Hope People Get Personal Airmail

They've got personal airmail delivery out at Hope now. The C. R. Barleys report they ordered some tires from an enterprising Eddy county dealer. He didn't have the tires in stock.

Instead of writing that information to the Barleys, he flew his plane out to the Barley farm, tied a note on a chunk of pipe, and circled the farm three times to attract attention.

Seeing the family in their yard, he dropped his note, circled a fourth time to make sure the message had been found, then dipped his wings and flew away.

Police say a tire tool was used by the thieves to smash the large plate glass window protecting the display, which is partially covered by insurance against theft.

New Eddy County Report Cards Outlined Before Central PTA

"Know Your School" was the main topic at the monthly meeting of Central school parent-teachers' association Wednesday evening. C. Stalcup, principal, planned the program and introduced Mrs. Mills, elementary supervisor for Artesia schools, who outlined the proposed new report cards for schools of Eddy county. She emphasized difficulty in making an accurate and helpful report of a child's progress in school. There has been great concern to make the new cards to report the child's social development of child as well as mental. It will be used experimentally this year by those teachers who wish to try it.

Mills added that schools will receive comments from parents as well as teachers as to how they feel the card and possible changes might improve it.

Parents attended two class sessions held in the children's rooms, each parent an opportunity to learn about work materials, schedule, and general progress of his child or children and opportunity to ask questions to be answered by the teacher.

Assistance for Women Starting Own Business Given By B&PW Federation

Aid to women who need guidance in launching their own small businesses is rapidly becoming one of the major nation-wide activities of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

With the economic pinch steadily increasing, the federation points to a skyrocketing of the number of women who are anxious to convert personal skills and ideas into cash. Some of these are housewives seeking to supplement the family income. Others are wage-earners in the older age bracket who wish to ensure themselves of financial security in the face of approaching compulsory retirement from their jobs.

Because few of these women have the knowledge necessary to make a success of even the smallest business, the national federation is urging its 2850 affiliated clubs to expand their present activities in furnishing expert counseling.

Since first undertaking this project, the federation's local clubs and affiliated state federations have held small business clinics in 22 states. At the clinics women who have already made an outstanding success in establishing their own businesses advise novices as to how to go about it. They discuss such problems as to how to determine what products or services will sell best in one's own community, how to market a product, how much money is needed to get started, legal aspects involved, tips on pricing, eye-appeal, naming and publicizing a product, how to get necessary supplies.

Exhibit Products

At the clinics local women have an opportunity to exhibit products they seek to sell. In numerous cases markets have been found for exhibited products.

In addition to the clinics, the clubs and state federations have been working to interest their governors in establishing permanent state agencies that will concentrate on the needs of small business. The Iowa federation, through

Clovis Brings 3 Won, 1 Lost Record Against Bulldogs; Sportsmanship Trophy Planned

Clovis Wildcats will bring a 3 won, 1 lost record to Artesia tonight in a game against Artesia's undefeated Bulldogs slated for 7:30 at Morris Field.

Wildcats have lost only to Albuquerque High by 9-7 in a game two weeks ago, when both teams were scouted by Artesia Coach John Daugherty. Artesia last week defeated the upstate Bulldogs 14-0 and are definitely rated the favorites in tonight's encounter.

Artesia will especially concentrate on Clovis' Lyle Walker in defending its unbeaten, untied, and unscored record tonight.

Walker is an all-around back who punts, passes, carries, and is the defensive star. Daugherty reports, it was Walker who caught a pass on the Albuquerque 35 and went all the way for a TD in the game two weeks ago the Bulldog coach added.

Clovis is tops on defense, holding Albuquerque's firecracker offensive down and consistently blocking scoring attempts, however deep in Clovis territory.

Meanwhile, Artesia Coach Cal Hall has reported his team to be in "excellent spirit." Yesterday afternoon the Artesians studied films of the Albuquerque game played last Friday night in the Duke City, and picked up "plenty of perspective." Hall reports.

Daugherty points out that "Clovis was able to knock the ball loose from Albuquerque and recover on fumbles."

The Wildcats stick to the ground generally on offense. Daugherty said, and operates from both a T and split-T formation. As far as weight goes, the Artesia scout guesses the Wildcats stack up "pretty much as Albuquerque did."

In going over the week's casualty list, Coach Hall reported Bobby Loyd is working out steadily despite a severely bruised hip, which will be heavily padded going into tonight's game. Doug Whitefield was relieved of practice duties two days this week because of strained ligaments in his foot. Whitefield is the key Bulldog carrier and extent of his action tonight is not known.

Tonight's game will see Artesia exchange a sportsmanship trophy with Clovis student representatives.

On action of the Artesia student council, a miniature football field has been prepared. One end of the gridiron bears the colors of Clovis, the other Artesia, and in the center of the field is the legend "Sportsmanship."

The trophy will be given Clovis representatives to hold during the game tonight, and will be presented to the winning team following tonight's game. It will be exchanged annually with the winner retaining possession until the next year's game.

Serving on the Student Council committee developing the trophy are Jack Williams as chairman, and members Glenn Bratcher, Betty Burch, Bill Jones, and Pat Johnson.

Albuquerque Grid Coaches Ponder Rise Of Southeastern NM Grid Fortunes

Northern New Mexico football seem to be bigger than those in the north. Of course, they have better all-around weather, he said, and those cities have really grown in recent years."

Howard Peterson, Albuquerque Journal sports writer, considers the problem as follows in his "Journal Sports Forum":

"For the past five or six years, football teams in the southeastern part of New Mexico have gradually asserted their supremacy over pigskin outfits north of U.S. 66, the sunshine state's Mason-Dixon line. And from the looks of recent reports, the Revels are going to do it again this year.

"The question for coaches this week is 'How do you account for the superiority of southwestern teams over northern?'"

"Outside of Yankee strongholds—Albuquerque High, Highland, and occasionally St. Mary's—the Rebels have had little trouble in defeating their northern brethren. Though these Duke City clubs open their campaigns this weekend, they won't be tangling with any of the Rebel powerhouses.

"One has only to consult the All-Star records to see that the southerners have won more than their share of the grid classics.

"The reasons given by Duke City pigskin generals for the rise of southeastern grid fortunes are: (1) Increase of population; (2) Better climate; (3) Rabid interest in football; and (4) More matured players.

"Pete McDavid, coach of the Albuquerque Bulldogs, believes the primary reason for Rebel grid prosperity is the increase in population. 'In recent years,' he said, 'the oil fields and potash mines have attracted a surprising number of people to Artesia, Hobbs and Carlsbad.'

During the summer months, the Bulldog mentor continued, quite a few of the boys probably get jobs in the oil fields and mines and are consequently toughened for football. Another important influence which cannot be overlooked, he concluded, is the fact that these schools are close to Texas, where some of the country's best prep school football is played.

"I think southeastern dominance is simply a trend," said Coach Hugh Hackett, who has championship hopes for his Highland squad. Eventually, he said, the pendulum will swing the other way, and the northern teams will be the powerhouses. However, he went on, one cannot overlook the rapid growth of population which is an important factor in any city as far as football talent is concerned.

Babe Parenti, St. Mary's coach, said southeastern outfits show more determination and toughness than northern outfits. Population is a factor which cannot be overlooked, he said, and you certainly can't overlook the rapid growth of population which is an important factor as far as football talent is concerned. They might have gained that maturity through hard work during the summer months, he continued, plus the fact that there is tremendous interest in football there.

"Also, the Cougar mentor said, 'the climate is better suited for outdoor sports. They don't have much bad weather.'

"I can't explain why," said F. M. (Tony) Wilson, director of public school athletics in the Duke City, "but those southern boys cial pointed out. One individual can buy up to four tickets. Sections have already been reserved by Hobbs Principal Lowell Payton for band and students.

"We're having a raffle for a poor widow. Will you buy a ticket?"

"Nope. My wife wouldn't let me keep her even if I won."

How to Watch Football Games Explained by Famous Coaches

Watch the blocks and the actions of the kick-coverers if you want to appreciate the kick-off. Diagram from "How to Watch Football."

Do you know what to watch for at the kick-off in a football game? Do you know where to look for exciting action on a pass play? Do you know a T-formation or a Split-T?

To get enjoyment out of a football game, you needn't know how to play, but you ought to know what to watch for. That's the consensus of eleven famous football coaches who have combined to write a new 48-page illustrated booklet on the fine points of being a football spectator.

Entitled "How to Watch Football," it is authored by top-flight mentors of the Big Ten and Big Seven conferences and carries the endorsement of The American Football Coaches Association.

The booklet may be obtained free of charge from Phillips 66 Dealers in this area.

Ray Elliot, head football coach at the University of Illinois advises, "Don't keep your eye on the ball," if you want to appreciate football's most spectacular play—the kick-off. Instead, watch how the receiving team forms interference.

Watch how the kick-coverers counteract the interference. The flight of the ball is the least important part of the action.

Equally sage advice on how to enjoy the game comes from Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, Don Faurot of Missouri, Benny Oosterbaan of Michigan and Forest Evashevski of Iowa. Each contributes a short informative article on some phase of offensive strategy.

Jules Sikes of Kansas and Stu Holcomb of Purdue tell what to look for on a pass play. The role of the flanker is described by Bill Glasford of Nebraska. Wesley Fesler of Minnesota, explains punting, while Bob Voigts of Northwestern and Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin talk about defense.

If you want to be able to "expert" the games this fall, "How to play Football" will give you the background you need. In addition to articles by the coaches the booklet contains schedules of the leading college and professional teams as well as a key to the understanding of officials' signals and a summary of penalties.

A MAINE conservative who owns an inn just off Route 1 never ceases moaning these days about the ruinous effect of the new turnpike which diverts a goodly part of the through-traffic two miles to the west of his establishment. "We're on our way to the poorhouse," he keeps reminding his wife Elvira. "Remember when we wuz turnin' away thirty to forty tourists every night? Things is gittin' so plumb bad on account of that dratted turnpike, we never turn away more'n ten or twelve a night now!"

One of the many celebrities who dwell in Stamford, Conn., is Editor Herbert Mayes, but his sumptuous home is so far from the town that servants are hard to find—and harder to keep. Mrs. Mayes finally latched on to a couple who seemed ideal and, after arrangements had been concluded, led them in to meet Mayes in his study. Seeing the crowded bookshelves and piles of manuscripts, the butler was moved to inquire, "What's your line, sir?" Mayes answered, "I'm the editor of Good Housekeeping Magazine." "Good Housekeeping!" gasped the butler. "Come on, Hilda, this is no place for us!"

Part of Dexter Fish Hatchery To Be Opened for Hunting

United States fish and wildlife service will open a portion of the Dexter fish hatchery grounds to hunting during the waterfowl season Oct. 14 to Nov. 6 and Dec. 18 to Jan. 10, William L. Moss, superintendent, has announced.

Section to be opened to hunting will be the eastern half of the hatchery grounds—the part lying east of the cross fence.

To reach the hunting grounds, hunters must enter by the front hatchery entrance on the county road east of Dexter. From this gate, plain markers will direct hunters to three parking lots.

One parking lot will be located at each cattle guard entering the hunting area. Hunters will be required to park in the designated areas and walk to the area open to hunting.

Following regulations must be complied with, Moss declared: No shooting on any of the ponds, other than those in the designated hunting area; waterfowl only can be hunted; road signs, boards from pond outlets, fences or cattle-guards must not be molested; hunters must be cautious about fires and extinguish fire immediately should one break out; and must comply with all state and federal laws.

Fish and wildlife service officials may close the property to hunting at any time this becomes advisable, and the superintendent is authorized to close any part or all of the hunting area when any hunting interference with normal operations of the station.

Writer Recalls Santa Fe's Two Lone Bath Tubs

Bathtubs are so commonplace that most people hardly remember the days when they were a special luxury. But Myrtle Andrews Gere of Santa Fe, in an article in New Mexico Magazine for August recalls when there were only "two real bathtubs" in Santa Fe.

Writing of the late nineties, Mrs. Gere recalls building a "three room adobe house with a bath—a new fangled one."

"After much debating we decided on a corner of the kitchen for the 'bath,' it being the largest room in the house," she writes.

"The tub was quite a contrivance. When in it, one could insure privacy at anyone's approach by pulling a cord which let the top down. The top rested on two big spools in the kitchen.

"One hot summer afternoon the groceryman came to deliver groceries. I heard the dog bark frantically. I pulled the string. The top came down. The groceryman placed the 50-pound sack of flour top! I held my breath inside the water. Then when he went out I raised my back and pushed up the flour and groceries fell to the floor and I could crawl out.

"But I was delighted with this bathtub for I knew of only two other real bathtubs in town."

Mrs. Gere's article is one of several dealing with Santa Fe and the Santa Fe area in the magazine's annual fiesta to be held August 30 and 31 and Sept. 1.

Restaurant Ham Thicker Than Measuring Atmospheric Particles

Proverbial slice of restaurant is tremendously thicker than items Dr. Marvin H. Wilkening is accustomed to measuring. He collects particles floating in the atmosphere that measure half a micron, and a sack of flour is about as wide as four one-thousandths of an inch. Since there are "fleas with fleas to bite 'em," it isn't surprising that Doctor Wilkening is after it, it is the smaller radioactive substances clinging to these particles measuring.

Doctor Wilkening, who is head of the department of physics and astronomy at New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, spent part of his time in research at the institute's aerosol laboratory which is interested in the tiny particles which occur in the atmosphere. That radioactive particles are found in the air we have been known since but only recently has the measurement of this atmospheric radio activity undertaken.

The problem of monitoring the natural radioactivity in the air is essentially one of collecting particulate matter from the atmosphere and presenting it in a sufficiently concentrated form for counting," writes Doctor Wilkening in a recent issue of "Science" magazine.

Devices— solves the problem with two instruments. One is called "electrostatic precipitator," which the air is forced at a rate. The air passes first through a strong electric field, which charges the tiny particles, then through an aluminum tube which the particles are "precipitated" on a motorized reel, which moves it through the precipitator at a speed which can be set according to the rate of radioactive particles being counted.

Counting alpha particles released by radioactive substances, a scintillation detector is applied to the tape, recording its results on an electric pen on a paper. The scintillation detector is sensitive to the flash of light produced when an alpha particle strikes a fluorescent screen. The flash is interpreted as an electrical pulse by a photomultiplier tube. The pulse is recorded graphically by the pen. If beta particles are to be counted, the well-known Geiger-Muller counter is used.

These radioactive particles in the atmosphere come from uranium and thorium particles in the crust. The radon and its gaseous decay products diffuse into the atmosphere where they decay and leave disintegration products which soon attach themselves to fine particulate matter in the air," writes Doctor Wilkening.

Monitoring device has been used at NMIMT in Socorro for several periods over many months. Interesting statistics have gathered. For instance, at present hours of the day there is a variation in the number of radioactive particles in the air of the earth's surface. The activity is at its lowest around 5 p. m., gradually increasing to a peak between 8 and 9 p. m., when it is off for several hours.

Distance sends out its rays or particles. A gram of radium, for example, gives off some thirty-seven thousand million particles per second.

Doctor Wilkening has been with New Mexico Tech since 1948. He received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at the Illinois Institute of Technology, where he helped build and operate an "atom smasher" of the Van de Graaff type. During World War II he worked on the Army's Manhattan project, which had the job of building the first atom bomb. He participated in the start-up of the first nuclear reactor in Chicago in 1945. Later Doctor Wilkening worked at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Hanford, Wash. At Los Alamos, N. M., he was one of the small group of scientists who carried out the first atom bomb test 35 miles southeast of Socorro.

New GI Bill Has Deadline Dates Important to Vet

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of four articles on the benefits provided under the new Korean GI Bill, recently signed by the president.)

Veterans are reminded that three benefits of the new GI bill—unemployment compensation, mustering-out pay and job-hunting aid—are not administered by the veterans administration. So veterans should not write VA about them, if they want further information or have questions to be answered; instead they should correspond directly with the agency concerned.

The new GI bill contains important deadlines that post-Korean veterans should keep in mind, VA said.

Education and training, for post-Korean veterans, must be started by Aug. 20, 1954, or two years after release from active duty, whichever comes later. No training may be given beyond either seven years after discharge or seven years after the end of the current emergency, whichever is later.

Loan Deadline— In contrast, for most World War II veterans, the GI Bill cut-off date for starting has already passed, and training may not extend beyond July 25, 1956.

The deadline for loans for veterans with service after Korea is 10 years after the present emergency comes to an end. The deadline for World War II veterans, who have not gone back on active duty, is July 25, 1957.

Finally, the deadline for unemployment compensation under the new law will be five years after the end of the emergency period.

The date on which the present emergency comes to an end is one that has to be determined either by presidential proclamation or by concurrent resolution of Congress.

Veterans are again reminded that only two of these five benefits under the new Korean GI bill are administered by the VA. These two are: (1) education and training, and (2) guaranteed loans for homes, farms and businesses. More detailed information on these two benefits can be obtained at any VA office.

Information about unemployment compensation and job-finding assistance may be had from any VA office.

Law Requires Work Permits for Youths Under 18

Three motions were made and passed at the recent first governor's conference on juvenile affairs held in Santa Fe. It was announced today by the director of the public welfare department, Alva A. Simpson, Jr., who was chairman of the meeting.

The first motion was that all state agencies at the meeting—departments of public welfare, health, education, justice, correction, finance, and the comptroller—engage the services of the National Probation and Parole association to make an over-all survey of the correctional services of New Mexico.

The second motion was that the group of state agencies, study the Indian juvenile delinquency problem which then could be integrated into the state program. The conference was closed with the third motion calling for another conference within 90 days to evaluate what has been accomplished.

New UNM Book

Outlines State Opportunities
 What are the basic steps of finding and investigating business opportunities, selecting a form of organization, and establishing his business under New Mexico law, for the small business enterpriser coming into New Mexico?
 That's the subject of a handbook titled "The Business Venture in New Mexico" written by two University of New Mexico business administration professors and published by the Bureau of Business Research at the university.
 The two professors, Robert Krick Evans, investment consultant, and William H. Huber, Jr., attorney-at-law, had the small businessman specifically in mind when they wrote the handbook.
 Regulations, Taxes—
 "It is particularly helpful as a guide to the complexities of business taxes and regulations in New Mexico," say the authors.
 This book provides concise references and easy-to-read tables to assist the businessman in wading through the red tape of the law. It defines the purposes of record keeping and describes the uses of records.
 It also discusses the use of insurance in business and deals with employer-employee relationships, the authors say.
 This handbook is especially appropriate, for as the authors say, "The economy of New Mexico is best suited to those types of business which require the smaller property and capital outlays."
 Are Interested—
 The authors point out three other groups which may be interested in some of the material presented. These include owners and operators of relatively small firms already established in this state.
 It also includes those experienced businessmen outside the state who are considering establishing a business or a branch here, and want specific information on laws and conditions, and students of business administration who find standard texts on the subjects lacking in details of New Mexico business.

Comedy-Drama Is Set for Landsun, Opens Sunday

M-G-M production head Dore Schary and writer-director Robert Pirosh, who have worked together previously to turn out such pictures as "Go For Broke!" and "Battleground" have come up with another top-notch screen entertainer, "Washington Story," a comedy-drama slated for the Landsun theater Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

Starred are Van Johnson, Patricia

Neal and Louis Calhern. In "Washington Story," Pirosh has delved deep into the heart of Washington, D. C., to reveal what makes the nation's capital tick and to portray its legislators as flesh-and-blood characters, some of them "knights in shining armor," others with an eye riveted to next year's election—but all of them human.

To do this he has evolved the story of Alice Kingsly (Patricia Neal), a skeptical young newspaperwoman who has been sent to Washington on a "hatchet job." That is, she is to find an apparently stainless congressman, pry into his private as well as public life, and expose him as a phony and demagogue. Her victim is Joe Gresham (Van Johnson), representative from Newchester, Mass., and after ingratiating herself with him on the pretext of writing an idealistic magazine piece, Alice accompanies him on his daily activities.

It is this "checking tour" which offers the observer a novel and fascinating inside glimpse of the work of an average congressman, for Joe's typical day's decaction includes trips on the double to testify before committees, sorties with lobbyists, mail by the sackful, speeches, radio transcriptions, appearances before the television cameras, a flood of visitors and telephone calls, invitations—and the fifty-three miles of the Capitol corridor! Alice thinks she has her prey cornered when Joe makes an abrupt about-face switch on a vital piece of national legislation but a neat plot twist opens her eyes to her mistake and "Washington Story" ends in a happy blend of love, laughs and legislation.

Van Johnson is happily cast in the title role of this diverting film, giving his congressman a forthright vitality and appeal.

Demonstration of a "typical" Toastmasters club program was presented before Artesia Lions on Wednesday noon by members of Toastmasters.

Dr. Ralph Earhart, Lions program

chairman for October, and a member of Toastmasters, pointed out Toastmasters seeks to help men give extemporaneous talks, give prepared speeches, and be able to critically evaluate the speeches of others.

Dr. Earhart served as toastmaster,

Taylor Cole as topicmaster, Clayton Menefee overall evaluator, Glen Clem timekeeper, and Ralph Lennon as critic for a speech by Dr. G. P. Rupert in the sample program that followed.

Cole as topicmaster opened the program with two-minute talks on the general subject of draft of young men into the armed forces. Called on to give an extemporaneous speech two minutes long on various phases of the topic were Clayton Menefee, Lions Pres. Jack Fautleroy, Charles Johnson, and Vernon Mills.

Dr. Rupert presented a six-minute speech "Adventures in Living," in a humorous and entertaining manner, urging listeners to lift themselves from ruts of daily routine and to try doing habitual things a different way.

Guests at Wednesday's meeting

were Jerry Cole and Bob Hess. Visitors included Buss Dennis of El Paso; Dr. Louis Wunneburger, Austin, Texas; Jack Powell and Vernon Sperry of Los Angeles; and Byron R. Smith, Houston.

Evangelist Tells

Rotarians of Need for Effort
 Christians who underrate needs for modern evangelism should know that in Europe alone there are 400 million people who have never heard of Christ, Dr. Louis Wunneburger of Austin, Texas, told Artesia Rotary club Tuesday.

Basing his talk on experiences in the Army as a chaplain in the European and Pacific theaters of World War II, Dr. Wunneburger drew from encounters with high Army executive officers and enlisted men to give a talk sometimes sober, sometimes humorous.

At one service as an interpreter,

there were 450 Japanese and the Buddhist priest converted to Christianity, the speaker said.

Dr. Wunneburger is now conducting services at the First Baptist church of Artesia.

Ray Walker of Artesia Is Promoted By Southern Union to Superintendency

Ray Walker of Artesia has been promoted to district transmission superintendent of Southern Union Gas Co.'s Southeastern New Mexico district, according to an announcement by A. J. Green of Carlsbad, district manager.

RAY WALKER

Green, who was elevated to his present position last week, is being succeeded in his former position by Walker, who now will be stationed in the district headquarters at Carlsbad.

Walker's former position of mainline superintendent will be filled by James Pat Coor of Artesia, who is being promoted from the job of pressurman.

Green said the two promotions are in line with Southern Union's policy of training its employees for advancement in order that they may receive promotion when the occasion arises.

From his initial employment several years ago, Walker had progressed with the company to transmission superintendent before he was promoted to mainline superintendent.

As district transmission superintendent, he will be in charge of the transmission of natural gas throughout the district, supervising the equipment, construction, pipeline and maintenance personnel that move the gas from the company wells in Lea county, as well as the pipelines of other companies from whom Southern Union purchases gas, to the border stations of the various towns.

In addition to Carlsbad, the district headquarters, these towns include Artesia, Lovington, Loving, Dexter, Hagerman, Lake Arthur, Eunice and Roswell (city gate).

Councilmen—

entries show an actual cash shortage of $4,900.81 at the hospital.

A check of the city budget by the council disclosed $8,000 is provided in the budget for hospital operation.

Councilman Gilmore made an initial motion to operate the hospital for "another three months" with a subsidy of $1,500, but withdrew this motion in favor of the one adopted by the council, proposed by Councilman Rowley.

Miss Hughes was asked by Councilman Gilmore as to hospital employees feeling about their situation. The administrator replied, "It's like sitting on a powderkeg, not knowing how long the hospital will continue or who will operate it."

Chief Expenses— Chief expense items shown in the cumulative statement issued by Miss Hughes include wages $23,558.57, drugs and medicine $6,723.88, food $3,049.59, and laundry $1,391.66.

The report shows total actual receipts as of Sept. 30 to be $12,414.46, and accounts receivable $13,281.37.

Figure of $2,083.41 to be given the hospital by the city was arrived at by adding accounts payable of $3,360.68 and estimated wages for Oct. 15 of $3,200, giving a total of $6,560.63. Check book balance is $4,477.27, leaving $2,083.41 money needed to pay current accounts and meet the payroll.

Of $13,281.37 total accounts receivable, $8,380.95 is covered by insurance in whole or in part. Some other accounts are reported to be paying under arrangements with the hospital.

Officers Probe—

ery robbery late Saturday night or early Sunday morning is continuing.

A number of suspects have already been questioned by police, but no arrests have yet been announced.

Most of the creamery money was in checks.

PUBLICITY HOG

TRIANGLE KING III, grand champion Berkshire boar, manages to hog a bit of publicity by injecting his beautifully ugly snout into this scene in Los Angeles county, California. ### Voters Favor Bi-Partisan Foreign Policy

Until a new national administration begins in January, all U. S. foreign policy moves should have approval of both Democratic and Republican leaders, say voters in the latest Facts Forum poll.

Such two-way approval—recently proposed by Sen. Alexander Wiley, (Rep.) of Wisconsin—received the endorsement of 73 per cent of the voters responding to the poll, according to final tabulated results.

The question was phrased, "Should the administration obtain approval of both Republican and Democratic leaders on U. S. foreign policy moves until the new administration begins in January?"

Sixty-five per cent believes the District of Columbia should be granted home rule. Giving municipal autonomy to the district is a plank in the Democratic Party platform, which would uproot the historic practice of rule by congressional committee.

But another party plank received little support. To the question, "Should the Taft-Hartley law be repealed?" only 14 per cent answered "yes."

On other domestic issues, only 11 per cent of the voters favors a compulsory federal FEPC law. Seventy-nine per cent thinks freight rates are discriminatory. And 65 per cent believes credit controls on housing should be completely lifted.

A majority—61 per cent—advocates retention of the old two-thirds rule for limiting debate in the Senate—thereby retaining the filibuster. And 60 per cent answered "yes" to the query, "Is there adequate enforcement of anti-trust laws?"

Results of other poll issues (all tabulated by affirmative percentages) were:

"Are reports of 'flying saucers' really cause for concern?" 34 per cent, yes. "Are all men created equal?" 47 per cent, yes. "Can constitutional government meet the needs of our times?" 92 per cent, yes. "Is federal aid to medical education needed?" 19 per cent, yes. "Is our State Department combatting communism in Europe by presenting the musical, 'Porgy and Bess'?" 19 per cent, yes. "Should the production of atomic weapons be administered by civilians?" 67 per cent, yes.

Robert M. Dorgance, regional director, office of salary stabilization, Denver, announced today that the office of salary stabilization in Washington advised that due to decreased appropriations its arrangement with the labor department's wage and hour division to provide salary stabilization information is being discontinued. Closing out of the service is beginning immediately and will be discontinued entirely Oct. 1.

Employers located in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Missouri and St. Clair and Madison counties, Ill., facing salary problems are advised to deal with the regional office of the office of salary stabilization, room 434 New Customhouse, Denver, Colo.

The regional office is staffed to help employers with salary stabilization matters and to process cases. All regulations, orders, forms and interpretations will be made available.

Fourteen regional offices had been planned by the office of salary stabilization before its appropriations were reduced by congress. The wage and hour division had supplied employers with information and general advice but had not accepted petitions.

High School Library Staff Is Organized Among Students

Artesia high school library is off to what promises to be a busy year. Thirty students are enrolled in library science, with groups ranging from three to seven assistants learning on the job each period of the day. Five of those enrolled have had one or two years previous training.

The course includes not only routine work of checking materials in and out, but also includes a manual of instructions in the use of the Dewey decimal system of classification, shelving, using the catalog, and learning the main reference books in the library.

Open shelf arrangement of the library makes it necessary for students to have instruction in using the resources for themselves. Instructions in library use were presented to each of the six study hall groups which meet in the library.

Each student was given a pamphlet of library instruction and rules. Much of this material is also included in the Artesia high school handbook. The training given should prove helpful in the use of any library organized according to the Dewey decimal system.

6,000 Books— The high school library has now approximately 6,000 books with plans for the addition of 200 or more this year. In the spring and fall very worthwhile contributions of books suitable for the student body as well as for a faculty shelf were given to the library by Mrs. Lillian Bigler and Mrs. Gertrude Jacobs.

Mrs. Jacobs also gave many magazines and pamphlets of value. Glenn Caskey donated magazines which were helpful in completing a number of the files. The library regularly subscribes to 50 magazines, 25 of which are indexed in the Readers' Guide and kept on file as reference material.

Last spring the library purchased a three-speed record player and two sets of earphones which are proving valuable for class room assignments in languages, speech, and literature as well as popular with students who have time to listen to good music. We also own two viewmasters and a growing library of slides for them.

This year the shelves are not being closed to students, but students are being asked to cooperate by asking permission to go to the shelves and by reporting back to the circulation desk before going to their tables or back to their class rooms.

Some of the new titles already received in the library this fall are The Caine Mutiny, The Cruel Sea, The Sea Around Us, and The Diary of a Young Girl, all of which have been on the best seller list for some time.

Three new books of games and entertainment which should be popular with students are A Treasury of Games, Quizzes and Riddles, The Cokesbury Party Book, and the Cokesbury Student Book. Some new titles on the fiction shelves are Wheels Toward the West, a skilfully written story of a boy and girl who join a covered wagon train for Santa Fe; The Island Station's Fury, a Walter Farley horse story; and Hidden Power, a story of re-entrained recollections for the young adult reader.

The library assistance held their first meeting of the year at 12:30 noon Wednesday, at which time the following officers were elected:

Louise DeAnda, president; Barbara Cook, vice-president; Janelle Blackburn, secretary and treasurer; Donna Nelson, reporter.

Plans are being considered for taking one or more girls to Albuquerque during the state teachers' convention for the purpose of organizing a New Mexico Student Library association.

Farm Storage Loan Program Is Extended By U.S.

To increase farm storage facilities, the government is extending its farm-storage construction loan program, according to Norman Stiver, administrator for the county production and marketing administration committee.

The program is now extended through June 30, 1953.

As of June 30, a total of loans of about $675,000 had been approved in New Mexico for storage structures having a capacity of about 2,800,000 bushels. The national figure for approved structures, as of May 1952, was 29,896 loans of $34.4 million, for structures with a capacity of more than 122 million bushels. Eddy county has a total of 7 loans of about $32,000 with 165,888 bushels capacity.

Several changes have been made in the program. Stiver pointed out that loans are now available up to 10 per cent instead of the former 5 per cent of the cost of the structure; loans will be payable in five annual installments and the first installment will be payable 12 months after the loan is disbursed by the commercial credit corporation.

Interest on loans will now be at 4 per cent a year. Loans available through local agencies or from county committees. The program is available to producers of wheat, oats, rye, barley, grain sorghum, soybeans, dry edible beans, nuts, cottonseed, hay seeds, and pasture seeds.

Extension of the program, administrative officer states, give farmers help in expanding farm storage at a time when it is for building more commercial storage may be tight. The program authorizes loans only on pre-constructed structures, but such structures can be built in part with the farm lumber and out-of-farm labor.

Candidates and Schools

NEW MEXICO'S CANDIDATES for governor express themselves on the state's schools and on the land commissioner's office in an informative article in this month's New Mexico School Review.

Everett Grantham, Democratic candidate, believes standards set up for teachers should be high, and that teachers should be paid salaries commensurate with their great responsibilities.

Grantham cites the need for new school buildings and states the federal government should be expected to contribute more than at present to increase school facilities.

In his statement, Gov. Edwin L. Mechem points out New Mexico ranks first in the nation in percentage of per capita income used for public education.

The governor urges continued care and vigilance to see school funds are used for no other purpose than was originally intended.

Governor Mechem points to better highways over which New Mexico students ride to school, increased school tax collections, up 24 per cent during the first 18 months of "the present administration."

Creation of a land-advisory board will become a logical, necessary move, and the governor favors its establishment.

Governor Mechem also moves that changes in the teacher retirement system be made only with consent of the teachers.

Being in favor of good education and good schools is like coming out for good and denouncing evil; no one would want to lower New Mexico school standards.

THIS LAND OF ENCHANTMENT—

White Sands National Monument Is Tops in Southwest Monuments as Tourist Attraction

WHITE SANDS NATIONAL Monument west of Alamogordo drew more visitors during the travel year ending Sept. 30 than any of the other 24 national monuments in the Southwest.

According to the national park service, 220,322 people visited at White Sands, compared with 192,624 last year. Second high was Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument, which was visited by 205,153 through the year.

All national parks in New Mexico showed increased tourist attendance, ranging from five to 21 per cent over last year.

NEW MEXICO'S TEACHERS need to pay less attention to their salaries and more toward ways and means for improving education in New Mexico, the new president of the New Mexico Education association said "last week" on taking office.

Other problems facing New Mexico educators include maintaining classes of reasonable size (no problem in Artesia), distribution of the teaching load, and making local schools more efficient.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE for governor Everett Grantham had a red face in the State Police office in Santa Fe the other day, the Albuquerque Journal reports.

cizing the Mechem administration for inefficiency and broken promises, found he didn't even have his old driver license with him, and a copy in the State Police files showed it expired nine months before.

The candidate said, "I got to wondering" about the license as he rode toward the state capital with his regular campaign driver. He pointed out he hasn't been doing his own driving during the campaign and "haven't endangered any lives."

A Santa Fe newspaper—the Santa Fe News—reported the same thing happened when Grantham went to the state office to buy a license about this time three years ago.

He explained that he bought a three-year license in September three years ago and had forgotten that a partial year is the same as full year in the driver licensing business, where all licenses come due on Jan. 1.

NEW MEXICO IS RUNNING a 1952 state government with a 1912 style administration, Calvin Horn, Democratic candidate for state senator, said in Albuquerque last Thursday in recommending Little Hoover legislation.

He also insisted candidates for governor and legislative office speak out on proposals made by the Little Hoover commission.

Illegal Water Users

ONE-BY-ONE, ILLEGAL users of underground water in the Pecos Valley will be taken into district court, their water rights examined, and appropriate action taken under a new system set-up by the state engineers office and Pecos Valley Artesian Conservancy District.

A newly-created water rights section of the state engineer's office will administer this action. Aerial mapping of all cultivated land in the Pecos Valley was completed before these plans were revealed to the general public.

We are slow to report our neighbor's offense to authorities—we don't want to "squeal" on him, for he's edged on by high prices supported by tax money and the chance to make a few more dollars by putting in some extra cotton or alfalfa acreage.

But that slowness has resulted in a tremendous waste of our vital ground water reserves, which we are using at a faster clip than ever, despite a seven-year drought.

An exceptionally capable group of men has been drawn together to go through the courts with this water rights case. It is believed the court actions will once and for all establish legal water rights in this Roswell artesian basin.

We sincerely hope so, for water is our life in this semi-desert country. We urge the follow-through and enforcement programs that will make the water rights action effective.

Future Farmers Again

ARTESIA'S FUTURE FARMERS are in these columns again—this time for having won four awards at the national FFA convention held last week in Waterloo, Iowa.

Just that the four boys got to go is commendation enough—they did that by outstanding performance at the state convention held in Las Cruces last spring only a week after having captured district FFA first place at Lubbock.

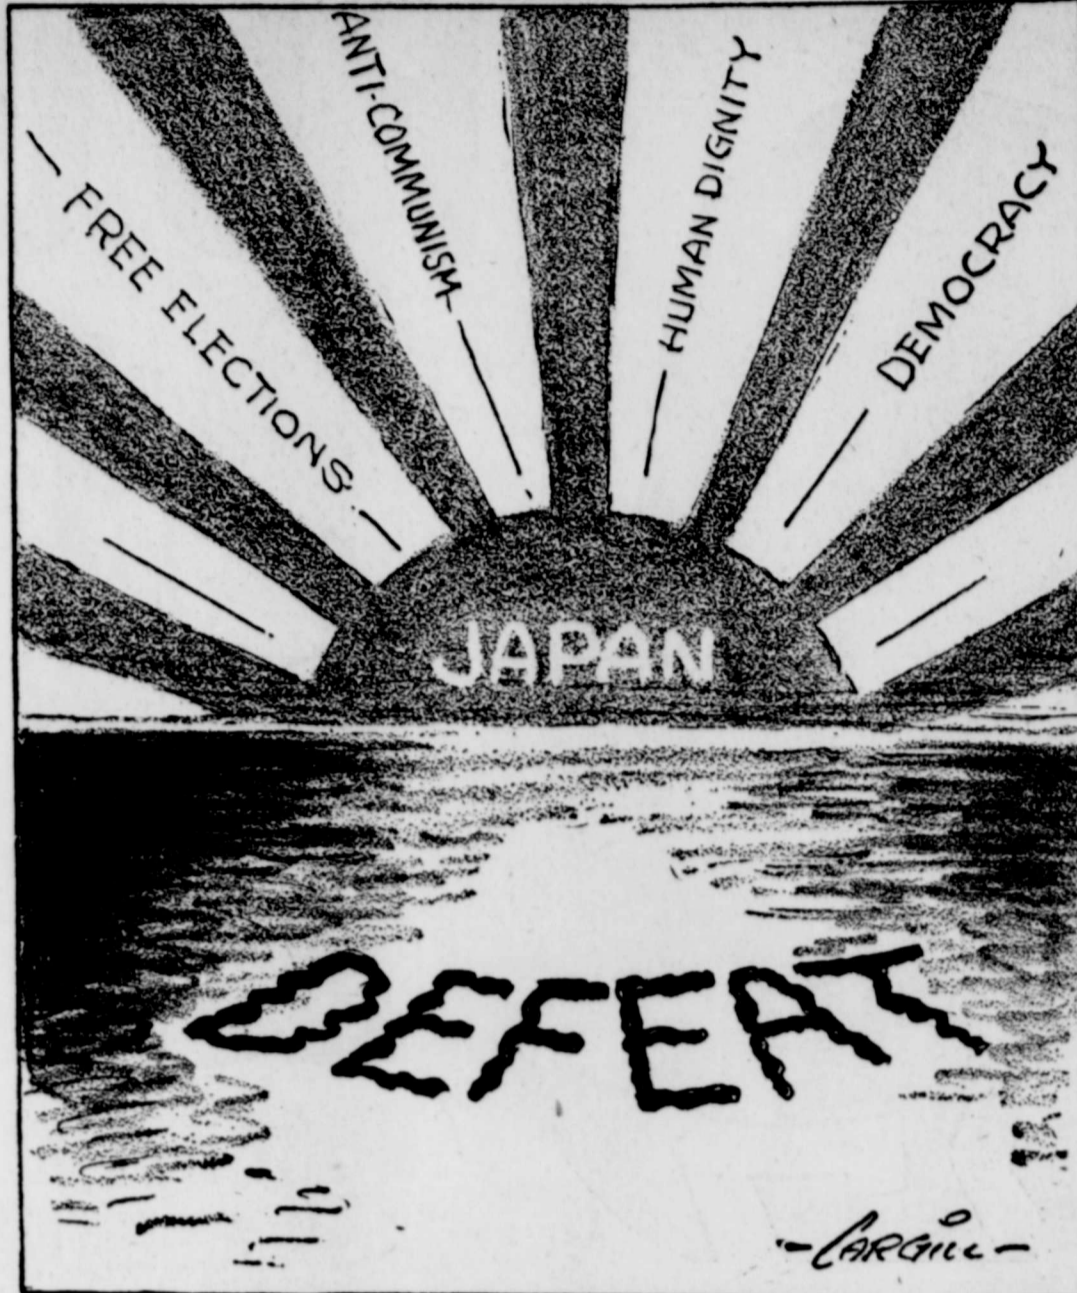

At this national convention, Artesia's four won an individual first place, an individual second place, a team third, and an honorable mention or fourth in the two divisions, dairy cattle judging and dairy products judging.

All that was against 37 other teams of four boys apiece, which is plenty of competition.

Travis Zeleny, Jeff Floyd, Hunt Zumwalt, and Franklin McAnally merit considerable praise for their achievement. Advisor Truman Short, who with Mrs. Short accompanied the group to Waterloo, has consistently conducted an outstanding program of vocational agriculture at the high school through the encouragement and cooperation of school administrators.

Perhaps such contests are a sidelight on the serious business of schooling, but they nevertheless reflect the outstanding nature of the education given these young men, and the spotlight quality of the young men themselves.

RISE AND SHINE

NEW MEXICO EDITORS ARE SAYING—

Keen Frost Drops Acorns From Oaks in Upper Gila, 'Turkey Beans' Bring Out Wildfowl

BOTH SIDES OF THE FIGHT—The contention between Rep. Antonio Fernandez and the Cattle Growers association about the transfer of 92,000 acres of New Mexico land to the Forest Service points up a deficiency in the state land management system.

The land in question had been held by the federal Farm Security Administration. The point of contention concerned whether the land should be returned to the state or transferred to the Forest Service.

The grazers had a good point in wanting the land returned to the state. The federal government with 35,000,000 of New Mexico's total area of 77,000,000 acres holds too much New Mexico land.

And Fernandez had a good point in working for the transfer of the land to the Forest Service because a large number of families had become dependent on their grazing rights on the land and would have been dispossessed had it gone to the state land office and been sold or leased to the highest bidder.

This conflict would not have developed if the New Mexico land office had authority to grant grazing rights in the manner practiced by the Forest Service.

ONE-PARTY PRESS—President Truman and Adlai Stevenson have contended recently that a "one-party press" has developed in this country.

THOUGHTS IN PRINT—Wolf at the Door?—Sell Her Pups, Pay Your Bills, This Rancher Says

Are you nicked and dimed to death with charity, tax, and federal money requests or demands? Vix at the Ruidoso News in his "½ Wit and ½ Wisdom" column says this letter was received from a rancher by R. K. Stovall, president of Boys' Ranch at LaJoya, N. M.

For these laws I am compelled to pay a business tax, amusement tax, school tax, liquor tax, gas tax, water tax, light tax, state tax, income tax, food tax, furniture tax and excise tax. porting fully the Nixon expense fund incident, even though it harmed the chances of Eisenhower and Nixon for election. And most newspapers roared Nixon for accepting the $18,000 contributions for office and travel expenses.

A STATE PROBLEM—An appalling condition exists at the New Mexico State Hospital at Las Vegas because of terrific overcrowding. There are 1154 patients in the asylum, an institution designed to adequately care for 707.

At one time overcrowding was blamed on the practice of using the asylum to care for aged indigents. That category of persons is now cared for at homes for the aged, but overcrowding continues.

Partly because of an increase in the state's population and due heavily into the school adhesive to greater stress placed on mental health, the asylum population continued to grow with daily admittances outnumbering the discharges.

Corridors and hallways have been turned into wards with beds placed as close together as possible in order to accommodate the expanded asylum population.

The state has obligated itself to care for these less fortunate people and it is clearly up to the state to provide adequate housing for them. A long-range program should be formed immediately with some emergency speedy relief made available.

Gremlin Trial Set for Wednesday; Cold Weather Upsets Touchy Press

ARTESIA POLICE OFFICER Billy Gremlin will go into district court next Wednesday on charges of illegally buying a calf. While the charge has nothing to do with calf stealing, it bears the same penalties—$500 to $5,000 fine, one to ten years in jail, or both.

PRESSMEN AT THE ADVOCATE early Tuesday morning faced a recurring annual problem: Overnight dropping of temperatures made ink sticky, caused ink rollers to contract unevenly, and generally upset things, which held up the press run until 8:25 and caused some papers to be late.

AT THE LIBRARY—

Thirty-Four Magazines Regularly Received, Offer Reading Variety

Thirty-four magazines are regularly received at Artesia Public Library and cover a variety of topics ranging from law to flying and home care.

Mrs. Donald Knorr, librarian, has pointed out that magazines given the library as gifts by persons subscribing regularly may reach reading tables a "little late," but the several gifts are adding a great deal to variety of reading material available.

Among specialized magazines subscribed to are Journal of the American Judicature Society, Natural History, the NEA (National Education Association) Journal, and World Call.

Regularly received at the library is The Star, a magazine published monthly at Carville, La., and concerning activities of patients at the colony where Hansen's disease (leprosy) is treated, as well as advances made in the field of treatment.

Consumer's Report offers an impartial buying guide to the quality conscious householder seeking to get the most for his or her money. It treats everything from cars to manicure sets.

Home magazines dominate selection available, and include American Home, Better Homes and Gardens, Good Housekeeping, House Beautiful, and Parents Magazine.
