Crafty Coyotes Eager Beaverly Await Bulldogs

A team battered by the slambang tilt last Friday against the Tucumcari Rattlers but toughened again by intensive workouts this week, will play its second away from home of the season when the Artesia High School Bulldogs face the Roswell High School Coyotes at 8 o'clock tonight on the Roswell gridiron.

The Coyotes employ a single wing balanced line. Their offense is powerful but not fast. The team is good on defense. With recollection of 28-0 walloping the Bulldogs gave them in the game here last year, a leather-smacking cracking battle, the Coyotes will be thirsty for revenge, especially so since the Coyotes have not finished on the pay-off side in either of their two contests this season.

They eked out a 6-6 tie with Las Cruces and were smacked down 40-6 by Ysleta. The Texas eleven also was victor over Roswell last year, also preceding the Coyotes game with the Bulldogs. In the Bulldog probable starting lineup, Jack Huddleston replaces Albert (Cowboy) Calloway, who suffered a swollen jaw and took a heavy pounding in the game with Tucumcari there Friday night, Sept. 14.

Travel By Bus It was the Bulldogs second game of the season. Opening the card, the Bulldogs whipped Socorro here Sept. 7 by a score of 26-7, then were edged out by the Tucumcari Rattlers 7-6.

Traveling in a chartered bus, the Bulldogs will leave the high school here at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Only 200 tickets were sent here from Roswell for sale at the high school. Price was $1.25, admission and reserved seats. The information on the tickets was received by The Advocate on Monday but came in at night, too late for inclusion in this issue.

Coach Reese Smith announced his probable starting lineup:

Probable starting lineup for Roswell:

Gene Balderee and Buck Jones, c; John Cox and Lavon Errington, t; Grant Williams and Charles Gentry, g; Bill Wilson, c; Clyde Baxley and Kenneth Willis, lb; Darryl Samples, qb; Homer Cies, fb.

All of the above except Balderee, Baxley and Samples are lettermen. Samples was letterman for New Mexico Military Institute last year.

Officials: James W. Marberry, Jr., Iowa, referee; Tom J. Hall, Jr., Missouri, umpire; J. B. Micander, New Mexico Military Institute, field judge; Randall Ryde, Colorado State, headlinesman.

Game Saturday With Carlsbad Team Opens Hornet Grid Schedule

The Junior High School football "Hornets" are fast rounding into shape for their first battle of the season against Eisenhower Junior High of Carlsbad Saturday night.

Coach Bud Wilborn is pleased with the hustle and spirit shown by his charges so far and states that he hopes this spirit will overflow into the minds of the student body so they will all attend the games and lend moral support to the team.

During the past week much time has been devoted to setting up the T formation offense which will be used almost entirely throughout the season. The boys are learning fast but Coach Wilborn hopes the fans will not expect a superior team until later in the season.

This type of offense takes a few weeks for perfection but it will eventually pay off in touchdowns and victories. It is still too early to single out

Grouse Hunters Pack Pecos Area

The hunters and the grouse were unable to get together during the three day season ending Sunday, Sept. 16, according to early returns coming in to the game department office in Santa Fe.

A check of early reports turned in by fieldmen in various areas indicated that a good percentage of hunters went home empty-handed due to a scarcity of birds in their locale; however, in areas where the birds were plentiful, few, if any, hunters were in the field.

Per usual, the Pecos area was heavily hunted. Estimates put the total number of hunters in the area at "around three hundred." Fieldmen checked in 196 hunters and counted a total of 187 grouse. The reverse was true in the Chama area where the grouse shooting was excellent but hunters were few.

In some areas, hunters complained that high winds impaired the shooting. The birds either roosted too high or flushed out too far ahead of the hunters. Extra Elk Season Favorable reports for a recent elk survey in the Cabresto-Midnight area north of Taos will permit an additional elk season this year, according to Assistant State Game Warden Homer Pickens.

A total of 30 permits for elk of Roswell beat Odessa Wednesday night 16-8. The Odessa Oilers went to town Tuesday night when they knocked off the Roswell Rockets 8-1. Monday night was Rocket night as they staged a sixth inning six-run slugfest to beat the Oilers 12-6. (The Oilers had taken the first game of the series by a score of 15-0, Sunday, as reported in the last issue of The Advocate.)

The Rockets started off Monday night's activities with a three-run exhibition in the first inning, highlighted by doubles by Cearley and Monchak. The Oilers came back in the third with four runs on three hits and two walks, and added a fifth in the fourth with Peacock scoring a home run.

Three of the Oilers third inning runs were doubled in by Manager Pepper Martin. The Rockets six-run flurry came on five hits, including a triple by Monchak and a pair of walks. Monday's Game—Line score: Odessa.....004 100 100—6 8 3 Roswell.....300 106 02x—12 16 1 Ortiz, Guerrero (6), Willis (8) and Castro; Franks and Sanders.

Armed Forces Take Mustang Grid Captain

With the calling into service of Joe Palmer, New Mexico Western College's grid squad co-captain, the Western eleven was faced with the chore of electing a new leader. To fill this position the members of the team chose W. A. (Moose) Wose.

Palmer, who would have been a junior this year, has been voted to the All-New Mexico conference second team for the past two years. He had been playing at the wing-back position and his consistency in that position led many of the Mustang fans to believe that he was one of the greatest football potentialities ever to come to New Mexico Western.

Wise, a senior, was elected to the first team of the all-conference selection last year. He played in the backfield in his freshman year and has been playing end for the past two seasons. Wise is a hefty hard hitter and is well known in the conference for his pass receiving ability.

Quarterbacks To Put Up Roof At Morris Field

The new reserved section at Morris Field is to be covered with sheet iron providing greater comfort for fans by keeping out the wind and supplying warmth, according to a penciled note on the Quarterback Club handed in to The Advocate on Tuesday morning, following the Club's regular Monday night meeting at the high school cafeteria.

Charles Brown and Homer Campbell have been authorized to do the work. In the program of Monday night, Sept. 17, Coach Jack Tinson reviewed the Artesia-Tucumcari game of Friday night, Sept. 14; Coach Reese Smith reported on the Roswell-Ysleta contest; and Coach Bud Wilborn of the junior high, reminded the club that the Hornets will be the lettering with a Bulldog in the center. Buttons have been ordered and will go on sale "as soon as they arrive."

The club has set its meeting for the first Tuesday of each month. Executive committee, composed of club officers, will plan each session.

Last meeting, on Tuesday night Sept. 18, was held in the school home ec room. Coffee and sandwiches were served at the conclusion of business. Officers are Mrs. George Epperson, president; Bernice Golden, secretary; and Mrs. James Epperson, treasurer.

Library cards were given out to the girls of Troop 3 by Mrs. M. Knorr, librarian at the Artesia Public Library, when she visited there from Park School Tuesday afternoon, with the leader, Mrs. Wayne Adams. Cards were taken home to be read by their parents.

Bulldog Parents To Buy Sweaters For Grid Squad

Raising money to buy sweaters for the Artesia High School football squad, in conjunction with a membership drive, will soon be a project of the Bulldog Parents Club.

Date of the drive has not been set but the club said it would be in the near future. Also tied in with proceeds from the campaign will be the sale of Bulldog buttons, three inches in diameter, to which orange and black ribbons, the school colors, are affixed.

"Licensed Bulldog Booster" and "Issued by Bulldog Parents Club"

will be the lettering with a Bulldog in the center. Buttons have been ordered and will go on sale "as soon as they arrive."

The club has set its meeting for the first Tuesday of each month. Executive committee, composed of club officers, will plan each session.

Conoco to Stage Second Annual Picnic Saturday

Continental Oil Company employees of Artesia and of other southeastern New Mexico towns, will entertain their families at the second annual Conoco family picnic tomorrow in Carlsbad Beach Park.

Picnic fun for the group will include free rides for the kiddies on all park concessions, softball game between New Mexico district employees and Artesia refinery and seismograph crews, horseshoe pitching tourney, followed by a barbecue. Square dancing on the pavilion will wind up the program.

The family holiday at Carlsbad is one of 60 that are being attended by 22,000 members of Conoco families this summer in communities from Baltimore to Los Angeles and from Montana to the Rio Grande.

First of the series of family picnics was started in 1950. For southeastern New Mexico the affair was staged at the Carlsbad park, same location as for this year.

Start of the family picnic event in 1950 was in conjunction with the company's celebration of its 75th anniversary.

The picnic committee, headed by E. L. Shafer, Hobbs, includes—E. E. Gillespie and J. P. Hines, both of Artesia; and G. R. Cummings, William Randolph, W. D. Howard, F. T. Elliott, F. Z. Kellerman, all of Hobbs.

Representing headquarters office on the occasion will be T. A. Van Griethuysen, F. E. Butterfield, John Post, Duane Randall, J. H. Oley, J. P. Malott, H. L. Johnston, H. R. Colter, and Harry Miller.

Conoco has 250 employees in Southeastern New Mexico. D. F. Jacobs of Hobbs is assistant superintendent of the New Mexico District, West Texas-New Mexico Division, Production Department.

If you keep guns in your house, keep them unloaded except when actually using them. Treat every gun as if it were loaded and never aim at anything you don't want to shoot.

Conservation Cash Opposed By Farm Group

The Family Farm Policy Review meeting held in the evening of Sept. 17 in the United Veterans Club was one of the four meetings conducted by the County Agricultural Mobilization Committee, headed by Britton Coll, with the purpose of determining what the farmers and ranchers want in the way of service from the U. S. Department of Agriculture agencies.

The payments made to farmers for the promotion of soil and water conservation practices was aired and the group expressed their desire to eliminate any such payments in the future, because they feel that the administration expense is too great and that the payments have lost their effective ness.

The support programs were favored for continuance as a means of protecting both producer and consumer.

The Federal Crop Insurance came in for its share of discussion and the group recommended that it be revised to include only hail damage coverage, the coverage increased to account for greater expenses involved, and that it conform more with old line insurance.

Pioneer Rancher Dies in Roswell

Death came Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock to Frank Billings of Roswell, a rancher in this area for 67 years.

He died in St. Mary's hospital at the age of 85.

Born in Manchester, Ill., Billings came to New Mexico when he was 18, settling at Tijeras, and later moving to Roswell.

He was the owner of extensive ranch and farm holdings in the Roswell area until last year, when he sold the bulk of them to Hal Bogle of Dexter, retaining only a farm near Roswell, on which he had made his home for a number of years.

Billings was a member of the First Methodist Church of Roswell and active in civic affairs.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Goodrich, of West Labanon, Ind., and Mrs. Effie Lawyer of Cambridge, Ohio, and a niece, Mrs. Herbert Lowery of Roswell.

Funeral arrangements are pending with Ballard Mortuary of Roswell.

Aztec Stone Calendar in Use At Gateway City

Citizens of El Paso will never have to wonder what day of the year it is.

One of three existing replicas of the ancient Aztec stone calendar was presented recently to El Paso by Mexican officials. The other two replicas are located at New York and Moscow.

The original stone weighs 24 tons. It was a part of an Aztec temple destroyed by the Spaniards in the 16th century. It was buried and later rediscovered. Intricate readings on the huge stone indicate the 365 days of the year, cycles of weather, and seasons.

The stone has been located in downtown El Paso so that citizens on their way to work may check the date. All they have to do is learn the Aztec language.

Women Invade Another Male World And Make Records and Cash in Oil

Women are getting into more and more fields formerly occupied exclusively by men and oil is no exception. While none of the women in oil are anywhere near to Artesia, women over the state of New Mexico have been observed in other male occupation recently.

Artesia had a woman barber for a while and over in Las Cruces the first woman court bailiff took office on Aug. 29, according to a story in the Las Cruces Sun-News of Aug. 26.

The women in the oil business are Mrs. Catherine Olson, Los Angeles, head of the Olson Scouting Service; Mrs. Dolie Radler, geological consultant, Tulsa; Mrs. Lottie McFann, Long Beach, Calif., drilling contractor.

Mrs. Alberta M. Young, New Orleans, petroleum consultant; Nancy Heard, Corpus Christi, oil editor of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times; Mrs. Margaretta Billings, oil producer, Russell, Kansas.

Information on the women in the oil industry comes from the August issue of the Independent Petroleum Association of America Monthly, published at Tulsa.

Oil Scout
Mrs. Olson has only been in the oil business for the last four years, having entered in 1947 upon the start more or less from scratch.

Although she had accompanied her husband on business trips and had graduated from business college she had not had any specific training for the work and had to start more or less from scratch.

The Olson Scouting Service, which she heads, puts out a weekly development report, giving data on location, spud date, drilling progress, with completion or abandonment notations, of every well drilled in California.

The Service has information on file on all wells drilled in the state since 1929 and also carries individual well completion reports.

Mrs. Olson has five employees working for her who gather field information, answer requests from subscribers for information from their files, maintain records, and assist with preparation of the service's publications.

Requests for information from the service's files have been increasing in number, according to the article.

Mrs. Olson herself devotes most of her time traveling to various oil centers in the state, calling on customers and prospects, and keeping in touch with more active developments.

Mother of Four

In addition to heading up the service, she is also the mother of four children ranging in age from four to 13, and is engaged in taking an evening course in petroleum drafting at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Her main hobby is attending football games.

Mrs. Olson doesn't think her sex is against her. The product or service a person has to offer is more important than whether that person is a man or a woman, according to Mrs. Olson.

Distaff Rockhounds
Sporting 20 years experience as a geological consultant is Mrs. Dolie Radler Hall, Tulsa, who has been chief geologist with the Amerada Petroleum Company for a number of years.

Mrs. Hall also tells tales of being discriminated against on account of her sex in the early days, but that this attitude has now gone by the boards.

Serving as petroleum engineering consultant and partner to Dr.

Gordon I. Atwater, geologist, is Mrs. Alberta M. Young of New Orleans.

Mrs. Young recently received a license to practice petroleum engineering in Louisiana and is believed to be the first woman registered in the profession in the entire country.

She also holds the distinction of being the only woman engineer in the state of Louisiana.

Driller
Drilling contracting is not immune from female infiltration. Representing that end of the oil business is Mrs. Lottie McFann, who is the only woman drilling contractor in the United States.

She is owner of the McFann Drilling Company of Long Beach, Calif., which position she assumed after buying out her two silent partners.

Before taking over control of the company she was under contract with a major oil company, for which her late husband, Bill McFann, had purchased a new and complete drilling rig.

Oil President
The rig has a reputation of being one of the most efficient in the state of California for drilling as deep as 7,000 feet.

It has always functioned perfectly, for which part of the credit goes to Jack Dow, who is employed as special oil field mechanic by Mrs. McFann.

Mrs. McFann first became acquainted with the oil business when she visited Reward Lease in McKittrick field, now known as Cymric, in California. It was here that she met her husband, who first laid the groundwork for her present business.

Mrs. McFann has taken courses in drilling and control, and in manners and management.

She is a member of IPAA and only woman member of the American Association of Oil Well Drilling Contractors.

She is a member of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and is president of California American Oil Corporation.

Mrs. McFann is also active in Sunday school and committee work. She is also an excellent cook and hostess resulting in successful dinner parties at her home.

Oil Scribe

Keeping people in Corpus Christi and vicinity informed on oil news is the job of Nancy Heard, who is oil editor of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times.

Miss Heard first became associated with the oil business as a "patriotic duty". The male oil writer had been drafted and she felt she should step into his shoes.

At that time she conceived of her job of being only a temporary assignment and vowed never to write any more oil news after the man she replaced came back from the wars.

However, her vow was soon broken and she now says she wouldn't trade her job for any other on the paper.

When she first took on the job the Caller-Times had only a small amount of local oil news.

Under Miss Heard's direction this was increased to a small oil page three times a week and a full page on Sunday.

Enlargement of the department, which is the most expensive department of the paper due to the large number of long distance calls, necessitated the hiring of a male assistant.

From 10 to 20 telephone calls per day are needed to gather the daily oil news and this figure jumps to between 75 and 100 on Fridays and Saturdays in preparation for the Sunday paper.

Results of all this telephoning is 14 columns of oil news on Sunday, and at least six columns on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. All this news gathering was done by Miss Heard herself until last year when she got an assistant.

Territory covered by the oil news in the Caller-Times includes Texas Railroad Commission Districts 2 and 4, most of District 1, and the southern part of district 3.

One of the things Miss Heard hopes to accomplish by her oil writing is to bring about better understanding between oil and gas men, and newspaper editors and reporters.

She also believes it takes initiative to put out an oil page, and that a lazy person, regardless of their sex, would fail in the undertaking.

Miss Heard was also among the persons who had to put up with the sex angle; but due to the wide circulation of the Caller-Times, and the many favorable comments her oil news have evoked, she has just about conquered it.

Oil Financier

In the oil production area is Mrs. Margaretta Billings, of Russell, Kansas. She has been in business for 22 years, starting out in partnership with her late husband. She operates a number of holdings, handling business details and supervising the office.

The first Billings well came in on June 1, 1923, on what is known as the Billings-Whit lease in the Gorham field, Russell county, Kansas.

Owens Colorado Ranch

This undertaking looked hopeless to some of the Billings friends, as the well was located on a syncline, but it finally came through.

Mrs. Billings' activities in the oil business are duly noted in the history of "Oil in Russell County," by H. G. Hotchkiss, which is quoted by the magazine.

In addition to her oil production duties, Mrs. Billings finds time to visit her ranch in Colorado in company with her two sons, aged 15 and 13.

The ranch offers good trout fishing and deer and elk hunting, although Mrs. Billings doesn't have too much time to devote to these activities.

There is need of greater understanding of peoples and their problems and of increased assistance to underdeveloped areas to improve standards of living. Means should be found to make known to all peoples the blessings of liberty and of individual freedom, and encouragement should be given to oppressed peoples to establish democratic governments which affirm fundamental human rights.

All Our Resources Needed

To accomplish the job which faces us requires all our resources. Business men and women know the advantages of partnership — increased accomplishment and greater profit. But to attain these results there is need for partners to put their shoulders to the wheel and contribute to the extent of their ability. Full partnership requires sharing of efforts as well as of profit.

In the job which faces us as citizens—finding the way to peace

—members of The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs want the opportunity of full partnership. They believe the task requires everyone to contribute according to ability and they are willing to share hardship and sacrifice in order to achieve the task ahead.

Farming has moved up fourth to third place as the dangerous way of making a living. About 55 of every 100,000 natural workers are killed annually every year. Only the cotton industry, mining and logging had higher occupational rates.

Maybe you're missing something BIG

WE know how you feel when a car has given you faithful service. You like it. You're loyal to it. And that's only human.

But just suppose you found out that some other car could make familiar roads seem a lot smoother.

Suppose some other car held the curves in a way you'd never felt before.

Suppose some other car had more thrilling power — steered like a dream—held its course like an airliner on the beam—and let you finish a long day's drive feeling daisy fresh.

Wouldn't you feel you're missing something big unless you tried it out?

There is such a car. Its name is Buick.

It has big soft coil springs on every wheel. It has a Fireball Engine. It has a "front-end geometry" that does miracles with steering. And it has Dynaflo Drive.*

And incidentally, it wears a price tag that makes it a very smart buy compared to anything else you own.

We'd like to have you try this car. You'll never know what you're missing till you do.

How about giving us a call — or coming in to see us real soon?

Farm Jobs Made More Attractive SSA Benefits

Jobs on farms are more attractive now that wages from regular employment begin to count for old-age and survivors' insurance protection through the re-extension of the Social Security law, according to Samuel C. Jones, manager of the El Paso Social Security office.

Local farm workers feel more secure now that they can look forward to the same insurance protection as do workers in other fields—protection against loss of income if retired at age 65 and loss of family income if a worker dies at any age, Jones says.

The amount of this insurance protection for a family ranges from $150 a month, depending on the worker's earnings and the number of dependents in his family.

Full worker coverage under the Social Security law is compulsory for those regularly employed by an employer, Anthony points out. The close of each calendar three-month period, farm operators must pay the wages of workers meeting the employment test for regular employment.

Regularly employed farm workers who have worked for one employer a full calendar quarter and continue working for the farmer at least 60 days in each calendar quarter.

Farm workers not meeting this test do not have their wages reported for social security purposes. Operators obtain reports by registering with the local Director of Internal Revenue: Albuquerque for El Paso area; Albuquerque for New Mexico. After registration, the report forms sent continually to the farmer at the close of each calendar three-month period.

Regular farm workers, as well as all others in the social security program, may check to see if wages are reported correctly by their employers through use of a simple wage statement request card available at any Social Security office. Anthony points out.

Social Security account numbers should be shown to farm employers by all regular farm workers. Original cards or copies of these are issued by the nearest Social Security office.

A special feature scheduled to appear each evening during the rodeo performance at the New Mexico fair in Albuquerque, Sept. 29-Oct. 7 will be the famous Boom Town Mounted Square Dancers from Burkburnett, Texas.
The group differs from other mounted organizations in that it does not confine its performances to drills. Each performance is a complete square dance on the back.
Variety is the spice of the colorful program. This is attained by change of dress, ranging from white to brilliant reds and purples. The Quarter Horses, which are used exclusively, have been bred in color, size and temperament.
The most thrilling dance, from the spectators' point of view, is the "Grand Figure Eight." It is the most dangerous for the riders and horses. With the horses moving at full speed and missing one other by mere inches, the smallest error in judgment and timing can be fatal.
Only 16 out of every 100 sons in the U. S. were farmers in 1950.

announcement of the closing of the entire third floor of St. Joseph's Hospital at Artesia, because of the shortage of nurses is a reflection of a situation that exists all over the state.

It is found in New Mexico where not a single hospital has sufficient help to operate properly. Nurses now come under federal labor laws, which are being fought against over the state. Overtime pay is not given in those cases where the reason it may seem necessary to work more than eight hours a day runs from $8 to $12 a day.

St. Joseph's is a Catholic hospital and its ownership and direction seem to make much difference. The Protestant hospitals out of the state are meeting the situation as is first given example by St. Joseph's, which has reached the limit of the scope of its operation.

Need for applications from nurses, made by St. Joseph's and other hospitals have a little response.

which differs not at all the situation all over the state, which is bad enough now and will be worse under federal control.

problem has been growing for several years and is worrying economists and theorists. American Economist seems to be about the only authority to offer a remedy that might be effective.

It is pointed out that the steady migration of the nation has made service compulsory for the young men. The Economist thinks the same policy should be followed toward the young women at none of them should be released from service as nurses.

They wouldn't be allowed to go to school or to marry until they served three years in a health unit, either military or civilian. The first year should be of instruction. The Economist says believed that it is the solution of the employment of women that is responsible for most of the economic troubles of the nation.

Argument is sequential that nursing and occupation of young women would be the period of employment would not be left to their own inclinations!

Whether this solution is any better or not doesn't change the fact that the nation faces a dangerous shortage of nurses, an occurrence tion basically feminine. Perhaps killing off a million or so of the young men in another war might relieve the stress, but nobody likes to think of that pulling at same cigarette, what is the matter with the idea of compulsory nursing service? Doesn't it analyze pretty well?

Another First Bale
Vicente Hernandez of La Mesa, down in Dona Ana County, brought in the first cotton for ginning in that division this year. The Lawrence Walker Cotton Company, paid him 80 cents a pound or $396.80 for the 496 pounds of whiteness.

Competent Dog Policeman
Portales has the ablest dog policeman in the state, one John Henry Robinson, who is no kin to this Woodstocker. The Portales officer has been on the job three years and during that time grabbed 1750 dogs, of whom he killed 1142 and found homes for the rest. During the same period he ushered 457 cats. That's shuffling 'em off all right enough.

Army Invades Hobbs
The Salvation Army is extracting $700 from Hobbs as that city's part toward the annual benevolent work of the Army. They probably have the coin by this time, Guy Rogers is apt to crack down any minute.

Trimbles on War Path
Drunken drivers had better stay off the roads in Otero County. Sheriff Charlie Trimble is on the war path after 'em and means to clean up the situation in that division, which has been getting worse for some time. There won't be any "fixing" in Otero County and both drivers and their pals will pay or lay it out in jail.

NEW MEXICO'S EXPANSION PROGRAM MOVES FORWARD!

IN THE LAST FEW YEARS, we have nearly tripled our investment in plant and facilities to serve New Mexico telephone users.

- The increase in investment has been very substantial for two reasons. First, we have tried to keep pace with continuing demand. Second, it takes a lot more dollars to provide facilities at today's high cost levels.
- In the last five years we've spent $18 1/2 million for construction of new facilities, and our program this year calls for $5 1/2 million more.
- Not only is more equipment being added daily throughout the state, but New Mexico users are finding the telephone more and more useful.
- Ten years ago, about 200,000 local and long distance calls were being handled daily. Today the volume has tripled, with a daily average approximating 600,000.
- The combined efforts of 1,650 skilled employees are building for New Mexico a telephone system to match the state's growing needs.

Congress Is Learning

THOSE MEMBERS of Congress not blinded by the continual cries of this is necessary for defense and security that the American armed forces are about the most extravagant and wasteful people in the world.

Whether they will learn soon enough and whether a sufficient number will learn, remains to be seen.

But to provide for defense on an efficient, wise and economical basis is one thing. To waste and stock pile materials not needed and to throw economy and thrift to the wind in spending the taxpayers' money is another thing.

Congressman J. J. (Jack) Dempsey recently pointed out some examples of government spending for defense. We, of course, shouldn't forget the millions of oyster forks purchased during World War II.

But Congressman Dempsey recently declared "the thought is gradually coming to the members of Congress that, in a situation such as we are facing now, we should have a well planned and sensible program of purchasing, keeping in mind the economy of our nation. We should order equipment as it is needed and not create such great surpluses for future use. That would be the businesslike and proper approach to our problem, but instead the reverse condition exists. Entirely too much is ordered at one time, which causes shortages of critical materials and also additional expense because of the necessity of storing much that we cannot use. One instance of this extravagant purchasing came to light last week. It was found that 11,000 desks which had been purchased for government use were in warehouses in and around Washington. They were manufactured with the highest priority rating (defense order), but were actually surplus at the moment."

Another representative in Congress has called attention to some of the army purchases listed recently, which include 13,000,000 can openers—enough to provide four of these 'deadly weapons' to every member of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Also listed were 100 pipe organs at a cost of $1500 each, 800,000 pounds of black pepper, 2 million gallons of insecticide, 22 million pairs of boots and 58 million yards of cotton webbing for belts. According to Rep. Regan, this is enough to put a belt of cotton webbing around the world at the equator, with sufficient left over to give every man in the armed forces a belt for each day in the week and two for Sunday.

Many problems enter into the military buying—some created by those who do not desire to sell. For instance in the purchase of automotive parts, the government buys billions a year. The automobile manufacturers do not want the business and bid high. Other suppliers come in, hike their prices and in some instances the prices paid are far too high.

This also happens in the purchase of plane parts. Congress, qualified business experts say, are not qualified to check these matters—they are lawmakers. They can't comprehend billions plus all the technicalities that are wrapped up in military requests. The result is they vote practically blank checks.

One suggestion to eliminate this is expert committees to confer with members of Congress—qualified people to advise and counsel with them. They suggest experts to ferret out the needless or worthless requests and to eliminate them. The general accounting office does check after the money is spent. They do a good job but it is too late. Their action does often result in future economies but it doesn't halt the wholly unnecessary extravagance of the present.

Everyone wants the armed forces to have all and everything it needs but we are beginning to realize there is too much buying of too large quantities of many items and there is too much buying of things which are not needed and are never used after they are bought.

Assuming Authority

ANOTHER ONE of those incidents of where the military presumed to take authority which they didn't have, occurred at Borger, Texas, recently when the newspaper photographer's camera was seized by a deputy sheriff on the request of a Naval commander.

A Naval plane crash-landed on a public highway. The photographer took a picture for his paper. The sheriff's deputy seized the camera and film. This was done according to the officers on the request of a Naval commander at Olathe, Kan.—where the Naval plane, which crashed was based.

That Naval commander had no right to make that request. The sheriff certainly had no authority to seize the camera. That incident occurred on a public highway. That photographer was acting within his rights.

The sheriff violated the Constitution of the United States by seizing that camera without due process of law.

These incidents are going to continue to occur just as long as citizens accept them and take them. The only way we are going to have and be privileged to exercise the rights which are ours will be by demanding them and going to court if that becomes necessary.

We have pointed out some other instances where the military has assumed authority which they do not have. They apparently feel they can take over the duties and the rights of the civilian authorities or they can have these civilian authorities assume authority they do not have.

The military has authority on the reservations or posts or over military or armed force personnel.

If we were at war—it might be different. Then extra powers are granted. But we are not at war—only a national emergency has been declared. Even the veterans are having to battle to secure rights which they should have because they are not engaged in an actual war. This technicality doesn't prevent the bullets from wounding them or even killing them.

We hope the Borger paper carries the case just as high as is necessary to clear up the matter and to help halt this practice of the military using and employing the old 'security' gag to cover up for their blunders, their busts and their mistakes.

And we also hope that the press and the citizens will unite to protect the rights guaranteed to them under the Constitution of the United States.

What Other Editors Are Saying

THE CARLSBAD-ARTESIA ROAD

The State Highway Commission says that a delay in getting federal clearance has held up reconstruction of a stretch of U. S. Highway 285 between Carlsbad and Artesia.

Chairman Ralph Jones said the commission will award a contract in September on rebuilding 3.3 miles of a 12-mile stretch that is to be repaved on U. S. 285 between Carlsbad and Artesia. The commission had expected to include the work in last Friday's letting, Jones said, but the road runs through a proposed future dam site and approval by the Bureau of Reclamation is needed.

According to Jones, the bureau has approved the project regionally and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is expected to approve the work in time for the contract to be included in next month's letting.

Only 3.3 miles of the proposed project can be undertaken now because of a shortage of structural steel, the highway department says.

Five years ago the highway department officials said they planned to reconstruct the Carlsbad-Artesia highway, but they said then that they were being delayed pending right-of-way approval from the Bureau of Reclamation. For a year or more they blamed the bureau for holding up the proposed construction because bureau officials were slow to make up their minds about possible future reservoir construction in the vicinity.

Finally, about three or four years ago, Reclamation Service approval was given, and the state had about six miles of the road rebuilt. Since the construction now proposed is a continuation of the completed six-mile job, we don't understand why further Reclamation approval is needed.

If further Reclamation approval is needed, why wasn't it obtained three or four years ago?

The highway department, in our opinion, has been mightily slow in carrying out its promises of improvements on the Carlsbad-Artesia road.—Carlsbad Current-Argus.

PUBLIC WELFARE CHISELERS

Reports of public welfare chiseling in Guadalupe County are particularly interesting when viewed in the light of a public welfare controversy which is raging between the federal government and the State of Indiana.

The New Mexico director of public welfare reports 96 cases of fraud, or suspected fraud, on the relief roles in Guadalupe County. In other words, 96 persons are accused of cheating the blind, the indigent old folks and dependent children.

Last March the Indiana State Legislature passed a bill over the governor's veto opening welfare records to public inspection. Billions of dollars in public tax money is spent without any right of public inspection and the Indiana Legislature correctly reasoned that this is not right.

If the public is to pay out tax money to support "relief clients," then the public should have the right to know whom it is supporting. If public welfare records were open for public inspection, there wouldn't be so much chiseling and cheating on relief.

The Social Security law provides that states which receive federal grants for public welfare must withhold the name of recipients from the public under penalty of forfeiting those federal grants. Thus, the federal government has notified Indiana it is cutting off relief funds to that state. Indiana will take the fight to the Supreme Court. Meanwhile, Congress is considering bills which would change the law and would prohibit the federal government from cutting off grants to states which open their relief roles to public inspection.

Editor & Publisher magazine says that Congress "must set itself straight and decide that the expenditure of public funds is a matter of public information in any field including welfare. And the Supreme Court must have its first opportunity to decide that the rights of the public are paramount to those of the few recipients of welfare relief."

We think so, too.—Carlsbad Current-Argus.

New Mexico

By G. WARD FENLEY

New Mexico newspapers do a pretty nice job of running those juicy, interesting, and at times, heart-warming episodes.

The Hobbs News Sun reported last week that the Smart Tress Beauty Shop (operated by Mrs. W. S. Isler) has a parrot who gives a long, low whistle each time some pretty dame finishes her beauty-aid work and prepares to leave. He's a male, wolfish-like parrot, no doubt.

The Lordsburg Liberal said that Mrs. S. R. Dunagan has an Alberta peach tree that produces twin peaches: one big, pretty, well-rounded-up peach and the other a shriveled, dried-up, ugly-duckling type.

The Artesia Advocate seems to specialize—recently—in being a center for collecting rare animals. Arthur Wilson brought in a brown and yellow, green-eyed, four-legged, throat-vibrating, lizard-like varmint. But it wasn't a lizard, Wilson said, and sent out an SOS for a biologist.

Four days later Charles Ransbarger produced a "what-zat," no-headed, no-legged thing that coiled up like a rubber band.

"No head or other discernible parts could be seen," The Advocate reported.

Then Col. Frank Eccles, commanding officer of WOD, (near Gallup), received a well-ventilated box which turned out to be the shelter of a three-foot long, hungry-looking alligator with a pink ribbon tied around his neck.

But probably the goofiest yarn of the week was the Tucumcari News' story about a Fort Worth, Texas (Luther Gray) who wrote that he wanted to settle in Tucumcari, "the town with the best climate on God's green earth."

We have no argument with his conclusions—but imagine a Texan's saying such as that.

Poignant

A story in the Roswell Record warmed the cockles of my heart. Robert Bailey, a newspaper boy, lost his pay envelope. The Foundation Investment Company made up the entire amount and enclosed an extra $1.03 for a show and a malt.

A note accompanied the gift: "This firm is operated by ex-rotary carriers and we are aware of how much this loss meant to you."

Years ago, according to the Raton Range, Mr. W. B. Teague befriended a World War II GI. The same Wisconsin GI returned two weeks ago to Raton and took Mr. and Mrs. Teague out to dinner.

It was seven years, two college degrees and a professor's job later that the kindness was returned.

With Friends

And just so you won't forget that there are such animals so typo errors, here is the week's list:

"New remedy that kills imbedded athlete's foot germs on contract"—Silver City Press; "Sansbury pleaded guilty to calling phony checks"—Carlsbad Current-Argus; "Sales tax director Joseph Bergere"—Hobbs Flare; "Slit beds in the Rio Grande"—El Paso Times; "Heling Herbs of the Southwest"—El Crepusculo; and "he was with friends"—Albuquerque Journal.

I loved that dilly in the Portales News: "The youth was charged with widow pecking." Wonder what Gordon Greaves finds so bad about that?

And in conclusion, how are your traffic manners?

Remember an automobile can be dangerous. During the little boy's lesson on animals, he was asked: "What are some dangerous things to get near that have horns?" "Automobiles," he promptly replied. So they are!

U. S. Air Force Has New A-Weapon Philosophy

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The Air Force is a bit late getting into the atomic age, but is now going all-out to prove that atomic explosives can be delivered on the battlefield more effectively in planes than in artillery shells or guided missiles.

The Army continues to believe that it must have its own atomic artillery and guided missiles, which have been under development for nearly two years. The Air Force formerly considered atomic bombs suitable only for strategic (industrial) destruction.

Under its new philosophy the Air Force is now planning to put up an extremely good argument for the use of plane-carried atoms to aid armies in the field. It is assumed in advance that America will have full control of the air.

Under these circumstances, well-trained pilots can almost literally drop bombs "down a stack," and the accuracy presumably would be sufficient to justify use of the costly atomic explosive.

However, under circumstances where an enemy is fighting with its back to the wall and an enemy controlled the air, it might be deprived of the use of a plane-carried super weapon when it could still place artillery shells accurately within enemy lines.

Defense department leaders say the rule of the thumb will be that the best weapon depends on the circumstances.

GOING OUT—Movements are under way for the retirement of the two top leaders of labor, AFL President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray.

In AFL circles, there are reports that the question of Green's retirement will come up at the San Francisco convention, which opens Sept. 17.

If Green should step out, George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer, is regarded as the most likely successor. In any event, Meany is the most active candidate for the job.

The question of Murray's retirement was discussed at a high secret meeting of the nine CIO vice presidents. Murray, in good health, reportedly expressed a desire to retire but said he was not ready to go on. The upshot is said to have been a tacit understanding that a successor will be named next year.

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers, is the most frequently mentioned for Murray's job.

MECCA—George Washington's majestic mansion on the Potomac always has been a prime year-round goal for sightseers, but in the summer they descend in thundering droves and frequently bring their ried guides and caretakers to the brink of distraction.

The sweeping green lawns become hard-packed under the feet of parents chasing youngsters bent upon getting lost in the throng. Any day brings a kaleidoscopic parade of visitors, almost always including members of the Mennonite and Menonite sects from Pennsylvania or other nearby states.

The simple garb of these people is stared at by other visitors to the neglect of some of the interesting Washington they came to see.

One of the employees on the estate took advantage of a brief lull the other day to give an astute summary of his attitude on the peering scene.

"You know," he said, "I'm sure General Washington would have been more at home with the ancient Egyptians than if he were back here today."

home of Mrs. James Davis were her sister, Mrs. Claude Smith and daughters, Jan and Sussie of Artesia.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Case of Artesia spent Sunday with Mrs. Case's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mills. They came for their son, Tony, who had been here visiting his grandparents since Friday.

Guests Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jeff Richardson were Mrs. W. A. Loyd and Mrs. T. W. Loyd of Artesia.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Dyer, Sr., of Jal spent last week-end here visiting their son, S. A. Dyer and family in Texas-New Mexico camp. The hosts and their guests and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harshaw and daughter enjoyed a wiener roast on Saturday and a fishing trip on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Fisher of the Sinclair Oil Company lease returned Monday from a two weeks vacation trip. They visited friends, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Wright at Breckenridge, Texas; his brother, Jack Fisher at Fox, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Aldridge Hodges at Henryetta, Okla., and his sister, Mrs. Joe G. and family at Mulberry, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Good left Thursday, Sept. 13 for Boston, Texas, and vicinity to be with relatives. The expect to be 10 days.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Swinford and son, J. D., spent last week-end at Wink, Texas, visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Courville and family.

Mrs. G. C. Whitefield and Mr. Douglas, and their daughter, Mrs. Jack Whitaker and family, and Mrs. J. D. Peek and daughter, Beverly, attended the funeral of D. Whitefield, Monday, Sept. 17. Services were held at Community and burial was at Snyder. He was the father of G. C. Whitefield, grandfather of Mrs. Whitaker and J. D. Peek.

THE eleven-year-old offspring of wealthy New York parents showed unmistakable signs of maturity and Paper Magazine Sam Himmel suggested that the father give him the old beat-and -flowers routine. Papa duly assembled an imposing array of charts and photographs, summoned sonny boy and lectured him on sex fundamentals for a full hour.

Finally he said, "Well, Willy, that's the story. Now I'm sure you have some questions to ask." "Just one, papa," said the son. "What's the big idea of handing me this boring routine? I wanna be a cowboy."

A quickie picture producer in Hollywood, operating on a shoe-string budget, found himself unable to meet the salary demands of an actor he wanted for a supporting role. "I just haven't got the money," he confessed, "but I'll bet you're as hungry as I am—and I plan to use real food on the banquet scene."

"I got the story on 50,000 Miles-No Wear and changed to New Conoco Super Motor Oil"

says E. M. Markl, Sr. Buick Dealer Kansas City, Kansas

"50,000 Miles-No Wear!" Proved Here:

After a punishing 50,000-mile road test, with proper drains and regular care, engines lubricated with new Conoco Super Motor Oil showed no wear of any consequence; in fact, an average of less than one one-thousandth inch on cylinders and crankshafts. AND gasoline mileage for the last 5,000 miles was actually 99.77% as good as for the first 5,000!

GARAGE MANAGER
"A mechanic dreams of working on a clean engine," says Lewis Stoddart, Garage Manager, Blackfoot, Idaho. "My dream came true when customers started using new Conoco Super. It cuts down trouble, but I'm a loyal booster of Conoco Super."

RANCHER
"I'm sure glad you converted me to the '50,000 Miles—No Wear' oil," writes Albert E. Lentz, Rancher, Delta, Colorado. "I really barreled my Mercury over the highway on a recent trip, and all I could hear was a motor purring like a kitten."

Annual Ranch Day Scheduled For October 8

The eleventh annual Ranch Day will be held at the New Mexico A & M College Ranch and the U. S. Forest Service's Jornada Experimental Range near Las Cruces, Monday, Oct. 8, J. H. Knox, head of the college's animal husbandry department, announced today. Stockmen interested in research findings of the two agencies are invited to attend.

Ranch cattle improvement is the theme of the program this year, and research reports and talks by cattle experts will feature the latest developments in this field. "We feel that our theme this year is particularly timely, because of the national emphasis on greater and more efficient meat production, and we hope to make the program well worth the practical rancher's time," Knox said. Discussions throughout the day will center around cattle types and plans for improvement.

An annual event, Ranch Day is a joint undertaking of the New Mexico Agricultural Experiment Station, the Extension Service, and the U. S. Forest Service to help inform stockmen in New Mexico and neighboring states of the work being done on the experimental ranches as well as elsewhere.

As in previous years, the day will begin when visitors assemble at the Courthouse Square in Las Cruces at 7:30 a. m. on the second Monday in October. From there, they will tour the two experimental ranches, stopping at various points of interest for reports, talks, and demonstrations. They will be guests of the college for a chuck-wagon lunch at the College Ranch headquarters.

Hopalong Rides New Range at Peoples Bank

Hopalong Cassidy is coming to town—at least in the form of a metal bank—which will be issued to all Artesia youngsters who join the Hopalong Cassidy savings club for children.

This club will begin operations tomorrow morning and will continue to do so every Saturday morning from then on, according to an announcement by Cecil Waldrop, third executive vice-president of Peoples State Bank.

Headquarters of the club will be in a corner of the bank which will be decked out to simulate a corral and will have a picture of Hopalong Cassidy's horse.

To join the club requires a two dollar "membership fee", on receipt of which each youngster is given the "tenderfoot badge," denoting lowest order of membership.

Letter From Hoppy
In addition, each boy and girl is given the bank mentioned above, membership certificate and wallet size membership card, which has Hoppy's secret code on it, and a personal letter from Hoppy, welcoming the youngster to the club. The materials come in a thrifty kit, with the exception of the bank and badges that are issued separately.

Also in the kit is an autographed color photo of Hoppy, and the saving rodeo book which tells the boys and girls how to advance to the next stage of membership and earn another badge.

There are six classes of membership in addition to the basic category of tenderfoot—wrangler, bull-dogger, bronc buster, trail boss, straw boss (assistant to Hoppy who's Bar 20 Ranch foreman).

The advanced badges show cowboy operations designated by their titles, with the exception of straw boss, which has a five-pointed star with a circle in the middle.

The circle has the figure 20 with a bar over it and the inscription "Straw Boss—Hopalong Cassidy's Savings Rodeo."

Designation as to class of membership is also contained on all the other badges.

The Hopalong Cassidy club which opens tomorrow is the first one in Artesia. Carlisbad has had one for some time.

Small Detroit Concern Obtains $600,000 RFC Loan

WRIGHT-PATTERSON AIR FORCE BASE, DAYTON, OHIO—One of the first Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans guaranteed by the Air Force to a small business concern has been granted to Ryan Industries, Inc., of Detroit, Mich., in the amount of $800,000, it was announced recently.

Employing about 250 people, the company is showing other small business outfits that a fair share of the defense dollar is available to small firms who can do a good production job for Uncle Sam.

Ryan Industries has produced almost $5 million worth of equipment for the Air Force in the past three years.

This includes research and development work on such items as photographic equipment, aerial delivery trolleys, and electronic components.

Smaller manufacturers are very important cogs in the defense production machinery. Ryan Industries has met all of its production schedules in 15 contracts with the Air Force.

This includes the production of such precise items as the A-8B aircraft camera magazine, flash bombs and ejectors, and aerial delivery system which is capable of discharging 10,000 lbs. of cargo in seven seconds from Fairchild C-82 and C-119 cargo planes.

Peter Magyari, president of the company in expressing his feelings about dealing with Uncle Sam stated: "We realized when we started out, that working on government contracts was the same as dealing with private concerns—if you can produce good merchandise on schedule, you will always be considered a 'good source'.

whether you employ 50 people or 50,000.
