one of the worst aspects of the fire is the fact that a number of farmers were planning on planting the delinted seed promptly and that they probably will have difficulty in replacing it because of a shortage of good seed.

Much of it had been shipped in at a cost of 13 to 15 cents a pound, undelinted. Farmers will be unable to replace it at those prices, even if they can find more seed, Rogers said.

The delinting plant was opened in 1942 by the Farmers Gin Company adjacent to the gin on the west side of the tracks. It was moved across the tracks in 1945, at which time the seed storage building was erected.

Paul Rogers managed the gin and delinting plant the last season because of the illness of his father, Charles Rogers.

Artesia firemen also answered an alarm at 8:20 o'clock Saturday evening to the 300 block on Texas Avenue, in front of the Bowman Lumber Company, where the upholstery on the right door of an unidentified car was on fire.

Five Cars Impounded Here on Friday in Connection With Extensive Theft Activities

Five automobiles, believed to tie in with the extensive car-theft activities revealed early last week, were impounded in Artesia Friday afternoon after examination disclosed their motor numbers, which had been mutilated, did not check with other numbers on the cars.

At least two more cars are to be examined and processed here today.

Those who lost possession of the vehicles had bought them in good faith as used cars and their only chance of recovery is to go to the dealers who sold them.

In turn the used-car dealers will have little chance of recovery, for they purchased them from members of the ring, believing them to have good titles.

So far seven persons have been arrested in connection with the widespread activities of the ring.

Of them three have entered pleas of guilty to charges of interstate transportation of stolen automobiles.

At arraignment Saturday in Federal Court in Albuquerque, Hardin C. Kemper, 49, of Taos, and Clark Kelting, 38, of Indio, Calif., entered pleas of guilty to two counts of counseling, inducing, and procuring theft of automobiles in interstate transportation, and Edward Shaffner of Childress, Texas, pled guilty to two counts of transporting stolen automobiles across state lines.

All three had pled innocent earlier in the week at their preliminary hearings. U. S. District Judge

Carl A. Hatch deferred sentencing them until the case has been further investigated.

The other four men arrested so far were Newel Alfred Kelting, about 36, brother of Clark Kelting and also of Indio; James Edward Van Huss, Brownwood, Texas; Raymond Cainski, 21, Albuquerque, and E. H. Sigler, 24, Texarkana, Texas.

Clark Kelting is known to have been in Artesia a number of times in recent months.

At the time the five cars in the possession of Artesia citizens were processed, officers said 26 cars had been recovered at Albuquerque and several at Carlsbad.

Of the five examined here, one was definitely identified by Detective James LaRue of the Albuquerque Police Department as having been stolen in Tingley Park there last Sept. 21.

Officers said the ring members have been using a unique method in their operations, but one which although clever was bound to be discovered in time. They operated in Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, and New Mexico.

State Police Chief Joe Roach gave this account in Albuquerque of the auto ring's operations:

A garage owner in Texas, whose identity was not revealed, purchased from insurance companies late model cars which were totally wrecked.

The car thieves in the ring would then go out and steal an automobile which, by make and model matched the type of car represented by the title of the totally wrecked car.

After the theft, the car would be taken to a clandestine location where members of the ring would stamp out the true motor and serial numbers on the cars, and insert by use of dies the motor number appearing on the title for the junked or totally wrecked cars, thus giving the ring an automobile with an apparently good title that matched the motor on the stolen car.

Investigation has developed that in addition to stamping out the motor numbers, they would use a blowtorch or other similar tools to burn off other identifying data from the cars. The cars were then driven from other states into New Mexico where most of them were sold to innocent purchasers.

Officers said here Saturday it is believed eight of the stolen cars were sold here by Noel Singleton, used-car dealer, and one by Rube Washburn.

Those who had innocently purchased cars which were impounded here Friday:

Chester Castleberry, 1949 Ford Fordor.

Ralph Quinn, 1949 Chevrolet business coupe.

James Robertson, 1949 Mercury sedan.

Herman Britt, 1949 Ford sedan.

Law enforcement groups cooperating in the investigation here were New Mexico State Police, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Eddy County sheriff's forces, and Artesia police.

POT POURRI

It was a glorious day Saturday for Joseph Patrick McBurney 76 years prior to a day, birthday of his patron saint, St. Patrick. And besides, he recalled facts and many others himself.

It was who walked into the police station Wednesday week, a victim of amnesia complaining of a sore neck, though he had suffered a blow. I do not remember whence he came, who he was, how he got there, or anything else prior to realization a matter of minutes that he was lost and his memory was gone.

Thursday morning Pat was in a magazine at police quarters something about something clicked! He told me that he'd been in China some of the things he was told were familiar. Then he said he had been there with his wife many years ago and that he was a World War I veteran and served in both the Army and back in those years.

When he asked the prisoner if it was and was informed that it was March 16, the old fellow sparkled and he said he would be 76 years old, St. Patrick's Day. And then he remembered his name, which coincided with the printed name in the Testament which he had. He had been quite certain it was J. P. McBurney, but he had established anything else about it he did not know that was his name.

Continuing on his way, Pat told officers that he is at Shallow Water, Texas, that he was returning there from Tucumcari, when he found himself in Artesia.

He said he came to Artesia because he was lost and he hoped that St. Patrick's Day would help him find his way.

He said he was in Artesia unhappy about a yarn in the issue that there would be a "wearer" of the green on St. Patrick's Day, that the city revealed only five names with "O" and that there were only 75 in the "Me" category, some probably of Scotch descent.

He said some of the readers of his Irish up, thinking that they were slighting them. On the other hand, it still maintains that there is a relatively high number of them here. But those who are slighting the fact, as he said, shouldn't be!

He said the Old Shep's column in the Eddy County News, that he discovered the bird in the Lovington Leader. The Artesia Advocate that it is cheaper in Lovington than they are in Artesia.

He said it might be a little too late for Carlsbadites to drive to Artesia for cheaper grub, but we remind them that it's only a short drive from Carlsbad to Artesia, the same as it is from Artesia to the Eddy County seat, return, as it was recently pointed out in a little argument at the Fe.

Young Woman Is Slightly Injured As Train Hits Car

Guadalupe G. Cerros, 17, was injured, but not seriously, about 9:30 o'clock Saturday night, when north-bound Santa Fe freight train No. 3214 struck the stalled car in which she was sitting at a county road crossing four miles north of Artesia.

Alfredo Cerros, owner and driver of the car, was outside and was uninjured.

Cerros and another man were trying to push the stalled car back off the track when the train approached. It was facing east.

The car was struck by the left side of the pilot and was hurled about 20 feet from the nearest tire mark.

Deputy Sheriff Mark Walters said marks indicated the front of the car was not far on the track. The front of the car was badly damaged.

J. D. Locke, the conductor on the freight, hailed a passing car on Highway 285 and brought Miss Cerros to Guy Chevrolet Company, First and Main, from where an ambulance was called to take her to Artesia General Hospital.

Although it was feared by the engineer that she had a broken leg, it was found at the hospital Miss Cerros' most serious injury was a bad gash on one leg.

C. J. Craven, fireman, told Deputy Walters he saw the car stalled on the track at the train's left side shortly before it was struck and saw two men run back just before the crash.

The engineer was Willard Haragan. All members of the crew live at Clovis.

Donald E. Carson Makes Honor Roll At Tulane University

Donald E. Carson, a graduate from Artesia High School in 1948, made the honor roll of Tulane University, New Orleans, with his high scholastic record during the first semester of the 1950-51 school year, according to Robert W. French, dean.

In a letter from Dean French to T. Stovall, high school principal, he wrote:

"We feel that his good work here reflects the splendid training he received in your school and we hope to merit your continued interest in this college through the enrollment of your better students."

Maundy Thursday Ceremonies to Be Observed at Temple

Maundy Thursday ceremonies are to be observed at the Masonic Temple at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening by Scottish Rite Masons, it was announced by Chuck Aston, president of the Scottish Rite Club.

He said it obligatory for all Scottish Rite Masons to be present. After the ceremonies, there will be a banquet served in the basement of the Masonic Temple for all Scottish Rite Masons and their ladies.

E. M. Crouch Is Slightly Burned In Explosion

E. M. Crouch was burned on the face and arm about 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening, when oil fumes in a truck tank, partially filled with water, exploded as he sat on top to watch it fill, when the accident happened. The truck and tank had been used previously for hauling oil.

Crouch was hauling water for the Magnolia wildcat well south-west of Hope and had the tank about half filled, as he sat on top to watch it fill, when the accident happened. The truck and tank had been used previously for hauling oil.

The explosion, which was not severe, slightly burned Crouch's face and set his sleeve on fire. The sides of the tank were somewhat pulled in by the explosion, which went out of the top opening.

Crouch finished filling the tank with water and had started for the well, when he was met by his brother, Loy Crouch, who brought him to Artesia General Hospital for treatment. He was later dismissed.

Crouch is employed on the job by Lloyd Downey.

Clark's Lake to Be Improved For Recreation

An eight-point plan for improvement of Clark's Lake near Artesia was outlined in a talk at the regular monthly meeting of North Eddy County Game Protective Association, of which R. N. Russell is president.

New Mexico Game and Fish Department has received a report on developing Clark's Lake into a recreational area, members were told.

The proposal includes planting trees in a camping sector, constructing new wooden piers, putting up new steel-post fence, fireguard to be bladed around the site to provide draining ditch for water to trees to be planted by the association, enclosed steel post parking area, changing entrance to north-east corner, where camping and parking section will be located and providing garbage cans and toilets.

In another part of the program, held Wednesday, March 7, in the visual education room at the high school, four films on wild life protection and management were exhibited.

The association's eight-member patrol was recognized and commissions were issued. This patrol is under Deputy Game Warden L. W. (Speed) Simmons, recently comm.

Red Cross Drive Is Coming Slowly In North Eddy

The annual drive for funds by the North Eddy County chapter of the American Red Cross is coming along slowly, it was announced by Hollis G. Watson, campaign manager.

He said Monday only about $800 of the chapter's quota of $4800 had been turned in, although perhaps all donations to date had not been accounted for.

He said T. Stovall, Artesia High School principal, is in charge of contacting Artesia teachers for their individual contributions.

The hope was expressed that it will not be necessary to have a house-to-house canvass, but this will be resorted to if necessary, Watson said.

A. P. (Doc) Mahone, chapter chairman, said it is probable one reason for the slow response is that a number of people thought the Red Cross was a member of the Community Chest and they thought they had made their Red Cross contributions until approached during the current drive.

Contributions may be made by mailing checks to Fred Cole, chapter treasurer at the First National Bank of Artesia.

Vandals Damage Parking Meters Over Week End

Vandals have damaged a number of parking meters recently — at least 44 of them over the last week end, police reported.

To most of them, the damage was slight—the breaking out of one or both of the glass windows—but the clock works of some have been destroyed or nearly so.

The glass windows cost 30 cents apiece, but the meters installed cost the city $65 installed.

Although there have been some isolated instances of damage to the meters for a long time, the present wave of damage seems to have started last week, when a meter on the 300 block on Main Street was badly damaged. It appeared that the glass had been broken with some instrument and then further blows had been struck on the clock, making it useless.

Damage over the week end—presumed to have been Saturday and Sunday night—was done to at least 44 meters.

Fifteen of them were on Fourth Street from Quay Avenue to the alley, the entire length of the J. C. Penney Company store building.

Glasses on three had been broken in front of the Peoples State Bank. Seventeen more were broken in front of the Peoples State Bank.

Rocks and glass were found inside the various rooms of the new permanent part of Roselawn School, in which all of the damage was done. Windows were broken in both the north and south sides.

Which Twin Is Which?

Which twin is which? That's what one naturally wonders when looking at the two pairs of identical twins pictured here, of whom one of the elder pair is the grandfather of the younger twins, who will be 2 years old in June, and the other elder twin is a great-uncle of the babies. But before it gets too complicated: V. L. Gates of Artesia, left, is holding one of his twin grandsons, Rex Gates, while E. C. Gates of Billings, Mont., is holding his great-nephew, Johnny Gates. The twin boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Gates of Artesia.

FORD WINS AGAIN!

V-8 TAKES FIRST PLACE IN CLASS "A" 1951 MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN

Both Ford V-8 and SIX Deliver more than 25.9 miles per gallon

Gruelling 840-mile test proves Ford Economy

Again this year... it's high honors for Ford! In the most important economy trial for American stock model cars... the famous annual Mobilgas Economy Run... A Ford 100-h.p. V-8 equipped with Overdrive took first place competing against all cars in its price class, making 54,587 ton-miles per gallon and 25.994 miles per gallon. And its companion in quality, the new Ford SIX with Overdrive, was right up there with the winner. In fact, both cars averaged better than 25.9 miles per gallon.

Traditional Ford economy, for the second straight year, has been proved in open competition. Proved on the tough 840-mile grind from Los Angeles to the Grand Canyon... a course that included city traffic, below-sea-level desert heat and 7,000-foot mountain passes. Ford's Automatic Mileage Maker, standard equipment on all Ford V-8's and SIXES, contributed to this great achievement by squeezing the last mile out of every drop of gasoline.

Why not "Test Drive" the new Ford at your neighborhood Ford Dealer's? There's no better way to be convinced that "You can pay more but you can't buy better!"

*The AAA Contest Board determines the winner by a "ton-mile per gallon" formula to insure equal chances for all cars in each class regardless of size and weight. Ton-miles per gallon equals the car weight (including passengers) in tons, multiplied by number of miles travelled, divided by number of gallons of gasoline consumed.

Selling Clothing No Slipshod "Waiting on Customers" Deal

There's more to selling than the routine "waiting on customers." Maxine Frederick, Artesia High School distributive education student, learns all that goes into ladies ready to wear section of J. C. Penny Company, of which M. G. Schulze is manager.

When merchandise comes in it has to be marked, garments hung according to size, price tags fastened a specific way. Maxine also marks merchandise in other parts of the store, takes inventories, wraps merchandise purchased as gifts.

Dusty, disordered exhibits repel buyers. It's part of Maxine's job to see that merchandise is clean and neat, is shown that way, shown right and sold right, with courtesy and efficiency.

Small Producers Not Required To Register

Farmers and small ranchers are not required to register under the Office of Price Stabilization meat distribution order, but they have been directed to keep records and observe other specified regulations of the order, according to information released in Albuquerque by Roy S. Walker, district director for New Mexico.

"The fair distribution of livestock and meat order is a necessary step in the stabilization of the national economy to prevent a grave maldistribution of meat," Walker declared. "The order will prevent some areas receiving very large quantities for consumption while many densely populated sections, important to the national defense effort, receives inadequate supplies.

"We are confident the patriotic farmers and ranchers in New Mexico will lend their full cooperation in the success of this important program," Walker said.

SPORTS ON THE HOME FRONT

By BROWNIE EMERSON

Office of Education Boosts Idea Of More Sports for All Students

A physical education program which provides planned instruction in activities suited to sex, grade, ability and special needs of students. A well-rounded recreation program including provision for camping, outdoor education and other recreational and social activities which will carry over into after-school life.

These are two of the seven points outlined under "Health and Fitness for the Long Pull Ahead," written by Earl J. McGrath, Federal Security Agency, office of education. That goes right down the line of the sports for all deal I've long been boosting. Note the "other recreational and social activities which will carry over into after-school life."

Again this parallels my idea that sports should not be limited to youth, but that everyone, and I mean everyone, should take part in some kind of sport every day. Without health and the mental alertness that is sparked by sports, life has no zest. Moral virtues are closely interwoven into the cloth of athletics.

For Tomorrow McGrath says the "grave possibility exists that the present emergency may continue for a generation or longer. To meet its heavy obligation this nation must take steps to insure the conservation and most effective use of all its manpower."

"Educators have long held that our schools should provide children with the opportunity to grow in health and fitness."

The seven point program McGrath outlines is from professional associations, thru the National Conference for Mobilization of Education and the Federal Security Agency, Office of Education.

I think it significant to note the fifth proposal: "An administrative program which is concerned with healthful school living, the individual development of children and youth and the influence on mental and emotional health of such factors as daily program, testing, homework, methods of instruction, and standards for promotion."

Boiled down this means that it is time we quit treating children in school like assembly line products in a factory, that we provide sports for all, and that we get to work on their mental and emotional health, often impaired because of the mass production idea.

Parents Duty, Also All of this can't be accomplished without a plan and that plan must be put into action. It means thought and it means work. To put the whole load on the teachers is oozing out of responsibility.

Parents, too, must work on the deal. Too many children just grow up physically, are never adapted to the changes they will undergo, the problems they will encounter, because grown-ups weren't on the job.

To my mind the ideal type of mentor for youth is a replica of a good coach. He is strict in setting and enforcing rules and in getting the best out of his boys. He hates sloppy, slipshod performance.

He works all the time, but never beattles his boys. He represses the swell-heads and bolsters the latent courage of the timid and the discouraging.

When his instructions aren't followed he "cracks down." But when anyone attacks his boys, he comes back like a berserk tiger. He goes down the line 100 per cent for his crew and his crew goes down the line 100 per cent for him.

Win, lose or draw, he backs his outfit. Even when a boy is wrong he doesn't run out on him. And the deal works both ways.

Basketball Ratings Artesia ranks in third place in District 5 in the New Mexico High School Athletic Association "rating of schools by officials" published in the March bulletin of the organization.

High School Writer Praises Sport of Track

That track should receive more recognition is the opinion expressed by Charles Gibson, sports editor, in the latest issue of Artesia Hi Beacon, bi-weekly newspaper of the local high school.

"Track is one of the finest sports," says Gibson. "It takes much more training than most sports. There is no body contact but the boys have to be highly trained and physically fit."

"It is an individual sport mainly with exception of the relay. If the boys expect to receive any glory they have to do it themselves. They can't expect some teammate to help them out if they get in a jam."

Gibson lauds Coaches Reese Smith and H. Floyd Davis.

"Coach Smith is well liked, not only by the boys he coaches but by the entire school. He is capable and gets the work done without becoming a monarch over his boys."

"All in all he is one of the finest coaches in this institution. Another very fine coach, Floyd Davis also coached football and was head basketball coach."

Computed on the same basis as football, the association tabulates how basketball officials rate. Items mentioned most frequently as needing improvement:

Quickness and sureness of decision. Strictness and consistency in decisions and interpretations. Agility in following the play. Self control and poise. Promptness and business like attitude.

The key on rating was five for superior, four for above average, three average. Below average counted two, poor one.

William S. Bennett of Artesia rated 4.0, of fourth on the list of 13 in the district. At the top was Harry Mills of Roswell, 4.4.

Complete Standings Harry Mills, Roswell, 4.4; Ray Barton, Dunlap, 4.2; Bryon White, Roswell, 4.1; W. S. Bennett, ARTESIA, 4.0; Preston Wilson, Roswell, 3.9; Randall Ryde, Roswell, 3.9; Paul Kerley, ARTESIA, 3.8; Rosco Fletcher, Dexter, 3.7; A. D. Hundley, Dexter, 3.6; Jim Marberry, Roswell, 3.5; Phillip Reed, Roswell, 3.5; C. A. Astin, ARTESIA, 3.4; Guy L. Casey, Dexter, 3.3.

Over the 15 districts in the state the zenith, five, superior, was attained by four:

District 2—Robert Kelson, Las Vegas. District 3—Delos Botone, Albuquerque. District 4—R. B. Orgas, Silver City.

District 12—James Stackpole, Socorro.

Books and Films From the New Mexico High School Athletic Association, of which Morris W. Ward, Roswell, is executive secretary, is available track and baseball rules books.

Two baseball films are in stock, "Baseball Today," and one on the 1950 World Series. Rental fee is the first is $4; on the second $2 a showing.

Tourney Dates Published once before but because fans may want to recall are these dates:

District track, April 23. State track, Albuquerque, May 4-5. State baseball, Las Vegas, May 11-12.

District baseball, set by each district. Bi-district baseball, set by winner of districts.

Tennis and golf, same dates as track.

Cleaning Out the Tray One of those quirks that pop up ever so often resulted in red-faced chagrin last Tuesday when a Girl Scout yarn happened to make a salient into this column.

By the way, just what part does sports play in the Girl Scout program in Artesia? Would like info on this.

See where the New Mexico Sports Writers Association is seeking members so my application sent in today.

Here's hoping the Travelers take the crown in the national AAU basketball marathon in the Mile High City. The team has given Artesia plenty of publicity this year. I'd like to see a mark of appreciation shown.

A banquet with plenty of good food and the speeches cut to the minimum, plus some good lively music, and perhaps some gifts to the players would be an ideal set-up.

No Background Yet While the mystery of L. F. D., one of the teams that played in the third annual eighth graders basketball tournament here has been solved to the extent that the triple initials stand for "Littlefield," there has been no information forthcoming to date as to "Littlefield's" identity, extent of the ranch, and other salient details. Still not heard is any definition of the origin of East Grand Plains.

Confusion Plus Chanced to talk to a 1950 Bulldog gridster Saturday. He's vexed at all the talk of who is going to be drafted and who isn't.

With all the talk and little action in Washington, it's no wonder the boy is confused. There's plenty of chatter but no policy set on the whole defense deal. No one knows what Washington will do.

It's a weird situation that finds American men being killed in Korea, yet there's no declaration of war. Seems to me Uncle Sam is the Patsy for the blood and the cash to keep the United Nations in business. And the United Nations didn't nip the Russian-inspired Korean trap.

Either we should have all-out war or pull out of Korea, in my opinion. Personally I incline to pulling out but in either case I favor universal military training, building and maintaining a strong army, navy, and air force, and not junking millions of dollars worth of tanks, planes, and camps as we did at the end of World War II, then rushing around trying to replenish what we foolishly wasted.

Optimism On Baseball From the Roswell Rocket Baseball Club comes information that officials have set 100,000 at the 1951 attendance goal. During the last season the Rockets drew 82,000. The Rockets 1951 season opens April 20. Like the Drillers they are in the Longhorn League.

In the West Texas-New Mexico League there are four towns that maintain a 100,000 attendance record.

It Takes Money Even amateur sports cost money. Over in Carlsbad the munny rec association has been informed by the community chest organization that a shortage of chest cash may cut into summer playground projects.

Only 80 per cent of the chest quota was raised. The minimum figure on which to operate.

Last season the Skuls played 12 games, winning five, losing seven.

Calo Orona, a shortstop on the old Carlsbad Lions nine, is captain of the Skuls.

The Carlsbad team's tryout roster includes: Danny Orano, Leonidas Habrio, Joe Doport, pitchers; Ray Chavaria, Manuel Martinez, catchers; Saggie Najar, Steve Yturralde, first base; Felix Sungia, Romeo Lopez, second base; Pete Jasco, Joe Saigado, third base; Joe Saldana, Calo Orona, shortstop; Frank Dominguez, T. Either we should have all-out war or pull out of Korea, in my opinion. Personally I incline to pulling out but in either case I favor universal military training, building and maintaining a strong army, navy, and air force, and not junking millions of dollars worth of tanks, planes, and camps as we did at the end of World War II, then rushing around trying to replenish what we foolishly wasted.

Optimism On Baseball From the Roswell Rocket Baseball Club comes information that officials have set 100,000 at the 1951 attendance goal. During the last season the Rockets drew 82,000. The Rockets 1951 season opens April 20. Like the Drillers they are in the Longhorn League.

In the West Texas-New Mexico League there are four towns that maintain a 100,000 attendance record.

It Takes Money Even amateur sports cost money. Over in Carlsbad the munny rec association has been informed by the community chest organization that a shortage of chest cash may cut into summer playground projects.

Only 80 per cent of the chest quota was raised. The minimum figure on which to operate.

Where's The Gunnery? Some time ago I heard from a group of sportsmen who like to bang away with rifles but nary a whisper has come from them since that time.

Up in the Centennial State rifle clubs are in full swing this year. Durango's Gun Club took first place honors in a four-man three-state 22 pistol team match, posting 12,948 points to lead second place Colorado Springs by 1122. Colorado Springs mark was 11,826.

Tennis Round-Up Don Johnson, Carlsbad High School senior and captain of the Cavemen netters, had been to win over Jody Williams of Artesia in the battle here Saturday but Jody came thru to win in three sets. Johnson was district singles champ last year, tied with Warty Gibson of Artesia for third in state.

Oddity of the Whitefield-Holt bout was that the Artesia player won this time by the same score, 6-0, 6-0, by which he lost last year.

This is Doug Whitefield's first year on the varsity.

Lobo Gridiron Squad for 1951 Totals Only 54

With the spring test of Lobo fortunes this fall coming up in the form of the annual intrasquad game, Lobo mentor Dud DeGroot yesterday took a conservative look at what has developed so far on the practice fields.

"For whatever reason," DeGroot said, "there seems to be a lot less interest this year than last. When I came to Albuquerque last spring for the beginning of practice there were 127 candidates for the team, this year there are 54."

Another dark spot on the UNM grid horizon is the dearth of lettermen—the core around which a team must be built. Last fall 20 varsity letter holders were on hand, but only seven are eligible to return this year and some of them fall into the fatal I-A classification. Just how many will survive the summer months is impossible to predict.

Seven Veterans The seven lettermen slated to return are among the best players the Lobos were able to field last year. On the '51 list are Chuck Hill, who last season broke the national record on kickoff returns Roger Cox, big, fast Farmington halfback, Dick Brett, who saw little action at the halfback spot last year and has been boosted to an end position, veteran center Don Mulkey, Amarillo, Clovis' guard Don Litchfield, fast-talking Harold Brock, another veteran center from Stafford, Kans., and Albuquerque's J. D. Coggins, at guard.

"We're going to have to depend a lot on new men," DeGroot stated, "primarily those up from last year's frosh. Also we'll be leaning heavily on our New Mexico high school seniors who are slated to be here this fall. Just who we can use immediately and who will have to get a little seasoning in college competition, there is no telling until we see how they work in this September."

How Squad Looks The scrimmages so far this spring have all been from the varsity view. Candidates for the single berths by positions shape up about like this:

Tailback—Top halfback on the '50 squad Chuck Hill is the high dog in this position, showing a lot of improvement over last season. Chuck will probably be calling the plays this fall.

Giving Chuck a run for his money are West Virginia transfer Bob Arnett, rated as a promising runner and kicker on the tricky side. John Watson, former Hobbs fullback whose leg injury, which last season kept him out of all but one game, is nearly ready to go again, and Bernard Brown, newcomer from Pampa, Texas.

Fullback—Fast, aggressive Roger Cox, Farmington, gets the nod at fullback with the battle for second spot pretty well tied up between Socorro's Merv McSmith, Albuquerque's Dave Matthews, who is developing as a passing threat, and Lowell Trumbull, another newcomer from Guadalupita, N. M., transferring to UNM from NMMI.

Blocking back—Sam Suplizio, DuBois, Pa., up from last year's Wolfpup squad, rates number one at the vital blocking back position followed closely by Chuck Koskovic, another ex-frosh, Mike Prokpiak, West Virginia transfer, and Gene Hill from Alamogordo.

Wing Back—Veteran Glenn Campbell, Farmington, leads the pack for the wing position from the single wing. Backing him up are Floyd Bowers, up from the frosh, Herb Grossman, ex-AHS griddler, Harry Wray, Harley Lovitt, Citrus JC transfer, and Ralph Black.

Ends—Ex-halfback Dick Brett, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Monument's Lewis Crosswell look like the two ends who'll see most action this spring but the ends are deep this year with ex-Bulldog center Miles Brittle working well in his new position, backed by Bud Puchalski, a transfer from California's St. Mary's College, which recently dropped football. Don Dunning, transfer from John Carroll University in Ohio, and two strong contenders up from Willis Barnes' freshman squad. Al Gibson and Don Hyder, both former AHS stars.

Adding needed depth at the ends are veteran Jim Keenan, Horace Morris, L.P. junior college transfer, and Santa Fe's Don Morse, who joined the squad late because of his participation with the frosh basketball team.

Tackles—Veterans Jack Barger and Roger Bailey are contending for the right tackle slot with former freshmen Don Blair, Toledo, Ohio, and Jack Eaton, El Paso in dubious battle on the plains of UNM for left. Reserves at tackle include veteran Don Anderson, ex-Pups Tom Bryce, Dick Krukowski, and George Burcher, and Lasalle-Peru JC transfer Bill Rettko.

Guards—Andy Morales, brother of well-remembered Manny Morales, and veteran varsity member Don Litchfield are tied up for the left guard hole with excellent reserves in letterman J. D. Coggins of Albuquerque and Wolfpup Ralph Matteucci, also from the Duke City.

New Ownership Setup For Drillers Presented

Present status of Artesia professional baseball was presented to a group of 100 fans at a supper at 7 o'clock last night in the high school cafeteria.

Basis of the deal is that Dr. Marshall Dyke, owner of the Drillers, has been notified that he will be recalled into the armed forces within six weeks.

He has proposed to sell two-thirds of his interest in the club to local business men, retaining one-third. To effect such a transfer formation of a corporation has been proposed.

Stockholders would elect officers. It had been suggested that Artesia Sports Enterprises, Inc., already set up, might be the nucleus or the medium itself for the new setup.

Exactly what plan was to be outlined last night at the supper was not definitely stated at present time.

The steps leading to last night's supper were three sessions of ball fans at which the whole ball situation was reviewed.

Howard Whitson was chairman of the committee in charge of the night's forum. Other members were Wayne Faulin, Fred Brainerd, Ralph Nix, Harvey Yates, Guy, and Hollis Watson.

Attending the series of supper meetings, also not all were present at all sessions.

Bulldogs Third On Roswell Grid Schedule of '51

Artesia will be third on the schedule of the Roswell High School Coyote football team this autumn. The game will be played Sept. 21 in Roswell. Last year the Bulldogs blanked the Coyotes 28 to 0 in a game played on Artesia's Morris Field.

There are 11 games on the Coyote card, four at home, seven away.

Opening the season the Coyotes play Las Cruces Bulldogs in the Dona Ana capital on Sept. 7 while the curtain dropper will be a Thanksgiving day battle with the Carlsbad Cavemen, 1950 New Mexico high school grid champions, in the Chaves County capital, Nov. 22.

The complete Coyote schedule, announced by Poe Corn, Roswell High School athletic director.

Sept. 7—Las Cruces, there. Sept. 14—Ysleta in Roswell. Sept. 21—ARTESIA in Roswell. Sept. 28—St. Mary at Roswell. Oct. 5—Hobbs in Hobbs. Oct. 12—Portales in Roswell. Oct. 19—Tucuman in Roswell. Oct. 26—Clovis in Clovis. Nov. 2—El Paso in Roswell. Nov. 9—St. Michael at Santa Fe. Nov. 22—Carlsbad in Roswell.

Carlsbad Jumper Sets Long Mark

Bulldog tracksters, take note. The powerful Carlsbad Cavemen are after your scalps this season.

Coaches Ralph Bowyer and Reid McCloskey have a 50-man squad that includes four lettermen and a quintet from the 1950 crew. That doesn't sound so potent, only nine vets out of the 50, but listen:

In recent workouts, Don Ball soared 20 feet 10 inches in the broad jump and Fred Mahaffey ran the 75-yard practice sprint in 8.1 seconds.

Mahaffey, Bill Sawey, Ball, and Worth Coalsen comprised a team that ran the 440-yard relay in 48.3.

Ray Bruton, a miler, did a shuffle, switched to a practice 440 and ran it in 57.3 seconds.

The Cavemen will compete in the Fort Summer Fox Relays April 14, at Hobbs April 21, San Jacinto Day, and in the District 5 junior Olympics here on April 28.

Cavemen lettermen are Ronnie Jaeger, discus; John Pack, hurdles; Bruton, miler; Mahaffey, sprints and broad jump. Squad members back from the 1950 aggregation are Jim Miller, javelin; Coalsen, 220 and shot put; Sawey, sprints; Ball sprints; and Jim Spencer, 440 and relay.

Traveler Five Start on Long Road to Crown

Artesia's champion Central Valley Electric basketball team swung into its thirty-second game of its season last night when it clashed with the Peoria, Ill., quintet in the National Amateur Athletic Association tournament in Denver.

The week long tourney opened Sunday. Forty-one teams will wade thru the melees for the national crown.

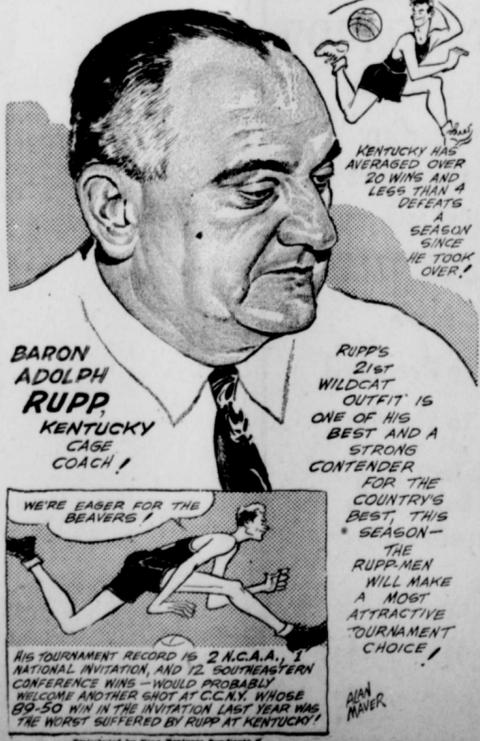

Central Valley's Travelers won the right to participate when they took the state title at Las Cruces. They previously had won the District 5 crown in the district title here.

coach from West Virginia, and Pete Shaffer of Pueblo, Colo.

Centers—Don Mulkey, about the only first-stringer left from last season with the exception of Hill and Cox, rates another starting berth this year. Harold Brock, Stafford, Kans., and two center up from the freshman team—Jim Riggs and Jack O'Rourke—give needed depth to the middle of the line.

There may be some shifts from one position to another where strength is more needed, DeGroot said, but in general the ratings will hold true up and including the Cherry and Silver contest March 30.

Four Game Bills Are Passed By 20th Legislature

The following is a summary of the action taken by the 20th Legislature relative to various bills which affect the State Department of Game and Fish.

Senate Bill 26, authorizing boys who are wards of the court at the Industrial School at Springer to fish in waters located on the school property without license.

House Bill 65, authorizing the state to participate in benefits of the Dingell-Johnson Bill providing federal aid in fisheries projects.

House Bill 194, as amended by the Senate, designed to prevent hunting accidents, making it illegal to handle a gun carelessly, recklessly or with wanton disregard of human life or property and authorizing withholding of license privileges for 10 years from anyone who wounds another and forever from anyone who kills another.

House Bill 321, preventing the throwing of the rays of a spotlight in game areas or pastures while having firearms in the car. This will help immensely in preventing the illegal killing of deer and livestock at night.

The following bills were killed: Senate Bill 75, making cottontail rabbits game animals.

House Bill 193, clarifying the authority of deputy game wardens and other officers in making searches and seizures.

House Bill 322, requiring cold storage and locker plants to keep a good record of game and fish placed in storage.

Other bills not sponsored by the Game Department affecting fish and wildlife which were killed: Senate Bill 53, making it illegal for person who posts his lands against hunting and fishing by the general public to hunt or fish on his own posted land.

House Bill 53 would have prevented posting of more than 50 per cent of state leased land by lessee and contained other good conservation measures. This bill was favored by the game associations and the Department of Game and Fish.

Several other bills relating to posting of state lands were killed. House Bill 197, would have set up a forest fire prevention and suppression cooperative program.

Six Quarters of Coverage Needed For Benefits

Workers who have reached the age of 65 years can now qualify for old-age insurance benefits if they have at least six "quarters of coverage," according to Ralph H. Yowell, field representative of the Roswell office of the Social Security Administration. A quarter of coverage is any calendar quarter after 1936 in which a worker was paid wages of at least $50 for employment covered by the Social Security Act.

The present eligibility requirements went into effect on Sept. 1, 1950, and apply only to workers who were living on that date. Persons who died before September had to meet the requirements of the old law in order for their survivors to receive benefits.

Yowell said the new law permits eligible workers who are 75 or older to draw benefits without retiring. The law permits beneficiaries between the ages of 65 and 75 to earn as much as $50 per month without losing benefits, and removes the restriction for those more than 75.

Claims must be filed before any payments can be made. Delay in filing might result in a loss of benefits, as payments can be made retroactively for not more than six months. Therefore, any person who became eligible when the new law went into effect last September 1 should file his claim before April 1, 1951, in order to prevent a loss of benefits. Claims should be filed with Social Security Administration, Roswell, or with Yowell when he is in Artesia Tuesday morning, March 27. He will be at the New Mexico State Employment Service Office, Ward Building, between 10 o'clock and noon.

He was not a rare trumpeter swan, as Bob Koonce, manager of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce, thought, but rather one of the more common whistlers. A study of certain differences in the two kinds of swan, which we will not go into, settled the point.

The swan still showed evidence of the dirty blue-gray markings of the cygnet but soon would have been the pure white swan.

Incidentally, that was another hint which we gave, when we said the bird belonged to the only group of white waterfowl which

It's all a matter of relativity for at one time they were seen by the millions and wintered in many valleys in the South and Southwest, whereas today the Pecos Valley is one of the only two wintering places for the remaining crane. But we will admit the valley farmers hardly think of them as being nearly extinct.

Bob McCaw, who read what we said about the streets which was oiled some months ago and which are nearly unrecognizable by anything less than a goat or burro, recalled that many blocks in Artesia were oiled 12 to 15 years ago, with the same sad results.

But the memory of man is short, Bob contends, or perhaps, as he says "Just a new bunch of suckers."

ment of Agriculture recently announced. This is 17 1/2 times as much as was purchased in fiscal year 1940.

Total cost of purchased power was $61,500,000—an average of 0.86 cents per kilowatt-hour, down fractionally from 0.89 cents in fiscal year 1949.

Purchased power does not constitute the entire input of energy of REA-financed systems. In addition to the power purchased during fiscal 1950, REA borrowers used another 466 million kilowatt-hours which they generated themselves.

The average wholesale price paid to publicly-owned suppliers, including municipalities and such federal agencies as TVA, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Southwestern Power Administration, and the Bonneville Power Administration, was 0.63 cents per kilowatt-hour, compared with 0.67 cents in fiscal 1949.

As in the past years, the lowest averages of wholesale costs were in Tennessee, Nevada, Washington, Idaho, and Oregon, where most of the power came from public agencies.

Consumers connected to REA-financed lines at the close of the fiscal year numbered more than three and a fourth million. The 1070 REA borrowers include 980 co-operatives, 41 public power districts, 24 other public bodies and 25 commercial power companies.

New Mexico FHA Paid-Up Borrowers Increase Production 119 Per Cent

New Mexico farmers paying off Farmers Home Administration operating loans last year increased the annual value of their farm production from $2195 to $4818, or 119 per cent, during the six years they were aided by supervised credit, Glen Grisham, state director of Farmers Home Administration, Albuquerque, reported.

This gain was achieved in a period when the increase in value of farm products for the nation as a whole was 21 per cent.

The report also showed improvement in the borrowers' financial position, land tenure situation, and living standards.

The 235 paid-up borrowers included in the study received loans averaging $2588 to enable them to make improvements and adjustments in their farming and strengthen their position as family-farm operators. Loans were accompanied by help from Farmers Home Administration local supervisors in achieving balanced operations, efficient production methods, soil conservation, and adequate income for family living needs as well as for debt payments.

These families made their final repayments in 1950 and are continuing to farm. Total interest paid on their loans averaged $270. Although none of the farmers had enough security to qualify from other sources at the time they applied to the Farmers Home Administration, most of them are now in a position to finance their work without further borrowing credit sources.

In 1950 their average net worth—value of everything they owned minus any indebtedness—averaged $7033. Before receiving operating loans their average net worth was $3325.

About 35 families in this group became owners of farm land while working with the agency. Farm owners and part-owners in the group rose from 39 to 73 per cent.

Because of higher production and greater security on the land, the borrowers have been able to improve their homes. When they first applied for loans, only 26 per cent had electricity, 21 per cent had running water, 20 per cent had refrigerators, and 27 per cent had washing machines. By 1950, 64 per cent had electricity, 48 per cent had running water, 60 per cent had refrigerators, and 62 per cent had washing machines.

These families paid about $10,000 in real and personal property taxes in 1950.

Windbreakers Can Be Beneficial In Many Ways

Windbreaks around farm buildings can be beneficial in many ways, if properly managed, County Agent Dallas Rierson said, pointing out that now is a good time to set out trees and shrubs in Eddy County. Among the advantages of farmstead windbreaks, according to the county agent, are improved appearances, reduced fuel bills, and protection for the home and livestock against wind and sandstorms by reducing wind velocities.

"It's a good idea to plan carefully, considering all the advantages and disadvantages before transplanting," Rierson said.

He lists as disadvantages: Reduction in cash crop yields by a sapping and shading effect on plants close by, piling up of weeds resulting in sand drifts, and plant roots may buckle concrete or plug pipes or drains.

"The disadvantages can be corrected to some extent by careful planning, such as selecting deep rooted plants rather than shallow rooted ones planting at least 100 feet away from buildings, avoiding pipes and drains, and keeping tumbweeds from accumulating under the break," Rierson explains.

"The most effective windbreaks enclose at least two windward sides of the farmstead. A good windbreak should include hardwoods and evergreens for year-round protection. For best results, a cross-section of the break should look somewhat like a pitched roof, with close growing shrubs in front and taller trees in the center. But, of course, its not best to put windbreaks around buildings if valu-

Producer Pays Indirectly for Shipping Losses

Whenever livestock are bruised or crippled in shipment, the producer pays for the losses indirectly, County Agent Dallas Rierson explained this week. Producers are not always to blame for the tremendous bruise loss throughout the country, he says, but they pay for it just the same.

"Market prices would be higher if bruise losses were lower," Rierson points out. "Packers know where damaged animals keep coming from and they pay less from these sources."

The county agent says that the following precautions will help to reduce costly waste, as well as shrinkage, in cattle shipments:

Dehorn cattle, preferably when young.

Remove projecting nails, splinters, and broken boards from feed racks and fences.

Keep old machinery, trash, and any bruising obstacles out of feed lots.

Do not feed grain heavily to cattle just prior to loading.

Use good loading chutes, not too steep.

Bed with sand, free from stones, to prevent slipping during shipment.

Cover sand with straw in cold weather.

Provide covers for trucks to protect cattle from sun in summer and cold in winter.

Always partition mixed loads to separate classes of livestock.

Remove protruding nails, bolts, or any sharp objects from truck or cars.

Load cattle slowly to prevent crowding against corners and to avoid excitement. Do not overload.

Use canvas slappers instead of clubs or canes.

Tie all bulls in trucks or cars.

Place bull board in position and

More Than Just Desire

EVERY NOW AND THEN the question comes up regarding the creation and the establishment of a daily newspaper for Artesia.

It is only a natural desire on the part of a growing city to have a daily newspaper, largely because other cities have daily newspapers. And there are those unfamiliar with the cost, expense and the work which go into a daily newspaper who feel that one should be established.

They base the need of the daily paper strictly on the desire for a daily paper and not on the basis of whether it can and will be a paying proposition.

The first need, of course, for a daily paper is circulation. Circulation is necessary for the advertisers and to determine the advertising rate, although only approximately 20 per cent of the gross income of any newspaper comes from its subscriptions.

The real need for a newspaper to pay—provide all the overhead costs and a return on the work and investment—is display advertising local and national. Then added to this is income from classified advertising and from legal advertising.

These are the only sources of revenue a newspaper has. The publishing of a newspaper is a little different from other business in that the cost is constant whether the paper has plenty of advertising or little advertising.

There is no way to reduce the number of employees, the amount of work to be done, the amount of newsprint needed, the cost of delivery, mail costs and other overhead items, power, ink, metal, rent, lights and incidental costs.

So a successful daily newspaper needs sufficient business, not one day a week or two days a week, but every day the paper is published—sufficient business to cover the cost and provide something for the owner or owners on their investment.

Those cities which have daily newspapers need a good or at least a fair paper—carrying a reasonable amount of advertising—not just one or two days per week but every day the paper is published.

Most small dailies are equipped and prepared to get out a six or an eight-page newspaper. They can do this without extra help and without overtime.

They can publish the eight-page paper six days a week if need be at no extra cost. But increase this to 10 or 12 pages—then it takes more help, involves more costs and overtime.

In several cities in our own state, newspapers are published daily but one would judge that the merchants and business people only want a weekly or a twice a week since they only have advertising in the paper on one or two days. Then, too, they, the merchants, want all of their advertising in the same issue.

They are little concerned whether the newspaper is a paying proposition—they merely want it to exist to be available when they need it.

The newspaper publishing five or six issues a week and only having sufficient advertising on which they make money one or two days a week would be far better off if the advertising going into the one or two issues was scattered over six days a week. They are prepared to handle that and at no extra cost and without overtime.

But all communities with daily newspapers pay the cost of the paper and provide the profit of the owner. Either this is the case or the paper does not last long.

Newspapers are like any other private business firm—they are engaged in business to earn a return on their investment and on their gamble of operating a private business.

Only those newspapers in fields large enough to support them so they can pay good wages, hire all the help they need, pay their costs and expenses and be able to make contributions to their community, are of any value to their city.

It takes considerable more than merely wanting a daily newspaper to insure its success and to provide the kind and type of a daily newspaper a growing, prosperous community desires.—O.E.P.

The Wonderful Wizards

THE WONDERFUL WIZARDS OF WASHINGTON are after the oil industry again—or perhaps we should say still.

They seem to think that when an oil man or a group of oil men or a big operating company—it makes no difference which—brings in an oil well that the money starts flowing in in great quantity.

The attitude seems to be that all is gravy in the oil business, that all oil men are rich or are well on the way to getting rich.

The oil men of Artesia, both those who have prospered and those who continually struggle to make a decent living at it, will tell you this is not so.

The powers in Washington are again trying to cut the depletion allowable of 27½ per cent. This time they would cut it to 15 per cent, whereas it probably should be raised to 30 per cent or more.

The reason is that the members of Congress and others in Washington do not understand depletion allowable or the reason for it having ever been allowed. Most people outside the oil industry think it is merely a tax loophole.

Let us quote a bit from Petroleum Newsletter, sponsored by Core Laboratories, Inc.:

"The facts not only defend the oil industry's retention of the present depletion allowance, but prove that instead of being reduced, it should be increased.

"The cost of exploration for new sources of oil supply in 1950, necessitated by the depletion of oil in proven underground reservoirs, actually comprised 33.3 per cent of the total value of working interest crude oil production in the United States. Total expenditures for exploration in 1950 aggregated $1,432,550,000, out of the combined oil producers' working interest production value of $4,302,323,750.

"Furthermore, during the last seven years, 1944-50, expenditures for exploration have aggregated $6,802,777,000, while the combined value of working interest oil production has amounted to $21,361,390,000.

"This means that expenditures for exploration have averaged 31.3 per cent of the oil value, whereas the statutory depletion allowance has been limited to 27½ per cent."

In all fairness, the depletion allowance should at least remain at 27½ per cent, if not raised.—A.L.B.

Indirect bribery is what influences many of our men and women of wealth when they consider the impact of any legislation.

Criminals, according to report, are invading legitimate business fields where they threaten to introduce the tactics of the gangster.

THE WAY HE FEELS ABOUT IT

What Other Editors Are Saying

YOU MAY LEARN FROM HIM

You've heard it before. Perhaps you've said it yourself. It's that common phrase: "Why print editorials . . . nobody reads 'em."

That's about what Lovell Nyce, editor-manager of the Harvard (Ill.) Herald, said one issue last month. He said it in an editorial which asked his readers, "Do you want this department of opinion and creative writing in your newspaper or do you not?"

And the readers answered—immediately.

An area political figure wrote: "You mention the possibility of discontinuing your editorials. I should not like to see you do this. Your editorials have been interesting and instructive."

"It is no easy job to write good editorials but I think it is a public service which a good newspaperman should be willing to give to his community. Editorials need not be dogmatic and should not be, but if they are the result of careful study they will help many people clarify their own thinking even if the same people do not always agree with the editor's conclusions . . ."

A Chicagoan wrote Mr. Nyce:

"A community newspaper with an editorial policy and an editor who writes what he sincerely thinks is as indispensable to a community as the air it breathes. Subscribers and readers cannot possibly agree with every opinion the editor voices but they, at least, have the opportunity of seeing the editor's opinion in print and know all the other readers will see the same thing.

"When he is right, there is usually silent approval and he hears nothing.

"Maybe it is this thunderous silence which causes your doubts . . . At any rate, register my vote for continuing an aggressive editorial policy—and when you advocate something I don't like, you'll hear from me plenty."

Mr. Nyce learned his lesson. He observed, in another editorial, "we feel more at liberty to go ahead with our discussions."

Perhaps his study can help you feel "more at liberty," too. It is obvious, readers want it.—Publisher's Auxiliary.

FIGURES ARE NOT ALWAYS TRUTHFUL

Various statistics of the 1950 census are now being put out piece-meal or distorted. We have read in several publications where taking the total national income and dividing by the population number we get an average of about $3100 for each person. From this average is built up a wonderfully beautiful picture of the state of the populace. The sad part of this is that the income is top heavy in the higher income brackets and some 10 million family units have $3000 on down to way less than one thousand dollars income. Five million units have less than $1000. This some of the sad things the census tells. This is the sort of statistics the 20 stalwart GOP senators tried their darn'dst to eliminate from the census quiz for very obvious reasons.—Alamogordo News.

ADIOS ESPANOL

The Spanish language is about to be ruled out of New Mexico without benefit of legislation. The supreme court, by regulation, has held that it is no longer required to publish certain legal notices in Spanish. The comptroller has stricken the appropriation for the publication of the session laws in Spanish.

Spanish is the primary language of a considerable part of the New Mexico population.

If these people are to be denied notice of threatening legal action in their own legal language it seems it should be handled by legislation rather than regulation. Throughout New Mexico there are scores of justice of peace courts conducted in the Spanish language and with the Spanish interpretation of the laws. The Spanish texts serve not only the scores of peace justices but the hundreds of litigants in their courts.

Translating the laws to Spanish and the publication of legal notices in Spanish are practices that should be changed only by legislation. They are not subjects for judicial or executive regulation.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Combination of a central agency representing the State Corporation Commission and the Economic Development Commission's traffic bureau as proposed to Gov. Mechem by Robert McKinney, chairman of the EDC, should be a step in the right direction to obtain lower freight rates for New Mexico.

The EDC traffic bureau has made a thorough study of the rate situation and are prepared to give facts and figures. However, they have no authority as far as the state is concerned.

The Corporation Commission has that authority, but is not practically equipped to dig up the necessary information to present to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

By working together, there is a good chance that freight rates may be re-classified in this state and made lower.—Hobbs News-Sun.

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—I have at hand some figures that prove conclusively a long-standing claim: this is the dirtiest city in the world.

The figures are from Dr. Wallace E. Howell, whose grasp on fame to date has been for a man who different reason. Dr. Howell is the celebrated rain-maker, who went a-seeding clouds in the spring last year in an effort to induce rain to fall and fill our depleted reservoirs. Considerable fell, whether or not Dr. Howell had anything to do with it, but what he did induce, according to last reports, was a flock of lawsuits from unhappy farmers whose lands allegedly were flooded.

According to Dr. Howell, New York sends up a shower of soot that amounts in a year's time to 354,000 tons. It comes down over a 40-mile radius which means that even the chaotic and quiet streets of Greater New York's assorted suburbs are regularly covered with ash dust.

Actually, much of this barrage of mashed cinders is sent up by water-front industries in New Jersey, just across the Hudson. Prevailing westerly winds pick it up as it sifts out of the stacks and carry it surely and directly to Manhattan and its environs for pinpoint bombing. Another offender is the Consolidated Edison company's generating plant on the middle East Side. With Jersey one side and Con Ed on the other, Manhattan is caught in a crossfire.

Dr. Howell's figures, however, are only part of an overall picture. Dozens of assorted sources, chief among them being the human, dirty-slob one, combine to make New York a hotbed of dirt. Inevitably, this is the one feature about the city that stuns and appals visitors or new residents of the town. "The dirt!" they wail. "Do you ever do about the dirt?" The answer is, naturally, "No." It exists and we are used to it, and when we live here long enough we cannot picture a world without it. It would, however, be strange to point to say we actually come to love it in time.

IT IS ABOUT TIME FOR A BRIEF GUIDE to the theater, those out-of-towners who are planning visits to New York in the future and want to know what hit plays they will want to see (won't be able to get tickets for). Guys and Dolls, of course, is a masterpiece; the word is out that they are selling seats for one price now for it. Just dream of it wistfully.

A mediocre Cole Porter score takes some of the sting from One This World, but a young actor named Billy Redfield and an actress named Charlotte Greenwood give it some substance. There are some skillful performances being given in plays which amount to nothing by themselves—notably Celeste Holm in Affairs of the Rex Harrison in Bell, Book and Candle and Clive Brook in Sea and Sundry. The acting of the season is being done by Claude Rains. He gives a tremendous, violent, taut performance in Arthur Koopman and Darkness at Noon. When I last looked, Margaret Webster was giving a splendid performance as a nun detective in The High Gate abetted by Alfred Hitchcock's daughter Patricia but not by the others.

As for the rest of after-dark life in town—the best musical town remains at Le Ruban Bleu (the Norman Paris Trio); a virtuoso named Buck Clayton is on hand at a new 54th street place named The Embers, which has become Tallulah Bankhead's away from home; Billy Eckstine is making a limited appearance with his thrashy tonsils at the Copacabana, and there are always ball games at the Garden to bet on, you fool you.

SPEAKING OF MISS BANKHEAD, incidentally—the man about the most fascinating person in town, conversationally, has just been responsible for the flattest, most unmusical, most phony phonograph record ever made. This is her strange version You Go to My Head, a song which Billie Holiday once made practically immortal and which Miss B. tries her hardest to tear to shreds. If you know D from F sharp, it is agonizing to sit and listen to pianist behind Tallulah—her favorite, Joe Bushkin, I believe—struggle to keep pace with her changes of key and tempo. The constant opinion here is that Miss B., having discovered radio, should retire there.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ONE OF THE underground jokes about the U.S.S.R. was that big-shots installed there all possessed of some strange quality. Molotov, for instance, kept a big spittoon on top of his desk, explaining, "It's my spittoon and I'll put it where I please." Gromyko, home from Washington, had a chair suspended from the ceiling. "What business is it of anybody else?" he belittled. "It's my chair and I'll put it where I please."

Completely bewildered by these, and similar antics, the visitor finally was introduced by Joe Stalin himself, and in the course of the interview asked the Big Chief why he tolerated such idiosyncrasies on the part of his subordinates. "Don't pay any attention to them," chuckled Stalin. "Confidentially, they're all idiots." "If you know they're idiots," persisted the visitor, "why do you make them your principal commissars?" Stalin jumped up in a rage. "They're my idiots," roared, "and I'll put them where I please."

may only be voted at regular city elections. Why not?

Since the reader is free, white and past 21, the chief value of this summary is that it makes an excellent pin-up, to stimulate occasional thought. Not one of the amendments is of any very considerable value, though none is unwholesome.

Hobbs is moving steadily toward the objective of being the best paved city in the state, everything considered. At a meeting of the city commission the other night, contracts were let for two considerable areas, one for 16 blocks at $79,112.77, and one for 46 blocks for $179,787.61. When it is remembered that 72 blocks are now nearing completion, the commanding nature of the tide of improvement is readily seen. And it isn't so many years since and talk of paving was met with talks of "confiscation!"

In case you hadn't noticed it, the bill legalizing "naturopathy" failed to get through the recent session of the late unlamented legislature. It went through the Senate all right, but bogged down in the House, as it has at each session for the past 20 years or so. In case you didn't know it, naturopathy is a system of physical culture and drugless treatment of disease by assist nature. It has a great list of talking points, but—

Of course they had to go, meaning the old cottonwood trees in the Santa Fe yards at Raton. There is a limit, as with railroads, for all trees. We are informed that the cottonwoods will be replaced with willows! Why not Chinese elms? That would be an ideal place for them.

It is interesting to note that the reconstruction and extension of the social security benefits, which includes such old age pensions as are now paid by the government to many retired workers or dependent survivors, is alerting possible eligibles, on account of a general broadening of the scope of the department, which is now doing a vast amount of good in this country.

"Pot" Bert of The Artesia Advocate is authority for the statement that sandhill crane is rapidly becoming extinct in this country, and then goes on and spoils the good news by saying that the Pecos is one of two remaining flyways, and that you can see flocks of hundreds, maybe thousands, most any evening now when the birds come back to the river for water, where they can sleep standing in a couple of feet of water. He sticks to the thousand numerals, and they may be accurate. The darned things are protected by law, strangely enough.

Edward Brosseau, director of motor vehicles in New Mexico, says that 275,000 machines will wear tags this year, as compared to 244,000 last year. The inevitable drop will come in 1952.

The Artesia Board of Education has called a special election on Tuesday, March 27, for the voting of a $233,000 bond issue for increasing the permanent classroom capacity. There will be but one voting place, in the assembly room of the city hall.

Roy Forehand of Carlsbad, president of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, is beginning to worry as to whether Albuquerque can take care of the 3,000 members who are expected to attend the 37th annual convention on March 25-27. The association has 5,000 members.

By Will Robinson

Good Government League in New Mexico has started in its campaign of education toward the seven constitutional amendments which will be on by the people of New Mexico next September, and a start has been made in setting up the popular understanding of the measures. At its meeting a rather elaborate presentation of the changes for in the charted alternatives worthy of general study, without a dry grin at the aged helpfulness of the comments. Here it is:

1—A system of non-partisan apportionment of State Supreme Court district judges. Fair enough on principle, but how many have you identified politics courts?

2—A nine-man state board of non-unwieldy, it being case in which politics never bothered much; board

3—A raise to 20 a day for legislators who now get $10. Too much pay for too little work, much of it unprofitable.

4—Repeal of the present constitutional prohibition against the sale of liquor to Indians. Not a single word can honestly be said in favor of the change. The Indians were better off without any liquor as are whitemen. It is not a civilizing substance.

5—A provision permitting future legislators to establish absentee voting laws and regulations. Twenty years too soon in New Mexico; no reason to think that it was when tried several years ago, when it was so rotten it was dropped quickly; our political chastity would no more be equal to its use now than it was then.

6—Two amendments permitting legislatures to set pay for supreme court and district court judges. Should be carried to the extent of wiping out present pretext remunerations, and no more.

7—Repeal of the constitutional requirements that city bond issues of five would be far more maneuverable.

It is just an open question as to whether the Highway or the Revenue Department lead in the matter of firing "drones." Dozens at a crack in each of those departments are now taking their dinner buckets and going home. Guy Mayer, maintenance engineer, is being required to lop off more heads than Stanislaus Petrovsky, executioner at Moscow! Twice perfectly all right if all of them were fired this spring, since it would mean that there will be time to rustle other jobs before the north winds howl again.

One of the Deadliest Weapons in the Korean War

ONE OF DEADLIEST weapons in use in Korea is the napalm bomb—a 110-gallon tank filled with jelled gasoline. Six are shown on an F-80 jet fighter, ready for action. Plane flies low, tank drops and engulfs target in 2,000-degree flame as gasoline explodes. (International)

Four-H Tractor Program Off To Good Start

New Mexico's 4-H Club program for 1951 in farm tractor maintenance is off to a flying start. The annual district tractor maintenance clinics in Albuquerque and Roswell early in February were attended by 21 club leaders and junior leaders, as well as county agents, representing 14 counties. This attendance shows the emphasis which county extension staffs are placing on the tractor maintenance project and the special importance they are attaching to successful maintenance of farm machinery during this period of defense preparation.

The clinics were conducted by Ed Wickhorst, special representative of the Standard Oil & Gas Company, Tulsa, sponsor of the program in New Mexico. Through this instruction, which included both laboratory and classroom sessions, those attending were acquainted with the methods, procedures, and subject matter employed in organizing and conducting a 4-H Club work in farm tractor maintenance.

Club leaders who attended these clinics will now help to train 4-H

Impersonator Held

Club members in tractor maintenance, in addition to their other duties. It is hoped that these young men will develop into the type of leaders so badly needed by our country in times of emergency such as the present. Leadership qualities can, however, scarcely be developed by the single-handed efforts of the individual. The interest, co-operation, and assistance of the family and the community are required. Our farm, ranch, and rural people can give these leaders a boost, do a good turn for the country, and help their own farm machinery supply by giving this program their wholehearted support.

Farm people are not alone in their concern over tractor maintenance. The clinics were also attended by representatives of dealers or distributors handling eight different major makes of farm mechanical equipment. These representatives of industry were unanimous in their support of the program and expressed a willingness to help in any way possible in our effort to make the supply of equipment go farther.

Manufacturers of farm mechanical equipment are undertaking to supply needs as nearly as possible to encourage adequate and timely maintenance, and to supply instruction books and operators' manuals for major farm machines, new or old. The manufacturers and their representatives are willing to do these things and many more to help agricultural people with their equipment problems. So, with all the help available, a great deal of the responsibility for each individual's equipment supply situation will rest with the farmer himself.

Coffee consumption in the United States averages more than 17 pounds per person per year.

Nearly nine billion dollars was spent in 1948 for alcoholic beverages in the United States.

Number of Farms In New Mexico Has Decreased

The number of New Mexico farms and ranches decreased more than 6000 in the last five years, according to a preliminary report from the Bureau of the Census. In 1945, the total number of farms (the term also includes ranches) in the state was 29,695, but by 1950 that total had dropped to 23,485.

Part of the decrease may be because of a change in the census definition of a "farm." In 1945, a farm was defined as a place which produced agricultural products valued at $250 or more in 1944. In 1950, places of more than three acres were counted as farms if agricultural products, exclusive of a home garden with a value of $150 or more were produced in 1949. But also in the 1950 census, places of less than three acres were counted as farms if the value of agricultural products sold in 1949 amounted to more than $150. The county in New Mexico with the most farms, according to the 1950 census, is Rio Arriba, with 1797 farms. Next in order are Roosevelt, 1748; San Juan, 1517;

Taos 1362; Dona Ana, 1250; Luna, 1163; San Miguel, 1060; and Curry, 1000. Eddy County is listed as having shown an increase in the number of farms in the five-year period with 734 in 1945 and 751 in 1950.
