English Schools Cut Out Social Frills, Delta Kappa Gamma Told

There is no social life in English schools, parents believe children should be told to learn, Mrs. James Griffin told members of Delta Kappa Gamma at the sorority's November meeting held Monday night at the home of Alice Erickson and Sue Felix.

Headlining of lumping all into one public school system the English have five types of schools, elementary, secondary, private, technical and public.

While called "public" schools English public school accept those who have the cash to pay and those who have received scholarships. Most of the college students are from public schools. Uniforms are worn by all pupils.

English schools likewise differ from American in that a pupil must take all subjects thru the year and then takes a comprehensive exam on all of them instead of by subjects and divisions as is done in America.

Compactness of the tight little school is only one-third bigger than in Mexico, makes even their school resemble our city schools.

Method

Turning from the British Isles, members of the sorority learned of English schools thru a talk by Mrs. Arthur Paton whose speech was tinged by her experiences when in Black Shirts were in control. It was not from choice that the members, in the main, were Fascists. It was either belong to the party or die.

In that time a child had to start school at the age of six and continue until he had completed five grades.

The state was not benevolent. Each pupil had to buy his own books and school supplies. To make even more complicated books and supplies were changed annually so children had to buy new sets each year.

Elementary schools were on a long-shift basis, the pupils going to school in the morning, then in the afternoon being at home preparing for recitations the next day.

Studies were the educational counterpart of U. S. Marine Corps training. The Fascists crammed a vast array of studies at the youngsters and the work was so difficult that often parents had to tutor for their children helping them in the afternoon or at night.

The Mighty Five

All of this, however, was based on whether you had the Italian equivalent of the American $5 bill. That was the annual fee. If you didn't have the $5, you couldn't attend school.

Boys and girls were in separate schools in the grades but high school was co-ed.

Carlsbad Host To Artesia Unit Of Girl Scouts

Carlsbad again has played host to an Artesia Girl Scout troop. Troop 12 rode the train to Carlsbad Saturday morning, leaving here at 8:45 and arriving at 9:20 to spend the day with Troop 27 of Carlsbad.

Last year, Carlsbad officials outdid themselves to give two troops from Artesia a wonderful day spent at the beach, where they received all the free rides they wanted.

This year, because of the weather, they were met at the station by the Carlsbad troop and two patrol cars. They were all transported to the community room above the gas company building, where they were left to enjoy themselves until after lunch.

Artesia and Carlsbad Scouts spent the time getting acquainted and discussing their activities. They played a few games and sang songs before they ate their picnic lunch.

Lunch consisted of sandwiches, potato salad, potato chips, pork and beans, cookies and ginger ale.

After lunch, the girls were escorted to the museum, where Mrs. James White led a tour. Much interest was shown in the potash displays.

The girls returned to Artesia in cars driven by Mrs. Pat Riley, Mrs. J. P. Hines and Mrs. Howard Whitson.

Telegrams and Maps

At their meeting Monday, the girls learned to write telegrams and to read road maps. They learned there are 15 different kinds of telegrams. On their way to Carlsbad Saturday morning, they were taught the rules on a train and also the whistle signals.

Florence Holman and Lucy Lusk served cold drinks and donuts.

Girls who went to Carlsbad Saturday were Betty Lou Fairley, Laresha Downey, Lucy Lusk, Marian Riley, Darlene Stuart, Marie Hines, Rhea Ann Ellinger, Mary Margaret Whitson, Ann Storm, Linda Beene, Pat Jones and Charlotte Champion. The leaders were Mrs. Pat Fairley and Mrs. C. E. Geiser.

Guests were Barbara Geiser, Margaret Geiser, Glenda Benne and Linda Fairley.

Girls of Troop 27 from Carlsbad were Gloria Russell, Sara Cox, Merle Adams, Lavelle Alangritz, Connie Breachar, Phyllis Davis. The leader was Mrs. Mary Davis. Her son Michael Davis was a guest.

Work on TB Seals

Tuberculosis seals were folded by Troops 13, 16, 17 and 18. They were placed in envelopes ready for mailing as a community service project. Some troops folded as many as 600 envelopes.

Gaynelle Brown, Penny Key, Harriet Saikin have been appointed as the Christmas party committee for Troop 13. They are also to make Christmas favors for the hospital trays.

Mary Ella Mayfield was leader for the day for Troop 18.

Make Posters

Troop 2 made posters for the Claire Tree Major play, "Under the Lilac," by Louisa Mae Alcott, being presented Friday, Dec. 7 at the senior high school. These girls have also been asked to use their bicycles to pick up Community Chest donations after school this week.

Library work is being planned for the next few weeks by Troop 5. They are required to put in three hours work on public property for their citizenship badges.

Mrs. Donald Knorr, librarian, has consented to let them help her. The girls will each bring a children's book to donate to the city library. Nancy Heard was the only girl who has finished one requirement that brings you important returns.

"Your success and the livelihood of your family is dependent in many ways upon the health, prosperity and progress of your town and your country."

"When your gift to the Chest relieves poverty and prevents crime by its support of the Council of Social Agencies (Artesia has a similar organization) and the Salvation Army that helps you."

"And, too, the idea of the Community Chest is good. It combines a number of financial campaigns into one and relieves civic workers of the unpleasant chore of making repeated solicitations and receiving merchants and others of the better of being repeatedly solicited."

"When you use your heart, you cannot turn away from helping the children, the troubled and needy families in your community, all those who are less fortunate than you. Your heart goes out to them and your helping hand, too, when you give to the Chest."

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALL VETERANS:

Any organization must have a reason for existence. The United Veterans Club was established and is maintained solely to foster the interests of all those who have served our glorious country.

After the war, the veterans of Artesia and the surrounding communities pooled their enthusiasm and pride of a job well done to build a lasting memorial to the tremendous, and often heartbreaking task called forth by two world wars. Out of this pride and enthusiasm came a building—a building that is the show place of the city.

The Veterans Memorial Building is here to serve you—the entertainments offered are for your pleasure; and yet, it is disturbing to find that a majority of the members have lagged behind in supporting its program. What's become of our proudest—our eagerness to work and see that the job is carried through to victory?

Your club needs your active support—it cannot otherwise exist. Let us strive to recapture the fellowship that once brought us such countless rewards.

Former Artesia School Nurse Wed Saturday

Mrs. Christine Reading Traylor of Big Spring, Texas, formerly of Artesia became the bride of Edmond Reed Hollister of Roswell, formerly of Colorado Springs, Colo., at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Nov. 17, at the First Presbyterian Church with Rev. Ralph L. O'Dell, pastor, officiating.

The bride wore a navy blue, gabardine suit with gray accessories, and wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Ralph O'Dell and Don Young were the attendants.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. John Heaton, 813 Mann Avenue.

The Italian table was covered with a bouquet of white and pink chrysanthemums with pink tapers on each side. Pink and white color scheme was carried out in the decorations. Punch and cake were served. Mrs. W. T. French and Mrs. Wren Barker presided over the punch bowl.

The bride was formerly a school nurse at the Artesia schools, and the bridegroom is a geologist with the Cities Service at Roswell.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollister left on a short honeymoon trip after which they will be at their home in Roswell.

Misuse of Soil Could End Civilization in New Mexico

Attorney Hugh B. Woodward, Albuquerque, in a recent interview, foresees a possible end to civilization as we know it in continuing and unchecked land erosion.

His verbal hammer hit the nail-head of New Mexico's number one agricultural problem. He stated:

Thriving civilizations of the past, around the Persian Gulf, perished because of misuse of the soil. Unless we awake to the "imminent peril" of our dwindling soil resources, the same thing could happen to us.

A dreary picture of continuing erosion, of the dwindling harvests that follow, and of eventual ghost towns in large areas has been sketched before.

One such view appears in "The Soil Conservation Problem of New Mexico" published by the University of New Mexico's government research division.

Findings—

1.—Almost 99 per cent of New Mexico's total area of 78 million acres is affected by accelerated soil erosion.

2.—More than three-fourths of the original topsoil from 11.5 million acres—15 per cent of the state's area—has been removed by severe sheet erosion.

3.—Half of the state's area was found to be only slightly eroded.

4.—Another 27 million acres have lost from 25 to 75 per cent of their topsoil.

The University of New Mexico's government research division's study comments that "almost all problems of erosion and of scarcity of water for irrigation can be traced back to unwise use of the land" in days past.

And so today "one heavy rain falling on a steep, freshly-plowed, unprotected field may remove from the entire field as much as one inch of soil and from smaller areas the whole layer may be carried away."

It takes Nature from 300 to 1,000 years to replace that single inch of topsoil.

Maybe you're not a farmer, and you think this doesn't affect you. But it does.

The study finds that all New Mexico towns are dependent, directly or indirectly, upon the farm and ranch lands around them.

So let's say the topsoil of a farm is partly blown or washed away. This means the land's productivity falls down, pulling down the farmer's income with it. And if this happens on a lot of farms, rural living standards likely will take a nosedive.

And as the farmers' living power shrinks, business declines in the towns and cities of the state.

"If unchecked, soil and water wastage eventually results in abandonment of farms, and in some instances of entire areas which were once irrigated."

"Ghost towns" are caused by the downfall of agriculture as easily as by the collapse of mining activities, though usually the process is slower.

But a weakening of New Mexico's multi-million dollar agricultural industry isn't the only result of continuing erosion.

For example, there also results the threat of more frequent floods and high flood crests, with greater damage to people and property in towns as well as farms.

Albuquerque is a good example of a flood-threatened city—a threat that grows each day as the silt-laden Rio Grande slowly drops its load, lifts its bed higher and higher, and then flows higher on the lifted riverbed.

Another result is destruction of wildlife food and cover and of fish in silt-laden water, and the reduction of outdoor recreation facilities.

Get the Rascals Out

THESE HAS BEEN considerable comment and many conclusions drawn from the first elections held this year.

Many have sought to use these elections to try and determine whether they indicated a trend. They are wondering whether you can tell which way the wind is going to blow a year from now when the national campaign will be held.

There is about only one conclusion that can be drawn from the election and that was the determination of the American people to get "rid of those rascals" whether they were Democrats or Republicans.

And that, of course, is exactly what America has to do—get rid of the rascals whether they are Democrats or Republicans.

We are all wise enough, when we consider our country first and our political party second, to know that both parties have had records. We know that any party, Republican or Democratic, which has been in power for 20 years, will become corrupt, graft will prevail, rottenness will rule and that those in power become more concerned about remaining in power than they do about the country.

The recent elections indicated that Americans want those in control out. If they were Democrats they want them removed and if they are Republicans—remove those.

One of the finest things which could happen in our nation is for this very same thing to prevail over the entire 48 states—change those in power whether they are Democrats or Republicans.

It may be a fine thing to be a good staunch Republican and it may be a good thing to be a good loyal Democrat but for the good of the country it is far more important that we be good Americans—and we need fewer party members and more good Americans today.

We don't know that anyone knows or can even correctly predict or forecast what is going to happen. There will be many of them try it but they are not sure whether America has enough or not.

They can't tell whether Americans are ready to go to the polls and clean house or not. We think they do know that if we went to the polls and voted that the thing we would do would be to clean house.

We are a patient and long suffering people. We take and take and take until it seems there is no end to our taking. Then all of us suddenly decide it is time to save our country.

Whether we have reached that point—no one knows. Certainly it is time—past time. The longer we wait the more we are going to have to do to regain our losses.

But the average American citizen knows and after all it is only the average American citizen who counts, that we can't continue to tax and to spend as we are spending. He or she also knows that if we eliminate the graft and waste and extravagance we will still have plenty with which to do the things we have to do.

But we can't continue as we have been going. We not only have to cut the tax bill and the spending but we are going to have to restore a little honesty, decency, self respect and pride in our country, our states, and in ourselves.

Maybe the trend was indicated in the recent elections. Maybe we have had enough and maybe we are ready for a change. We hope we are and we sincerely hope if we do that we recall the past 20 years and we never let any political power remain in control of our government and various branches of our government over two terms. That is long enough.

We have had the lesson and we have had the experience. It will be interesting to see whether we have learned all we should have learned from this.

They Need Them, Too

THERE IS MANY an individual who has not paid his bills because he hasn't been paid by the other fellow.

That, of course, may not be a good excuse. The fact is that when we contract debts and obligations we should be able to pay these or we shouldn't create them.

But often times it is our own inability to collect bills and obligations which are owed to us that keeps us from paying the bills which we owe.

Credit, as we have pointed out many times before, is a convenience. The theory, of course, is that we grant credit for a brief period—30 days at the most. Sometimes through arrangements credit is granted for 60 to 90 or even 120 days. But normal credit is from the period in the month when the credit is given until the 10th of the month following.

We should be prepared to pay at the end of that period. The fellow we owe has obligations and bills to pay and he is counting on us paying him in order that he can pay others.

And if we followed this practice and maintained the practice of paying our bills promptly and on time there would be no reason to remind folks they have failed to pay their bill. There would be no reason for the sending out of second and third and even fourth notices. There would be no reason for the employing of bill collectors to go and see individuals to try and collect bills which are past due. And there would be no reason to turn accounts over to collection agencies.

Credit, we say, is a fine thing as long as we do not abuse it. When we take more than the 30 days to pay our accounts, however, we are abusing our own credit and we are taking advantage of those who have extended credit to us.

Many firms, of course, have eliminated credit. In this way they save bookkeeping costs and they save the collection costs. In many instances they grant lower prices or discounts because they only sell for cash.

But sooner or later most of us need credit. And it is a real convenience. But the only way we can keep our credit good and keep a good credit rating is by paying our bills promptly and on time.

What Other Editors Are Saying

COLORFUL BUT COOL

We trust the Texas-born governor of Cool and Colorful Colorado hasn't turned his back on his native state as sharply as we indicated in a recent wire dispatch from Denver.

The Associated Press quotes Dan Thornton as telling the Colorado Dude Ranchers Association: "Texas has nothing to offer but greasewood flats and bawling cattle... Colorado can outsell the Lone Star state!"

We can't understand why the colorful governor of Colorful Colorado should become so cool toward Texas so suddenly. But we suspect that Dan Thornton, who was born down here in Hall County and went to high school and college in Lubbock, was talking with tongue in cheek. After all, when you're governor of a state you're supposed to defend that state against all comers; and Texas is fair game for everybody on the outside looking in.

Actually, we happen to know that Dan Thornton is proud of his Texas heritage; and he has every right to be proud of his rise from a Panhandle cotton farm to the governorship of Colorado. His present home is a beautiful Hereford ranch sprawling in the foothills near Gunnison, Colo., and he is rated as one of the wealthiest cowmen in the Southwest. Moreover, he was elected by Texans. After his inauguration he told C. W. Ratliff of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal: "Someone told me there were upwards of 300,000 Texans living in Colorado, so I just kept quiet and let the opposition advertise my Texas background. You see what happened. The Texans must have pulled together."

So we suspect that Governor Dan Thornton still has a greater regard for his home state than his "greasewood flats and bawling cattle" pronouncement would indicate. When he gets through being governor of his tourist-supported paradise, we predict he will climb down out of the rarified atmosphere of the mountains and give a couple of good old Texas "yipees", relieved that he can be himself again.

RUSSIA WOOS JAPAN

Japan is not an American satellite. With the formal ratification of the Japanese Peace Treaty by the signatory nation is will become again an independent, sovereign state, entitled to choose its friends and earn its living without reference to American desires.

Soviet Russia—and, it may be presumed, Communist China—clearly recognizes this. The trade offers it has made to the Japanese Government obviously mark the beginning of an attempt to attract Japan to the Soviet orbit. Just how attractive these offers are can be judged from the fact that Japanese industry, which depends on heavy imports of coal, must pay $30 a ton for American coal while Russia offers it Sakhalin coal at $10 a ton.

At present, to be sure, the bulk of Japanese sympathy is pro-American and anti-Soviet, though neutralist sentiment is high in many influential quarters. But at present, also, Japan is enjoying a sort of war boom, with millions of dollars flowing into the country as part of America's outlay for the Korean war. If that should cease, the economic pinch in an over-populated land starved for natural resources could turn many more Japanese toward the bargains of Soviet and Communist Chinese trade.

Home on the Range

By Will Robinson

In an agreement between the ranchers of New Mexico and the State, it was agreed that taxed on cattle and sheep should be figured on 90 per cent of the herds, this to go into effect on the first of the coming year.

The conference was between representatives of the livestock industry and the stock growers, and was purely a "gentleman's agreement," not a cross word crossing the table while the cards were played. The zoomed prices on meats may have been responsible for the arrangement, but whatever the cause it will be applauded by the citizens of the state generally.

It doesn't take any mastermind to figure out that there is something wrong and a good bit of it when a grower renders say 800 head of steers, and then sells 1,600 in the Kansas City markets.

Practically every newspaper worker in the state has come up against this situation at some time or other. Usually it is explained that the grower must have a considerable margin to protect him against losses of various kinds, and the scribe has concluded that the situation is one of those about which nothing could have been done.

Maybe there would have been no such a harmonious meeting of the problems but for the price ranges or the live animals. In effect the solution was reached by the stockman and their best friends, instead of the class who have long range noses to smell things with, whether the odor detected is wholesome or not.

The figures submitted by Tax Commissioner Moxey were apparently accepted as about correct, or as near so as were humanly possible.

They showed that in 1950 of 1,166,000 cattle in the state, 681,374 were on the tax rolls or 58.44 per cent. The total value was $137,588,000, with 11.49 per cent assessed.

Last year of 1,371,000 head of sheep, 567,822 were on the tax rolls. Total value was $25,831,000, with 10 per cent or $2,609,086 assessed.

This would seem to indicate that the industry values had steadily increased, but its contribution in taxes decreased. Of this practically untested showing it would seem that the idea of assessing 90 per cent of the herd listings is about right. Fairness is all that anybody wants letting the past be forgotten or something.

If there are parts of this story that are about as clear as mud, your county assessor, or any successful cattle or sheep man can supply you with a readable blueprint.

Mucho Cotton—

So far 46,000 bales of cotton have been ginned in Dona Ana and Luna counties, despite the shortage of pickers. All of which would seem to indicate that we are getting along with our part of the 16,000,000 bale crop of this year.

Old Hospital Gone—

The Las Cruces daily paper, the other day broke in on the run of state, national and world news to handle a story of the demolition of the old McBride hospital, which for years was the only place fitted to serve the people of Dona Ana county. With the story was a single-column half-tone of Dr. R. F. McBride, who located at Las Cruces in 1904, and practiced medicine and surgery there until his retirement in 1939. He died in January of 1947, after 35 years of service to the people.

Dr. McBride went it alone for years until his hook-up with Dr. Leland Evans with whom he was long associated. That hook-up was a little hospital at first, expanding into a clinic in 1937. In 1941 it had grown into a 25-bed hospital, and a splendidly efficient one at that, everything considered. So remaining until the march of time did its stuff, and the hospital-clinic was closed for keeps when the new Memorial hospital was built with all modern equipment, even a code that includes certain schools of medicine and shuts out others.

Dr. McBride and Dr. Evans served faithfully and well, and it would be impossible to estimate the amount of good they were able to do. This was enough to justify the inclusion of a memorial plaque on the walls of the new building that will take its place, in no matter what line of business it may contain.

Voting—

They have had voting machines at Carlsbad for many years, but most of them were located at San Jose. Now the board of county commissioners is talking about buying 25 of the modern type of voting machines. They would cost about $32,250, which isn't exact, but the commissioners have not as yet figured out a way to do the job, or whether the number of voting districts in the county can be reduced at the same time.

Over 900 Protests—

According to City Clerk Florence Miller, over 900 property owners down at Portales have filed protests to the first paving district in Portales, and apparently the paving has gone glimmering to that hallowed spot where the whang-doodle mourneth the loss of its first born. Still, the project remains 100 per cent under the control of the city council, under the blanket regulations, and the work may get done anyhow.

Reviewing the Record Of ECA Achievements

New MSA to Absorb ECA's Aid Programs

WASHINGTON—Before the newly-approved Mutual Security Agency absorbs assistance programs of the Economic Cooperation Administration, we may well take stock of things ECA has accomplished with more than $12 billion made available to help peoples of Europe and Asia pull through their economic crises since World War II and stand on their own feet as free and independent nations.

One remembers the surge of hope that bolstered the war-devastated free world, and the howls of consternation and protest that arose from the Soviet Union, back in 1947 when Gen. George C. Marshall, then secretary of state, launched the program popularly known as "the Marshall Plan."

"It is logical that the United States should do whatever it is able to do to assist in the return to normal economic health in the world, without which there can be no political stability and no assured peace," General Marshall asserted in an address at Harvard University.

European countries must clarify requirements of their situation, he pointed out, and agree among themselves as to the part they would assume "in order to give proper effect to whatever actions might be undertaken" by the United States.

General Marshall stressed the importance of Europe taking the initiative. "Any government that assist in the task of recovery," he added, "will find full co-operation." I am sure, on the part of the United States government.

Marshall included this significant warning: "Any government which maneuvers to block recovery of other countries cannot expect help from us. Furthermore, governments, political parties, or groups which seek to perpetuate human misery in order to profit therefrom politically or otherwise will encounter the opposition of the United States."

MORE THAN THREE AND A HALF YEARS have passed since Marshall's words stirred the emotions of men throughout the world and evoked new volleys of vituperative propaganda from the Communists—who knew they were the only political group that was striving to block recovery or perpetuate human misery.

ECA was set up to administer programs of the Marshall Plan. Its 13th quarterly report, just issued, summarizes highlights of its accomplishments.

"The countries of Western Europe have made remarkable progress in the recovery of their productive capacity," this report emphasizes.

Western Europe's assumption of its share of the global defense burdens is found to be "steadily more encouraging." Defense expenditures of nine European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have increased from $4.4 billion in 1949 to an estimated $8 billion this year. European NATO nations, not including Italy, have 40 per cent more men in their armed forces in 1951 than in 1948.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION IN WESTERN EUROPE is 43 per cent higher than its prewar output. The greatest barrier to its further economic expansion, according to the report, is failure to increase the production of coal. Agricultural production, while 10 per cent higher than prewar, is still below prewar in per capita output.

ECA has tried to help Southeast Asia governments "improve essential services and institutions, establish village-level health programs, create planning agencies, initiate surveys and pilot projects—and thus to lay a firm foundation for economic development and political stability."

ECA assistance has been based on the humanitarian principle of helping deserving peoples help themselves. ECA extended American money, ideas, knowledge and technical counsel to millions of struggling peoples who in 1947 stood at the brink of industrial and psychological chaos. ECA laid the economic foundations for military assistance to NATO nations.

Now ECA's principles and lessons will be incorporated into the new unified assistance programs of the Mutual Security Agency.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

MARK TWAIN, says Vincent Starrett, once visited the celebrated Madame Tussaud's wax works in London, and was admiring a replica of Queen Victoria when he felt a sudden stab of pain in his posterior. Wheeling angrily, he found himself face to face with a flabbergasted British matron, her umbrella still pointed at him. "O lor, it's alive!" she gasped, and fled into the night.

A highly publicized — also highly overrated — British film producer, panicked by thoughts of atomic warfare, ordered air-raid shelters constructed immediately in every corner of his studio. One London critic commented wryly: "Sir So-and-so seems unduly concerned to us. He overlooks the fact that his studio hasn't had a hit in ten years."

Persons With Queries on Baseball Coverage Invited to Discuss Matter

I thought that last summer I had effectively answered the rumored complaint that insufficient coverage was given the Artesia Drillers in this paper.

On Tuesday I heard a repetition of that rumor. Now, if the rumor is true, once and for all time I'd like to get this matter settled. If there are those who have a complaint to make on Drillers coverage will please come down here and talk to me.

Las Cruces captains were Jon Aderhold and Windy Holmes. 1950 Basketball—Looking over the football programs of last year also brought forth a copy of the 1950 Artesia High School varsity basketball squad. New Teachers Number Three

(From Artesia Hi Beacon)

By Raydean Owens

Upon arriving at school to start the fall term, the students were introduced in assembly to their instructors. Among the teachers were three men never before seen around Artesia High. These new instructors are Mr. Kenneth Schrader, bookkeeping instructor; Mr. James D. Stewart, speech and junior English teacher; and Mr. Ben H. Stevens, band instructor.

Mr. Stewart was born in Breckenridge, Texas, September 29, 1926. He received his elementary and high school education in Breckenridge and attended college at Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene, Texas, where he obtained his B.A. degree. He served two years in the Navy during the last war and attained the rank of MoMM 2/c. His overseas duty was spent in the South Pacific, China, and Japan. He is married and has two daughters, ages six months and two years.

Mr. Schrader was born in Longmont, Colorado, in 1922, where he also attended high school. He attended his freshman year of college at Colorado University, then enlisted in the Air Corps in 1941 upon completion of his freshman year and served through 1945. He was a radar operator and held the rank of staff sergeant. He served overseas duty in the Pacific Theatre on the islands of Guam, Hawaii and Saipan. He obtained his B.A. degree in commercial education at Colorado State College of Education, where he is also working on his master's degree. He taught one year at a small high school in Colorado where he was also a coach, one year at Roselawn Grade School of Artesia, and this year he begins his third year of teaching as bookkeeping instructor for the high school. He is married and has one son, Scott, age six months.

Last, but certainly not least, is Mr. Stevens, who was born in Morris, Oklahoma. He attended high school at Maud, Okla., and has attended the following colleges, East Central State College, Ada, Okla.; Oklahoma University, Norman, Okla.; Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, N. Mex. He has his Bachelor of Arts degree and one more summer's work will complete his work for his Master's degree. He has taught in Allen, Okla., Loving, N. Mex., and Atoka, N. Mex. He has worked under Himie Voxman, nationally known clarinet teacher, Clarence Sawhill, nationally known conductor and adjudicator and director of bands of the University of Southern California, and William Gower, nationally known brass instrument instructor. Mr. Stevens has also played in organizations under the direction of Edwin Franko Goldman, march successor to Sousa; Sir Carl Busch, composer; Percy Grainger, com-

Artesian's First College Football

Kenneth Beall, left, a senior from Dell City and Lowell Irby, a freshman from Artesia, have one thing in common as members of the Southwestern (Oklahoma) College football team. Both are playing their first season of college football. Beall, one of the toughest defensive ends in the Oklahoma collegiate conference, did not play high school football. If reported for practice in his junior year and this season has nailed down a first-line defensive job. Irby looks at Beall's injured leg that may keep the Dell City senior out of the Bulldogs (seems Oklahoma likes our Artesia nickname) final game

How to make old roads seem NEW

You're riding on big, soft coil springs that let every wheel dance beneath you, without passing on the jolts to you in the car.

You're driving a car that's plenty inches broader than it is high—a sure-footed road-hugger if there ever was one.

And you're riding behind a Fireball Engine—Buick's time-tested version of a high-compression valve-in-head—engine that packs more power than most people ever need to use.

With this power—and Dynaflo Drive*—you don't have to "rush" a hill at the bottom to soar serenely over the top. You just feed the power as you need it—climb with a sure, steady swoop without buck or bobble all the way up.

There's a lot more that we could tell you about a Buick. But such things as room, and comfort, the confident way it steers, and the way it shortens the miles are things you can best discover from personal experience.

So why not follow the routine already suggested? You supply the road—we'll supply the car—and let it speak for itself.

*Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Clothing Sought For Korean Aid

A Thanksgiving clothing collection for Korea and the refugees of Europe and Near and Far East is under way in Artesia as part of the national campaign of the war relief services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

In St. Anthony parish the movement is under the direction of the Altar Society of which Mrs. B. H. Ellinger is president.

The Rev. Hugh Rochkes, pastor of St. Edward, Carlsbad, has been appointed regional director of the drive in the area that includes Artesia, Carlsbad, Loving, Malaga and Hobbs.

Besides clothing, bedding, blankets and shoes are also sought. Clothing and supplies collected in this campaign will be distributed without any discrimination of race or creed.

Supplies and clothing valued at $2,638.067 have already been sent to Korea by the National Catholic Welfare Conference. In the last two years, at Thanksgiving time, American Catholics have contributed 13 million pounds of useable clothing and shoes for the relief of the needy overseas.

There was two million pounds of clothing collected last Thanksgiving and shipped to Korea in time for use last winter.

In a preliminary announcement of the campaign, the Rev. Gabriel Eilers, pastor of St. Anthony, said: "The little girl on our 1951 appeal poster is wearing a sweater and skirt donated in last year's Thanksgiving collection and shipped to Korea."

"She lives in a leper colony just outside Seoul, is only 14 years old and has an advanced case of leprosy—she has already lost three fingers and the big toe on one foot."

"Her picture was taken and sent to us by Father George Carroll, War Relief Service representative in Korea."

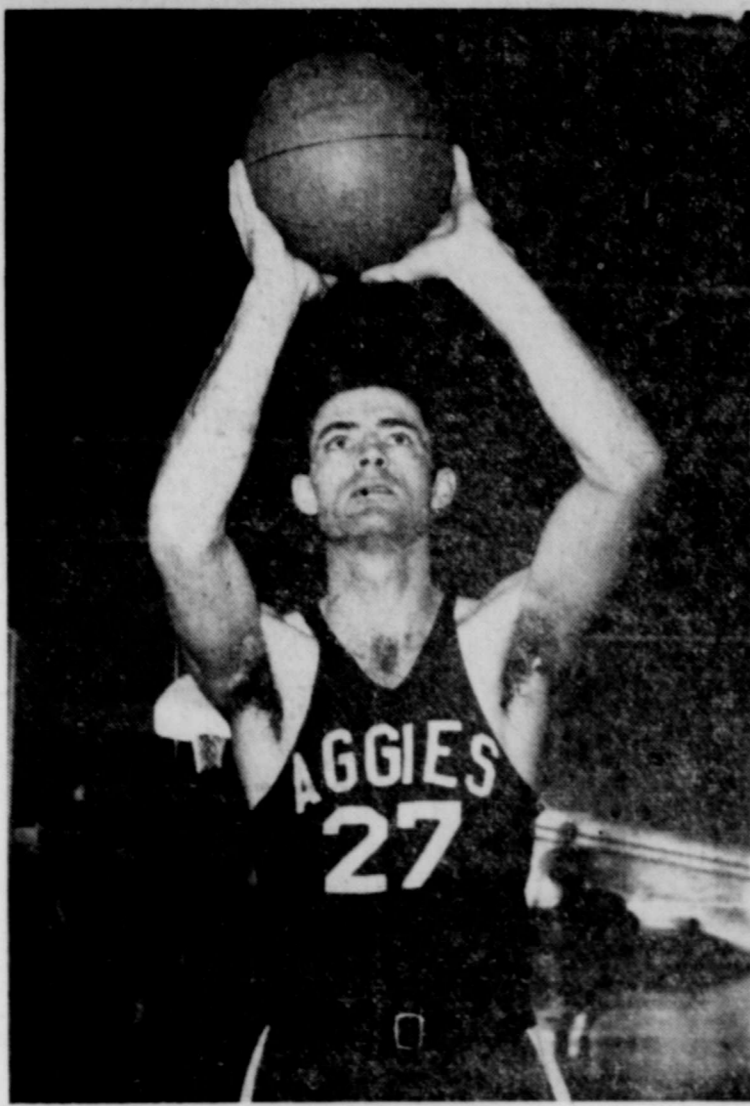

Worth Spending Time
"Her shy smile of thanks is certainly worth all the time and trouble of these clothing campaigns which supply vitally needed garments."

"She is a symbol of what you have done and what you can accomplish once again. She and millions like her are the reason for the 1951 Thanksgiving appeal."

Master of Long Overhead Loop

BILL HAMM — FORWARD

Bill is 27 years old, stands 6'4" and weighs 180 pounds. Played his freshman year with the University of Kentucky; then transferred and played the rest of his college ball for the New Mexico Aggies. Probably the outstanding cager ever produced by that school. A three year letter man (1947 thru 1950). Hit for 256 points in 18 games to lead his team in scoring. Was named all Border conference forward for this feat. Scored total of 766 points in his three varsity years, for a neat average of 12.5 points per game. Bill's best shots are long, looping overhead sets, at which he is lethal. Though not outstanding on defense, he will consistently outscore his opponent. In his second year with REA, Bill originally hails from Hamilton, Ohio.

Sands National Park was endorsed by the directors, backing an Alamo-gordo proposal.

Space for Offices—
Office space for the proposed consolidation of U. S. Department of Agriculture offices in available in the Ward Building, it was announced by Manager Bob Koonce.

The amount of space available amounts to 1600 square feet which would rent for $125 per month.

Details of the space requirements of the agencies involved in the consolidation of the department of agriculture offices, together with the history of the consolidation movement have appeared in previous stories in The Advocate.

The Eddy County PMA and SCS committees have been informed of the space offer made by J. S. Ward, owner of the office space.

Two chamber directors, J. L. Taylor and Clyde Guy, contributed $10 apiece, and Bob Bourland contributed $5, towards meeting the deficit incurred at the Cottonwood membership dinner.

The deficit resulted from only 84 persons being present when 95 had been guaranteed the Cottonwood Ladies' Aid Society, which put on the dinner.

The directors voted to write the City Council in regard to the $2,500 dollars on municipal park improvements still owed by the chamber.

Present at the meeting, held at 7:30, were Bill Siegenthaler, president; Bob Koonce, manager; Stanley Carper, C. T. Gaskins, C. D. Hopkins, G. Taylor Cole, A. C. Sadler, Bill Keys, Wayne Paulin, and J. L. Taylor.

spiked the attempt with their rushing of the passer.

Coming back for the second half, the Orange and Black didn't let up its drive. Over eagerness caused both teams to again get fumbled. Booker tumbled and Las Cruces Victor Martinez recovered.

Booker on a right end play fumbled on the Las Cruces 29.

Rudy Estrada, Las Cruces hard-driving fullback, was hurt on the play. On the next move, Booker, who had fumbled on the 29, picked up a Las Cruces fumble and scooted from the 39 to the goal for Artesia's second marker.

Just to make it a perfect day, it was Booker who caught the pass for the extra point also.

Juarez Sparks Drive
Hard-playing Jimmy Juarez, right guard and a candidate for all state honors, was the spark of the Artesia team. But it was no one-man affair. Juarez was in on nearly all the tackles, but so too were Louis Campanella, Roy Johnson, Jimmy Dew.

Bill Brown again showed his kicking ability and did some great blocking of punts. Brown did his share of tackling also.

The Las Cruces standouts were Skipper Corley, the passing ace quarterback, Rudy Estrada, fullback and Victor Martinez, left guard. Las Cruces amazed the Artesia crowd with its brilliant forward passing.

While the visitors completed only six of their 24 passes, there were many of those missed that came within a photofinish of being good and cashable at the touchdown window.

Starting lineups:
Artesia: Booker LE, Johnson LT, Dew LG, Huddleston G, Juarez RG, Campanella RT, Brown RE, Barker QB, Cole LH, Beadle RH, Whitefield FB, Estrada

Las Cruces: Steele LE, A. Aguirre LT, Martinez LG, A. Diaz G, Saenz RG, Farris RT, Glover RE, Corley QB, Lopez LH, Torres RH, Estrada FB

Another sox party was held by Troop 11 in honor of Donna Pierman in whose back yard the girls roasted wiensers and marshmallows. A birthday cake was served by Mrs. L. A. Hanson, assistant leader. Christmas party plans were discussed by Troop 17.

Troop 19 brought 17 cans of food for Thanksgiving baskets.

The new Brownie troops who have not held investiture ceremonies have been practicing. Mrs. Paul Coffin and Mrs. Don Mayes troop finished their dues bags.

Mrs. Ted Mascheck's and Mrs. Verble Baker's troops practised their rounds and learned a new Thanksgiving song, "For Health and Strength." They also listened to two Thanksgiving stories. Sarah Dampf and Dianne Gilman served cookies and pop.

Mrs. Robert Garner visited Mrs. Cas Stryjewski and Mrs. Don Demars troops. They sang Thanksgiving songs. Candy bars were served by the leaders.

Mrs. C. L. Withers troop learned to take care of their uniforms. Marva Jean Sanders served cookies.

Pennsylvanian and Permian stratigraphy and structure and mining districts of the northern Oscura Mountains.

The conference ends officially at the last scheduled stop in the Oscura Mountains at 2 p. m.

Each participant should make his own transportation arrangements. In order to keep the caravan to a minimum size and to speed its progress, it is asked that the driver of each car be accompanied by three passengers.

Each person making the trip is required to register. Registration fee is $3. Student registration fee is $1.50. (The society defines a student as a person enrolled in an accredited university at the date of the field conference). The registration fee includes a copy of the guidebook which sells separately for $3. Additional copies of the guidebook can be purchased for $3 each.

The guidebook contains a road log along the route to be traveled by the caravan and also along U. S. Highways 380 and 70 between Roswell and Carrizozo, a discussion of the geology along the route and at scheduled stops, geologic maps and diagrams, columnar sections and descriptions of local geology written especially for the guidebook.

Unpublished geologic maps and information of the Capitan Mountains area, compiled by Drs. J. E. Allen and S. M. Jones and students of the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, Socorro, during the summer of 1951, are included in the guidebook.

Registration for the conference will start preceding the regular dinner meeting of the society which will be held at the Roswell Country Club, Thursday evening, Nov. 29.

On Friday and Saturday at lunch time, the caravan will not be near any town. Therefore each person wishing to have lunch on those days should bring either a packed lunch or groceries. A supply of drinking water for the day should be carried also.

Editorial Reviews by W. E. Slo

TUCKER BROS. QUALITY SHOES

Shoes in Style, Quality and Price. Ladies, Gents and Children's Footwear.

Located 209 North Main Street in Roswell, New Mexico. Telephone 888.

Speaking from a personal standpoint, there is nothing that makes one so low in spirits, cross or ill tempered, as an uncomfortable fitting shoe. On the other hand there is nothing from which we derive more pleasure or satisfaction than comfortable, well-fitted shoes. It is absolutely essential to our peace of mind that our feet are comfortable.

While our feet are supported by snug-fitting, flexible shoes, they also must have style, quality and durability. Nowhere in this community will you find this combination better suited to your needs than at Tucker Brothers Quality Shoes in Roswell, New Mexico.

Here you will find shoes that from the tip of their modestly rounded toes to their snug-fitting heels, are beautiful. Shoes in which there is no restriction of any kind to tire your feet. In their flexible shoes you can enjoy the cool comfort of feet that are free and well fitted shoes shaped in the latest styles. Their shoes are durable. No part of our wearing apparel is subject to more strain than a pair of shoes that wear and through this achievement, they have built up a growing business in this community.

There is a completeness of stock here that seldom is found outside of metropolitan district. A shoe for every foot.

The prestige of their large volume of business, their experience as a prominent firm in this line, the practical knowledge that has won for them the recognition of the country at large and the patronage of many, all add to the progress and prosperity of the community in which their modern establishment is located.

This section is indeed fortunate to have such a progressive firm to serve them in quality lumber. It

Located 605 East Second Street in Roswell, New Mexico. Telephone 77.

Tesco Neon Sign Service is bringing before the public the signs of the times in a most comprehensive manner.

We live in a busy age and people are too much occupied to look up in directories the addresses of people or firms, but depend on SIGNS to guide them in their daily purchases, as well as in their daily pursuits.

This firm, realizing the importance of modern signs, keeps thoroughly abreast of all that is new and is prepared to execute all classes of signs, including everything ancient and modern in the field of signs from the smallest to the largest and most intricate or elaborate display sign, either for permanent or temporary use.

Their work has the touch of the real artist and they have that ability to grasp the situation and surroundings which brings to the minds of the passerby what the proprietor wants to impress. It is this feature of their service that has won for them such wide recognition.
