Artesia Goodwill Motorcade to Roll West on Nine-Point Trip Thursday

Fifty reservations have been made for the 1951 Artesia goodwill caravan, the chamber of commerce said Saturday, but "indications are that the total number going will equal the 85 who made the trip last year."

The motorcade will assemble at 7:45 a. m. Thursday, June 28, headed west on Main, in the area extending west of Sixth and Main. All are asked to help in putting on bumper strips and fixing flat bands that will be distributed by the chamber of commerce.

Leading the procession will be a New Mexico police car. Bud South of Roswell, formerly of Artesia, and A. D. Munsey, Artesia, are the two state police assigned to the car by Joe Roach, state police chief. Behind the state car will be the vehicle of Clarence Key, goodwill committee chairman; Bob Koonce, chamber manager, with sound equipment; Dave Button, KSPV manager, and master of ceremonies.

Entertainers expected to accompany the caravan are the Artesia Troupers, comprised of Bob Bourland, Marshall Rowley, Helen Jean Keys, Georgia Crawford; and James Golden, Claire Meisinger, and Myrna Henderson, accordionists.

There are nine points on the tour, Artesia, Hope, Dunken, Pinon, Weed, Bear Canyon, Cloudercroft, Wimsatt Store, and Mayhill.

Church women of Pinon will serve dinner there at 12:15 p. m. and the Troupers put on their acts in the Pinon school, on the out-bound trip. There is to be a banquet, also arranged by a church group, at 8 that night in Cloudercroft; another stage appearance of the Troupers; (Continued on page three)

Social Agency Council Adopts Constitution

Appointment of a budget committee will be made in mid-July by the Artesia Council for Social Agencies, Ralph L. O'Dell, council president, said today, following a meeting of the council held at noon Friday in Artesia Hotel.

Constitution and bylaws of the organization were presented and adopted at the session. The council was formed two years ago but it was not until last year that it put on a fully promoted campaign.

President O'Dell explained that by "fully promoted" was meant that the council then had affiliated with the national association of community chests and used the Red Feather insignia.

Officers are Ralph L. O'Dell, president; Dr. Charles Rundles, vice-president; Mrs. John Mathis, Jr., secretary; M. G. Schulze, treasurer; Mrs. Z. V. Betts, executive secretary.

The constitution and by-laws accepted by the Artesia council were drafted after President O'Dell had received sample copies from national community chest headquarters in New York.

Composing the constitution and by-laws committee were: Dr. Charles Rundles, chairman, representing the medical profession; Mrs. Ralph Rogers, Clarence Kephley Unit 41 American Legion Auxiliary president; Floyd Springer, Lions; Mrs. Tom Williams, Pilot; Mrs. Rufus Graham, New Mexico Department of Public Welfare.

Thirty Citizens Turn Out To Protest Phone Rate Hike

Artesians did a lot of talking about talking over the telephone in a state corporation commission preliminary hearing held in the assembly room at the city hall Saturday.

The hearing, one in a series Commissioner Ingram Pickett is holding over the state, was in conjunction with the application of Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company for an increase in rates.

Gist of the comment from 30 Artesians was:

"We don't object to higher rates provided we get better service."

The raise goes into effect tomorrow. Money paid on the higher basis goes into a special fund. What happens next depends on action of the corporation commission.

Commissioner Ingram said that a certified public accounting firm and an engineering concern had been employed at a cost of $25,000 to check each community where the communication system operates in New Mexico.

This survey will be a factor in the commission's evaluation of the rate increase. In Artesia it will be roughly 50 cents a month additional on residential telephones, but heavier on business phones.

C C Statement
Bob Koonce, manager of Artesia Chamber of Commerce, summarized much of the comment in a prepared statement from his organization. The document is dated June 23:

"The official position of this organization regarding the rate increase proposed by Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company is that of opposition to such increase until such time as service is substantially improved.

"In the expectation that individual witnesses will cite specific instances of poor services, a general statement that telephone service has been unsatisfactory is submitted herewith.

"Over and above this there has been no indication that dial telephones are scheduled for installation in Artesia. Finally, telephone company officials have been indefinite and evasive when questioned about future expansion and improvement plans.

"Because of these facts it is feared that later rate increases will be requested preceding major plant expansion or installation of dial system.

"Therefore, by an eight to one vote of the board of directors of this organization the state corporation commission is requested to carefully investigate telephone company plans aimed at improved service as well as the general justification for a rate raise at this time."

Check on Time

Mayor Oren C. Roberts gave his opinion as an individual and as chief executive of the municipal government. From the first he said it was "very, very poor"; "for the city council I believe I can say service at best is not acceptable."

He stressed three times in his testimony that he believed the fault was in "antiquated equipment," but carefully emphasized at the same time that employees were giving (Continued on Page Three)

Four Artesia Scouts to Make Canadian Voyage

Four Boy Scouts from Artesia and one each from Hagerman and Roswell will leave from the Chavez County courthouse at 8 a. m. on Thursday, July 12, for eight days on wooded trails in Canada and northern Minnesota.

The trip sponsored by the New Mexico area council will take 16 days. Thirty boys from the New Mexico area council will take the trip.

Scouts from this area making the trip are Leon Darst, Vernon Crow, J. Mitchell, and Bill Cox, of Artesia; Spurgeon Walford, of Hagerman, and Weldon Crawford, of Roswell.

The trip titled, "The Voyager's Wilderness Canoe Trip" will concentrate on exploration of the Canadian side of the country and will put the skills and handicrafts of Scouting to a severe test. Only Scouts meeting extremely high qualifications could be selected.

Among the feature attractions of the trip will be canoeing in the beautiful Quetico country, Ontario, Canada. The Scouts will stay in hotels and eat in cafes en route to the camp, but from there on out they will be strictly on their own, with nothing to connect them with civilization.

They will have excellent guidance, provided by Yorel Harris, Scout executive from Hobbs, and a member of the council field staff, who has conducted two previous canoe trips in the same area.

The 16-day expedition will cost each scout $130 which includes hotel bills, meals en route, and all other expenses. In addition the boys are expected to bring "blow in" money for buying souvenirs during the trip.

Child Writer Suggests City Use Siesta Plan

Never underestimate the mind of a youngster. The boys and girls can come up with ideas that startle adults.

Like, for instance, the boy or girl who wrote a letter suggesting Artesia adopt the siesta custom. The letter was addressed to the chamber of commerce, was signed, and written with a pencil.

From the composition as well as the writing it evidently comes from some youngster. He, or she, starts off "Sirs" as a salutation, and let's the receiver know the writer means business!

"I wish to inform you that I think it is too hot here in Artesia to go shopping during the day."

"I suggest that we have all stores opened at about 5 or 5:30 in the morning and closed about 9 or 9:30 the same morning."

"Then people can sleep during the hottest (eq) part of the day. Then all stores can open again about 5:30 or 6 and stay open until about 10 or 11."

Many an adult sweltering in the 100 and above heat all day long could easily be convinced that the youngster has a fine idea!

Annual Cotton Insect War Begins In Chaves County

Dusting, as a protection against leaf worms and other insects which thrive on cotton, is now in progress in neighboring Chaves County, according to an announcement by Chaves County Agent Al Woodburn.

This is the time of the year when insects start going after cotton, when it is in the eight to 10 leaf stage. Last year Eddy County and the Artesia territory were especially hard hit by leaf worms; hence precautions are being taken early.

Supplies of insecticides and of planes to do the dusting appear to be adequate, barring a heavy infestation of insects, like the one this territory experienced in 1949. Dusting has been found to be one of the most effective ways of combating insects, and farmers are urged to get it done early.

Girls Stater To Be Speaker For Kiwanians

Sara Curtis, one of Artesia's four representatives at Girls State, held at Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, June 8-15, will be the speaker at noon Thursday, June 28, in Cliff's Cafeteria.

The club resumes its former luncheon place following the reopening of the cafeteria which was closed for a two-week vacation period. In the interval the club met at the Club Cafe.

Miss Curtis will tell of her experience at the "State" where she was impressed by lectures on the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Police, and welfare.

Kiwanis was one of the cooperating clubs sponsoring Artesia girls trip to Girls State.

Board Meets Tonight
A prelude to the regular Thursday noon luncheon meeting will be a meeting of the board of directors at 6:45 tonight at Central Valley Electric, 115 West Quay.

The board will consider representatives for the Southwest district convention to be held Oct. 11-13 in Phoenix.

Also on the agenda will be plans for observance of National Kids Day, Saturday, Sept. 22.

How Day Started
This will be the third annual observance of the special day. It originated in 1949, on suggestion of noted columnist and fellow Kiwanian Jimmy Fidler, and was designed to succeed Children's Day which was celebrated at one time by various Protestant church organizations but never really took hold.

Another idea behind National Kids Day is to place it on a par with Father's and Mother's Day. Activities of Kids Day are designed for children 15 or younger, but is intended especially for underprivileged children.

Programs are organized by the National Kids Day Foundation which was established by Kiwanis and is supported by all clubs. In 1950, 1,261 clubs had programs.

On the local scene there will be gala events of competition at Morris Field, a parade featuring all kinds of entries, and a stunt and talent program. Winners will be awarded special Kids Day buttons. There will also be free movies.

At last Thursday's meeting it was decided to postpone the program originally scheduled which was observance of Kiwanis week, due to difficulties of holding such a meeting while the regular meeting place was closed. Fourteen members were present.

This week's luncheon program will consist of singing the Kiwanis song, "Onward Kiwanis", a reading of excerpts from the speech given by Don Murdock, president of Kiwanis International, at the national convention held June 17-21 at St. Louis, a short talk by Paul Dillard, chairman of the committee on Kiwanis Education, on the aims, ideals, and purposes of Kiwanis, followed by the pledge of re-dedication.

All of this will be in addition to that part of the program on which Miss Curtis will be the speaker.

Artesia Senior In Naval Training Camp at San Diego
Kenneth Dickson, 18, a 1951 graduate of Artesia High School, is now in boot camp at the United States Naval Training Center at San Diego.

The recruit is the son of Mrs. Ed Bowen, 911 South Fourth. He enlisted at Roswell on Wednesday, June 6, left for San Diego, Friday, June 8.

Dickson was born in Oklahoma City but has lived in Artesia since he was five years old. In the local high school he was manager of the basketball team in his senior year and also had a role in the senior play.

'Cowboy' Zumwalt Pictured in Bay State Newspaper

Hunt Zumwalt of Artesia, dubbed "Cowboy", is one of the eight persons whose photograph appeared in the June 21 issue of The Wellesley, Mass., Townsman, in conjunction with the four-day National Association of Student Councils conference.

Zumwalt attired in boots, typical western trousers, plaid shirt, and ten-gallon hat, is described in the cut lines of the Massachusetts paper by A. Edwin Larsson, editor.

"Welcome to New Mexico delegate. A hearty welcome was extended to handsome and smiling Cowboy Hunt Zumwalt of Artesia, N. M., upon his arrival in Wellesley, Mass., on Monday morning for the four-day conference of the National Association of Student Councils which is being held at Wellesley Senior High School.

"More than 600 delegates and sponsors from every corner of the United States are in attendance."

Identification of the persons in the photograph includes Mrs. Harris Barber, at whose home Zumwalt is a guest.

long to the library.

2. Each and every book is listed separately, like volumes of a set or more than one copy of a book.

3. From this list you can tell exactly how many books the library has, how many new books are added each year, and how many old books are discarded.

B. Mechanical Preparation.

1. The accession number is placed on the page behind the title page and on one other specially chosen page in the book.

2. The library name is stamped in the book in various places.

3. A book card and pocket is typed for each book. Both card and pocket have on them the author's full name, the title, accession number and classification number (will be explained later).

4. The pocket is pasted inside the back cover of the book and the date due slip is pasted on the fly leaf.

5. Books have the classification number written on the back spine of the book with an electric stylus and white transfer paper.

6. In order to make the classification number more permanent the back of the book is shellaced after lettering.

7. The book is now ready for use.

C. Classification.

1. Fiction — the first two or three letters of the author's last name are used.

2. Non-Fiction — the Dewey Decimal Classification system is used. It divides the field of knowledge into 10 main classes. These 10 groups are sub-divided into sections and can be further divided if necessary: Example: 900 History, 970 History of North America, 978 History of Southwest.

3. Short stories are marked with the initials S. C. and the letters of the author's last name.

4. Children's books are marked with a "J" and the letters of the author's name.

D. Shelf List.

1. The shelf list is a card which has on it the author's full name, title, publisher, and latest copyright date. The accession number is always listed on the shelf card. The shelf cards are filed from the classification number rather than title or author.

2. The card catalog is made up of cards for the books which are listed by author, title and subject. In other words each book will have the same information on three cards which will be filed alphabetically in their place in the catalog.

By using the Dewey Decimal Classification system, the Artesia Library will be conforming to the procedure used by libraries throughout the United States. The same system is used in the Artesia schools.

the best service possible considering the handicap of old equipment. Reference was made by the mayor and by others testifying to previous rate increases granted the company.

Tom E. Brown, of Brown Pipe and Supply, told of a check he had made on the four-minute call he was charged for seven minutes; on another five minutes for two; on a third six for four.

He had a record of specific dates to present in these cases. Brown called telephone service here the "worst he had seen anywhere."

Comments of others included: J. D. Josey, justice of the peace — "Paying too much for service rendered."

Milford Estill, lawyer — "Said no call back report made on calls. Would not mind raise if received 'first class service.'"

Chuck Baldwin, clothier — "We've never had what I call first class service. He said service was good during the strike, stating that the company had old-time employees back on the job."

There was also a reference to this point by others who testified. L. B. Feather, banker — "Compared with the war years, service is good; with prewar, rotten."

Marshall Rowley, drilling company vice-president — "Service terrible." He mentioned difficulty in getting calls through to the north.

Stanley Carper, drilling company vice-president and treasurer — "Service very poor."

Plenty of Interest
There was a quartet of citizens who greeted the commissioner and his secretary, Tony Rivera, as they went to the room at 9 a. m. to begin the hearing.

As the commissioner and his secretary prepared to leave at the end of the designated hearing period, four late comers came into the room.

The commissioner resumed the hearing and brown-eyed, black-haired, olive-skinned Rivera again unpacked and put into use again the stenotype machine on which transactions of the hearing were recorded.

Interest here was higher than in Las Cruces. Over in the Dona Ana capital only five persons had appeared up to noon of the date of the hearing there to "air their gripes about telephone service."

The telephone company did not send any representative to the meeting or at Las Cruces.

PARENTS OF DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Pierce Stone are the parents of a daughter, Jacqueline Gayle, born Saturday in Artesia General Hospital, weighing nine pounds eight ounces.

All on Vacation— Except Troubles!

Everybody likes to go on a vacation but is doubly glad to get back to "home sweet home."

You can double that in spades with Mrs. Florence Hastings, who returned to Artesia on Sunday night from Lockney, Texas, where she visited Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Foster and children, Mr. and Mrs. Hastings, and Wesley Eiland.

Mrs. Foster is a daughter, Hastings a son, and Eiland a brother of the Artesia woman.

Today she totaled the vacation score.

In a storm in which five and a half inches of rain fell in 45 minutes, couldn't get home, stayed all night at Earth.

Eddie Joe Foster was on a band picnic. He stepped on a gallon fruit jar while swimming and cut both feet. Fifteen stitches were required on the foot.

Another picnic, that of the Girl Scouts was attended by Betty Foster. She bumped her head. It wasn't that serious at first but it developed she had a brain concussion and had to stay in bed for two weeks.

Mrs. Foster broke a little toe and had to go shoeless for weeks.

Last week Mr. Foster was smacked dab in the middle of a tornado. The shock had made him nervous.

Vogue Top Gift Certificate Goes To Mrs. Shelton

Mrs. M. E. Shelton received top award at the Fifth Anniversary and formal showing of the Vogue Dress Shop's new location Friday, Mrs. Dorothy Stogner, owner and operators, announced at 4:30 o'clock Saturday.

With the top $25 gift certificate going to Mrs. Shelton, $20, $15, $10 and $5 awards were given Mrs. Lee Jester, Lucille Houghtaling, Mrs. B. A. Haag and Mrs. R. C. Garner, respectively. The awards were presented Saturday.

Mrs. Stogner opened the Vogue Dress Shop June 22, 1945, at 503 West Main. Specializing in ladies' ready-to-wear, teen-age clothing and children's wear, Mrs. Stogner served the women of Artesia at that location until two weeks ago when she rented the space formerly occupied by the Shoe Tree in the Ward Building.

After an extensive re-decorating scheme, which resulted in light green walls, accented with dark green trimmings and a gray rug over the floor, Mrs. Stogner moved the entire merchandise in time to celebrate the store's fifth anniversary.

Five hundred persons registered at the store Friday.

Clerks in the Vogue are Marilyn Goddard, Bessie Willoughby and Mrs. Louis Haddox.

Veterans Contact Agent Will Come To City June 27

Roy W. Erwin, Carlsbad, veterans administration contact representative, will make another of his periodic calls in Artesia on Wednesday, June 27.

A letter from the Carlsbad man to Vernon Bryan, manager of The Artesia Advocate, states:

"Veterans and dependents of veterans are invited to call on me at the veterans memorial building on West Texas street between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. for information or assistance in connection with veterans benefits."

Carlsbad Jaycees Trumpeting Circus

Carlsbad Jaycees were in Artesia at 1:49 p. m. Saturday whooping it up for the Gainesville, Texas, Community Circus, third largest in the nation, which is to stage a two-night stand in the Eddy county seat on Friday, June 29, and Saturday, June 30. Time is 8 p. m.; location, Cavenem Field.

Jaycees, sponsors of the show, passed out a four-page printed circular, staged a parade of a dozen cars, and including the unicycle riding of Ralph Gerneth, one of the circus performers.

Tickets are on sale in Carlsbad. The circus consists of 100 acts by 125 performers, and used trained horses, ponies, dogs, monkeys, and an elephants.

Among the feature attractions are The Flying Marvels, only flying return act in circusdom; Vern Brewer's liberty horses; Portis Sims' jockey dogs; Betty Ward and her swaying high steel pole; Gerneth and his upside down unicycle, aerial thriller; Gerry, the smallest performing baby elephant in the United States, only four years old and is performing with the circus for the first time this year; a pageant entitled, "United Nations on Parade"; and Frank Schmitz's 50 clowns.

The circus was brought to Carlsbad due to the efforts of Barney Hopkins, Jr., president of the Carlsbad Junior Chamber of Commerce. He first proposed the idea to the chamber and made arrangements to get the circus to come to Carlsbad. This is the first time the circus has played before a New Mexico audience.

Hopkins was elected president of the Jaycees after serving out the unexpired term of Cliff Ryan, who moved to Clovis. He will be formally installed in July.

Hopkins is owner of a linen service in Carlsbad, and is a member of a pioneer Carlsbad family.

PEOPLES STATE BANK

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

OF A VAST EMPIRE

The services rendered by banking institutions are among the main contributing factors to the growth, progress and prosperity of any community. This is especially true of Artesia—where distances are great and opportunities for service increase rapidly.

The outstanding record of Artesia's two banks speaks for itself. Comparison of the increase in bank resources, clearings and debits to depositors accounts provide a most reliable index to Artesia's progress and reveals the financial strength underlying the city and its citizens.

These figures present a clear picture of business transaction and business conditions. They reflect the growth of Artesia and the fact that Artesia banks actually serve a vast empire. Few cities in the country can show a more remarkable record during the past ten years.

Study the tabulation on this page and especially note they reflect no sudden spurt of "boom period." The increases have been steady, sound and consistent, and they are going still higher as the rich Artesia area continues its forward progress.

Here Are the Figures for the Past 10 Years:

Year	Deposits
1941	$2,007,223.00
1942	3,036,137.00
1943	4,102,208.00

Don't Use Their Money

DON'T EXPECT to use the money of the fellow you owe to carry on your own business or to provide for yourself certain pleasures and luxuries which you couldn't afford if you paid your bills.

But there are individuals who go into business apparently with too little working funds or cash and apparently attempt to carry on. And it is perhaps possible they could do exactly that if and providing they would use a little better judgment in spending this money.

They don't do this. They contract debts which perhaps they should not have contracted and then apparently expect to ride along using the money which they owe to carry them along in business.

This is done in this community and in many other communities. It, of course, isn't right. The individual who has granted us credit has done so for a definite period of time. They have done so fully expecting to receive payment at the end of this period of time. They also have put out their cash for merchandise, if we bought merchandise or for work if we have purchased labor.

The business they have enjoyed by extending credit has no value and definitely is no good to them unless they receive payment for it.

It is only the business for which we receive payment, whether it is our time and talent we sell or whether it is merchandise or service which is profitable to us. If we do not receive payment it has cost us and been a loss to us.

Credit, of course, is far more limited today than it was a few years ago. And it is going to become even more limited in the months and the years ahead because we as individuals have abused our credit, delayed or refused to pay and proceeded to ride along indefinitely using money which we owe to others to carry us along in our business or in permitting us to "keep up or even ahead of the Jones."

We could all pay something on our accounts if we would only do so. If we make only token payments we have shown good faith and token payments in time will pay the account we owe.

The wise individual, of course, doesn't request or accept credit if they are not able to pay or are not going to be able to pay when the account becomes due. But if we are not wise enough to do that and do buy on credit then we should appreciate our credit to the point where we will make the necessary sacrifice to pay that account even in small payments.

Hold That Line!

THERE WAS A great many comments during World War II concerning "hold that line" with particular reference to prices.

The message of "hold that line" was talked many times and many efforts were honestly and sincerely made by many business firms, concerns and individuals.

Following the war there was a let down and the prices started skyrocketing. They have been climbing upward ever since.

Many are wondering whether there is a stopping place. Others are convinced that sooner or later the bottom will drop out and are sure that "all that goes up must come down."

Whether we will ever know what is normal—or at least what we refer to as normal—again remains to be seen. Many are sure that this will not prove to be the case. Many are certain the new levels on wages and cost of merchandise and service is here to stay and if it moves any direction it will continue to be up.

Most of us know that the only direction there has been any movement for some 10 years now has been up.

Many are now announcing price increases. They just announce there is a new price and nothing is to be done about it. Others just don't bother to announce it and when you go down to buy something, you find out the price has gone up.

Others under control of various state or federal agencies make applications and seek new prices while others honestly and sincerely still seem to think they can hold the line.

Some businesses, of course, occupy a more favorable position when the price increases come. They merely mark up their merchandise in keeping with the increased prices they have to pay.

Others offering service on a set schedule encounter more trouble in trying to raise their prices and it is necessary they make the announcement and along come the protests loud and long.

Others seek and endeavor to ride along, absorbing the increases and taking them as best they can because perhaps they only have one or two sources from which they receive income and it is necessary they announce any changes or increases in prices before they put them into effect.

Organized labor, of course, continues to clamor for more money and more wages. And they usually fight through even if a strike is necessary to reach it.

Other workers not organized and perhaps working for those concerns or maybe for the public have to go along on their present wages because no more money is available to pay them unless the taxpayers provide it or because the concern for whom they work have other increased costs but no increased earnings.

But we must face the fact that if the producers and the manufacturers have to pay more to get a product made or to render a service we are going to have to pay more for that product or that service. Organized labor in demanding more wages is collecting those wages from those who purchase the product or the service they produce—and this can include themselves.

More money always comes from the public whether it is more taxes, more wages or more earnings. The public pays the difference and pays the bill.

The public, of course, would be very much interested in the "hold the line"—that is they are interested if it is not on their wages or their pay and on the product they are producing. In these instances they want top wages and top prices but they want to buy both workers and the products they need at the "hold the line" prices.

We are hearing considerable now about increased charges on many things, telephone rates, freight rates, food, clothing, automobiles and other items. The chances are the prices and these costs will continue to climb just as long as the demand exists and we have the money with which to pay.

It's probably a good thing that Ananias did not live in the days of the modern press agent.

It's easier to stick to a diet if you just remember that figures don't lie.

MAID OF THE MIST

What Other Editors Are Saying

GOVERNMENT WITHOUT REPRESENTATION

One grave defect in the government's present price control program is that the Office of Price Stabilization has so far failed to authorize the appointment of an advisory committee composed of retail representatives. A bulletin issued by a national retailers' organization recently observed wryly that OPS "appears to believe retailers are too insignificant to justify such a committee."

What this amounts to is that, so far as price control is concerned, we have government without representation of the governed. There are, believe it or not, more than 3,000,000 retail outlets in this country. They are of all kinds and sizes, from the biggest chain to the smallest one-man shop. They sell every conceivable sort of commodity. Their operators are the people who come in direct, daily contact with the masses of consumers. The whole success of the price control effort depends upon their cooperation—and upon their understanding of what must be done. Finally, they are the ones who can tell OPS and any other interested agency what is feasible in the way of regulations and what is not.

It seems inconceivable that the retailers have no official method of making their problems known to price control officials. Unless the retailers can and do obey the regulations the whole program is doomed to failure. Almost no one buys commodities from the factories which produce them. We all do our buying in retail stores, and the retailer knows our desires and needs.

Any price control program should invite the official participation of all concerned—and that means producers, manufacturers, retailers, and consumers.—Industrial News Review.

THERE'S NOTHING LIKE IT

"The key to the strength of the American oil industry is the driving force of competition," said the president of the American Petroleum Institute the other day. "Even with national planning and restrictions, the nation must continue to rely on private management, and although close and full cooperation with governmental agencies is necessary in times of emergency, nothing should be done that will impair the incentive for competition in normal times."

It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of competition as a source of national strength and security—and as a major factor in the working and living conditions enjoyed by the American people. In the case of oil, intense competition was the primary reason why the tremendous postwar demand, which reached 271,000,000 gallons of oil products a day last year, was met. It was competition that forced oil companies to spend $2,000,000,000 of earnings for new and better physical facilities in that same year, plus another $100,000,000 for research.

Oil which is a mile or so down in the ground does no one any good. Someone must get it out, someone must transport it, someone must refine and process it, someone must get it into the hands of the consumer in the form of gasoline, grease, cosmetics, detergents, and a thousand and one other things. All of this must be done with a maximum of efficiency, a minimum of waste—and at the lowest possible cost. Competition, all the way down the line from the well to the corner gas station, sees that it gets done. Nothing can take its place—there's no force to compare it with.—Industrial News Review.

WHERE ARE WE FAILING?

It seems as if practically everybody has had something to say about the meat situation. Government officials say one thing. Representatives of the livestock producers and other elements of the meat industry say another. Spokesmen for consumer groups say still another.

Quite naturally, these statements are often in complete contradiction. So a large part of the public, interested as it is in the meat controversy, has lost sight of a few fundamental facts.

The government can set the legal price at which meat is sold at wholesale and retail. The government can issue orders rolling back the price of meat by some arbitrary percentage. The government can threaten law violators with vigorous prosecution.

However, the government can't make anybody raise meat if he finds that controls and regulations and red-tape are taking the profit out of the business and just leaving him with the risk. And, try as hard as enforcement officials will, they can't stop black markets when individuals see a chance to make a quick, easy profit. Our experience during the OPA days is sufficient evidence of that.

In normal times, no one sets the price of meat. It is determined by the ever-changing conditions of a supply and demand market. Now the government is attempting to set the price and the troubles are setting in. For the truth is that these controls always lead to rationing, black markets, unsanitary practices, and less meat for most consumers.

One of the main ways to stabilize meat prices is to encourage production—to develop a sound balance between supply and demand. And that's what present government policies are failing to do.—Industrial News Review.

As Artesia Grows

—TWENTY YEARS AGO
(From The Advocate files for June 25, 1921)

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McDonald arrived Tuesday from Santa Monica, Calif., and will make their home here.

It may be news to some to learn that The Artesia Advocate is the oldest business establishment in Artesia. This fact affords the management quite a bit of satisfaction, of course. In the first issue of the Advocate of Aug. 29, 1903, is contained an account of the organization of the First National Bank which started operations in November of the same year.

Mr. and Mrs. George Williams entertained six tables at bridge Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Beckett and Mr. and Mrs. James Frint of Wilmington, Calif.

The First Night Bridge Club met last Friday with Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Gates.

Juanita Denton, who has been attending National Business College at Abilene for several months was a member of the class, which held its commencement exercises last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Evereff and children returned last Wednesday from a three weeks' vacation trip to their old home at Decatur, Miss.

W. C. Gray and children, Buford, Orville, and Nina, left Thursday by automobile for their old home at Farber, Mo. Mrs. Gray is already in Missouri visiting her mother at Rush Hill. The family expects to return in about six weeks.

Dr. Loucks returned the first of the week from a business visit to Amarillo.

Messrs. and Mmes. Fred Knowles, A. C. Crozier and Preston Dunn, and grandson, Charley Preston Dunn, returned Tuesday night from a few days' fishing trip on the Chama, north of Santa Fe.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Myrna Loy

NEW YORK—Things one New Yorker thinks about: I know that if you took the stripes and furniture out of El Morocco it would be just another naked hall, and I know a lot of customers have no manners (that's not owner Perona's fault), but it still has a lot of glamor about it and no place else in the city quite that feeling of swank. . . . Shortest interview I ever had was with Myrna Loy; I cut off after 10 minutes. We didn't speak the language. . . . Know what kind of person you see in New York? The spry little old lady keeps young in heart and advises the teen-agers their love lives. Maybe no one ever gets old or lives that long.

This is the native habitat of a fascinating person—the hard, brassy, chic, dressed-to-nines female who, more than any other kind of woman, makes you whistle whew-whew. . . . I knew a Broadway dance hall hostess who was an odd one. Looked like the toughest, roughest, hardest you ever saw—and she was.

MOST INTELLIGENT WOMAN I'VE MET LATELY was in Lancaster. . . . Will somebody who has there tell me if the Tween really were as wonderful as they say? The old speaky, eye-framed on the wall of the Penthouse club always make me wise. My mother used to keep me in at night to do my homework in the days, so I never found out. . . . Always astonishes me to see crowds who come out to see the planes landing and taking off at LaGuardia and Idlewild airfields. They can't be wise New Yorkers. Must be suburbanites.

If I felt like losing two-thirds of my reading public (all right, hold still for the jokes), I could admit that I don't like Latin-American music a la Cugat or popular music a la Lombardo. . . . I have a lot of favorite streets but if I never could see Park avenue in the again I think I'd really feel depressed. . . . They tell me coffee to be 75 cents a cup in the old Central Park Casino, where Jim Walker was the unofficial host. That's the way life should be. . . . I guess the day I dread is the one when I say "Good Lord wouldn't dream of riding in the subway." That day I want to be up and shoot.

WELL, I'VE SEEN OKLAHOMA! three times now and still don't like it. Get the analyst ready, boys. . . . Add women with whom I deeply and sincerely in love: Miss Gertrude Lawrence, the star of The King and I. . . . I don't seem to be getting very far along in campaign to make New Yorkers dress for dinner. I suppose I can start by doing it myself.

I know I'm a bilious old man, but it does seem to me drama critics are terribly dull to read, these days. They all take their profession so seriously that they neglect the casual entertainment that goes with the job. Who was the old boy, for instance, who said so-and-so played the king in Hamlet as if he expected somebody to play a scene?

I always feel like laughing when I listen to the modern school troopers, the Comos, Fishers, Martins, etc., but I desist because remember listening to Rudy Vallee and thinking he was a ball of fire. Fifteen years makes a difference, doesn't it?

FRED ALLEN AND I PATRONIZE the same YMCA, for the purpose of losing the same weight from the same places, but that we have in common. . . . Coney Island is open again and I must make my annual visit to the wax museum to see if Judd Gray still is killing Ruth Snyder.

This sounds like a gag, but I've just got word that three weeks whose husbands produce a TV show have formed "Video Wife Unlimited," with offices in West 57th street. "Even when our husbands are at home," one of them says sadly, "they still look at the vision to see how the other programs are making out." . . . I never met Anna Rosenberg, the assistant secretary of defense, since the American Society of Magazine Photographers chose her recently as the American woman with the most perfect ears, I guess I'll have to.

I don't want to sound provincial, but does anyone seriously think any other city rivals New York in spring? Like Arcaro said at winning the '41 Derby on Whirlaway, "You can throw away all the other horses."

Try and Stop Me

JOHN CAMERON SWAYZE says that Stalin, Roosevelt, Churchill were being driven in a staff car during their recent Teheran conference, when a cow blocked the road and refused to budge. Neither Churchill's eloquence nor Roosevelt's charm was of any avail. Stalin, however, merely whispered one phrase in the cow's ear, and the animal bolted for the woods. When asked how he did it, Stalin explained, "I just told her I was going to put her in a collective farm."

"What makes you such a discontented man?" an old philosopher asked an unruly member of his group. "It's because life is so unfair," the maverick explained. "The rich get the cream, the poor get the skimmed milk. Something must be done about it." "We'll do something about it," soothed the wise old man. "From now on we'll call skimmed milk cream, and cream skimmed milk. Do your cream in good health."

Aggie College Defines Its Military Study

Relationship of New Mexico A. & M. College at State College to military science is explained in a release received today by The Artesia Advocate from the college publicity department.

Military training is offered to students of New Mexico A. & M. College, as part of their regular course of study.

History of Training

As a land grant institution the college has conducted military training since 1901. The nation has been served in both world wars by hundreds of officers who earned both their college education and a commission in the armed forces through their work on the New Mexico A. & M. campus.

What ROTC Offers

At present New Mexico A. & M. has joint Army-Air Force ROTC program broad enough to interest men students in all academic fields. While all of the class room instruction in Army ROTC is in Infantry Science, this is by no means the complete story.

Students who are majoring in academic fields which give them special value to the Army may apply for summer camp training in an Army specialty in line with their college major. Thus, students in civil and mechanical engineering may be chosen to go to Corps of Engineers summer camp; students in mechanical engineering to ordnance summer camp, and students in business administration to the quartermaster corps camp.

Hence the technically trained graduate can receive a reserve commission in a military field of interest to him and where his knowledge will be of most use to the nation in emergencies.

The Air Force ROTC program has three fields of study. The first is in administration and logistics, for the training of potential leaders in administration, personnel work, and supply, open to all students.

The second is in general technical for the training of officers for research and development work, for careers as engineering officers, or other scientific work in the Air Force, open to students majoring in engineering, the physical sciences and mathematics.

The third program is flight operations, for the training of pilots, navigators, and bombardiers, available to those students who have the necessary physical qualifications and who desire an active flying assignment upon graduation. Only the pre-flight part of the training is offered at the college, with the actual flying instruction coming after graduation.

ROTC and Draft

Present laws permit selected ROTC students to be deferred from the draft or induction into military service. College ROTC officials select students for deferment within quotas established by the Department of Defense. The most important factors are the student's scholastic standing, and his potential for leadership.

The student selected for deferment, and who desires a deferment until graduation from college, must sign a deferment agreement, in which, in return for deferment

Mail Clamps

Down on Parcel

Post to Overseas

The United States Government has tightened its regulations governing the shipments of merchandise to foreign countries by parcel post. T. U. Purcell, district manager for the department of commerce in El Paso, announced today.

Henceforth, any person who wishes to send a package abroad by parcel post must present a validated export license at the time of mailing or state on the wrapper that no export license is required. Only mail shipments to Canada are not covered by the new rule.

"These revised controls over mail exports," Mr. Purcell said, "represent a concerted action by the office of international trade and the post office department to improve enforcement of existing export control regulations over shipments through the international mails."

Purcell pointed out that the majority of mail shipments do not require an export license. For example, the office of international trade permits all individuals to send gift parcels not exceeding $25 in value, without a validated license, to any destination except China and North Korea.

Such parcels may include items normally sent as gifts—such as food, civilian clothing and medicines that may be purchased without a prescription. They must be mailed by or on behalf of an individual sender to an individual addressee for the personal use of the latter or his family.

If a gift parcel conforming to these conditions is presented for mailing, the postmaster will accept it after the sender has placed the words "Gift—Export License not Required" on the address side of the wrapper and the word "Gift" on the customs declaration.

Postmasters have been directed not to accept for foreign mailing any package which does not meet these conditions unless the sender either knows that the contents are exportable under some other general authorization, or presents a validated export license. In the latter event, the postmaster will retain the license, and no further shipments may be made against it.

Purcell explained that there are a number of such general authorizations. For example, shipments of non-technical books and magazines, commodities of limited value, commodities not included on CIT's "Positive List", and shipments to members of the U. S. Armed Services.

"Shipments to an APO address," Purcell emphasized, "are not subject to export control regulations, and do not require licenses under any circumstances."

"Since it is the responsibility of the mailer to determine whether his shipment requires a license, he should consult with the El Paso district office of the department of commerce, 209 Chamber of Commerce Building, Telephone 3-1643, for information as to whether or not a license is required and as to the procedure for applying for one if needed," Purcell stated.

Local Offices Given New Power On Wage Matters

Extension of the authority of the Wage-Hour Division of the U. S. Department of Labor in matters of wage and salary stabilization was announced here today by J. R. Cartwright, supervisor of the Albuquerque Wage-Hour office.

Beginning on June 25, he said, his office in the Federal Building and the other wage-hour offices over the country will receive and examine petitions for action by the national wage stabilization board. The board in Washington also has authorized such local offices to make investigations of violations of Wage Stabilization regulations, he revealed.

"Field offices of the labor department's wage-hour division have been answering inquiries on wage stabilization since early this year," he said, "but until now they have not been authorized to make investigations, and all petitions for special consideration by the board were sent to Washington."

In the matter of investigations, the wage-hour offices now are authorized to do fact-finding in the records and books of parties concerned and to make reports of such findings to the WSB staff in Washington.

In Washington, the wage stabilization board has announced that after June 25 it will be compulsory to file wage petitions with the wage and hour offices instead of in Washington.

No particular form is required for such petitions, but all petitioners should file an original and five copies with their local wage-hour offices.

WSB officials want the following information in each petition submitted:

Name and address of the company's headquarters, addresses of all plans of the company involved in the petition, number of employees on the payroll, number of employees affected by the proposed adjustment, nature of the business, a full statement of the proposal being submitted for approval, justification of the proposal, and signatures of the parties submitting the petition—including a signature by some representative of the employees involved if they belong to a certified labor organization.

Duane I. Nelson has been appointed assistant extension editor at New Mexico A. & M. College. The announcement of Nelson's appointment was made today by G. L. Boykin, associate extension director.

Nelson has been farm service director for Radio Station KRVN, Lexington and Lincoln, Neb. He was assistant extension editor at the University of Nebraska from 1946 to February, 1951.

He is a graduate of the College of Agriculture of the University of Nebraska, where he majored in general agriculture. For the past two years, he has handled nationwide broadcasts during the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

Economist Warns of More Price Controls

Citizens can look forward to more price controls with subsequent rationing and increased taxes to skim of excess buying power, according to A. D. Kaplan of the Brookings Institution.

Tax Payers Association of New Mexico, in their June 21 bulletin, say the statement was made in Denver last week at a conference on government management.

Kaplan warned the "more price control" outlook was occasioned by the "increased buying power brought about by the contemplated $70,000,000,000 budget of 1952 and the diversion of consumers goods to military uses."

In other sections the association deals with army civil functions budget cut, gas tax collections, and motor vehicles licenses, quoting from the publication New Mexico Tax Bulletin:

Army

The largest percentage cut thus far in the annual supply bills for 1952 was made by the house appropriations committee this week in the Army Civil Functions Bill. The committee cut almost 20 per cent from the budget estimates of $640 million. It recommended a total of $314 million, which was $126 million below the budget estimates.

Gas Tax

Gasoline tax collections for May, 1951, amounted to $1,394,674, as compared with $1,263,272 for May 1950 an increase of 10.4 per cent. Total collections for the first five months of the calendar year amount to $6,717,238, an increase of 13.5 per cent over the same period of last year.

Auto Licenses

Motor vehicle license collections for the first five months of the calendar year amounted to $4,246,545, as compared with $3,520,100 for the first five months of 1950, an increase of 20.2 per cent.
