"Job-Rated" TRUCKS

Bigger loads!  Bigger loads! Balanced Weight Distribution enables you to haul bigger payloads on a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck. Faster trips!  Faster trips! High-Compression Engine gives you plenty of power. Increased horsepower—in combination with the right transmission and rear axle ratio—means faster trips! Four-ring pistons with chrome-plated top ring and other outstanding values assure performance that saves dimes and dollars on your job.

Longer life!  Longer life! Husky Chassis Units are one reason why a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck lasts and lasts. You get a rugged frame of hot-rolled, high-carbon steel. Springs are of special alloy steel—extra tough, yet resilient! Axle shafts are shot-peened for added durability. And every chassis unit is "Job-Rated" to fit your job!

What a "Job-Rated" Truck Means to You
A "Job-Rated" truck is engineered at the factory to fit a specific job... provide the best in low-cost transportation, save money, last longer. "I've driven considerably more than 50,000 miles since I changed to Conoco Super. So I know—50,000 Miles—No Wear has certainly been true for my car. It still runs like new, and my gasoline mileage is as good, too! Conoco Super's the oil for me!"

Proof of 50,000 Miles—No Wear! After a punishing 50,000 mile road test, with proper drains and regular care, engines lubricated with new Conoco Super Motor Oil showed no wear of any consequence: in fact, an average of less than one one-thousandth inch on cylinders and crankshafts. Factory finishing marks were still visible on piston rings! Gasoline mileage for the last 5,000 miles was actually 99.77% as good as for the first 5,000!

College
Ranch Day Event
Attended By 350

Large cattle improvement and range management took spotlight before the more than 350 visitors at the recent Ranch Day on the New Mexico A & M College Ranch and the Jornada Experimental Range north of Las Cruces.

George Ellis, manager of the range in northern New Mexico, explained the system he is using for herd improvement. "We select replacement stock for our herd on three bases — weight, grade and rate of gain — and select for all three points," he said. He pointed to the Mexico beef cattle improvement program as a guide for his actions and an aid in keeping necessary records.

P. W. Gregory, animal husbandman with the University of Arizona, told the group that methods of selection for herd improvement may have favored certain "defect" which is increasing in both show and commercial herds. His studies have shown that dwarfism may be associated with a low metabolism.

The size or type of cattle is not related to efficiency of gain, reported J. H. Knox, head of the animal husbandry department at New Mexico A & M College. He demonstrated the point by showing groups of replacement heifers on the College Ranch, one of which was selected for large size and the other for compactness. Heifers from both groups gained equal efficiency.

Three downward signs of range overgrazing are close grazing of good range grasses, and a decrease in less desirable range plants, said K. A. Valentine, state animal husbandman with the college. He warned ranchers that the only way to combat such symptoms is by careful use of the range.

We are meeting the extreme drought on the Jornada by close grazing of our breeding herd and selling the larger calves of the fall crop and the cut-back yearlings, Fred N. Ares, superintendent of the Jornada Experimental Range, explained. He said that the Jornada keeps a flexible herd by selling a low proportion of breeding cows to the other classes of stock.

After the chuckwagon lunch at the College Ranch Headquarters, W. Branson, president of A & M, welcomed the visitors, and Roy Rehband, president of the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association, replied to the welcome. Ivan Wilson, extension animal husbandman with the college, served as chairman for the day. The Day was sponsored by New Mexico A & M and the U. S. Forest Service.

What's in a Report Card? Teacher's Article Gives the Complete Story

A complete explanation of the grading system used in Artesia public schools is the subject of the following article, submitted by Nancy Haynes, second grade teacher at Central School, and chairman of public relations of the Artesia Education Association.

While a feature story on the grading system, explanation of the symbols and their significance was published toward the close of the last session in The Artesia Advocate, the news editor appreciates getting further information direct from the local school teachers' association.

Similar information for other articles, supplied by the teachers' organization or officials, covering other angles of the public schools, will be welcomed.

The public relations chairman's article:

On the Wednesday following the close of each six weeks period in the elementary schools, a report card signifying the progress of each child is sent to his parents.

The principals of the various schools in the Artesia system met October 8 in the office of the Elementary Supervisor and discussed the symbols used to represent grades in the Artesia system.

The "S" which is given to the pre-first, second, and third grades, indicates that a child is working according to his ability, but does not indicate a specific grade and should not be taken to mean that the child is doing straight "A" work.

The "U" is unsatisfactory, not working up to ability, yet passing. "I" indicates improvement and is used after another grade "U" or "F", and the "F" is used only when a child is failing.

A notification of unsatisfactory or failing work as specified on the notice, is sent to the parent at the close of the fourth week of the grading period or two weeks before the report cards are sent to the home.

Grades 4, 5, 6—The fourth, fifth, and sixth grades are graded with the usual A, B, C, D, and F. The numerical value of the grades is: A—85 to 100; B—85 to 94; C—76 to 87; D—standard with the junior and senior 70 to 76; F—below 70. This is also for high school.

The grading system for the Artesia Junior High School is as follows:

A—Superior Work—To earn an A students must contribute more to their classwork than is assigned by the teacher.

They must take part in the class discussions, do extra outside reading or reference work and be responsive in every way.

B—Above Average—To earn a B, students must do the assigned work well. They should also contribute to class discussions.

C—Average—This is where the large majority of the group will fall as most students will be about average.

D—Below Average—Students are not doing as well as they should. Either they do not have the background for the work or they are not trying as hard as they should. D is a conditional pass grade.

F—Failing Grade—Students making F's are far behind in the background for doing work in that grade or they are not working up to capacity.

Citizenship—In addition to grades given in subjects, students are also graded on citizenship under the following headings: Courtesy, industry, neatness, attentiveness, and tardiness. On these they are graded either with an S or V, meaning satisfactory or unsatisfactory.

Also on this report to the parents there is a place on the back of a card for the teacher to make any comment about the child's work that the instructor thinks the parent might like to know.

Honor Roll—The Junior High has a system of selecting students for the Honor Roll and for the Honor Society.

Students who make at least two A's and no grade below a B are eligible for the Honor Roll. The same standard is set for the Honor Society except that in addition to the grades or scholarship, they must possess leadership and character.
