Mrs. O. L. Davis, mother of S. A. Tiny Davis, 324 West Richardson Avenue, died Sunday afternoon in a hospital at Gadsden, Alabama.

Trio of Special Events Will Open Holiday Season

Thursday is the next important date in the series of Christmas events being steered by the retail trade committee of Artesia Chamber of Commerce.

On that night judging of show windows will be conducted, Christmas street lighting will be turned on at 7:30, and announcements made.

Southwestern Public Service employees were busy yesterday affixing Santa Claus figurines to lamp posts following the wire stringing done Sunday by 29 workers.

Due to work of their own, the utility concern could not join in putting up the lights, but will give its services when the time comes to take down the wiring.

The work Sunday was from 8 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. with a noon luncheon at which the men were guests of the chamber of commerce at Cliff's Cafeteria.

Meanwhile, the Rotary Club has set its annual Yule party for Dec. 15 at Morris Field; Lions will also have a party for children on Dec. 21; and United Veterans Club is taking a toy collection.

Concerns and workers taking part in the Sunday task of putting up the lights.

Richards Electric—J. A. Richards, Al and Jessie Fiera.

Kaiser Electric—G. E. Kaiser, Richard Maphet.

Connor Electric—C. C. Connor, Cecil F. Fletcher, James R. Shortes, Clarence C. Connor, Jr.

Mountain States Telephone—Bill Hinde, Billy H. Tiner, Ralph Hall.

C. R. Anthony Co.—George Fowler, manager, and retail trade committee chairman, the unit in general charge of the trio of Christmas events, and Alton Bratcher.

Bob Koonce, chamber of commerce manager, also donated his work.

Merchants Listed—The chamber listed 35 names under "participating merchants in Christmas program:"

TB Association Begins Annual Sale of Seals

Another of the routine signs of the approach of Christmas is the annual Christmas seal sale of the National Tuberculosis Association.

In the mails today are letters sent out by Artesia Tuberculosis Association, accompanying two 100-seal sheets of the seals, or 200 seals in all.

Following the regular pattern, those receiving the letters are supposed to return the seals in the self-addressed envelope enclosed, with their remittance for the seals at the rate of $1 a sheet.

Mrs. Grover Kinder, 813 West Main, is association treasurer. Other officers are Mrs. Joe Nunn, president, and Mrs. Ada Heaton, whose signature is on the circular letter, secretary.

The letter reads: "THIS YEAR FOR CHRISTMAS!!"

"While much progress has been made in finding and curing tuberculosis, there remains much more work to be done.

"The programs of tuberculosis control and treatment have been continued through these many years because of the generosity of persons like yourself.

"Using the traditional Christmas seals on all your holiday letters and packages is a good way to continue your help in fighting this disease.

"Your dollars will help finish a job begun by our parents and grandparents 35 years ago—the conquest of tuberculosis in this state.

"How can you help in this endeavor? Buy and use the enclosed Christmas seals, now—today! They are only one dollar per sheet of one hundred.

"For those you help, we say THANKS.

"A very Merry Christmas and Healthy New Year!"

Unusual Weather Spoils Artesia For Hawkeyes

Bad weather, while merely a subject of conversation for most Artesians, recently managed to drive a couple of newcomers who had come all the way from Iowa.

A couple from Perry, Iowa, both former school and college teachers, who now own a large farm near Perry, had made inquiries at the Artesia Chamber of Commerce about climate, schools and housing.

What the chamber told them sold them on Artesia and they arrived in town on Nov. 16, intending to make this their winter residence, while making occasional inspection trips to their Iowa farm during the summer.

Artesia Concert Society's First Program Presents Symphony Pianist

WILLIAM MASSELES

First in the series of programs to be presented by Artesia Mutual Concert Association will be the appearance of William Masseles, pianist, at 8 p. m. Monday, Dec. 3, in Artesia High School auditorium.

This will be a dual program since it will be linked with music as a traveling display of paintings by Santa Fe and New Mexican artists will be on display at the same place.

These paintings will represent fantasy impressions of the Chopin Prelude in D Minor, Opus 28, Number 24 with which Masseles concludes the first half of his program and will be shown at intermission.

Having viewed the collection the audience will then be able to compare notes on its impressions as the artist replays the work after intermission.

Purpose of the plan, according to Pryor-Menz Concert and Lecture Service, Masseles managers, is to add to intermission relaxation and to tie in music and painting in a novel and enjoyable way.

The art exhibit will be in cooperation with Dr. Reginald Fisher, director of the Museum of New Mexico.

33-Letter Name—While the pianist is listed as William Masseles, his original name was Aristovoulos Constantine Masseles. That's clumsy to put on concert programs and to announce from the stage in recital halls.

Recognizing this, young A. C. Maselos, who in his boyhood was called Billy, legally changed his name to William Masseles.

Newest Association—Artesia Mutual Concert is the newest Artesia organization. It conducted a membership drive on Nov. 13-17, obtained 800 members. President is Rev. R. L. Willingham, pastor of First Methodist.

Background on the association's first artist is provided by Mrs. C. R. Blocker, third vice-president.

Masseles, although born in Niagara Falls, N. Y., in 1920, is a westerner since from the time he was six months old to the age of eight years, he lived in Colorado Springs, Colo.

He started taking piano lessons when he was six years old. Within two years he had given three public recitals.

When he was eight, his parents took him to New York City. Dr. Frank Damosch arranged for a full scholarship at the Institute of Musical Art.

Artesia Renews Fight for Place Of Airline Route

Another step in Artesia's five-year fight to get on an airline route will be taken when a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing is held in Dallas "sometime after the first of the year."

The deal is tagged "Texas Local Service Case, Docket 2240."

City councils and chambers of commerce on towns on the proposed route have joined in seeking the granting of permission to Pioneer Airlines to operate the Amarillo-El Paso segment.

Pioneer says it can start the line going within "15 to 30 days" after CAB gives authorization.

The Dallas hearing will be a sequel to a movement here last year which came to a halt on Oct. 31, 1951, when the CAB rejected the proposed service.

Also in conjunction with aviation is a letter received here by Mayor Oren C. Roberts from H. T. Kimbell, Jr., Santa Fe, district airport engineer, calling attention to a "Central Airlines certificate renewal case" hearing to be held in the Oklahoma courthouse, Oklahoma City, at 10 a. m. Dec. 3.

What connection this has with Artesia was unknown at the chamber of commerce.

Eddy Officers Pushing Hunt For Murderer

Eddy county officers are continuing their hunt for the slayer of Ventura Arvilla Vera, 37, Mexican farm hand who was shot to death on Friday night, but up to Monday afternoon the killer had not been apprehended.

The sheriff's office in Carlsbad said: "We're working day and night, but so far there has been no new developments in the case."

Vera, a Mexican National was employed on the O'Bannon farm, near Cottonwood. He was shot in the stomach in what apparently was an abortive robbery attempt. Vera had $200 in his possession.

The man with whom Vera shared a two-room house on the farm had been held as a material witness but Richard H. Robinson, assistant district attorney, said he did not believe the man, Hosiario Avalos Castenda, was implicated.

A description of the car in which Vera's assailant is believed to have escaped has been obtained. Robinson declared, and a search of the fields near the farm house is being made to obtain additional clues, he added.

Robinson said that Castenada told him the following story: The two Mexicans were seated in one room of their building list. (Continued on Page 7)

Salvation Army Gives Fast Aid

Editor's Note: This is the third in a series of stories to introduce to you the agencies in your community chest. This article deals with the Salvation Army. The first two stories were on the Artesia Health and Welfare Center and the Artesia Girl Scouts.

On the first cold Saturday night this fall a man, his wife and nine children were stranded in Artesia without money for gas or food. They were en route to El Paso from a town in Pennsylvania where they had attended the funeral of the man's mother.

Word was sent to E. B. Bullock who is the representative of the Salvation Army here in Artesia. He, with the help of the police, found the family and gave them enough money to carry them to El Paso and home.

This is an everyday occurrence for Bullock who is always ready to furnish food and other needs of the travelers.

The Salvation Army stands for "soup, soap, and salvation." In cities such as Roswell, where there is an organization they take people. (Continued on Page Eight)

Sign Will Show Chest Progress

With 30 per cent of the $9,480 quota collected to date, the community chest drive may be extended into mid-December, Rev. Ralph L. O'Dell, Council of Social Agencies president, said today.

To attain the mark more canvassers will be needed and it is expected every business will be on the list.

A thermometer poster has been erected on the city hall lawn to show the progress of the financial campaign. Material for the seven-foot sign was given by Artesia Lumber while C. R. Coole did the job of putting up the device.

Traveler Season Tickets on Sale

Season tickets for the 11 home games of the REA Travelers are now on sale at the Central Valley Electric Cooperative, 115 West Quay and at the Artesia Pharmacy, 402 West Main.

Price of tickets is $10.00. The Travelers will play their first league game against Stewart Chevrolet's of San Francisco Dec. 12 in the NMMI gym in Roswell. The Stewart Chevrolets were national champions last year.

Loco Hills Man Sounds Caution On Wild Shooting

Quail hunters who turn a barrage loose near houses at Loco Hills rouse the ire of Orlando Briscoe, who resides seven miles southwest of that town.

Briscoe was sounding an admonition yesterday in advance of the 1951 quail hunt as he recalled that:

"There is, and never had been, any intention to persecute," he said, "but the obligation to register at 18 is plainly set forth in the selective service law and failure to comply certainly makes a youth a delinquent and all we can do is to act accordingly."

Maximum penalty for violation of any of the provisions of the selective service law is five years in prison, $10,000 fine, or both.

CC Continues Study Of Industrial Homes

A special meeting of all persons interested in industrial housing in Artesia will be called in "the very near future," according to Bill Siegenthaler, president of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce.

Clare Major Play To Be Presented On December 7

"Under the Lilacs," the second of this season's Clare Tree Major plays for children, will bring a world of make believe to Artesia children once again Dec. 7, at the high school auditorium.

"Under the Lilacs" is an adaptation by Clare Tree Major of a tale created by Louisa M. Alcott, author of "Little Women." "Jo's Boys," and other stories fondly remembered by children everywhere.

There is a trained dog in the play, a real one, a boy who worked in a circus and ran away from it to find his father, a wonderful garden where there is nothing to do but play, and a lovely happy ending where the lost are found and all live together, boys and girls, pets and parents, happily ever after.

These plays are sponsored in Artesia by the Girl Scouts, Central School P.T.A., and Story League. Tickets will be sold at the schools next week by committee members made up of representatives of each of the sponsoring organizations and will sell for 50 cents for children and 75 cents for adults.

Expanding the New Mexico Range

Nationals may be em- ployed on ranches as well as under a new agreement be- tween the United States and Mex- ico this year use of Mexi- can Nationals has been restricted according to the latest issue of the New Mexico Stock- man published at Albuquerque.

Recommendations for changes in the federal program for con- tracting Mexican Nationals will be taken up at the 31st annual con- vention of the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau today in the Art Museum building at the St. Francis auditorium in Santa Fe. Among featured speakers are Banks Young of the National Cot- ton Council; Gov. Edwin L. Me- chem, the bureau's legal advisor, who addressed the opening session yesterday.

Northern New Mexico is the area chosen by several displaced Polish families for settlement. Most of them have gone into ranch work.

Office hours of the U. S. Naval Recruiting Office located in Room 227 of the Post Office building, have been extended. New hours are from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Monday through Saturday. The extension has been made to enable young men to enlist after receiving their pre-induction notices before the expiration of the privilege on Fri- day, according to LCDR M. N. Howard.

Pomona College of Clairmont, Calif., has 40 scholarships for which seniors in Artesia High School may compete. Of these, 10 are four-year scholarships, while 30 are one-year scholarships. Both types of scholarships pay from $600 to $1200 per year. Interested students are asked to contact R. M. Parham, according to the Teachers' Bulletin.

Artesia High School sophomores and juniors who will not be more than 16½ years of age by Sept. 1952, may apply for 50 schol- arships available at the University of Chicago, University of Wiscon- sin, Yale University, Columbia University. These scholarships are restricted to male students and renewable. Further information about them can be obtained from R. M. Parham, according to the current issue of the Teachers' Bul- letin.

Veterans Push Toy Collection

Christmas toys for distribution to needy children should be brought to the United Veterans Club, Fifth and West Texas, by Dec. 19, it was announced yester- day by Margaret Hughes, drive chairman.

The toy drive, which is an an- nual affair, has been conducted under the sponsorship of the United Veterans Club for the past years, and prior to that was direct- ed by the American Legion.

Only new toys or used toys in good shape should be brought. Last year a number of defective toys which could not be repaired were turned in.

Persons who know of needy families should submit their names, together with their street address, and number and ages of children in the family, to the United Veterans Club.

Names may be submitted in per- son, by mail or by phoning 559-J.

Best Rebounder in Big Seven Tourny

Doug is 24, single and stretches out 6'8". Hails from Henry- etta, Okla., where he was an outstanding Oklahoma prep star. Played for several teams in the Army for two years and returned to his native state and entered Oklahoma University. Lettered three years in one of the toughest basketball conferences in the country. Although he's big, he can move around very well and gets more than his share of the rebounds off both boards. Was named the Big Seven all tournament team in 1950 and was voted the best rebounder in the classic. Averaged eight points per game in college and was better than average on defense. A real team man who hustles all the way, the Travelers lean heavily on him this year.

Those Free Riders

EVERY COMMUNITY in this nation has more than its share of "free riders"—those who want to benefit and profit from activities in the community but unwilling to pay their share of the expenses and costs of these activities.

Most of these individuals are merely classed as non-civic workers or non-community builders. But the fact remains they are "free riders" in that they want to profit from the community but they refuse to put anything back into the community.

We have those in the church who want to enjoy the church; its services; its pastor; the fine church building and yet they want some one else to provide this so they can enjoy it even though they are perfectly able financially to help pay their share of the costs.

Churches, of course, cost money. The operation of the churches cost money. The employment of the minister and his staff and the services provided by the church cost money.
Someone has to pay these costs—and that is the job of the church members.

We have those who want to see the Red Cross program function and provide services. Often times they are quick to condemn and criticize the organization, yet they are among those who give little or far too often given nothing.

The same is true about every civic movement here.
There are a group of civic and community-minded people who contribute generously of their money and of their time and ability. And because they will do this the community enjoys these various activities. There is always a group of "free riders", those unwilling to pay their share of the cost, who give little or nothing. If the community depended on them—there would be no community activities.

It is the Chamber of Commerce in every community, of course, which comes in for more than its share of criticism.
There are those who feel that a Chamber of Commerce has some definite tangible jobs to do and if it hasn't done these—then it isn't worth its salt.

We usually include only new industries and new pay-rolls. If we fail to secure these then we aren't doing anything.
Often times, of course, we want the Chamber of Commerce to be doing something for us personally and if it doesn't or hasn't—then it is no good.

This, of course, is a narrow, prejudiced attitude based solely on selfish ideas.

The majority of the good things a Chamber of Commerce does are never tangible things which can be seen or viewed. And let us say there are few such organizations and few communities which can or will secure more industries or more payrolls. We are not equipped for one reason or another to justify the establishment of new businesses in our community.

But it is the Chamber of Commerce which boosts every worthy undertaking. It is the Chamber of Commerce which spearheads our drives and our campaigns. It is the Chamber of Commerce which answers letter after letter to those seeking information on our city. It is the Chamber of Commerce which prepares this data and information and has it available for those seeking it.

It is the Chamber of Commerce which answers the questions of prospective newcomers to our community; it is the Chamber of Commerce which checks the needs and argues and contends for road and highway improvement. It is the Chamber of Commerce which pushes and promotes all worthy programs for the good of our community and our cities.

It does a job—the job of helping to build our cities into greater cities and is the only organization formed and functioning solely for that purpose in our community.

The fewer the number of "free riders" and the greater the participation of the citizens in the community in its program the better the job it does and can do.

Belongs to Private Business

THE TENDENCY on the part of taxpayer owned and tax supported institutions to go into business and into competition with private business and private enterprise has been on the increase for years.

There appears to be a growing tendency along this line.
This movement of tax supported institutions going into private business is done under the guise of saving money.
That, of course, is never true.

It is done under the guise of aiding and helping and saving money—in other words with the idea of helping to make it possible for the institution to have more money.

Most of us know that no public office or tax supported institution ever has sufficient funds. It would spend all the money it could secure and then still need more money. It is impossible to provide sufficient funds or at least all of the money that an institution can use or needs.

But it is a bad business to permit the tax supported institutions to go into business. It is bad business because it is private business which pays the taxes and provides the funds for these tax supported institutions to remain in business. It is private business which must continue to enjoy business if it supports these institutions.

And when tax supported institutions engage in private business they are taking business which belongs to local firms and they are actually taking away business which belongs to the taxpayers.

This practice has gone so far in some instances as installing of machinery and equipment—machinery and equipment bought and paid for with tax money. Machinery equipped and operated with the taxpayers paying for the depreciation and the expense in connection with it.

We have long felt there should be a definite policy

MOUNTAIN COMES TO MOHAMMED

What Other Editors Are Saying

MENTAL NARCOTICS

Boys and girls by the thousands, all over the country, are being depraved and demoralized by mental narcotics pushed on them by profit-hungry enterprisers and organizations as evilly efficient as those which carry on the trade in marijuana and heroin.

So says the Woman's Home Companion in an article on "smut peddling" which is factual, circumstantial, documented—and sickening. It should also be enormously helpful to the parents, educators, and citizens in general whom it should arouse and put on guard.

Here is something that will nauseate the sophisticated, not only the prude. Here is no more "high art" post card, tawdry penny peep show, or sniggering suggestiveness. Here is sex interlarded with filth peddled by all the techniques of sales psychology, its opening approach tucked under the fringes of the law, and its follow-ups and clinchers screened by a rear guard of dead-end trails, and legalistic loop-holes. It is merchandized through photographs, "comic books," movie shorts, and even phonograph records.

Apparently post office inspectors are doing a conscious job within their resources. Congress has been tightening up the laws. Local policing, however, has been spotty. Prosecution has been more so. And judges and juries have been strangely lenient—perhaps because, in a less aggressive form, the problem is an old story; perhaps because some, even of the worst offenders, have been able to maneuver their cases into the twilight zone of freedom of the press.

Smut indulgence, like all personal immorality, is hard to get at by law. But, like its grown-up cousin, prostitution, it can be fought back beyond the frontiers of social disintegration by striking at its organized, commercialized forms.
—Christian Science Monitor

against all tax owned institutions, schools, colleges, state prisons, other state operated and owned institutions going into business—whether this was merely the soliciting of advertising, selling of books and magazines, ordering the goods they used or in any other way.

But the practice of public institutions supported by the taxpayer engaging in private business is on the increase and the only way in which it will be halted will be by the taxpayers themselves.

And it is time for the taxpayers to speak out against this practice.

OF THIS AND THAT

WEALTH comes only from production, and all that the wrangling grabbers, loafers and jobbers get to deal with comes from somebody's toil and sacrifice. Who, then, is he who provides it all? The try, supporting his family, paying his taxes, casting his vote, supporting the church and the school . . .

is the Forgotten Man. He works, he votes, generally he prays—but he always pays . . . All the burdens fall on him, or on her, for the Forgotten Man is not seldom a woman.—William Graham Sumner.

WHEN Marian Davies was married the other day for the first time, she gave her age as 45, clinching the argument that you can't depend upon a woman's figures, especially when they apply to her, age. The former actress reached her fame in silent days, and if you will recall that was not last week.
We remember her when we were in our own salad days, and that wasn't last week either. So the conclusion must be that Miss Davies meant that she stopped counting at 45, which probably was 10 years ago.

WHITE House aides attempted to straighten out a forthright statement of the president the other day, when there appears to be no necessity for it. The president said that force is the only language that the Soviet understands. Later aides told newspaper men that it was not to be construed that the president meant that there was no point in ever sitting down at the council table with the Reds.
Maybe the aides were a little too much on the protective side. For, it is obvious that the president knows that dicker with communism is a waste of time.—Roswell Daily Record.

Assignment New Mexico

How many typo errors does a good newspaper make ordinarily in the course of a few weeks?

A case in point is the Raton Range edited by my good friend, capable, alert, and oft-quoted Jimmy Barber.

The survey reveals that on July 12, Jimmy let these slips pass in the type: "Guests present were Miss Mary Ann Gillespie and her brother." Another the same date:
"Garcia, a farm worker was charged with mudred at arraignment here Tuesday."

The Range, July 16: "Louis Smith of Trinidad and formerly of Raton left today for Ojo Caliente where he will spend the preceding week." He not only misspelled preceding but how he could spend the preceding week is some form of reincarnation—we suppose.

August 4: "The newly-former Weather Control Research association was told by its president, Robert D. Elliott." That, we gotta see.

August 8: A heading: "BUTTE DRAINING IN U. S. COURT."
Guess we need a little moisture everywhere—even in a courtroom
—in the arid Southwest.

September 27: and all in one story: "Margaret Siemantel, social director of Alpha Chapter"; Raton high school student Joe Aragon played several municipal selections during the dinner hour"; "Prizes were answered for the most beautiful."

September 11: "Women of the First Presbyterian Church are urged to bring a lunch and a tent," —for attend. Dr. Krick was in neighborhood.

September 28: under marriage records: "Helen L. Hall, 4, and Patrick C. Curley, 38." Jimmy is sponsoring robbing the cradle.

October 12: "State offices are closed today in honor of Christopher Columbus who discovered America in 1492." He's even distorting history.

And two undated blurbs: "Report of Russia atom bomb" and
"The labor delegation appeared sympathetic with our purpose of economizing."

Now, to keep the record straight,
we didn't collect these typos out of the Range.

They were forwarded to us by a friend named Helen—and she lives on Stevens ave., Raton. For a price, Jimmy, we'll reveal her name.
But Jimmy B.'ber is not the only culprit.
I liked that notice in the Cruces
Sun News: "Dr. George B. Grinde-ll will open his dental offices in the KOBE building." A rose by any other name—

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—It was startling—nay, astounding—to spy Lee Shubert in a nightclub the evening, dressed to the nines in black tie and his handsome blond wife on his arm.

Mr. Lee now is in his mid-seventies—look-somewhat younger and behaving even more spry than that—and the reason it was so surprising see him in a high-class saloon is a simple one, surprising to see Mr. Lee anywhere. There citizens who have lived in and around Broadway for years who never have seen him at all and seriously have begun to doubt his existence.
Lee must be the most secretive man of all time.
He is, of course, the man who with his brother Jake (Don't Call Me Jake) Shubert, owns or controls more than half of the legitimate New York theaters and another score of them outside big town.

Even after taxes, this makes the Shuberts pretty well off financially: it's been estimated that in a good year they collected their rake in $60 million a year. And the Shuberts collect 35 per cent the gross receipts of each house.

I do not know why Mr. Lee is so shy or wherefrom he develops his privacy complex, but he has it. Possibly he picked it up years ago when some New York newspapers kicked around a few of the Shuberts about up in Reno in the autumn of 1943, seeking a divorce. Mr.
Shubert told that a dozen persons knew of the marriage. Marcella
Mr. Lee would go to Florida in the winter and Europe in the summer most years, but they were just believed Good Friends, as the euphemism goes. In 1943, Broadway learned it had been legal all the time, possibly enhanced Mr. Lee's moral reputation, although Broadway rarely worries about such trifles, but it shocked the stude shoes the big drag boys.

Marcella told the Reno judge that she could no longer bear Lee's refusal to admit they were wed. This, she said in the classical phrases, made her life miserable and seriously affected and paired her health. She got the divorce.

Probably the most unbelievable part of the whole affair was that was reliably reported—probably from an unimpeachable source, or least from informed quarters—that Jake didn't know Mr. Lee was married all the while. In fact, just before the divorce he was quoted as having said it might be a good thing for his brother to get married.
Undoubtedly this makes Mr. Lee the champion secret-keeper of time. And Marcella gets an assist.

THE HIGH POINT IN MR. LEE'S CAMPAIGN to achieve secularly was his marriage to Marcella Swanson. A pretty blonde worked as a showgirl around town until her last appearance in in Bachelor Boon. Marcella was married to Mr. Lee in Berlin in All Broadway was astonished—really astonished—when Mar-cella turned up in Reno in the autumn of 1943, seeking a divorce. Mr.
Shubert told that a dozen persons knew of the marriage. Marcella
Mr. Lee would go to Florida in the winter and Europe in the summer
most years, but they were just believed Good Friends, as the euphemism goes. In 1943, Broadway learned it had been legal all the time, time. And Marcella gets an assist.

THERE WAS MORE, YET. Came February of 1944—and Mr. Lee and Marcella were remarried. He had less success with this one, far as secrecy went, because a month later novelist Bob Sylvester dragged the truth out of him. That is, Bob dragged it as far out him as Mr. Lee could allow. He wouldn't admit flatly he had been married.

"Yes," he said, "you can print it. But don't say that I said it.
I have no objection to your printing that it is an authentic rumor."
It is not fair to say that the Shuberts have the first penny the ever earned but it is true that three years ago they bought a plot land between 44th and 45th streets, where are located four big theaters and the celebrated lane that is "Shubert Alley," for a reported $3,500,000.

Twenty-two years ago, before the depression, they allegedly controlled a $400 million theatrical empire. These are all, however, old rumors and not over-authentic ones. The real facts in the lives of Shuberts probably are locked deep in Mr. Lee's heart. He is Broway's most mysterious—and, probably, richest—man.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

J. B. PRIESTLEY, the famous British author, is a disillusioned man. The first place he revisited on his last trip to America was the frontier town of Wickenburg, Alaska, which he rapturously lauded some years previous in a novel called Midnight on the Desert. But all the simplicity and charm he had written about had vanished; in their place was a string of gaudy cafes, juke boxes, and neon lights.
"What caused this horrible change?" he demanded of a native. "You did," accused the native. "You and your blasted book! Tourists began pouring here the day after it was published!"

A battle-scarred publisher dictated a long and important letter his secretary and concluded, "Make fifteen copies please, Miss K, so we may be able to find one when we need it."

Quonset Dealers Hold Conference In San Angelo

The nation's rural buying power could be increased substantially—as much as 20 per cent in areas where grain is a principal crop—by general utilization of modern structures now available to farmers, John Gates of Gates and McCaw, local Quonset leader, said today.

Gates said that an increase in the average farmer's income would result from prevention of crop losses, machinery deterioration and inefficient labor common to out-moded and poorly maintained buildings.

This information was brought out at a conference in San Angelo, Texas, sponsored by the McRan Company, Quonset distributor. The conference was attended by representatives of the local dealership.

"A good harvest does not guarantee the farmer a good income," Gates said. "It is estimated that close to a fifth of the grain crop successfully harvested is lost or seriously deteriorated due to improper storage. High moisture, grain mold, rot and insect infestation each take a share; rodents take theirs, exposure and spillage consume the rest."

Because of these things, he said, the Department of Agriculture is deeply concerned not only with increasing acreage and yield, but with conserving all crops that are successfully harvested.

"This is the reason," he said, "that Quonsets are available, and we dealers are in a position to aid the farmers of our communities."

Dodges Used By 59 Drivers In Truck Roadeo

F. C. Hart, of Hart Motor Company, local Dodge dealer, received word that 59 of the 97 state champions competing in the three major events of the 1951 National Truck Roadeo in Chicago chose Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks to drive in the spirited contest for national titles.

Six of the nine national championships awarded in the straight truck, the tractor single-axle semi-trailer, and the tractor tandem-axle semi-trailer classes were won by contestants driving Dodge trucks.

Motor Freight, Spokane, Wash., won third.

Two of the three championships in the straight truck event were won by drivers who chose a Dodge GA-152 (1½-ton) truck. They included Kenneth A. Folck, driver for Great Southern Trucking Co., Jacksonville, Fla., who won third.

Norman L. Hulker, driver for Claxon Truck Lines, Inc., Frankfort, Ky., drove a Dodge YA-142 (4-ton) truck to win third in the tractor tandem-axle semi-trailer event.

Five state champions who had won their titles in state eliminations while driving other makes of trucks switched to Dodge trucks in the national finals after they drove them on a Chicago practice course. Eight manufacturers offered trucks in the national finals, and the 97 champions representing 34 states were free to choose any of the eight trucks to drive. Sixty per cent of the champions chose

Dodge trucks to drive in their bid for national honors, or more than all other makes combined.

Artesia Should Back REA Travelers By Saying It With Tickets to Games

Topnotch quality basketball is offered Artesia through the Artesia REA Travelers team which begins its first season now in the National Industrial Basketball League.

The local cagers played their first game at 8 last night against New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell. Then will come a trio of contests against the Chihuahua All-Stars in Chihuahua, Mexico.

First league tilt will be on Dec. 12 in the Institute armory at Roswell when the Trippers play Stewart Chevrolet of San Francisco.

Right here in the Artesia High School gymnasium local fans can see 11 leagues games of the local team's 42-game schedule.

It's something special and super when a town the size of Artesia has a team that can enter a big-time amateur loop like the N.I.B.L. for entry means that such outfits as the Dayton Air Gems, Good-year, Allen-Bradley, the Caterpillars, Oakland Blue and Gold, and Fibber McGee and Molly, will come from the big towns to play right here in Artesia.

It's up to basketball fans to show their support by buying tickets for the games. Only in this way can big-time basketball continue to be seen here. Saying "it's wonderful" that the Artesia REA Travelers are in the national circuit isn't enough. It takes gate receipts to keep the games going.

Here are the games that will be played in the high school gym.

Each tilt begins at 8 p. m.

Dec. 17—New Mexico Military Institute.

Dec. 29—Santa Maria Golden Dukes, Santa Maria, Calif.

Jan. 10—Dayton Air Gems.

Jan. 14—William Beaumont Hospital of El Paso.

Jan. 21—Reese Base, Lubbock.

Jan. 28—Goodyear of Akron.

Jan. 30—Chihuahua All-Stars.

Feb. 4—Allen-Bradley, Milwaukee.

Feb. 18—Caterpillars of Peoria, Ill.

March 3—Blue and Gold of Oakland, Calif.

March 7—Fibber McGee and Molly.

Mark Time—

This is an in-between session in the sports calendar what with high school football over and high school basketball not underway.

There hasn't been time, due to the holiday bottleneck, to get in touch with the high school coaches on the basketball setup. First game is upcoming on Dec. 4 against the Lake Arthur Panthers, there.

I don't know yet whether we will have that 40-ring circus on the courts we had last season with teams from A to Z playing a bewildering array of games, Dagwood-sandwich style.

But I'm in there boosting the Bulldog cagers, too, altho basketball doesn't appeal to me like football or field and track. So the Davis-dondola will be my new location, replacing the Morris-Field club car.

Las Cruces Flashback—

Turning back to the Las Cruces game, won by the Bulldogs 14 to 0.

Seen at the game, Jet Arm Joe Harbert, now at the Eastern New Mexico University team, the forward passing ace of the 1950 Bulldogs; Andrew Lucas Terpening, University of New Mexico, on crutches. A. L. was the booming

Poultry Can Be a Good Investment

A United States Senator started as a boy with 50 chickens and before long built a fine flock of 10,000. But he had some trouble with them and disease began to cut down his gains. Instead of checking on the trouble he sold out. That was about the time REA was starting and it may have been that kind of equipment that electricity he didn't have available certain can afford us these days.

One of the best ways to build a healthy flock is to learn all you can about poultry. And electrical equipment isn't hard to learn about.

For instance—

Lights—Production can be controlled better with a good light source. Growth can be increased in fall-brooded chickens, too. Electric lights save steps. Ultra-violet lights aid health, growth and production.

Water supply—Inasmuch as eggs are 65 per cent water it is easy to see that a constant source of water is vital. And an electrical pump saves thousands of back-breaking steps.

Brooders—Electrical brooder: mean safe and reliable heat supply for chicks.

Coolers—for eggs are important. A household fan can be used.

Egg graders—Electricity means good, efficient light sources.

Water warmer—Water of the right temperature means that chickens will drink more in cold weather which means faster growth.

Freezers—Surpluses poultry can be kept easily with a freezer. Only freeze birds of high quality, however. And be sure to take care in preparation for best results.

Poultry can be a headache, but there is less chance of that when one is prepared to meet the problems as they arise.

Quail Hunting—

direction of Levon Lee, director of Upland Game Birds, surveyed the prairie chicken breeding grounds last month to determine if the birds had multiplied in sufficient numbers to open the proposed season. Lee reported that "although the birds are doing as well as could be expected, we do not believe they have increased to the 23 games I've seen.

Ben Stevens has done a superb job with the Bulldog band. Think the basic fundamental pattern the band executed at the Las Cruces game was the best of the season.

Bob Barncastle was spotter aide on Las Cruces for Cole while Edwin Elvin again called off names of our team.

To Mrs. W. J. Cluney, my thanks for calling attention to mention of Artesia in the November issue of Argosy as being in a good turkey hunting section.

All-Opponent Team Selected By State Aggies

STATE COLLEGE, Nov. 27 — Eight of the ten colleges on the New Mexico A. & M. College football schedule this fall had representatives named to the all-opponent team. Tempe, with three players named, led the list of top Aggie foes.

Bob Kelly, center for West Texas, won all but one vote from his Aggie opponents. Sabin Hendrickson, McMurtry fullback, who ran for 191 yards against the Aggies, was the choice of all but two Aggies. Bob Watson, Bradley University quarterback, received all but three votes.

The Aggie all-opponent team is: ends, J. D. Partridge (Texas Western) and Joe Spann (West Texas); tackles, Robert Cross (S. F. Austin) and Sam Duca (Tempe); guards, Earl Putnam (SW), 300 pounds, (Tempe) and Dom Patrone (Tempe); center, Bob Kelly (West Texas); quarterback, Robert Watson (Bradley); halfbacks, Gil Gonzalez (Arizona U) and Chuck Hill (New Mexico U); fullback, Sabin Hendrickson, (McMurtry).

Mustang Co-Eds To Stage Field Day December 8

SILVER CITY, Nov. 23. — The Women's Athletic Association of New Mexico Western college will be hostess to an all-college sports day, Saturday, Dec. 8. Arlene Kilpatrick, sponsor of the group, announced today.

Invitations have been sent to the University of New Mexico, New Mexico A. & M., Highlands University, and Eastern New Mexico to participate in the volleyball games and the rating clinic, which is to be held at the same time. Girls qualifying in the clinic will receive their officiating ratings for volleyball.

The WAA of New Mexico Western plans to participate in a basketball sports day at the A. & M. in March, Miss Kilpatrick said.

Panther Contest Opens Bulldog Basketball Round

The Lake Arthur Panthers will open the 1951-52 schedule of the Artesia High School basketball team.

The game will be played on the Lake Arthur court on Tuesday night, Dec. 4.

On the home court, games this season will begin at 6:30 p. m. instead of 7 in order that A team games may begin at 8.

Admission prices will be 75 cents for adults, 50 cents for high school students and 25 cents for elementary pupils. High school students must have their activity ticket for admission to the game.

Bulldog basketball practice for both A and B squads began yesterday in the boys' gymnasium at the high school.

Groceries Sent When Items Get Bulletin Mention

Old-fashioned gratitude is not dead, Bob Koonce, manager of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce is convinced.

Koonce came to this conviction following receipt of a case of Mimbres Valley pinto beans from Deming, following their mention in a chamber bulletin, mailed to various firms as a mater of routine.

The same bulletin also mentioned products of such Artesia firms as Payne Packing Company and McCaw Hatchery, and Pito's peanut butter manufactured in Portales.

The Deming beans came in handy, as Koonce, A. J. Losee, and chamber president Bill Siegenthaler were unsuccessful on their first week-end deer hunt.

SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY
27 YEARS OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP AND PUBLIC SERVICE

How's THIS for a kettle of fish?

No doubt about it—a road failure can cost you plenty of "fish." Not only in time lost to what could have been profitable hauling, but in expensive repairs as well—repairs that could have been avoided.

That's where we come in.

If you bring your equipment to us at regular intervals, our mechanics will catch all the little things that go wrong with trucks before they become a major breakdown.

In so doing, you're being thrifty 3 ways. You (1) cut down the possibility of costly repairs, (2) get better performance with less "down time" and (3) get more years of service from the trucks you now own.

Make sense to you? Come on in—the service is fine!

Get more "run" for your money!

Local Veteran—

(Continued from Page 1) walk to the bathroom and now he was being told he must go a block and a half or two blocks and lug back two suits of clothes. He had to call the assistant manager and get him to order the clothes sent up to him. They arrived promptly, Dunnam said, but asked "Can you imagine what would have happened to a young veteran who did not know the ropes?"

Patients Headache— In describing the new TB building at the Albuquerque facility, Dunnam said it was a beautiful thing to walk through and show to visitors, and it was fine for the convenience of the employees, but it was a headache for patients. He said he resented the remark of one patient before they moved into it, that it was a "monstrosity"; however, after moving in—although he had one of the most desirable rooms—he soon realized the remark was the understatement of the year.

Any ventilation in the double rooms, he said, results in the patient next to the window being uncomfortably cold, while the one next to the door may be too hot. "The heating system, apparently installed at the instigation of some bureaucrat in Washington, who was probably never west of the Allegheny mountains," says Dunnam, "never worked satisfactorily while he was there."

The individual lockers were not even half large enough for a patient's needs, and seemed to be installed for the convenience of giants in height. The designs of this building, Dunnam said he was informed, were drawn in Washington without consultation of the Albuquerque Veterans Administration officials.

Into this new building were built a beautiful chapel, recreation hall, library, barber shop, canteen and dining room, but TB patients were not allowed to use them, the medical section having decided they must not be contaminated, Dunnam said. "They even went so far as to try to force the patients to have their barber work done in the toilet and—of all times—in the morning when the stench was most obnoxious."

Fast Remodeling— "The paint was scarcely dry on the new building," Dunnam declared, "before they began remodeling it. Thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money was wasted in building facilities sick veterans are not allowed to use, and remodeling them. All of this waste is charged to you disabled and your comrades."

The food, Dunnam said, "was bad enough served hot, and it was most unpalatable served lukewarm or cold, as it was about eighty per cent of the time. When so-called cooks send hardboiled eggs for breakfast about 90 per cent of the time, when they are trying for softboiled, then new cooks are needed."

"The cold food," Dunnam concluded, "is, in my opinion, the result of the medical section's refusal to allow any appreciable number of patients to go to the dining room. I was told on Nov. 8 or 9 that there were 186 patients in TB and only four of these were served in the dining room." "These conditions," Dunnam emphasized, "can be corrected if our veterans organizations go to bat for us."

Dunnam spoke at the local chapter's session held on Monday night, Nov. 19.

Four Artesians—

(Continued from Page 1) the drawings a $10 filing fee had to be put up, together with checks for 50 cents an acre deposit on the land. No bidding was required. Unsuccessful applicants have their deposit checks returned to them but the filing fees are kept by the bureau of land management which administered the drawing.

The drawings were conducted in three sessions, two of which, the morning and afternoon sessions, were attended by capacity crowds of 200, while 45 attended the evening session.

Present for the drawings were four Artesians—J. S. Curtis, Ralph Nix, E. E. Kinney, and J. P. Newman.

Unusual—

If they had come on Thanksgiving Day they might have been able to say, "This beats anything Iowa has got" for that day was mild, except for a little breeze.

Artesia Concert—

(Continued from Page 1) achievements at the Institute won him a scholarship at the Juillard Graduate School and still more study under the eminent Carl Friedberg. He has been making a constantly deeper imprint in the musical world ever since.

Masselos has appeared several times in Carnegie Hall and the Town Hall in New York City. He has performed with most of the important symphony orchestras on the Eastern seaboard, and will be soloist with Mitropoulos and the New York Philharmonic Symphony next April.

In 1945, Masselos returned to the Midwest on tour. At each concert performance the acclaim of the Eastern critics was echoed, and his several subsequent returns to the Midlands are testimony to an ever-growing enthusiasm. Martin Bush of the Omaha World-Herald, wrote: "The program was dispatched with a facility so arresting as to goggle-eye many a pianist there."

Salvation Army—

Bullock has represented the Salvation Army here in Artesia for 30 years. A year ago he received a plaque for 30 years of service.

Bullock's responsibilities include taking care of emergency cases of stranded families out of food and gas, or without funds to go home on. He has an arrangement with the railroad company where these people may be sent home for half fare.

Concluding his interview he stated "if there were no sin there would be no Salvation Army."

The money used in this work is received through the community chest. It benefits Artesia by spreading goodwill throughout our country for Artesia. Call 881 if you have not been contacted and wish to contribute to the community chest drive.

The Navy has authorized three battle stars for the Korean Service ribbon: North Korean Aggression; Communist Chinese Aggression and Inchon Landing.
