Food and Land Grab Sparked Reds Rise in Eastern Europe, Speaker Says

Promises of food and liberation from church control of lands got Communists into power in Eastern Europe. Imre Kovacs told a Red audience Monday night, in the Presbyterian Parish hall.

In a talk entitled "Red Runs the Show," Kovacs promised redistribution of church properties and how this would go well with the people. In some countries of Eastern Europe, church ownership of property ran as much as 30 per cent of the total land area.

Promises that they would get more food were welcomed by the Red nations because they don't have enough to support themselves. Even though the Communists failed to deliver on that promise as all the others, it got them in because a starving man will listen to anybody and jealousy of the better fed is easily stirred up.

Kovacs illustrated his point by the example from his own life. He told how as a college student in the United States he went on a voluntary fast, which at the time was a fad with his group.

However, he soon became jealous of the well fed people he saw around him and ended his fast before the agreed time.

He said that twice in 25 years, the people of Eastern Europe had been disappointed in American promises when it came to fulfillment of same.

Toward the end of World War II the people of Yugoslavia and other Iron Curtain countries knew the 14 points backwards and every young kid knew the name of Woodrow Wilson.

Following World War II it was the Four Freedoms and the Atlantic Charter which were held up to the people.

Kovacs disapproved of the method of fighting "The Big Dictator" meaning Stalin, with "Little Dictators" he named as Tito and Franco and urged that aid to Spain and Yugoslavia be given help only if promises of reform are extracted from the governments in return for aid.

He also suggested that Americans should have a hand in distribution of food sent and also urged exchange of students, so people could get to know each other better.

"Freedom" How freedom of religion, written into the constitutions of Iron Curtain countries actually operates was also told by Kovacs.

Anyone may go to church but it is a good idea not to be seen by the authorities or they will retaliate by cutting people's rations, or demoting persons in high places.

Executions Title of Kovacs talk was derived from the idea that the Danube is red with the blood of persons who had been executed along its banks.

He told how when he was just five years old he saw a group of persons being executed who had been accused of being spies and mentioned the fact that the Germans executed some of his high school teachers during World War II.

The executions both by the Germans and Russians were the result of hate systematically taught and Kovacs urged that we fight hate with hate.

Bombs for Peace To do this effectively there must be a decisive plan of action on the part of all freedom loving people. He offered his own "Bombs for Peace" plan.

This plan, which has been endorsed by Drew Pearson and Westbrook Pegler, involves writing messages which can be sent in plastic balloons to countries behind the Iron Curtain.

First step in the plan is to have civic organizations and schools in each community write messages, the gist of which should be that Americans want peace and that they want others to enjoy it also.

These messages must then be translated into Russian and forwarded together with $10 to cover the cost of the balloons and the release of them, to Bombs of Peace Center Springs, Pa.

Into Russian Kovacs said persons could send messages to him at Chester Springs, Pa., for translation into Russian. Each group undertaking a "Bombs for Peace" project should prepare 5000 leaflets.

Printing of the leaflets would be done in each community joining in the campaign.

Kovacs has been explaining his plan in various communities as part of a cross country tour. Other points in New Mexico visited by him have been Carlsbad, Roswell, and Albuquerque.

Following his talk in Artesia, he departed for Big Spring, Texas, where he was scheduled to talk (Continued on Page Eight)

Artesia to Hear Donegal Story Teller Tuesday

SEUMAS MacMANUS

Tickets are now available for the adult program featuring storyteller Seumas MacManus of Donegal, Ireland, Nov. 13 at 8 p. m. at the high school auditorium, according to Mrs. Cecil Mitchell, president of the Artesia Story League.

Admission for the night performances will be 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students. Tickets may be obtained by contacting members of the league, the ticket chairman, Mrs. C. P. Bunch, or members of the Junior Story League.

MacManus is to give two performances for the children of Grades 4, 5 and 6 the morning of Nov. 13 at 9 and 10:30 o'clock. There will be no charge for the morning appearances.

So that the public may become better acquainted with Mr. MacManus, Mrs. H. O. Miller, program chairman, has quoted the following description from a recent article appearing in the league's national magazine Story Art:

"Mr. MacManus, who has passed his 80th birthday, is perhaps the greatest story teller of our time and the simplicity of his telling is the reason for his greatness.

"He is a tall man, at least six feet, with heavy mustache and eyebrows, a dimple in his chin and a twinkle in his eye and many little, chinkly, laughing wrinkles about his eyes and mouth. His soft Irish brogue is one of his greatest charms, as is his hearty, wholesome laugh.

"Mr. MacManus tells only his own stories of his native land and he tells them in such a way that one slips under a spell, from which one is reluctant to emerge. Every character comes to life, every scene is unfolded so that Ireland and all her loveliness seems very close and her people, including the fairies, very real.

"He uses much gesture, never stilled and moves about in his (Continued on Page Eight)

Artesians See Taos Paintings

Landscapes and scenes of Indian life, painted within a 90-mile radius of Taos by Charles H. Reynolds, Taos artist, were shown to Artesians at the Carper Building Wednesday afternoon.

Included in the collection of 15 paintings Reynolds brought with him, was a scene from Pueblo Indian life depicting the Day of the Cross Festival, May 3.

On this date the Pueblo Indians stage a big celebration to welcome the return of the sun.

The painting shows one of the few multi-story pueblos, which have been called the oldest apartment houses in New Mexico.

The five story structure has been occupied continuously for 800 years and together with another four-story building across the river houses 1200 Indians.

This group of Indians had a distinguished record in them seeing service and no psychopathic cases being reported among them.

Another Indian scene shows a piece of pottery painted with paintings made from root and mineral materials. It is surrounded by several cobs of corn of various colors, which are exact replicas of the kind grown by the San Felipe Indians, according to Reynolds.

Pink and blue specimens are included in the assortment. Painted in Texas The other paintings in the collection showed wooded and street scenes of the Taos vicinity with the exception of two, painted in Ozone, Texas and Corpus Christi.

Library Will Note National Book Week, Nov. 11-17

Although most of Artesia will observe Monday, Nov. 12 as a holiday, the Artesia Public Library will be open in observance of National Book Week, Nov. 11-17, according to Mrs. S. P. Yates, president of the library board.

Plans for the week-long observance were discussed at the board meeting Monday morning. The project is being sponsored by the library in cooperation with the schools and Artesia Chapter of the American Association of University Women. Parents as well as children are invited to see the display of children's books.

In connection with the special week, Mrs. Donald Knorr, Artesia public librarian, said:

"You will see books with new words, new patterns of thought, humor and fantasy to widen the horizons of readers, young and old. These books will be about people, animals, nature, adventure, science.

"On Monday, Nov. 12, the library will be open from 1:30 to 5:30 in the afternoon.

During the business meeting, the board voted to change the maximum fine for an overdue adult book to $1 and 50 cents for children's books. It was decided to place a deposit box at the west door of the library in the near future so that patrons may return books although the library is closed.

It was stated several of the books ordered from the Gold Star memorial fund have arrived. These non-fiction books cover a wide variety of interests and include such subjects as arts and crafts, mental health, hobbies, ceramics, as well as many others.

The librarian, Mrs. Knorr, reported that 1582 books were loaned during the month of October. Of the total 931 were for adults and 651 for children. By the end of the month, 853 membership cards had been issued. Since the library reopened July 1, there has been a circulation of 7741 volumes.

Mrs. Knorr has reminded the public the library is open on Monday evenings until 8:30 o'clock. The other hours are from 12:30 to 5:30 p. m. Monday through Saturday.

Hagerman Family Grateful for Aid

Appreciation was voiced today by Clovis Taylor of Hagerman for work of neighbors in gathering possessions, cleaning up, saving belongings of the Taylor family whose home was ripped apart by a butane gas explosion early Sunday morning, Oct. 28.

Taylor, who is known as C. A. or Fat, stopped at The Artesia Advocate on Tuesday morning, Nov. 6, to say he and Mrs. Taylor had been dismissed from Artesia General Hospital, to which they were admitted following the explosion.

Their three children, Leslie, 9; Barbara, 8; and Dale, 3, having been staying with the Jack Grahams. Graham is a brother-in-law of Taylor. The Taylor home, shattered by the blast, is located four miles west of Hagerman.

Taylor was deeply appreciative of the work done by neighbors in their salvaging of possessions from the home and their keeping them for the family and also thanked those who sent flowers to the Taylors while they were in the hospital.

Kiwanis Reviews Junior Stock Show

Plans for getting a permanent location for the Eddy County Farm and Livestock Show at either Artesia or Carlsbad were discussed at yesterday's meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

The show, which was held in Artesia last Saturday and has been held in Carlsbad for the preceding seven years, has grown bigger each year and hence needs better facilities, according to Paul Frost, who piloted this year's show.

A committee was appointed to explore the problem of finding such a location.

Committee members are Paul Frost, chairman; Bill Yeager, J. D. Josey Sr., Justin Newman and W. W. Ports, Sr.

Reporting on the show which closed last Saturday, Frost said the Kiwanis Club had money left over from the $2400 collected for prize money.

Value of stock transactions was more than $18,000 including stock that went through the ring.

Prices paid for calves and hogs at the show were some of the highest ever recorded in the Pecos Valley, according to Frost.

Most of the checks have been mailed to participants whose stock went through the sales ring.

Yesterday's meeting was held at noon at Cliffs Cafeteria.

Artesia Sector Erases Black Safety Mark of One Year Ago

North Eddy, once the dark blot on New Mexico's highway traffic fatality map, is in the white again.

A. B. Munsey, New Mexico police, stationed in Artesia, said that from being in first "and worst" spot on safety, North Eddy is now down in 20th place, representing the decline in traffic deaths.

While cheered by this record, for which he lauded North Eddy residents, Officer Munsey sounded a warning for safe driving, now that the hunting season, Armistice and Thanksgiving holidays are looming.

"We want to remember to be courteous and alert and that courtesy and alertness should extend over to Christmas and all the time" he admonished.

Officer Munsey said if North Eddy could maintain its good record of no traffic fatalities since April, it could finish in the bottom spot, 32nd among the state's counties.

The state commented on the critical condition of a year ago, mentioned the safety forums held here.

He gave special mention of Artesia police and Eddy deputies who had helped in controlling traffic.

Reviewing his own work he said that fines collected over the period mainly for driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, speeding and failure to yield right of way, totaled $9472.43, with public schools benefiting; $17,215.50 worth of stolen property, most stolen motor vehicles, recovered; 204 head of livestock removed from highways and 396 arrests made or citations issued, mainly for traffic.

Renovation Job Started At Girls Camp

Reconstruction work at Camp Mary White, Girl Scout encampment in the Sacramento, will continue until next summer. First work on the project was done on Saturday, Nov. 3, designated as area camp day.

Work to be done includes hauling rock for the Great Hall and other buildings, constructing a large dike before the Great Hall, small rock and brush dikes encircling the camp.

Trees, to be put in by the forest service, will be planted in February; grass, by soil conservation service, in June. One hundred workers will be needed on this task.

A drop structure is being put under the Great Hall to carry away water under and around the building.

The water system needs overhauling and a new pressure electric pump is also a requirement.

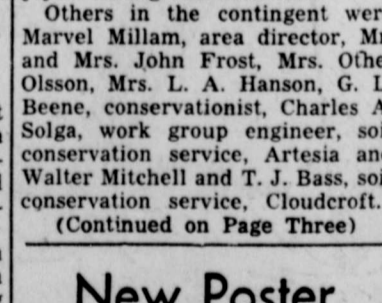

There were 24 workers on duty for the first day's assignment, beginning of the project that will last until next summer. In this conjunction, Mrs. W. M. Jackson Jr., information chairman of the Girl Scouts, says that aid from Boy Scouts and service clubs would be welcome.

The area in which the camp is located was swept by a forest fire last summer.

Workers at the camp on Nov. 3 brought their own lunch, but there was chili, soup, roast and coffee supplied by Mrs. D. M. Walter, Mrs. John Frost and Mrs. G. L. Beene. Cookies and sandwiches were enjoyed during the afternoon.

Others in the contingent were Marvel Millam, area director, Mr. and Mrs. John Frost, Mrs. Othel Olsson, Mrs. L. A. Hanson, G. L. Beene, conservationist, Charles A. Solga, work group engineer, soil conservation service, Artesia and Walter Mitchell and T. J. Bass, soil conservation service, Cloudfcroft. (Continued on Page Three)

Concert Group To Begin Drive On November 13

In connection with the membership drive to be started by the Artesia Mutual Concert Association, Rev. R. L. Willingham, president, said today:

"This is something Artesia has long needed. There is no reason why our community should take a back seat to any town in New Mexico in offering educational and inspirational entertainment on a high professional level.

"I am sure the people of Artesia will respond wholeheartedly to this new worthwhile project."

The association is a non-profit civic project, whose purpose it is to bring the best in musical and theatrical entertainment to Artesia.

It will start its first annual membership campaign with a kickoff dinner for all campaign workers next Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. in the Veterans Memorial Building.

Serving the dinner will be the American Legion Auxiliary.

Speaker at the dinner will be Robert L. Thomson, mutual concert representative, who will discuss available talent for the 1951-52 season.

Procedure for the membership campaign slated to run from Nov. 13 to 17 will be explained to 300 persons selling memberships in the association who are headed by 12 division chairmen.

Meteor Blazes Path Over Pecos

It wasn't a plane on fire and it wasn't a flying missile from Moscow.

But it couldn't have created more excitement if it had been either of these.

Over three states, New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma, came reports of persons seeing a meteor galloping around thru the sky.

Nor is Artesia left out of the picture. D. B. Shira, 206 West Texas tool dresser, reported that on driving to work at 6:15 a. m. Wednesday, he and other riders in an automobile saw the meteor, a ball of blue-white fire with a 20-foot tail streaking along eight miles east of Artesia and three miles east of the highway on which Shira was traveling.

He said there was a big cloud of dust and the "whatizit" appeared to go down beyond the first ridge of hills.

The meteor was reported all the way from Tucumcari to Oklahoma City and Wichita Falls.

In Artesia, there was a rumor that a plane had caught fire and crashed six miles east of here, but investigation by Police Chief Earl D. Westfall, planes from the Hazel Flying Service, planes from Roswell and by an ambulance sent to the scene of the purported crash, failed to reveal any downed aircraft.

The Amarillo Globe-News was reported to be flooded with telephone calls about the meteor, according to information received here.

Artesians to Sign Armistice With Work

Artesians, together with other Americans, will observe Armistice Day twice the coming week, on the official date, Nov. 11, which falls on Sunday and again the following day.

Most of the stores will take advantage of the holiday, the banks, the post office and other government offices will observe a long week end by taking Monday off.

The Advocate will follow suit, closing its doors Monday and coming out on Wednesday with a Tuesday dateline.

The holiday coincides with the opening of the deer hunting season which begins on Saturday.

This will give hunting enthusiasts two days in which to head for the hills, seek out the deer and then hope their marksmanship is good.

One indication of the impending opening of the deer season was the search for ropes by several hunters.

While most of the town goes hunting or takes things easy, the Artesia Library will stay open in observance of National Book Week which begins Monday.

Seven Hunters Killed During Season Last Year

As Artesia hunters shuffle their awakening hour for an early start against the wily deer, Elliot S. Barker, Santa Fe, New Mexico game warden, gives the periodic admonition to "cooperate to make this a safe and sane hunting season."

The season opens at noon tomorrow.

Continuing his plea the warden said:

"Seven persons lost their lives in firearm accidents of one kind or another in connection with hunting activities last year and that is a record we don't want repeated.

Careless handling of firearms and discharging them without due regard to human life and safety was made illegal by a law passed at the last legislature.

This statute provides that anyone wounding another in any hunting area shall have his license revoked for a period of 10 years and if the accident proves fatal the license privileges of the person firing the shot shall be withheld forever.

"All accidents can be avoided if everyone would only follow two simple rules. Never point your gun at any living thing you don't intend to shoot and 'Be sure it's legal game before you shoot.'"

The department of game and fish deplors the reckless shooting that results in the killing of scores of does and fawns and even livestock each year. Also, the destruction of private property by some vandilistic hunters is most regrettable.

"We would have a accident-free hunting season of which we could all be proud if each hunter would only be careful with his firearm and always be sure it's legal game before he shoots."

Christian Church Session Protests Vatican Delegate

At the conclusion of the 45th annual convention of New Mexico Christian Churches in Artesia Wednesday, the group voted its approval of two recommendations dealing with the appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican and the support of the New Mexico Temperance League.

Around 400 people registered for the three-day meeting at which officers were elected for the 1952 convention, state board and the men and women's fellowship groups. Las Vegas was chosen as the site of the 1952 convention.

The recommendations approved by the convention read:

"Whereas the freedoms we so highly cherish in this nation were won at great cost and whereas we believe that the American way wrought at such cost should not be lightly thrown overboard, now therefore we recommend that the state convention and each local church send letters protesting the appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican and that such letters be sent to the President and to each senator and representative from our state."

"That the state convention of the Christian Churches of New Mexico go on record in supporting the New Mexico Temperance League in its program of temperance education through the schools, churches, young peoples conferences and all other worthwhile organizations and also urge each church to contribute some financial support to the league."

Robert C. Lohman of Albuquerque was elected president of the 1952 state convention. Other officers include Charlie M. Johnson, Roswell, vice president and Mrs. Ferguson Polycutt, Las Vegas, secretary-treasurer.

The state board officers are: President, A. G. Bell, Artesia; vice president, Clifford B. Thomas, Carlsbad and secretary-treasurer, Miss Erlene Gibbany, Roswell.

Commission Officers A. G. Bell, Artesia, recommendation commission of the International Convention of Disciples of Christ; C. S. Defendorf, Santa Fe, W. B. Chenoweth, Artesia, Gilbert Eastman, Raton.

Ira J. Bailes and V. B. Tye, both of Albuquerque and Mrs. Lee Corn, Roswell, state commission of unified promotion; Mrs. S. E. Whitmore, Albuquerque, three year term; Robert C. Lohman, Albuquerque, one year term, state education commission.

Lohman was also elected fraternal delegate to the 1952 convention in Arizona.

Ample Stock of Toys in Stores Proves Santa on Way to Artesia

Only a few "Shop Early for Christmas" signs have appeared in store windows and few reminders have been heard, but the merchants are ready for the impending rush. There are 37 shopping days until Christmas.

The kids are also getting ready for the advent of Santa Claus; a little girl walking down Main street with her mother Tuesday afternoon was quite decided on some of the things she wanted in one window display.

There was at least one positive sign of Christmas approaching in store windows. One store has a small Christmas tree complete with lights in one of its windows.

Mars Still Present— Kids this year can play all kinds of games ranging from war to farming. Unlike in real life war is cheaper than farm operations.

One toy soldier can be obtained for as little as 30 cents, while some fancy farm implements run as high as $15.75.

In the farm line are found tractors with trailers, plows and hayrakes.

The Western theme is well represented, featuring a corral with calf ropers and calves ready to be roped.

There also is a chuck wagon with occupants who have been making their way across the country.

You don't have to live in the country for junior to learn how to ride a horse.

He can learn right in the living room with to toy horse that's supposed to be able to gallop.

Toy Houses— The parents may not be able to live in six room houses but for the kids there are two story toy houses complete with furniture and front porches.

There are two styles of porches; some houses have them upstairs; others on street level.

For those more interested in playing at specific household tasks rather than doing make believe on home ownership there is a good assortment of toys.

No washday blues for junior miss; she can get hers done with ease—come rain or shine.

There are electric washers and electric dryers in miniature selling for $3.98 and $1.98, respectively.

The kitchen of the toy household is also ultra modern with electric ranges and functionally designed kitchen cabinet. These gadgets retail for $3.95 and $2.49 making the whole outfit come to $10.40.

Melody, Too— Music may fill the air this Christmas. Musical toys are in good supply and they are not too big priced either.

There are birds that will give out with music at the winding of a key and also junior size reproductions of real life instruments.

Among these we find an accordion and a harmonica.

For those with an urge to build there are assortments of blocks and other things from which structures can be built.

One such kit is made of pieces of wood of various shapes which can be made into horses, and animal cages.

We also find some circus animals ready for use in some of the store displays.

Mother might not like the idea but junior could have gotten a real life monkey for a pet as a Christmas present.

A monkey was seen riding down Main street on top of a dog on Wednesday morning. Where it came from and how it acquired canine transportation could not be ascertained at the time.

Junior Trader— Business ownership is always held up as a goal within the reach of many and junior can get a taste of it with a swanky two story service station.

It is complete with a ramp, grease racks and a sign showing the brand of gasoline sold there.

If the banking business rather than service station management strikes junior's fancy there is a truck with a bank's name on it in which he can haul away his day's cash receipts.

Other items in the transportation line are a cross-country bus, fire and laundry trucks, Jeeps—which furnish transportation both to soldiers and civilians—are also available on the toy front.

Can Drill Well— If junior wants to play at building a house or drilling an oil well, a truck with rotary scoop shovel for making excavations is available for $13.95, and there are also cranes and other pieces of equipment generally found around an oil well.

Among novelty toys we find a rubber cow which can be squeezed (Continued on Page Eight)

The food concession will be a part of an open house held in conjunction with the annual observance of American Education Week.

Helping visual education is a main project of Central P-TA this year. The project chairman is Mrs. E. W. Allen. Also active in the food concession deal has been Mrs. Ralph Petty, association president.

And, too, we are having fun auditioning various western bands for the regular Saturday night barn dances we hope to get started soon. The "Sunset Westerners" came over from Roswell last night and gave us a full-dress rehearsal.

This afternoon Jimmie Bowman, Dutch and I will run over to Hobbs to "catch" Bill Potter's show. Bill has the reputation of being "plenty good"—so we are eager to get started.

Balsa-Light Bulldogs Pitted Against Mighty Power of Carlsbad Juggernaut

This is it. Tonight the mighty and pitiless Ostrogoths of New Mexico football, the Carlsbad High School Cavemen football team, will seek to keep their string of victories unbroken as Ralph Bowyer's boys battle the inexperienced, lighter-weight Artesia High School Bulldogs.

The Cavemen are undefeated in 18 consecutive games. Their superior weight, intensive training, and experience makes them favorites over Artesia.

Confident and brimming with power the Cavemen expect to take the Bulldogs without too much trouble. Artesia is the underdog in this contest.

The Cavemen are gunning for "Quarterback Yumpy Barker whose cagy generalship has led the Bulldogs to a record of five victories, two ties, and one defeat this year."

Coach Bowyer says: "If we can stop Barker's passing and running, and the running of Halfbacks Doyle Cole and Doug Whitefield, our problem might be solved."

Blocking on pass plays is one item that has been stressed in Cavemen workouts.

They have used defensive scrimmage trying to stop some of the Artesia plays that Carlsbad scouts have brought back.

While working vigorously for a defeat of Artesia, the Cavemen are looking ahead to Roswell.

Coach Bowyer told his squad: "Our championship hopes depend on this Artesia game. If we can beat Artesia, then even if Roswell upsets us, we still have a tie in the conference standings."

Carlsbad is the only undefeated Class A team in New Mexico. There's a rough road ahead to night for the Bulldogs.

New Uniforms—For operation Cave the Bulldogs will be the men in white tonight. Going with their white jerseys will be white pants with orange stripes down the seam.

Injuries have struck hard at the Bulldogs. They will be minus the service of James Baker, whose old knee injury has re-appeared, making it unlikely that he can play football again.

Center Jack Huddleston likely won't play for he has a badly bruised shin.

New Mexico Imports 23 Texas Turkeys

Director of upland game birds, Levon Lee, announced that a new flock of Rio Grande turkeys have been released in New Mexico.

The flock numbered some 23 birds which were trapped by means of a drop net on the Shelton Ranch just over the Texas-New Mexico line. The turkeys were later released in the Canadian River breaks north of Tucumcari.

The department, in conjunction with Texas biologists, developed a program whereby the birds are to be introduced in New Mexico from their native Texas. It is hoped that they will develop through the years in sufficient numbers to go on the list of legal game in the state.

A somewhat smaller and less colorful bird than its cousin, the Merriam turkey, the Rio Grandes frequent the river break and sandhill country rather than the high, dense forest preferred by the Merriam.

The birds were reported to be excellent brood stock and were "in prime condition" when released.

Antelope Tally—A count of all the tally books turned in on the recent antelope hunts showed that New Mexico hunters chalked up a low 70 per cent kill for the year.

In all, the department issued a total of 994 permits and 985 hunters showed up to claim their ticket. Of the 985, only 692 nirods went home with a pronghorn.

Contrary to earlier reports, no area checked in a 100 per cent kill. The highest percentage was recorded in the Tucumcari area with 93 hunters taking 90 bucks for a 97 per cent kill. Both the Mount Taylor and the Farmington area reported a low 50 per cent take.

Most of the unsuccessful hunters blamed "miserable weather" for their failure to fill out their permit. High winds and cold, blustery weather hampered shooting over most of the state during the three-day hunts.

The antelope were generally reported to be as numerous as in past years, but exceedingly "spooky" and difficult to approach.

First Hunting Casualty—C. O. Montgomery, a 28-year-old car salesman from Hobbs, is listed as the first hunting casualty for the 1951-52 season.

While dove hunting with three companions on Aug. 23, 1951, Montgomery was shot in the left eye by a member of his party. The shotgun wound cost him the loss of the eye.

Montgomery was shot by J. B. Tidwell, also of Hobbs, with a 12 gauge double-barrelled shotgun. The accident report states that the two men were an estimated 100 yards apart when the shooting occurred.

The party was converged around a water tank and dam when the doves began flying in. Tidwell shot, not realizing that Montgomery, who was out of sight, nevertheless, was in line of fire some distance away. Fortunately, the number 7½ shot struck the victim on the left side of the face only. Had he been facing directly toward the shooter, he probably would have lost his eyesight entirely.

District Warden Tom Rogers of Artesia, investigated the case. This was the first shooting accident reported for the season. Last year, New Mexico hunters chalked up seven deaths and several non-fatal shootings. In recent weeks, the department has been carrying on an intensive campaign in advance of the hunting seasons in an effort to promote safe handling of firearms.

Safe 1951 Season—An estimated 55 to 60,000 nirods will open the annual New Mexico big game season at noon, Saturday, Nov. 10.

Once again, the department urges all sportsmen to be extra careful this year.

"BE SURE IT'S LEGAL GAME BEFORE YOU SHOOT!"

Touchdown

BUS BROWN

Hauling in an Arizona State (Flagstaff) pass, Bus Brown, 1950 graduate of Artesia High School, made a 64-yard run for a touchdown in the New Mexico Aggie-Arizona State football game at State College on the night of Nov. 3. Brown got his marker when only a minute remained in the first half. The Aggies won 48-6. It was their first triumph this season. Bus is a center on the Aggie squad. Playing center on the 1950 Artesia High team, Bus weighed 172 pounds. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Quarterback Election Set For November 19

Election of a new slate of officers for the Quarterback Club will be held on Monday, Nov. 19, which is the date of the next meeting of the club, it was announced by president Ralph Nix, last Monday.

Past presidents of the club, together with Shirley Hager and Charles Currier, were appointed to serve as nominating committee.

The club will not meet Monday, Nov. 12 on account of Armistice Day holiday and the opening of year season.

Election of players to the all-state squad will take place in the near future and club members were urged by Bill Keys to consider local team members for positions on the squad.

It was announced the club would sponsor the Girls Pep Club (teenage) dance tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Keys, George Beadle, Ralph Nix and Bus Brown will be in charge.

A banquet for the Bulldog squad will be held at a time and place to be decided later. The program for the occasion also remains to be decided.

Both the Bulldog and the Hornet squads will be guests of the club at their next meeting.

Hornet Hurricane—Achievements of the Hornet squad, who ended their season with a 5-1 record Saturday night by beating Roswell 19-7 on Morris Field, were reviewed by Coach Bud Wilborn.

Roswell was the team responsible for handing the Hornets their only defeat of the season by a score of 20-14 at Roswell.

Coach Wilborn said that many of his players will make valuable additions to the Bulldog squad next season and that most of his team members had handled the duties of co-captains during the season.

The Bulldog game against Thomas Jefferson Thursday, Nov. 1 and the game against Carlsbad tonight were discussed by Coach Reese Smith.

Four boys are on the injured list, according to Coach Smith. They are Doug Whitefield, James Baker, Jack Huddleston, Bobby Loyd.

Before returning to Artesia from the Thomas Jefferson game, the squad toured El Paso and Juarez and were delayed a short while when their bus ran out of gasoline 20 miles of El Paso.

Travis Stovall, high school principal, announced four radio stations would carry the Artesia-Carlsbad game—KSPV, two Carlsbad stations and one Roswell station.

All reserved seats for the game have been sold, according to Mr. Stovall.

The club viewed movies of the SMU-Notre Dame game, which were shown by Chuck Baldwin program chairman.

The meeting was held at 6:30 p. m., in the high school cafeteria.

How did the fool and his money ever get together in the first place?

It has a Way with Women

SOMETIMES we think that too little attention is given to the fair sex in automobile advertising.

After all, it's the woman of the house who has to do most of the shopping, which involves getting into tight places at the curb. And it's surprising what tight spots a Buick can fit into at a turn of the wheel.

It's the woman who likes complete freedom from things that it takes an engineer to operate—and a complete and utter freedom from mechanical complications is exactly what makes Dynaflo Drive® such a joy.

It's the woman who has an eye for style and fine fabrics—and a nose for economy. On both counts, a Buick is tops.

But we suspect something else. We suspect that a woman gets just as great a lift as a man from commanding this great-powered and trigger-quick bundle of vitality to bow to her will.

Here's a car to win any woman's heart—by its level-gaited stride—its willing response to her hand on the wheel—its smart style and its smart performance—its spaciousness and comfort—and its thrift.

How about taking time off, some afternoon, to boss around a Buick? It's a date that's bound to thrill you.

Use of Firearms

By Aliens Illegal,
Game Warden Advises

It's against the law for aliens to possess firearms and it's against the law for a citizen to sell or loan an alien a firearm.

This was the admonition given yesterday by Tom Rogers, district case in which a Mexican farm hand had been hunting.

Warden Rogers said that persons who sold or loaned guns to aliens could be prosecuted for "aiding and abetting" law violation.

November 29 To Be Kickoff For Yule Slate

Christmas opening by Artesia merchants will start Thursday, Nov. 29, according to action taken recently by the retail trade committee of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce.

Slated activities marking the opening include turning on of Christmas lights, judging of window displays and a visit by Santa Claus, accompanied by distribution of candy to the children.

Questionnaires will be sent out shortly to business firms by a sub-committee of the retail trade committee, asking them if they expect to have their window decorations ready for the formal opening.

Sub-committee members are George Fowler, chairman; Robert Bourland, Bert Jones, W. W. Huber.

They will meet Thursday, Nov. 15 to announce definite plans for the opening.

Two large Christmas trees are generally put up on Main Street, decorated with lights. In former year, Southwestern Public Service Company, Central Valley Electric Cooperative and electrical shops and contractors have donated time for installing Christmas lights.

This is usually done the week end before the opening.

Attending the committee meeting, which was held at 10 a. m. yesterday, in the Chamber of Commerce office, were George Fowler, chairman; W. W. Huber, Bert Jones, Robert Bourland, Sally R. Lanning, W. C. Thompson, C. C. Plattar, making 100 per cent attendance.

Elwood Kaiser and J. D. Smith attended as advisors on Christmas lighting.

sticker is used bearing the inscription reading: 'Contents, merchandise—postmaster: This parcel may be opened for postal inspection if necessary.' Packages must not weigh over 70 pounds.

'Parcels that are improperly packed and tied will not be accepted by parcel post clerks. The following is an example to stress the importance of proper packing and tying.

'Last year, thousands of overseas Christmas parcels that reached the APO and FPO postmasters at San Francisco, New York and Seattle, arrived in a damaged condition, broken, wrappers and ad-resses missing because of improper packing and tying.

'Such parcels had to be laid aside, re-wrapped, re-addressed and re-tied, thus causing delay and great disappointment to the receivers of such parcels.'

His sense of humor never forsakes him and whether on the platform or in the drawing room, he is entertaining, amusing, appreciating hearing a good story as well as telling one.

Mr. MacManus is also an author of note having had many books published of collections of folk stories and fairy tales by the MacMillan Company and other firms. His many books include: "Heavy Hags the Golden Grain," "The Rocky Road to Dublin," "Dark Patrick."

Of his latest book, "The Bold Heroes of Hungry Hill," the publishers, Pellegrini and Cudahy, say "These tales of magic and heroic deeds are full of beauty, wild humor and poetic imagination added by centuries of storytellers who passed these legends from one to another, down to our own day. Every story has long stood the test of time, no one knows how old they are or how many thousands of listeners have enjoyed them."

Artesians See—

the office of M. E. Baish, who has a home in Taos and invited Reynolds to come to Artesia.

Reynolds is currently on a tour of New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma, which will take him to Hobbs, Odessa, Midland, Fort Worth and Enid.

At Odessa his showplace will be the recently opened L'Allegre studio.

Native Sooner

Reynolds, who is self taught, has been painting as a hobby since 1925 and has devoted his full time to it since 1946. He recently built a new studio and art gallery in Taos.

During the past 25 years, Reynolds has exhibited his paintings in New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, California, New York and Connecticut.

Reynolds was born at Kiowa, Okla., in 1902 and graduated from Kiowa High School. He attended the University of Oklahoma and University of Tulsa.

He is a graduate of the Oklahoma School of Accounting and was an accountant for 20 years before becoming a full-time artist.

Second Sunday of each month is regular Holy Communion Sunday for the society. Members will receive Holy Communion at the first Mass at 7:30 a. m. Sunday, Nov. 11.

Artesian Seeks Ride to El Paso

The Artesia Advocate has been asked to find transportation for a young man who is slated to be at a meeting in El Paso tomorrow morning.

Request for transportation was made by Mrs. Smith, first name not given. Persons having rides for the men in question should contact

Mrs. Smith at 504 West Dallas—phone 523.

The request for a ride to the Gateway City is the third call for help to The Advocate this week.

Earlier two ladies called up asking if anyone had brought billfolds to The Advocate office. One caller gave a detailed description of the billfold saying it had some Indian designs on it.

While no answer to these problems had been found by yesterday morning, The Advocate has of service before, once supplied an inquirer with the names of several newspapers published in Texas towns.

The Other Direction

IF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL of the United States finds it more convenient to turn his head and look the other direction to prevent prosecuting and filing charges against those who commit crimes against the people of the United States then it is not surprising to find district attorneys over the nation doing the same thing and advising officers to fail to see those ignoring the laws.

It is no wonder there is a breakdown in the law observance and law enforcement when the 'head man,' so to speak, follows that kind of a practice.

The situation which prevails today in the offices of the various tax collectors over the nation when 'pay-offs' have apparently been made to secure reduction in tax payments is apparently to neglect on the part of the U.S. Treasurer, John Snyder and because the attorney general turned his head.

We still wonder how you can expect honest citizens to file honest income tax returns when those collecting these taxes are dishonest? We, of course, are not surprised to find that we are not collecting all the taxes we could and should collect. We are not surprised that citizens are dishonest when those handling these matters are not honest.

Yet the fact remains, of course, that the situation should have been handled and cleared up months ago. And perhaps it would have been if there had been an honest and sincere desire to have honesty in government.

What Snyder has done regarding the tax collectors is exactly the same that Dean Acheson has done as Secretary of State. And both have only done what President Harry S. Truman has done. All defend their cronies whether they are honest or dishonest.

The example has been set by the leader of these cabinet members and it should not be surprising to us to find the dishonesty has prevailed in the various branches of the government.

But for far too long for our own good, we have had politicians and not justices named to the United States Supreme Court. We have had politicians and not able lawyers named to the office of attorney general of the United States.

Everyone know that Justice Tom Clark is only a politician and that it was bad enough to name him Attorney General of the United States. But President Truman wasn't satisfied with putting him there, he moved him on to the United States Supreme Court.

McGrath, now Attorney General, was head of the Democratic party before being given his present post. He is more interested in politics than he is enforcing the laws of honest or clean government.

A splendid example of his failure to understand his job and the position was the recent comment about a federal judge in Missouri. And later the Attorney General had to apologize for his remarks because he was wrong.

But the point is that we can't clean up our government when we have the examples being set for us in Washington. When the Attorney General turns his head to escape having to prosecute then the district attorneys seem to feel they can do exactly the same thing and some of them have and are doing that.

Citizens will have to practice honesty and demand honesty in government if they ever expect to have it. And up to now they haven't been very much concerned.

They better become concerned if they expect to ever restore honesty to their government.

That Is Different

DID YOU EVER notice how many things are always different when they apply to the other fellow but they are perfectly all right when they apply to you?

Instance after instance can be sighted where some individual becomes all concerned and troubled when someone else takes a stand because of certain conditions or situations. They just can't understand why they should take the position they have taken and feel that the person who has taken the stand should not do so.

And when the explanation is given and it is applied to them regarding some of their business affairs the answer comes forth immediately, "that's different."

The fact of the matter is the only way it is different is in that the shoe is pinching the other foot now. And most of us begin to squirm considerably when the same pinch which has applied to the foot of some other individual suddenly is applied to our own foot.

Most of us have our reasons for doing the things we do. We, of course, can usually justify our actions if that becomes necessary. Its private business that isn't necessary unless we happen to just want to do it.

It should be necessary in political affairs but even then it has reached the point where it isn't considered any of our business. Many of those who handle our public affairs and spend our taxpayers' money have reached the conclusion they have been employed to run our affairs as they want to run them and not as we want them run.

But most of us need to be a little more reasonable and considerate in our attitudes toward others and especially in regard to some of the actions they take or their conduct. We should realize that perhaps we would be even more concerned about the matter if it were us instead of them.

Because time and experience have proven not once, but many times that we are always looking for that old worn-out excuse "that is different" when something applies to our business when the fact of the matter is that it may be far more different in applying to the other person.

All of us have a perfect right to become concerned when those seeking to use us then turn around and seek to take advantage of us or to impose on us or when we should have a little appreciation shown to us for our efforts to aid and help them.

'PRIMARY TERRITORIAL CONSIDERATIONS'

What Other Editors Are Saying

DURABILITY FOR SURVIVAL

"Democracy must be durable if it is to survive." These are, perhaps the most significant nine words in a report of many significant words just issued by the distinguished National Security Training Commission established last June by act of Congress.

Americans are, by virtue of their history, a hopeful people. It is well that they are, with so much defeatism and cynicism loose in the world. But it is time that they undertake soberly the task of giving body to those hopes lest they remain little more than wishful thinking.

Today they face but two alternatives on which they dare base national policy. One is unthinkable: To snap the suspense by waging a preventive war against the Communist world—a course which would place upon them the onus of risking the future of civilization, and the outcome of which no one can foresee. The other is to roll up their sleeves, so to speak, for the task of building a "position of strength"—moral, economic and military—which they can maintain over a possibly very long period of hot-and-cold struggle. This second alternative offers the best prospect of victory and the surest, although by no means an absolute, insurance against a global holocaust.

As the best answer for the manpower corner of the military sector of this "position of strength" the commission urges a system of universal military training for which it submits its specifications. And it is noteworthy that another equally well-balanced and distinguished group, the "Compton Commission" came to the same conclusions over four years ago.

The detailed recommendations which the present commission sets forth show a further maturing of thought and an awareness of the arguments pro and con brought out by the vigorous public debate which has continued since the 1947 report.

The newly issued report settles upon a six months' period of predominantly military training for young men 18. It rejects sugar-coated proposals for including general education and physical rehabilitation. But it lays great stress, not only on protection of "welfare and morals" but even more on the positive building of character.

The commission would require each service to conduct its own training, and would permit volunteering and selection of branches within quota limitations. UMT, says the report, must be integrated with a sound reserve program. While in training men should be unavailable for combat duty but should hold otherwise a dominantly military status. There should be practically no exemptions from service. And the commission, always with a civilian majority, should carry on a continuing supervision of the program.

American foreign policy, the armed forces and for that matter, the American people have been deviled by stopgap military manpower measures—by pressure for exempting veterans, students and occupations; by reserve programs often "sold" on the prospect of deferment from service rather than readiness for service; by feverish drives to rearm and scramble to demobilize. The blueprint for this commission of outstanding Americans offers may be improvable in detail. But the moment is here when the nation must come to grips with the essential problem and adopt some consistent plan and policy which will assure the world that it has settled into the harness for as long a haul as necessary.—Christian Science Monitor.

NEW MEXICO TAX MONEY

According to information from the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue, the federal government collected $30,607,390 in federal taxes from New Mexico taxpayers in the fiscal year ended June 30.

And this amount, as pointed out by the Taxpayers Association of New Mexico, does not include those taxes paid by large interests whose tax payments are credited to the headquarters located in other states.

When we start thinking about so-called federal aid, we should remember those 80 million dollars. The federal government has no money to dish out for federal grants and subsidies except the money which it first has taken from the states in taxes. And a considerable part of that money goes to pay the bureaucrats who give part of the money back to the states in the form of federal aid.—Carlsbad Current-Argus.

The fellow who thinks money doesn't grow on trees hasn't bought any lumber recently.

You need no license to hunt trouble.

You may be a fine upstanding citizen, but that makes no difference to a waxed floor.

Honesty is the best policy, but many seem satisfied with less than the best.

Meeting expenses isn't much of a problem. The trick is to avoid them.

Assignment New Mexico

By G. WARD FENLEY

A great time was had, apparently, by all New Mexico newspapers in the typo error world this past week.

We'd nominate, however, a foreign newspaper, The El Paso Times, for the choice howler of the week. From an AP release: "A bus driver in Houston was stabbed to death Thursday after an argument over who should enter the Houston Transit Co. bust first."

This rare tibbit was sent to this old baldheaded professor by some anonymous friend in Las Cruces in a letter addressed to me in care of the Albuquerque Journal. Don't know how that happened.

Another exquisite bust (pardon the pun) is our suggestion for the heading of the week. It read in the Duke City Journal: "LITTLE CHESTS AGAIN STYLISH."

The lead sentence didn't help any: "An old favorite, the little chest, is back for a return engagement this season—but with some new tricks."

Of course the release was, innocently enough, talking about the small piece of furniture.

But if you don't get your mind quickly out of the gutter, you'll find yourself giggling at the closing phrase: "The small chest comes, mostly in traditional designs, but modern engineering features bring it up to date."

Present and past participles worried New Mexico editors this past week as much as they do college freshmen.

The Santa Fe New Mexican had Gen. Charles Corlett "resighing" from his post as state revenue commissioner. Who knows? Maybe it was a bit of relief.

The Las Vegas Optic lapsed into a Brooklynesque pattern of speech: "Wall Murder Solved as Killer Confesses."

And in the Silver City Enterprise: "The tickets will be given to some reserving student at the High School." Apparently Bob Ingraham has been listening too much to an overdose of Amos and Andy.

The Farmington Times begs its readers to be patient and read between the lines where those typo errors creep in. Then the editor cited the case where the maid of honor wore not just "a velvet cloak rap" but also "a velvet cloche cap."

I liked that howler in the Farmington Times editorial about the need for educational buildings: "The taxpayer should be apprised that the plant is needed." The taxpayers and the jaywalkers pay and pay, a combination of taxpayer and jaywalker. The words are quite akin—both seem to pay through the nose.

Others this week: "Polio deaths fatal"—Gallup Independent; "Estimated per heard cost of shipping the animals"—Cruces Sun-News; "The special employ-the-handipped week"—Albuquerque Tribune; "professional entertainers"—Portales News; "He was induced in the Army"—Albuquerque Journal; "such an outstanding spectacle at halftime"—Sierra County Advocate; "Formers are raising a record crop"—Silver City Enterprise; and "Indians get big for rich uranium find."—Gallup Independent.

For the best human interest stories of the week, we propose to send the accolade to the Carlsbad Current-Argus and the Taos Crepusculo. At Carlsbad, Lawyer Gene Lusk felt ill but had too much work to do to take the day off. The doc gave him some pills. Lusk slept the day through. They were sleeping pills.

Up at Taos, the manager of El Comedor skinner her knee when a pot of tripe broth in a pressure cooker exploded. The Crepusculo commented: "The tragedy of the terrible tripe is a tetchy topic."

Middle East Oil Trouble May Spread, U. S. Fears

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—American officials frankly are worried that the oil crisis in Iran may spread to other Middle Eastern countries such as Iraq and Saudi Arabia, with a possible loss of oil to Western nations.

It is feared that the success of the oil policies of Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh may arouse movements of a similar nature in the other Middle East nations.

Such nationalization drives in Iraq or Saudi Arabia would not have the repercussions involving Britain that the Iranian situation does but, nevertheless, they would be a front the West with serious oil problems.

On the more immediate issue of Iran, United States officials feel that Britain has played a hand badly by not sensing the situation was coming up. It is felt the British should have made an early move to head off a crisis.

Experts now believe that the oil industry in Iran may be lost. They say the Iranians can operate the refineries and there is no world market for crude oils which Iran plans to sell.

● SUEZ PROBLEM—An even more serious Middle East problem now is the Suez canal dispute between Britain and Egypt. Look for the United States to urge upon the British a quick and amicable settlement of the controversy.

United States officials are concerned over growing sentiment in Egypt for a non-aggression pact with Russia. Such an Egyptian move would completely cancel out western plans for a Middle East defense alliance.

State department officials fear that such an Egyptian-Russian treaty will become a reality if the tense situation continues and no blood is shed over the Suez question.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson is expected to talk with British officials at the United Nations assembly in Paris, seeking a formula for ending the dispute. However, he may find it difficult to work out a settlement.

● POLITICAL HOT POTATO—Back on the domestic scene, political experts are saying that President Truman may have seized a political "hot potato" when he nominated Gen. Mark Clark as the first United States ambassador to the Vatican.

Not only is it doubtful whether Clark will ever be approved by the Senate for the post, but the appointment may have strong repercussions in the 1952 election campaign if Mr. Truman decides to resign.

Most Washington observers feel that the Clark nomination was a political move. They say the timing of the appointment is certain to influence next year's campaigns.

Many of the Protestant sects are sure to bring strong pressure against the action on the grounds it violates the separation of church and state idea—and, some Catholics also may turn against the President in the belief he was not sincere in his action.

● DIXIE REVOLT—The President also faces trouble on other fronts. Strategy for a strong anti-Truman campaign by Southern Democrats may be mapped at the Southern Governors' conference in Arkansas in mid-November.

Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina brought the anti-Truman drive into the open at the recent governors' meeting at Gatlinburg, Tenn., but he softened the discussions at that time.

Byrnes feels that the problem can be more appropriately talked over at the southerners' own conference at Hot Springs.

The scope of the Dixie bolt will depend upon whom the party nominates for President. The most Byrnes can hope to accomplish on a realistic basis is to try to put a southerner on the ticket for vice president.

THE late Max Perkins, famous editor at Scribner's, liked to tell how he had rejected a shallow sex novel that was later accepted by a rival publisher and ballyhooed to the top of the best-seller lists. The day it hit the number one spot Mr. Scribner stopped Perkins in the hall and said sadly, "I remember your telling me that was a dreadful book, Max, but you never made it clear it was dreadful enough to sell half a million copies."

TRAINING ARMY RAILROAD MEN—The rail movement of United States troops and supplies is the responsibility of the Army Transportation Corps. To fulfill this mission, the Corps conducts extensive training of troops selected for the railroad branch at the transportation center in Fort Eustis, Va. Recruits are introduced to the corps training program after completing six weeks of army basic instruction. (Left) In the training of Army railroad men at Fort Eustis, the soldier trainees are ready to operate the railroad. Here a block operator is giving a clearance slip to an engineer trainee on a Diesel-electric locomotive. This means that the train is cleared to proceed through the area controlled by the block operator to the next block station. (Right) After completing their indoctrination period, trainees are given instruction on the locomotive (steam and Diesel-electric) and with various types of rolling stock which form a train. Here a sergeant explains to a group of new trainees the action valve gear which regulates the speed, power and direction of a steam locomotive.

Coverage Analysis Given Scout Leaders

Would your club or organization get better news coverage?

Woodward Emerson, news editor of The Artesia Advocate at the Scout Leaders Club meeting Tuesday night, at the Park School Room, explained to the leadership of publicity, how they could have better news coverage and how it would help the newspaper as well as the organization.

He brought out the point that newspapers cannot read minds, they have no way of knowing what you are doing unless you tell them. Information sent in should contain who, what, when, where, why and sometimes how. Every news story must contain these items.

In his talk he went on to say all details must be correct, this means full addresses, full name including all initials with full respect to deadlines, so proper care may be given your story.

The point so often not clear to organizations, he said, is not just the fact you had a meeting but why you held it, what you did at that meeting, who did it and who attended is the news.

Mrs. Wayne Adkins, president, directed the business meeting which followed.

She announced that at the next meeting, Mrs. Roy Norton's troop from Roswell who made a trip to Mexico this summer have been invited to give a report on their trip. The Roswell Leaders Club, Carlsbad Leaders and the Artesia senior and older intermediate troops have been invited. This meeting will be the first Monday night in December.

The Roswell Leaders Club has invited the Artesia Club to Roswell for their January meeting. The invitation was accepted and plans are being made.

Mrs. D. M. Walter, president of the Artesia board gave a report on the work at Camp Mary White Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. McGill were hostesses for the Canasta Club at their home Wednesday evening. Every few minutes the door bell would ring and as soon as it was opened you would hear "trick or treat." All kinds of costumes, faces and sizes of children were seen. Candy, cookies, and nuts were given, and the canasta games went on in peace after 9:30 p. m. The last and least caller was 18-month-old Charles Wayne Lee. He had a monkey face mask on and when he was given cookies he forgot, raised his mask to eat the treat. When everyone laughed he was embarrassed and ran out the door. Guests of the club were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Garrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl King are the parents of twins, Jerry Dale, four and one-half pounds, and Janet Gayle, five and one-half pounds. They were born Oct. 19 in the Artesia General Hospital.

East Side, West Side It's Cool in Artesia

Top coat weather arrived in Artesia with a vengeance Thursday night and Friday morning, with a low of 24 degrees being recorded.

The cold air was accompanied by .24 inches of rain, sleet and snow, the kind of weather that makes everyone want to stay at home.

During the course of the morning of Friday, the skies cleared and some warming up was taking place. The temperature had climbed to 50 degree by 2:15 p. m. Friday.

However, a cool north wind, which had brought the cold air mass along was still blowing with diminished intensity at that time.
