Artesian Is Fatally Burned In Truck Crash

Funeral services for Ralph W. Cotton, 31, of Artesia, a truck driver killed in a flaming truck collision with another truck-trailer, were held here Sunday afternoon at 4:30. Cotton was killed when the 7,500 gallon gasoline tank truck he was driving collided with a 20-ton rig driven by Malton R. Hughes of Espanola and Lubbock. The second truck was loaded with pumice. The accident occurred Friday night when the trucks collided head-on at the intersection of U. S. 60 and U. S. 285 at Encino. Cotton was born in Alex, Okla., May 5, 1921, the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cotton, who both survive him. On July 22, 1941, he married Ruby Robertson in Chickasha, Okla. Mrs. Cotton and four children survive. The children are Lella Ann, Allen N., Lathan D., and Steve W. Brothers surviving are Crellous J. Cotton of Hobbs; Lawrence L. Cotton of Abilene; and Gene Cotton, Altus, Okla. Sisters are Lenore Smith and Inez Kirk, both of Abilene, and Vernice and Virgie Cotton, both of Altus, Okla. Cotton came to Artesia in 1950 from Chandler, Okla., and was employed by the Art Tarró & Sons truck company of Artesia. He was driving a tanker-truck owned by that firm when he collided with the second truck. Police said a study of skid marks on pavement indicated brakes on the truck loaded with pumice driven by Hughes did not work. State Police theorized that Hughes found his brakes would not work at the Y intersection of the two main highways about three miles west of Encino. Hughes then evidently sought to swerve to give Cotton a chance at passing him on the inside, police conjectured. However, the two heavy machines hit head-on at about 45 degrees, police stated. Others killed in the crash were Hughes of Espanola and Lubbock, and J. D. Weston, a young Roswell father of two small children. All three bodies were burned beyond recognition by an intense fire from the 7,500 gallon tanker, police declared. Flames were reportedly leaping 500 feet into the air split seconds after the crash occurred. Traffic was halted for nearly six hours at the scene of the accident.

Artesia police Monday reported three auto accidents over the week end. One resulted to injury to a 16-year-old boy who was riding in a pick-up truck. A second resulted in a $100 fine on charges of driving while intoxicated. Billie Joe Hollaman, 16, was injured at 5:10 p. m. ## Hearing on City Budget Slated Today

A state tax commission public hearing on the budget proposed by Artesia city council will be held this morning at 9 a. m. in Artesia City Hall. The Artesia budget hearing will be followed by one for Hope. The Hope hearing will also be held in the Artesia City Hall, and will begin at 10 a. m. The public hearing is designed to give citizens and taxpayers an opportunity to examine the budget proposed by the city council for operation of the city during the 1952-53 fiscal year, which began July 1. Across-the-board salary increases up to a maximum of $25 are included in the new city budget. New Trucks—Purchase of an additional truck for the city sanitary department is also provided for in the new budget, as well as increased expenditure on the city's street repair program. An estimated $30,000 has been allowed in the budget for three-months emergency operation of Artesia General hospital by the city council. About $10,000 of that total is for equipment purchased from Sisters Adorers of the Most Precious Blood, who operated the hospital for 10 years until June 18. Another increase in the budget provides for financing of a $350,000 bond issue. City fathers have already authorized issuance of $125,000 in revenue bonds. The debt service for $350,000 was included in this year's budget in case the city should experience sudden growth which would require additional bond issues. Paid By Income—Revenue bonds are paid out of revenues from the source for which the bonds are to be used, and do not result in a property tax increase or direct bond charge to property owners in the city. Details of the new budget have not been released by the city council, pending authorization of the budget by the state tax commission. Other budget hearings for communities in North Eddy county are slated for Lake Arthur at 2 p. m., Hagerman at 3 p. m., and Dexter at 4 p. m.

Modern medical science through constant research has in the last decade done much to increase the life span of us all. Knowing this it has been all too easy for us to call upon a doctor only in our hour of need, when in the majority of cases early diagnosis and treatment by a Medical Doctor could have prevented more serious complications from arising.

Anniversary of GI Benefit Bill

June 22, 1952 marked the eighth birthday of the GI Bill for World War II veterans, with one of its benefits still in full force, another on the decline, and a third long ended for most veterans.

The act, signed into law June 22, 1944, gave three major aids to veterans in their efforts to return to civilian life. One was a program of guaranteed loans for homes, farms and businesses; another, free education and training; and a third, allowances for unemployment and self-employment.

The GI loan program has five more years to run, coming to an end for most veterans on July 25, 1957.

So far, the veterans administration said, more than 3 million veterans have obtained GI loans for homes, farms and businesses. The loans have totaled about $18 billion, with VA guaranteeing or insuring about half the amount.

Ninety per cent of the loans have gone to veterans who wanted to buy or build homes. The remainder have been for farms and businesses.

Veterans have proved to be good loan risks, VA said. Only one-half of one per cent of the home loans have been defaulted to the point where VA had to make good the guaranteed portions to the lender. For farm loans, the proportion of claims paid on defaults was 2.6 per cent, and for business loans, 4.8 per cent.

The GI Bill's education and training program reached its cutoff point for most veterans last July 25. For the most part, the only veterans now in training are those who began before the cutoff date and who have remained in training since, except for interruptions beyond their control.

During the eight years of the program, more than half of the nation's 15 million World War II veterans have taken some form of training under the GI Bill.

The 7.8 million veterans who trained in schools, on the job and on the farm have taken courses in nearly every field at which man earns his living. Hundreds of thousands have trained for occupations from pneumonia, five from diarrhea and enteritis (or summer complaints of infants).

Prospects Favorable for New Record Cotton Crop in New Mexico in 1952

Although less cotton acreage is expected to be planted in New Mexico this year, prospects are very favorable for another record-breaking crop, even greater than that of 1951. That's the opinion of Marshall Thompson, extension cotton marketing specialist at New Mexico A&M college.

Thompson bases his predictions on five reasons: (1) greater knowledge of bollworm and insect control measures, (2) new cultural practices for decreasing wilt damage, (3) expected increased yields from second-year land, (4) better water prospects in the Rio Grande Valley, and (5) a new, higher-yielding variety of 1517 cotton, which will be planted commercially for the first time this year.

"Poor timing of insecticide applications cost New Mexico farmers a lot of cotton last year," Thompson explains. "This experience has taught farmers the importance of getting at the bollworm and other insects at the right time. Bollworm damage alone ruined about 20 per cent of the 1951 crop in the Mesilla Valley."

Vertical Wilt—
New information about vertical wilt has shown that it may be partially controlled by thicker spacing of plantings and by higher seed beds, the cotton marketing specialist says.

"Several new cotton areas were opened in New Mexico last year by tapping underground water resources," he points out. "These new areas were put into cultivation quickly and often by farmers not experienced in irrigation farming. A year's experience has resulted in considerable leveling and general improvement in irrigation structures, and an increase of production can be expected from these new lands."

Thompson adds, "With more water for irrigation this year, lighter soils will produce better than last year, when drought hindered production on this type of soil."

The new variety of cotton, 1517-C, developed by Dr. G. N. Stroman, agronomist with the agricultural experiment station of New Mexico A&M college, has given indication that it may increase yields by as much as a third judging from production on increase plots last year, 1517-C—if planted in all irrigated cotton land in the state—would push New Mexico's yields to a record-breaking height.

Estimated planted cotton acreage in the state this year is 325,000 acres, about 10,000 acres less than last year. These 10,000 acres will be planted, in most cases, to alfalfa, a soil-building crop which has been neglected during the past several years of high cotton prices and water shortages. The improved water outlook this year has made possible the increase in alfalfa acreage.

Consumers are eating more chicken. The average consumption went up from about 18 pounds per person in 1935-39 to almost 30 pounds in 1951.

Health Research Inventory Lists Over 300 Projects

The First comprehensive inventory of social science research in health, listing over 300 recent and current projects in the United States has just been completed by Health Information Foundation (HIF), of New York City.

In announcing publication of the inventory, Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, USN (Ret.), foundation president, said that the project was designed to give researchers and health action leaders "a long-needed over-all view of social, economic and psychological research in health."

The material presented in the inventory was secured through a canvass of 774 public and private organizations, including federal, state and local agencies, national organizations and social science, medical and health divisions of colleges and universities.

Research projects listed in the publication have been grouped and alphabetized into five main categories. These categories are: (1) surveys of health levels, facilities, services and personnel; (2) individual and group participation in health programs; (3) health education; (4) industrial health and (5) correlation of health levels with economic, sociological and psychological variables.

Most of the studies listed in the inventory deal with the first and fifth groups, which contain 127 and 77 projects, respectively.

The material collected has been indexed by authors, research organizations conducting the studies and by the geographic areas of investigations, with abstracts of each project and cross references provided.

It is believed that no comparable listing of social science research in health exists. However, the foundation says that this edition of the inventory "must be considered as the first step toward a complete inventory of such research," and that subsequent annual editions will include new projects as they develop.

Health Information Foundation is a non-profit, non-political organization established by leaders in the drug, chemical and allied industries to collect and distribute factual information on health needs, progress and services in the United States.

REA Lines Buy $43 Million of Commercial Power

Operators of rural power systems financed by Rural Electrification Administration loans paid commercial utility company suppliers over $43 million for electric power in the fiscal year 1951, an increase of some $5 million from the previous year, the U. S. department of agriculture has announced. Commercial utilities continued to supply well over half of the power purchased by REA borrowers.

The total amount of power purchased climbed to a record of nearly 9 billion kilowatt-hours, which is 25 per cent more than the previous year and 12 times as much as 10 years ago. Total cost of electric energy purchased in 1951 was $73 million.

The average cost of wholesale power bought by REA-financed electric systems from all suppliers reached a low of 0.82 cents per kilowatt-hour in fiscal 1951, a reduction from 0.86 cents in 1950.

Of the purchased power, 54 per cent was supplied by commercial utility companies, while another 38 per cent came from public agencies, and 8 per cent from the plants of REA co-op borrowers.

Purchased power does not account for all energy used by REA-financed systems. In addition to the power purchased during the fiscal year 1951, REA borrowers used another 534 million kwh which they generated themselves.

The total amount of electricity generated in REA-financed plants, including that which was sold to other REA borrowers, was 13.2 per cent of the total amount of power used by all borrowers during the year. This is fractionally higher than the 12.8 per cent in 1950.

Consumers connected to REA-financed lines at the close of the fiscal year numbered over 3,500,000. The 1076 REA electrification borrowers included 986 cooperatives, 41 public power districts, 24 other public bodies, and 25 commercial companies.

Artesia Drillers Slip 5-4 Win Over Sweetwater

Artesia Drillers edged the Sweetwater Braves by 5-4 in a Longhorn league game Friday at Sweetwater, rallying behind the relief pitching of Bob Pressley, who allowed two hits and no runs in four innings.

Paul Halter's two-run homer in the seventh positioned Artesia into a winning position, while Pressley held the Braves scoreless for the remainder of the game.

Pressley had come in in the sixth to relieve Milton Marshall, who had allowed five hits for four runs in his five completed innings.

Halter scored his winning homer on a hit off Alex Carresquel, Sweetwater manager who placed himself in the game as a relief hurler. Bill Haley was on base when Halter let loose his 16th homer of the season.

Sweetwater held the hitting edge for the evening by 7-4. But when Brave starter Ernie Sadler threw four wild pitches, and walked seven batters in the first four innings, Artesia capitalized to tie up a 3-0 lead.

The Drillers were able to score twice on errors in the first inning. Kenny Hughes' error together with walk by Halter, Rudy Briner's single, and a wild pitch advanced the Drillers.

Three walks and another wild pitch in the fourth from Sadler produced another Artesian run.

Sweetwater shoved over three unearned runs in the fifth, just before Marshall was relieved. Singles by Warren Sliter and Charlie Buck together with two walks and an error by Halter gave the runs.

Pressley came into the sixth after Charlie Tuttle singled and Sliter was walked. Pressley walked one, and Dave Mier filed to outfield to score Tuttle. Thereafter, Sweetwater was held runless.

Health Research Inventory Lists Over 300 Projects

The first comprehensive inventory of social science research in health, listing over 300 recent and current projects in the United States has just been completed by Health Information Foundation (HIF), of New York City.

In announcing publication of the inventory, Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, USN (Ret.), foundation president, said that the project was designed to give researchers and health action leaders "a long-needed overall view of social, economic and psychological research in health."

The material presented in the inventory was secured through a canvass of 774 public and private organizations, including federal, state and local agencies, national organizations and social science, medical and health divisions of colleges and universities.

Research projects listed in the publication have been grouped and alphabetized into five main categories. These categories are: (1) surveys of health levels, facilities, services and personnel, (2) individual and group participation in health programs, (3) health education, (4) industrial health and (5) correlation of health levels with economic, sociological and psychological variables.

Most of the studies listed in the inventory deal with the first and fifth groups, which contain 127 and 77 projects, respectively. The material collected has been indexed by authors, research organizations conducting the studies and by the geographic areas of investigations, with abstracts of each project and cross references provided.

It is believed that no comparable listing of social science research in health exists. However, the foundation says that this edition of the inventory "must be considered as the first step toward a complete inventory of such research," and that subsequent annual editions will include new projects as they develop.

Health Information Foundation is a non-profit, non-political or-

Drillers Lead Loop in Batting, Bauman First With .403 Record

REA Lines Buy $43 Million of Commercial Power

Operators of rural power systems financed by Rural Electrification Administration loans paid commercial utility company suppliers over $43 million for electric power in the fiscal year 1951, an increase of some $5 million from the previous year, the U. S. department of agriculture has announced. Commercial utilities continued to supply well over half of the power purchased by REA borrowers.

The total amount of power purchased climbed to a record of nearly 9 billion kilowatt-hours, which is 25 per cent more than the previous year and 12 times as much as 10 years ago. Total cost of electric energy purchased in 1951 was $73 million.

The average cost of wholesale power bought by REA-financed electric systems from all suppliers reached a low of 0.82 cents per kilowatt-hour in fiscal 1951, a reduction from 0.86 cents in 1950.

Of the purchased power, 54 per cent was supplied by commercial utility companies, while another 38 per cent came from public agencies, and 8 per cent from the plants of REA co-op borrowers.

Purchased power does not account for all energy used by REA-financed plants. In addition to the power purchased during the fiscal year 1951, REA borrowers used another 334 million kwh which they generated themselves.

The total amount of electricity generated in REA-financed plants, including that which was sold to other REA borrowers, was 13.2 per cent of the total amount of power used by all borrowers during the year. This is fractionally higher than the 12.8 per cent in 1950.

Consumers connected to REA-financed lines at the close of the fiscal year numbered over 3,500,000. The 1076 REA electrification borrowers included 986 cooperatives, 41 public power districts, 24 other public bodies, and 25 commercial companies.

Artesia Drillers Slip 5-4 Win Over Sweetwater

Artesia Drillers edged the Sweetwater Braves by 5-4 in a Longhorn league game Friday at Sweetwater, rallying behind the relief pitching of Bob Pressley, who allowed two hits and no runs in four innings.

Paul Halter's two-run homer in the seventh positioned Artesia into a winning spot, while Pressley held the Braves scoreless for the remainder of the game.

Pressley had come in in the sixth to relieve Milton Marshall, who had allowed five hits for four runs in his five completed innings.

Halter scored his winning homer on a hit off Alex Carresquel, Sweetwater manager who placed himself in the game as a relief hurler. Bill Haley was on base when Halter let loose his 16th homer of the season.

Sweetwater held the hitting edge for the evening by 7-4. But when Brave starter Ernie Sadler threw four wild pitches, and walked seven batters in the first four innings, Artesia capitalized to tie up a 3-0 lead.

The Drillers were able to score twice on errors in the first inning. Kenny Hughes' error together with walk by Halter, Rudy Briner's single, and a wild pitch advanced the Drillers.

Three walks and another wild pitch in the fourth from Sadler produced another Artesia run.

Sweetwater shoved over three unearned runs in the fifth, just before Marshall was relieved. Singles by Warren Sliter and Charlie Buck together with two walks and an error by Halter gave the runs.

Pressley came into the sixth after Charlie Tuttle singled and Sliter was walked. Pressley walked one, and Dave Mier filed to outfield to score Tuttle. Thereafter, Sweetwater was held runless.

Wool Contest Is Opened to Girls In New Mexico

Now is the time for New Mexico girls between the ages of 14 and 22 to plan their entries in the 1952 "Make-It-Yourself-Wool" contest.

This reminder comes from Rhea Boyles, clothing specialist with the extension service of the Mexico A&M college. "It won't long before school is out and summer vacation begins, and you have plenty of time to sew," points out.

If you haven't started work on your project, and want to know how to enter the contest, call your county home demonstration agent, home economics teacher, write to Miss Boyles, Extension Service, State College, N. M.

The rules: All garments must be made of 100 per cent virgin wool with commercial or original sign patterns. A typewritten letter of not less than 200 words accompany each garment you enter, describing the fabric, why you chose it, and a "statement" how much the garment cost.

Farm Accidents Reach Staggering New Total in '51

Farm work accidents for the past year reached a staggering total both in persons involved and in financial loss. Figures compiled by the bureau of agricultural economics show that 4,000 persons were involved in fatal farm work accidents.

Permanently disabled totalled 250; loss of arm or leg, 11,400; loss of finger or toe, 30,900; and temporary disability affected 378,000. The number of farm accidents affected a total of 424,550 persons.
 Financial loss in accident insurance in 1951 reached an estimated $177 million, the major part of which resulted from disabling farm accidents. Accidents affecting farmers are expected to cost about $1 billion this year—including fire and motor vehicle and property damages. For example, four farm buildings will burn every hour of every day, according to the National Protective association, and every 24 seconds a disabling injury will strike some unlucky farm person.

Lightning Can Take Toll on Eddy Farms

When lightning strikes, be prepared, warns County Agent Dallas Rierson. As summer storm clouds start gathering on hot humid afternoons, electrical storms begin to take their toll. With millions of volts and thousands of amperes spent in a fraction of a second, lightning will destroy or damage any object which tends to resist its passage, Rierson explains.

Eloquent and tragic proof of this rule is seen every summer, he says, lightning kills some 400 people and injures 1,000 others each year. Ninety per cent of the accidents occur in rural areas, according to the National Safety Council. Lightning is also a major cause of million worth of farm property farm fires, destroying about $20 each year.

To thwart lightning, a system of air terminals and ground conductors can be built which will carry lightning safely to the ground and prevent damage to your buildings or animals inside them, the county agent says.

"Where lightning protection has been installed, check the system very carefully before the storm season starts," Rierson points out. "Proper grounding is vital, and it's the one thing most likely to be neglected, since it's usually hidden from view. Every fastener and connector is important, because the performance of your entire system may be wrecked by just one weak link."

"When installing a new lightning rod system, see an experienced lightning protection man." Get bids and deal with a well-established and reputable firm. Poorly installed or maintained systems lead to disaster. When the hot stuff comes stabbing down out of the clouds, your lightning protection system can save valuable property and perhaps your life. Be sure you're ready for lightning.

Plant Breeder Is Added to Staff At A&M College

A plant breeder has been added to the staff of the plains substation of the New Mexico Agricultural Experiment station. Director R. A. Nichols announced this week.

Ronald Wilson Livers, who received his doctor of science degree from the University of Minnesota in 1951, will conduct research toward breeding improved sorghums and wheat, the two major crops of the plains area of New Mexico. He will work toward obtaining higher yielding, better quality, more vigorous, varieties and strains. Livers, obtained his master of science degree in agronomy from Kansas, obtained his master of science degree from the University of Kansas State College in 1948. At Kansas State, he also held the position of graduate assistant in what breeding. At the University of Minnesota, he served first as research assistant, then as teaching assistant, and finally as research fellow.

How to Register Now

WHILE AMERICAN election interest is now at a fever pitch, even between political conventions at Chicago, that will be reached again only before the general election in November, it's a good idea to plan to register so that you may vote in November.

Registration, according to the election code of the state, closes 30 days before an election. That will be October 11.

If you have not voted in the last two general elections, your name has probably been purged from the rolls of qualified voters. If you are a new voter, you must register also—registration is not automatic.

Qualifications for voters who have not previously voted in New Mexico require that you be a resident of the state for one year, of the county for 90 days, and of the precinct for 30 days, prior to the election.

Mrs. Erma Williams, public stenographer on the second floor of the Booker building, is registrar for Artesia precinct 6, and will register you for voting.

You will be asked your party affiliation when you register. You may indicate either Democrat, Republican, or Independent. Those who may consider registering independent are reminded that they cannot vote in a primary election.

Fifty-two per cent of the American public voted in the last presidential election. Many Americans did not even register, despite the interest of that contest.

Elections this year promise to be far more interesting than those of recent contemporary history. The prospective voter who lets his registration go may forget that the last minute is not in November—it is early in October.

Registration is set up in Artesia to be a convenient, private, and easy process. It costs nothing, unlike many other southern states where a poll tax is in effect—there is no discrimination raised by a small but nevertheless effective financial barrier.

Don't delay registration—do it now.

Fund Raising Project

MOST GROUPS, CLUBS, organizations and movements here are in need of funds to carry on their programs.

Frequently we seek ways and means to raise these funds and in most instances we seek to do it the easy way. That way, of course, is to bring in outsiders. And when we do this from 50 to 60 per cent of the proceeds go outside, too.

We believe that the average citizen is more interested in a home town talent show than they are in those from the outside. We also believe they are always happy to aid and assist such programs because they know the funds remain at home.

Many communities of course, over the nation have organized a local unit of the Society For the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America. There are cities nearby which have chapters of this organization.

And in many instances these groups not only have one or more male quartets, but they have a male chorus.

They get a lot of fun and enjoyment out of singing and entertaining others. In many communities these groups have organized and they present hometown minstrel shows.

This has become an annual event in many communities. It becomes something to which the entire community looks forward.

Artesia, of course, has those capable of directing such projects; it has those with ability to participate in such programs; and it has those willing to attend and enjoy such entertainment.

There are always those local movements and causes which could be aided with funds raised in this manner.

We believe that the presentation of a minstrel show here could and would be an outstanding event. We believe that it could be built into one of the finest entertainments presented here each year.

There, of course, is always help and aid available in the formation and organizing of a chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America from any of the societies in nearby communities.

What Did They Gain?

THE TOTAL BATTLE casualties for America in the Korean war now stands at 106,794.

Of this number some 18,616 are reported dead—killed in action, died of wounds or died of illness.

Some 75,789 have been wounded; 9,941 are missing; 4,069 are captured and some 1,379 previously missing but they have not returned to service.

Most of us have asked repeatedly just why we are in Korea? We have asked what we propose to do in Korea? And those there fighting want to know what they are fighting for in Korea.

We should begin to ask just what the casualties of 106,794 have gained for us? We can't answer it and even if we could we would still say this is a tremendous price to pay for what?

Certainly you have a right to ask why 18,616 have paid with their lives in Korea? And you have a right to ask what have we gained or what do we seek with a price as high as that?

The more questions you ask as a citizen about Korea the quicker that matter can and will be settled by victory or a just peace settlement.

STILL CLOUDY

What Other Editors Are Saying

VERMEJO PROJECT

Do you get lost when they start to talk about re-programming and fiscal years and supplemental funds and other such Washington gobbledegook? I do too.

But Frank Burnett, who is Senator Chavezman on the Senate's public works committee, telephoned from Washington, D. C. yesterday afternoon to explain why things are still looking rosy for the Vermejo irrigation project at Maxwell.

It's this way, explained Frank: President Truman has authorized Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman to include $410,000 for the Vermejo project in a re-programming of funds in his budget for the fiscal year starting July 1. He also told Chapman to go ahead and write a letter to Congress requesting approval of the shuffling around of the money.

If Congress does approve the re-programming you can add $410,000 to the $235,000 already approved for Vermejo and come out with a total of $645,000, which is somewhat shy of the $800,000 figure mentioned in a news story by the Associated Press but is still considerable potatoes.

"That's about all you can spend, anyhow," Frank said over the telephone. I'll take his word for it.

This should, at the very least, let Maxwell live in hope for a few more months.—Raton Range.

PHONE RATE COMPARISONS

The telephone company has raised wages to some 14,000 non-supervisory employes covering seven western states including New Mexico and as a sequel indicates it will seek further increases in the various states.

Already New Mexico has had three substantial hikes in the past several years. The latest increase authorized by the State Corporation Commission amounted to $1,105,000.

Only this week a 20 per cent increase was authorized in Colorado by the Colorado Public Utilities Commission.

But even with this increase the Colorado rates are still considerably below New Mexico and Albuquerque.

For instance; in Denver under the new rates a one-party residence phone costs from $4.15 to $5.45 compared to $5.75 for Albuquerque. Other Denver rates are lower than in Albuquerque though Denver's population is some four or five times that of Albuquerque and the bigger the city supposedly the higher the phone rates.

Take comparable cities in Colorado such as Colorado Springs and Pueblo. In these two cities, for instance, the rate under the new increase for a one-party residence is from $3.90 to $5.10 compared to the $5.75 rate in Albuquerque.

Take a business phone. In Pueblo and Colorado Springs the new rate for a one-party phone ranges from $8.25 to $11.15. The rate in Albuquerque is $13.75.

Phone rates in Albuquerque are higher than in El Paso, in Amarillo and in Lubbock, all comparable cities. Then why is there hint of another rate increase here when all comparable cities around still have lower rates despite recent increases. Before New Mexico and Albuquerque rates are again tampered with why aren't rates in comparable cities in the Rocky Mountain area brought up on a par with our current schedules?

When the New Mexico Corporation Commission hears any new petitions for phone rate increases it should demand to know why other cities in our population economic classification have substantially lower rates.

On the face of things New Mexico and Albuquerque are being discriminated against in the matter of phone rates.—Albuquerque Journal.

Inside WASHINGTON

Quietus on Red Riots In Japan Encouraging | Future Commie Brawl May Prove Boomerang

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Officials here are confident that new Communist inspired disorders in Western Europe and Japan can be controlled by local authorities. This was indicated in Acting Secretary of State David Bruce's reply to a House resolution demanding to know all about the uprisings in Japan during the past year.

Bruce asserted that further Red riots in Japan are likely to boom-erang on the Communists. Other officials feel that the same situation exists in Europe. American leaders are greatly encouraged by Japanese measures to quash the Communist menace as well as by the strong methods used in France to smash the threat of a Red-plotted general strike.

Administration officials declare the United States and its allies now hold the initiative in dealing with the troublemaking Communists. However, they warn that any United States "pullout" or reduction in aid would mean new Moscow-directed outbreaks and certainly would undo all that has been done in the past few years toward achievement of a policy of "containment."

DAVID BRUCE • TAXES—Here is a comforting thought: Taxes are certain to be reduced during the next two years if Congress passes no new revenue laws. The drop is due because the wartime increases in certain levies will expire in 1953 and 1954.

Among these are: Excess profits taxes, scheduled to end July 1, 1953; individual income taxes, Jan. 1, 1954; excise (consumer) taxes, March 31, 1954; and corporation income taxes, March 31, 1954.

Barring all-out war or a complete change in sentiment on Capitol Hill, Congress will enact no new general tax legislation in the near future.

BIG FOUR—Secretary of State Dean Acheson, fearful of creating a rift between the United States and France, was compelled to give in to the demands of French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and agree to a conference with Russia on German unification.

Acheson contended that the parley would get nowhere and would postpone indefinitely implementation of the pacts with West Germany. Schuman argued, however, that everything possible must be done to minimize Soviet reaction to an armed West Germany.

Anglo-French-American experts have been assigned to work out details of a formal note agreeing to a minister of the Big Four foreign ministers' deputies.

The note will insist—and on that point Acheson was most emphatic—that the first task of the conference shall be appointment of a commission to determine whether free elections can be held in both East and West Germany.

Acheson has made it clear to the Bonn government and to the people of Berlin that the United States has no intention of abandoning them, and that the western powers would regard a Red attack on Berlin as an attack against themselves.

KOREA—The daily messages to Washington which Gen. Mark Clark began sending soon after his arrival in Tokyo, urging a steady buildup in United States air strength in Korea, are starting to pay off.

The Yalu river powerplant raids are described in the Pentagon as only a prelude to a ceaseless barrage of air blows with which Clark hopes to compel the Communists to agree to an armistice largely on United Nations terms.

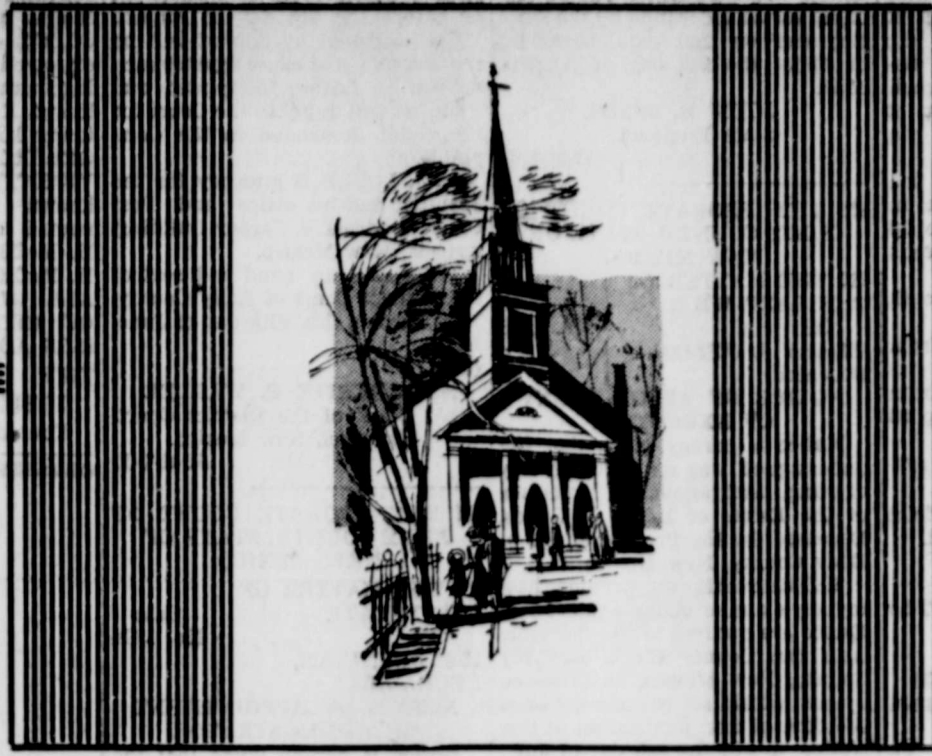

Korean strategy, and the flow of big planes and experienced pilots has assumed heartening proportions.

The pessimism about the long-stalemate truce talks is beginning to give way, in informed military circles, to a feeling that the United States can produce a Sunday punch and that the Reds soon are going to realize that fact.

Moreover, United States jet fighters are scoring successes against the Russian-built MiGs more spectacular than those they have achieved in earlier combat.

Morale among American airmen is reported exceptionally high. The bomber and fighter pilots are said to feel that as a hard-hitting team they can smash so many Red targets and planes so often that victory in Korea soon may be more than a changed hope.

"FIRST, LET US SEE YOUR CHURCHES"

Immediately following World War II, a large Eastern industrialist planned on establishing a branch factory in the West, where facilities were best for his expansion program.

When this industrialist arrived to survey locations and other facilities, he was approached by local officials who wished to point out the many advantages offered by their community. The industrialist answered with the request: "First, let us see your churches and your schools."

He then went on to explain that numerous new families, many with children, would be moved in to man the new plant, wherever located. He knew the churches were a true reflection on the community—its type and temperament.

Had this industrialist visited Artesia, he would have found here churches of all faiths, housed in modern, beautiful buildings, blessed with all the facilities dedicated to the service for which they were intended.

He would have found well supported, and well attended churches, always on the alert to help those seeking help. In attendance, he would have found groups of people who know the many advantages and regards of regular church attendance—the satisfaction that a man gets from knowing he is a part of his church, which is a most important part of his community.
