Children's Diets Lack In Essential Nutrients

High school girls as a group suffer more than any other class of people from inadequate diet. High school boys fare little better. Younger children have benefited in improved diets over the past decade, as economic conditions have improved and nutrition knowledge has spread, but are still a long ways short of the goal of a good diet for every child.

These shocking facts have been borne out by every nutritional study made in recent years by private surveys and the U. S. Department of Agriculture Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics.

When children's diets are inadequate, the nutrients most likely to be short are calcium, vitamin C (ascorbic acid) and vitamin A. These nutrients can be increased by greater use of milk and other dairy products, citrus fruit, tomatoes and green and yellow vegetables.

Studies also show that children in families with low incomes are more likely than others to have inadequate meals.

'53 Kaiser Bows as First 'Safety First' Car

MORE HORSEPOWER under the hood and new chrome trim which accents sweeping body lines are features of the Kaiser for 1953. Described as the world's first "safety first" automobile, all of the new Kaiser models are equipped with richly cushioned safety dash panels which harmonize with exclusive vinyl and fabric upholstery combinations. Horsepower of the 1953 series, offered with optional overdrive or Hydra-Matic, has been increased without affecting economy of operation.

Kentucky Derby Forefathers Give 'Brigand' Winning Ways

Kentucky Derby winners on both sides of his family have put "Brigand," owned by W. M. McDonald of Artesia, among New Mexico's leading racing horses.

The 3-year-old was purchased from the sprawling, legendary King ranch in Texas.

He won New Mexico quarter horse handicap championship at the recent State Fair while carrying 126 pounds in the Oct. 4 race.

Brigand has never been out of the money. He was entered in nine State Fair races, captured seven firsts, one second, and one third. He had been defeated only twice before McDonald purchased him.

He set a new track record at Ruidoso last summer and equalled a world record at Albuquerque in running the track in 22.2.

Stabled at Coates race track when not on the race circuit, Brigand will winter in Phoenix, where the racing season begins anew in the winter.

Robert Kennedy, jockey, worked for the King ranch at the time Mr.

McDonald purchased Brigand. He had broken the horse and since has ridden him in all but three races.

Thirteen Are Initiated Into Artesia FFA

Future Homemakers of America held their annual fall initiation of new members Thursday night in the Home Economics room at Artesia Senior high school. Peggy Hanna, FHA reporter, has announced.

Freshmen initiated were Marion Simmons, Dorothy Deiring, Esther Hernandez, Elia Navarette, Jo Ann Van Zandt, Virginia Juarez, Caroline Ramirez, Dorothy Hinshaw, and Gwen Creekmore.

Sophomores initiated were Marilyn Higgins, Beulah Boyd, Nancy Long, and Robert Wheeler.

Older members represented colors of the rainbow in the installation ceremony. Each new member was presented with a white candle later lighted from a central, larger candle. The FHA oath was repeated by each new member as she lit her candle.

Refreshments, furnished by Mrs. Martha Adeock, were served to members and guests.

New members later washed dishes as part of their initiation.

Games and songs closed the meeting, the girls singing in preparation for the district meeting Oct. 28 at Dexter.

Attending the initiation were Miss Geraldine Blount, chapter past president; Miss Ann Howarth, advisor; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smith and Joan; Mrs. Joe Freeman, and Abraham Tropp, audio-visual instructor.

Woolley Company Among Oldest Oil Producers

One of the oldest crude oil producers in the Artesia area is Roland Rich Woolley, who produced his first well in North Eddy county in 1926.

In the 26 years since, the Woolley company has drilled 55 wells in this area.

Base of the company's operations are at Loco Hills.

J. L. Briscoe, mayor of Artesia, started work 11 years ago for the Woolley company and is superintendent of the company's operation.

Money made by the company in North Eddy county remains here to be reinvested in real estate and other oil properties.

Mr. Woolley, Los Angeles attorney, has served such clients as

Downey Trucking Built Up From Small Beginning

From a start in the industry as a driver, Lloyd Downey has developed his interest into ownership of Lloyd Downey Trucking Co., one of the largest firms in the Artesia area.

Downey moved to Artesia from Lubbock where he had been farming, in February 1946. He entered trucking as a driver for his father-in-law, Loy Crouch.

He later bought the truck he was driving, then purchased another from his uncle. Downey has since increased his business, adding further trucks, and specializing in oil and water hauling.

Service Specialty Opened Artesia Store in 1946

Service Specialty Co. of Artesia was organized in 1946 with Pickett and Stanley S. Sutton as partners.

Pickett later entered business in Wyoming and Sutton assumed ownership of the Artesia plant, located on E. Main street.

Service Specialty Co. does large business volume in hardware, second-hand pipe and casing.

Second-hand pipe is resold by the company on a special machine and is returned to service in excellent condition.

C of C Manager Attends Two-Day State Session

Chamber of Commerce Mgr. Bob Koonce attended the semi-annual meeting of the New Mexico Chamber of Commerce Manager's association in Portales Oct. 17 and 18. About 22 chamber managers from throughout New Mexico were present at the session in addition to the manager of the Muleshoe, Texas, chamber.

Chamber managers were guests of the Portales Rotary club at noon Friday for opening day.

After the luncheon at which Southwestern Division U. S. Chamber Mgr. D. Hodson Lewis was featured speaker, many stayed to hear Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, speak on behalf of the re-election of Sen. Dennis Chavez, also present at the dinner. Stennis emphasized that Chavez' seniority was important to New Mexico.

First afternoon the manager's meeting was devoted to a discussion of plans proposed by Frank Adams, chairman, of the New Mexico economic development commission. Execution of the commission's plans will depend upon the appropriation by the forthcoming legislature.

Pioneer Airlines was again host at the social hour. Hobbs was chosen host city for the next semi-annual meeting in April. Koonce again served as chairman of the resolutions committee. Resolutions were drawn in support of the EDC program, thanks to Pioneer Airlines and Portales as hosts, commendation to the United Brewer's Corp. for its Calendar of Events, a state-wide ad service, and one in recognition of 30 years of faithful service to Chamber of Commerce Manager D. Hodson Lewis who is retiring and will go on the lecture circuit.

Hearn, who is also president of National Alfalfa Dehydrating and Milling Co., parent company of National Chlorophyll, stated that chlorophyll has even wider uses in pharmaceutical and therapeutic fields than it has in the wide publicized field of ordor control.

"The vast amount of research now being carried on and the already encouraging results obtained with chlorophyll in the treatment of cardiac conditions, hypertension, sinusitis and tissue regeneration lead me to believe that these are fields to which chlorophyll will make important contributions," Hearn said. "Many possible industrial uses of chlorophyll are being developed, including the addition of this product into paints, plastics, and textiles."

Orders for new machinery which embody the most advanced methods for the extraction of chlorophyll were placed some time ago and National Chlorophyll has been assured that this machinery will be completed in time to insure full operation by April of next year.

Construction of the new plant marks the initial step in National Chlorophyll's long range program," Hearn stated. He added that tentative plans have already been drawn for the building of additional units at strategic spots in other areas as demand for the product expands.

Snowfalls in the city of Chicago average about 58 a year; New York has an average of about 35.

Dance October 25 Will Benefit Paralyzed Girl

Dee Ann Cravey, 3 1/2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Oct. 25, in Union Hall, Carlsbad.

Dee Ann suffers from a pressure on her brain which has paralyzed her. Physicians believe a delicate surgical operation may correct the condition.

Engaged for the dance is Wayne Johnson and his Blue Bonnet Play Boys from El Paso, where the group has played in the Coliseum and over El Paso radio station KSET.

Door prize will be a hand-crocheted tablecloth valued at $75 and now on display at Williams Furniture Co., Artesia.

Tickets for the dance are on sale at Williams Furniture. Admission is $1.50 a person.

Magic, Puppet Show Planned For Two Schools

National School Assemblies of Los Angeles is presenting one of its most mystifying and amazing attractions at Junior high at 9 and Senior high school at 11 Tuesday, Oct. 28, when Shalmar, the magician, will present his program of novelties and puppetry.

Shalmar gives an outstanding display of sleight-of-hand and manipulative artistry which could only be accomplished by many years of painstaking practice. Comedy effects are included in a program that is rounded out with many new and exciting magical effects.

Shalmar was bitten by the magic bug at an early age. As do all magicians, he had to learn the hard way for there is a code among magicians that makes it practically impossible for one to study the art. He did not, however, begin to exploit his skill as a prestidigitator until after spending three years in the U. S. Navy Air Corps as a gunner in a dive-bomber, seeing action in both theaters of war, and is now the holder of three Navy Air medals.

In unique contrast to many magicians, Shalmar has specialized in entertaining audiences of all ages, and is one of the leading performers in his field. To create a further demand for his services as an entertainer this versatile young man has added puppets and ventriloquism to his repertoire, and has made a study of child psychology so that he might be able to better understand his young audiences. His old-fashioned Punch and Judy puppet show is the delight of young and old alike, and has been exceptionally well accepted everywhere it has been shown.

tempted transmuting uranium into radium, pounding it with artificial lightning.

"We were then on the trail to the first atomic bomb, but didn't know it," Gable recalled. "We found lightning wasn't the technique for doing it."

"This phrase 'transmuting uranium into radium' is just another way of saying we were looking for a way to smash the atom," he added.

With invention of the vacuum tube by DeForest, atom-smashing received a forward impetus, but radio waves were too long. In succession radar, television, infra red, ultra violet, Grenz ray, X-ray, a new unnamed X-ray derivative, the gamma ray, and cosmic ("death") ray were discovered, leading to development of atom-smashing technique.

Hold Promise—
Gable pointed out each of these developments held great promise for development of new miracles which will be a boon to health, perhaps a great new source of inexpensive power, and re-form man's life—perhaps even in pumping water from the abundant Mississippi-Missouri system to the arid Southwest.

The speaker, now on leave from the Television Institute of Technology in Chicago liberally interwove Biblical references of hope and encouragement into his talk, and above all held out the bright prospects offered by peaceful use of atomic power.

Already the United States is building an atomic-powered submarine, is building eight atomic engines, and forging forward in medicinal use of miraculous new discoveries in this 56-year development toward atomic power, Gable pointed out.

Black Light—
The speaker used black light, which is used by modern-day prospectors to discover ores, throughout his lecture. He passed through his captivated audience 20 little boxes illuminated by dancing radium which resembled the brilliance of the universe captured in a box two inches square and three inches deep.

Knife and Fork met Thursday night in Parish Hall of the First Presbyterian church, where dinner was served by the church's Woman's association. Next Knife and Fork meeting will be Monday, Nov. 24, in Masonic Temple.

Arouses Interest—
The case aroused public interest in Artesia at time of filing criminal charges against the four men.

At the time of filing the Artesia Advocate editorially charged the matter had been brought up in an attempt "to embarrass the Artesia police department . . ."

Grimlan's future plans are uncertain. Whether or not the city council will be asked to consider his reinstatement Wednesday night was not known early Monday, nor was it known whether the officer would seek reinstatement.

National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, National Society for Crippled Children, and American Red Cross.

National headquarters of each of these agencies customarily hand down quotas for their local chapters to raise, and have refused to join the united fund drive.

Mrs. Martha Betts, supervisor of the North Eddy County Health and Welfare Center, 408 W. Texas, reported money is not available in Artesia to assist demands made by the urgently needy who do not meet requirements for help from governmental or other private agencies.

Reverend O'Dell framed a motion unanimously endorsed by the group stating that "The Artesia Council of Social Agencies cannot make a guarantee of the amount of money received by participating agencies in the Community Chest. The council would have to grant the same privilege to all participating agencies, meaning an absolute guarantee to raise the entire Community Chest budget. Although every effort will be made toward reaching the Community Chest quota, there is no such thing as an absolute guarantee of any voluntary fund-raising effort."

Progress Reports—

Progress reports from publicity speakers bureau, and other committees were given at Monday noon's meeting of the council, but no quota for the organization's drive next month was set.

Members were told that pledge cards being printed for use in the campaign will have a listing of participating agencies on the reverse side. Amount of money sought in the Community Chest campaign by each agency will be listed. Donors may specify a particular agency or agencies to receive their contribution, or may give to the general fund for later division among the agencies.

Community Chest contributions may also be made on annual basis, with the Council of Social Agencies billing those on this credit plan monthly or as the donor may wish.

V-Eight Engine Powers 1953 Dodge Coronet Hardtop

This smartly-styled Dodge Diplomat, a hardtop, is one of the sleek, new models in the 1953 line. It is powered by a new 140-horsepower Red Ram V-Eight engine which develops its high efficiency on regular grades of fuel. A new compactness makes it one of the most maneuverable cars on the road. It is being offered with a choice of four different drives—Gyro-Torque, Gyro-Matic, automatic overdrive or standard. It is now on display in dealers' showrooms.

New Dodge to Be Unveiled Here on Thursday, Hart Agency Announces

Most dramatic changes in the 38-year history of the Dodge passenger car will be unveiled here Thursday, T. C. Hart, Artesia distributor, announces.

The new, completely restyled Dodge with a powerful 140-horsepower Red Ram V-Eight engine will go on display in dealers' showrooms across the nation Thursday. Sweeping changes in both styling and chassis features plus the unprecedented efficiency of the new engine have been announced by W. C. Newberg, president of the Dodge Division.

The 140-horsepower Red Ram V-Eight engine is featured in the Coronet series, while the popular and dependable six-cylinder engine is retained in the Meadowbrook and Meadowbrook Special series. The Wayfarer is not included in the 1953 Dodge lineup.

More Power— The highly-touted new Dodge Red Ram V-Eight engine is compact in size and light in weight. It produces more horsepower per cubic inch of displacement than any other automobile engine in volume production today.

Dodge's efficient new power plant is based on design principles used in high-output aircraft engines. Its horsepower is 140 at 4,400 r.p.m. Displacement is 241.1 cubic inches. It develops this high power output on regular grades of fuel despite its high-compression ratio of 7.1 to 1.

More than a dozen other major changes were listed by E. C. Dock, Dodge Division general sales manager.

"Body beautification and the Red Ram engine are definitely highlights of the all-new 1953 Dodge," Dock declared. "But there are many other significant features such as the wide choice of transmissions. And there is a new steering ease and maneuverability achieved by a more compact chassis design, a new suspension system and an improved steering mechanism."

Four Drives— Dock stated four different types of drive were being offered. They are the new Gyro-Torque drive, which is teamed with the Red Ram V-Eight engine to provide lightning response without shifting; Gyro-Matic drive, which offers smooth and easy no-shift driving; automatic overdrive, which provides a fourth "cruising" gear for greater gasoline economy; and standard drive, for those preferring to do their own shifting.

"For greater ease in handling, especially to meet increased traffic and parking problems, we have redesigned the chassis with a new compactness and still managed to increase further the amount of passenger headroom and hiproom."

Artesia School Youths Express Deep Interest In National Guard Opportunities Offered Here

Deep interest in National Guard work in Artesia was displayed by Artesia Senior high school youths 17 and 18 years old last Thursday when Major W. C. Thompson of Artesia, commander of Southeastern New Mexico's 697th AAA AW battalion, addressed the group.

History and services of the National Guard, as well as advantages it offers young men, were outlined in Major Thompson's address.

Following is a complete text of the address presented before the youths:

Today I want to tell you what the National Guard is, what the purpose of the National Guard is, and the advantages for a young man to belong to the National Guard.

Similar to Army— The National Guard is formed of units organized like the Regular Army in the various states and territories. These units are under the states control unless they are called to federal service by the president or congress. The federal government provides a training program, the multitude of arms and equipment we have and pays the men of the National Guard.

In turn for the federal government we are given a mission by law of being the first line reserve of the Regular Army. In other words, the Regular Army is the starting line-up and the National Guard are the reserve players. In the Guard you would be on the bench in our nation's defense plans but you are first string.

The states provide the National Guard with its armory facilities, and provides the men. In turn the Guard is an organized militia for the state ready to do police and rescue work in time of an emergency, such as a flood, a fire, tornado, or earthquake. The Guard also establishes law and order in areas affected by serious strikes or riots.

The National Guard in New Mexico is all anti-aircraft, which is very important in the army today and is a very rapid and expanding branch. Under anti-aircraft and artillery is being developed the push-button weapons of modern war—guided missiles.

AA Brigade— The New Mexico anti-aircraft units are organized in an anti-aircraft brigade; under this brigade are two anti-aircraft groups with each group having three battalions. The battalion here in this part of the state is the 697th AAA AW battalion. We have one battery, battery C, and the medical detachment here in Artesia; battery A is in Roswell; battery B and Headquarters battery in Carlsbad; and D battery is in Hobbs.

Each of these batteries is well equipped. Very few of the citizens of Artesia are acquainted with the equipment we have unless they have seen it. Each battery has over 1/2 million dollars worth of equipment. Briefly some of the major pieces of equipment each battery has are four 40-mm anti-aircraft guns with electrical operated fire direction equipment. Two power turrets mounting four 50-caliber machine guns; eight new GMC trucks with hydraulic drive; new jeeps; numerous radios; transmitters and receivers; carbines; sub-machine guns; bazookas and hundreds of other pieces of equipment from helmets to stoves.

Officers Advantages— I'm sure the question that is in all of your minds is "Why join the National Guard." Well, there are advantages to every one of you.

You would be of service to your country, community, and state. If our United States was attacked or got involved in a war, you would be trained and ready to defend it. If an emergency develops in the state you are organized and ready to help. We all owe some of our time and personal service to this country of ours. That is where it got to be the great country it is today—by people giving their time as well as their taxes. I don't think a man would get much satisfaction out of life if all he did for his country and community would be pay his taxes, buy war bonds, do without butter, and have his gasoline rationed. You need to spend some time devoting your personal services.

National Guard makes an interesting hobby. Most young men like an outdoor life and that is what we train for. In a battery there are many jobs and everyone can find one he is interested in. You can learn to be a radio operator—we have lots of equipment and that is an important part of the battery. You can learn to operate the power turret machine guns, be a gunner of the automatic 40-mm guns, drive the new hydraulic trucks, learn to be an army clerk, or learn to be a cook—you'd be surprised at the number of men that like to cook—you can learn to fire rifles on both indoor and outdoor ranges, learn to fire the bazooka or rocket launcher, learn to be an auto mechanic, or a medical assistant. And probably most important of all you can learn leadership and how to instruct people.

Get Paid—

You get paid for belonging to the National Guard. Most clubs or organizations you join you pay them; but the National Guard pays you. A member of the National Guard gets a day's pay for each two-hour drill each week. A new recruit gets $2.00 for each drill—this amounts to over $200 a year. And as you advance you get more pay—$4, $5, $6, $8 for each two-hour drill. It amounts up—a master sergeant will get over $700 a year for belonging to the Guard. You can earn promotions in the Guard fairly rapidly. As you develop knowledge and ability you can advance to sergeant, master sergeant, right up the ladder. If you work at it and have ability, you can earn a commission as a second lieutenant. And this commission is just as good as any reserve commission; the same kind you would get from the Institute or other colleges.

You can take courses at the regular army service schools. They have many schools on many different subjects. For example, you might go to Fort Bliss for a three-month fire control electrician course; or to Oklahoma for an auto mechanics course; or Georgia for a leadership course. There are all kinds of schools you can go to, lasting from a few weeks to a year and you get full pay, free food and clothes while you are there. It is a good deal for a young man to gain some more knowledge and see some new country.

Draft Situation— If you enlisted in the Guard before you are 18 1/2 you will be deferred from the draft if your Guard service is satisfactory. Many of you are planning on being drafted or joining the Air Force, Army or Navy. If you are, you should join the Guard because you will receive valuable training that will help you after you get in one of the armed services. A man with some military training will stand out like a sore thumb in a bunch of new recruits and he is the man that will get promoted first and earn more pay and get more stripes.

If the United States gets in a serious situation and we are all called to the armed forces, a man in a Guard unit is with friends and people he knows. There is nothing lonelier than a new recruit in a strange army unit.

Little Time— The Guard training program doesn't take much time, but it is concentrated and we have good results with it. The training program principle works well because all Guardsmen are volunteers and learn readily. We have 48 two-hour drills a year, one each Wednesday night. Attendance is required, but you may be excused if necessary prior to drill. The first hour is generally taken up with general military subjects, such as rifle marksmanship, first aid, map reading and many others. The hour is usually devoted to specialist training, such as the gun crew working with the guns, auto mechanics working with the trucks, etc.

Then during August we have a 15-day summer camp. Here we continue our specialist training, radio men go to communication school, gun crews work with guns and all other special training is carried out. The second of the Guard moves to the field fires the anti-aircraft guns at moving radio control target planes and we go on tactical maneuvers.

At this point I would like to mention that men that join the Guard here and go away to a college in the state next year transfer to a Guard unit in the college town and transfer to the Guard when they return home in the summer. Another point is sometimes men participating in athletics have a conflict with their athletic time and Guard part of the year. We can work a program to excuse these men from drill if their presence is needed elsewhere.

Million-Dollar Carper Drilling Pioneered in Oil Development

One of the Artesia area's pioneer oilmen, Emery Carper, now heads a million-dollar corporation which has extended its operation into a drilling business covering Eastern New Mexico and West Texas as well as large real estate development in Artesia.

Mr. Carper was born Jan. 25, 1882, in Grandview, W. Va. His family moved to Roswell when he was 13.

When he was 17 he developed an interest in drilling and early in life began sinking artesian water wells.

Mr. Carper was side-tracked from the drilling business for 10 years from 1914 to 1924 when he went into the cattle business on Four-Mile.

Drills New Field—After selling his ranch business, he began drilling in the newly-discovered Artesia oil field. The second producing well in that field, about 14 miles east and south of Artesia, was sometimes known as the "League of Nations well" because an American, a Jew, a German, and an Italian were interested in the well. All had been residents of Picher, Okla.

He invested in an oil lease with Levers Bros. in section 2-18-28 and was successful in developing oil. Mr. Carper later drilled in various parts of Lea and Eddy counties. In 1936, he moved a rig to Farmington, where he drilled through the following winter and spring for Southern Union Gas Co.

In 1937 the Carper Drilling Co. was organized and purchased the Gissler lease, still owned by the firm. In the early partnership organization were Grady Booker, Glenn Booker, Marshall Rowley, Stanley Carper, and Mr. Carper. The company invested in various freshments and hot and cold drinks will be sold. Bring all the children and play bingo while they enjoy the carnival. This is an annual affair that has proved very popular every year.

Marie Bjermeland spent the day in the doctor's office Wednesday after a freak accident playing basketball, during which she jerked a vertebrae out of place in her neck. She returned to school Thursday.

Community Chest

THREE WEEKS FROM NOW Artesia will kick off its 1953 Community Chest drive. Our interest in that drive and the splendid idea from which Community Chest sprang will determine whether or not we are enough advanced in our thinking on matters of united support of civic recreation, welfare, and social work to warrant further Community Chests.

As in most cities, overzealous original promotion of the Community Chest idea—an idea which when people understand it is enough to inspire anyone to overzealousness—perhaps has worked against later success of the drive.

Many were led to believe, when Community Chest was started here, that it would mean an end to multiple drives. They subscribed their entire amount of contributions budgeted for the year to that drive, only to find other fund seekers upon them the next week.

Despite our early enthusiasm, we have never made a complete success of our Community Chest drive here, and so other agencies have been backward about joining it—they are afraid they will not receive their needed quota of funds.

If we make Community Chest a success this year, we will take a great and wonderful forward step in consolidating our fund-raising efforts. We may expect that next year other organizations will consolidate their drives with Community Chest.

The Community Chest idea is simply that wasteful duplication of effort by volunteer workers, repeated week-by-week dunning of businessmen and residents, and the confusion springing up from too many organizations trying to serve our welfare, can be eliminated if we will but gather together our efforts in one grand, organized drive to serve all.

The principle of one big drive as a convenience to both donors and civic workers who undertake financial campaigns is magnificent. Where communities have conscientiously settled down to organize and make their Community Chest campaign a success, that principle has gone far toward cutting down the fund-raising nuisance which often seems to be on the verge of a racket.

The same citizens repeatedly work for these financial campaigns. The Red Cross worker has also solicited for Boy Scouts and may turn up in the March of Dimes drive, too. We think it is time for them to rebel, just as businessmen must rebel against the outstretched palm every time they look up from frequently-interrupted work.

We believe Artesia should turn its maximum effort toward making Community Chest a great success this year. We believe that as citizens we should give unstinting support, financially and in campaign assistance.

We should bring pressure on hold-out agencies to get in there and pitch with the pioneer agencies which have taken a great

THIS LAND OF ENCHANTMENT—

Former Eisenhower Supporters Turn Away From The General And Form A New Club

SANTA FE RESIDENTS WHO once counted themselves among supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president have shifted away from the general to the extent of forming a "Citizens Formerly for Eisenhower" group. Members will have stickers printed for their cars saying "I Used to Like Ike."

The group feels General Eisenhower "has forsaken his highest principles and since Stevenson has turned out to be the man we mistakenly thought Eisenhower was, we have transferred our affections to the governor," according to Albert Rosenfield, freelance writer who counts himself among leaders of the ex-Ike-men. Most members style themselves as political independents. The movement started as a gag. Rosenfield says, but developed into an organization because of widespread sympathy.

Wilson W. Wyatt, Adlai Stevenson's campaign manager, says the Santa Fe development is part of a "major shift" of independent voters away from General Eisenhower.

About a dozen people have gathered around since word got out about the committee," Rosenfield says. "The committee is to have no officers, since everyone of us is a complete political amateur who has never before actively participated in a campaign." The Albuquerque Journal suggests that should a splinter group break away from this splinter group and go back to Eisenhower it would get into involved nomenclature which might wind up "Formerly Members of Citizens Formerly for Eisenhower."

ARCHBISHOP OF SANTA Fe Edwin V. Bryne has reaffirmed his opposition to bathing beauty contests and asked the Knights of Columbus of Albuquerque to be alert on the matter," the Journal reports.

"This matter of bathing beauty contests is commercial and is something which will hurt the soul of America," Archbishop Byrne told the Knights. "It appeals to something that is low and base, and we do not need that in New Mexico."

NEW MEXICO HAS THE best facilities for treatment of alcoholics anywhere in the United States, according to Arthur Stine, executive director of forward step—not without financial sacrifice—to unify their needs, their administration.

Community Chest is simply the principle of a community acting like a community in this matter of charity, of providing for our social and welfare needs. As set up in Artesia, it calls for representatives of nearly every civic organization in the city to review budgets from those agencies seeking funds before Community Chest lends its approval and support.

Budget review of this type is a forward step in balancing charity-giving; we sometimes oversubscribe to one worthy organization, do not give enough to another organization equally worthy.

Community Chest has an inspiring potential for those who can see its possibilities and have the community leadership to assist in every way possible toward its success.

Back to Football

ARTESIA'S BULLDOGS HAVE been diligently working in preparation for Saturday night's game at Hobbs and a contest we are sure sports fans across New Mexico agree is the top A-conference match of the week.

Since Artesia's defeat by Clovis, the air has been greatly cleared of unhealthy attitudes, especially downtown, perhaps among the Bulldogs, perhaps in the staff.

If Artesia is the great football team we would like to believe it is, it will go out on the Hobbs field Saturday night more unified than ever. If the team is downhearted, if it has lost the spark, it does not have championship stuff in its make-up.

We have been asked repeatedly to comment on the gigantic snafu of misunderstanding which arose in Artesia's football situation, coming to a head during the Albuquerque game and rising before and after the Clovis game.

We frankly think it is none of our business. That matter was a school personnel problem to be dealt with by school authorities and not by newspaper editors, parents, or football fans.

We believe the school personnel involved capably handled the problem themselves. We have diligently sought to find the facts in the case, and discover the problem was settled amicably immediately after the Albuquerque game, only to be opened again by the gossip of parents and downtown quarterbacks. The amplified problem was again dealt with capably by school officials.

Had such a problem arisen among two dramatics coaches at the school, or say a couple of English teachers, there would not have been the talk that swept through Artesia.

Parents and fans had a golden opportunity in that misunderstanding to teach their boys sportsmanship, a respect for leadership, and many other attributes. Most did, but a regrettable number played politics where they had no business doing so.

Two members of this newspaper's staff were in the Bulldog dressing room after the Clovis game. On one hand apiece those two could count the number of alleged fans who came to see the Bulldogs when those young men most needed support, understanding. We have since noticed with interest those who spoke loudest about the publicly-exaggerated coaching "incident" were not among those present in that dressing room.

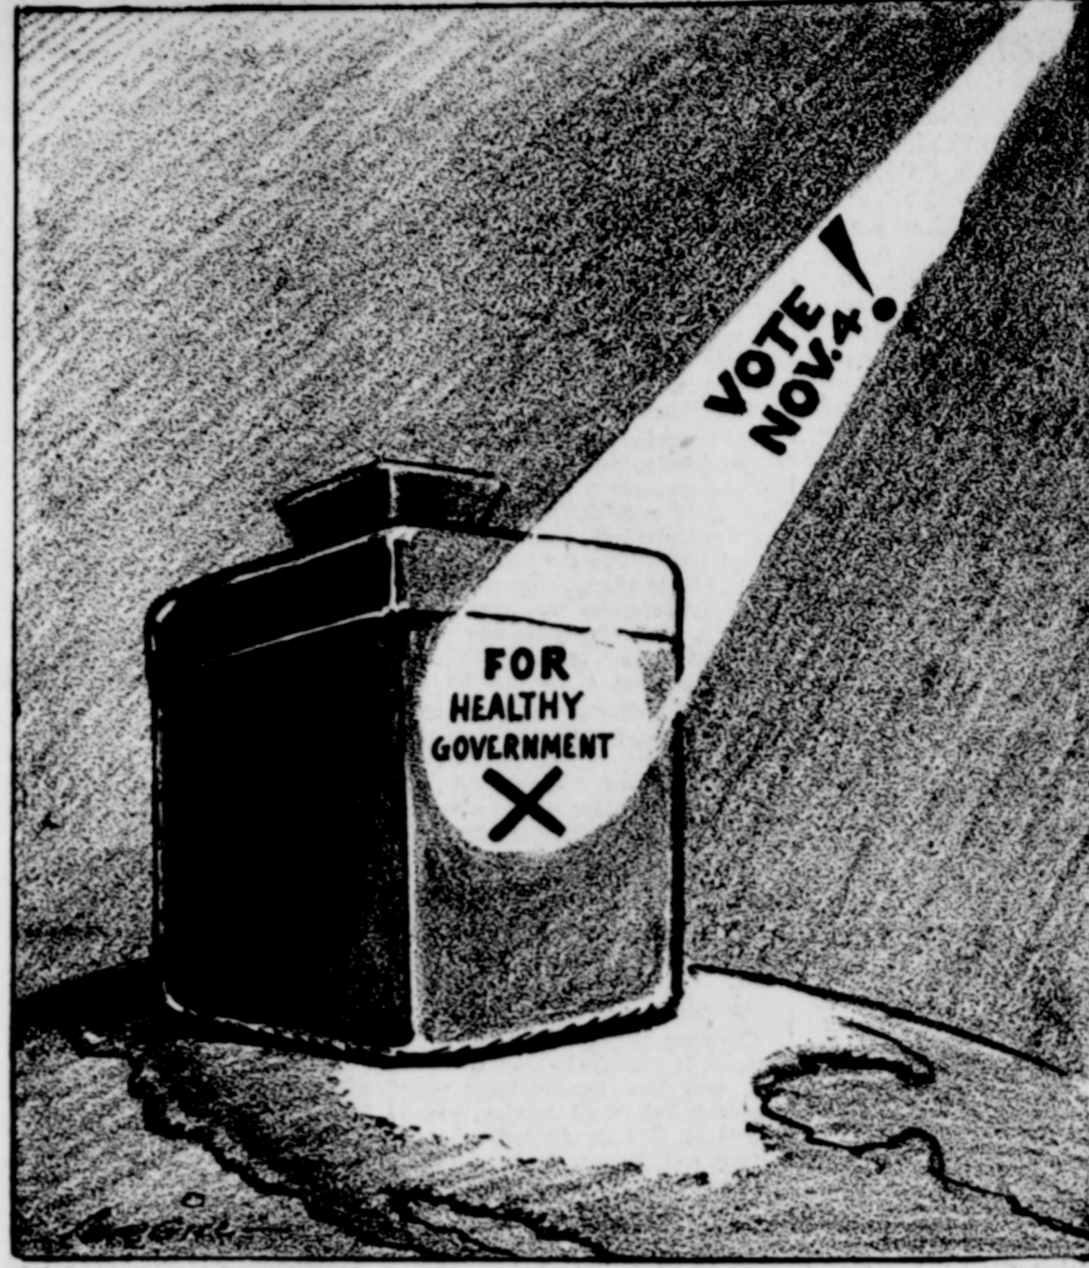

Community leaders in a meeting at the school last Monday, called by school officials, found true facts in the gossip-exaggerated incident were surprisingly of much less import than had been given them by wildfire telling and re-telling.

We fans, the football team, school personnel, parents have had two weeks to recover from a wonderful but unnecessary jag. If we are the big "football town" we like to think Artesia is, we've cleared the cobwebs from our thinking and feeling and are ready to play ball.

Frankly, Bulldogs, we think you're much too big—we mean that in many ways—to be upset by the pettiness of those about you. We think you have that championship stuff in you—and that you'll try with all your stuff to show it Saturday night.

Your're not out of the race, you know.

Reminisces On History And Future As Early Frost Comes To New Mexico

FROST IN NEW MEXICO—

Frost has already come to the upper Gila, but has touched the leaves and flowers lightly. It's an early—very early—frost but keen enough to make the oaks drop their acorns. Turkeys are numerous, and they'll be down shortly to gather them, along with their favorite "turkey beans" (the plant is sometimes called beebud; because the busy bees take their loot in the summer from the pale purple flowers). Wild grapes are dead ripe and plentiful but still pretty sour—tedious to gather, but the makings of delicious jelly. The walnuts are down, too. Like most wild nuts in this semi-arid country they are small—a lot of trouble to gather, to hull and to dig out the meat—but among the best flavored that grow in the mountains.

Typically New Mexican, the pino is also a large factor in the state's commerce. Unfortunately, the pino trees in the Gila section are practically fruitless. Also, a full crop occurs only every seven years.

The total nut crop—known as mast—is collectively most important as feed for valley wildlife. Bears eat quantities of berries and the heavy bearing juniper trees offer good fare to the woodland jokers.

No doubt, the prehistoric people who lived here so long ago supplemented their corn, beans, squash with a wide variety of weed seeds which they ground into flour for bread. Meat? Deer, turkeys, bear, quail, trout, too, were there—just as today, but with a difference; now it's sport and recreation rather than the serious search for hard to get food. Actually, the Hohokam (ancient people) lived very well, except in the dry years when the trees bore no nuts, the grass and weeds no seed, the bushes no berries. Likewise, too, there was a shortage of water in the canyons and feed for the deer, turkey, and other game painfully short.

Some say that's why the aboriginal tribes deserted their homes in the cliffs and along the watercourses. Water then, as now, was the source of all life and none too plentiful most of the time.

Luckily, the people who dwell here now don't have to live off the land, but they still require the moisture for their cattle and crops. The valley communities can't exist, much less grow, when watersheds are drought depleted. Certainly, it isn't pleasant to think of future archaeologists rummaging into the ruins of this writer's cabin to find out why he and his kind went the mysterious way of the cave dwellers.—Silver City Press.

LUDICROUS ELECTORS The awkward method of voting for president through electors has produced a ludicrous situation in New Mexico in which a person could legally vote for each of four presidential candidates.

Instead of putting the names of the candidates themselves on the ballot each of the six political parties participating in the election have named four electors to cast the state's four electoral votes in the so-called electoral colleges that names the president.

The attorney general has advised counties with voting machines that the machines must be set so that the voter may vote for any of the individual electors. Thus by selecting one elector from each of four parties the voter could express support for his undecided about Ike and Adlai he could express himself by voting for two Republican and two Democratic electors. And there is no way to go back on a voting machine and declare that a voter has spoiled his ballot or voted erroneously in splitting his preference for president.

The attorney general's position seems to be well based in law, but in law so old that it no longer serves its original purpose. The electoral method is as outdated as was the old March 4 inauguration day which was set to give the new president time to ride horseback from his home to the capitol.

It would be a lot simpler and pleasing to most everybody, we think, if the names of the presidential candidates were placed on the ballot just like those of other candidates.—Las Vegas Optic.

WAKE UP ON AUDITORIUM— The announcement in Santa Fe that a citizens committee has recommended a county bond issue for construction of an auditorium capable of seating 3,500 to 5,000 persons should awaken Albuquerque citizens to action on our auditorium problem.

The Santa Fe committee proposes a large community hall which would contain athletic facilities, a proper stage and acoustics for musical presentations, meeting rooms and convention facilities.

Albuquerque has struggled for a decade to obtain an auditorium and after backsets on validity of bond issues finally approved at separate times general obligation bond issues totalling $615,000 and realized an additional $294,000 from sale of city-owned land.

Since that time no steps have been taken toward working out a new plan chiefly because of no accord on the type of a building or its location.

This stalemate should be broken. Albuquerque is losing conventions and other events because it has no proper place to hold them. We need an all-purpose building in a proper location. It's time that citizens and civic bodies become aware of the need and unite to help the city work out some plan that will bring about construction of the long-dreamed about adequate municipal auditorium. — Albuquerque Journal.

THOUGHTS IN PRINT—

Don't Scorn Water-Witchers; Science Shows Their Negative Charge Works

SCIENTIFIC WATER-WITCHING may yet replace the forked cherry or willow branch, according to an ex-schoolmaster named W. H. Hollands, whose findings have intrigued Minneapolis Sunday Tribune staffer Bob Murphy.

Hollands, a sprightly 59-year-old elder who retired 16 years ago from schoolmastering, has been working on a simmering theory about this business of finding water.

As an educator with a science background he is as little prone to believe in water dowsing as any other skeptic, except he has seen it happen. As a boy he saw a water dowser called in as a last resort when his father ran out of water to operate a steam flour mill.

It convinced young Hollands there must be something to water dowsing, but he had no explanation, then. In 1893 when he was in college studying science, he was cleaning some apparatus. He was cleaning and rubbing a stick of sealing wax with cut fur. A half-inch stream of water was running with considerable force from a faucet into the sink.

By chance the stick, now carrying a light charge of negative electricity, came too near the faucet, and the water rushed horizontally to the stick, resembling a "long, beautiful icicle," the educator recalls.

"I realized at once I had discovered the principle of water dowsing," the Minneapolis educator-scientist says. "The water came 16 to 18 inches from the faucet, straight, horizontally to the stick."

He theorizes that while water does not hold an electrical charge long, it was constantly being produced as the water rushed through the pipe, which was pitted on the inside, making friction. The pipe became negatively charged, the water positively.

"From this experience," he continues, "it was evident to me that friction will produce a positive charge of static electricity in ordinary ground water flowing in veins through the earth. The flow must be in sand, gravel, crushed rock, shale, or other frictional material."

Hollands theorized some people who have a natural negative charge can produce a reaction when they near concealed, positively charged water.

He hopes his theory about the secret of water witching excites a lot of comment. He hopes it develops with someone of scientific bent and training who might be interested in further impartial tests.

"They have this much to go on: 'The individual negative charge is what makes for the human element in water dowsing,'" Hollands writes. "It is known the human body is charged with static electricity. A person negatively charged and holding a suitable forked stick presents a negative charge or attraction when near a flowing stream of water underground, positively charged. Since the water cannot approach the stick, the stick is attracted."

COFFEE TALK—

Officer's Cattle-Buying Case Ends In Personal Hurt, Financial Loss

DISMISSAL OF SUSPENDED police officer Billy Grimlan's case had been expected by many of his friends, who have learned a district court jury reportedly favored acquitting him by a 9-3 count. The prosecution is supposed to have believed it got the best jury possible, and still could not convince three-fourths of the panel.

The illegal calf-buying charges filed against Billy last June and now dismissed have caused him deep hurt, heavy financial loss, and perhaps destroyed the job he once enjoyed.

His friends understand Billy's deep hurt; filing of those charges against him and three others over an obscure law to which many of our leading ranchers and businessmen would admit they've been guilty is a heavy blow to a lawman.

Billy's financial loss has been estimated in the neighborhood of $2,500 to $3,000 by his friends, including attorneys' and court costs as well as loss of salary for the 5½ months he has been suspended.

Whether he will return to his job is problematical. Though charges are dismissed, there are some elements which say that only a directed verdict or unanimous decision could have absolutely cleared Billy as a law enforcement officer in the public eye.

While it is generally known Chief of Police Earl D. Westfall, the city council's police committee, and perhaps the council itself, would like to rehire Billy, some feel that to do so, despite their conviction of Billy's real innocence and his fine character, would ultimately hurt the department for which he so faithfully worked, and perhaps Billy, too.

Those public officials must consider the public's reaction to reinstating Billy; some are afraid loose talk from irresponsible sources might nevertheless make less effective Artesia's law enforcement.

The case of Billy Grimlan is perhaps not a suitable topic for public coffee talk. Nevertheless, we cannot refrain from mentioning the case; the hurt and anguish it has needlessly caused, the waste of time and money, the stinging injustice move us, and, we believe, may ultimately move others.

A. L. "Pot" Bert, long editor of the Artesia Advocate was sidetracked from the paper business for a time leaving Artesia, but has his first love is too strong to stay away.

Drought has cut the Quonset huts, which Pioneer Supply Co., Inc.'s Artesia area. In addition, the boss Edina, Mo., Sentinel, has a "real proposition," so Pot run the entire show again.

ARTESIA COUNCIL OF Social Agencies leaders are to admit this year's Community Chest campaign is the only continuation of the cil hinges.

Success of Community here in the past has not achieved, for a variety of reasons. Public education as principles, purposes, and tiality has been slow, and the money people in the seemingly aren't interested in the organization.

It is known that one organization takes about $6,500 from community every year for work, while the Council of Social Agencies' welfare fund around $500 to help those in fare cases which can find from no other source, including state and private agencies.

When even those fine agencies are unable to help certain of the council is woefully short funds. It recently came against a case wherein a wife and family to make it with another woman. A devotee family found little help where, and Council of Social Agencies is bitter about the matter, because it lacked funds.

The council isn't claiming participating agencies are worthy than other charities, but that they're of equal worth, but don't have a fair financially.

AT THE LIBRARY—

State Figures Show Artesia Library Does Good Job, But Material Limited

ARTESIA PUBLIC LIBRARY does an excellent job with what it has to work with, but that isn't too much, a comparative study of state library commission figures seems to reveal.

The library in its 1951-52 year was supported by $4,900 worth of public funds and $592.78 in "other funds." Population of Artesia was 8,244 during the year. The library circulated 13,698 items from its stock of 4,135 volumes.

It has 1,494 borrowers. Raton with a population of 8,241 received $6,146.39 in public funds, $598 "other," and has 12,850 books on its shelves—almost three times as many as Artesia.

It circulation is 20,588 and borrowers amount to 2,247 people. Tucumcari, also in the same class with 8,419 people, is supported by $500 public funds, $474.68 "other funds," and has 3,745 books, 10,655 circulation, and 1,651 borrowers.

Artesia is the 11th largest city in New Mexico. Its library's budget is the 10th largest. It is 18th in the number of volumes on its shelves, and 15th in circulation. It is 12th in the number of borrowers it has, and 11th in the number of hours per week it stays open (33).

This would seemingly indicate that while the city is very low in the number of volumes it has, it does a great deal with those books, achieving a relatively large number of borrowers correspondingly greater circulation than the number of volumes on its shelves would seem to warrant.

New books are constantly added to the library; stock book buying funds of about last year was used to purchase 600 books. Many books and materials are being received as donations and other types of gifts.

But the city still is falling low its need for adequate facilities. Its reference stock extremely limited, its non-fiction inadequate, mostly because small budgets in the past. The city has grown tremendously the library has not been able to keep pace.

American Library association standards prescribe a minimum of 8,000 volumes in a library, a city the size of Artesia. We have 4,500 or 3,500 less, we should have.

A budget of $13,500 is recommended to operate a library city our size by the A.L.A. but have spent less than $5,000 in the last fiscal year.

The present library board exercised a great deal of diligence to see its funds do no mainly for buildings, maintenance, supplies, and salary, for new books. It has done very well with what it had.

...heavy bomber of 1942, the Boeing B-17 Flying Fortress, like a fighter plane when compared with the U. S. Air Force's heavy bomber, the Boeing B-52 Stratofortress. The two represent graphically the design progress which has seen more than double their speed and increase even more their range in but a decade. Tail of the Flying Fort reaches 19 feet above the ground—highest for any bomber of its day. Stratofortress tail tons 48 feet, and is sharply sweptback. The Boeing Flying Fort, perhaps the most famous warplane of its time, still sees service in the U. S. Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard. The new eight-jet Boeing B-52 now is in production for the Air Force. Details of its performance have not been revealed.

THE order is, "Forward march"—and off they go, feet sucking against the Korean mud, every bone crying, "I'm tired!"

The order is flop and eat — and they flop and try to eat, no matter how little they like the food.

The order is, "Take hill number 63!"—and they fight forward, not ready for death, but expecting it with every splatter of bullets.

Then, in the quiet moments, one soldier will turn to another and half grin and say, "You never had it so good."

A joke—a classic Army joke—but these days it has a real bitter note to it. Because at the same time everyone is wondering and saying:

- "Did it have to come to this?"
- "Couldn't the shooting have been stopped before it began?"
- "What's the matter with our foreign policy?"
- "Why didn't the Administration see this coming?"

"Must we keep paying for their mistakes?"

"WHAT? We've never had it so good? COME INTO MY FOXHOLE AND SAY THAT!"

All right—the damage is done—and we all know what has been badly begun must be well ended.

BUT—shall we forget or forgive those who blundered? Will you? Do you DARE? Will you trust America's future foreign policy to those responsible for Korea? Is this official fumbling what you want for America? You know it isn't!

Not if you value the lives of your sons. Not if you value your own life and welfare and that of your family. Not if you value the peace and prosperity of America.

No—you will want to clean house. You will want to sweep out of power and into the ash can the Administration that brought your country to this. You will run, not walk, to the polls. You will vote eagerly, glad that you can make a change. You will
